The Quincy Police Get Track of Check Man.

CRAIG ARRESTED

Wanted for Cashing a $450 Check.

He First Went to Canada.

But Later Was Detained at Eau Claire, Wis.

Word was received by the police Sunday of the arrest at Eau Claire, Wis., of David Craig who is wanted by the police for obtaining $450 on a check made payable to another man by the same name.

The check was one drawn by the Quincy Real Estate Trust, made payable to David Craig, a Boston plumber. By mistake the check was sent to Quincy and fell into the hands of David Craig, a ship fitter at the Fore River Ship and Engine Co. He succeeded in getting the check cashed at the National Granite bank, and getting out of town before payment on check could be stopped.

Craig was located in Canada, but before the police of that place could be made to understand that Craig was to be arrested and held, he skipped.

Nothing more was heard from him until word was received of his arrest in Wisconsin. Inspector McKay has gone to bring him back to Quincy.

Arrested with Stolen Tools.

About 1 o'clock Sunday morning Officer Lyons met a man on Hancock street carrying a bag. The fellow was acting in a suspicious manner and the officer placed him under arrest. The fellow gave his name as John F. Roberts and said that he lived on North Bennett street. When the officer opened the bag he found it contained carpenter's tools. Roberts admitted stealing the tools but refused to say where he stole them. The tools in his possession were a hammer, hatchet, plane, stilson wrench, bit stock and two chisels.

Voters see that you don't get into the wrong dining room. The best is none too good for the workingman. If you don't know where it is ask for No. 3 Granite street.

PRESIDENT BOWLES.

The Admiral's Resignation from Navy Accepted With Regret.

A Washington dispatch of Saturday says, Washington L. Capps was commissioned chief of the bureau of construction and repair today, with the rank of rear admiral. Rear Admiral Bowles bade good-by to his assistants in the department. He will leave for Massachusetts tomorrow to assume his duties as president of the Fore River Ship & Engine Company in Quincy.

Admiral Bowles of the navy, in tendering his formal resignation to Presdident Roosevelt, wrote:

"An opportunity having offered itself enabling me to continue professional work in private life under such circumstances that the advantages to my family could not be overlooked, I part with profound regret from duties which are congenial and from the strong personal ties formed by 28 years' service in the navy."

President Roosevelt replied as follows:

"My Dear Admiral Bowles—Your resignation of the appointment as chief constructor, United States navy, and of your commission as naval constructor, to take effect on the 31st inst., has been received, and I accept it with regret. Your services to the navy, and, therefore, to the country as a whole, have been notable, and I desire to express my sincere appreciation of them."

Hallow'een Party.

The old John Adams birthplace, full of remembrances of ye olden times, seems just suited to a Hallow'een party, and certainly proved so Saturday evening, when about seventy people gathered at the Hallow'een supper, given by the Junior society of the Sons and Daughters of the Revolution. Candles and a fire in the big fireplace, cast a soft glow over the bountifully spread tables.

On the committee for the supper were: Avah Gilson, Grace Spear and Muriel Rogers, and they were assisted by Carlena Walker, Albert Stearns, Beardsley Lawrence and Nelson Hamlin. A typical harvest supper was served, consisting of baked beans, brown bread, pickles, rolls, coffee, cake, doughnuts, fruit, and apple, mince, pumpkin and squash pie.

Nothing but praise was heard from every one on the fine supper and service. It reflected great credit on the young people who managed and carried out everything themselves.

While the tables were being cleared ready for dancing, games were played in the parlor and piano and violin music enjoyed. Owing to the illness of Louise Burleigh, who with Pearl Leonard was to serve on the entertainment committee, Grace Spear and Nelson Hamlin, took charge and arranged some Hallow'een games and tricks which caused much amusement. The girls say there are ghosts wandering about the old house, and are sure they saw some in the cellar.

After the games the merry Virginia reel was danced. Miss Bertha Bartlett of Malden at the piano and Mrs. Titus brought a violinist from Squantum, who added much to the pleasure of the evening.

The party broke up about nine o'clock, all agreeing that it had been a great success and most enjoyable for all.

Wollaston Wins.

The Wollaston foot ball team defeated Hingham A. A. 11-0 Saturday afternoon at Merrymount park. Hingham had a good team and played hard but were unable to score although Wollaston was seriously weakened by the absence of Barry at right tackle.

The Wollaston team had a general shake up this week—Fletcher Miller whose playing has been a feature in every game since the formation of team last year has accepted a position in Canada and will be greatly missed this fall. Peterson, full back, has gone to New York, and Barry was unable to play Saturday.

Study of Japan.

Those who were present at the Unity club Friday, Oct. 30, felt amply repaid in listening to the excellent program presented. The exercises opened with a piano solo by Mrs. Chandler Smith. Rev. Frank W. Pratt, the director of the evening, gave an instructive talk on the "Topography and geology of Japan. The subject was made specially interesting by the aid of the stereopticon. An Italian minuet was rendered by Mrs. Smith, after which intermission followed. Mrs. Wilson Marsh of Quincy then took up "Myths and the early history of Japan."

THE SUNDAY FIRE.

Roof Burned Off a House at Bracketts Wharf.

The alarm from Box 25 at 10.50 Sunday morning was for a fire in one of Charles McLaughlin's houses at Brackett's wharf. The lower part of the house was occupied by an Italian family and the upper tenement was vacant, the family having moved away Saturday. The engineer at the Electric Light Station and Mr. McLaughlin noticed smoke about the house some time before the house was discovered to be on fire, but supposed it came from a bonfire.

When a blaze appeared on the roof near the chimney, however, they realized that the house was on fire. Mr. McLaughlin started on the run for Box 25 located on the corner of Canal street and Newcomb street.

The engineer of the power station telephoned the Central Fire station and the apparatus was well on its way before the alarm sounded. When the department arrived the roof of the house was burning briskly, but well direted streams from a near-by hydrant soon mastered them. The roof of the building was partly burned off, and the house soaked with water. The loss on the building is estimated at $500, and is fully covered by insurance.

There is some question as to the cause of the fire. One story is that a kettle of fat boiling over started it. Chief Williams, however, thinks it was caused by a defective chimney. He says the family on the first floor were burning green wood in their stove, which was red hot when he arrived, and that there was a defect in the chimney. The fire when he arrived was near the chimney.

They will be at Quincy Music hall on Thursday night, Nov. 5.

All Saints' Day.

Special services for All Saints' day were held at St. John's church Sunday. In the morning at 10.30 solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev. John J. Coan, Rev. Julian E. Johnstone and Rev. John J. Casey. The sermon was on "Sanctity" and was preached by Rev. Fr. Johnstone. In the evening solemn high vespers were celebrated for the dead of St. John's church by Revs. Coan, Johnstone and Casey. This morning special services for all Saints' day were held. Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock by Rev. John J. Coan, Rev. Julian E. Johnstone and Rev. John J. Casey.

Opticians and Opticians.

'Tis the Pedler Optician. I heard him complain:
"Im tired of tramping, I must rest once again."
So he settles him down for a month or two's rest,
And will charitably (?) give your eyes a "free test."

When later you find that your "specs" are not right,
You also will find that he has skipped in the night,
That your fine gold-bowed glasses are nothing but brass,
That you have the "experience," while he has the cash.

If you are troubled with headaches or defective sight, shun all pedlers and strange opticians. Consult WILLIAMS, who has fitted glasses to thousands upon thousands right here in Quincy during the past sixteen years.

He has all the latest instruments that scientists can devise and every facility for dark room examinations.

He will tell you frankly about your case and will not burden you with glasses if they are not necessary.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

ON THE GOV. BATES--W. J. HOLDEN INCIDENT.

The New York Evening Post, Independent Republican, of Wednesday, Oct. 28, said editorially:

In 1900, during Mr. Bates' Speakership, he borrowed $3,000 of a notorious lobbyist on an insurance policy with a present value of not more than $1,000. The Governor and his managers have endeavored to minimize the effect of this revelation; but the loan is admitted. The person who brought the matter to light was careful not to impute unworthy motives to Mr. Bates, but the fact that he was pressed for money, and that he availed himself of the assistance of one of the most notorious members of the "third house," has shocked a large element in the Republican party in Massachusetts.

Editorial from New York World, Independent, Monday, Oct. 26:

Gov. Bates of Massachusetts is placed in a decidedly bad light as a candidate for re-election by the discovery that he received when Lieutenant-Governor, in 1900, $3,000 in two checks from W. J. Holden, a notorious lobbyist at the State House.

Pertinent inquiry would be why the Lieutenant-Governor, if in need of a loan, did not apply to his bank or to some reputable friend. His explanation that he borrowed from a lobbyist is precisely and suspiciously like that first given by ex-Mayor Ames of Minneapolis and ex-Lieut.-Gov. Lee of Missouri—both afterward convicted of taking bribes.

The World has no hesitation in saying that if a Lieutenant-Governor of either party in this State has been guilty of the "bad judgment" displayed by Mr. Bates in this transaction he would be beaten unmercifully at the polls, as different candidates of both parties have been for less serious "indiscretions."

Editorial from Boston Herald, Independent, Saturday, Oct. 24:

"Taking the most favorable view of the financial transaction between Governor Bates and Walter J. Holden, it is regrettable that Governor Bates, when in need of money, borrowed from a State House lobbyist. The Governor says he knew Mr. Holden as an insurance agent, but it is inconceivable how he could have failed to be aware of what everyone else about the State House knows, that Mr. Holden has been an active and leading lobbyist for ten years. For a Lieutenant-Governor of the Commonwealth to put himself under obligation to such a man, under such circumstances, is bad judgment to use no harsher characterization of it."

"Henry Loomis Nelson," the famous correspondent, says:

The incidents of the loan by a lobbyist, or suspected lobbyist, to Gov. Bates is one of those symptons of political indelicacy which are so common that they indicate a pretty acute unsanitary condition of our politicians. It is unnecessary, however, to enter into the details of the transaction. Gov. Bates borrowed money of a man with whom he might subsequently have official relations. He put himself under a pecuniary obligation to a man who was himself pecuniarily interested in legislation. When the loan was made the Governor had every reason to believe that the lender would eventually have occasion to ask the executive signature to some bill. Gov. Bates thus presented to his creditor the opportunity to ask him to use his office for the creditor's private gain.

It does not follow that the Governor can excuse himself by refusing to obey the creditor's demands. He is a politician of long experience. He is familiar with the ways of the class, and he knows, or he ought to know, that a lobbyist, and, for that matter, any active party politician, lends money to office holders and candidates only on the theory that the services of the public official will thus be secured for the creditor's "private affairs" with the State.

If, for example, he borrowed money as a private citizen, he would doubtless feel and evince gratitude for the welcome favor. He would doubtless give some evidence of this feeling. In public affairs the principle is the same. If Gov. Bates does not know that favors are expected of the public officer by those who lend him money at critical moments in his political career, he is less astute and much less observant than he is suspected of being. Indeed, if this be so, he is in the unfortunate plight of the man who has violated the law in ignorance; he must take the consequences.

A high minded man, such a man, for instance, as ought to be Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, would not dream of putting himself in such a position as that in which Governor Bates is now. It is unnecessary to charge that the Governor has sold a public favor to his private creditor. Such an act would be so gross that it is impossible to suspect it, but the Governor did accept a favor from one who, as he presumably knew when he applied for the loan, would demand a favor for it which the Governor had no right to to grant as a favor—the grant of which as a favor indeed would be dishonorable.

The sin consisted in the fact that a public officer put his public trust at the mercy of a creditor, who desired, or who might naturally desire, that the public office be placed at his service in consideration of the loan.

FIRE IN THE VATICAN

Becomes So Serious That Call For Aid Is Made Upon City Authorities

Rome, Nov. 2.—A fire broke out at 8:30 last evening in that portion of the Vatican containing the hall of inscriptions, where the pope gives his audiences. The alarm caused much confusion and excitement in the Vatican. Strenuous efforts were made to control the flames and the firemen of Rome were called to lend their help. At 11:30 the fire was under control. No lives were lost. No idea of the damage can yet be obtained. The pope came to the scene in person and remained until the arrangements to fight the fire were completed.

The fire caused a greater sensation in Rome than has any other event since the death of Pope Leo. The safety of the pope was the first thought in every one's mind, but this was soon assured. The first intimation of fire was had when smoke was seen issuing from the apartment of M. Marle, restorer of ancient manuscripts and illuminated books. The gendarmes broke in the doors of Marle's apartment and found him in a heavy sleep. It is supposed that he retired and forgot to take proper precautions with his kitchen fire, which probably blazed up and ignited some nearby hangings.

Information had been sent to the Italian authorities, who hurried to St. Peter's. They were courteously invited to enter and did so. Therefore for the first time since the fall of the temporal power of the Vatican the mayor of Rome, the prefect, police officials and even the newly appointed minister of justice entered the Vatican in their official capacities.

The competition between the papal firemen and firemen of Rome to see who should work the harder resulted in a display of courage which was really admirable.

Light on Armenian Plots

London, Nov. 2.—It is learned that a plot for the removal of four Armenian members of the Huntchakist Revolutionary society was arranged at a meeting held in New York seven months ago of the Alfarist, or physical force faction of the society, and revealed to the Huntchakist section through an error in sending a report of the meeting to a branch at Hilford which had seceded to the Huntchakists. The Boston and Lausanne attempts at murder were outcomes of this plot. Sagatel Sagouni was the third man to be killed, while the fourth intended victim is at present in London and has taken precautions to protect himself.

Booth-Tucker Funeral Services

New York, Nov. 2.—Funeral services over the remains of Emma Booth-Tucker were held in Carnegie hall. Hundreds of persons who had been unable to gain entrance to the auditorium waited in the streets until the ceremonies had concluded that they might file past the catalfalque and look upon the face of the dead Salvationist. The services were conducted by Colonel Higgins. The grief of Commander Booth-Tucker was most poignant, and the greater part of the vast congregation wept with him.

Albert Champion's Serious Mishap

New York, Nov. 2.—Hurled from a racing motor car going at the rate of a mile a minute, Albert Champion, the world's champion motor cyclist, was seriously injured at the Brighton beach race track. His right arm was almost torn from its socket, his head was cut and his right leg broken.

TENEMENT HOUSE FIRE

In Which Twenty-Five Human Lives Were Sacrificed

EXITS TO THE FIRE ESCAPES

Choked In the Desperate Efforts of Unfortunates to Escape Suffocation—Police and Coroner Think an Incendiary Was Responsible

New York, Nov. 2.—Twenty-one men, three women and a 10-months-old babe were burned to death or suffocated in a fire that started early yesterday in the five-story tenement house at No. 426 Eleventh avenue, and which the police and coroner believe to have been of incendiary origin.

Some of the peculiar features of the disaster, in addition to the startling loss of life, are that the fire was practically extinguished in 20 minutes; that the police could learn of but one person being injured, other than those who lost their lives, and that the property loss was only $7000. The dead are mostly Italians.

The only person injured, so far as can be learned, is Mary J. Quinn, 47 years old, who was burned about the face and hands and severely bruised by leaping from the second floor fire escape to the ground.

In several apartments in the tenement Halloween parties were in progress and the guests at these added greatly to the number of persons in the house and made the crush and jam to escape more than it ordinarily would have been. Although plentifully provided with fire escapes, front and rear, escape here was cut off a few minutes after the fire started by the bodies of the dead becoming wedged in the openings leading to the ladders. The fire had been burning for some minutes before it was discovered. It had started in the basement and rushing upward, had attacked the stairway leading to the apartments. In a short space of time the flames had so enveloped the stairways that egress from the building by it was impossible. The house from the third to the fifth floor was entirely destroyed.

At the windows, front and rear, bodies of men and women were jammed, showing that a desperate struggle to get free had resulted in the complete choking of these exits to the fire escapes and had been the cause of a number of the inmates being suffocated. Perhaps the most tragic sight was that which the firemen saw on a bed alongside a window at the rear of the fourth floor, where were the bodies of five men. Each had clutched the one next to him in an endeavor to push him away in order to get to the fire escape outside. The features of the men were distorted, some with rage, others with agony, and in two instances the men had gripped each other so hard that blood had been drawn and had run over their hands.

On the third floor were found the bodies of Maculeta Virgiguerro and her baby. The mother had crawled to the front window and had succeeded in grasping the sill when she was suffocated. In her arms lay the body of her child. On the third floor, in an apartment where a Halloween party was being held, John O'Toole, one of the occupants, started to go to the street. He was met by a volume of smoke as he opened the door. He ran to the fire escape, followed by all those in the flat, with the exception of his mother, whose charred body was found later lying at the entrance to the apartment. O'Toole and the others escaped.

When the firemen reached the scene there was a mass of flame bursting through the middle of the roof, while the air was filled with heartrending screams of the women and the curses of the men. Many daring rescues were made by the firemen, who at times had to use violence in their attempts to disentangle the mass of writhing human beings struggling to reach safety from the crowded fire escapes. One fireman climbed up a ladder to the second floor and then mounted to the window sill on the fourth to where a window was filled with a mass of people, jammed in and fighting to get out. He struck the heads of all the men he could see with his fist and they fell back. He then handed down to the firemen on ladders below three women and a baby. Another fireman performed a similar feat and rescued two girls from the fourth floor.

Life nets played a principal part in the work of rescue. The firemen dropped men and women, dead and alive, from one floor to another and finally the men standing on scaling ladders on the first floor let them fall into the nets held by policemen and firemen in the street.

Engineer Took Big Chances

Gallipolis, O., Nov. 2.—A passenger train was wrecked at Red House, W. Va. The engineer discovered a burning trestle and putting on all steam got his train safely across, but the heat had caused the rails to spread and the engine, baggage car, smoker and chair car turned over on the sides. The engineer was killed and nearly every passenger was badly bruised and shaken up.

Kunia Hanged Himself

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 2.—The skeleton of Joseph Kunia, who disappeared five months ago, was found under a tree in the woods near this city. A piece of rope fastened to a limb of the tree showed that he had committed suicide by hanging.

POLICE A__ PUZZLED

By Operations at Gloucester by Burglars Who Are Evidently Experts

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 2.—A successful safe robbery, and what is supposed to have been an attempted break at the summer residence occupied up to two weeks ago by J. H. Hammond, the South African millionaire, are bothering the police, the burglars having left no clue behind them. Appearances indicate the work of professionals. About 10 o'clock Saturday night the burglar alarm connected with Hammond's residence began to ring and a patrol wagon loaded with officers was rushed to the place. On arriving there, however, the officers found no evidence of an entrance having been attempted and inside the house everything was found in perfect order. The police are unable to account for the alarm, but in view of later developments are inclined to think that an attempt to break into the dwelling was made.

Early Sunday people living in the vicinity of the grocery store of Simeon Merchant on Derby street heard a dull explosion, but attached no importance to it. At daylight, however, an examination of the premises resulted in the discovery of a badly wrecked safe. The knob had evidently been knocked off and dynamite inserted, while potato sacks were piled on top of the safe in order to deaden the sound. About $35 was secured. Scattered about on the floor of the store were several tools which were taken from a building in course of construction near by. Special officers have been detailed on the case.

Disastrous Result of Explosion

Crestline, O., Nov. 2.—A car containing dynamite exploded from a supposed collision or jar with another car here last night and let go with immense force, immediately setting fire to every car within a radius of a quarter of a mile and then starting a blaze to adjoining cars until at least 500 loaded and empty freight cars were burning. The explosion occurred in the immense Pennsylvania yards. A hole 40 feet deep was blown in the ground and the track wrenched into all kinds of shapes for a long distance. The shock from the explosion was so terrific that it smashed thousands of windows and made many people sick because of the concussion. Railroad ties were blown a quarter of a mile.

Great Victory For Miners

Bilbao, Nov. 2.—Never in the history of Bilbao has there been a strike of such momentous consequences to the ironworkers of Spain as that which has just terminated. The miners will no longer be compelled to live cooped up in the barracks provided by the mining companies and they will no longer be forced to purchase food from the company stores. Instead of being paid by the month they will hereafter be paid every week. They have been refused, however, the right to organize a union and this may lead to trouble in the future.

End of Dowie's Invasion

New York, Nov. 2.—The closing day of the visitation of Dowie's restoration host to this city was celebrated with almost continuous services at Madison Square Garden. The services were but sparsely attended. Those present were members of the host, with only a slight percentage of outsiders. Many expected that Dowie would have something to say of his visit to New York and express some opinion of the two weeks' invasion, but he did not allude to it at all. The host is leaving today over various roads for Chicago.

Alleged Swindler of Farmers

New York, Nov. 2.—Charged with working a new swindling game on farmers, John Marshall was arraigned in Jefferson Market police court and was held to await extradition papers. Marshall, it was said, had bought farms in Vermont, making a small cash payment on each purchase and giving notes for the balances due. The notes were found to be worthless and, it was said, Marshall meanwhile sold the farms for more than he would have paid for them legitimately.

A Battle With Indians

Douglas, Wyo., Nov. 2.—A battle was fought between Sheriff Miller of Weston county and posse and a band of Indians whom the officers were attempting to arrest. The sheriff was fatally shot and a deputy sheriff and three Indians were killed. A posse of cowboys and another posse headed by Deputy Sheriff Cool have left for the scene of the trouble. Another large posse left Lusk last night.

Roads' Fate Soon to Be Settled

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 2.—The receivers of the insolvent Worcester and Southbridge and Worcester, Rockdale and Charlton Depot street railways have been formally notified that this week will decide the fate of the roads. By Saturday they will know whether they can put the reorganization plan through or give it up and allow the roads to go at a forced sale.

Suspicion of Incendiarism

Rockport, Mass., Nov. 2.—A fire that the police think was incendiary and intended to cover a burglary destroyed a cottage owned by John Jacobs, causing a loss of about $2600. The house has been unoccupied for a few days, and Jacobs says that he left about $300 in a trunk stored in the house.

On Alleged Misdeeds by the Shipbuilding Company

ORGANIZED BY "DUMMIES"

Millions of Dollars In Stocks and Bonds Voted Away to a Few Persons by Accommodating Directors—Receiver Smith Submits His Report

New York, Nov. 2.—Sensational allegations of wilful misstatement, falsification, swindling and fraud in the organization and flotation of the United States Shipbuilding company, of attempts to mislead and deceive the investing public by erroneous prospectus statements and of a deliberate plan to wreck the company by withholding the earnings of the Bethlehem Steel company are contained in the report of Receiver James Smith, Jr., of the United States Shipbuilding company, made public here. The report concludes with the recommendation that suit be brought against all persons who received stock of the company without paying full value therefor, including the promoters of consolidation, the vendors of the constituent plants and Charles M. Schwab, to recover from them such amount as necessary to pay the debts of that company in full.

Receiver Smith also recommends the sale of the Crescent Shipyard plant in New Jersey and the Harlan & Hollingsworth plant at Wilmington, Del., subsidiary plants now in partial operation, to avoid further loss by depreciation, and the enforcement of a receivership for the Bethlehem Steel company to ensure the payment of dividends in the Bethlehem stock by the United States Shipbuilding company.

In the words of the report, the organization of the company is characterized as an "artistic swindle," Receiver Smith stating that the value of the plants, their earnings, and working capital, given in alleged thorough reports of expert accountants, vary so much from actual figures 'wilfully misstated" that it is extremely doubtful if such accountants' reports were submitted at the organization of the company; that the organization was affected by "dummy stockholders" and officers; that statements in the prospectus issued on June 14, 1902, were incorrect; that for property worth $12,441,516 the shipbuilding company paid in stock and bonds $67,997,000; that "the accommodating directors of the United States Shipbuilding company in acquiring these companies deliberately gave away many millions of dollars in the stock and bonds of their company," "wholesale plunder," the receiver terms it, to a few persons, and that, so far as the Bethlehem Steel company is concerned, its earnings have been withheld in a deliberate attempt to wreck the United States Shipbuilding company. The report deals fully with the name of Charles M. Schwab, and the nature of the Bethlehem transaction, says Mr. Smith, is such "as to justify him (Mr. Schwab) in saying that he did not sell the Bethlehem Steel company, but took over the United States Shipbuilding company, the directors of that company giving him $30,000,000 in stock and bonds for taking it off their hands.

Wants Canada to Join Us

Montreal, Nov. 2.—Le Combat is out with an editorial in favor of the annexation of Canada to the United States. The paper points out that independence is impossible for Canada and that annexation is the only alternative. It is argued that each province of the dominion should be represented by two senators and that if this is given Canada its interests would be quite safe.

Terrible Fate of Miners

Halifax, Nov. 2.—As the result of a wrong signal given to the cage tender in a colliery at Glace Bay two miners were hurled a thousand feet to death. The cage ascended with terrible rapidity, then overturned, and both men fell to the bottom of the shaft and were crushed beyond all human semblance.

May Surrender Premiership

THE MILK DEADLOCK

Producers' Union Expected to Order Strike Some Time This Week

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 2.—Nov. 1 was the time originally set by vote of the New England Milk Producers' union for the beginning of a Boston milk war, unless the milk contractors granted their demands. The demand was to give a straight winter price of 37½ cents a can, or submit the whole matter to the state board of arbitration and to no other tribunal.

The contractors point blank refused to arbitrate on that basis, and began negotiations with the directors of the union on the matter of price and conditions of contract, finally making an offer of 36½ cents. Some of the conditions of this offer gave the directors an opportunity to submit back to the local unions last week the question whether the producers will accept existing conditions or take positive action to avoid them, this also giving the directors time they much wanted to get to work on the question of independent transportation. That is why the strike did not begin as at first voted.

The locals are now voting on the question submitted and Secretary Hunter of the union expects to have heard from all the branches in a few days, and then the directors will at once outline their course of action, which it is expected will be to declare a strike.

Investigation at State Hospital

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 2.—The investigation into the poisoning of 11 patients at the state hospital at Tewksbury, which is being conducted by a special committee appointed by the state board of charities, has been formally begun. Nothing will be made public until the committee is prepared to announce its findings. Executive sessions of the committee will probably be held daily for several days. It is stated at the hospital that the 10 patients who were poisoned (one of the 11 having since died of heart disease) have fully recovered from the effects of the belladonna taken.

Socialist Cure For Strike

THREAT CARRIED OUT

Capital of Manchuria Reoccupied by Russian Troops

FLIMSY EXCUSE FOR ACTION

Traced to Beheading by Chinese of Notorious Brigand In Employ of Russia—Viceroy Alexieff Shows Fear by Moving From Port Arthur

Pekin, Nov. 2.—The Chinese government is greatly disturbed at the reoccupation of Mukden, the capital of Manchuria, by Russian troops. The foreign office is appealing to friendly foreign legations for help and advice, admitting its own helplessness in the matter.

The Russians returned to Mukden last Thursday. According to advices received by the Chinese government 1500 Russian soldiers took possession of the official buildings there, barricaded the gates and evicted the Chinese officials. There are between 10,000 and 20,000 Chinese troops in and about Mukden, but the Chinese commanders in Manchuria have been given imperative orders in no wise to assist the Russian government and to use every effort to avert collision.

The circumstances leading to the reoccupation of Mukden are as follows:

The Russians employed a noted brigand, who was accused of many crimes against the Chinese, as chief of one of the irregular bands of police they are organizing in Manchuria. The Chinese authorities repeatedly requested the surrender of this man and the Russians recently consented to give him up. Thereupon a Chinese officer decapitated the brigand without giving him a trial.

When this became known the Russians demanded the execution of this officer within five days, giving as an alternative the seizure of Mukden. The Chinese foreign office was negotiating with Paul Lessar, the Russian minister, on the matter, and offered to banish the officer in question, pleading that he had exceeded his instructions, and to remove the taotai, his superior, from office. There was a misunderstanding as to the time limit set for these negotiations; the Chinese thought it expired Saturday. Before the negotiations were completed the news was received here that Russia had fulfilled her threat to reoccupy Mukden.

The fact that Viceroy Alexieff has removed his headquarters from Port Arthur to Vladivostock has caused great surprise in Pekin. It is generally conjectured that he is unwilling to risk passing the winter at a port which the Japanese undoubtedly would make a strenuous attempt to blockade in the event of war, thereby preventing the viceroy from communicating with his government.

Conflict Sooner or Later

London, Nov. 2.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Mail says he learns that the Russian government does not expect war with Japan in any event before next spring, even should the negotiations fail.

The correspondent at Shanghai of The Daily Telegraph says he has learned from a reliable source in Tokio that, although the negotiations between Russia and Japan continue, Japan is inflexible and a conflict, sooner or later, is regarded as inevitable.

King Leopold a Slave Driver

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 2.—Rev. Dr. Morrison, for six years missionary for the southern Presbyterian church in the Congo Free State, in an address here last night, charged that King Leopold of Belgium violates the provisions of the international treaty regarding slavery. Native slaves who fail to bring in a certain amount of ivory are punished, he says, by death and mayhem. Dr. Morrison is a member of a committee which will lay the matter before the president and secretary of state.

Coney Island's Big Fire

New York, Nov. 2.—In a blaze that baffled the firemen for seven hours the bowery at Coney Island was again laid in ashes. Two lives so far are reported to be lost, one man mortally injured, a score of others hurt, 300 buildings destroyed, 500 persons made homeless and more than $1,000,000 damage done. How many more dead were in the ruins is not known. Two men, Frank Conly, a salesman, and Peter A. Skelly, a bartender, are under arrest, suspected of knowing the cause of the fire.

Close Vote Expected In New York

New York, Nov. 2.—At the close of a campaign of most spectacular and unexpected developments, well informed men on either side of the struggle find themselves unable to predict with any degree of certainty the result of tomorrow's elections. It seems probable that a few thousand votes will decide whether Low or McClellan will be at the head of the city's government for the next two years. Devery, who is running independently, is not regarded seriously as a candidate.

Each Side Predicts Victory

Boston, Nov. 2.—Thoroughly tired out after the virtual closing of an arduous state campaign, the leaders and managers of both big political parties observed Sunday as a day of rest. Both sides reiterate their confidence of victory. The Democrats claim that Gaston will carry the state by 7000. The Republicans claim that Governor Bates will be re-elected by 30,000 plurality.

Good Afternoon

The edition of over 2,000 Ledgers printed Saturday was not large enough to supply the demand. More were wanted at West Quincy, Atlantic and in City Square.

The new express trains between Quincy and Boston are popular, and the people wish there were more of them. They would also like a quick theatre train from Boston about 11 P. M. or that the 11.13 express to Braintree might stop.

The largest vote given to any candidate in Quincy at the last State election was cast for Hon. Albert A. Brackett of Milton, who was elected to the Senate by a big majority. Conditions have not changed during the year, except that Mr. Brackett has proved to be an excellent senator and is more deserving of a handsome vote. He will get it.

There is no law to prevent Boston or any other city from establishing a 12-hour day for firemen, or in fact a 10-hour day or an 8-hour day; but for the State to say that Boston shall, or Quincy shall, is another question, and an interference with local government which Democrats oppose. Gov. Bates' veto was at the request of Mayors generally, and his reasons were sound.

The candidacy of Arthur W. Newcomb for the Republican nomination for Mayor, which was at the start regarded as a joke and ridiculed, particularly by the office holders at City Hall, has gained steadily each day and promises to assume good proportions by Wednesday night. The prospects are that Mayor Bryant will, with the aid of Democrats, be renominated at the Republican caucuses, as last year he defeated Elisha Packard by 423 votes. Nearly 1,000 Democrats voted in the Republican caucuses last year, as 2,737 votes were cast and there were less than 2000 Republican votes at the State election the day before. Friends of Mr. Newcomb expect that he will make a net gain in five of the six wards, but the friends of Mayor Bryant are not at all alarmed. Mr. Newcomb, himself, says he has caused no house-to-house canvass to be made. He has conducted his campaign openly and stood for a principle, and it is for the Republicans to say who they want as their candidate. If only Republicans vote he would have no doubt about the result.

Mayor Bryant and the Daily Ledger are agreed upon the prediction that Gov. Bates will have a total vote of over 200,000 in the State tomorrow, but in a list of estimates from mayors and politicians in a Sunday paper, only one other estimate was as high as 200,000. Mayor Bryant says Gov. Bates will reach 206,000, Mr. Gaston 164,000, and Mr. Chase 35,000 which is a plurality of 42,000 for the Republican candidate. In a list of 29 predictions the vote for Gov. Bates ranges between 206,000 and 150,000; the vote for Mr. Gaston from 190,000 to 145,000; and the vote for Mr. Chase from 55,000 to 12,000. The pluralities vary from 42,000 for Gov. Bates to 17,000 for Mr. Gaston.

The Daily Ledger also predicted on Saturday that Gov. Bates would receive over 2,000 votes in Quincy. The predictions of the party chairmen follow:

Albert G. Dolliver, chairman Republican city committee, estimates Bates 2,100, Gaston 1350. He would not estimate the vote of Chase.

Timothy J. Carey, chairman Democratic city committee, estimates Bates 1,893, Gaston 1,616, Chase 449.

James F. Foy, chairman Socialist city committee, estimates Bates 1,750, Gaston 1,250 Chase 800.

The Quincy vote in 1902 was: Bates, 1,926; Chase, 560; Gaston, 1,416; Plurality for Bates, 510.

THE CONSOLIDATED,

Will Be Ready to Supply Your Thanksgiving Dinner.

The Consolidated Grocery and Provision Co., incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts, has been formed to carry on a wholesale, and retail business in Quincy and vicinity. The firms included in the company are: J. W. Johnson, C. H. Brooks and the Star Grocery.

The stores of Mr. Johnson and the Star Grocery had become to inconvenient to accommodate their constantly increasing trade, and it was a qdestion of enlarging their room or finding new quarters, and when Mr. Brooks voiced the same complaint it was suggested that the three join their forces in one store; which they have done, and have secured the store in the Adams building, recently occupied by the F. D. Fellows Co., as a clothing store.

Carpenters are now at work putting in shelving and counters. A cold storage room is being built that will be larger and better than anything in Quincy, and everything will be done to make the Consolidated an up-to-date store.

They hope to have everything ready for business by the 16th of November, and if they succeed in getting everything settled by that date they promise to be able to supply the Quincy people with the finest Thanksgiving dinner that can be obtained.

Both Mr. Johnson and Mr. Brooks have a reputation as experts in the selection of meats of all kinds and the Star Grocery has long been noted as the most complete fancy grocery store outside of Boston. Thus it will be seen that a store of this character, which will cater especially to those who have been satisfied only with goods bought in Boston, cannot fail to be appreciated by the people of Quiny. They promise to give the people a more prompt delivery than ever before as they will have more extra teams.

Another very important announcement is that the store now occupied by C. H. Brooks will be carried on by The Consolidated as a high class fish market, which will fill a long felt want in Quincy. Orders for fish, oysters, etc., will be solicited and delivered by the regular wagons with your other goods.

They expect to have a large advertising space in the Daily Ledger, and the people will be kept fully informed of novelties, and special opportunities in their line.

The store now occupied by The Star Grocery has probably been rented for a street railway waiting room.

The Robber Crab.

In Central America there lives the robber crab, of almost incredible size and somewhat resembling a huge spider. The distance between its extended claws is sometimes as great as twelve feet. It spends the greater part of its life on land and climbs the cocoanut trees, on the fruit of which it lives almost entirely. It digs in the ground deep tunnels and lines them with cocoanut fiber.

When engaged the robber crab can break a man's limb with its powerful claws. Animals approaching it too closely often receive an ugly pinch which they do not soon forget, and it is on record that one of these crabs has captured and tried to drag off a goat.

To open a cocoanut the robber crab removes the bark from the end containing the three eyes, one only of which is easily penetrated, and, having found this, it revolves the nut against the point of one of its spindle legs until the opening is large enough for it to insert its great claw. With this it breaks the shell, grinds the contents into small pieces and carries them to its mouth.

Morality Versus Intellectuality.

As a man grows older he perceives that the moral qualities are worth a good deal more in friendship than the intellectual qualities and that no brilliancy of mind, no charm of conversation, can make up for lack of loyalty, charity and generosity in social intercourse. Young men of brains are disposed to value mainly mental power in other people, and it is a human quality to forgive much in men and women of genius. This is a false appreciation of the respective values of mentality and the moral qualities. The time comes when a man learns that unselfishness and affection are better in wife or friend than intellectual power accompanied by intense self love. Fortunate the man who does not come to this knowledge too late.—San Francisco Bulletin.

The Foam on Soda Water.

Foam is a natural product, being caused by the escape of air or gas from a viscid liquid. In the case of soda water it is the escape of the carbonic acid gas from the sweetened beverage that causes the attractive sparkling appearance, but the sweetened water alone would give rise to but a small quantity of foam, as the gas would too easily escape. In order to prevent this some mucilaginous substance is usually added to the sirup, which renders the mass more viscous, so preventing the gas from escaping and producing the attractive head of foam so familiar to all.

SMOKE TALKS.

Henry H. Faxon Says They are "Drunken Orgies."

Disgrace to City and Men Prominent.

A Rigorous Inspection Proposed This Year.

To the Editor of the Daily Ledger:

With the advent of the municipal campaign it behooves all good citizens, whether they belong to the Republican or Demoratic party, to carfully scrutinize the candidates proposed for election and, more especially, the methods by which many of these candidates secure their nomination and then try to force their election at the expense of honest taxpayers and good government.

Since Quincy became a city I have frequently had my attention called to the carousals held under the guise of "political smoke talks," and the flagrant and outrageous abuse of the liquor laws to help boost the candidacy of some truckling political loafer. This was notoriously true of the Republican campaign of last year.

If these occasions were attended by men of a character to be expected at such events, they would not need more than a passing thought, but when drunken orgies are attended, aided and abetted by city officials, it is high time for the man who pays the tax to enter his protest.

It is with regret that I see this city, for which I have spent time and money in an attempt to create reforms, floating backward through political intrigue and vindictiveness into an era of extravagance, high taxes and favoritism. During all my experience in Quincy politics, last year was the first time when every indication pointed to the fact that the Republicans of this city consumed more intoxicating liquor than did the Democrats.

The so-called "smoke talks," often held on Sunday evenings, and other alleged convivial gatherings in various parts of the city under the guiding care and protection of certain politicians, were a disgrace to the city and to the men who encouraged them. I had personal knowedge of five or six different places which were notorious and would have been squelched if the police had done their duty.

In one case I told the owner of a certain building what I knew and that I intended to make my information public. When cornered he admitted the facts and, like all cowards, fell back on his wife's good name in an effort to have the matter kept quiet. I might add, here, that in this he was successful.

This article is not written in favor of or against any man or candidate for office but simply attacks a pernicious practice which some condidates think indispensable to their success. Both parties have made use of intoxicants in past years in a miserable attempt to secure votes for their candidates. Such reprehensible methods deserve the severest condemnation which the voters can bestow.

During the coming campaign all assemblies where beer, whiskey and T. D. pipes are the principal attractions, will be given rigorous inspection, regardless of the candidates affected.

The Republicans should see to it that their wholesale and scandalous drinking bouts of last year are not repeated during the coming campaign and it behooves the Democrats to make sure that when whiskey is ordered the bill for the same should be sent to the right party. Henry H. Faxon.

Opening "Backing" Safes.

Every big concern dealing in strong boxes employs a professional safe breaker against those frequent and often costly occasions when the safe sold to some consumer "gets out of whack," says a New York paper. The work of opening a bucking safe is usually a matter of minutes with the professional, but occasionally he is obliged to send for a half ton of tools before he is enabled to procure the magic sesame. Often a half hundred clerks are kept idle for hours and business managers spin around like tops while the safe breaker leisurely pothers about with the combination. When the safe or vault is finally opened it is usually discovered that some one connected with the firm is to blame for altering the combination and then keeping the matter to himself. The professional safe opener frequently has calls from out of town, and on these occasions he usually finds that some merchant who has just bought his first safe changed the combination and then forgot it.

Cold and the Universe.

Heat can exist only where there is an atmosphere, and then it must be constantly supplied with fuel to overcome the law of constant repulsion and diffusion. Cold is the absence of heat and exists everywhere. It overcomes disintegration and preserves the universe. It enforces the universal law of the electric attraction and cohesion of atoms and worlds.

Cold must predominate to preserve the universe. There is a billion times a billion more cold in the universe than heat. There always has been and there always will be. The heat of the sun compared with the cold that surrounds it is as a mustard seed to Jupiter. The earth's heat in comparison to the cold that surrounds it is as an orange to the solar system.

Then what folly to talk of the universe having begun in white heat and the earth having been a molten world and the sun's great burning spheres!—Booklover's Magazine.

Servants In Sweden.

In Stockholm there is an Old Servants' home, occupying a row of buildings upon a pleasant street, where servants who are too old to work are given shelter and care. The institution is supported by public subscription and by the interest derived from a large endowment. When a household servant has been engaged for a long time in the same family and has become too old to work and the family is not in circumstances to support her, application can be made to the trustees, who investigate the case, and if it is found that the servant is deserving and her former employers are not able to provide for her properly she is admitted to the home. The institution is always full, and there is generally a long waiting list of applicants.

Raising the Ship.

"Yes," said the yarn spinning old mariner in the corner of the railway carriage, "for three days and nights we worked at the pumps, and still the water gained on us. At last we gave up the hopeless struggle. There we was—sinkin', sinkin', expectin' to perish every 'arf a minute. It was a horful time, believe me. Suddenlike we feels the wessel a-risin' up through the water. She riz till her keel was a'most out o' water, and we rides into port light on top o' the waves. We was saved! 'Ow it happened was, we had a cargo o' yeast on board, and when the water reached it it rose and rose till it fairly lifted up the ship!"

How Sea Birds Quench Their Thirst.

The means by which sea birds quench their thirst when far out at sea is described by an old skipper, who tells how he has seen birds at sea, far from any land that could furnish them water, hovering around and under a storm cloud, clattering like ducks on a hot day at a pond and drinking in the drops of rain as they fell. They will smell a rain squall a hundred miles distant or even farther off and scud for it with almost inconceivable swiftness.

An Ominous Symptom.

"A good wife is heaven's greatest gift to man and the rarest gem the earth holds," remarked Mr. Jarphly the other morning. "She is his joy, his inspiration and his very soul. Through her he learns to reach the pure and true, and her loving hands lead him softly over the rough places. She is"—

"Jeremiah," said Mrs. Jarphly solemnly, "Jeremiah, what wickedness have you been up to now?"

Chivalry.

The essence of chivalry is to look out for the little ones. Wherever a child can be helped, wherever a stranger can be guided or a friend who is shy set at ease, wherever a weak brother can be saved from falling and shame, wherever an old man's step can be made easy, wherever a servant's position can be dignified in his eyes, is the chance for chivalry to show itself.

A Thrilling Novel.

"Lizette," said Mrs. Goldrich to her maid, "I wish you would run up to my room, get the novel on my writing desk, cut the pages, take it back to Miss Bookhides, present my compliments and thanks and tell her the story aroused my most profound interest."

Books.

There are many books in the world and few years in which to read them; why should I spend even an hour in reading one that gives me less pleasure and does me less good when I can be reading one from which I get more pleasure and profit?—Anon.

Be true to yourself, and you do not need to worry about what the neighbors think.

CUPID AND THE MUD CLERK

By W. W. HINES

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

They rate on the company's pay roll as third clerks. Unofficially, but more correctly, they are known as mud clerks.

Jimmy Boynton was mud clerk on the big side wheel steamboat Rena Stanton, and he was proud of the fact.

Now, the chief clerk on a Mississippi river boat is a dignitary of no mean importance, while the second clerk is almost as impressive an individual. The mud clerk is the youngster who follows the foremost deck hand off the gangplank at every landing and checks the freight. When he jumps off the gangplank he generally lands in mud up to his knees. The reason why he never receives his rightful title of third clerk is obvious.

Some men might not consider this pleasant work, but it suited Jimmie. He knew, too, that the way of a mud clerk, if properly directed, leads to a chief clerkship and eventually to a post as captain. Meantime he was a happy go lucky sort of lad who was liked by every one from the captain down to the negro deck hands, more commonly known as "rousters."

On this particular evening he was at peace with himself, the world and even the rousters who were unloading the cargo of cotton on the levee. Jimmy was mechanically checking the numbers atop the bales, but a strange sort of inner consciousness was drinking in the beauty of the scene before him. The setting sun had turned the muddy waters to a sensuous, laving silver. Just beyond the ripples made by the slowly turning paddle wheels of the boat in the reverse motion necessary to counteract the force of the current lay a tiny island, formed by the cutting in two of a long, narrow sand bar. A few cottonwood trees nodded lazily on the willful bit of land. To his right the old levee had crumbled away, and a new one had been built behind it, forming an artificial lake fringed with tall cottonwood trees and gnarled stumps of cypress. Across the stream the mighty force of water had cut into an island, and every time the boat passed up and down the river the contour of the bank had changed. Sometimes only a foot or two had been sliced away. Sometimes whole acres had disappeared.

It was a marvelous power, was this mother of waters, and yet Jimmie thought exultantly that he was master of it. He could ride it, turn its force into money, make it earn him position and promotion. And, thinking thus, he decided that he would not trade jobs just now with his own congressman. And then she came on the scene, and he suddenly discovered that it might be desirable to be a congressman after all and wear glossy boots and unstained trousers.

It all happened very suddenly—so suddenly, in fact, that he stopped in the midst of a mighty volley of very forcible language aimed at a lazy rouster, dropped his stub of a pencil and, in blissful ignorance of what he was doing, stood deliberately staring at the dainty vision tripping up the gangplank.

The vision wore something very fluffy and thin and blue, with something thinner still at her throat and wrists, something which fluttered about very coquettishly when she turned her head or lifted her skirts. And her broad flat hat was wreathed in the pinkest of pink roses. Jimmie had only one brief glimpse, but he remembered quite distinctly that the blue in her dress and in her eyes matched perfectly, likewise the pink in her hat and her lips.

Now, of course any authority on fashion could have informed Jimmie that the vision was most badly dressed for traveling, but to Jimmie "good form" was an unknown quantity. He decided that the vision must be a daughter of a railroad president at least, and probably had a million or two in her own right. Having reached this decision, he finished the volley of language, picked up his pencil and resolutely turned his back on the vision.

But visions such as Miss Lorena Thomas possess a haunting quality. The ladies' cabin, so called by courtesy, lay at the other end of the long, narrow, oval expanse, but Jimmie was thoroughly convinced that Miss Thomas could see his mud spattered garments as he rushed through his report in front of the clerk's desk. So expeditiously did he complete this task that the Rena Stanton had not got under full headway before Jimmie bolted into his tiny stateroom in search of the only other pair of trousers he possessed.

They met at the supper table, and when the meal was over Jimmie thanked his stars that, after all, he was only the mud clerk.

Both the first and second clerk had desk work before them, and Jimmie had only a long, lazy evening on deck, during which he could show Miss Thomas the beauties of his river life.

There were moments when this pleasure palled, however. That was when the soft, thin stuff at Miss Thomas' neck and wrists fluttered with a particularly elegant air or the pink roses in her hat bent with languid dignity in his direction. They seemed to remind him that daughters of railroad presidents with their purple and fine linen, which in this instance appeared in the form of forgetmenot blue and rose pink, were not for mud clerks, even if the latter had flattering prospects. He had about decided to lead up to the topic of her family when the Kate Adams hove in sight, and they leaned against the rail while Jimmie discoursed upon the feats performed by this the fastest boat on the river. In truth, Jimmie's ambition had once stopped with the captaincy of the Kate Adams, but now he thought with a sigh, "What is the Kate Adams after all?"

But he did not linger on the thought. Everything happened too quickly. Miss Thomas in her excitement had climbed up on the foot rail when the impertinent evening breeze took a fancy to the pink crowned hat. Away it went. There was a shrill shriek, and something blue and fluttering bent a little too far over and then went after the hat. And after both went Jimmie.

* * * * * * *

It must be admitted that under the influence of a blanket, some hot grog and the fulsome praise of one or two of his comrades Jimmie indulged in some romantic day dreams. He had a picture of a grateful railroad president, a pink and blue vision with downcast eyes and a brown eyed young man being very magnanimous, but nevertheless accepting a lifetime devotion in return for a cold plunge. Then the effects of the grog wore off, and Jimmie shook himself vigorously.

The next morning he stood diffidently in Miss Thomas' presence. Gone were the blue frock with its lace frills and the beautiful rose crowned hat. A very sober, sad eyed young woman clad in a simple gingham dress murmured her thanks.

Jimmie shifted from one foot to the other and tried to hide his embarrassment, but when Miss Thomas burst into tears he forgot differences of station and sat down beside her.

"Oh, I reckon you won't be any the worse for the ducking," he said by way of consolation, wishing he could take the sobbing figure in his arms and say something more comforting.

"It isn't the wetting I mind, but—but—my—oh, my dress! I sewed three weeks for Aunt Myra to pay for that dress, and I—I was so proud of it. I know I shall never have another one as pretty as long as I live."

"Yes, you will," declared Jimmie, with the air of a prophet who knew his calling. "Just you wait," he added mysteriously. "Why, you'll have one of 'em every summer; see if you don't."

The girl dried her eyes and looked at him in wonder, but he hardly noticed her expression. He was thinking ecstatically that you cannot always tell a railroad president's daughter by her clothes.

And it was not until Jimmie became chief clerk of the Rena Stanton and settled his bride and her widowed mother in a neat little cottage at Natchez that he discovered that very pretty muslin could be bought for 12½ cents a yard, with pink roses at 50 cents a spray. That was when he insisted upon choosing the bridal gown and ruled severely against the loveliest cotton back white satin at 37½ cents per yard.

Take Your Time Eating.

Here is an example that is worth remembering and following. Horace Fletcher writes of an experience that he had while traveling on a railway with the proverbial twenty minutes for dinner in which to satisfy a laboring man's appetite. There was an excellent array of good things on the lunch counter to eat and drink, and from these he made a selection rather than attempt the regular dinner. He chose plump ham sandwiches, creamy milk and a large piece of pie. The twenty minutes was ample time for disposing of sandwiches and milk, while he had the pie put in paper to give epicurean enjoyment on the train. He says:

"If I had put the pie and sandwiches and the milk into my stomach in seven or eight minutes, which, by actual observation, is the gluttonous rate of dispatching a station meal, I would have lost two-thirds of nutriment, more than one-half of taste and taken on twenty-four hours of discomfort, possibly inviting a cold and creating an 'open door' for any migrating microbes that were floating about in my atmosphere looking for strained tissue or fermenting food in which to build their disease nests."

Observation proves that you cannot get more nutriment into your stomach than salivation prepares, "gulp" though you may, but you can take in a load of disease possibilities in trying to force or evade proper salivation.—Cooking Club.

Women In Poland.

Polish women are renowned for their beauty, for the perfection of their hands and the smallness of their feet. Polish ladies maintain that when they shop in Vienna and show their small feet with the high instep to be fitted the tradesmen exclaim, "Ah, those are Polish feet!"

But their pleasure in this distinction is not so much a matter of personal vanity as of satisfaction in the superiority of anything belonging to their country, for they are fervidly patriotic.

The lady of position rises between 11 and 12 in the forenoon and goes to bed at 4 o'clock the next morning. She drives from one visit to another, but in reality she is laboring all day for public interests. Everything, the founding of a library, a hospital, a sewing school, is made to strengthen the Polish cause. Four ladies do not meet on a charity committee, says George Brandes, without taking some measure, under that innocent pretext, for the national benefit.

As a consequence of this charm and spirit, the women of Poland receive from the men a courtesy amounting to homage. Men always rise in a tram car to give a lady a seat. At any public place a chair may be ruthlessly demanded of even the most distinguished official present, with the sufficient explanation, "for a lady."

EVENING DRESSES.

Collarless Gowns Still Worn—White Spotted Fabrics.

A few dressmakers are cutting the demitoilets slightly decollete, but the very best models have high, transparent collar bands. Collarless dresses will be worn for restaurant dining, but they are generally accompanied by wide strings to a hat or a tulle chiffon or feather stole.

White spotted fabrics are smart. A very charming ring spot on a soft ground, made up over a silk or satin slip and trimmed with the always popular Irish crochet or valenciennes lace, is one of the most popular of evening gowns for a young girl. Many such gowns have beautifully shaped waistbands of black panne, which seem to correspond so admirably with a black picture hat and give a note of distinction to the all white frock.

The cut shows a black crepe de chine gown having a collar of cluny lace and chiffon ruchings.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

The location is the best of any hall in the city. The street cars pass the door with a turn out right in front of the Hall.

The floor is of selected maple laid with the greatest care, and is kept in perfect condition. being covered with canvas when not used for dancing.

The ventilation—a most important consideration—is such as to keep the air pure with even a crowded hall and without causing any drafts.

The Hall is lighted by electricity, brilliantly and pleasantly, and with a switchboard arranged so that all desired effects can be obtained in the Hall proper or on the stage. Gas is used as an auxiliary light.

The heating is direct—indirect, ample, and giving the most healthful results.

The Stage has been designed with care, and is furnished with a particularly generous supply of attractive and appropriate scenery.

In case of fire the re pails of water and chemical fire extinguishers throughout the Hall. There is an asbestos fire curtain by which the Stage can be instantly cut off from the Hall proper. There are nine (9) doors opening from the Hall and five (5) separate exits.

As a whole, Quincy Music Hall has been carefully planned to meet the requirements of those who wish a large and really first class Hall.

CITY BREVITIES.

Sunday was a balmy day.

There are five little ones being cared for today at the Day Nursery.

Miss Grace Lowe of Roxbury has been visiting Miss Ruth Bassett of Walker street.

Councilman and Mrs. Charles Hadlock of Webster street are happy over the advent of a son born last week.

Lieut. W. Ball has been ordered by the Navy Department to duty on the Cruiser Des Moines, built at Quincy.

F. R. Tate of this city has been elected a member of the Delta Gamma Delta fraternity at Dartmouth colledge.

Richard Prout and family moved from Whitwell street on Saturday to their new home just purchased on Independence avenue.

The five days' fair of Division 5, A. O. H., at Hancock hall closed Saturday night. The fair was a most successful one and a good sum was realized.

The three rounds of five blows sounded on the fire alarm at 6.45 on Friday night of last week was to summon assistance to search for the three-year-old daughter of John J. Delany of Webster street. The little girl was found near the Quincy Mansion school.

Charles F. Leslie, one of South Quincy's prominent young men, has returned from a trip to the West, where he has passed a few months for his health. On his return he made an extended tour through the coal regions of Pennsylvania. He also visited Camp Mead where Company K was stationed during the Spanish war.

Theodore Hermanson celebrated his 28th birthday Saturday evening by entertaining fifty of his friends at the residence of E. J. Sandberg. There was music, refreshments and a general good time. Whist was also enjoyed Miss Clara Gustafson securing the first prize and John Carlson the consolation. Mr. Hermanson received a number of presents.

A large audience greeted Mrs. Thatcher at the Wollaston Methodist church Sunday evening. She is national superintendent of the department of work for soldiers and sailors, and her remarks were very convincing as regards the canteen, which was abolilished by Congress a few years ago. The speaker said there is an effort on foot to bring the canteen quest on before Congress again, and she would like every one to sign the petition against revising the anteen, as she claimed the beer traffic was a great curse to the soldiers and sailors. Music by the Wollaston orchestra connected with the church was excellent. A fine solo was also rendered by Mrs. Heath.

The Nose.

Use the nose to breathe through and not the mouth. In winter and spring particularly must this care be taken. If the mouth is kept open large drafts of cold air rush directly in upon the lungs, chilling the body almost instantly. If the mouth is kept shut the air can reach the lungs only by the circuit of the nose and head, and it becomes warmed before reaching the lungs. It is asserted that the reason the American nose is becoming more and more narrow is owing to the reprehensive habit of breathing through the mouth rather than following the intention of nature.

NEW CAUCUS ACT.

Benefits of the Luce Act Told by Representative Luce.

Representative Luce takes a very sensible view relative to the adoption of the so-called Luce Caucus Act, and tells of the benefits. Without doubt his advice to Quincy would be to accept. He says:

"I am of the opinion that the law may wisely be adopted in all cities and in all towns of more than 10,000 inhabitants. For towns of from 3000 to 10,000 local conditions should determine, the law being more likely to be useful in manufacturing than in farming communities. I hope the law will not be adopted in any town of less than 3000 inhabitants.

"I advocate the retention of the old-time caucus wherever it is still a genuine party conference, with a large attendance of representative citizens whenever there is a contest, and with full discussion of the merits and demerits of men and measures. But where it has become simply a vote-receiving device, with a small attendance of interested politicians who gather to ratify a selection of candidates made in advance, or with interference from members of other parties when the attendance is large—where in short, the town meeting idea no longer prevails in party affairs. I advocate replacing an imperfect, dangerous and demoralizing vote recording process with the safest and fairest method of party poll yet devised that of the primary election.

The law creates a nominating day, with processes as near as practicable like those of election day; polls open at least nine hours in cities and four in towns; voting by wards or precincts, as the local authorities may determine; the same officials as on election day; ballots after the Australian form provided by the city or town. All the conveniences and safeguards now furnished on election day may thus be provided on nominating day. At the start any voter may act with any one party by calling for its ballot. His choice is noted on the voting list and thereafter he may act only with that party in nominations unless he asks the city or town clerk to change his enrolment, and then after 90 days he may act with the party to which his enrolment has been changed. (The present law will not let a voter change for a year.)

"The benefits claimed are increased attendance; restriction of party action to party members: the opportunity to hold parties accountable for their deeds; fair play to all candidates; lessening of the power of ring, machine or boss; fewer bolts; accurate counting, premeditated selection; publicity of candidates; as much safety and convenience, and decency, and dignity for the nominating process as for the electing process; better candidates."

TODAY'S COURT.

William E. Tracy was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth, and was put under $200 bonds to keep the peace for three months.

James A. Beaton and John Cardarellis were fined $3 each for drunkenness at Milton.

James McKeon was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued until Nov. 9.

George R. Delory was arraigned for obstructing the sidewalk at Milton. Case placed on file.

John F Roberts was arraigned for the larceny of carpenters tools from some person unknown at Quincy. Case continued until Thursday

The continued case of William Scanlon of Milton was called and he was defaulted.

—The microbe of love is scouted as preposterous by Lorin Farr, a Norman, who is the head of the largest family in the world. Farr has had six wives, 39 children, 231 grandchildren and 56 great-grandchildren. He insists that there is no such a thing as the microbe of love, and thinks that because of his experience, his opinion should bear some weight.

OIL FOR THE BODY

You can't lose an atom without feeling it. The body is like an engine, a watch, a machine; must be kept in good order to run right.

That's the reason Scott's Emulsion is so successful in all wasting diseases. It feeds, nourishes and strengthens when ordinary food won't.

Doctors say Scott's Emulsion is the best nourishment for those who are not as well as they should be.

We use the whole oil in Scott's Emulsion because the great reputation of cod liver oil as a food and medicine was made by using it in this way. Substitutes in the shape of wines, cordials, extracts, etc., should be carefully avoided.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

CASTOR AND POLLUX

[Original.]

In referring to the twins their fellow students spoke of them as gemini (the Latin for twins) and called them Castor and Pollux. They were both on the university football team and were considered the best amateur players in New England. I don't propose to give away their identity here, so I shall designate them by their college sobriquets. They were both flaxen haired, blue eyed giants. Every one knows that the affection between twins is remarkable, and these two were no exception to the rule. Indeed when after being graduated Castor went west to seek his fortune, Pollux remaining at the university to take a post graduate course, the separation very nearly broke the brothers down. Everybody wondered how they dared strike out in different directions.

Pollux was wanted on the university team, but it was some time before he consented to go on. He could not bear the thought of playing without his brother. However, he consented at last, and that made his team the strongest college team in the country for that year. I'm not going to even locate it by giving the college teams that fought the champion game that year. I'll call them A. and B. I can only assert what everybody knew happened. As to the details of the game, I give them from the account given me by a member of the A. team. I was not present myself.

When the A. team got into the tally-ho to drive to the grounds it was discovered that Pollux was missing. The captain cursed and thundered, making the air hot with his remarks, but it didn't do any good. Pollux did not appear. Some one suggested that he might have gone direct to the grounds, and the captain finally decided to drive on, hoping to find him there. But he didn't.

When the team lined up Pollux was still wanting. A substitute was in his place and the game about to commence. There was a fence about twenty feet high around the inclosure, and at the calling of the game an immense figure in football garb appeared on its top with one leg over. Then it jumped down and walked toward the gridiron. A shout arose, "Pollux to the rescue!" as the figure strode on and took his position in the line. His captain went up to him and asked for an explanation, but the big fellow motioned him to proceed with the game.

By this time the betting was a good deal mixed, for now that the missing man had come no one knew whether he was going to do great things or little things. He played as he had been used to playing, though not exerting himself as much as usual, except at critical moments. At such times he would contrive to secure the ball and on several occasions got it to goal. There was nothing brilliant about the way he did it. The singular feature was that no one could explain how he did it. The men would be massed, the B. men on the ball. Then suddenly Pollux would be found to have got it and trying to get through the guards with it. When there was an open game and everybody could see what was going on he did nothing. At the end he brought his college in for two points ahead, and the champion game was won.

You may say there was nothing remarkable about this. Well, there wasn't. When the game was finished the A. captain turned to thank Pollux for his work and didn't see him.

"Where's Pollux?" he asked.

"Why, he was here a moment ago. He can't have gone in."

"He must have gone in. If he thinks he can bother me as he did today without an explanation he's mistaken."

The captain went inside, where several of the team had already arrived, and, not seeing the man he looked for, asked:

"Has Pollux been here?"

"No," said a substitute. "And I've been here half an hour."

Nor was there a person on the field who had seen Pollux leave it.

"Singular," said his captain. "He came over the fence—how he got up there I can't imagine—and now he's disappeared."

When the captain of the A.'s went to his hotel the clerk handed him a telegram. It was from Pollux and read:

"Can't play today."

"Well," remarked the captain, "I'm glad he got there after all. We'd have been 'gone up' without him."

The rest of the story—that is, how it came out, or, rather, how it didn't come out, for Pollux declared that any friend of his who spoke of it would be his friend no longer—is rather misty. Pollux was sweet on a girl and the day before the game came off he traveled a hundred miles to see her. She was a Delilah and purposely kept him till after the only train on which he could reach the athletic grounds in time had gone. Pollux, filled with shame at his treatment of his fellows, sent the message to his captain, took the next train for college and on arrival went to his rooms. There he found a telegram announcing the death of his brother.

The story given out was that Pollux thought he would not be able to play, but reached the grounds in time. I was an A. student myself, roomed next to Pollux and talked with him in his own rooms about his brother's sudden death while the game was going on. He has never to this day had a doubt that Castor dying at the time the game was called appeared in the spirit to prevent the necessity of an explanation as to his brother's nonappearance. But that part of the story is known only to me.

WESTCOTT ATWELL.

AN ARTIST'S IDEAL AUTO.

Sir William Richmond's Plan to Build a Car of Beauty.

Sir William Richmond, the Royal Academician of London, thinks the present form of automobile hideously inartistic and the average type of car body as ugly as an omnibus, says the New York American.

To show that an automobile can be made beautiful and graceful in form, Sir William intends designing a model car that shall be simple and artistic, yet inexpensive. He said in an interview:

"The construction of the present automobile gives no appearance of volition, as it should, while at rest the car gives no suggestion of speed. It looks like a permanently stationary object. A bird's beak or a horse's head and shoulders suggest cleaving the air. They give a forward suggestion. Therefore my car will have a prow, it will be broadened in the beam and narrowed in the stern. The driver will sit in the stern, like a steersman. He will sit there in order to give him command of the road, and a heightening rear will contribute artistic lines to my car."

The artist intends to model his ideal car in wax and intends that it shall answer all demands of expediency and usefulness. His plan is characterized by simplicity of line and design. There is to be no ornamentation, and where the unsightly gear cannot be simplified it will be hidden. This beauty of design, Sir William asserts, will not add a cent to the cost. He brings to his task of designing an ideal car the mind of the mechanician, skilled craftsman and artist combined. Manufacturers are interestedly awaiting the result of Sir William Richmond's task.

A SURPRISE FOR BRITONS.

President's Son In Public School Astonished Mosely Commission.

A discovery which has interested the members of the Mosely English educational commission more, perhaps, than any other made since its visit to Washington was the presence of the son of President Roosevelt as a student in one of the public schools of Washington, says the New York Herald. Until they made this discovery members of the commission seemed to be unable to grasp the thorough democracy of the American public school system. When told that the president's son was a student in a public school, the visiting educators asked Superintendent Stuart how he was able under the American plan to keep that particular school select, so as to regulate the character of the pupils who would be brought into contact with the president's son. When assured there was no effort to make the school select, but that the boy of a blacksmith or of a little grocer was there on terms of perfect equality with the Roosevelt boy, they wondered greatly and at once arranged that that particular school should be one of the places they would visit.

The visitors did visit this school, found everything just as had been described to them and left, as one of them explained, with "a better idea of the meaning of the American democracy."

A NOVEL CURE.

Farmer's Speech Said to Have Been Restored by Chewing Tobacco.

F. M. Wolf, living near Ridgeville, Ind., who has been dumb for more than two years, is now able to carry on a conversation as a result of chewing tobacco for several hours, says an Indianapolis dispatch. Two years ago last June Wolf was struck by lightning while sitting in the door of his farmhouse, and from that time until the other day had not been able to utter a sound.

Some of the best specialists in Indiana are said to have declared that Wolf was afflicted with permanent paralysis of the vocal organs.

On the Saturday night before he was cured Wolf reports that he dreamed that if he took a chew of tobacco he would be able to speak again. A few hours after he had taken the tobacco, Sunday, he was able to make slight vocal sounds, and, continuing chewing, he was soon able to talk.

A Long Walk For Life.

E. C. Norris, who recently walked from San Francisco to New York, his former home, to save himself from a consumptive's grave, spoke of his 8,000 mile journey as follows to a reporter of the New York Herald:

"I have worn out sixty-one pairs of shoes since I started on the long walk. It was a big tramp, I tell you, but it paid me well. When the doctors in California told me I had consumption I determined to take vigorous measures to get rid of it. Some of my friends thought I was making a big mistake in undertaking such a walk. Well, I took the chance of getting through with the journey or dropping out at the roadside to die among strangers, and you see the result."

Forty pounds is the increase in weight Norris declares he has made since he started out on the morning of Aug. 8, 1901, when he was only able to tip the scales at ninety-six and scarcely had vitality enough to endure a short walk about the city. The first day he walked but a short distance, the next day a little farther, and soon the number of miles covered would fatigue a man of more robust health.

New History of Jews.

Russians as Linguists.

Every educated Russian knows three languages besides his own and many of them four. Knowledge of the English, French and German languages is considered necessary to culture. A family having small children employs two to four governesses, from whom the children learn foreign tongues before they are taught the more difficult Russian. This command of language makes possible the fact that Russians have a better knowledge of the world's affairs than any other people.

The Serpent's Venom.

A physician while talking with a group of friends remarked: "It is common to hear people speak about poisonous serpents. Serpents are never poisonous; they are venomous. A poison cannot be taken internally without bad effects; a venom can. Venoms to be effective have to be injected directly into the circulation, and this is the manner in which the snakes kill. Their venom taken internally is innocuous."

Diet and Alcohol.

Careful observations have shown again and again that there is an intimate relation between diet and alcoholism, especially that tea, coffee and condiments lead to the use of alcohol. It has also been demonstrated that flesh eating creates a thirst for alcoholic beverages and an appetite for tobacco, the use of which almost invariably leads, sooner or later, to the use of alcohol in one form or another.

Introspection.

One can accomplish but little when all is said, for, make no mistake about it, however much we pose and strut in the world, in the solitude of our own studies there are few of us but know how the faults and blemishes of our craft stand out and stare us in the face to remind us that we are small enough and halting enough to be always learning, never quite gloriously achieving.

Anchored.

A little chap four years of age met with the misfortune to have his hat blown into the river. When he reached home his father said to him:

"It's a wonder you didn't blow overboard too."

"I couldn't," was the quick response. "I was fastened to my feet!"—Presbyterian.

CITY COUNCIL

Lay High School Order on the Table.

The Gould Plans vs. Wright Plans.

Another Big Loan Proposed in Anticipation of Taxes.

The much-needed enlargement of the High school building received a black eye in the City Council Monday evening, when a minority report in opposition seemed to meet with favor. A vote to lay on the table was the only thing that saved the enlargement from defeat.

Councilman Meyer was the only absentee.

GOULD PLANS FAVORED.

A communication was received from the School Committee stating that it had approved the Gould plans for the addition to the High school, and that no action had been taken on the Wright plans. Placed on file.

QUINCY POINT BRIDGE.

A communication was received from the trustees of the Quincy and Hingham bridges, relative to the Quincy Point bridge and approaches suggesting that the State should take charge. Laid on the table until later when an order was offered petitioning the County Commissioners to adjudicate in the matter. Passed.

BIG LOAN FOR TAXES.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the City Treasurer relative to borrowing an additional sum in anticipation of taxes. Laid on the table until later when an order was offered authorizing the Treasurer to borrow $90,000 in anticipation of taxes. To Finance Committee.

MORE FOR CLERK HIRE.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Assessors relative to an additional appropriation for clerical services. To Finance Committee.

APPOINTMENTS.

The Mayor sent the following appointments which were confirmed. George A. McKay and Max Ziolkowski, as constables; William H. Flynn as deputy sealer of weights and measures, and Robert A. Robertson as a public weigher. Confirmed.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from Commissioner of Public Works stating that if the water pipe to be used next year could be purchased in December of this year a saving of $2400 could be made. To Committee on Sewers and Drains.

SIDEWALK ASSESSMENT.

The Commissioner of Public Works forwarded a schedule giving the cost of permanent sidewalk.

Later an order was offered assessing one-half cost on the abutters.

John W. Nutting sent a communication stating that 750 feet of his land was now in the traveled way on Granite street. That if the city would build a fence he would release land to the city in the traveled way. To Committee on Streets.

A communication was received from R. B. Wason, stating that he would sell the land on the corner of Newbury avenue and Botolph street for a school lot for 18 cents per foot. Laid on table.

PETITIONS, ETC.

Councilman Adams presented a petition, signed by George W. Morton and others, requesting that Sea street at its junction of Sea avenue be relocated, stating that the land needed will be deeded to the city free of expense. To Committee on Streets.

A number of petitions for minor licenses were received and referred.

H. C. Leach petitioned for a refund of tax title. To Finance Committee.

A petition for street lights on Pine street was referred to the Executive.

The New England Telephone Co. petitioned for permission to attach its wires to poles of other companies on Elmwood avenue and for a location on on Washington street. To Committee on Streets.

The Old Colony Street railway petitioned for permission to cross Des Moines road and Quincy avenue with its wires.

Laid on the table until later, when an order was offered.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Legislative Matters reported that it had preambulated the Quincy and Milton line, and that the stone bound on Beale street had been disturbed, and recommended that a bound be set on Bryant avenue. Report accepted.

The Finance Committee reported favorable on the order for $1,000 for Federal avenue. Rules suspended and order passed.

The special committee on through cars to Dudley street reported a location had been granted the Boston Elevated to connect the tracks, and that the Railroad Commissioner had given them assurance the location would be approved.

The Ordinance Committee reported favorable on the order amending the Ordinance relative to transporting dynamite. Order passed.

The Ordinance Committee reported favorable on order transferring $75 from advertising for City Clerk to advertising for Tax Collector. Order passed.

The Committee on Licenses reported on several petitions for minor licenses, which were passed.

HIGH SCHOOL ENLARGEMENT.

The joint Committee on Finance and Public Buildings reported a substitute on the order for $45,000 for addition to the High school, making the amount $52,000 for the north wing according to the Gould plan.

Councilman Nickerson presented a minority report signed by Councilman Nickerson, Thompson, Hughes, Bass, Diack and Smith that the order ought not to pass.

In support of the minority report Councilman Nickerson said that the committee was composed of twelve and that half had signed the minority report for the reason that it was an injustice to build by the Gould plans. The number of the square feet obtained by the Gould plan was 3,600 and 250 pupils would be accommodated. By the Wright plan 5,800 square feet would be obtained and 450 pupils would be accommodated, also a boiler room of 2400 feet and all for the same money. He did not believe the Gould plans were practical. Is it wise to build and only accommodate 250, when for the same money 450 can be accommodated?

He then read a letter from Woodbury and Leighton, the experts employed by the city. This gave the estimate of the cost of building both wings as follows: the Gould plans, $161,946; Park plans, $147,624. Wright, $154,922. Their opinion was that the Wright plans were the best as they could be built while school was in use.

Councilman Whiton—If what the last speaker said was true, that would be some advantage. These plans came before the committee a year ago. After thrashing it out for three months seven were in favor of the Gould plans and two for the other. The School Committee stood five to one for the Gould

Ideal Election Day and a Big Vote.

QUIET IN QUINCY.

Little Effort Made to Get Out the Voters.

Will Nearly Equal Last Year.

Considerable Doubt in Representative Contest.

The total vote at the last State election was 4,124, but it promises to fall a little under 4,000 this year. Like last year it is an ideal election day, but the political parties are making but little effort to bring out the vote.

If any Republicans are bolting the head of the ticket they are doing it quietly. The prospects are that Gov. Bates will receive about the same plurality as last year.

The remainder of the regular Republican ticket will have a good majority unless it be for Representatives. Where last year the Republican vote in the double district was divided between four candidates, regular and independent, this year it is being divided by bullet. While the Democrats are united on Mr. Fallon, and the Socialists on Mr. Turner.

Should the Republican strength of 1800 be divided equally between Messrs. Sandberg and Freeman, Mr. Fallon would surely be elected and possibly Mr. Turner, but all the Republicans are not casting bullets and the count alone will tell.

The prospects are good for the election of Messrs. Freeman and Sandberg, but Mr. Fallon may again defeat the latter.

WARD ONE.

During the first hour both precincts of Ward One, which are voting in City Hall, cast a larger vote than last year, but at 8 o'clock both precincts were behind last year, and have continued a little behind each hour, as will be seen by the following summary:

	Precinct 1.		Precinct 2.
	1902.	1903.	1902.	1903.
7 o'clock,	44	54	46	48
8 "	114	102	125	88
9 "	174	137	171	139
10 "	209	176	205	172
11 "	230	200	235	197
12 "	248	219	362	233
2 "	315	298	313	303

It was amusing to many to see F. F. Green, who has accepted a nomination for Councilman at the Republican caucuses acting as a Democratic election officer. As deputy warden he read the warrant and opened the caucus and presided until the arrival of W. M. Packard the warden.

Otherwise the regularly appointed election officers are on duty, viz:

Precinct 1,—Messrs. Kittredge, Dunphy, Goodridge, Smith, Dunn and Welch.

Precinct 2,—Messrs. Packard, Murphy, Holt, Coyle, Davenport and Cook.

WARD TWO.

Voting in the Quincy Point ward, taken as a whole is nearly up to what it was last year.

In precinct one at 11 o'clock 153 votes had been cast which is within a few votes of what it was last year at the same hour.

In precinct two the vote at 11.15 was 188 against 197 a year ago at 11 o'clock. The falling off of the vote in this precinct is probably because voters have become confused and cannot readily locate the polling place. Last year the polling place was in the old Graham factory on Washington street, but this year is located on the corner of Union street and Newcomb place.

The election officers on duty are:

Precinct 1,—Messrs. Sullivan, Weston, Cleverly, Cain, R. H. Newcomb and Burrell.

Precinct 2,—Messrs. E. W. Newcomb, Callahan, Ford, Kennedy, Gatcomb and Keating.

WARD THREE.

The total vote of the South Quincy ward at 10.45 was 363, which is practically the same as last year at the same hour.

In precinct 1, 212 votes had been cast against 220 last year at the same time, showing a falling off in the Democratic precinct.

In precinct two 151 votes had been cast at 10.45 against 160 at the same hour. This precinct is about holding its own.

The election officers on duty are:

Precinct 1—Messrs. Cahill, McCalder, Marnock, Elrick, Sullivan, Kelley.

Precinct 2—Messrs. Williams, Boyle, Pratt, Campbell, Heany, Shea.

WARD FOUR.

In the West Quincy ward, 366 votes had been cast at 10.30, against 414 a half hour earlier last year which would appear that the vote had fallen off in spite of the fact that two candidates for Representatives, Messrs. Sandberg and Fallon, are from this ward.

In precinct One, the Democratic precinct, 151 votes had been cast at 10.30, against 166 a half hour earlier last year.

In precinct two, the Republican percinct a large vote is being polled, and the total will probably exceed that of last year. There was a rush when the polls opened, and 35 voted in the first fifteen minutes and 110 in the first hour. At 10.30, 215 votes had been cast.

The election officers on duty are:

Precinct 1,—Messrs. Crowley, McCormick, Burke, Fuller, King and Williams.

Precinct 2,—Messrs. Teasdale, Keating, Shortle, Campbell, Walters and Eagan.

WARD FIVE.

Today's weather is generally known as a Republican day, and therefore a large vote should be expected at Wollaston, the Republican stronghold. It would appear that the ward is not holding its own with last year. At 1.10 this noon the total vote cast was 568. When it is understood that a year ago at 10 o'clock 510 votes had been cast it can readily be seen that there is some falling off. However the total vote last year was 662.

Last year Messrs. Freeman and De Normandie were running against each other, and both hustled to get out the votes. This year Mr. Freeman has no opponent in his own ward. This probably accounts for the falling off in the vote.

The election officers on duty are: Messrs. Sherman, Chase, Olney, Richmond, Denneen, and Twitchell.

WARD SIX.

The total vote of the Atlantic ward at 12.45 o'clock was 427 against 435 at 7 o'clock a year ago this comparison shows that the ward is holding its own if not doing a little better.

This is one of the wards where the rush comes in the early morning hours, so that a large percent of the vote had been cast at 1 o'clock.

In precinct one at 12.45 o'clock 226 votes had been cast, against 230 at 1 o'clock last year.

In precinct two at 12.45 o'clock 201 votes had been cast against 205 at 1 o'clock last year.

The election officers on duty are:

Precinct 1—Messrs. Pope, Drew, Edwards, Dolan, Burch and Sherwin.

Precinct 2—Messrs. Poland, Canty, Maxwell, Beal, Duggan and Shea.

THE LESSON OF THE STEEL TRUST

Facts About the Largest Industrial Corporation.

OBJECT OF ITS ORGANIZATION.

The Dominant Motive Said to Have Been Personal Rather Than Public—Namely, to Buy Out Carnegie—Its Capitalized Value Declared to Have Been Calculated and Not Tangible—What the Public May Learn From Its Promoters' Scheme.

The United States Steel corporation is thus discussed in the World's Work for November:

The United States Steel corporation was organized by men who were regarded as the strongest financiers and promoters in the world. It is the largest industrial corporation ever organized. Its products are the very basis of commerce. Although their prices have shown great fluctuations — Mr. Carnegie has called the steel business a pauper and millionaire industry — they are the first necessity of commerce. It was possible, therefore, to organize a great steel and iron business not so as to prevent, but surely so as to provide against, trade depressions, for there is no business about which there is fuller knowledge.

And there were many facts about the colossal steel corporation that were admirable and attractive. For one thing, it began at once to publish much fuller reports than most corporations have published. It inspired unusual confidence from the beginning. This was to be, if there ever could be, a great industrial corporation which should really take advantage of the economies of consolidation and be managed for the benefit of the stockholders. The greatest financial organizer of our time, perhaps of any time, was identified with it. Its first president was a man in the full vigor of youth who had had a remarkable career in this business. The great company was launched as no other ever was.

But it was the handiwork of the promoter after all, as hundreds of other great corporations are. The dominant motive in its organization was not the better manufacture of iron and steel nor its cheaper manufacture nor the better handling or marketing of the product nor the steadying of its price, although all these motives played a part. No great improvement has been made in processes or in management by the new corporation. But the dominant motive was to buy out Mr. Carnegie. It was a personal motive rather than what may be called a public motive. It was not the improvement of the industry nor primarily the protection of the owners of these great mills, but promoters' reasons.

In the organization of it definite, conservative values were not set on the property. On the contrary, it was valued at its earning capacity in prosperous times—its maximum earning capacity. Much more than half its capitalized value was fictitious. The whole amount of its common stock—$500,000,000—was water. It represented no real, tangible value, but a calculated value based on earnings at the very maximum rate in prosperous times.

But the purchasers of this stock were not plainly informed of this fact. Every man had to dig this information out for himself and calculate for himself the chance of its permanent or possible value. But the inference was, since honorable men were at the head of the company, that there was a reasonable expectation of continuous dividends on the common stock.

It soon came out that enormous sums were required as fees for the underwriting syndicate. In other words, the promoters took a heroic profit for their risk and trouble. Promoters do not work without pay, nor do great bankers take heavy risks for nothing—truly, but from the beginning of the world no such promoters' profits as these had ever been heard of.

Making great organizations is an exciting game. Few men have heads cool enough to resist such excitement. The president of the great company soon lost his head. He was soon buying and selling a great steel plant on his own account at a fabulous profit. But the business of the great company went on in a prosperous way, and its millions of dividends were paid quarterly. Then a plan was made to convert some of its stock into bonds, leaving the rest of the stock, of course, at a disadvantage. Was this an intimation that a time might come when the stock would receive lessened dividends or no dividends at all? The public began to be suspicious, and the stock began rapidly to fall in the market.

The iron and steel trade has fallen off somewhat, not greatly. It is prosperous yet. But the high tide of the last two years is receding. When the time for declaring dividends comes the dividend on the common stock is cut in two—one-half of 1 per cent per quarter is declared instead of 1 per cent on the common stock.

There were some time ago more than 25,000 persons who had bought this common stock alone—bought it because they were led to believe that it had a good chance to continue to pay 4 per cent dividends a year. Now they are told truly that the directors are conserving their property by cutting the dividend in two, and they are reminded at the same time that they were very simple dupes ever to buy this stock with the expectation of any dividends at all, which also is true.

The greatest corporation in the world, then, under the most distinguished management, is very like many another. It was a promoters' scheme. In its organization there was a great "rake off." Some of its officers were caught in the speculating whirlpool and discredited. Its whole issue of common stock is on a speculative basis.

The public may learn at some time that the organization of factories and mills and industries on the basis of expected earnings in good times is an economic error. This is a gambler's doctrine pure and simple. The fundamental, lasting, economic fact is that organization on such a basis is a capital error. Earning capacity at any given time is a shifting sand bar. There must be something more substantial than this at the base of industrial organization when it becomes wholly honest.

CHANCE FOR SPOONERS.

Councilmen of Janesville, Wis., Favor Kissing on Schoolhouse Steps.

Lovers may continue their "spooning" on the school steps at night at any of the public schools in Janesville, Wis., without interference on the part of the police. That decision was recently reached by the common council. The victory was a complete one for Alderman Edward Connell, who from the start has championed the cause of the lovers.

Mayor A. O. Wilson and Alderman Mathewson were in favor of appointing the janitors of the public schools as special police so as to do away with the disturbance at night caused by those who till late at night kept people awake by their kissing and laughter.

Alderman Connell is the only member of the Janesville council who is not enjoying wedded bliss, and for this reason the married city fathers thought that he was better posted on this kissing nuisance than they were. Alderman Connell thought it was useless to appoint the janitors of the different schools as special police. The lovers were doing no harm and were merely enjoying themselves as no doubt many of the aldermen present had done in their younger days. In their vote that followed every one of the aldermen voted with Alderman Connell.

To a reporter Alderman Connell said: "I used to be a boy myself, and it was not many years ago that I used to visit these same schoolhouse steps. Of course I don't favor any couples kissing so loud that they keep the neighbors awake, but from what I have learned by looking into the matter I find that the neighbors have had but few instances where lovers' smacks have kept them awake longer than midnight."

BEGGAR'S SOCIAL STATUS.

He Wondered if It Would Be Lowered by Going to Jail.

"Will my status in society be lowered if you send me to jail?" was a somewhat peculiar query which Alexander Norman put to Magistrate Cunningham in the Central police court at Philadelphia the other day. Norman, who is a cripple, had been arrested a few days ago charged by Agent Benjamin H. Marsh of the Society For Organized Charity with being a vagrant, says the Philadelphia Press.

"Your status in society, I should think, would not be increased if you went to jail," said the magistrate.

Agent Marsh said he believed Norman was a confirmed beggar and that the police had a record of him in New York. He asked the court to hold Norman for a further hearing in order that he might have his photograph taken and sent to New York.

"Oh, no, I won't do anything like that," said the magistrate. Marsh then proceeded to question Norman. The latter appealed to the magistrate to dispose of his case without further delay.

"Do I have to answer the man's questions?" asked the prisoner.

"Not if you don't want to," replied his honor.

"Then I won't answer them. Please send me to jail."

The defendant, who was previously much concerned about his social status, was then sent to the house of correction for six months.

A Mother's View of Gibson's Pictures.

"Charles Dana Gibson and other artists whose specialty is the American girl have much to answer for," declared Mrs. Evelyn B. Ayres in her lecture on "Health and Beauty" at the recent convention in Syracuse of the New York State Assembly of Mothers. "They are responsible for the atrocious attitudes affected by young women today." Mrs. Ayres is professor of physical culture in Syracuse university, and she was illustrating the modish kangaroo walk. "It will take thousands of gymnasts and instructors to undo its ill effects. The Gibson pose is brimful of self consciousness and angularity."

The Football Girl.

Eyes that are clear as the sparkling air
When the frost sprinkled forests flame;
Cheeks all aglow with the daintiest red,
Wind tossed hair round a graceful head,
Bonny and blithesome beyond compare—
Hail to the queen of the game!

There are courage and hope in her eyes so brown,
And she raises the blue flag high,
And, winning or losing, till all is done
She is true to her colors and cheers them on,
With the Yale blue violets in her gown,
Fair symbol of loyalty.

There is much that is dear in the victor's prize—
Honor, applause and fame—
But when the strife ends in a victory
The first and the best which the winners see
Is a swift flashing signal from beauty's eyes,
A smile from the queen of the game.

Then here's to the maid who begins her reign
When the dead leaves race and whirl!
Hearty and loud is the praise I bring,
For fairest of all is the maid I sing.
So fill up your glasses and pledge again
A toast to the football girl!

HIDE ME

[Original.]

The waves were coming in huge hills, striking the rocks beneath the lighthouse and breaking over it in clouds of spray. From a cottage set just beyond the reach of the highest monster a young girl descended to the entrance of the tower and was about to enter when, looking aside, she saw a man coming or, rather, running along the narrow roadway. When he came up there was a wild, hunted look in his eyes, a look that excited all the pity of her tender young heart.

"Hide me!" he gasped.

She did not wait to hear his reasons, but, placing a key she held in her hand in a door opening into the lighthouse, unlocked it and motioned the man to follow her. Mounting a circular stairway, she led the way to the light room.

"Here you will be safe," she said. "I was coming to light the lamps when you appeared. No one is allowed in this tower except the keeper, my father. He is away at present, and I am taking his place. When I go down I will lock the door below, which is of iron and not easily forced. Besides, no one would dare to force an entrance into a place owned by the government."

While she spoke she was lighting the lamps, casting glances at the stranger and following his eyes out to where he was watching for his pursuers. He was young and would have been handsome were it not for his haggard appearance. As soon as the last lamp was lighted the girl passed out of the room, and as she did so the man caught her hand and kissed it, but spoke no word. A few minutes later the bolts on the door below shot forward. The girl dropped the key in a crevice of the rock and hurried on up to the cottage.

She had barely time to sit down by a window and take up some sewing when two men appeared and stopped at the cottage.

"Have you seen a man pass here," asked one of them, "a good looking young fellow, with a crazy look in his eye? He has escaped from a lunatic asylum, and we got on the track just below here. There's a big reward offered for him—a thousand dollars."

The girl's decision must be made instantly. If the man was a lunatic there was every reason for her to surrender him both for the good of society and his own welfare. Besides, a thousand dollars was to her a sum far beyond what she had ever dreamed of possessing. On the other hand, might not these men be misstating the truth in order to induce her to surrender one whom they were endeavoring to take for some infraction of the law, or might they not have some private reason for persecuting him?

"No," she said without a moment's hesitation.

"Now, see here, little girl," said the spokesman, "the patient could not possibly get beyond this point, and you're hiding him. Here is my badge as a keeper of the —— insane asylum, and you need have no doubt that if you surrender him you will only be doing a duty. Besides, think of the reward."

"He hasn't been here," said the girl without a blush at the falsehood.

"I see that we shall have to take the case into our own hands," said the man. And he stalked through the cottage, looking in every corner, closet and under every bed. There were but half a dozen rooms in all, and no great time was required to prove that the fugitive was not in the house. Then the man turned to the lighthouse. Crossing the road, he went to the door and, finding it locked, demanded the key.

"My father took it away with him," said the girl.

There was a sound of wheels on the road, and a man in a buggy drove up to the lighthouse. He was an aristocratic looking man, though of a dissipated appearance, about fifty years of age.

"Well?" he asked, looking at the men.

"We've tracked him here. I think this girl has hidden him in the lighthouse. She says her father has taken the key away."

The man in the buggy looked fiercely at the girl and, reaching back to his hip, drew a revolver and pointed it at her.

"Go and unlock that door," he said, "or die!"

In one way at least the girl's work was from this time easier. She made up her mind that the fugitive was not wanted for a legal purpose, but for some kind of persecution. She stood looking into the man's eyes, apparently unmoved. Lowering the pistol, he offered to pay her $5,000 if she would surrender the man they wanted. This had no more effect than his threat. The man looked at her searchingly for a moment, then said to the other two:

"She's not hiding him. No girl could stand such tests. He must have gone on. Come." And, whipping his horse, he disappeared, followed by the keepers on foot.

In one of the splendid country seats on the eastern end of Long Island dwells a gentleman who when a young man was through the instrumentality of his uncle, who was next in heirship to his nephew's large estate, adjudged insane and confined in a lunatic asylum. There is a story current that he escaped and was hidden by his wife, an attractive woman, beloved by her peers and the poor of the neighborhood; that she was the daughter of a lighthouse keeper, and the young man, when he had proved his sanity and secured his estate, took her from a cottage near the lighthouse and placed her in a mansion. But this all happened so long ago that no one troubles himself about the lady's pedigree.

A WRESTLING PARSON.

Jersey Clergyman Who Believes In Muscular Christianity.

HARD MAN TO BEAT "ON THE MAT"

Rev. Archibald B. McLaurin of Atlantic Highlands Can Throw the Biggest Members of His Congregation and Takes on Outsiders Cheerfully—Has Started Football Team. How He Downed a "Ringer."

Muscular Christianity is having a most strenuous inning at Atlantic Highlands, N. J., where the Rev. Archibald B. McLaurin, pastor of the Central Baptist church, is champion wrestler, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. He has thrown all the members of his congregation who have dared to meet him on the mat, and many young men—big, rawboned farmer's boys living in nearby towns—have joined the church just to be eligible "to tackle the parson."

The dominie graduated from Colgate in 1894 and was the best wrestler in the university during his sojourn there. He stands 5 feet 4 inches high and weighs 150 pounds. His shoulders are broad, and his arms are steel muscled. From the day that he became spiritual adviser of the Baptist flock two years ago he favored the establishment of a gymnasium in the church so that the young men might be developed physically as well as spiritually. The older members of the church shook their heads dubiously when the question of church athletics was broached by the enthusiastic young clergyman. Against such opposition Mr. McLaurin used great tact.

One Sunday morning, after he had a particularly good time preaching, a little wrinkled faced farmer came to the pulpit, pulling savagely at his stubbly beard.

"I've heard," said he, "that you gave my son a gol darn bad licking in the class room the other night. He says you're a 'peach,' but I think it was outrageous for you to act as he said you did. That kid of mine is strong, but he tells me you tied him in all kinds of knots and told him you would be pleased to entertain any other member of our family in the same way. Now, look here, parson, I want you to understand that I don't favor a minister carrying on so, but—but, say, parson, I've got another boy I bet you can't throw."

A half Nelson settled the other son, and the "parson's athletic club" had an auspicious beginning about two months ago.

Every Thursday night the chairs are piled into a corner of the basement lecture room, where the athletes and the parson hold their athletic exercises. There are wrestling mats, a medicine ball, flying rings and parallel bars. Mr. McLaurin can show the way to his young followers all along the line. All have joined his Sunday Bible class because they are afraid he will "take a fall out of them" on Thursday night if they don't. Nobody can say a word against the parson without a dozen dangerous looking chaps stepping out to defend him. There were never more young people at the Sunday services than at the present time.

Once in awhile the boys try to put up a game on their leader by running in a "ringer" on him. It is always some young fellow who has a reputation as a wrestler round about some neighboring post office and general store. All lads look alike to the dominie, however, and some of them who had an idea they knew a thing or two about wrestling have been very scarce since they closed with the little clergyman. The last victim was a six footer who dredges for clams all day and playfully tosses his companions about in a billiard parlor in the evening. He laughed long and loud when the parson's record and his pretensions were disclosed to him. "I'll fold him up like a jackknife," he said sarcastically.

There were fifty lanky natives crowded into the lecture room the night the big fellow tackled the minister. The visitor, looking down from his six foot elevation, grinned as he surveyed the compact bunch of humanity before him. "It seems like a sin," he muttered, as with a lunge he closed his arms about the little man with the intention of keeling him over in a hurry. To his surprise the dominie was about as yielding as a bronze figure. With a crash the husky youth struck the mat just a few seconds later. He found a wiry arm wrapped about his neck, and his breathing apparatus soon began to squeak painfully. Then he got mad, but with every exertion more air seemed to be shut out from his lungs, and he began to yell for help. This young fellow joined the Bible class on the next Sunday. In explanation he said:

"The devil has been getting into me lately, and if it comes to a hand to hand struggle I want the dominie around to get in his strangle hold on him."

Mr. McLaurin's latest move is the organization of a football team. Many of the boys cannot get out for practice in the daytime, so they run through signals in the lecture room after prayer meeting. Considerable blood has been spilled through contact with pillars and other things, and the dominie has received his knocks with the rest of the boys. When the old folks see suspicious spots on the floor they remark:

"Some more of the dominie's pranks. This newfangled idea of religious training is certainly a return to the days of martyrs."

CHANCES AGAINST THEM

Hubbard Exploring Party May Never Leave Labrador Alive

St. Johns, Nov. 3.—James Calder, a lumberman from Rigolet, Labrador, the last white man to see Leonidas Hubbard, Jr., of New York, assistant editor of Outing and head of the Labrador exploring expedition, has arrived here in the mail boat Virginia Lake. Calder expresses grave doubts as to the safety of the Hubbard party, which was attempting what he considers an impossible trip.

Calder tried to dissuade Hubbard from venturing inland, but he persisted and, as already told in these dispatches, he gave away nearly all his food before starting, on the plea that he could not advance fast enough if burdened with stores. His intention was to proceed north towards Ungava bay, but if he found this impossible his alternative would be to travel to the southwest, hoping to break out in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. It was the purpose of Hubbard to subsist on what he killed with the rifle, but Calder, who previously had traveled 150 miles inland through the forest, advised his taking a shotgun, which would enable him to kill small game.

Calder believes that the only chance for Hubbard and his two companions is that a party of Nauscopea Indians, following the same route some six weeks later on a trapping expedition, may come up with him.

Traced by Money Orders

New York, Nov. 3.—Charged with the robbery of a valise containing $1700 worth of jewelry and $600 in money orders from Miss Sophia Boyd of Boston while she was stopping at the Hotel Marlboro four months ago, three arrests were brought about by the attempt of Benjamin McGloin to cash the money orders. McGloin was turned over to the police, who later arrested Joseph Eichle and his son Gus. They claimed that they had found the orders in a pile of rubbish in the rear of the hotel.

Whalers' Luck

San Francisco, Nov. 3.—Steam whaler Beluga has arrived from the north with a cargo valued at more than $150,000. The vessel's hold contained 30,000 pounds of whalebone from 16 whales, 8750 gallons of oil and a quantity of furs. The steamer's cargo includes the catch of the whaler Narwhal. Whaling schooner Gotama has arrived. She did not get any whales and her cruise is said to involve a loss of $11,000 to her owners.

Alleged Firebugs Held

New York, Nov. 3.—Peter A. Skelley and Frank Conley pleaded not guilty before Magistrate Voorhees in the Coney Island police court to a charge of suspicion of arson and they were remanded to jail in the sum of $1000 each. Bands of men are busy clearing away the debris and a new bowery is expected to arise from the ruins of the conflagration of Sunday night.

Failure of Expressmen's Strike

Kansas City, Nov. 3.—W. C. Fleming, national organizer of the Brotherhood of Railway Expressmen, has notified the striking employes of the Pacific Express company that they have lost their fight and he advises them, if possible, to make their peace with the express company. Fleming said the strike failed because of the large number of desertions at St. Louis.

October Deficit of Nearly $5,000,000

Washington, Nov. 3.—The comparative statement of the government receipts and expenditures show that for October, 1903, the total receipts were $46,963,213 and the expenditures $51,910,478, leaving a deficit for the month of $4,947,265. With the exception of July, the beginning of the fiscal year, there has not been a monthly deficit since April, 1899.

Chemicals Exploded In School

St. Cloud, Minn., Nov. 3.—During a demonstration in the laboratory of the St. Cloud normal school an explosion of chemicals occurred, blowing out the windows and causing a panic among the students. Professor Keppel was injured about the head and face and Nat Garding, a student, may lose his sight as the result of burns.

Tug Run Down and Sunk

Halifax, Nov. 3.—The Gloucester (Mass.) fishing schooner Victor, while beating up Halifax harbor, ran into and sunk the tug Henry Hoover. The crew of the tug clambered aboard the schooner to safety. The schooner will go on the marine slip for repairs. The Henry Hoover was valued at $7000.

Murdered For Twenty-Five Cents

New York, Nov. 3.—Charged with the murder of Miguel Parajin to prevent him from making a complaint to the police, Philip Lemonta was arrested and positively identified by a witness as the man who killed Pajarin. A quarrel over the payment of 25 cents led to the crime.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Wednesday, Nov. 4.
Sun rises—6:20; sets—4:35.
Moon sets—5:28 a. m.
High water—11 a. m.; 11:30 p. m.

Observation has shown that periods of low barometric pressure over the British Isles are attended by stagnated weather conditions over the western Atlantic and the eastern part of the American continent and that five to six days after a re-establishment of normal barometric pressures over the eastern Atlantic the usual progression of areas of high and low barometer over the United States is resumed. The effect of recent barometric changes will probably be shown in a gradual breaking up of the quiescent weather conditions that have prevailed since Oct. 27 over the eastern part of the United States. There are at present, however, no indications of any well marked storm.

President Bowles.

Ex-Rear Admiral F. T. Bowles assumed his new duties as president at the Fore River Ship and Engine Co. today. He made a tour of the yard and met the heads of the various departments, with many of whom he was already well acquainted, having made many previous visits on his official governmental inspections.

Daughters of the Revolution.

A well attended and very pleasant meeting of Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, was held at the John Adams birthplace on Monday afternoon.

After the transaction of important business and a discussion of what was for the best good of the chapter, a patriotic paper was read and a social hour followed. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Osborne Rogers of Hancock street.

Hallowe'en Party.

Miss Jessie Warren of Billings street was given a Hallowe'en party by her sister, Miss Gertrude Warren last week. The eerie conception of the night was carried out during the entire evening. The guests were ushered in by a spectre who maintained a creepy silence, and the way to the dressing-room was pointed by another sheeted spirit at the top of the stairs. When the visitors were all seated a third rover from the charnel house commanded them to be silent, and while they listened breathlessly, it related a hair-rising ghost story. When it came to the word "death" the listeners screamed aloud and the spell was broken. A general good time followed in which every hallowe'en game was introduced. Prizes were offered, the fortunate ones being Miss Grace and Miss Ruth Parker, Master Gordon Jenkins and Master Malcolm Hinkley. An artistic and delightful repast was served at the close of the evening. There were fourteen guests present.

WOMAN'S CLUB INFLUENCE.

Organizer of Clubs Says They Don't Educate Her Sex.

The education of woman by the club method to prepare her to assume a higher and more responsible place in the world's affairs has been declared by one of the most prominent club women in Colorado to be a flat failure. Mrs. Sophia Lovejoy Dickinson, who has probably done as much as any one woman inorganizing clubs, in an interview at Denver said:

"Such women as Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton little dreamed of the extent of the club movement which would follow their work. Their suggestion was not a new sphere for women, but a broader outlook, a better education, till she was competent to take her share of the world's work. They would see woman develop in all life's relations—the self, home, social and civic relation.

"As a class women are conservatives. They closely follow race inheritance. What they feel is expected of them they do. The world expects them to be honest, therefore they do not steal large amounts nor forge signatures. The world expects them to be virtuous, and some are. Whether they are equally moral may well be questioned. Their idea of truth is often very feminine, and their growing tendency to kleptomania is alarming. The world has not demanded much beyond the self and home relation, and only a narrow view of these.

"The average woman's club is too indefinite, too anxious to please men, too busy, bustling, too self centered to allow the members to help on the real and important work of the world. Women are self deceived; they think they are in earnest, but rarely are; they are interested in their relation to things, but not in the thing itself. They are much like children in the way they conduct business and assume responsibility, and their sense of an obligation is often very faulty. If the weaknesses which I have enumerated are not suppressed, the entire club movement will degenerate into a social function."

A FAMOUS SALVATIONIST.

The Influence of Mrs. Booth-Tucker's Pleadings on a Young Ruffian.

When she was a child the late Mrs. Emma Booth-Tucker, wife of the commander of the Salvation Army in the United States, was inspired with an intense hatred of cruelty.

One day when she was thirteen she was out for the usual walk with the governess in her father's family, England, when a donkey cart drove past, and the sensitive girl noticed the boy belaboring the donkey with a stick. She called out to him to desist, but he only laughed and hit the harder, says the Chicago Tribune.

Snatching herself away from the governess, Emma ran after the cart, and after a long chase at length overtook it and caught the reins. The boy leaped down and tried to pull the donkey away, but he had met his match. Snatching the stick from his hand, she showered blows upon his head and shoulders, saying:

"There, now! How do you like it?"

The boy could have overpowered her easily, but her tears and pleadings proved more powerful than her blows. He surrendered unconditionally, and, kneeling at her request beside the donkey in the dusty road, he prayed forgiveness for his cruel act. As they arose the conquered ruffian apologized for having taken her so far out of her way, and seated beside him Emma road in triumph back to her home.

Some remarkable stories have been told from time to time concerning Mrs. Booth-Tucker's kindliness and generosity and her ceaseless endeavors to relieve distress wherever she found it. It is related that even when a mere child she seemed to feel a deep responsibility for the condition of other children less fortunate than herself and sought to aid them in her youthful way.

Alleged Methods of Japanese Spies.

Some of the best work done by Japanese spies has been done by pretended converts to the Greek church, says Francis McCullagh, the Tokyo correspondent of the Chicago News. These converts were always to be found poring over their Japanese Bibles, the margins of which were covered with annotations in some form or other of Japanese script. Their piety and diligence were much admired by the local pope until a Russian who could read Japanese and who did not believe in converts came along and discovered that the marginal notes in one of these Bibles were all important items of military information that could not have been obtained honestly.

A Thrifty Kansas Woman.

Marie Morrison, a milliner of Joplin, Mo., received notice the other day that she had fallen heir to $50,000 by the death of her grandfather in Germany. She is a thrifty and sensible little woman, however, and did not throw up her job as soon as the news came, says the Kansas City Journal. Instead she said: "Were the amount twice as much I would still continue my work, for I love it and have made my own living so long that I would feel entirely lost without employment. I will, however, take a trip to Germany later on."

Effect of Athletic Exercises on Girls.

It is beginning to be suspected, says the Chicago Record-Herald, that the gymnastic exercises which make a young man graceful and supple and vigorous tend to produce in a young woman leanness and stiffness and angularity, besides being a menace to the delicate adjustments of her anatomy, and it has been discovered to be clearly evident that a girl's college yell should without a doubt be set to music.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Ernest G. Gay, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., has moved his family from Winchester to the McDonnell house on Bridge street.

Auctioneer Wilson will sell groceries and provisions and other goods on Wednesday afternoon at McDonald's store at Brewers corner.

Mrs. C. Alice Litchfield, who has been at Braintree the past three months, has returned to her daughter's home on Bigelow street.

Miss Emma D. Conklin, the artist, who has been spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Marden of Coddington street, has returned to her home in New Jersey.

The annual missionary barrel to be sent by the Woman's Guild, early in November, goes to St. Philipp's Mission, (colored,) at Bedford, Va., in charge of the Rev. Dallas Tucker.

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Langley left last week for Pawtucket, R. I., where they will make it their future home, Mr. Langley having accepted a position as manager, of a large hardware establishment in that city.

Deputy Bertha O. Gibb will be accompained by a delegation from May flower lodge Friday evening on her visit to Quincy lodge, New England Order of Protection of this city, at which time the anniversary of the lodge will be celebrated.

The Guild of St. Perpetua is interested in work for missions. It is preparing a Christmas box to be sent Nov. 20 to the Rev. Edward Ashley, missionary to the Indians in Cheyenne River Reserve, South Dakota. The box is to contain thirty garments, thirty bags of candy and thirty toys.

The residents of Walker street whose back yards are near Holbrook's field are looking for the parties who find the field convenient for a public dump. Complaint was made last year and the grievance done away with for a time, but the last few weeks piles of ancient relics ranging from old shoes to glass and even clothes are seen at intervals through the field. The offenders choose the night for work, so all trace of them is lost. However the offended are of that spirit that they never say die.

Distress After Eating

Nausea between meals, belching, vomiting, flatulence, fits of nervous headache, pain in the stomach, are all symptoms of dyspepsia, and the longer it is neglected the harder it is to cure it.

Accept no substitute for Hood's.

"I had dyspepsia twenty-five years and took different medicines but got no help until I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Have taken four bottles of this medicine and can now eat almost anything, sleep well, have no cramps in my stomach, no burning and no distress." MRS. WILLIAM G. BARRETT, 14 Olney St., Providence, R. Opticians and Opticians.

'Tis the Pedler Optician. I heard him complain:
"Im tired of tramping, I must rest once again."
So he settles him down for a month or two's rest,
And will charitably (?) give your eyes a "free test."

When later you find that your "specs" are not right,
You also will find that he has skipped in the night,
That your fine gold-bowed glasses are nothing but brass,
That you have the "experience," while he has the cash.

If you are troubled with headaches or defective sight, shun all pedlers and strange opticians. Consult WILLIAMS, who has fitted glasses to thousands upon thousands right here in Quincy during the past sixteen years.

He has all the latest instruments that scientists can devise and every facility for dark room examinations.

He will tell you frankly about your case and will not burden you with glasses if they are not necessary.

You cannot miss it if you go to

CITY COUNCIL.

plans. Five who have been on the committee a number of years were in favor, and one who had been a member only two meetings was opposed. Wright has made three sets of plans, Gould but one. Under the Gould plans 450 extra pupils could be accommodated, as there were three extra rooms on each floor. It is proposed to take the principal's room as part of one room. The hall is to be divided into rooms later when second wing is added. Gould guarantees to build the north wing for $4500. Councilman believed he knew what he was talking about. There have never been any specifications in the Committee with the Wright plans, but they bobbed up in the School Committee.

He then explained by the plan how the wing was to be built. He also read letters from several contractors stating that work on the present building could be done during school vacation. The difference is but $2,000 or $3,000 and the city will have a building that will look like something. It was time we had a High school that looked like a high school and not like barracks or an almshouse. If Wright's plans went through he would thank God he had tried to defeat them.

Councilman Nickerson asked where he got his extra room by the Gould plan. I want him to figure it out by area. You cannot seat 450 in the new part; only by using part of the present building.

Councilman Whiton—If the Gould plans will accommodate the pupils with less area, so much the better. He is not stringing it out like a rope walk. When he gets through you have something.

Councilman Nickerson—True, but he is building three wings.

Councilman Polk favored report of majority. We have some figures before us they are very misleading. Attempts have been made on the part of certain members to have plans of a certain architect accepted. There is an attempt to mislead. Four plans were sent to the expert. The letter says the Wright plans are the most expensive but it does not show in the figures. I want these plans fought out on their merit alone. It was the almost unanimous opinion of the joint committee that Gould plans were the best. They can be built without closing the school, and as cheap as the Wright. There are other builders besides Howard Bros. Gould was no relative of his as bad been stated. He then read letters from Cambridge and Wakefield authorities commending Gould's work.

The Gould plans are for three additions. He makes a compact building when completed. The Wright plan has two wings and makes a long drawn out building. Gould changes the front, Wright does not. Gould will make an ornamental building. There are three sets of Wright plans. The plan that went to the School Committee was thrown out. A new plan was made carrying out the same idea on a smaller scale.

Councilman Johnson favored minority report. The Gould plan tears out most of the inside of the present building and the work can not be done during the vacation. We do not want to spend money for a tower. It is room we want. The plans and figures show it is not possible for 450 extra pupils under the Gould plan except by using some of what we already have.

The Gould plans tear down $15,000 of the present building for which we get nothing. In the Wright plans we get the rooms where we want it and the school is not closed.

Councilman Reardon wanted the best plan at least expense. He thought School Committee should be here to state wherein the Gould plans are better. Was surprised that members from Ward Two, where they had such a beautiful building which was by Wrights' plans, should not think his good. What we want is a school is utility and not beauty. The gentleman also criticises one of the School Committee. He had a right to vote as he thonght best. He hoped minority report would prevail, there must be some merit in it when six members of the committee signed the minority report.

It is evident that someone did not give Gould figures as to what was wanted. All we need is an addition at the least expense. The Wright plan did that.

Councilman Nichols—If the minority report passes it will close the matter of enlarging the school, and the work of the committee for two years will have been for naught. It is apparent the joint committee cannot agree. It is evident that the School Committee approved the Gould plans for some reasons It would seem advisable to have the School Committee before the Council and tell us why they withheld approval of Wright plans. He had been informed that the School Committee had been solicited to permit the statement to be made that they would approve the Wright plans that the minority might be accepted. He moved the matter to be laid on the table and the School Committee invited to appear before the Council.

After some discussion for and against the motion it was passed by a vote, 11 in favor and 10 against.

EUGENE R. STONE FOR COUNCIL.

A Young Man Worthy of Support at the Ward Two Republican Caucuses.

Eugene R. Stone, who lost the election as Councilman from Ward Two last year by five votes, is again in the field for the Republican nomination, with a strong support Last year, it will be remembered, he was tied at the caucuses, with Mr. Thompson, and both ran on nomination papers, thereby splitting the Republican vote. With the Republican nomination this year he will be handsomely elected.

Mr. Stone is a successful young man of good character, who is worthy of the support of the voters. He was born in Boston in 1871 and educated in that city. In 1890 he accepted a position in the public building department of a New York concern, remaining with them until 1898, having advanced to superintendent of construction.

In 1898 he accepted a position at the head of the public building department of the Magee Furnace Company, where he now is

He has always been a Republican in politics, and has been a resident of Ward Two several years.

The petition for lights on Merrymount street was taken from the table and referred to the Mayor.

Councilman Piper introduced an order for the distribution of the income of the C. C. Johnson fund by the Overseer of the Poor at Thanksgiving time. Voted.

Upon motion of Councilman Bass it was voted that the Committee on Elections be requested to meet Nov. 3 to canvass the election returns.

Councilman Langelier had the letter of R. R. Wasson taken from the table, nd offered an order appropriating $10,500 for the purchase of the Wasson lot on Newbury avenue for a new schoolhouse. Read once.

Councilman Smith offered an order for $68.04 for refund of taxes to Dennis Coffey. Voted.

The ordinance relative to use of air guns, etc., took a second reading.

Orders to refund to F. J. Pierson and the Swedish Lutheran church one-half the cost of permanent sidewalk took another reading.

Adjourned at 9.40 to meet Wednesday evening, Nov. 11.

Basket Ball.

The newly organized Quincy team will have for their opponents on Thursday evening at the Coliseum, the strong Lakeview A. C. five of Cambridge. The team will be augmented by the addition of Kimball, Gibson and Collins of last year's crack Hingham team. If last year's performances can be regarded as any criterion these men should prove a great drawing card as they did the best work last year for the team which was considered the best ever organized south of Boston. Adams Academy will meet some High School team (probably Weymouth) in addition to the Quincy Lakeview game.

Removal.

Dr. Sherman, the dentist, is no longer located in the Durgin and Merrill Block, having taken an office in the new Hancock Building over W. G. Shaw's furniture store.

To Open Season.

At Music Hall, Quincy, Thursday evening, a strong sweet sympathetic play will be given for one night. "A Woman's Sacrifice," showing man's passion for woman, and woman's love for man, has been the dominating theme for play since time immemorial, but in no play is a woman's love for man shown in all its intensity as in this new sensational domestic drama, and beside the play has specialties between each and every act, making it one of the most agreeable evenings spent in this city.

Wild Duck Social.

The members of the Engineering Department of the high level sewerage works met at Houghs Neck on Saturday afternoon, the occasion being a duck spread. Three large and juicy ducks were soon de(duck)ducted from the table. All join in thanks to Inspector Corning, who furnished the ducks.

BETTS GETS SEVEN YEARS

Sentence Afterward Suspended Pending Question of Writ of Error

Boston, Nov. 3.—Frederick E. Betts, convicted on nine counts of using the mails for fraudulent purposes, was sentenced by Judge Lowell to seven years' imprisonment, but owing to the inability to come to any conclusion as to whether a writ of error would be allowed this sentence was later revoked. Final disposition of the case will be made this evening. When Betts left the court room he was free to go where he pleased. There is a question as to whether or not the bondsmen of Betts were not freed from their obligation when they had him in court and sentence pronounced. They had done all that they had agreed to do.

Betts was the junior partner in the firm of J. M. Fisher & Co., with offices in Boston and New York. J. M. Fisher, the senior partner, was, according to the testimony, merely a figurehead. Betts would write to various parties, representing that his firm was stockbrokers and was engaged in the formation of a pool which would raise the price of securities. He solicited their investment. From New York false quotations would be telegraphed to the Boston office, showing that the securities had depreciated rather than increased in value. Customers would then be requested to contribute more money.

On Track of Express Thieves

Boston, Nov. 3.—After hunting vainly for a mysterious gang of express robbers who were supposed to be plundering their delivery wagons all over the city, the Automobile Express company was astonished to learn in connection with the arrest of J. O. Goodwin and G. F. Reynolds that the stealing was all being done among their employes. From $400 to $800 worth of articles have been disappearing regularly each month. Other arrests are expected to follow.

Board Penetrated Abdomen

Providence, Nov. 3.—A freight train and a string of empty passenger cars came together in a rear end collision in a freight yard here last evening and Louis F. Gould, 38 years old, who was brakeman on the caboose of the freight train, was instantly killed. The caboose was splintered and a piece of board with a spear-like point penetrated Gould's abdomen.

Epidemic of Diphtheria

Bath, Me., Nov. 3.—The board of health has decided to close up the schools of the city for an indefinite period, owing to the prevalence of diphtheria, 70 cases having been reported to the board. The attendance of the public schools has fallen off 10 per cent since several cases of diphtheria developed.

Embezzler Towne Sentenced

Boston, Nov. 3.—Three and one-half years in the jail at Greenfield was the sentence pronounced by Judge Lowell in the case of Orr N. Towne, Jr., a former deputy solicitor of internal revenue, who confessed several months ago to the embezzlement of over $5000 of government money. Towne had pleaded guilty.

Wanted Fresh Air—and Got It

Hyde Park, Vt., Nov. 3.—Leon Heins, who has been in the county jail since last June awaiting trial for burglary, has escaped. Heins was allowed to go out into the yard of the jail for fresh air, and while the officer's back was turned he succeeded in slipping out of the gate and into the woods.

Masked Robbers In Nutmeg State

Monroe, Conn., Nov. 3.—Two masked burglars entered the house of Arthur Curtis during Curtis' absence and after locking a farmhand in the kitchen, chloroformed Mrs. Curtis, who was sick in bed. Then they ransacked the house and escaped with several hundred dollars, leaving no clue.

Carriage Accident Brought Death

Littleton, N. H., Nov. 3.—Mrs. Scott W. Powers, aged 47, was almost instantly killed last night in a collision between a carriage in which she was seated and a hotel barge. A rib was broken and her right arm crushed, but it is thought that a shock was partially responsible for death.

Father and Daughter Killed

Palmer, Mass., Nov. 3.—Leonard Aldrich of Blackstone and his daughter, Mrs. Emma Knowles of Westfield, were killed by a freight train at Three Rivers while crossing a railroad bridge. Both were struck by the engine and thrown into the river. The bodies were recovered.

Woman Burned to Death

Exeter, N. H., Nov. 3.—After suffering intensely for several hours Miss E. M. Tufts died last night from burns received while raking leaves into a bonfire on her father's lawn. She was 23 years old and a daughter of Professor Tufts of Odlin academy.

Stabbing May Prove Fatal

Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 3.—Adelbard Thebeault was stabbed by an unknown man last night and is likely to die. The police have arrested Angela Rosco and are looking for two other Italians. A knife wound four inches deep had punctured a lung.

Walden, Vt., Nov. 3.—While fooling with a gun which they thought was not loaded, Harris Domey, aged 17, shot and instantly killed his brother, Israel, aged 20. A charge of shot entered the right eye of Israel.

CHOICE OF GOVERNORS

Being Balloted For In Seven States of the Union

MINOR OFFICERS IN OTHERS

Interesting Contests In Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Maryland—McClellan Adherents Show Confidence by Preparations For Celebration

Washington, Nov. 3.—Elections are being held in 12 states today. Full state tickets are to be voted for in Massachusetts, Ohio, Maryland, Rhode Island, Iowa, Kentucky, and Mississippi. In Pennsylvania, Nebraska and Colorado a justice of the supreme court, regents of the state university, or minor state officers are to be chosen. In New York the whole state will vote for a judge of the court of appeals and a referendum on the $101,000,000 canal project.

Among the most interesting state contests in the east are in Massachusetts, Maryland and Rhode Island. In Maryland Senator Gorman has raised the race issue. The fight is said to be close, with the chances slightly favoring the election of the Democratic candidate for governor, Edwin Warfield. In Rhode Island Republicans are confidently predicting the defeat of Lucius Garvin, the present governor. Pennsylvania will elect an auditor general, treasurer and two judges of the superior court. New Jersey will elect members of a legislature that will choose a United States senator to succeed Senator John Kean.

In the west the most interesting fight is in Ohio, where Myron T. Herrick and Tom L. Johnson are the rival candidates for governor, and where Marcus A. Hanna and John H. Clark are struggling for members of the legislature who will elect a United States senator. In Iowa Governor Cummins, the father of the "Iowa idea," is making his second race for governor, his opponent being Jeremiah Sullivan as the candidate of the Democrats. The Populists also have a ticket in the field. Governor Beckham is seeking re-election in Kentucky. His Republican opponent is Morris B. Belknap. The Democratic ticket in Mississippi has no opposition. The contest in Nebraska is for a justice of the supreme court and regents of the state university. In Colorado the Democrats made a straight-out nomination for justice of the supreme court, the Populists putting up one of their own party.

Figures From New York City

New York, Nov. 3.—With every indication of a close struggle the leaders of fusion and Tammany are loud in their predictions of overwhelming triumph. So confident is Charles F. Murphy in his estimate of 100,000 plurality for McClellan that he has issued orders to go ahead with the preparations for a rousing celebration of the victory. The estimate of John J. Delaney, McClellan's personal campaign manager, places the plurality at 85,300.

While abating nothing in confidence the fusion leaders claim no more than 30,000 plurality for Low, although it is said that their closest estimates point to a majority of about half that figure. The fusionists pin their faith in victory on their ability to carry Brooklyn by at least 25,000, which, with estimated pluralities of 3000 in The Bronx and 2000 in Richmond and a drawn battle in Queens, will suffice to handsomely offset a conceded plurality of 12,000 for McClellan in Manhattan.

Not to lag behind the other combatants in confidence W. S. Devery announces that he expects to poll not less than 45 percent of the total registered vote. Devery was elated when Police Commissioner Greene consented to have his returns telephoned to headquarters with those of Low and McClellan instead of being sent in by messenger with those of the rest of the field. Considerable interest attaches to the size of the vote that Devery will control and it may have a serious influence on the result.

In the Bay State

Boston, Nov. 3.—The most heated campaign that has been waged in Massachusetts in a number of years ended last night. Both sides are getting out a very large vote, in spite of the fact that this is a year in which no members of congress are chosen. The managers of both parties are confident of success, but estimates of probable pluralities have not been given out since Saturday. E. F. McSweeney, campaign leader of Mr. Gaston, leader of the Democratic ticket, says: "We are perfectly satisfied. The voters will tell our story." Chairman Talbot of the Republican state committee has this to say: "Issues have passed away, but the people of the state can be depended on to recognize honesty and fidelity such as Mr. Bates has given."

Situation In Rhode Island

Providence, Nov. 3.—The Democratic leaders expect to win the state election by about 2000 plurality, which would be a loss of 5000 from last year's vote, while Republicans express their belief that Colt will have a plurality of from 5000 to 7000 votes. As regards the complexion of the legislature both parties agree that the senate will undoubtedly be Republican.

Apathy In New Jersey

Newark, N. J., Nov. 3.—Except in the cities where there are mayoralty contests a light vote is being cast in New Jersey. The Democrats will have to elect all their candidates to get control of the senate and such a result is generally considered highly improbable.

Looking Toward National Contest

Baltimore, Nov. 3.—It is agreed on all sides that this year's contest has been one of the most stubbornly fought campaigns in the history of Maryland. The predominant feeling with voters and leaders is that the struggle is not merely of state importance, but that it is to have a bearing on the national contest next year. The leaders of both parties declare their confidence in today's result.

Off Year Majority Expected

Philadelphia, Nov. 3.—The general opinion as expressed by the Republican leaders is that Pennsylvania will give its usual off-year majority for the Republican candidates. The Democratic state chairman and other state Democratic leaders decline to give figures, merely contenting themselves with the idea that a full vote will be cast. There is a split in the Democracy.

Republicans Sure of Iowa

Des Moines, Nov. 3.—Non-partisan observers predict a Republican plurality of 40,000 to 50,000 in Iowa. Democratic Chairman Jackson admits a Republican plurality of 20,000.

Where Republicans Are Scarce

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 3.—There is little or no interest in the contest today as the Democratic state ticket has no opposition. It is doubtful if there will be 25,000 cast.

Quiet In Colorado

Denver, Nov. 3.—The election of a justice of the supreme court is a quiet one. The Democrats and Republicans both are claiming a victory.

$60,000 Fire In Bakery

Boston, Nov. 3.—Two firemen were injured and a loss of $60,000 was sustained during a fire which practically destroyed two large brick buildings of the J. G. & B. S. Ferguson bakery plant. The firemen were struck by falling ladders, receiving painful injuries to head and body. Starting in the hayloft of the large building used as a stable the fire spread quickly to all parts of the stable and then communicated to the first of two large brick structures wherein were located the great ovens and other baking apparatus. By effective work the fire was confined to the stable and the building to which it first spread. Sixty-two delivery wagons were also partially burned.

How We Will Snub Colombia

Washington, Nov. 3.—It is intimated at the state department that it may be a long time before United States Minister Beaupre returns to Colombia, once he departs on his leave of absence. The inference is that the minister will stay away as a sign of disapproval by our government of the manner in which the canal treaty was disposed of. Secretary of Legation Snyder will remain in charge at Bogota.

Trackmen's Wages Reduced

Mahanoy City, Pa., Nov. 3.—Rather than accept a reduction in wages of 1½ cents an hour several hundred trackmen employed on the Philadelphia and Reading railway have struck. A cut of 2 cents an hour was also made on the Lehigh Valley railroad and the employes on this road threaten to strike.

Repairs Will Cost $700,000

Washington, Nov. 3.—Seven hundred thousand dollars is the estimated cost of necessary repairs to the battleship Indiana, contained in the survey of that vessel received at the navy department. The survey contemplates new boilers and a general overhauling of the vessel.

A MARINE MUSEUM.

Wealthy Men of San Diego to Found Scientific Institute For California.

The University of California is about to receive a valuable gift from the citizens of San Diego, Cal., in the form of a marine biological laboratory equipped and endowed with sufficient funds to keep a corps of scientists at work all the time, says a San Francisco special to the St. Louis Republic.

The decision of the San Diegans to found such an institution is the result of the work of Professor W. E. Ritter, who spent last summer on San Diego bay and conducted the summer school there, the expenses being footed by the people of San Diego.

The San Diegans recently formed an organization to be known as the Marine Biological association. Its purpose is stated to be to found and endow the San Diego Marine Biological institution, the objects of which, according to the preamble to the bylaws, will consist in "carrying on a biological and hydrographic survey of the waters of the Pacific ocean adjacent to the coast of southern California, to build and maintain a public aquarium and museum and to prosecute such other kindred undertakings as may be deemed wise."

After the institute is founded and sufficiently endowed it will be transferred to the University of California, so that it may become a department of the university, co-ordinate with existing departments.

Professor Ritter is to be director of the institute. In explaining the needs of such an institute to the people he said that the southern coast was rich in marine life and a good field for exploration. He urged the founding of an institute that would prosecute its researches continuously through salaried investigators, not by individuals who work according to their resources.

The members of the San Diego association are men of means, and they are expected to subscribe a fund large enough to yield $10,000 a year, which, it is estimated, the institute will cost. The officers of the association are: President, Homer H. Peters; vice president, Miss Ellen Scripps; secretary, Dr. Frederick Baker; treasurer, Julius Wangenheim; directors, E. W. Scripps and James MacMullin.

REVIVING GREECE'S SPIRIT.

American In Classic Dress Will Live In a Temple.

The London Chronicle's Athens correspondent telegraphed that he recently had an interview with Mr. Duncan, one of the Californians who made such a sensation in the ancient Grecian city by walking about the streets in ancient Greek dress.

Mr. Duncan intends to build a studio and a house in the form of an ancient temple on a hill not far from the Acropolis on a site presented to him by the government. He says his family has come to Athens to study the old Greek spirit, which he believes to be identical with the modern spirit of Haeckel.

To have healthy human feelings in your body, he added, you must wear rational, simple dress. The garments which his family wear were made in Athens with the exception of the sandals, which are of Mexican origin. At Athens even the Macedonian question palls before the intense interest shown in the three Americans. The Romeos, the Athenian Punch, which is entirely written in verse and intensely clever, devotes the whole of one day's recent issue to the subject.

ODD DISCOVERY IN A TREE.

Hiding Place For Plunder Found by Bee Hunters.

Bee hunters have discovered near Henry, Ill., an odd bee tree. It was found that a hollow space was lined with sheet iron, and upon further investigation there was detected a sliding panel skillfully covered with bark, says the Chicago Post.

It is believed that this tree was once used to secrete plunder. Thirty years ago a strange character made his home in the woods near the tree, and at times he made a considerable show of valuables. He disappeared as suddenly as he came, but he was careful to take all his property with him, as nothing of any description was found in the queer hiding place.

Markings of Alaskan Boundary Line.

The Alaskan boundary line, as it is figured out from the cabled award, is approximately 850 miles long, says a Washington dispatch to the New York Tribune. It is to be fixed for all time by the erection of monuments. These monuments will be placed at distances varying from one mile to five miles apart, according to the nature of the territory. These monuments will be of iron, if the policy adopted with reference to the Northwest Territories boundary is followed. The survey and erection of these monuments are to be accomplished under the direction of a joint scientific commission, of which the American members will be selected from the coast and geodetic survey and undoubtedly headed by O. H. Tittman, chief of that service. This work is to begin, under the terms of the treaty, "at once," but is likely to last several years.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

The location is the best of any hall in the city. The street cars pass the door with a turn out right in front of the Hall.

The floor is of selected maple laid with the greatest care, and is kept in perfect condition, being covered with canvas when not used for dancing.

The ventilation—a most important consideration—is such as to keep the air pure with even a crowded hall and without causing any drafts.

The Hall is lighted by electricity, brilliantly and pleasantly, and with a switchboard arranged so that all desired effects can be obtained in the Hall proper or on the stage. Gas is used as an auxiliary light.

The heating is direct—indirect, ample, and giving the most healthful results.

The Stage has been designed with care, and is furnished with a particularly generous supply of attractive and appropriate scenery.

In case of fire the re pails of water and chemical fire extinguishers throughout the Hall. There is an asbestos fire curtain by which the Stage can be instantly cut off from the Hall proper. There are nine (9) doors opening from the Hall and five (5) separate exits.

GENUINE INDIAN FIGHT

In Which a Sheriff and His Deputy Were Killed

RANCHMEN STIRRED UP

Have Started In Search of Redskins Who Are Accused of Killing and Stealing Cattle In Addition to Illegally Slaughtering Game

Denver, Nov. 3.—Five hundred men, including the sheriffs' posses, augmented by volunteers from the ranches adjacent, are searching the country in the vicinity of Lightning Creek, Wyoming, for the band of Indians which on Saturday afternoon fought a battle with Sheriff Miller's posse, killing the sheriff and Deputy Fossenburg. The latest advices are to the effect that a second battle has been fought and 10 Indians killed and 11 others captured, but this statement has not as yet been verified.

News from the scene of the trouble, which is 25 miles from telegraphic communication, is very meagre. The Indians, 75 in number, are said to be under the leadership of Charlie Carries Elk, and are supposed to be Sioux from the Pine Ridge and Rosebud agencies in South Dakota. They had been hunting in Converse county, Wyo., in violation of the game laws of the state.

Sheriff Miller, with a posse, went to the scene of their depredations last Saturday to arrest them. The Indians had received warning of the coming of the whites and prepared an ambuscade for them. The posse would have been entirely annihilated but for the fact that they were proceeding cautiously and were prepared for some trick on the part of the Indians. At the first volley from the Indians Sheriff Miller and his deputies ran to cover and then ensued a genuine Indian fight. The whites found refuge behind trees and boulders.

It is thought that at least six Indians were killed and several others wounded, among the latter being Eagle Feather, a subordinate chief. The battle lasted almost an hour, when the Indians began to make their escape by ones and twos on horseback. They carried their dead and wounded with them and are now believed to be well on their way to the "bad lands" in Nebraska. The officers did not attempt to follow, but sent a courier to Lusk, the nearest telegraph office, with a message to Governor Chatterton, apprising him of what had occurred.

The news of the battle spread rapidly and every ranchman for miles around armed himself and joined one of the numerous posses. The governor wired the interior department at Washington that the Indians must be immediately arrested.

For the past two weeks the Indians have been in northeastern Wyoming, slaughtering game in violation of the game laws. In addition the settlers have been complaining that the Indians have been killing and stealing their cattle. Settlers warned the leaders of the band to leave the country, but the redskins only laughed at them. They claimed the government had so reduced the amount of their rations that they were forced to kill game to keep from starving. Charlie Carries Elk openly declared that if he and his followers were driven too far they would fight.

When Sheriff Miller of Weston county was notified of the refusal of the Indians to get out of the state he organized a small posse and started for Beaver creek, along which the redskins were encamped. On Friday the Indian camp was reached. It was deserted by all except the squaws, children and a few old men, who were busy skinning wild animals and preparing the meat for winter use. The entire camp was placed under arrest and sent to Newcastle, in charge of Lieutenant Hilton.

The posse then started a search for the braves. They were located Saturday and during the afternoon Sheriff Miller and his deputies started to close in on them. When the whites got within rifle range of the Indian camp they were suddenly fired on and the battle followed.

But China Must Not Expect Us to Oppose Russin Plans

WE CAN INTERFERE LATER

When Ratification of Commercial Treaty Will Place Us In Position to Insist on Strict Regards For Our Treaty Rights Throughout China

Washington, Nov. 3.—Immediately after a visit to the state department, Sir Liang cabled to Pekin the answer of Secretary Hay to China's appeal for assistance in checking Russia in Manchuria.

The Pekin authorities are aware by this time that until the ratification of the American-Chinese treaty, which was signed on Oct. 8, pledging to the world the opening of Mukden and Antung, it will be impossible for this government, in view of its traditional policy of steering clear of foreign alliances, to protest against Russia's continued occupation of Manchuria.

It has been pointed out to China that, although the sympathy of the United States is hers, the time for American interference has not yet come. It is expected that the commercial treaty, which should arrive at Washington this week, will be ratified at the extra session of congress, when the United States will be in a position to insist on a strict regard for her treaty rights throughout China. The Pekin government has been told that infringement by Russia of American treaty rights in Manchuria will furnish the Washington government the opportunity for at least reiteration of its desire for the preservation of the integrity of China.

Japan, it is learned, has instituted a vigorous investigation regarding the extent and character of Russia's reoccupation of Mukden. Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, when asked whether Russia and Japan contemplated an understanding by which the one would obtain a free hand in Manchuria and the other important concessions in Corea, replied by calling attention to a recent official announcement from Tokio that the negotiations at the Japanese capital between Russia and Japanese officials were, so far as Japan is concerned, strictly in accord with the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

Mr. Takahira has not been advised of any appeal from Russia to Japan and says that his conference with Secretary Hay yesterday concerned another matter.

Reports From the Far East

London, Nov. 3.—In a dispatch from Che Foo the correspondent of The Morning Post says the appointment of M. Belivineff, a Belgian, to be adviser of the department of the interior points to Russian ascendancy in Corea. The Russians in Manchuria oppose the opening of Mukden.

The Novikrai (newspaper), the correspondent continues, declares that the treaty between China and the United States should not be ratified because it would ruin Russian railway traffic in Manchuria.

The Tien Tsin correspondent of The Standard says it is reported that the Russians recently purchased 8000 acres of land around Mukden and are building extensive barracks.

The Tokio correspondent of The Daily Mail reports a serious affray at Chemulpo, Corea, between Russian bluejackets belonging to the gunboat Bohr and Japanese bluejackets from the cruiser Chiyoda and a number of Japanese residents of Chemulpo. Ten Japanese and several Russians were injured.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Mail says the Russian government has decided to expel all of the Japanese living long the route of the Manchurian railroad, having discovered that many of them were spies.

Suicide Added to Murder

Centreville, Mich., Nov. 3.—Brought to bay in a swamp by bloodhounds and a posse of citizens and officers, Floyd Lamb, who killed his wife and wounded his mother-in-law at the latter's home, surrendered and immediately shot himself dead, shouting to his captors that he preferred death to prison. Threats of lynching had been made.

Russian Influence Rejected

Sofia, Nov. 3.—The triumph of the government in the elections is now complete. M. Zankoff has failed to secure re-elections and his party has been utterly routed. This indicates that the country does not desire Russian influence and condemns the anti-dynastic tactics of the opposition.

Dowie Endorsement For Roosevelt

Washington, Nov. 3.—President Roosevelt received the endorsement of J. A. Dowie of Zion City, Ills., in an interview granted to members of Dowie's business cabinet who are on their way from New York to Zion City. The president expressed his appreciation.

Savings Bank For Negroes

Richmond, Nov. 3.—A savings bank for colored people, with a colored woman for its president, has begun business here. It is under the auspices of the colored order of St. Luke. The first day's deposits amounted to $75,000.

General Guilty of Disobedience

Denver, Nov. 3.—The court martial which for some days has been trying General Chase, by a vote of 6 to 4 found him guilty of technical disobedience of orders. He is commander of the state militia.

CITY BREVITIES.

Rural lodge is moving into the new Hancock building.

The Tawasentha club will hold a social this evening.

Edward Hardwick and family have moved from Franklin street to Quincy Point.

On Thursday the Guild of St. Perpetua will meet with Miss Whittacre, Safford street.

Miss Etta Brown has accepted a position as clerk and pianist in the new confectionery store.

The Wollaston foot ball team will play the Revere eleven at Merrymount park on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Joseph Halmis, who formerly resided on Highland avenue, has moved to Hamilton street, Wollaston.

Alexander Hall and family have moved from Independence avenue to the Kincaide house, on Franklin street.

Miss Lottie Harris of Coddington street was the guest of her sister, Mrs. John J. Durham of Canton, last week.

Mrs. Sarah Kincaide of Franklin treet has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. George Lewis of Malden, the past few weeks.

Rich is the word that describes the appearance of C. F. Pettengill's new store in the Welch block. He makes a very attractive display.

The first of the four car floats for the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. was launched at the Fore River yards today. Another will take to the water next week.

Mrs. Frank H. Ratcliffe of Newton, Mrs. Thomas Pearce of Epping, N. H., and Mrs. George Hall of Dorchester visited relatives in this city last week.

There will be a meeting of the Alliance in the vestry of Wollaston Unitarian church, on Wednesday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock. A paper will be given by Mrs. Frank W. Pratt, and the usual social half hour will follow.

Councilman George E. Adams, who has been a member of the Council for three years and has served on several of the important committees, is again a candidate from Ward One, and should make an able representative for that ward.

A preliminary meeting in the interests of an Eastern Star lodge will be held this evening in the Probate court room. The lodge will be instituted Saturday evening in the old Masonic hall, with 50 to 60 members. Mrs. Henry P. Furnald will be worthy matron.

All who have visited the new clothing store of the F. D. Fellows Co. in the Dr. Welch block have been surprised to find such an attractive store. Even the stock is new, and the assortment is large. All the space is used to good advantage and there are good displays in all lines. By night the store is brilliantly lighted so that one can examine fabrics as well as by day.

ENTERTAINING ALASKANS.

First Visit of Young Indians to a Modern City.

Not in a long time has Seattle, Wash., entertained a more interesting party than the thirty young Americans who came down on the steamer City of Seattle the other day and saw for the first time the big buildings, the street cars, railroad trains and other things that go into the making of an American city, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

These thirty young people are Alaska Indians, who were on their way to the Carlisle Indian school in Pennsylvania, to be educated in the ways of the white man at the expense of the government. Every boy and girl in the party was born in Alaska, and some of them bear historic names.

Though they walked the paved streets of a city for the first time in their lives, not for an instant did they show any surprise, and before they had been in the city two hours the boys of the party were down around the depot watching the trains come and go and visiting the docks to see the big ships. Nearly all of the young Indians come from the Ketchikan district, and all of them understand and speak English. Quite a number of them are nearly white and have none of the facial characteristics of the Indian of the northwest. They were soon on the streets on an exploring tour. The peanut venders and fruit stands caught their eyes at once, and very soon every one of the boys carried a bag filled with something to eat, while he took a good view of the business district of the city. The totem pole in Pioneer place made them feel right at home, and they paid their respects by gathering around that monument from an Indian graveyard and pointing out to each other the different animals and tribes represented.

A riot was nearly precipitated when an interested observer asked a boy of sixteen if he was a Siwash.

"Who you calling a Siwash?" he inquired, while the blood leaped to his face. "You call a man a Siwash and you get shot."

The man in search of information hastened to appease the wrath of the young fire eater by assuring him that he meant no offense and that he merely wanted to know what tribe he belonged to.

RICE AND ROSES.

Practical and Sentimental Side of a Wedding Innovation.

Brides come and go, and when they go it has been the custom from time immemorial to throw rice after them. The fashion of going away gowns changes from year to year, but the nuptial cereal that finds its way into the creases of these gowns remains ever the same. But at a recent English wedding in high life a deviation was made from this time honored custom, and the departing pair were pelted with dried rose leaves. Of course this innovation has its practical and sentimental side.

On the practical side it will appeal to those thrifty housewives who have deplored the number of possible puddings that have gone to waste at weddings and have sadly estimated the number of hungry mouths that they might have fed. Of course rose leaves have something of a sentimental suggestion, but the fact that dried rose leaves are used would seem to imply that romance had entered the sear and yellow leaf stage, and then again the question arises, How is it possible to throw a thing of such airiness and unsubstantiality as a rose leaf? Yet no doubt if this custom is permanently adopted in England it will soon find its way to American wedding celebrations.

Hereafter it will be the scent of dried rose leaves rather than the presence of rice that will betray bridal couples, and do what these interesting individuals will to hide their identity and newly marriedness the scent of the roses will cling to them still.

Latest In Hairdressing.

The "smartest" women, married or single, are wearing their hair low on the neck, says the New York Press. Some of the extremists have it sprawled over the shoulders in the loosest possible knot. The examples of Miss Elsie Whelen, Mrs. E. Moore Robinson and Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt may be cited. With evening gowns these women are returning to the old fashioned "waterfall" of a half century ago. Soon we may see women in public with their hair "a-hanging down their backs." Last summer when Miss Schenck and Miss Roche wore their hair in plaits "just for the fun of the thing," nobody took them seriously, but in the wake of these pigtails has come the low coiffure. The hairdressers are promoting this fashion with enthusiasm, as few women have the art of arranging their own low knots.

The Guinea Pig That Went Wrong.

At the recent meeting of a Parisian temperance society three guinea pigs were inoculated with various forms of alcohol and one with nice pure water and then put away till the end of the meeting, when the lecturer brought them out again triumphantly to show the shocking results of alcohol. Most unfortunately, however, says the Liverpool Post, the only ill guinea pig was the teetotal one, and the moral was simply shocking.

New Work For Tramps.

A new occupation is opening for tramps in England. They station themselves near a police trap and warn approaching motorists of danger and as a result are rewarded with donations of small pieces of money.

Mr. Frith's Portrait of Dickens.

It was early in the fifties that John Forster asked me to paint a portrait of Dickens for him. I gladly consented and was about to propose a day for the first sitting when Forster stopped me by mentioning what he called a most unfortunate propensity which Dickens had developed—he was actually growing a mustache! "'Tis just a fancy of the moment," said Forster, "and we must wait till the craze has passed away." A very few months convinced us that the mustache, so far from passing away, was rapidly growing into what threatened to be a formidable beard, so, unless one-half of the face was to be lost to us, no more time should be lost. My idea was to paint him in his working clothes, but when I found that he always wore a light bright blue silk coat with big red cuffs every morning when he took pen in hand I remonstrated so successfully that after a little hesitation he consented to wear the black jacket in which he now appears at South Kensington.—W. P. Frith, R. A., in King, His Navy and Army.

Audubon and His Hair.

Audubon, the great naturalist, early in his career wore his hair very long. He wrote in his diary one day: "I wear my hair as long as usual. I believe it does as much for me as my paintings." However, in 1827 his friends succeeded in persuading him to get his hair cut according to the prevailing fashion. On March 19 of that year he wrote in his diary: "This day my hair sacrificed and the will of God usurped by the wishes of man. As the barber clipped my locks rapidly it reminded me of the horrible times of the French revolution when the same operation was performed upon all the victims murdered by the guillotine. My heart sank low." Further to express his grief the margin of the page on which this entry was made he painted black about three-quarters of an inch deep all around.

Eagles In the Tennessee Mountains.

There are many eagles in the Tennessee mountains, and consequently there are many mountaineers who are expert catchers of the young eagles. These reap rich rewards in return for their perilous risks and adventures, and some of them receive as much as $2,000 for a single year's catch. The keen eyed hunters watch the nests until the young are hatched and then, patiently waiting for the mother bird to leave in search for food, make short work of the capture, while the mother bird is invariably shot to death upon her return to the nest and in her frenzied search for her young. Bolder hunters than these make attacks at night, while the less experienced use snares and nets, a method, however, in a majority of cases, unsuccessful.

Cast Iron.

By altering the rate of cooling the strength of iron can be greatly changed, and the test bars are often run separately from the casting and cooled quicker, so that they usually have greater strength, sometimes more than twice as much. Separately cast test bars are always stronger than those cast on the castings itself, and of the latter the one nearest the heaviest part of the casting is always the weakest. The remedy, as above indicated, is simple when the false witness has once been pointed out.

An Apt Headline.

An English weekly, speaking of headlines, tells of an excellent one which appeared over a story of the Pigott forgery. In that case one of the devices by which Sir Charles Russell brought the unfortunate forger to bay was by getting him to write the word "hesitancy." In the forged letter the word was misspelled "hesitency." The day the flight of Pigott was announced an editor suggested the headline, "The Man Who 'Hesitetes' Is Lost," and it was so excellent that it was immediately put in type.

Smell and Taste.

The sense of smell is most nearly allied to that of taste. Hearing and seeing depend upon nerve responses to vibrations in the air and in the ether. In order to taste a substance it has to be wholly or partially dissolved; in order to smell a substance it must encounter the olfactory organs as a vapor, an emanation, a cloud of particles arising from odoriferous matter.

Burial.

"How much better I like the word 'burial' than 'funeral.' The burial is just the fulfillment of our latest prayers. 'None of self and all of thee.' The poor pettiness of that which is not living and loving and so glorified in him, all buried away, and nothing precious in his sight, and so in ours, can be buried there!"—"Letters of Emelie Russell Gurney."

Sporting Blood.

Blizzer—I heard that Bilgewater jumped out of his yacht and was drowned.

Buzzer—Shocking! Did he do it with suicidal intent?

Blizzer—Oh, no! He was racing and did it to lighten his boat and thereby win the race.

A Mean Trick.

"That's the meanest man I ever ran across," said the book agent.

"What has he done?"

"Kept me calling day after day, and finally said he didn't care anything about reading, but he enjoyed hearing me talk."

SATISFIED WITH BATES

Republicans of Massachusetts Elect Ticket by 37,000

OHIO IS STILL REPUBLICAN

Their Plurality on Joint Ballot In Legislature More Than Triples Any Previous Record—Close Contest In Rhode Island, With Indications of Election of Democratic Governor—Democrats Victorious In Maryland—About 225,000 Republican Plurality In Pennsylvania—Results of Contests In Other States

Boston, Nov. 4.—John L. Bates was re-elected governor of Massachusetts by a plurality of about 37,000 over William A. Gaston, the Democratic candidate. With a dozen cities and towns to hear from, Bates had a lead of 32,315, but as the missing towns are all strongly Republican there is every indication that the plurality of the Republican candidate will be practically the same as that of last year, although the total vote will run higher.

The legislature remains practically unchanged as far as the Democrats and Republicans are concerned, but the Socialist party, which had three members last year, will only be represented by one, who comes from Brockton. The Socialist vote fell off considerably from last year, and the failure to re-elect Representative Carey of Haverhill, one of the party leaders, and a member of the lower branch of the legislature for the last five or six years, was one of the features of the election.

The balance of the state ticket was also re-elected, and the party will have the usual majority of two to one in the legislature of 1904.

The state ticket elected was as follows: Governor, John L. Bates of Boston; lieutenant governor, Curtis Guild, Jr., of Boston; secretary, William M. Olin of Boston; treasurer, Edward S. Bradford of Springfield; auditor, Henry E. Turner of Malden; attorney general, Herbert Parker of Lancaster.

Although it was an off-year as far as national issues were concerned, and there were but few local contests to arouse interest, the outpouring of voters was fully as large, if not larger, than on previous years, which repaid the party leaders in a great measure for their earnest work during the campaign.

The early returns all showed that Governor Bates had made slight gains in the small towns and cities, but this was overcome by the Democrats through their rolling up a fine vote for Gaston in Boston. The party managers in this city increased Gaston's plurality of 13,000 last year to nearly 20,000 this year, and practically succeeded in counteracting the work of their opponents outside the Hub.

The election passed off very quietly, with no unfortunate incidents at the polls, and with increased familiarity with the work, the election officers succeeded in canvassing the vote several hours earlier than on any previous year.

In addition to electing their state ticket the Republicans were also successful in retaining control of the governor's council by the usual proportion or 7 to 1, the single Democrat being Michael J. Sullivan of this city.

Governor Bates has this to say: "I have given the best 10 years of my life to the service of Massachusetts, and I never loved her more than now. The result means the continuance of those constructive policies that the Republican party in this state is pledged to carry out; it means progress for Massachusetts and all her interests. It will further be repeated as an indication of the attitude of Massachusetts in the great national contest of next year. It shows that she believes that the policies under which she has grown great are the policies adapted to keep her great, and that she is satisfied with the administration of that great Republican leader, Theodore Roosevelt."

In a statement issued last night Colonel William A. Gaston said: "The Republican reserve vote has come out, and Governor Bates has evidently been aided by heavy accessions from the Socialistic column. I am pleased to have received the undivided support of the Democratic party and take this occasion to acknowledge my thanks for it."

RHODE ISLAND

Providence, Nov. 4.—With a vote so close that the result is still in doubt Republican and Democratic party leaders both claim the state. Indications, however, point to the re-election of Governor Garvin (Dem). He has certainly lost heavily from last year's figures and the Republican state committee maintains that his small but acknowledged lead shown in the figures at hand will be overcome in sections yet to be heard from. Owing to the fact that many towns are inaccessible by telegraph or telephone and for the additional reason that the polls did not close until 7 o'clock, the returns came in very slowly. According to districts reported this morning Garvin has a lead of about 2500 over Colt (Rep).

OHIO

Columbus, O., Nov. 4.—The Republicans broke their record in Ohio in pluralities for governor by electing Myron T. Herrick (Rep.) over Mayor Tom L. Johnson (Dem.) by consideably over 100,000. The plurality on joint ballot of over 100 in the legislature for the re-election of Senator Hanna more than triples any previous record.

On account of the vote on five constitutional amendments the counting was delayed all over Ohio. As early as 10 o'clock interest slackened, as there was not any doubt about the result and the only question was as to the size of the state plurality and the majority on joint ballot for senator. It is evident from the talk that the Democrats who opposed Johnson will continue their organization to prevent him from controlling the next Democratic state convention or naming the Ohio delegates at large to the national convention.

Chairman Dick of the Republican committee said the result was due to "the remarkable personality of Hanna, popularity of Herrick, endorsement of Roosevelt and the state administration," and that these conditions brought about harmony among the Republicans, while the Democrats were divided into factions and especially "one great faction that repudiated the single tax and other fads and isms of Tom L. Johnson."

PENNSYLVANIA

Philadelphia, Nov. 4.—Estimates indicate a plurality for Mathues (Rep.) for state treasurer of 217,784. Snyder, for auditor general and Morrison and Henderson for judges of the superior court, were given approximately the same immense plurality. Snyder, who became the object of criticism because as a state senator he voted for what is popularly known as the "press muzzle" law, was apparently cut very little. The returns indicate Republican gains in 49 counties and Democratic gains in the remaining 18 counties. It is apparent from the nature of the estimates received that the official count will increase the Republican plurality to such an extent that it may exceed 225,000.

IOWA

Des Moines, Nov. 4.—Returns indicate the re-election of Governor Cummins by a plurality of 60,000 and of his associates on the Republican ticket by substantially the same pluralities. At Democratic headquarters so large a plurality is not conceded. The legislature returns indicate little change from two years ago, when the house contained 82 Republicans and 18 Democrats, and the senate 40 Republicans and 10 Democrats. The Democrats may gain two or three members of the house.

MARYLAND

Baltimore, Nov. 4.—The returns from Baltimore city and the Maryland counties are meagre, owing to the length of the ballot, and therefore it is impossible to accurately estimate the result. The indications, however, point to the election of Edwin Warfield (Dem.) as governor over Stevenson A. Williams (Rep.) and that the legislature, which will elect a United States senator, will also be Democratic.

NEW JERSEY

Trenton, Nov. 4.—The election in New Jersey resulted in the Republicans, who controlled all branches of the state government, making a gain of two in the house of assembly. There were six senators to be elected. Four of the retiring members were Republicans and two Democrats. The next senate will stand 14 Republicans and 17 Democrats. The new house of assembly will consist of 36 Republicans and 24 Democrats.

NEBRASKA

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 4.—The Republican state central committee makes the claim of the election of Barnes for supreme judge and the entire Republican state ticket by not less than 10,000 plurality. This claim is considered conservative and the returns tend to confirm it. It will require a fusion landslide to overcome the plurality of 12,000 of two years ago. First reports were all favorable to the fusionists but the later returns have almost wiped out the early gains.

KENTUCKY

Louisville, Nov. 4.—The re-election of Governor Beckham (Dem.) over Morris B. Belknap (Rep.) by a majority of fully 15,000 is assured. The Republicans concede the election of Beckham. The day in Louisville was an exciting one and the election was bitterly fought. The Republican managers claim they have proofs that in 32 precincts in this city the polling places in Republican precincts were either kept closed all or a part of the time or removed to obscure places. They also charge ballot box stuffing.

MISSISSIPPI

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 4.—It is doubtful if the vote in this state will reach 30,000. The Democratic ticket, headed by J. K. Vardaman for governor, is elected. An entirely new legislature was chosen, which will elect two United States senators. Senators Money and McLauren, who were nominated in the August primaries, will have no opposition.

COLORADO

Denver, Nov. 4.—There is little doubt of the re-election of John Campbell (Rep.) for judge of the supreme court. The vote has been light throughout the state and returns are very incomplete. The News (Dem.) concedes the election of Campbell.

VIRGINIA

Richmond, Nov. 4.—The elections in Virginia, which was for members of assembly, have resulted in a Democratic sweep of the state. There were few contests, the field as a rule being left open to the Democrats.

Two Murder Suspects

New York, Nov. 4.—Nathan Chapman, a painter, was held on a charge of wife murder, and Mrs. Delia Lupo was arrested on suspicion of having shot and killed her husband, Morris Lupo.

BIG TAMMANY VICTORY

McClellan, Grout and Fornes Win In New York

FUSION FORCES ARE ROUTED

Tremendous Change of Public Sentiment Since Low Was Elected Mayor —A Gain of 103,000 as Compared With Democratic Vote of 1901

New York, Nov. 4.—After a remarkable campaign, in which there was united against him nearly all of the newspapers and practically every minister of religion in the city, George B. McClellan, son of the Civil war general, was elected third mayor of Greater New York, over Seth Low, fusion candidate, the present mayor, by the large plurality of about 70,000.

Edward M. Grout was elected comptroller and Charles V. Fornes president of the board of aldermen. These two men were originally on the fusion ticket and were endorsed by Tammany, whereupon the fusionists took their names from the Low ballots and nominated other candidates. It was the nomination of Grout and Fornes by Tammany that caused Hugh McLaughlin, the veteran leader of the Kings county Democracy, to bolt and declare that he would not support men who were not Democrats. In spite of his defection, however, McClellan, Grout and Fornes carried Kings county. The management of their campaign there was taken over by State Senator McCarren, to whom McLaughlin refused his aid.

A surprise was the low vote for William S. Devery, former chief of police, who ran on an independent ticket, which was given practically no support. This result shows a tremendous change of public sentiment since Mayor Low's election two years ago when he won by 31,632. At that time he carried all the boroughs but Queens, his plurality in Manhattan and the Bronx being 5663, in Brooklyn 25,767 and in Richmond 763. In Queens, Shepard (Dem.), had a plurality of 561.

McClellan carried Manhattan and the Bronx by about 58,000, a gain of 63,600; Brooklyn by about 6000, a gain of 31,000, and Queens by about 5000, a gain of more than 4000. This makes a total net gain for McClellan of about 103,000, as compared with Shepard's vote of two years ago.

Low carried only one borough—Richmond—by about 200 votes.

Of the five borough presidents voted for, the Democratic candidates were successful in the Bronx, in Manhattan, in Queens and in Brooklyn. In Richmond (Staten Island) Cromwell, fusion, was elected.

The result was known early and at 8:15 Mayor Low entered his office and to the newspaper men said that he was about to send the following telegram to Colonel McClellan:

"I congratulate you on your election. If I can be of service to you, pray command me."

The mayor then said: "I think that the telegram sums up all that I have to say tonight."

The victory, great as it is for McClellan, is of more significance to Charles F. Murphy, who made up the Democratic ticket and who managed the campaign. Defeat would have meant for him deposition from his post as leader, with all its powers and opportunities, and the accession to control of another faction.

The campaign was one of the most interesting in the history of New York city. From the day Mayor Low was renominated his supporters urged his re-election on the ground that no partisan question was involved, but that every man should vote to uphold the existing administration because it had given the city a business-like conduct of affairs and because it had done much to stamp out the "red light" evil of the East Side.

Low's principal supporting orator was District Attorney Jerome, who bitterly opposed the mayor's renomination on the ground that he was unpopular, but who, after the nominating convention, made frequent speeches for the fusion ticket. For McClellan, Bourke Cockran returned to political activity and made several speeches.

Scarcely second in interest to the defeat of Low is the effect of the result of the vote on the fortunes of Hugh McLaughlin, who for more than a quarter of a century had been the undisputed leader of the Kings county Democracy and who now finds that his former lieutenant, McCarren, was able to so manage McClellan's canvass that a Democratic plurality resulted in spite of McLaughlin's spirited opposition.

From the fall of darkness till long after midnight the tenderloin was the scene of noisy revel. The vigorous hum which commenced as the first few bulletins appeared soon grew into the most tremendous human demonstration of delirious joy that the tenderloin or the city itself has probably ever seen.

Republican Majorities Up State

New York, Nov. 4.—Returns from the state indicate the election of Republican mayors in Syracuse, Elmira, Plattsburg, Rochester, Albany, Binghamton, Watertown and Oneida, W. T. Coleman defeating Mayor Sheehan for re-election in Elmira. In Oswego, Schenectady and Troy Democratic mayors were elected.

Returns from the assembly districts up state indicate a few gains by the Republicans, the returns showing four Republican assemblymen in districts formerly represented by Democrats. From many of the up state assembly districts, however, no reports have been received.

Returns from all assembly districts of the state gave the Republicans a net gain of six in the assembly, with two districts in doubt, thereby increasing the Republican majority in the state assembly.

The latest returns indicate that the barge canal proposition to widen and deepen the state canals so as to admit of the passage of 1000-ton barges has been carried by a majority of about 175,000. The proposition carries with it an appropriation of $101,000,000.

"Stoker Mayor" Re-elected

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 4.—Mayor Dennis Mulvihill, known as the "stoker mayor," was carried in a triumphal procession during the celebration of his re-election at the polls in the biennial election. With him practically the entire Democratic ticket was carried into office. Mulvihill defeated George E. Hill (Rep.) by 2218 votes in the greatest poll in the city's history.

Charters Again Successful

Ansonia, Conn., Nov. 4.—Mayor Chalters, a former labor union leader and heading the Democratic ticket, was re-elected to office over W. H. Joy, Republican, in the bi-ennial election. The margin was 40 votes.

Decision Not Accepted as Final

Washington, Nov. 4.—There are indications that the British government is not to accept as final the action of the Indiana extradition commissioner who refused to hold for extradition the Irishman Lynchehaun, charged with murderous assault upon his landlady in Ireland. An inquiry into the precedent in such cases discloses the fact that the action of the Indiana commissioner does not prevent the bringing of new extradition proceedings. It is believed that the British authorities regard the principle involved in this Lynchehaun case as of the greatest importance, and consequently they are expected to prosecute it further.

Afraid to Show Up

Pekin, Nov. 4.—Prince Ching and Wang Wen Shao of the foreign office, the two officials who conducted the recent Manchurian negotiations with Russia, were absent from yesterday's conference at the summer palace of high officials with the dowager empress, (concerning the reoccupation of Mukden by the Russian troops). The familiar plea of illness was their excuse for non-attendance, but it is believed in official circles that they had been representing to the dowager empress that Manchurian affairs were progressing satisfactory and were reluctant to face the revelations likely to be made at the conference.

Americans Killed by Savages

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 4.—Steamer Kaga Maru, from the Orient, brings advices that the castaways from the American ship Benjamin Sewall, which was abandoned off Formosa, are believed to have been killed by savages of Botel Tobago island, 45 miles south of Formosa. Those missing were Nat Morris, Henry Adams, Peter Johnson and Thomas H. Sickle, all Americans. It was reported at Yokohama that the United States ship Wilmington and two Japanese vessels are searching the island.

Cowardly Attempt to Kill

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 4.—Twelve shots were fired at Captain Ewen, the star witness in the feud cases recently tried in Breathitt county, as he passed along Walnut street last night. The shots were fired from a blind alley. One went through his hat and another through the lapel of his coat, but none of them touched him. He was walking along with Judge Mann, at whose home he is staying, and the judge has just crossed the alley in front of Ewen when the firing began.

Courageous Boy Saved Sister

Jersey City, Nov. 4.—John Sullivan, 9 years old, saved the life of his sister, Katie, 7 years old, whose clothing had caught fire from a bonfire which she and other children had built. The other children ran away, but the boy succeeded in beating out the fire with his bare hands, although not before the girl had been shockingly burned. The boy was also badly burned. The girl's condition is critical. The boy will recover.

HOW TO GAIN FLESH

The life of food is the fat within it—the more fat the more real benefit from the food; that is why cod liver oil is a powerful builder of flesh.

Scott's Emulsion of pure cod liver oil solves the problem of how to take cod liver oil. That is one reason why doctors have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion for all wasting diseases, coughs, colds and bronchitis for almost thirty years.

One of the inducements offered in order to substitute something else for Scott's Emulsion is the matter of cost. You save a few cents at the expense of your health. Scott's Emulsion costs more because it does more and does it better than the substitutes.

VIEWS ON EUTHANASIA

New York Pastor Advocates Easy Death For Incurables.

A MUNICIPAL PLAN OUTLINED.

The Rev. Merle St. C. Wright Would Divide City Into Districts and Have Scientists and Clergymen Pass Upon "Requests" to Die—Noted Physicians Decry Dr. Wright's Idea.

The address which attracted more attention than any other delivered at the recent annual banquet of the New York State Medical association held at the Hotel Manhattan in New York was made by a clergyman, the Rev. Dr. Merle St. C. Wright of the Lenox Avenue Unitarian church in New York. He placed himself on record as favoring euthanasia, which in medical parlance is the putting of incurables to death. The suggestion, which caused much surprise because of its source, was received none the less with hearty applause, says the New York Times.

Mr. Wright had previously suggested that doctors ought really to teach their patients more than they do and that they might look upon their profession a little more from the ethical standpoint perhaps. But when he touched on the subject of euthanasia he admitted frankly that it was simply a dream. As a dream, however, he had no hesitancy in advocating the doctrine. He recalled an instance in which a man's life had been saved after a disaster at Spuyten Duyvil, and he said:

"They did save his life, though for what practical purpose I cannot tell, unless possibly for a damage suit. I appreciate the practical difficulties in the way of the application of the doctrine, but it seems to me that it is not beyond the bounds of possibility. Of course it would be necessary to have the advice and approval of men of the highest scientific attainment. The city might be divided into districts, and every application should be considered most carefully, not merely by physicians, but by some eminent clergyman selected for the purpose. And, of course, there should be the consent of relatives and the consent, even the request, of the patient himself. But where all these conditions are fulfilled and where the prolongation of life is simply the prolongation of hopeless agony it seems to me that it would be proper that such a patient should quietly, decently, modestly, be allowed to end the sufferings. It seems to me that such a course would be a step forward in civilization and a step further away from barbarism."

One of the speakers after Mr. Wright was John S. Wise, a former congressman of Virginia, who said in part:

"I cannot agree with some of the advice which some of your profession has received tonight. For either a lawyer or a doctor to give too much information to his clients or patients would be to give away the snap to the men who pay him. That would be destroying the goose that lays the golden egg with a vengeance. Still less do I favor the advice that when patients become practically useless to kill 'em. I know of a country where that custom is practiced, and if the gentleman is really serious in his advocacy of it I will use all my influence to secure him the mission.

"I have heard of a gentleman who spent one summer up in the arctic regions and got very well acquainted with a family of natives, which included the father of the household. When he went there the next summer he missed the old gentleman and was informed in a matter of fact way that the head of the family had killed his father. 'Yes,' he said, 'he got so old he couldn't work, and so I shot him.'

"Now, if any one likes that sort of way I guess that's just the way that will suit him. But for some of us here I'm afraid the question would arise, Aren't we getting along pretty close to papa's age?"

Here are the views of several New York physicians on the Rev. Merle St. C. Wright's theory:

Dr. George F. Shrady said that modern science tended to an exactly opposite course.

"We are giving to the weak the latest developments of practice and research," said Dr. Shrady. "Persons once considered incurable are now amenable to successful treatment. It is absurd to discuss the dream of the clergyman with seriousness. Rather than a step farther away from the barbarians, as he says, it is retrogressive toward the practice of elimination which yet holds in some savage tribes. It is to the glory of the medical profession that a case is not considered without hope until the last vital spark is extinguished."

Dr. E. C. Spitzka believed that it would open the door to a criminal condition. There would be opportunity to do away with diseased persons for ulterior motives.

"Who shall say that a person should be disposed of?" he asked.

Dr. Gill Wylie said that no doctor is so infallible that he will say a disease is incurable.

"Nature, by kind provision, dulls the extreme sensibilities of many so called suffering patients. Their relatives and friends suffer more than they do," was the way he put it.

Dr. Andrew H. Smith recalled a case where a laborer, caught in a cleft in a ledge by the rock dislodged by a blast, was badly crushed. There was no way to rescue him except by other blasts, and he was relieved of his injuries, which were of themselves fatal, by death administered as painlessly as possible.

"Such a remarkable condition as that would be the only excuse," he remarked.

Good Afternoon

Only twenty cities and towns in the State gave Gov. Bates a larger vote than Quincy, but there are more that are larger in population.

The reelection of Gov. Bates is a handsome endorsement by the people. He was the people's choice, and if any governor ever deserved a reelection it was Gov. Bates.

Congratulations to Representatives Fallon and Freeman upon their reelection; also to Senator Brackett, the most popular candidate. Mr. Brackett was a Quincy man, and we are pleased with his success.

Mayor Bryant was about as near as possible on his estimate of the State vote for Governor. By the early returns he was about 7,000 too high for Gov. Bates and 500 too high for Mr. Gaston. But one of the Globe's estimates was nearer on plurality, because all set it too low.

City Clerk Keith has notified the chairman of every ward committee in the city—Republican, Democrat and Socialist—Chap. 453 of the Acts of 1903 requires that: "Immediately after the polls have been declared closed, BUT NOT BEFORE, the ballots shall be counted in full view of the voters." Instruction is also given for prompt returns to City Hall. With caucuses as large as last year it may be midnight before the result is known.

The Idea!

Messrs. Fallon and Freeman Re-elected Representatives.

QUINCY STANDS BY GOV. BATES.

His Plurality About the Same in a Smaller Total Vote.

Senator Brackett Again Receives a Larger Vote Than the Governor.

Every Ward of the City Votes in Favor of Acceptance of Luce Joint Caucus Act.

In a total vote about 200 smaller than last year, Quincy gives Gov. Bates a plurality but 20 smaller than in 1902. The vote of the city was: Bates, 1,877; Gaston, 1,387; Chase, 393; Brennan, 55; and Cobb, 23.

The Socialist vote shows the greatest falling off all along the line, the loss by Chase being heavier than for all the other candidates for Governor combined. The vote of W. M. Packard of Quincy for Senator is also much smaller in the city than last year.

Again in the Representative contest, Mr. Fallon was high man, and Representatives Fallon and Freeman are reelected. Edward J. Sandberg, the other Republican candidate was third being about 75 behind his colleague, Mr. Freeman, and about 100 behind Mr. Fallon. Mr. Sandberg was high man in Ward One and Mr. Turner in Ward Three, but Mr. Fallon led in Wards Two and Four, and Mr. Freeman in Wards Five and Six.

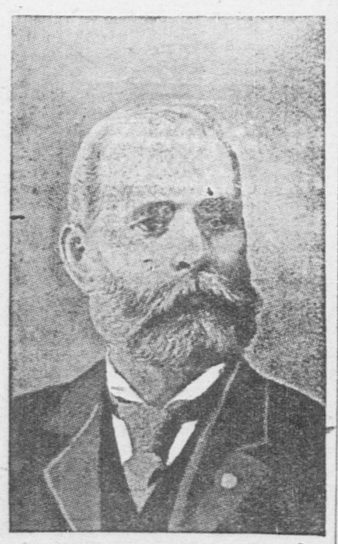
The vote of the Wollaston ward for Gov. Bates was 454 and Mr. Freeman received 458, but his colleague received but 336. Again, in the Atlantic ward, Gov. Bates received 207, and Mr. Freeman 215, but Mr. Sandberg received but 168.

Senator Brackett again led Gov. Bates



HON. WILLIAM N. OLIN.
Secretary of State.

and received more votes than any of the other candidates who had but one party nomination. The candidates for county officers had more but they were nominated by Republicans and Democrats.

The Luce Caucus Act for joint caucuses next year was adopted by a vote of 131 to 1140. Every ward in the city voted in favor of it, but it was close in Wards Two, Four and Six, and at precinct two in each of these wards was against the act. There were more blanks on the question than there were votes in favor.

The full vote of the city for all candidates is given on page five by precincts:

The Returns.

The returns from the different precincts throughout the city were received promptly at City Hall. There was quite a crowd in the corridors waiting to receive the returns, the main interest centering in the contest for Representatives in the Quincy double district.

Unofficial returns began to arrive early in the afternoon, and they were closely followed by the official returns, so that by 6.30 every precinct had been heard from but Ward Five. At that hour Mr. Fallon led Mr. Freeman by 500, and Mr. Sandberg led Mr. Freeman by 60.

Then the unofficial returns from Ward Five were received by telephone. These settled the question, and showed that Messrs. Fallon and Freeman had been reelected. The announcement was received by some cheering. There were many exclamations of surprise at the large vote received by Mr. Turner, the Socialist candidate.

The first official returns were received from Ward Three, Precinct two, at 5.18 and the other precincts came at short intervals until 6.46, when everything was in but Ward Five. At 7.30 o'clock a telephone message was received from Wollaston stating that the officer had started for City Hall with the official returns.

HON. JOHN L. BATES.

As time slowly slipped by, and the officer did not appear, it was evident that he had become lost, and efforts were made to locate him without avail. He finally put in his appearance at 8.55. Where he had been all the time is a mystery as he volunteered no explanation.

The time at which the official returns arrived follow:

Ward Three, Precinct Two	at 5.18
Ward Two Precinct Two	at 5.38
Ward One, Precinct One	at 5.40
Ward Six, Precinct One	at 5.53

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

It will be late tonight before the returns of the Republican caucuses are all in.

Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Dion have returned from a two weeks' gunning trip to Canada.

Mr. Blank was the most popular candidate for Representative to the General Court.

It is expected the six masted schooner William L. Douglas will leave the yards the first of next week.

Rev. E. C. Butler preached before the union service of Unitarian churches at Salem last Sunday evening.

Over 100 photographs of scenes in the Hawaiian Islands are no now exhibit at the Thomas Crane public library.

Mrs. Jacob Hersey passed away this morning at her residence on Washington street, Quincy Point. She was 83 years of age.

The alarm from Box 446 at 8.13 Tuesday night was a false alarm, and was probably rung in by some one who wanted to celebrate Representative Fallon's victory.

John R. Graham came up from Bangor, Me., Tuesday to vote for Gov. Bates. Although located in Bangor, Mr. Graham retains his residence in Quincy and votes here.

All those who attended the "Old Maid's Conventions" will not want to miss the old-fashioned Husking Bee at the Bethany chapel Thursday evening. It will be one of the most amusing entertainments ever held there.

The police have learned that the carpenters' tools found in the possession of John F. Roberts, who was arrested by Officer Lyons on Hancock early Sunday morning, were stolen from a new house on Hancock street near the Tubular Rivet works.

Thanksgiving Turkeys.

The demand upon the Poor Department for turkeys from the Johnson fund has become so great that the $80 received in interest from that fund is not sufficient, and many worthy persons are often refused.

Last year when the matter was called to the attention of Mayor Bryant, he informed the Overseer of the Poor that he could call upon him for $50.

The same condition has arisen this year and Monday evening Mayor Bryant informed Overseer Cunningham that he could call upon him for $100 to help out the Johnson fund. In doing this Mayor Bryant is carrying out his idea of donating his salary as Mayor to worthy objects, of which coal last year claimed a good part.

—Alaska, it is now said, packs canned salmon every year of a total value not less than $8,000,000. And other products of that northern region are by no means inconsiderable. When Uncle Sam bought Alaska from the Russian Bear he assuredly made no bad bargain.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, in buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

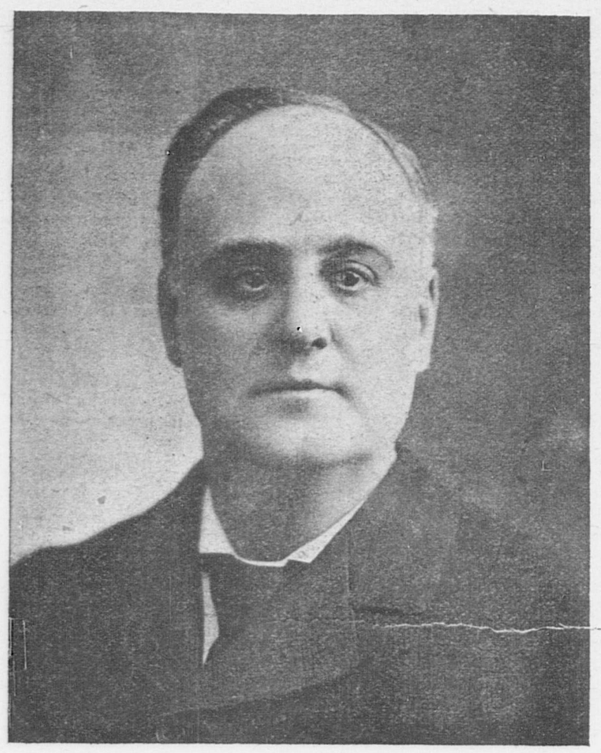
SENATOR BRACKETT RE-ELECTED

Receives a Handsome Plurality in the First Norfolk District of 2200



The First Norfolk Senatorial district is not yet in the doubtful column, for Senator Brackett, the Republican, is re-elected by practically 2200 plurality, one of the largest pluralities given to any of the Massachusetts senators.

The Republican town of Milton did not do itself proud by refusing to stand by the Republican candidate who came from that town, but the Democratic candidate was also from Milton.

Quincy gave Senator Brackett a handsome plurality of 961, and he also made gains in Hyde Park, Weymouth, Braintree and Holbrook, both in vote and plurality.

The vote of W. M. Packard, the Socialist candidate, is not complete.

ATLANTIC UNITED.

In Favor of the Wason Lot for a New Schoolhouse.

To the Editor of the Ledger:

As a resident and taxpayer of Ward Six, I would like to say a word through your columns in regard to the public hearing of Friday evening, Oct. 30, on the school house lot.

The matter, it seems to me, is so simplified now that the only question is whether the City Council really intend to give us a school house or not.

The sentiment at the meeting demonstrated clearly that the Wason lot is the only one now to be considered. Should the committee spend half an hour in Atlantic I am satisfied they would be convinced that at the price, this lot of land would cost no more in the end than the other lots under consideration, and it is at least worth from 5 to 8 cents more a foot, being in the centre of the village with a neighborhood fully established.

Atlantic is suffering for another school house. The Wason lot ought to be secured now, while it can be bought at the price named.

I earnestly trust that when the new order comes up for another reading in the Council it will be settled at once, and Ward Six given what it so much needs, a good clean respectable place for her school children.

The shabbiest school house in all Quincy today is in our ward and we can see no reason, now that we are united on a lot, why the Council should not act at once and vote to secure the Wason lot.

Charles L. Coe.

The Catholic Faith.

The next meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian Club will be addressed by Father Gasson, S. J. professor of ethics at the Boston College. His talk will be on the "Essentials of Religion as contained in the Catholic Faith." This meeting is preliminary to others where the "Essentials of Faith" will be set forth be speakers representing other denominationns.

NEW REVOLUTION IS ON

Panama Said to Have Proclaimed Independence

WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE

Determination Speedily Reached to Despatch Warships to Isthmian Waters, With Orders to Proceed With All Possible Speed

Washington, Nov. 4.—Sensational advices were received here last night from the Isthmus of Panama to the effect that a revolution was in progress and that independence had been proclaimed. President Roosevelt at 9 o'clock sent for Secretary Hay, Acting Secretary of the Navy Darling, Assistant Secretary of State Loomis and Rear Admiral Taylor, chief of the bureau of navigation, to come to the White House, where, after a conference lasting nearly two hours, orders were dispatched to the Dixie and the Atlanta, on the Atlantic side, and to the Boston, on the Pacific coast, to proceed with all possible speed to the isthmian waters to aid the Nashville in protecting American interests and maintaining a free transit across the isthmus in accordance with the treaty of 1846.

Orders were also sent to Rear Admiral Glass, commanding the Pacific squadron, consisting of the Concord, Marblehead and Wyoming, at Acapulco, to coal immediately and hold itself in readiness to proceed on a moment's notice to Panama. When the Baltimore reaches San Domingo orders will be cabled her to go to the isthmus if the situation demands her presence.

After the conference the statement was authorized that the sole purpose of the dispatch of the vessels was the protection of American interests and the maintenance of open transit on the isthmus. The most explicit instructions are being cabled to the American consuls at Panama and Colon and to the commander of the Dixie, who will be in charge of the vessels on the Atlantic side, to direct all their movements with this end in view.

The further statement was authorized that the state department regards the situation as serious, but that the arrival of the Nashville yesterday and the immediate dispatch of the other vessels insures the protection of American interests.

The rejection of the Panama canal treaty is generally supposed to be the moving cause of the revolution, but no official information on this subject was obtainable.

Dr. Herran, the Colombian charge, attributes the uprising to the intense desire on the part of the people of the isthmus for the construction of the canal and on this account feels that the movement is more serious than the attempted revolutions heretofore.

Dr. Herran was much interested but not surprised at the report of the revolution, as he has been aware for some time of the desperate feeling of the people on the isthmus and had gone so far as to warn his government that some such occurrence was likely to take place. Dr. Herran expects to get information from his government soon, as in his judgment the revolution will not interrupt cable communication with Bogota. According to his estimate there is less than 1000 government troops in the state of Panama at the present time. But, according to his latest information, there are three Colombian government warships on the Pacific side of the isthmus and three or four on the Atlantic side. The government has 50,000 troops under arms in the interior and on the western coast, and those can be moved by transports to Panama or vicinity, but could not be sent overland.

Dr. Herran does not expect any speedy recognition by the United States of a government formed at Panama, but realizes that this government will keep the transit open on the railway and may find it necessary in so doing to support any government in the city of Panama that is in control, which would be greatly to the advantage of the revolutionists.

The state of Panama has a population of about 250,000 people and it is really the poorest portion of the republic of Colombia. There has been some sympathy with Panama and a trend toward independence of those states west of the mountains on the Pacific side and bordering on the Carribean sea on the Atlantic side. These states are also interested in the construction of the canal, while the people of Panama think the canal is a life and death issue.

Two Generals Imprisoned

Panama, Nov. 4.—The independence of the isthmus was proclaimed at 6 o'clock last night. A large and enthusiastic crowd, of all political parties, assembled and marched to the headquarters of the government troops, where Generals Tovar and Agava, who arrived yesterday, were imprisoned in the name of the republic of Panama.

The enthusiasm was great, and at least 3000 of the men in the gathering were armed.

Usual Claim of Sincerity

Constantinople, Nov. 4.—The Turkish government's reply to the Austro-Russian reform scheme was communicated to the ambassadors of the two powers last evening. In brief, the porte receives unfavorably some of the points in the project and reiterates the sincerity of the government's application of the former measures of reform and the success of its efforts in applying them.

MANY YEARS MAY PASS

Before the Case of Betts Is Finally Disposed of by the Courts

Boston, Nov. 4.—The sentence of seven years in jail which was imposed on Frederick E. Betts and later revoked was again pronounced late yesterday by Judge Lowell. Execution of sentence was stayed, however, pending a decision by the circuit court of appeals on a writ of error.

This case is one of the most interesting that the United States district court here has ever dealt with. Betts was convicted on nine counts of using the United States mails for fraudulent purposes. When sentence was pronounced on Monday Betts' counsel contended that the indictment was faulty and that a writ of error should be issued, returnable to the United States supreme court. Sentence was then revoked, pending a decision of this question.

The court room was filled with a crowd of prominent attorneys yesterday, who were attracted by the unusual features of the case. United States District Attorney Moulton made a long argument and finally was successful in winning his contention that the writ of error should be issued to the circuit court of appeals.

The sentence of seven years in jail was then reimposed by Judge Lowell, but execution of the same was stayed until the circuit court of appeals has finally passed upon the case. Betts' bondsman was asked to renew his pledge and the same amount, $15,000, was accepted.

Lawyers are of the opinion that this case may drag on for an indefinite period, as there is still a possibility that it will be carried to the United States supreme court through the circuit court of appeals and this may involve years.

Krikorian Will Not Be Held

Boston, Nov. 4.—Vahtan Krikorian, the Armenian arrested at this port last Friday upon the arrival of the Cunard steamship Ivernia, will not be sent back under arrest to England to answer to a charge of being accessory to the assassination of Sagouni, the Armenian revolutionist, in London. Instead he will be transferred to the custody of the Cunard Steamship company, because of being "a public charge." From this he has the right to appeal, and the immigration bureau at Washington will finally determine whether he shall remain in this country or be deported.

Dangerous Fooling With Rifle

Palmer, Mass., Nov. 4.—While Fred Walker, 13, James Clark, 10, and George Hughes, 12, all of Thorndike, were fooling with a rifle at the home of Clark, the gun was accidentally discharged, the bullet passing through Clark's hand and up through Walker's arm and neck, lodging in his head. Walker is not expected to live and Clark's hand may be crippled No blame is attached to anyone.

Fatality on the Maine

Newport, R. I., Nov. 4.—Lieutenant Albert M. Beecher, ordnance officer of the battleship Maine, fell from the forward turret to the handling room, a distance of 40 feet, and died an hour later without regaining consciousness. Lieutenant Beecher's home was at Fort Dodge, Kan. His brother is attached to the training ship Monongahela as paymaster.

Head Mauled With Shovel

Barre, Vt., Nov. 4.—In a midnight brawl at Graniteville in which half a dozen men, said to be under the influence of liquor, participated, Murdo Murray was struck over the head with a shovel, receiving a serious wound. Angus Campbell was arrested in connection with the case and brought here pending an investigation.

Lynched on Suspicion

Lake Village, Ark., Nov. 4.—In a fight here between the whites and blacks Frank Anderson was killed and several were wounded. During the row Ed Coleman, a negro, began shooting, which started a fusillade. Coleman fled, with a posse in pursuit. Henry Johnson, a negro, was locked up. Excitement ran high and a large number rushed to the jail, battered down the doors, secured Johnson and hanged him in the centre of the town.

To Follow Smith's Advice

New York, Nov. 4.—It is announced that papers will be prepared at once for instituting suit against Charles M. Schwab and the Bethlehem Steel works, looking to the appointment of a receiver, and other chief recommendations of Receiver Smith of the United States Shipbuilding company that the holders of bonus stock be compelled to pay its full face value will be pushed simultaneously.

Russia and Japan Carving China

Washington, Nov. 4.—Advices to the state department force Secretary Hay to the belief that the partition of China, which his diplomacy has prevented for two years, is at last under way. That Russia and Japan have reached an agreement which will make Russia supreme in Manchuria and give Japan a free hand in Corea is regarded as certain.

Machinists Lose Long Contest

New York, Nov. 4.—By advice of the grand officers of the International Association of Machinists, the strike of the machinists in the shipyards, which begun last May, has been given up. The men will return to work under former conditions, where positions are vacant for them.

Shooter Meant No Harm

Mexico City, Nov. 4.—Elias Toscano, who made a disturbance at Guanajuato by firing off his pistol in the presence of the chief magistrate of the republic, was, on examination, released, as he clearly had no intention of shooting the president. This closes the incident.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

The location is the best of any hall in the city. The street cars pass the door with a turn out right in front of the Hall.

The floor is of selected maple laid with the greatest care, and is kept in perfect condition being covered with canvas when not used for dancing.

The ventilation—a most important consideration—is such as to keep the air pure with even a crowded hall and without causing any drafts.

The Hall is lighted by electricity, brilliantly and pleasantly, and with a switchboard arranged so that all desired effects can be obtained in the Hall proper or on the stage. Gas is used as an auxiliary light.

The heating is direct—indirect, ample, and giving the most healthful results.

The Stage has been designed with care, and is furnished with a particularly generous supply of attractive and appropriate scenery.

In case of fire the re pails of water and chemical fire extinguishers throughout the Hall. There is an asbestos fire curtain by which the Stage can be instantly cut off from the Hall proper. There are nine (9) doors opening from the Hall and five (5) separate exits.

As a whole, Quincy Music Hall has been carefully planned to meet the requirements of those who wish a large and really first class Hall.

The Management will be glad to book dates now for the season of 1903-1904.

HIS LORDSHIP'S ...SECRETARY

[Original.]

Two young Englishmen, hunting in the far west, one night sought shelter at a ranch, where unexpectedly they came upon the family of the owner, an eastern capitalist.

"I say, Bramley," said one of the hunters to the other, "these people belong to that class who are after titled husbands for their daughters. Now, wouldn't it be a jolly joke for us to let it out that we are titled men traveling incog.?"

Bramley looked at his companion, surprised. "You mean in order to secure a rich wife under the pretense of being a nobleman?"

"Oh, I was only proposing to go in for the fun of it," replied the other.

"Well, Chesborough, suppose you play the lord, and I'll play your secretary. I shall not be claiming a rank above what I really possess, and you will be free to get what amusement out of it you can. I have an intimate friend—Lord Charleray—about whose affairs I know a great deal. Personate him if you like, and I will be able to keep you from detection by preventing your making any serious blunders."

So it was made up that Chesborough should play Lord Charleray, and it was soon evident to Bramley that he was striving to win the love of Florence Mortimer, the second daughter of the owner of the ranch. As soon as it was known that the sportsmen were a lord and his secretary very naturally they were objects of interest and were invited to prolong their stay. There was a slight suspicion, however, on the part of the Mortimers of Lord Charleray. They had mingled with noble families abroad, and his lordship, though certainly having the manner of a gentleman, if a lord seemed to them to be a very inferior one.

Florence Mortimer was not hunting for titles, and his lordship did not please her. His secretary seemed far preferable. She was a fine horsewoman, and she and Mr Bramley rode together and sang duets together and read books together till Mr. Mortimer began to feel troubled. Miss Florence was a very independent character, and he feared that if she fell in love with Mr. Bramley, who, being a lord's secretary, was, to say the least, not an important personage, she would marry him despite all efforts to prevent it.

Meanwhile the spurious lord became infatuated with the girl and, seeing that she was not only irresponsive, but leaning toward Bramley, confidentially warned her against his secretary, informing her that he was the younger son of a nobleman, had been cashiered from the army, and that he (Charleray), being related to him, had taken him into his service and brought him to America with the hope that he might marry well and make the new world his home.

Miss Mortimer expressed gratitude to his lordship for his magnanimity in not sacrificing her to his designs for his protege. Then, leaving him, she thought out the problem of the strangers. Evidently there was something wrong with them. It was difficult for her to think ill of Bramley, and she did not believe Charleray's story. But Bramley was, to say the least, in bad company, and she determined to drop him. The next morning her father informed the two huntsmen that other guests were expected and their rooms would be required.

A hot flush passed over Bramley's cheeks at the polite dismissal, which he knew was with Miss Mortimer's consent, for she had scarcely noticed him at breakfast. He had unwittingly brought the slight upon himself. Chesborough was a stranger to him, whom he had met in the west, and, being a fellow countryman and a sportsman, had taken him up for companionship. He was puzzled what course to take. Indeed after reflection he concluded that there was nothing for him to do but go without attempting to explain.

When Miss Florence Mortimer returned to New York she wrote to friends in England making inquiries about the Earl of Charleray and learned that there was such a title and such a person and that during the past autumn he had been hunting in America. The next step in the affair was an invitation to dine with him. Miss Mortimer, thinking that she might have been unjust to him in the matter of his story about his secretary, decided to accept.

"Miss Mortimer," said the hostess, tapping the lady on the back with her fan to secure her attention, "let me present Lord Charleray." Florence turned, and there stood Mr. Bramley, his cheeks flaming like a pair of carnations.

A pleasant surprise lighted up Miss Mortimer's face, relieving to a great extent the earl's embarrassment. Since they were not alone she tactfully began to chat without any reference to their former meeting, but later when they were seated apart from the others she said:

"Come, there is a story I am dying to hear."

Charleray began by telling her that to enjoy a hunting season, avoiding notoriety, he had come to the country under the name of Bramley and gone west, where he had met Chesborough, to whom he did not reveal his identity. He then confessed that when Chesborough proposed that they should play the parts of noblemen the temptation to let Chesborough play his (Charleray's) part was too strong to be resisted. Miss Mortimer was at first inclined to blame him for not making an explanation before he left the ranch, but before he left her he had convinced her that he could not in honor to the false earl do so. At any rate she so far forgave the indiscretion as to become Lady Charleray. F. A. MITCHEL.

OUR FIRST HUNT CLUB.

It Was Organized In Pennsylvania Away Back In 1766.

The year 1766 is far back, but it is interesting to think that the mutterings of the coming war storm were not yet so engrossing even then but that the sportsmen of Pennsylvania could turn their attention to a more systematic organization of their fox hunting forces and then established the first hunt club in the country, the Gloucester Hounds. Not that this was the beginning of the sport in Pennsylvania, that eminently horse loving country, for fox hunting had held a high place in the pastimes of the people many a year before. It was rather the evidence that the sport had become so important that it needed systematizing, so that districts might be thoroughly hunted in turn and contentions, rivalry and clashing dates be avoided.

All the early fox hunting clubs had their origin in the pre-existing ownership of a greater or less number of hounds by private owners. Every considerable landowner in the south kept them, and good dogs they were, not always orthodox, according to the standard of the Belvoir and the Quorn of today, but nevertheless hounds derived from the best English and European stock and continued by judicious selection of those who showed the instincts by conformation suitable to the country in which they were called upon to work. Washington may be quoted as one of the southerners who kept hounds and hunted them too. Lafayette, moreover, sent him from France a splendid pack of French foxhounds, with qualities which still further helped to complete the most perfect animal for American fox hunting, the American hound.

From the formation of the Gloucester Fox Hound club in 1766 until today clubs have played the most important part in preserving the sport and regulating its practice. Not all clubs of equal importance, it is true, but all of the same spirit.—Illustrated Sporting News.

NEW YORK TIME.

It Is the Standard Used In All Our Weather Bureau Stations.

When we read a report from any of the 160 regular weather bureau stations throughout our land bringing the information that a rainstorm, a tornado or some other meteorological phenomenon began at a certain hour we need not suppose that the hour mentioned refers to the time at the place where the observation was made. The hour given is the exact New York time, for every clock at the regular weather bureau stations all over the land is set to the seventy-fifth meridian, or eastern standard time, which is exactly five hours behind Greenwich time.

Only this standard of time is used in the text of the Monthly Weather Review, and all weather bureau observers are required to record observations by it. The reason for this is that the best scientific deductions from the weather reports must be based upon the conditions of the atmosphere existing simultaneously in different parts of the country.

It would be very ludicrous if all the hundreds of reports sent daily had to be changed at the central office in Washington from local to eastern time, and so all the regular observers are required to use the New York, or eastern time, in making their reports.

There are many volunteer observers and newspaper correspondents who in reporting weather phenomena use other standards of time. If the weather bureau has occasion to use their reports the time is often corrected to agree with the eastern standard or the local standard is mentioned.—Detroit Free Press.

Women Who Dress Like Men.

Tourists in the Austrian Tyrol and the remoter regions of the Swiss Alps often come across strange peculiarities of dress, especially among the females in those out of the way places. In the little village of Champery, which nestles almost under the frowning Dent du Midi, the women dress like men and may often be seen in the fields. Naturally they are objects of much interest to tourists, but the women do not seem to be at all uncomfortably conscious of the peculiarity of their garb. The peasants of Champery are a simple, kindly folk, and doubtless find this novel dress more accommodating to the hard work they have to do.

Poor Conditions.

"Ask papa tonight," suggests the gentle girl to her adorer. "He is in such a good humor because he got the better of some man in a business transaction today."

The adorer shakes his head doubtfully.

"I believe I'd better not," he sighs. "I am the man he got the better of, and he would be sure to say that he couldn't let his daughter marry a man so unsuccessful."—Judge.

Tells How.

"And aren't you married yet?"

"No."

"Well, well! I thought you were engaged to a certain young lady in Germantown?"

"No; I was engaged to an uncertain young lady, and that's why I'm not married."—Exchange.

Annoying.

Layzee—My wife isn't exactly an anarchist, but she annoyed me this morning with one of her incendiary speeches.

Jenks—You don't say so?

Layzee—Yes, she said, "Henry, get up this minute and make the fire."—Philadelphia Ledger.

CITY BREVITIES.

Warm today.

Republican caucus tonight.

The Hospital fair at the Star grocery store on Tuesday was not as largely attended as anticipated, and there was not the financial success that it might easily have been.

The Roslindale New Century league team will roll the Quineys at the Granite street alleys tonight, a match game of candlepins, a warm game may be expected, as Quincy won two games out of three the last time these two teams met.

The annual bazaar of the Atlantic M. E. church was opened Tuesday afternoon at the church. In the evening Henry H. Faxon was among those in attendance and he gladened the hearts of the ladies in charge by marked generosity.

A surprise party was given to Mrs Mary Heath at No. 38 Curtis avenue on Saturday evening, attended by friends from Quincy, Braintree and Boston. During the evening supper was served, and dancing and music were enjoyed. Mrs. Heath was presented a set of dishes.

The death of Mrs. Charles R. Mitchell on Monday was a shock to her frindse as on the previous Thursday she was seen in City Square. Her trouble was diabetes. The funeral took place today from the residence of her son, Mr. Arthur L. Mitchell.

At Miss Hicks' private kindergarten on Royal street, Tuesday, a large number of little children enjoyed a very pleasant time at a birthday party for Miss Mildred Eleanor Stuart. Miss Hicks had the children sing several selections and go through their exercises, which were very interesting. A very nice lunch was served later. Miss Mildred Stuart is only four years of age but has been attending kindergarten for two years. Several of the parents were present, including Mrs. Stuart, Miss Susan Kennedy and Mr. John Stuart.

DEDHAM WINS.

But Quincy High Plays Strong Game.

Capt. Saunders Injured at Start.

The Score Was 12 to 5 for Visitors.

In the first league game of the season Quincy High was defeated by Dedham High at Merrymount park Tuesday afternoon by a score of 12 to 5. Both teams played a clean, snappy game, but Dedham had the advantage in weight by about ten pounds to the man. The Quincy boys, although crippled early in the game, put up a plucky fight and held many fierce rushes of the Dedham backs.

All the scoring was done in the first half. In the second half, both goal lines were in danger but the opposing team was unable to push the ball across for a touchdown. The injury to Capt. Sanders during the first half obliged him to retire from the game, thereby greatly weakening the Quincy team. Halfback Keenan of the Dedham eleven was also obliged to leave the game during the first half.

At the beginning of the game, Dedham kicked to Quincy, Prario made a good gain in return. By steady rushes, mostly just outside tackle, Quincy worked the ball to Dedham's ten yard line. Here Percival was given the ball and crossed the goal line behind good interference. A punt out failed.

Quincy kicked to Dedham. The runner was downed after a ten yard gain. On the first play, Keenan was given the ball and before the Quincy players realized what had happened, he was making for their goal line. He was pursued by several players in a futile attempt to down him, but he proved to be too swift and crossed the goal line after a run of 95 yards.

Dedham scored another touch down in the first half on short gains through the center and around the ends.

In the second half, neither team scored, although Quincy once had the ball on Dedham's ten yard line but lost it on a fumble. Time was called with the ball in Dedham's possession on Quincy's 15 yard line.

A Threat That Was Heeded.

In 1866 the Prussian government demanded an indemnity of $25,000,000 from the city of Frankfurt. The head of the house of Rothschild there sent word to Bismarck that if an attempt were made to enforce the levy the Rothschilds would break every bank in Berlin. Knowing the power behind the threat, the man of blood and iron yielded.

Slippery Elm Poultice.

Take a sufficient quantity of pulverized slippery elm bark, stir it in hot or warm milk or water to the consistence of a poultice. This is a most efficacious poultice, is of almost universal application and removes inflammation sooner than any other. If tincture of myrrh be added it is valuable in boils, ulcers, carbuncles, etc.—Dick's Encyclopedia of Practical Recipes.

Anxious to Hear It.

Mr. Sampson (tremulously)—Miss Lydia, I want to tell you—er—the old, old story—

Then his agitation got the better of him, and he paused.

Lydia—Go on, Mr. Sampson. Never mind if it is a chestnut. Perhaps I've never heard it before.

Low Church—and Salary.

"It must be understood," said the vestryman, who was extremely "low church," to the new rector, "that the rector here shall have no surplice"—

"Gracious!" exclaimed the Rev. Mr. Newcome. "How could one have a surplus on the salary you offer?"—Philadelphia Press.

Needs Prodding.

"It is a great mistake, Mabel, to trifle with the affections of a man who loves you by encouraging some one else."

"Well, he's a little slow, auntie. I think he needs a pacemaker."

COUNCILMAN LOUD.

He is Candidate at Large for Republican Renomination.

Arthur W. Loud, councilman at large, whose name will be presented at the Republican caucuses tonight for renomination, is not only well known in West Quincy where he resides, but all over the city. He is extremely popular among the young men, who admire him not only for his pleasing personality but because they find in him a young man who attends strictly to business. In these frivolous times this is something that should have considerable weight with citizens when they are called upon to decide who shall administer the affairs of our city.

During his past year's service in the City Council he has been one of those members who carefully considered every measure brought before that body and his vote has always been for what he considered for the best interest of the city.

He is associated in business with his father, and socially is affiliated with the Masonic fraternity and several social organizations.

New Guinea Justice.

A comical vindication of the rights of property among the savages of New Guinea was witnessed by a missionary, the Rev. James Chalmers. Service was just beginning in the little church when a native boy came in dressed with what he considered great magnificence, in a shirt. As the savages were accustomed to go nearly naked, this garment made the boy very conspicuous.

The shirt had once belonged to some white man, and the importance it gave the present wearer was tremendous. But when his glory was at its height a bigger boy appeared, hot with rage and carrying a jacket. He fell upon the first lad and began stripping off the shirt. The rest of the congregation, understanding at once that the rightful owner had arrived, gave him not only sympathy, but practical aid. They rose to their feet, and those who were near by took part in the stripping process. Presently the true owner was invested in shirt and jacket, the congregation cooled, and the service went on.

Her Last Breath.

I heard a story the other day which is probably as old as the hills, though I never had the luck to hear it before. It was of a somewhat lengthy railway journey in very warm weather. An elderly lady, seated in one corner of the carriage, was provided with an india rubber cushion for her greater comfort, but unfortunately, owing to the heat and continued pressure, the cushion suddenly exploded. The old lady was in despair, even to tears, over the misfortune to the wind bag, and again and again reverted to her misfortune. "Tut, woman," said a commercial traveler in another corner of the carriage, "it's not worth making a fuss about. You will get it repaired in town for about 18 pence." "It's no' that I'm vexed aboot—it's no' the price. That's easy sorted. But the last time that bag was blawn up it wis by Aunty Jean, almaist wi' her very last breath, an' that canna be restored!"—Glasgow Times.

Animals and Rain.

It seems strange that no animal, unless it be the squirrel, seems to build itself a shelter with the express object of keeping off the rain, which they all so much dislike. Monkeys are miserable in wet and could easily build shelters if they had the sense to do so. "As the creatures hop disconsolately along in the rain," writes Mr. Kipling in his "Beast and Man In India," "or crouch on branches, with dripping backs set against the tree trunk as shelter from the driving storm, they have the air of being very sorry for themselves." But even the orang outang, which builds a small platform in the trees on which to sleep at night, never seems to think of a roof, though the Dyaks say that when it is very wet it covers itself with the leaves of the pandanus, a large fern.

Crushing.

He was an awful swell, and if there was one thing more than another that he prided himself on it was the fit of his clothes.

"I can never get a dress coat really to fit," he said to his partner as he glanced down at a perfectly made garment, with a hope, of course, that she would at once disclaim the insinuation. "Look at this thing."

"Well, it is atrocious," she said coolly. "But why not save your money and buy one? It is so much cheaper in the long run than hiring."

THRILLING TROLLEY TRIP.

Experiences on a Record Breaking Run In Germany.

The Berlin correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, who was one of the small party on the Berlin-Zossen electric train when it traveled at the record speed of 125 miles an hour, thus describes it:

Every one on board was nervous and excited, even Dr. Schulz, the head of the state railways, and the famous electricians, Privy Councilor Misani and Herren Lachner, Zimmerman and Borries. All was under the direction of Dr. Reichel, who has conducted all the experiments.

Dr. Reichel got on in front and carefully scrutinized the motor car and inspected the wheels, brakes and springs with keen, quiet eyes. Then he turned a handle, and off we started, steady as a rock. The line under us was a solid mass of masonry, steel, cement and stone. Every yard a strong iron sleeper imbedded in cement held the steel rails in a vise.

As we approached Marienfelde the speed was increased, and we began to fly, but with hardly any oscillation. Trees, houses and telegraph posts shot past like lightning. But when Dr. Reichel gave another turn these objects became blurs, indistinguishable shadows passing us.

Then we drew up gradually and arrived at Zossen, having made fourteen miles and a half in eight minutes. We started back to Marienfelde and covered the same distance in the same time to a second.

"Now," said Dr. Reichel, "we shall see what she can do."

We squirmed. No one was comfortable.

Dr. Reichel took a careful look around, and off we went, the speed increasing every moment.

Past Mahlow, Dahlwitz and Rangsdorf we clattered and the speed terrific—three miles and an eighth in one minute and a half!

It was a cool day, and the impact of the wind was unbearable, whistling through every crevice of the car. Yet we were all freely perspiring with excitement. Fourteen thousand volts had been employed to send us on our mad course.

FARMING FOR CHILDREN.

New Departure In Public School Education In Missouri.

Nearly 5,000 school children in Missouri are receiving instruction this year in the primary courses of agriculture, says a Columbia special dispatch to the St. Louis Republic. More than 100 teachers who attended the Missouri university last summer and took the course in agriculture and horticulture are giving instruction in those branches in the public schools this year with excellent results.

In the teaching of these branches to public school students special attention is paid to beautifying the school grounds and the yards and lawns of the children's homes. The school yard is planted in flowers, trees and shrubs and under the direction of the teacher is cultivated by the students. The teachers find that the students take great interest in the work, and they encounter very little difficulty in continuing the course.

It has been the aim of the Missouri university to encourage the teaching of agriculture in the public schools, and the efforts of the university are now achieving results. By next year agriculture and horticulture probably will be taught in a majority of the public schools of the state.

A series of bulletins is in course of preparation which will be sent out to the teachers to be used as text books in the public schools.

YELL OF FARMER STUDENTS

Missouri Boys Choose Class Cry Both In English and Latin.

Missouri university has an agricultural yell, says a Columbia special to the Chicago Record-Herald. It can be uttered in both English and Latin and was adopted at a specially convened meeting the other day. Several yells were submitted, but this was the most popular:

Horses, cattle, sheep and hogs,
Turkeys, chickens, ducks and dogs!
Feed 'em, fatten 'em, make 'em thrive;
Agriculture, nineteen five!

An agricultural student who is also making a specialty of the classics sprang an innovation by submitting the same yell in Latin. The suggestion was adopted with enthusiasm, though a few English words were found necessary for euphony. It goes like this:

Evis, oris, bos et sus,
Zey, mais, et triticus.
Agriculture may shrive;
We're the class of nineteen five!

Novel Test For Trumpeters.

The latest development in the walking craze in Paris is a proposal made by M. Rispal, chief trumpeter of the Association Nationale de Preparation Militaire, that all trumpeters in Paris, military and civilian, shall march from Paris to Versailles, playing without stopping the ten regulation marches of the French army, says the New York Herald. As the route is eighteen kilometers long and contains a couple of stiff hills only people with strong lungs can hope to qualify.

Sarah Bernhardt's New Book.

Sarah Bernhardt, the famous French actress, has signed a contract to write her memoirs. The book will be published simultaneously in Paris, London and New York. She had to be paid $8,000 down before consenting to put a pen to paper. In addition she is to receive a good royalty on the sales. She is making arrangements to have the book translated into most of the European languages. The book must be ready next August.

"SAILOR JEAN'S" TRIP.

Aspiring Author's Plan to Get Material For a Book.

VISITS STATE CAPITALS ON FOOT.

Jean A. Krohn, Who Has Already Worn Out Eight Pairs of Shoes In His Novel Journey, Will Spend the Winter Tramping the Southern States—Over 3,000 Miles Covered.

"Sailor Jean," who is visiting all the state capitals of the nation afoot, arrived at Macon, Mo., the other day, says the Kansas City Star. He had at that time completed his three thousand eight hundred and fifty-second mile and had worn out his eighth pair of shoes. "Sailor Jean's" real name is Jean A. Krohn. He was feeling first rate and hopeful. He had only 18,200 miles ahead of him. He has the postmaster of every town through which he passes register his name with the office cancellation stamp. At state capitals the secretary of states issues him a certificate of his presence, attested by seal. "Sailor Jean" trundles a small barrow which has a cask and a flag on it and which he calls his "trolleyette." He left Boston April 1 without a penny. The revenue comes from little aluminium card trays he sells at 10 cents each. Jean's wife and baby travel ahead on the railroad. They wait at a designated point, which he reaches Sunday, and he spends the day with them. Jean is now averaging $40 a week selling his souvenirs.

"Sailor Jean's" statistical report up to Oct. 22 was as follows: Bitten by snakes, once; bitten by dogs, eleven times; killed ten of the biters; "held up" by highwaymen, once; loss, a gold watch and $1.80 in cash; attempted "holdups," two; miraculous escapes from suffocation in railroad tunnels, three; sick, two hours; best day's march, thirty-eight miles; worst grub, in mountains west of Virginia, cold cornbread and dried apples. It takes eight pairs of shoes to travel 3,852 miles and five tires for the "trolleyette" wheel.

Why is "Sailor Jean" going to all this trouble? Because he has fallen a victim to the universal desire to be an author. He explains it in this wise:

"I had observed that most people who wrote stories of travel journeyed over the country in first class coaches. They visited only the great cities and points of known interest. They are piloted around by guides, from whom they acquire most of their information. Their stories are of beaten paths and, dress them as artistically and originally as they may, they are only telling a tale that has been told. While making no particular claim to superiority in writing, I thought by assuming the garb of a sailor and traveling as one of the plain, everyday toilers I could get closer to nature and her children and tell a story of our country such as had never yet been told. I meet the farmers, the miners, the railroad men, the workingmen, not of one state or a dozen, but of all. I make notes concerning the condition of crossroads hamlets that are so small they do not appear on the map. At the mining camps I go through the pits and sleep in the homes of the miners. It would surprise you to witness the variety of people in our country. There is a wide difference in the characteristics of the Americans in different sections, just as the climate differs."

"Sailor Jean's" route was made out in detail before he left Boston. According to his contract with his publisher, he must complete his tour in three and a half years. He is now southward bound and will pass the winter tramping the southern states. His schedule requires him to report in Topeka, Kan., in the spring. He is to go on foot the entire distance, except in crossing streams, where ferries are the only method.

Burglar Proof Pay Car.

Burglar proof pay cars are an innovation in railway equipment to be introduced by the Pennsylvania system, says a Pittsburg dispatch. The company is now building at the Columbus shops a new style car for the use of the paymaster, to be as nearly burglar proof as it is possible to make it, and if the car proves successful it will be used as the standard style on the system.

When Stocks Will Boom Again.

When every "short" has "covered,"
And every lamb's well done;
When every cloud that hovered
Is banished by the sun;
When things are not "congested,"
And each crop killer's dead;
When nothing's "undigested,"
The last false rumor spread;

When every hostile raider
Has taken to his hole,
And every short side trader
Has climbed the nearest pole;
When every strike is settled,
And "Joseph" gets his crown,
No more will we be nettled
With "good stocks" going down.

When all the wheat's transported,
And all the crops are "moved;"
When all the gold's exported
And all false tales disproved;
When every "bear" is banished
Into some desert grim,
And each canard has vanished
In darkness after him;

When every loan is floated,
When every bond is sold,
And every scheme promoted
Turns out as good as gold;
When stocks have reached a level
From which they cannot fall,
And prophecies of evil
Are turned toward the wall;

When every corner's busted
And bank reserves are high,
"The public," now disgusted,
Come rushing in to buy—
Then in that glorious season
(Don't wake us from our trance)
We think we see no reason
Why stocks should not advance.

EVERY WARD

Of the City Gives Him a Majority.

For the Republican Nomination.

Republican caucuses for the nomination of candidates for Mayor, Councilmen at large, School Committee at large and from Wards Four and Five, Councilmen from the different wards, and to elect Ward Committees were held in all wards of the city last evening.

All of the caucuses were well attended. The main interest centered in the nomination of a candidate for Mayor, and the result proved to be a decisive victory for Mayor Bryant. He carried every ward in the city including candidate Newcomb's home ward, the total vote being: Bryant, 1263: and Newcomk, 407.

Such a majority for Mayor Bryant must have been very gratifying to him, and should also convince Mr. Newcomb that this is not his year.

The votes for Councilmen-at-large were as a rule close. There were five candidates to be elected and six to choose from, all members of the presen Council.

Councilman Diack from Ward Three was the one to get left although he was but 33 votes behind Councilman Nichols.

For School Committee-at large there was no contest and Dr. Hallowell the present incumbent had a walkover.

The only wards in which there was a contest for Councilmen were Wards One, Two and Five, and out of these but one of the present Council seeking renomination was defeated, namely, Councilman Polk of Ward Five.

In Ward One Fred F. Green came within a few votes of tieing Councilman Hardwick, and in Ward Two, Mr. Pease, the Quincy Neck candidate, was only a few behind Councilman Thompson.

A story of the caucuses by wards follows:

WARD ONE.

The Ward One caucus was smaller than for some years, and was carried by Mayor Bryant by a vote of 251 to 106 for Newcomb.

For Councilmen at large some interest was taken as to which one of the six should be low man. This fell to Councilman Diack with Councilman Gassett next lowest. Councilman Bass was high man.

For Councilmen from ward there were five candidates for three places. Councilman Adams was easily first and Mr. Gelotte was not in it. It was close between the other three, and Mr. Green got left. The figures:

George E. Adams	220
Alexander Steward	188
Charles H. Hardwick	166
Fred F. Green	161
Otto Gelotte	94

The first three were declared the nominees.

For member of the School Committee from ward there was no contest and Charles H. Porter was nominated.

For Ward Committee only seven men were nominated, and the voters had no choice. No candidate received over 268 votes. The following were elected: Edward Johnson, William T. Issac, A. W. Stetson, A. F. Macleod, Otto Gelotte, A. G. Dolliver and George Westland.

W. W. Adams was chairman of the caucus and H. P. Kittredge secretary. They were assisted by Fred Goss, John H. Bent, Edward Goodridge, and C. H. Johnson.

WARD TWO.

At Quincy Point, Newcomb's home ward, there was a lively caucus and as a result a large vote was polled. It was thought that if Mr. Newcomb was to carry any ward this would be the one, but while every effort was made he was defeated, receiving 139 while Bryant received 168, a majority of 29.

There was a large crowd about the polling place all the evening, and until nearly midnight which was the hour when the result was announced.

A. L. Whitman was chairman of the caucus, and George Taylor, clerk. The tellers were Jacob Peters, Maurice R. Gatcomb, George Weston and E. B.

On the vote for Councilmen at large Mr. Whiton was high man with 225 and Mr. Diack low man with 127.

The vote for Councilmen for the ward resulted in the nomination of Messrs. Holmes, Stone and Thompson. The vote was:

Lewis W. Pease	151
Eugene R. Stone	217
Alexander W. Thompson	162
Melville C. Holmes	210

WARD THREE.

The South Quincy ward had a good attendance at its caucus, 241 votes being polled. For some years past there have been two factions in this ward, but during the past year they have come together and are united.

The result of the harmonizing of the two factions was seen at the caucus, for whereas there has usually been contests for Councilmen from ward and Ward Committee, there was but one list on the ballot for each.

On the vote for Mayor the ward showed a decided preference for Mr. Bryant, who received 168 to 70 for Mr. Newcomb.

On Councilman-at-large the ward gave Mr. Diack, its own candidate, a handsome vote, and he was high man on the list with 200, and Mr. Bass second with 171. Mr. Gassett was low man with 123.

The polls were opened at 6.30 and the caucus called to order by Harry S. Nicol. The caucus organized with Frank Tinney as chairman and Thomas Johnson as clerk. The tellers appointed were D. F. Tinney, R. A. McQueen, John Hackett, D. T. Drummond and William A. Smith.

The nominees for the Council from ward are: Julius Johnson, Walter E. Piper and William T. Spargo.

Ward Committee elect:—Frank L. Carlton, Alfred O. Diack, John Kennedy, Harry S. Nicol, Walter E. Piper, John G. Roberts and Thomas W. Smith.

WARD FOUR.

The caucus at West Quincy polled 151 votes. Carriages were in attendance to bring out negligent voters.

There was no particular local interest outside Councilmen-at-large and Mayor.

For Mayor, Mr. Bryant carried the ward five to one, receiving 126 votes to 24 for Mr. Newcomb.

On the vote for Councilmen-at-large Mr. Loud was high man with 117, and Mr. Diack second with 103. Mr. Whiton was low man on the list with 49.

There was no contest for Ward Councilman or Ward Committee.

Rev. Karl F. Henrickson was nominated as the candidate for School Committee from ward, and the candidates for Councilmen from ward are: Andrew Anderson, James Edwards and Willard B. Jones.

The following Ward Committee was elected: James F. Allen, Andrew Anderson, Hiram W. Campbell, Per Person, Edward J. Sandberg, Alexander Shirley and William H. Teasdale.

W. H. Teasdale called the meeting to order at 6.30, and the caucus organized with T. F. Burke as chairman, Gene McCormack as clerk and Virgil Fuller, Thomas J. Lamb, T. H. Burke and Adolph Sandberg as tellers.

WARD FIVE.

In Wollaston, Mayor Bryant's home ward, the polls opened at 5 o'clock. The caucus was called to order by Representative R. R. Freeman and the caucuses organized with Charles R. Sherman as chairman and Horace Taylor clerk. The tellers were Parker Sheldon, L. B. Chapman and G. B. Glover. This was the ward where there were the most contests, for outside of Mayor and Councilmen at large, there were six seeking the nomination for Ward Councilmen, and two lists of names for Ward Committee although there were but two names on the second list, viz. Eugene H. Sprague and Walter M. Hatch.

The two lists for Ward Committee were separated by a black line and early in the evening Mr. Sprague objected to this. Later, he again appeared and addressing the caucus demanded to know who prepared the ballot in that manner.

The chairman said he did not know and referred him to the chairman of Ward Committee, R. R. Freeman, who replied that if he read the ballot he would see that it was prepared by A. G. Dolliver and M. C. Holmes, chairman and secretary of the City Committee.

Rev. F. W. Pratt then addressed the caucus in protest, and was followed by Mr. Sprague. The voting meanwhile had been suspended. The debate was growing warm when Chairman Sherman closed the incident by declaring the debate out of order.

The business of the caucus was then continued. The vote for Mayor showed that Mr. Newcomb had but few supporters in this ward, receiving but 48 votes to 373 for Mr. Bryant.

Messrs. Gassett and Bass were tied for first place on the list of Councilmen at large, with 313 votes each, and Mr. Diack was low man with 230.

The vote for ward councilmen resulted in the defeat of Councilman Polk, the present incumbent, and the nomination of James H. Broughton, a new man. Mr. Nickerson was high man with 247, and Mr. Whitehead low man with 142.

For Ward Committee the first list was elected, Mr. Freeman being high man with 342 and Mr. Baker low man with 282. On the second list Mr. Sprague received 169 and Mr. Hatch 191.

Dr. Wellington Record was renominated for School Committee from ward.

The vote of the ward for Ward Councilmen was:

James H. Broughton,	237
William M. Chase,	163
Charles A. McFarland,	220
Nathan G. Nickerson,	247
Herbert J. Polk,	168
John H. Whitehead,	142

It was dead easy for Mayor Bryant.

A DENIAL OF CRIME

Stearns Says Charges Are Brought Against Him Because of His Money

Salem, Mass., Nov. 5.—"I am being persecuted because of my money. Crime has been wrongly connected with my name and those responsible for this will have reason to regret their action before the affair is settled. I have engaged counsel and will fight the matter to the bitter end."

With these words Richard S. Stearns, the wealthy Boston lawyer, who was indicted by the grand jury at Laconia, N. H., for the removal of bodies from a cemetery, denied the serious accusation.

Stearns' palatial summer estate on the shores of Lake Winnipesaukee marks the site of the alleged offense, and he attributes the case to the loss which a firm sustained for work performed on the place. He said:

"I am amazed at the extent to which this affair has been carried, but now the issue will be decided once for all. In no way am I to blame for the removal of any bones or portions of bodies. All that was done by the contracting firm, and there the responsibility should be placed."

Stearns is prominent in social and professional circles, and because of unlimited means does not practice his profession. He formerly resided in Jamaica Plain, but for some time has been living with his wife in the spacious mansion of his father, William S. Stearns.

Opticians and Opticians.

'Tis the Pedler Optician. I heard him complain:
"Im tired of tramping, I must rest once again."
So he settles him down for a month or two's rest,
And will charitably (?) give your eyes a "free test."

You also will find that he has skipped in the night,
That your fine gold-bowed glasses are nothing but brass,
That you have the "experience," while he has the cash.

If you are troubled with headaches or defective sight, shun all pedlers and strange opticians. Consult WILLIAMS, who has fitted glasses to thousands upon thousands right here in Quincy during the past sixteen years.

He has all the latest instruments that scientists can devise and every facility for dark room examinations.

He will tell you frankly about your case and will not burden you with glasses if they are not necessary.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

The location is the best of any hall in the city. The street cars pass the door with a turn out right in front of the Hall.

The floor is of selected maple laid with the greatest care, and is kept in perfect condition, being covered with canvas when not used for dancing.

The ventilation—a most important consideration—is such as to keep the air pure with even a crowded hall and without causing any drafts.

The Hall is lighted by electricity, brilliantly and pleasantly, and with a switchboard arranged so that all desired effects can be obtained in the Hall proper or on the stage. Gas is used as an auxiliary light.

The heating is direct—indirect, ample, and giving the most healthful results.

The Stage has been designed with care, and is furnished with a particularly generous supply of attractive and appropriate scenery.

In case of fire the re pails of water and chemical fire extinguishers throughout the Hall. There is an asbestos fire curtain by which the Stage can be instantly cut off from the Hall proper. There are nine (9) doors opening from the Hall and five (5) separate exits.

As a whole, Quincy Music Hall has been carefully planned to meet the requirements of those who wish a large and really first class Hall.

NOT A SHOT WAS FIRED

When Independence of Isthmus of Panama

NEW FLAG IS IN EVIDENCE

Movement Due to Rejection of Canal Treaty by Colombia—De Facto Government Makes Prompt Request to United States For Recognition

Colon, Nov. 5.—Without the firing of a shot and amid scenes of great enthusiasm the independence of the isthmus and the department of Panama has been declared. The city of Panama is now in the hands of the revolutionists and no serious attempt has been made to recapture it. The Colombian gunboat Bogota arrived in the harbor after the declaration of independence and threw a few shells into the city without doing damage to life or property there. In Colon perfect order prevails and trains across the isthmus are running as usual without interruption. In Panama the red, white and blue flag of the new republic floats over the government buildings.

The movement for independence has been in progress since the rejection by the congress at Bogota of the Hay-Herran canal treaty, but its sudden ripening was due to the news of the unexpected arrival at Colon of the Colombian gunboat Cartagena with Generals Tovar and Amaya and a number of troops. The movement has been promoted by prominent and wealthy isthmians, and Governor Obaldia of the department of Panama, who arrived at Panama at 3:50 p. m. Tuesday, upon computing the number of troops and citizens in favor of independence, found that they numbered at least 1500. The advocates of independence both at Panama and Colon are now jubilant.

The timely presence of the United States gunboat Nashville at Colon is believed to have resulted in the avoidance of serious trouble.

Colonel Torres, commanding the troops at Colon, has sent a representative to confer with General Tovar, who was imprisoned in the name of the republic of Panama, whose unconditional release is demanded.

It is believed that peaceful results will follow from a proposal made to Colonel Torres that the American troops would return aboard the Nashville if he guaranteed to maintain order. This proposal was accepted by Colonel Torres and the bluejackets returned to the Nashville at 7:30 last night. The British consul has suggested that if requested a contingent of troops will be sent to Colon from the British cruiser Amphion, now at Panama. It is believed that the Nashville will be hardly sufficient for all emergencies.

During the excitement yesterday afternoon the bluejackets from the Nashville quickly placed bales of cotton on the tops of freight cars, forming excellent barricades, Many of the citizens were armed with rifles and revolvers. Several Americans and other foreigners took refuge on board the German steamer Markmannia.

The opinion of everybody here is that the isthmian canal is now assured.

The act of independence has just been signed at Panama.

A Request For Recognition

Washington, Nov. 5.—The state department has received a prompt request from the representatives of the revolutionary government at Panama that the United States recognize the new state of Panama, but pending official advices from our consular officers at Panama that a new government has been established and is a de facto government, the state department has declined to commit itself. However, attention is called to the fact that it is the invariable policy of the United States to deal with the de facto government in any country. This statement is taken as favorable to recognition should the new Panama government have an active existence.

News was received of the shelling of Panama by the Colombian gunboat Bogota, and instructions were cabled at once to our vice consul there to protest against the bombardment, while the commander of the cruiser Boston was directed to prevent the Bogota resuming firing. It early became apparent that this government intended to take active steps to protect life and property on the isthmus, and to take an advanced position. Instructions were cabled commanders of warships on their way to the isthmus or already there to resort to any necessary measures to prevent bloodshed. The situation at the two ends of the railway, Panama and Colon, is anomalous and it has developed that the Colon situation is the result of the plans of the navy department miscarrying.

The dispatches to the Nashville, which should have reached her immediately upon her arrival at Colon, Nov. 2, were not received by Commander Hubbard until after the Colombian cruiser Carthagena had arrived at Colon with 400 Colombian troops aboard, when it was too late to prevent her entrance to the harbor. The execution of the original scheme would have eliminated the Carthagena from the situation at Colon and the present unfortunate complications would have been avoided.

It is expected that further efforts will be made today on the part of the new government of Panama to obtain recognition at the hands of the United States.

EXPLOSION OF SHELLS

Kills Six Men and Does Much Damage at Naval Arsenal

Iona Island, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Six men were killed and 10 slightly injured by an explosion at the United States naval arsenal at this place of one of the largest magazines in the United States. The explosion occurred while men were drawing the explosive charges from a consignment of old shells recently sent here from the battleship Massachusetts and destroyed completely three massive shell houses, hurling a rain of fragments of projectiles of all sizes up to 13-inch shells in every direction.

The force of the explosion, or series of explosions, broke windows at Peekskill, three miles distant on the opposite side of the Hudson, and the detonation was heard for many miles. Adjacent buildings, including two storehouses for fixed ammunition, were riddled with the fragments and the quarters of the 11 marines composing the garrison were completely demolished.

The dead were all workmen employed by the naval ordnance department. The bodies were frightfully mangled, fragments being hurled in every direction for hundreds of feet.

Quakes Over Large Territory

Memphis, Nov. 5.—Two distinct earthquake shocks were felt here. No damage resulted in Memphis or vicinity, but occupants of the principal office buildings made hasty exits to the streets. Many buildings swayed and in the Business Men's club the chandeliers were broken. The vibrations were felt as far south as Grenada, Miss.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 5.—A slight earthquake shock was felt here yesterday afternoon.

Louisville, Nov. 5.—A shock of earthquake was felt here, but no damage was done.

Decatur, Ills., Nov. 5.—A decided earthquake shock was felt here yesterday afternoon.

There were 135 men in the gathering. Further efforts will be made to bring about a union of the factions.

CARVIN'S CLOSE CALL

Would Have Been Defeated Under Old Election Rule

BIG LOSSES BY SOCIALISTS

Meant Gains For Both Leading Parties In Massachusetts—Republican Plurality in Ohio of 115,000—Maryland Will Have Democratic Senator

Providence, Nov. 5.—As a result of the annual elections held throughout Rhode Island, Governor Garvin will continue as chief executive of the state for another year, but only after the stiffest sort of a struggle with Samuel P. Colt as his Republican opponent. The latter made material gains throughout the country districts, but not in sufficient number to offset the heavy Democratic vote in the larger cities, which came as a surprise to the Republican campaign leaders who had confidently claimed them. As it was, however, Governor Garvin did not obtain a majority over all, and under the old rule would have lost the election, as the general assembly upon whom the vote would fall is strongly Republican. With the exception of the head of the ticket all the Republican nominees for state offices were elected by margins ranging from 805 to 6467.

Garvin's plurality over Colt was but 1587 in a total vote for governor of 62,687, the largest in the history of the state. Republicans are disgruntled because Garvin is elected, and Democrats are dissatisfied because the lieutenant governor is beaten and the Republicans made gains in the legislature. The house of representatives stands 39 Republicans to 33 Democrats and the senate is as overwhelmingly one way as it was last year.

Big Cut In Socialist Vote

Boston, Nov. 5.—Interest in the vote of Massachusetts centres in the returns which came in slowly of the vote for the three minor candidates, Brennan, Socialist Labor, Chase, Socialist, and Cobb, Prohibition. Returns for all three of these candidates show that the Socialist Labor vote fell off 28 percent, the Socialist 30 percent and the Prohibition about 3. The drop in the Socialist vote was particularly gratifying to the managers of both the leading parties, who saw that their gains were drawn almost entirely from that party.

Herrick Has 115,000 Plurality

Columbus, O., Nov. 5.—The Republican plurality in Ohio is about 115,000 for governor and the majority in the legislature on joint ballot for senator is 93. The plurality on the rest of the Republican state ticket will likely be from 4000 to 5000 less than that for Herrick. The total vote for Johnson was less than that for any Democratic candidate for governor for years. The senate stands 29 Republicans and four Democrats. The house stands 89 Republicans and 21 Democrats. The majority on joint ballot for the re-election of Senator Hanna will be 93.

Democrats Carry Maryland

Baltimore, Nov. 5—In the city of Baltimore the entire Democratic state ticket, headed by Edwin Warfield for governor, was elected by about 5000 plurality. The returns from all of the counties of the state have not been received, but enough reports are in hand to assure an overwhelming Democratic majority on joint ballot in the general assembly, which will elect a successor to United States Senator McComas.

Late Figures From Iowa

Des Moines, Nov. 5.—Unofficial estimates place Governor Cummins' plurality over Sullivan (Dem.) at 55,000. Cummins is somewhat ahead of the remainder of the Republican state ticket. The Democrats will have 23 of the 100 members of the next house, a gain of six, and eight of the 50 members of the senate, a loss of two.

Republicans Charge Fraud

Louisville, Nov. 5.—Returns, which are complete save for a few scattered precincts in remote parts of the state, give Beckham (Dem.), for governor, a majority of 30,403 over Belknap, his Republican opponent. The Republicans are preparing charges of fraud alleged to have been perpetrated in Louisville.

Republican Plurality of 265,000

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—Complete returns from all but 11 counties of the state indicate a plurality for Mathues (Rep.), candidate for state treasurer, approximating 265,000.

Barnes Has Big Majority

Omaha, Nov. 5.—Late returns show that Barnes (Rep.) for supreme judge will have a majority of at least 8000 over Judge Sullivan.

Hanna and the Presidency

Cleveland, Nov. 5.—Senator Hanna, referring to the renewed suggestions made in various quarters to the effect that he is the logical Republican candidate for the presidency next year as a result of the unprecedented victory won in Ohio at Tuesday's election, made this statement last night: "The results of the election in Ohio yesterday in no wise changes my opinion in reference to my proposed candidacy for the presidency, of which position the public has been fully advised."

Ten Thousand Russians In Mukden

CITY BREVITIES.

Another whist party will be held at Odd Fellows' hall, Wollaston, tomorrow evening.

A French class has been started in Atlantic, which has twelve members. The meetings are called every Wednesday evening.

A crowd numbering not far from one thousand gathered on Common street, near the residence of Representative Fallon, Tuesday night, and celebrated that gentleman's election with bonfires, etc.

A meeting was held in Memorial church Wednesday evening to discuss the resignation of Rev. J. H. Whitaker from the pastorate. His resignation was refused, and a committee sent to interview him in regard to the continuance of his present position.

About sixty-five attended the pumpkin supper of the State of Maine club on Monday evening, and they do say that the pies served reminded them of home. Mrs. G. A. Wardwell was chairman of the committee. It was voted to name the club the Pine Tree State Association. A committee on by-laws was appointed which will probably report at the meeting Nov. 16.

MCKENZIE---GREER.

An Engineer of City Department Takes Unto Himself a Wife.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Greer, Gay street, the happy couple being their daughter Cora Louise, and Mr. Walter S. McKenzie, son of Mrs. Catherine McKenzie of Upland road. Rev. Edwin N. Hardy tied the nuptial knot. There were two bridesmaids, Miss Mabel G. McKenzie and Miss Florence S. Greer.

The bride's gown was of white muslin, trimmed with satin ribbon and lace. The bridesmaids also wore muslin gowns with trimming of narrow satin ribbon.

An informal reception followed the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie, being assisted in receiving by their parents. The two charming bridesmaids ushered the guests. Palms and chrysanthemums made pretty decorations. There was a pretty display of gifts, which attested to the popularity of the young people. Mr. McKenzie is an engineer in the Quincy Sewerage department, having an office at City Hall.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie, are to make their home in Quincy and will be at home to friends at 69 Upland road after January first.

Quincy vs. Roslindale.

At the Granite street alleys Wednesday evening a match game was bowled by the Quincys and Roslindales. Quincy won two out of the three strings. The scores of the local team were high and very even. They bowled a total of 1315 to their opponents 1240. White of Quincy and Wilkinson of Roslindale were high men on three-string totals with 275, and Rhodes of Roslindale low man at 223. Next week Tuesday the teams will bowl again at Roslindale.

Social of Bible Class.

The Bible class of the First Presbyterian church held a social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Forbes Craig on Independence avenue on Friday evening of last week. It will probably be remembered as the best social ever held by the class, there being the largest number of members ever at a social.

Among these were the former teacher, Mr. Robert Habberley, Rev. W. J. Sprowle and Mr. Bishop, also a former teacher now superintendent of the Sunday school. All addressed the class in a very gratifying way and were applauded.

Solos were sung by Miss M. Hall, accompanied on the piano by Miss Margaret Todd. Piano selections were rendered in fine style by Miss Minnie Packard.

An adjournment was made to the barn where games were enjoyed, and later refreshments were served in the house. It was 11.30 before "Auld Lang Syne" was sung.

His Other Name.

The candidate for the place of coachman had been weighed and was not wanting, according to his new mistress' lights. Then the question of his name, which was Patrick, came up. The mistress objected to it in her heart, so she explained that it was her custom always to call her coachman by his family name. Had he any objections?

"Not the slightest, ma'am."

"What is your last name, Patrick?"

"Fitzpatrick, ma'am."

THE INDIAN "UPRISING"

Government Officials of the Opinion That Whites Were the Aggressors

Washington, Nov. 5.—The commissioner of Indian affairs has received the following telegram from Indian Agent Brennan, who is at Newcastle, Wyo:

"Report of Indian trouble here exaggerated. In my opinion a mistake was made in precipitating the fight. Would recommend that United States attorney of this district be directed to, on behalf of department, make a thorough investigation. Am assured by officers of this county that no further trouble will occur."

The Indian office sympathizes with the view that the whites were the aggressors and will recommend to Secretary Hitchcock that he ask the attorney general to have the affair investigated as recommended by Mr. Brennan.

What London Press Thinks of It

London, Nov. 5.—The morning papers here display a great interest in the outcome of the revolution in the Isthmus of Panama. The view is expressed on all sides that the United States is not unwilling to see the success of the revolution which would so greatly facilitate the successful carrying out of the canal scheme and, while no paper expresses objection to such a solution, some are inclined to think it would be best in the interest of civilization. In this case, however, it is recognzed that, if not actually absorbed, Panama would become practically an American sphere of influence.

Flagman Blamed

Trenton, Nov. 5.—The coroner's jury which investigated the accident at Washington's crossing, on the Pennsylvania railroad on Oct. 17, which resulted in the death of 17 men and the injury of 40 more, blames Jacob Saums, flagman of the work train that was crashed into, for not having gone back a sufficient distance to properly warn the second train. Conductor Conover and Conductor Dix are both censured for not having warned Engineer Reed of the second train that the first train would stop where the collision occurred.

Japs' Indignation Aroused

Tokio, Japan, Nov. 5.—Reports from Pekin say Russia now threatens to assume sole charge of the government of Manchuria unless China promptly dismisses Yuen, the taoti of Mukden, and decapitates another mandarin who recently punished disorderly Chinese bandits in Russian employ. This, together with the confirmation of the reports of the reoccupation of Mukden by the Russians and the seizure of Governor Tsang causes intense indignation here as not conforming with Russia's pacific declarations.

Railway Postal Figures

Washington, Nov. 5.—The annual report of Second Assistant Postmaster General Shallenberger shows that the annual rate of expenditure for all classes of mail transportation service in this country is $63,394,542, and that the rate of cost per mile travelled is $12.89. Railway postal clerks handled during the year 15,999,802,630 pieces of mail matter, exclusive of registered matter, and 1,387,664 errors were reported in their distribution, a ratio of one error to 11,530 correct distributions.

Porto Ricans' Skirts Are Clear

San Juan, P. R., Nov. 5.—Governor Hunt has been notified by Federal Marshal Wilson and District Attorney Pettengill, who investigated the charge that a San Domingan revolution was being hatched in Porto Rico, that they found no arms and see no cause for interference. Advices received here indicate that Hayti is assisting the San Domingan rebels. Governor Hunt has notified Secretary of State Hay of the situation.

Bank Was Too Accomodating

Washington, Nov. 5.—The First National bank of Victor, Col., has been closed by direction of the acting comptroller of the currency, the examiner reporting the bank to be insolvent. The bank was organized in September, 1900. The failure is due to losses sustained by reason of excessive accommodations extended to mining interests with which the officers of the bank were connected.

Combes' Contention Upheld

Paris, Nov. 5.—Premier Combes has gained a decided victory in the chamber of deputies, his policy in connection with the congregations being sustained by a large majority. An amendment was proposed for the suppression of the clerical estimates in the budget. Combes urgently requested the chamber to reject the amendment and it was rejected, 312 to 205.

Eighteen Millions of Pupils

Washington, Nov. 5.—The report of the commissioner of education for the last fiscal year places the total number of pupils enrolled in the common schools during the year at 15,925,887, or over 20 percent of the entire population. The grand enrollment for the year, including all classes of public and private schools, is 18,080,840.

High Office Abolished

New York, Nov. 5.—The resignation of Veryl Preston, third vice president of the United States Steel corporation, is announced. He has been connected with the steel corporation since its organization and had supervision of the distribution of its products. It is understood that the position has been abolished.

BLUE HILL CARS.

Petition for Joint Use of Tracks with Old Colony Company.

Wednesday the Railroad Commission gave a hearing on the petitions of the Blue Hill street railway company for leave to enjoy joint use of tracks with the Old Colony street railway company, and for leave to issue $250,000 in first mortgage bonds. Irwin McDowell Garfield (son of the late President Garfield) and A. M. Saltonstall appeared for the first petition. Mr. Saltonstall presented the case, after which Mr. Garfield withdrew and Mr. Saltonstall went on with the second.

In the first case the Blue Hill company desires joint use of tracks in Milton and Boston. The location on which joint use of tracks is desired is entirely in the parkway of the Metropolitan district near Mattapan, where Blue Hill avenue comes into the parkway, where the tracks go over the Neponset river. There was no opposition, and the commission said that the petition would be approved.

Mr. Saltonstall then said, regarding the issue of bonds, that the money was wanted for the purpose of building branches and extension of the plant of the company. A vote of the directors approving the issue had been passed October 21, 1903, by more than a two-thirds' vote.

Removal.

Opticians and Opticians.

'Tis the Pedler Optician. I heard him complain:
"Im tired of tramping, I must rest once again."
So he settles him down for a month or two's rest,
And will charitably (?) give your eyes a "free test."

When later you find that your "specs" are not right,
You also will find that he has skipped in the night,
That your fine gold-bowed glasses are nothing but brass,
That you have the "experience," while he has the cash.

If you are troubled with headaches or defective sight, shun all pedlers and strange opticians. Consult WILLIAMS, who has fitted glasses to thousands upon thousands right here in Quincy during the past sixteen years.

He has all the latest instruments that scientists can devise and every facility for dark room examinations.

He will tell you frankly about your case and will not burden you with glasses if they are not necessary.

You cannot miss it if you go to ADVERTISE.

CAUCUSES

However, Were Not Largely Attended.

Candidates Nominated for the Council.

Ward Committees Elected in Each Ward of City.

Democratic caucuses were held in all wards of the city Thursday night. There were no contests for any of the offices to be voted for at the municipal election. The nearest approach to a contest was in Ward Four where there were two lists for Ward Committee.

As a rule the caucuses were but slimly attended, lack of contest being the reason. Ward Four had the largest attended caucus but the total all over the city did not exceed 135

George H. Wilson was nominated for Mayor.

For School Committee at large, Henry C. Hallowell was nominated.

The nominations for Councilmen at large were: Robert J. Clifford of Ward Six, James Dean of Ward Three, Philip T. Eagan of Ward Four, Clinton Jones of Ward Five, Edward H. Perry, Jr., of Ward Two.

The caucuses in detail follow:

WARD ONE.

The Ward One caucus was not largely attended, but eight voting. Walter M. Packard was chairman and James P. Flannigan clerk. They also did the counting.

Herbert S. Hayford was nominated for school committee from the ward.

The ward Councilmen nominated were Francis Abele, Jr., Zenas S. Arnold and Hallock H. Hill.

The ward committee elected are: Luke J. Coyle, Philip D. Cook, Walter B. Wilson, Walter M. Packard, James E. Dunn, John J. Phelan, Michael Boyle, Thomas J. Dunphy, James P. Flanagan.

WARD TWO.

Seventeen voted at the Quincy Point caucus and all for George H. Wilson for Mayor. After the caucus had been opened for business a letter was read from Alexander Fryer declining to be a candidate for councilman from the ward, but as he received three votes he was nominated just the same.

Edward P. Connors was chairman of the caucus and Perry Green clerk. The tellers were Michael King and D. J. Ford.

The nominees for Councilmen are: Timothy J. Carey, Alexander S. Fryer and John C. McGuane.

The Ward Committee elect are: Joseph D. Griffin, Robert F. Sullivan, Timothy J. Sullivan, Timothy J. Flaherty, William F. Cain, Edward H. Perry, Jr., Charles Mullane, Timothy J. Carey and Dennis J. Ford.

WARD THREE.

At South Quincy the polls were opened at 7.45 and it was voted to keep them open until 8.30. At the latter hour twenty-five had voted. One of the caucus officers said he knew of four or five more who were coming and upon his motion it was voted to keep the caucus open half an hour longer. There were no contests and no interest.

William A. Kelley was chairman and J. L. Heaney clerk. The tellers were Cornelius Donahoe, Edward Ferguson, James Doherty and L. J. Levie.

Albert A. Murphy was the only one nominated for the Council.

Ward Committee elect: Cornelius D. Austin, James Dean, James F. Morrissey, Antony L. Mottla, Thomas F. Shea, Edward H. McGinty, Richard J. Gray, John P. Duffy and James H. Sullivan.

WARD FOUR.

Fifty-seven votes were cast at the West Quincy caucus. This was the only ward in the city in which there was a double list. The contest here was on the election of a ward committee. There were eighteen names of which nine were to be elected.

Thomas V. Keating was chairman of the caucus and Michael King the secretary. The tellers were John W. Burke, James P. Eagan, Louis Pendis and Henry Riley.

James F. Burke was nominated for school committee.

William P. Hughes, John J. Reardon, and Richard H. Walsh were nominated for councilmen.

The ward committee elected were: John J. Reardon, James F. Burke, William T. Shea, Henry P. Hughes, Michael Kiley, Cornelius Crowley, Richard Walsh, Philip T. Eagan, James F. McDonald.

WARD FIVE.

The Wollaston caucus was not largely attended, although there were as many votes as usual in this ward. Five was the number who took a hand in making the nominations. This ward is entitled to nominate a candidate for School Committee from the ward, but none was made, and no nominations were made for Councilmen from the ward.

Patrick Ferguson was chairman and M. E. Cook, clerk. The tellers were Jeremiah Deneen and the clerk.

The ward committee elected are: Clinton Jones, Edward Twitchell, Patrick Ferguson, Jeremiah Deneen, Michael E. Cook, Francis R. McCormick, Daniel O'Mera, Patrick Desmond and David J. Roche.

WARD SIX.

Thomas H. Hayes was chairman of the Atlantic caucus, and John H. Canty, clerk. They also acted as tellers. Twenty votes were cast, Mr. Wilson receiving 19. There were no contests of any kind.

Bartholomew A. McLean was nominated for Councilman.

The Ward committee elected were: Michael Hayes, Martin W. Cunniff, Lawrence Curtin, Charles Duggan, Robert J. Clifford, Bartholomew McLane, Peter J. Colligan, John H. Canty and Bernard Cullen.

—President G. Stanley Hall, of Clark University, has announced his belief that coeducation is responsible for the decrease in number of marriages. The general burden of his argument is that the association of young men and women in the class-room, the library, and the laboratory results in mutual repulsion rather than attraction.

ONE RED EAR

Found at Husking Bee of King's Daughters.

Unique and Pleasing Entertainment.

Cast of Characters Shows a Great Medley.

The Husking Bee given under the auspices of the Kings Daughters a Bethany chapel on Thursday evening was a great success in every way—as an entertainment; in attendance, and in finances. The only regret that many expressed was that they were not permitted to participate in the fun. Red ears were not very plenty, but one was found pretty near the end.

The platform was considerably enlarged and was arranged to represent the floor of a barn at a husking. Corn stalks were numerous, and also farm implements, etc., not forgetting a swing suspended from the rafters, jack o'lanterns, etc.

Among the invited guests to the husking were many nationalities, and country people of all ages who were true to life. There was a colored couple, an Irish couple, a Chinaman, the city dude, Little Lord Fauntleroy, and others.

Mrs. Charles Sampson presided at the piano and the merrymaking included several songs. One introduced the song sheet. Then there were jokes galore, and all in all a merry good time. No husking would be complete without a grand supper and one was served on the stage.

The cast of characters:

Uncle Nathan Peterkin, host,	Harry Bates
Thomas J. Peterkin (home from college)	W. F. Sidelinger

BANISHED FROM HOME

Action In Case of Minister Who Is Considered Eccentric

Montville, Conn., Nov. 6.—James W. Fitch, an ordained minister, was charged with having threatened the life of John Stapleton, who has charge of Fitch's farm. Instead of following the usual course of trial a conference was held between Justice of the Peace Bolles, the attorneys and several witnesses. At this conference it was decided to have Fitch removed to New London, not to return to his home here without permission of the executor of the estate, William B. Walden.

Fitch protested against this arrangement, but it was agreed to by his attorney and was ordered by the court. The hearing was then adjourned until Jan. 24, Fitch being held under a nominal bond of $100 to appear. Fitch is a college graduate, and as an ordained minister has preached some. For some time he has been considered eccentric.

Gulian Hears of More Plots

Boston, Nov. 6.—Once again the local Armenian colony is in a state of ferment on account of news which has reached Editor Gulian regarding the intended movements of opponents in Boston and vicinity. Information was brought to Gulian that meetings of the new Henchagists, held in Lynn, Worcester and Lowell had for their purpose the perfection of plans to blot out every member of the old order in this country. A man present at the Worcester meeting stated that the names of Gulian and other prominent leaders were especially mentioned, and that liberal rewards have been offered to those who can successfully bring about the death of either man.

Tramp Army Numbers 79,427

Boston, Nov. 6.—There are 79,427 tramps in the United States and 2832 in Massachusetts. Such is the estimate which Professor McCook of Trinity college made last night before the session of the Massachusetts conference of charities. "Tramps" was the subject for discussion. Professor McCook estimated the weekly cost of each tramp to the public, excluding the cost of his depredations, at $4.50. Of 1300 whom he had met he declared that 10 in every 100 were diseased, and their wanderings were consequently a menace to the public health.

Swallowed Sulphuric Acid

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 6.—William H. Thompson, a retired sea captain who formerly commanded steamships in the Atlantic carrying trade, died here from the effect of sulphuric acid, taken with suicidal intent. Thompson leaves a wife and child who went to England after Thompson had been arrested on the charge of attempting to shoot his wife and had been himself shot by a man who interfered in the quarrel, mistaking Thompson for a burglar.

Vandals Damaged Tombstones

Warren Mass., Nov. 6.—Marcus Burroughs, cemetery commissioner, has raised $100 to be used as a reward for the arrest and conviction of persons who recently damaged tombstones in the old section of Pine Grove cemetery. The damage can never be replaced as some of the stones were covered with moss and the names have entirely been obliterated by the storms of the last 150 years.

—It's a sign of stunted intellect to boast that one does not bother with politics to the extent of voting for those whom he believes deserves election. The man who is too good to do his political duty is not good enough to deserve the rights and privileges of citizenship.—Charlestown Enterprise.

RURAL LODGE.

Holds First Meeting in the New Hall.

Was the Annual Communication.

New Quarters are Commodious and Richly Furnished.

Rural lodge of Masons held their first meeting in their new quarters in the Hancock building on Thursday evening, which was also the annual communication. There was a very large attendance.

Some idea of the commodious quarters may be obtained from the fact that there are 6500 square feet of floor space all on one floor. The sizes of the rooms are as follows:

Masonic hall, 40 x 60
Banquet hall, 26 x 40
Kitchen, 12 x 17
Prelate hall, 20 x 25
Ladies parlor, 13 x 20
Reception room, 25 x 37
Two coat rooms, 7 x 31
Masters room, 7 x 8

There are also finely appointed toilet rooms for ladies as well as gentlemen.

The lodge room is high studded, with wood work of white and tinted walls. The carpet is a rich royal plush of two tone red, with a deep border. The officers' chairs and settees of solid mahogany, are upholstered in plain green mohair plush.

The lodge room is lighted by 120 concealed electric lights, placed in a row near the ceiling and extending around the room.

The reception and dining rooms have hard wood floors and the walls for four feet up are sheathed in North Carolina pine and stained moss green, while the balance of the wall is prettily tinted. In the reception room is a 12 foot oak table and comfortable chairs.

The ladies' parlor and Masters room are also richly carpeted and will be furnished later.

The lodge has already expended over $2,500 for furnishings and when completed the total will be near $3,000. A larger part of this will be paid by subscription.

The business of the evening included the annual reports of officers and committees, and election of officers. The reports showed the lodge to be in a flourishing condition in membership and finances.

The following officers were reelected:
W. M.,—H. F. Pierce.
S. W.,—Joseph P. Prout.
J. W.,—H. L. White.
T.,—Fred L. Jones.
S.,—Walter E. Simmons.

The lodge has already experienced a new interest because of the new quarters and is receiving applications at every meeting, and expects a large increase in membership.

Arrangements are being made for the dedication of the new hall when the ladies will probably have an opportunity to admire the new quarters.

Believes in Anarchy.

Helm Tighe, a German, was refused his final naturalization papers by Judge Avery on Thursday because he said he believed in anarchy. Helm and his brother John were after their final papers. John received his all right and Helm answered all questions correctly until the question in regard to believing in anarchy. To this question he answered yes. His brother attempted to prompt him but was not permitted to. The court then asked the question again, and Helm again answered yes. The court then refused to issue the papers.

Good Afternoon

Dowie says he loves New Yorkers but hates those of them who read the newspapers.

Of the 38 cities in the State, Quincy was one of nine where there was a falling off in the vote for Col. Gaston.

In order to stop flirtations the Chicago street railways declare they will employ no unmarried man under twenty-five years old.

Through the intercession of the War Department, the President has just pardoned a military prisoner who committed murder over forty years ago. He was imprisoned for life but escaped and has since led such a respectable life that the War Department did not care to take advantage of the discovery of his identity.

The majority of the Committee on Public Buildings of the City Council, both in 1902 and 1903, were in favor of the Gould plans for the enlargement of the high school; the majority of the joint committee on Finance and Public Buildings voted in favor of the Gould plans, the School Committee are almost unanimous for the Gould plans and have approved no others, yet it is probable that the City Council will turn them down. Everybody admits that the Gould plans would make the most attractive building, greatly improving the appearance of the present building, and the cost would be practically the same. The delay is serious and a handicap for High school pupils of today.

In view of the uncompromising attitude of the factions in the City Council, which seem to be equally divided, and for other reasons, we would suggest that a new High school building be erected either in the vicinity of the present building or in some other section of the city.

Ship Subsidy and Labor.

Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, Secretary of the Treasury, in his address at Everett Saturday night touched on a matter of local interest. He said: The issue is not between men, nor between candidates, but between policies. The proposed ship subsidy is not for the sake of finding employment for capital so much as for the employment of labor. To the extent that we can keep our own markets for our own producers, we furnish employment for labor. To the extent that we can find a foreign market for the products of labor, we also furnish employment for labor.

Our friend in Milford expressed the opinion that we would never expend any public money in building a merchant marine. That may be so, but unless we do spend public money in that way we will never have a merchant marine. And unless we have a merchant marine plying between our ports and the ports of South America, South Africa and the islands of the South Pacific, we will never get our share of that trade. And unless we get our share of that trade our laborers will be deprived of profitable employment which legitimately belongs to them.

GREATER BOSTON.

Figures of This Year Show It to be Democratic.

It may be interesting to consider, says an editorial in the Boston Herald, what the political complexion would be of Greater Boston if an election should be held in such a district. Of course, Greater Boston is a term that may be given very wide range, but we have taken the cities and towns that lie entirely or have their largest area within the eight-mile limit from the State House. We have not included Winchester or Stoneham, as the eight-mile curve would divide these towns about equally.

In this Greater Boston we include the cities of Boston, Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Medford, Malden, Melrose, Newton, Quincy and Somerville, and the towns of Arlington, Belmont, Brookline, Hyde Park, Milton, Revere, Watertown and Winthrop. Of these eight towns the Democrats did not carry a single one, the total vote for the eight standing: Bates, 6650; Gaston 4127.

Of the nine cities in this district outside of Boston itself Cambridge was the only one carried by the Democrats, and the total vote of these nine cities was: Bates, 25,988, and Gaston, 18,147. If to these totals is added the vote of the city of Boston, we have as the vote of this arbitrary Greater Boston 60,932 for Gov. Bates and 69,597 for Col. Gaston, a Democratic plurality of 8665.

On the basis of this state election, therefore, such a Greater Boston would be Democratic, though it would be by so small a margin in such a large total vote that neither party would be absolutely sure of success. Such a city, if it existed, would cast about 36 per cent. of the total vote of the state as measured by the votes cast for the heads of the tickets of the two principal parties.

THROUGH CARS.

Railroad Commissioners Approve Location for Connecting Link.

Thursday action has been taken by the railroad commissioners as follows. A letter has been sent to Mayor Bryant of Quincy saying that the board has decided to issue an order approving the crossing at grade over the Neponset branch of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad at Neponset avenue in Dorchester, and adding that the board expects to issue its certificate for a double track location at the same point,—and it is understood that this will be written today.

Upon the application of the Blue Hill street railway company, it appearing, after due notice and hearing, that this company and the Old Colony street railway company own and operate connecting railways, and that they have entered into an agreement providing for the joint use of tracks in the Blue Hills parkway in Milton and Boston, to which use the Metropolitan Park Commission has given consent, it is ordered that such authority for entering upon and using the tracks of these railways as may be derived from the abovenamed contract be approved, with the understanding that the operation of cars over the tracks subject to such use shall be governed by the joint rules and regulations duly established and published by both companies.

B. Williams, Jr., of New York. One of the treats of the convention will be to hear Fred Butler, the basso, who is so popular with college men, in several vocal numbers.

CLASH OVER INDIANS

Settled by Their Being Turned Over to Wyoming to Be Dealt With

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 6.—The request of Governor Chatterton of the federal government for the return of nine Indians who were captured near Edgemont, S. D., was complied with and the prisoners were turned over to Sheriff McDermott and posse at Crawford. They will be charged with murdering Sheriff Miller and Deputy Falkenburg.

This step followed a series of dispatches in which the federal authorities and the state authorities clashed in regard to the question of right to deal with the punishment of the redskins.

Governor Chatterton last evening received word that nine Sioux bucks had been safely landed in the Douglas jail. The Indians confess that they were in the party that killed Sheriff Miller and Deputy Falkenburg.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock has received the following dispatch from Governor Chatterton of Wyoming, in answer to the request of the secretary that the Indians arrested be protected:

"Answering your telegram: Have just been in communication with the sheriff at Douglas. There is no mob violence threatened. There was no hostility on the part of the whites. The sheriff demanded the surrender of the Indians. Indians opened fire, killing sheriff and deputy. I assure you that the state will take every precaution to protect Indians. We simply desire that they be tried as any white man charged with crime. I shall personally use every endeavor to see that they have a fair trial."

Prospect of Another Coal Strike

Denver, Nov. 6.—Notices signed by President Mitchell and the other general officers of the United Mine Workers have been issued to the miners and mine laborers in and around the coal mines of Colorado, Utah, New Mexico and southern Wyoming notifying them to lay down their tools on Nov. 9 and quit work until such a time as the coal companies concede to operate by and through a scale agreed upon in joint conference of representatives from both sides. The demand will be for an eight-hour day, a 20 percent raise in wages and other concessions.

JUNTA IN FULL CONTROL

Washington Gets Official Advices From the Isthmus

TO EXECUTE OBLIGATIONS

In Accordance With Broad Interpretation of Treaty of 1846—Isthmus to Be Policed and Transit Kept Open—Troops Leave Colon

Washington, Nov. 6.—The president has decided to make a statement regarding the provisional government of the republic of Panama, of the establishment of which this government has been officially informed. In view of the latest advices from Colon to the effect that the junta has succeeded in gaining control of the situation it is currently expected that this announcement will recognize the newly established government, but it is impossible to secure official information on this point.

The decision to make an announcement was reached after a conference at the White House last night of the president, Secretary Hay, Secretary Moody, Assistant Secretary Loomis, Rear Admiral Walker, retired, and Rear Admiral Taylor, chief of the bureau of navigation. The conference ended shortly after 11 o'clock.

A cablegram was received from the American consul at Colon saying that the 400 Colombian troops which arrived there Monday on the Carthagena had sailed away.

It can be stated that this government will conduct affairs with a firm hand in the execution of the treaty of 1846. Orders have been sent to the various naval commanders in the Caribbean that the isthmus is to be policed, the transit kept open and also that bloodshed must be prevented at any cost. This is further than the United States has ever gone heretofore and, in the opinion of officials here, indicates that the establishment of the new government at Panama, if it proves stable and orderly, will have the good wishes of the United States and our ultimate recognition and co-operation in conducting an orderly and permanent government on the isthmus. Advocates of the construction of the Panama canal say this assures the execution of that project.

The Prairie will sail from League Island next week with 300 marines for Guantanamo and in case the situation continues serious on the isthmus the Prairie will proceed thence to Colon and land additional marines.

The dispatch received from the executive board of the new government announcing the establishment of the provisional government of the republic of Panama stated that its action was in response to a popular and spontaneous demand on the part of the isthmian people and that the board was assured of the necessary military strength to carry out its determination.

It was first intended to send a reply to the three consuls, but after the conference last night it was decided that no announcement would be made as to the character of this reply until today. The departure of the troops from Colon greatly relieves the seriousness of the situation and the arrival of the Dixie last night relieved the general apprehension here regarding the safety of American lives and property.

This government is interested but not surprised to note the European approval of its policy, as shown in dispatches from London, Berlin and Paris, but it is added by a high official that the restoration of order on the isthmus and its maintenance has been long desired by the European powers and that the United States is in reality doing them and their interests a service.

Officials of the administration say nothing has yet been decided as to our policy save that it has been decided to execute the obligations of the United States as to affairs on the Isthmus of Panama in accordance with a broad interpretation of the treaty of 1846.

Dr. Herran, the Colombian charge here, says he has not received any news from his government regarding the revolt in Panama nor has he had anything from the officials on the isthmus. He may make a report to his government of the conditions on the isthmus as he learns them here and of the feeling of the United States government in the matter.

It is suggested that in the event of postponement of recognition of the new government the question may be referred to congress for action.

Rejoicing at Colon

Colon, Nov. 6.—At a conference yesterday afternoon Colonel Torres, commander of the Colombian troops here, seeing that the situation was hopeless, agreed to embark his soldiers on the royal mail steamer Orinoco, which sailed for Cartagena at 7:30 p. m. A special train from Panama brought General Tovar, who also sailed on the Orinoco.

The people of Colon are now jubilant. The flag of the new republic flies from the railway stations at Gatun and Bohio Solado, near Colon. Troops from Panama will doubtless take charge of the city today.

The municipal council of Colon has just notified the provisional government at Panama of its adherence to the new republic.

Intense excitement prevailed here all day. The Yankee bluejackets stood at their arms ready to fight at a moment's notice. It was expected that the 400 Colombian troops which had been landed here might attack the city at any moment and the bluejackets were determined to beat them off.

The bluejackets have barricades erected and realizing the small force he had the commander of the Nashville distributed rifles among 50 citizens whom he called on to reinforce the bluejackets.

Towards evening, however, the Colombian commander got scared on seeing the determined attitude of the Americans. He learned, moreover, that Panama troops might move against him at any moment, and so he decided to abandon Colon.

Sympathy With Revolutionists

Panama, Nov. 6.—Telegraphic advices received from the interior provinces say there was great rejoicing there when the news of the declaration of the independence of Panama became known. The government troops stationed at Penonome, 65 miles southwest of Panama, have joined in the revolutionary movement and almost every moment telegrams are received from the most important men in the interior announcing their adhesion to the new republic.

The revolution has been practically bloodless, as only two Chinamen were killed during the bombardment of the city by the government gunboat Bogota. The fire of the warship unroofed one house, a shell hit the tower of the cathedral, and another fell on the house of Frederico Boyd, a member of the revolutionary junta.

The foreign consuls promptly sent a communication to the commander of the Bogota protesting against his action in opening fire on the city without giving proper notification to do so.

Germans Think We Started It

Berlin, Nov. 6.—Regarding Panama it is officially stated here that the only desire of Germany is to see peace preserved and to have the United States build the inter-oceanic canal, which would benefit German commerce. Germany looks to the United States to protect the Germans on the isthmus. The theory of the cause of the revolution which is currently accepted here is that the United States brought it about, with the object of building the inter-oceanic canal.

Hazing Testimony All In

Annapolis, Nov. 6.—The court martial of First Class Midshipmen Lofland, Little and Chaffee, who are charged with having "hazed" Fourth Classmen Lawrence and Humphrey, has closed. The evidence indicates that the accused are guilty. A decision is not expected until next week. In the meantime the alleged culprits are confined aboard the prison ship Santee. The first classmen are alleged to have compelled the younger men to stand upon their heads and to undergo certain other physical contortions.

Not Worth Bothering About

Toronto, Nov. 6.—A. B. Aylesworth, one of the Canadian commissioners on the Alaskan boundary dispute, does not think that either Canada or the United States will have cause to worry over the fact that a stretch of 140 miles of Alaskan territory has not been defined by the award. He says: "Members of the commission considered that this was of no practical consequence. It is a snow and ice region, useless unless they find a gold mine under it some day."

Wants $25,000 For a Kiss

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Twenty-five thousand dollars for a kiss is the price that Mrs. Louise G. Stitt wants from Samuel E. Darby, patent attorney. Mrs. Stitt is an inventor of corsets and mysterious devices to hold woman's apparel in place. She had business with Darby, and while conversing alone with him in her home, she avers, he seized her and kissed her. In consequence she has been estranged from her husband ever since.

Railway Employes Considering Strike

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Employes of the Chicago City Railway company, which operates all the electric and cable lines on the south side of the city, are voting on the advisability of ordering a strike. The demands of the men are for an increase of pay of 4 cents an hour for the men employed in the electric lines and for the employment of none but union men. The company has declined to grant either request.

Murphy Will Distribute Patronage

New York, Nov. 6.—The disposition of the huge patronage which has fallen to Charles F. Murphy by the election of McClellan is now the sole topic in political circles. It is said at Tammany Hall that every district leader except James J. Martin will be "provided for." The total amount in salaries which is at Murphy's disposal through the mayor is estimated at $10,000,000.

Chamberlain's Claim Rebutted

Manchester, Nov. 6.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, addressing a meeting of business men here, rebutted Joseph Chamberlain's claim that British trade was decaying, said the total amount of the trade of Great Britain had increased, and asserted that the growth of imports was evidence of the increasing wealth of the country.

Maryland's Latest Figures

Baltimore, Nov. 6.—Election returns are now substantially complete and they show a plurality of 12,375 for Warfield (Dem). for governor. The Democrats will have a two-thirds majority in each branch of the legislature and a majority of 49 on joint ballot.

GRIP CONVALESCENCE

There's nothing better than Scott's Emulsion after the grip. When the fever is gone the body is left weak and exhausted; the nervous system is completely run down and vitality is low.

Two things to do: give strength to the whole body and new force to the nerves. Scott's Emulsion will do it; contains just what the worn-out system needs.

Rich blood, healthy flesh, resistive force, more and better nourishment are what Scott's Emulsion supplies to the convalescent.

Scott's Emulsion is the original and has been the standard emulsion of cod liver oil for nearly thirty years. Why buy the new, untried, cheap emulsions or so called wines, cordials and extracts of cod liver oil, when you can buy what is sure to help you?

NIXON MADE A PROTEST

Against Questions on Finances of Shipbuilding Combine

CANNOT ANSWER OFF-HAND

Interrogator Had Benefit of Full Investigation of Figures—Voted For Expenditures Which Were Said to Have Wrecked the Concern

New York, Nov. 6.—The features of Thursday's session of the hearing in the United States Shipbuilding case were the bitter attack made by Lewis Nixon upon William D. Guthrie, counsel for the defendants and representative of the interests of Charles M. Schwab, for his methods of cross-examination; leading questions by Mr. Untermeyer, counsel for the complainants, as to the absence of competition between the Bethlehem Steel company and the Carnegie plant of the United States Steel corporation in government contracts for armor plate; and the entire change of front of Guthrie, who heretofore had aimed to bring out the fact that the value of the constituent plants of the United States Shipbuilding company was not over-estimated.

Guthrie adopted a line of questioning designed to show that the estimates of value were made by the promoter, the vendors and other interested or unexpert appraisers and were practically without weight in determining the exact value of the plants and the assets of the consolidation.

Nixon was on the stand all day. His cross-examination was finished and the redirect examination partly completed. At the opening of the afternoon session he presented a personal protest, in which he declared that Guthrie, in consultation with Max Pam, has adopted a line of questioning designed to place him in a false and discreditable position regarding the sale of his plant to the shipbuilding consolidation. The protest was angry and bitter in tone and intimated that Guthrie had been unfair in asking him to answer from memory questions about the finances of his company without opportunity to look up the details, while Guthrie had had the benefit of a full investigation of the figures.

By agreement of counsel the protest was stricken from the record, but Nixon thereafter during the hearing insisted that if he were to answer questions he should be allowed to make the necessary explanations.

Beside asking Nixon about the organization of the shipbuilding company, the valuations put upon the constituent companies and the methods by which they were reached, Guthrie took up the alleged withholding of dividends by the Bethlehem company, an action which, according to the charges of Receiver Smith, contemplated the wrecking of the shipbuilding company.

Guthrie placed in contrast Nixon's attitude in demanding, by letter to President McIlvainy of the Bethlehem company, that the Bethlehem directors declare a dividend to save the shipbuilding company, and later, at two subsequent meetings of the Bethlehem directors, in acquiescing in resolutions declaring it inexpedient to declare such a dividend. He also brought out that Nixon had voted for the resolution for the expenditures for betterments. This was the means, so Receiver Smith charges, by which earnings were diverted from dividends to needless improvements.

Guthrie took up figures from the financial reports of the Bethlehem company to show its inability to pay dividends. Untermeyer, from the same reports, attempted to show that the expenditures for the betterment and new material were excessive and that the company might well have declared a dividend had it been so desired. He was questioning Nixon about the trip of examination made by Bethlehem and Carnegie officials to determine means of improving the Bethlehem plant when the hearing closed for the day.

For Highway Improvements

Washington, Nov. 6.—W. H. Moore, chairman of the Good Roads association, called on the president to get him to take advanced ground in his message in favor of this movement. The present plan is to secure the appointment of a commission to determine the proportionate part which state and federal government should bear in a general system of highway improvements. It is argued that as much should be done for this as for irrigation.

To Help Bonaparte Investigate

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—Clinton R. Woodruff of this city, secretary of the National Municipal league, has been appointed by Secretary Hitchcock a special inspector for the Indian service, to serve as a colleague of C. J. Bonaparte in investigating the charges incident to the administration of Indian affairs in the Indian Territory.

Savages Massacre Germans

London, Nov. 6.—According to the Cape Town corresponrent of The Daily Mail, the Bondelzwart tribesmen, who are engaged in a native rebellion in Demaraland, part of the German possessions in southwest Africa, hearing that reinforcements were being sent against them, redoubled their efforts and succeeded in capturing Warmbad fort. They burned the fort and the village, massacred all the Germans and took the English families prisoners. The rising is supposed to be due to the execution of a Bondelzwart chief by German officers.

Crane May Become Chairman

Washington, Nov. 6.—Ex-Governor Crane is in Washington and was for some time in conference with Postmaster General Payne, who is the chairman of the Republican national executive committee, and also with the president. This naturally gave rise to the report that plans were under way for his election to the chairmanship of the Republican national committee next year in case Mr. Hanna declines to manage the campaign, as now seems probable.

Probably Walked Overboard

Cleveland, Nov. 6.—The body of Sidney Percy, mate of the steamer Nicaragua, who has been missing for two weeks, was found in the water near where his boat was anchored. It is supposed that he fell into the water while groping his way down a dark street.

Veto Awaits Lottery Bill

Havana, Nov. 6.—The senate has taken up the national lottery bill and passed the first article. It is believed that the bill will pass both houses of congress, but the majorities in its favor will not be sufficient to override the certain veto of President Palma.

NO RECOUNT.

Petitions Were Filed but Not in Due Form.

On the Representative Vote of City.

Therefore Turned Down by the Board of Registrars.

The anticipated petitions for a recount of the ballot cast at the State election for Representutives were filed with City Clerk Keith before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. They were immediately placed by him before the board of Registrars of Voters, on whom by law the duty of making a recount devolves.

On examination of the papers it was the unanimous decision of the board that the signers had not complied with the provisions of the law, and that the recount would, therefore, not be held.

The law expressly says that it shall be stated that the persons asking for a recount shall say, "that they believe a recount of the ballots cast in such precincts or town will effect the election of one or more candidates voted for at such election, specifying the candidates." The papers did not so state.

QUINCY HIGH WINS.

Again Defeats Milton High at Foot Ball.

Quincy High had but little difficulty in defeating the Milton High school foot ball eleven at Merrymount park on Friday afternoon. The score was 11 to 0, Quincy High scoring a touchdown in each half, from which R. Sanders kicked one goal. Two weeks ago Friday, Quincy defeated Milton High at Milton by a score of 24 to 0. The Milton team showed vast improvement between the two games, whereas the Quincy boys gave evidence of little progress.

Friday was not an ideal day for the game, and as a consequence the attendance was rather small. A few loyal supporters from both schools were on hand, however, and each did a little cheering.

The first half started off rather dubiously for Quincy. Milton received the kickoff and by steady gains worked the ball to Quincy's 20-yard line before the ball was lost on downs. Here Quincy took a brace and by steady gains of Percival, R. Sanders and Desmond, and a long run by Bennett, the ball was taken across the goal line during the last few minutes of play. R. Sanders kicked the goal.

In the second half, the Quincy boys took a brace. Milton kicked off and the ball as soon returned to the middle of the field by short gains of the Quincy backs. Here Milton got the ball on downs, but was unable to hold it, and consequently punted. Quincy did not again lose possession of the ball till Percival had squirmed across the goal line for the second touch down. R. Saunders failed to kick an easy goal.

The line up follows:

QUINCY H. S.		MILTON H. S.
Prario, l e		r e Neilson
Morrison l t		r t Bent, (R. Fuller)
Comins, (Mathaurs) l g		r g Clapp

Score—Quincy H. S., 11; Milton H. S., 0 Touchdowns—R. Sanders. Percival. Goal from touchdowns—R. Sanders 1. Umpire—L. A. Stillings. Referee—S. D. Thompson. Linesmen—Newcomb and Hubbard Timers—Davenport and Furber. Time—15 and 10 minute halves.

The Social Realm.

The endless road has many a sudden turn;
Its landscape changes ever and is gone;
Yet must the myriad thousands journey on;
And many haply meet there who would learn
The pitfalls waiting and the dangers stern.
But while they palter, lo, the happy dawn
Is noonday, and a hopeful life is pawn
Unto the voiceless mystery of an urn!
The men and things that round us congregate
Are sent there by the will and wish of fate.
We cannot say them nay, nor from the deep
Of nothingness call them to good or ill—
A pre-appointed way we take and keep,
O'er self alone maintain supreme a will.
—Charles W. Stevenson.

Charles H. Sargent Nominated By Socialists for Mayor.

MANY FRIENDS.

Surprise Party and Presentation to Councilman and Mrs. Diack.

Councilman Alfred O. Diack and family of Independence avenue arrived back from a three months' sojourn in Scotland, Oct. 10 last. Since that time they no doubt have met many of their friends around Quincy and received the glad hand, but not until last night did they know what it was to have a company of about a hundred break in on them of an evening, and without ceremony or explanations, take possession of the house, carry out a prearranged social and entertainment, and in a manner somewhat unusual, welcome them back to Quincy.

There is no doubt but they had a genuine surprise. Councilman Thomas Smith acted as decoy, until the hour of the arrival of the party which was set at half-past seven. That he played his part well was evidenced by the consternation of Mrs. Diack when she beheld her house being filled almost to overflow by friends and aquaintances whom she might expect to visit a few at a time but a round hundred all at once was more than she had ever dreamed of, and for a few minutes she was in queer land. Mr. Diack, too, was off the straight for a moment, but his experience with jars in city politics has hardened him a bit, and he quickly regained his composure of mind.

After the company had got rid of their wraps, and been helped to seats they said a few rough things about the weather man, and joked Mr. and Mrs. Diack on their surprise. Mr. D. T. Drummond called the company to order and had Mr. and Mrs. Diack conducted to the front parlor, where an elegant roll-top desk had been quietly smuggled in. Mr. Drummond in the name of the company presented the desk to the surprised couple.

Mr. Drummond in his speech referred to the adaptibility of the desk for two people to use, so that neither Mr. nor Mrs. Diack could in any way claim that it was for one only. In these days of rapid transit, travelling had become a part of everybody's business, and when wives or husbands were absent from home there should be no chance for finding excuses for not writing. A desk was necessary to fan the flame of love and keep alive bonds of friendship. Mr. Drummond hoped Mr. and Mrs. Diack would be long spared to use the memento of this occasion.

In reply Councilman Diack, in a witty manner, referred to the unexpected visit, and feelingly thanked all who had come to spend the evening in his home, and leave with him and his wife so handsome a tribute of their regard.

The evening was spent in songs and stories, and those who liked to enjoy the pleasure of a dance had all they wished in the barn which was cleared out and fixed for the occasion. Games of various kinds were enjoyed, while refreshments to suit all tastes and capacities were frequently handed round. It was the early hours of the morning before the party broke apart and all were of one accord, that a most enjoyable evening had been passed.

Among those present were: A. Hall and wife, J. Robbie and wife, William Farquharson and wife, D. T. Drummond and wife, Mr. Weaver and wife, John Mason and wife, R. Phillips and wife, Mr. John Troup, Mr. Murphy, William Birine and wife, P. Mitchell and wife, Mr. A. Birnie, R. Prout and wife, William Prout and wife, J. McQueen and wife.

T. Mitchell and wife, C. Morton and wife, S. Williams and wife, J. Gillis and wife, A. Falconer and wife, A. McIntosh and wife, Miss Annie Grant, A. Cowe and wife, William Spargo and wife, James Birnie and wife, Mr. George Prout, T. Smith and wife, H. Nicol, and wife, Forbes Craig and wife W. T. Pratt and wife.

Charles Purdy, C. Smith, John Mackie, R. Smith and wife, William Marshall and wife, William Deacon and wife, Miss Alice Deacon, William Fyfe and wife, Norman Wilson, A. Wilson, P. Williams and wife.

Ed Marnock, A. Bishop and wife, James Malcolm and wife, George Gordon and wife, Miss Maggie Hall, Miss Nellie Drummond, Mr. Weber and Miss Weber, J. Murphy and wife, Bert Williams and Walter Deacon, Miss Bena Hall.

DEFEAT AN HONOR

Under the Circumstances, Says Walter M. Hatch.

Editor Quincy Daily Ledger:

On my return from a short business trip I am advised by some of my friends, that my defeat and the means used to bring about that defeat, for my election for Ward Committee at the caucus last Wednesday night, merits a severe rebuke and I am told that I ought at once to effectually chastise "the powers that be" in Wollaston.

While the placing of the names of ex-Senator Sprague and myself at the bottom of the ballot might have been a legal proceeding, the use of the heavy black line, separating the names of Mr. Sprague and myself from the machine list, was certainly unusual and confusing to the voters, who had not in advance received their instructions, but was quite in keeping with the principle, or lack of principle, and methods employed in this and previous campaigns.

It was a case of running into the machine, and the Wollaston machine has no use for E. H. Sprague, or any man who can be neither bullied, bribed or wheedled.

As for myself, I hold defeat in the company of a man of that stamp to be more of an honor than success would be—in some other company.

Your insertion of the above will be very much appreciated by your most obedient servant,

Walter M. Hatch.

Sunday School Convention.

The East Norfolk District of the Mass. S. S. association holds its annual meeting with the South Braintree Methodist church on Tuesday, Nov. 10 afternoon and evening. It is expected that delegates from over sixty Sunday schools will be present in addition to large numbers from the local schools.

The afternoon program begins at 2 P. M. and consists of addresses and conferences conducted by Mrs. Conant state secretary of Sunday school work, Miss Stock, state primary secretary, Dr. Pierce of Campello Congregational church, and Dr. Johnston of the Baptist tabernacle, Dorchester.

At the evening session which begins at 7 P.M. in order to accommodate the delegates from out of town, Miss Griggs of Worcester and Dr. Roscoe L. Greene from Lynn, will be the speakers.

This is an excellent program and should be very profitable to all who wish counsel, advice, and inspiration in this important work of the church.

The ladies of the local church serve supper for the delegates and all who wish to remain at six o'clock.

—The report comes from Fitchburg of a somewhat peculiar lawsuit, in which the relatives of a defaulting teller of a local bank, recently pardoned from the state prison after serving a portion of his sentence, seek to recover $18,000 from the bank. This sum, which was the amount of the shortage, they claim to have paid the bank on condition that the teller should not be prosecuted. The bank officials absolutely deny any such agreement. If the parties succeed in winning their suit, their own evidence must convict them of compounding a felony, which the court would undoubtedly promptly punish to the full extent of the law.—Milford Gazette.

... By ...

RICHARD BARKER SHELTON

...Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure...

Crompton stood for a time at the head of the aisle waiting for an usher. It was a few minutes after 8, and the drums and brasses of the orchestra were announcing the finale of the overture. People crowded past him and streamed far down the sloping aisle, and all about was the clatter of seats turned down, the swish of silken skirts and the subdued hum that precedes the rise of the curtain. Then half the lights in the house went out, and the orchestra began a curtain cue in a creepy minor.

Crompton fished in his pocket for his check. "H 21, Left, Orchestra Stall," he read in the dim light. He was blissfully ignorant that his check was a week old and from another theater uptown, while the check he should have presented reposed undisturbed in the pocket of his overcoat. He strode down the aisle, where worried looking ushers were hustling people into their seats. When he reached "H, Left," he found 21 was the end seat, and he sank into it, thankful for its proximity to the aisle.

Scarcely had he seated himself when he felt a hand on his arm, and a voice beside him said:

"I was afraid you wouldn't get my note, Jack. It was late when I sent it to the club."

Crompton turned and found beside him a refined, elderly lady with a kindly face. He was about to inform her of her mistake when she turned to a young woman on her left.

"Constance, dear," he heard her say, "Jack has come."

The young woman leaned forward, and Crompton caught sight of a very charming face. Her great, dark eyes looked at him for a moment and then opened wide with surprise; an angry flush colored her cheeks, and her mouth curved scornfully. For a moment she simply stared at him, while his heart went through some strange gymnastics.

"IT IS VERY GOOD OF YOU, JACK," SHE SAID.

Then an amused twinkle came to her eyes, and her lips took on a grim smile.

"It is very good of you, Jack," she said, with significant emphasis, and settled back in her seat.

Crompton felt dazed and helpless. What was the meaning of this? The elderly lady was speaking again.

"I'm so glad you came," she said. "You can make me see it all so beautifully. I can't borrow another pair of eyes in the city worth a cent to me."

She turned to him with a pathetic smile which gave him sudden enlightenment. She was blind.

The young woman leaned forward again. She looked him over deliberately, as if taking his measure, and then said:

"Jack, Aunt Agatha wouldn't go to the theater all the time you were away. She says my descriptions of scenery and situations are either flippant or dreary. Oh, there's nothing like being a favorite nephew, Jack Armstrong."

Crompton felt a great sense of relief. This lady beside him was his Aunt Agatha; he was Jack Armstrong. The young woman had tactfully made these points clear to him. He flashed her a look of gratitude, which she recognized with another grim smile.

The curtain had gone up and the play commenced.

"Tell me about it," he heard Aunt Agatha whisper.

Crompton whispered a vivid description of the stage setting and the costumes. The woman beside him listened attentively, and as he finished she sighed contentedly.

"Thank you, dear," she said. "I can see it myself now."

Crompton wiped his brow. The test had come, and he had passed it creditably. He felt a sense of elation. Whatever this strange situation meant he would see it to the end. The absurdity of the whole affair appealed to him. He would play the game out.

It was evident that the note had not reached Armstrong at his club, for, despite Crompton's qualms in that direction, the original "favorite nephew" failed to appear.

Crompton found himself enjoying the unique adventure wonderfully. Between the acts he chatted with Aunt Agatha. He found good need for a ready wit, for that lady had a way of asking personal questions about himself and his trip abroad, which, as he was totally unacquainted with Mr. Armstrong, he found quite impossible to answer. Therefore he parried them. And once, when he found himself in a conversational tangle, Constance came to the rescue and, deftly extricating him, turned the talk to safer subjects.

Why she had not shown him up for an impostor, why she had given him the cue to his identity and why she allowed—nay, even helped—him to pose as Armstrong was quite beyond his comprehension.

At 11 he found himself in the carriage driving uptown with them, Aunt Agatha still chatting with him and Constance sitting silently opposite, her face giving no hint of what was taking place in her mind.

The carriage drew up finally before a comfortable house well uptown, and they entered a quiet drawing room.

"I'm quite tired out," Aunt Agatha said, "so if you'll pardon me, Jack, I'll leave you to Constance. Dine with us Wednesday if you can."

When Aunt Agatha had left on the arm of a maid Crompton rose and picked up his hat.

"I realize it was detestable of me," he said, turning to Constance. He paused. She stood watching him silently. "I—I'm very much alone here. My home is in the west. It savored of adventure, and—well, I succumbed. I confess I found it a diversion—a very charming diversion—and more," he added, looking quickly at her. "Perhaps I'd better not intrude further," he said quietly, taking a step toward the door. "I wish I might ask your forgiveness, but I don't deserve it."

"I was quite sure of you from the first," she said. "I knew you would neither take advantage of the situation nor ask questions. I—I don't know what you will think of me, but I shall make a confession. Aunt Agatha is a dear, persistent old matchmaker. Jack Armstrong is a nephew on her husband's side of the house. I've been thrown at his head all my days. I wanted to be free from him this evening at any cost."

She flushed as too late she realized the full import of her words.

"I trust the cost hasn't been too dear," Crompton said.

"Oh, I beg your pardon"— she began.

"Believe me," Crompton said quickly, "I am glad to serve you in any way—even in this humble capacity."

His hand was on the door.

"Perhaps," she said lightly, "you might like to meet your original. Mr. Armstrong will be here Wednesday evening."

"Will he be here Thursday?" Crompton asked.

"No," she said.

"Might I dare intrude again, then?" he ventured.

She looked at him, and her eyes fell before his eager glance.

"It won't be an intrusion," she said gently.

When Crompton reached the sidewalk he drew a small bit of cardboard from his pocket and pressed it to his lips. It read, "H 21, Left."

Song of the Ancient Spinning Reel.

The first reel that was invented was the hand reel, the yarn being wound into skeins by turning the wheel and fastening the skeins after counting a sufficient number of strands. The flax was first woven into thread, or yarn, on the spinning wheel; then the bobbins, full of yarn, were placed on the hand reel and yarn wound off them on to the wheel into skeins. The strands were carefully counted and the lieben fastened on them to keep them together. The lieben was a thread running across the skeins to keep them in place.

A later invention was the clock reel, with a face on which numbers were printed, and it had two hands, like a clock. When the wheel was turned, reeling off the strands from the bobbin, the clock would tick when a certain number of strands were wound on the reel, and the housewife instead of tediously counting the threads, as on the earlier invented reel, would fasten on the lieben.

In a quaint old ballad entitled "Mistress Polly at the Reel" occurs this refrain:

He kissed Mistress Polly as the clock reel ticked, the kissing being done at the propitious moment when Mistress Polly was busy fastening on the lieben.

Why He Wouldn't Sell.

He was the gray haired proprietor of a country store, "the village emporium," he called it, though it was weatherboarded and whitewashed and "hiproofed." Summer sojourners said they could never find anything there that they wanted, but the proprietor's chief pride was that he was quite "out" of anything. His method of keeping up his reputation in this line as discovered by an importunate sojourner was, to say the least, original. It chanced that this sojourner wanted a pair of hobnails for some impromptu theatricals and wanted them at once. Yes, the proprietor of the "village emporium" had a pair of No. 8's; but, after rummaging among various shelves and boxes: "It's the only pair o' that size I've got, young man, and I don't like to get out o' anything that way. Couldn't ye put off the show tel next week? I'll be goin' tu town then and can lay in another pair or two." Upon being assured that delay was impossible and he could have double the price of the boots if he would only part with them, "It's a temptation," he said, shaking his bushy head, "but a man must stand by his principles, young feller, if he means to make his mark in the world." And the boots were returned to their box.

LAUNDRY LINES.

Iodine stains will disappear if dipped in liquid ammonia.

Borax is the simplest and least harmful washing powder for use with clothes in the boiler.

A spoonful of kerosene in boiled starch keeps it from sticking, but do not use enough to make it smell of the oil.

Handkerchiefs should be ironed while very damp and dried by the iron. Thus will they acquire a certain stiffness and will keep clean longer.

Soap should never be rubbed on silk underwear. Put the garments in soapsuds and squeeze gently between the fingers. They should be pressed on the wrong side with a moderately hot iron.

A laundry convenience is a sleeve board, which slips inside shirt waist sleeves and makes ironing them easy. Properly used, the sleeve board obviates the ugly crease down the back of the sleeve.

It is recommended that a little vinegar be added to the water in which stockings are rinsed after being washed. The stockings should then be dried wrong side out. Colored stockings will be unfaded and black ones will retain their original luster.

Eider Down Comforters.

The trouble that takes away the pleasure of possessing eider down comforters is the trouble and expense of having them washed. If they are cleaned at home they must be ripped apart, and after washing the covers and giving the down an airing both must be remade. If sent away to a professional cleaner one might as well buy new. It has been proved, however, that these spreads can be washed in a very satisfactory manner at home without the extra trouble of making and remaking. For this work a bright warm day is absolutely necessary. If the colors of the cover are doubtful place the article in a solution of either ammonia or common salt and let it stand for half an hour. This will generally set any color. Then immerse the comforter in a tub of hot soapsuds and wash by squeezing rather than by rubbing it. Wring from this water into clear hot water and from this rinsing hang on a line where it will dry as rapidly as possible. Keep watch of it while it is drying, shaking it and turning it on the line and rubbing the down to prevent it from becoming lumpy. It requires considerable care to make a satisfactory job of it, but it pays for the trouble when once done.

House and Furniture.

"Excess of furniture destroys the repose of a lazy man and is in the way of an industrious one," wrote William Morris, and it was also one of his maxims that if houses were built as they should be we should want but a little furniture and be happy in that scantiness. In "The Lesser Arts of Life" he wrote:

"The arrangement of our houses ought surely to express the kind of life we lead or desire to lead. Our furniture should be good citizens' furniture, solid and well made in workmanship and in design should have nothing about it that is not easily defensible, no monstrosities or extravagances, not even of beauty, lest we weary of it. As to matters of construction, it should not have to depend on the special skill of a very picked workman or the superexcellence of his glue, but be made on the proper principles of the art of joinery; also I think that, except for very movable things, like chairs, it should not be so very light as to be nearly imponderable; it should be made of timber rather than walking sticks."

Spoke Too Late.

An old New England farmer's wife lay a-dying after seventy years of life and fifty years of steady drudgery as housekeeper and mother. As the end grew visibly near the husband stooped to her ear, the tears forcing their way from his eyes and down his rugged cheeks.

"Goodby, Hannah! You have always been a good wife to me!" came with a strangling sob.

The glazed eyes opened; the numb hand was raised in a rebukeful gesture.

"Then why in the name of mercy didn't you ever tell me so before?"

The whisper was her last breath.

Ah, my brothers, tell the faithful, brave, overworked wives the blessed truth before the tonic comes too late to brace the spirit and tide nervous forces over the sand bars that ridge the channel of weekday toil!—Chicago Record-Herald.

Would You Be a Fidget?

Beautiful women learn calmness and composure. They never wiggle their feet or play with their thumbs, but repose in a chair. Women with a propensity to fidget should cultivate the habit of sitting perfectly still in a chair with their hands loosely clasped in their laps. A quiet, reposeful manner is more to be desired than riches. Fidgety women have nervous fingers, which apparently must always be doing something—playing with a chain worn around the neck, beating a tattoo on the lap, crumbling the bread at dinner or otherwise occupied in irritating the nerves of other people.

Your Grievances.

If you want to be loved, keep any grievances you may have to yourself. A woman with sorrows may be interesting, but a woman with a grievance is quickly voted a bore. Weeping, sad eyed heroines are all very nice in novels, for one need not have more of their society than he likes, but everyday life cheeriness is in demand, and the woman or girl who bravely determines to find the silver lining of every cloud is rewarded by gaining the respect and love of her fellows.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

The location is the best of any hall in the city. The street cars pass the door with a turn out right in front of the Hall.

The floor is of selected maple laid with the greatest care, and is kept in perfect condition, being covered with canvas when not used for dancing.

The ventilation—a most important consideration—is such as to keep the air pure with even a crowded hall and without causing any drafts.

The Hall is lighted by electricity, brilliantly and pleasantly, and with a switchboard arranged so that all desired effects can be obtained in the Hall proper or on the stage. Gas is used as an auxiliary light.

The heating is direct—indirect, ample, and giving the most healthful results.

The Stage has been designed with care, and is furnished with a particularly generous supply of attractive and appropriate scenery.

In case of fire the re pails of water and chemical fire extinguishers throughout the Hall. There is an asbestos fire curtain by which the Stage can be instantly cut off from the Hall proper. There are nine (9) doors opening from the Hall and five (5) separate exits.

DOINGS OF DOMINICANS

Not to the Liking of Our Minister to That Island

DEMAND ON A STEAMER

To Proceed to Capital to Land Her Cargo After Refusal to Allow Stopping at Intended Ports—Powell Causes a Sensation In the Matter

San Domingo, Nov. 7.—A Dominican warship stopped the Clyde line steamer Cherokee as the latter was nearing Puerto Plata and informed the captain that he could not enter that port. The Cherokee then proceeded for Samana and was also prevented from entering that port, the minister of war ordering the captain of the Cherokee to proceed direct to the capital.

On the arrival of the vessel here the government demanded that the cargo intended for Puerta Plata and Samana be landed at this port. The agent of the company and the captain of the Cherokee refused to comply with this demand and appealed to United States Minister Powell for protection. Minister Powell interviewed the president and argued that, since the government of Santo Domingo had not advised the foreign legations of any blockade, it could not prevent the Cherokee from entering the ports of Puerto Plata and Samana and insisted that the cargo should be landed at its destination.

The president in reply reiterated his demand that the Cherokee's cargo be landed at San Domingo, but this Minister Powell refused to permit and declared he would hold the government responsible should any violent action be adopted towards the Cherokee.

When the Cherokee was ready to leave for Azua clearance papers were refused and it was again demanded that she land her cargo at this port. Minister Powell wrote a sharp note to the government, demanding a permit for the Cherokee to depart. The government refused to allow a pilot to board the vessel and Minister Powell then instructed Captain Archibald to take his ship out and proceed for Azua, keeping his cargo aboard and landing it at the ports of destination.

The energetic action of Minister Powell has caused a great sensation, especially as his proceeding lacked the support of an American warship. The Cherokee left the harbor without a pilot.

The city is quiet, but preparations looking to its defense are in active progress.

The Baltimore Will Back Powell

Washington, Nov. 7.—A cabiegram has been received at the state department from United States Minister Powell, at San Domingo City, stating that the insurgents are marching on that city and asking that a warship be at once sent there. The cruiser Baltimore, which sailed from Hampton Roads several days ago, is now due at San Domingo, and the state department believes that her presence there will be sufficient.

German Warships Coaling Up

St. Thomas, B. W. I., Nov. 7.—The German warships here are coaling and it is reported that they have been hurriedly ordered to San Domingo, owing to the seriousness of the situation there.

Fatal Shooting by Magistrate

Bowling Green, Ky., Nov. 7.—Magistrate Upton shot and killed Tom Stewart, a farmer, at Richardsville, as the result of the issuing of a warrant by Upton for Stewart's arrest upon the application of the latter's son, following a quarrel over politics. The boy's father heard of the son's intention and sent word to Upton that if he issued a warrant he would kill him on sight. Stewart and Upton met on the street and after some words the latter shot and killed Stewart.

Parks Receives Sentence

New York, Nov. 7.—Sam Parks was sentenced to two years and three months in Sing Sing prison. This was Parks' second sentence for extortion. On the first he was released from Sing Sing on a certificate of reasonable doubt. In imposing the second sentence Judge Newburger said that he took into consideration the physical condition of Parks, who is said to be suffering from consumption in an advanced stage.

Non-Union Miners Hustled Off

Knoxville, Nov. 7.—Trouble has broken out between union and non-union men at the mines of the Coal Creek company. As 100 non-union miners came out of Thistle mine from work, they were met by 200 union miners, who, after assaulting several, took the whole number prisoners and marched them to the railroad station and put them on a train for Jellico, paying fares for each.

Further Attacks on Germans

London, Nov. 7.—The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Mail reports that the German police post of Usibis have been surrounded and the garrison murdered and that the German garrison of 60 white soldiers at Keetmanshoop have been attacked.

Death Overtakes Nine Miners

Butte City, Mont., Nov. 7.—Fire in the Kearsarge mine, near Virginia City, killed nine men. The damage to surface buildings is slight. Among the dead is Superintendent Turner, one of the best known mining men in the northwest. How the fire originated is not known.

KRIKORIAN IS FREE

Appeal to Department of Labor and Commerce Decided In His Favor

Boston, Nov. 7.—Vahtan Krikorian, the Armenian who was arrested upon his arrival from England recently upon suspicion of being concerned in the murder of Sagatel Sagouni in London, is at last a free man, for late yesterday afternoon orders were received from Secretary Cortelyou of the department of labor and commerce at Washington that the man be not deported.

Krikorian was discharged by the United States authorities this week on the murder complaint. British Consul Talbot did not appear against Krikorian because his government informed him there was no evidence against the man. The federal authorities continued to hold Krikorian, however, on the ground that he was a public charge, having arrived with insufficient funds. The Armenian appealed to Washington and in consequence of Secretary Cortelyou's decision he will not have to sail back to England on the steamship Iverala today.

Indictment in Kirby Murder

Taunton, Mass., Nov. 7.—The grand jury brought an indictment against Angles Snell of Westport, charged with the murder of Tillinghast Kirby at Norsebeck beach. Kirby was an old fisherman who sailed out of New Bedford, and the man charged with his murder was an intimate friend. Kirby had over $100 with him when he went out to fish, but when found the next day, lying on the beach, blood stains were found in Kirby's boat, and what was thought to be similar stains the police say they found in Snell's boat. Snell disappeared for a few days and then came back to town, to be arrested by State Detective Hodges, charged with murder.

Surrendered to Malden Police

Malden, Mass., Nov. 7.—William H. Cole of Saco, Me., whose disappearance from that place a short time ago was followed by the charge of alleged embezzlement on his part of public funds in his capacity of overseer of the poor, voluntarily walked into the district court here and surrendered himself. As the man refused to return to Maine unless compelled to do so, the charge of being a fugitive from justice was brought against him and the court held him in bonds of $600 for a hearing on Nov. 20. A friend of the prisoner furnished sureties.

Acquired Appetite For Baked Beans

Boston, Nov. 7.—Londoners seem to have taken very kindly to Boston baked beans, and the Honourables' visit to Boston appears to be bearing good fruit in the demand for the bean served in Boston style. A Beverly potter yesterday sent to London 500 individual pint bean pots. When the Honourables came to Boston they tried the baked bean and liked it, and now are crying for more. The bean pots go to an American who is introducing quick lunch rooms in London on a Boston plan, and is evidently making a hit.

Home For Destitute Mediums

Boston, Nov. 7.—Just as quickly as the funds under the Mary H. Harris bequest of $10,000 are available, work will be begun in making the fine old Phelps mansion in Waverly, which has been acquired by the Veteran Spiritualist union of Boston, thoroughly comfortable for the reception of destitute Spiritualist mediums. The property was purchased six years ago, and all but a few hundred dollars on the mortgage of $12,000 has been paid up. Mrs. Harris' bequest enables the union to carry out the work.

Young Aliens Arrested

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 7.—Channes Boyajian, 18, and Misac Boyajian, 16 years old, brothers, employed as minor laborers in this city, were arrested by Immigration Inspector Seraphic of New York. They are charged with being aliens unlawfully smuggled into the United States from Montreal. Seraphic says the new immigration laws relating to the smuggling of aliens of immature age into the United States are being tested and that arrests may follow.

Strikers Forestalled

Fiskdale, Mass., Nov. 7.—The Snell Manufacturing company has shut down indefinitely, forestalling an expected strike by union 298 of the Steel and Iron Workers of America. The shop makes bits and augurs. A strike was anticipated because the president of the union was told last week to look for work elsewhere.

Old Lady's Unhappy End

Chepachet, R. I., Nov. 7.—Weakening of her brain after 93 years of life has caused Mrs. Angeline Harrington of this village to take her own life by swallowing arsenic. The old lady's husband disappeared from Chepachet about 10 years ago, and nothing has been heard of him since.

Murderer Gets Life Sentence

Middletown, Conn., Nov. 7.—The jury returned a verdict of murder in the second degree against Albert Jazabek, who was charged with the murder of Mrs. Mary Czaja, his former boarding mistress. Judge Case immediately sentenced the respondent to imprisonment for life.

Suffocated In Sand Bank

Waterbury, Conn., Nov. 7.—While a gang of men were working at a sand bank here the bank caved in, burying two of them, Michael Left and Tony Lungo. Lungo was taken out alive, but Left was dead when found.

Little Fellow Killed by Gas

Portland, Me., Nov. 7.—Kellogg Roessler, aged 15, died last night from the effects of inhaling illuminating gas while asleep. The boy evidently left the gas burning low when he retired and the wind blew it out.

JAMAICA'S MYSTERY.

THE FINGER OF FATE IN THE FALL OF HER CAPITALS.

Tragedies That Are Written In the History of Her Ruined Cities—Two of Them Vanished Utterly From Off the Face of the Earth.

There exists in Jamaica, in the West Indies, a universal superstition that a curse rests upon any town chosen to be its capital. Since 1509, when the first chief city was founded, no fewer than three capitals have been ruined in mysterious and tragic ways. Two have vanished utterly from the face of the earth. Some of the more superstitious of the colonists, brooding over the strange history of their country, fear that Kingston, the present capital, a city of 70,000 inhabitants, will share the fate of its predecessors.

The first capital was Sevilla Nueva (New Seville), otherwise called Seville d'Oro (the Golden Seville), on account of its marvelous wealth. It was founded by Don Juan d'Esquivel and Diego, a son of Christopher Columbus. In a few years it became the greatest Spanish city in the new world. Thither flocked the blue blooded but impecunious nobles of Castile, eager to rebuild their family fortunes at the expense of the poor Arawak.

Cathedrals, palaces and monasteries, rivaling those of Spain in splendor, were erected. The marble streets were crowded with gayly clad courtiers and Indian slaves, who toiled for them and brought them tribute from mine and jungle.

Then, in a night, the city vanished, and no one can tell today what happened to it. No survivors and no records were left behind to tell the tale. Today one can see, buried in tropical jungle, a mile of marble pavement and a few broken columns and arches. Nothing else remains of the Golden Seville, once so prosperous and splendid, except a few contradictory native traditions. These traditions variously ascribe the destruction of the city and its inhabitants to a mutiny of the oppressed Indians, an earthquake, a sudden visitation of millions of red ants and an attack by French buccaneers. The very memory of what was once the greatest city of the new world has almost perished. Even in Jamaica few people know anything about the Golden Seville.

The Spaniards made Saint Jago de la Vega, now called Spanish Town, their second capital. Time and again it was devastated by hurricane and plague, harassed by Indian revolts or ransacked by adventurous picaroons. Gradually it sank from its high estate until now it is merely a squalid village.

When the English conquered the island they made Port Royal their real capital, though Spanish Town remained for some time the official seat of government. The emporium of the Indies and the Spanish main, the market for the ill gotten gains of 10,000 buccaneers, Port Royal soon became the richest and wickedest city of the new world. At the height of its splendor and its vice it was destroyed within the space of two minutes by an earthquake.

"The ground opening in Several Places at once," wrote an eyewitness in 1692, a few days after the catastrophe, "swallowed up Multitudes of People together, whole Streets sinking under water with Men, Women and Children in them; and those Houses which but just now appeared the Fairest and Loftiest in these Parts and might vie with the Finest Buildings in the World were in a moment Sunk in the Earth, and nothing to be seen of them; such Crying, such Shrieking and Mourning I never heard, nor could anything in my Opinion appear more Terrible to the Eye of Man. Here a Company of People Swallowed up at once; there a whole Street tumbling down, and in Another Place the Trembling Earth opening her Ravenous Jaws, let in the Merciless Sea, so that this Town is become a Heap of Ruins. Several People were Swallowed up of the Earth, when, the Sea breaking in before the Earth could Close, they were washed up again and Miraculously saved from Perishing. Others the Earth received up to their Necks, and then Closed upon them and squeezed them to Death, with their Heads above Ground, many of which the Dogs Eat; Multitudes of People Floating up and down, having no Burial. The Burying Place at the Palisadoes is quite Destroyed, the Dead Bodies being washed out of their Graves, their Tombs beat to Pieces and they floating up and down; it is sad to think how we have Suffered.

"The Earth hath still fits of Shaking, with very much Thunder and Lightning, and dreadful Weather; yet this had so little effect upon some People here that the very same Night they were at their Old Trade of Drinking and Swearing; breaking up Warehouses; Pillaging and Stealing from their Neighbors, even while the Earthquake lasted, and several of them were destroyed in the very Act; and indeed this Place has been one of the Ludest in the Christian World, a sink of all filthiness, and a mere Sodom."

Old Port Royal lies buried beneath the sea. The present town of Port Royal, a place of no importance except as a coaling station, was built after the earthquake, a fire and a landslide having destroyed the few houses left standing.

Kingston was not founded until the early part of the eighteenth century, but it has already been thrice destroyed by fire and several times ravaged by hurricanes. The inhabitants naturally wonder what catastrophe will happen next.

Many men have been capable of doing a wise thing, but very few a generous thing.—Pope.

THE HOME IN FRANCE.

It Is Mainly an Adjunct to Life on the Outside.

The father and mother in Paris eat at home when they do not eat out, but absolutely no informal social intercourse invades the apartment, which is more than anything else a sort of factory in which is produced whatever the family needs for life outside. A vast amount of sewing is done here. French girls of even wealthy parents, after they finish school, attend courses of dressmaking and millinery and to a great extent the industry which turns out the French woman as a model of good dressing, to be followed by the world, is carried on by the women of the family in what would be the home if the French knew the meaning of the word.

A reception day is rigorously kept, and much entertaining at dinner and dejeuner may be done, but always of a formal character. A person having the penetrating qualities of a book agent might venture to try "dropping in" on a French woman on a day when she is not regularly receiving, but in the natural course of ordinary social experience in Paris this would never happen, says Flora McDonald Thompson in Harper's Bazar.

Such order of living readily permits great economy. One has not to waste time, good clothes or house room in daily preparation for the unexpected guest. Six days of the week a French woman may run her sewing machine in the middle of her salon if she likes, secure from the interruption of chance callers. It is said that the chief function of the petit salon of a Paris apartment is to provide storage room for ball gowns which on reception days are taken down from the chandelier and locked up in a bedroom till the guests have departed.

Drift of Opinion.

☞Dowie, of the fishmonger vocabulary, says he is the reincarnation of Elijah, but the spirit seems to have slipped a cog and he is probably the reincarnation of the lamented P. T. Barnum.—Mobile (Ala.) Register.

☞President Eliot evidently left newspaper people out of his reckoning when he laid out his theoretic system for "A Day's Work." We defy any person in any way connected with a newspaper to live up to an hour's regularity.—Cambridge Press.

☞The leading British medical association has forbidden the use of the name of the physician attending an interesting case in the newspaper reports unless the patient be a member of the royal family. A few American practitioners of medicine have been sticklers on the ethics of profession and conscientiously lived up to their high standard for years, but the greater number of struggling young doctors covet newspaper publicity. Some local physicians have derived no inconsiderable benefit from this kind of advertising.—New Bedford Standard.

☞There is abundant room in our industrial system, but the improvement must come, if it comes at all, through greater development of productive method, higher intelligence among laborers, better understanding between employer and employed, and a higher standard of public estimate of industrial ethics; but it can not come by displacing private enterprise, through which all the best forces in individual effort is stimulated with public ownership, which, in its very nature, discourages individual capacity and encourages political log-rolling, favoritism, incapacity.—Gunton's Magazine.

High Tide.

The highest tide in the world is in the Bay of Fundy between Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. The tide there sometimes rises to the height of seventy-one feet, and the increase is occasionally as much as a foot every five minutes. The flow is so rapid that swine are often overtaken and drowned while feeding on shellfish.

White of Egg.

The white of an egg is a very useful household remedy. For burns or scalds, so apt to occur in the kitchen, it is the best possible application, excluding the air and so easing the pain and preventing inflammation.

Concerning Moles.

A mole in the hollow of the ear points to one in the palm of the hand, and a mole on the back of the ear indicates a similar marking on the hand.

The Loss of a Letter.

In an advertisement by a railway company of some uncalled for goods the letter "l" had dropped from the word "lawful," and it read, "People to whom these packages are directed are requested to come forward and pay the awful charges on the same."

Fired by the Sun.

Paris possesses a small cannon, existing since 1785, which is fired by the sun's rays exactly at noon in the Palais Royal gardens, weather permitting.

A Great Volume of Homer.

Among the thousands of volumes burned in the great book fire at Constantinople in the year 477 A. D. was one of the works of Homer, written in letters of gold upon the great intestine of a dragon, which made a manuscript 120 feet long and 27 inches wide.

COL. JOHN QUINCY.

His Grave Discovered in the Old Hancock Cemetery.

In the new edition of "Where American Independence Began," which wil be issued in a few weeks, Mr. Wilson speaks of the discovery of the grave of Col. John Quincy after whom Quincy is named. This was one of the good results of the survey of the Hancock Burying-ground taken under the direction of City Engineer Flood. When Mr. C. F. Adams was told of the discovery he at once announced his intention to erect a permanent memorial to his celebrated ancestor. A mural tablet is to be placed in First Church and a gravestone will probably be erected in the cemetery.

The police have a clue to the men.

The hymn, "From Every Eye He Wipes a Tear," was very touchingly rendered by Miss M. Gertrude Berry. Interment was at Newton Upper Falls.

The funeral services of Mrs. Nora J. Leahan of Washington street, South Braintree, were held at St. Francis church on Friday morning. For a long time past Mrs. Leahan has been the victim of an insidious disease but throughout the entire time her sufferings were born with wonderful patience and her death was but the gateway to that higher and better life that is assured to those who die in His love, sanctified by the rites of His holy church. A loving husband and a devoted son mourn the loss of a tender loving wife and mother.

—The liabilities of commercial failures for October, says Dun's Review, amounted to 10,680,963, of which 6,768,805 were in manufacturing, 3,200,488 in trading, and 598,670 in other commercial lines. The failures last week numbered 279 in the United States as against 239 in the same period last year, and in Canada, 26 against 22 last year.

—Truly, this is the age of youth. What, for example, would our forbears have said to the notion of a school-boy sueing his teacher for a thousand dollars to repair the injury done his personal dignity by chastisement administered because he broke the law and played socially on the girls' side of the school playground.—Boston Budget.

Monkey Jealousy.

A monkey carried by a lady got free in Berlin and in a moment was seated at the top of a tall tree. Neither cajoleries nor threats could induce him to descend. At last the lady began to hug a little girl in the crowd, calling her loudly, "My sweet Jenny; my sweet Jenny!" and the monkey came down furious with jealousy.

Removing the Plaster.

Alcohol will quickly remove an obstinate porous plaster and the unsightly stains which it often leaves and upon which soap and water have no effect.

Beetles.

To clear a house of beetles take a pound of powdered borax and put it into a tin with a perforated lid. Next dust the borax lightly over the floor, on the walls and into cupboards—everywhere, in fact, where the pests are found—and they will soon disappear.

Revoking a Will.

It is important to realize when a will is revoked. Marriage revokes a will ipso facto. Otherwise the only safe plan is to utterly destroy the document.

Colors of Flowers.

Of the thousand best known varieties of flowers to be found in various parts of the globe 284 are white in color, 223 are yellow, 220 are red, 144 are of an indigo color, 72 are violet, 36 are green, 12 are orange, 4 are brown, and 2 are black.

Costly Platinum.

Platinum is six times as expensive now as it was twenty years ago, and Geneva jewelers complain that they cannot get nearly enough of the metal for their work.

Animal Language.

Animals have a language made up of signs or inarticulate sounds expressing impressions, sensations, passions, but never ideas. So this language excludes conversation and is limited to interjections or signs or movements expressing joy, grief, fear, anger, all the passions of the senses, but never more.

Old Time Feminine Folly.

It is estimated that in the reign of Louis XV., when Mme. de Pompadour set the fashions, the French women used for their cheeks each year 2,000,000 pots of paint.

Much Buried Soldier.

The following is the epitaph over a Spanish soldier's grave: "This is the fourth burial place of Don Epiphanius Calcanares. He parted with his left arm in the Philippine Islands, with his right thigh in Tetuan and with his left in Burgos. Here reposeth what was left of him."

Soapsuds.

Soapsuds are valuable as manure and on no account should be wasted by any one who owns a garden. It is surprising what a stimulating effect they have on vines, raspberry canes, rose trees, etc.

Walker Foster Powell.

The earliest long distance walker whose performances were authenticated appears to have been Foster Powell, a limb of the law with a penchant for walking from London to York and back. His first journey was made in 1773, when he covered the distance of 394 miles in six days, with nearly six hours to spare.

Sir Robert Walpole.

Sir Robert Walpole held the unbeaten record of having been prime minister of England for, in all, twenty-one years.

Soot as a Fertilizer.

Soot is an excellent fertilizer, adding by its chemical properties much to the richness of color of flowers and foliage. Apply in the form of a tea, but be careful to keep off the foliage. Soot is particularly good for roses and pansies.

for $1,000,000, paying an annual premium of over $30,000. This makes him the most heavily insured man in the world, with the single exception of King Edward VII.

Mr. Wanamaker's total insurance is now $2,000,000.

Ask yourself WHY Mr. Wanamaker placed one-half this great amount with The Prudential.

Your business judgment will at once reply: "Because after full investigation and comparison, Mr. Wanamaker found that the company which could give him the best insurance for a given amount of money was The Prudential."

Nndoubtedly you will agree that Mr. Wanamaker does not pay over $30,000 per year except for most excellent reasons.

These reasons apply to YOU precisely as well as they do to HIM.

Worms
Hundreds of children and adults have worms, but are treated for other diseases. The symptoms are:—indigestion, with a variable appetite; foul tongue; offensive breath; hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel; eyes heavy and dull; itching of the nose; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; starting during sleep; slow fever; and often in children, convulsions.

TRUE'S ELIXIR
is the best worm remedy made. It has been in use since 1851, is purely vegetable, harmless and effectual. Decision Against Bryan In the Bennett Will Contest

APPEAL TO HIGHER COURT

Probate Judge Finds That There Was No Undue Influence by Bryan Over Testator and That Sealed Letter Was Not Incorporated In the Will

New Haven, Nov. 7.—Judge Cleaveland of the probate court handed down a decision in the Philo S. Bennett will case holding that the secret letter directing Mrs. Bennett, the widow, to pay William J. Bryan $50,000 was not part of the will. The effect of this is to prevent Bryan from obtaining the money mentioned in the letter unless the present decision is reversed by a higher court, or unless he should be successful in legal proceedings against Mrs. Bennett, in event the $50,000 should be paid under clause 12 of the will, which reads as follows:

Twelfth, I give and beneath unto my wife, Grace Imogene Bennett, the sum of $50,000, in trust, however, for the purposes set forth in a sealed letter which will be found with said will.

The text of the letter was made public at one of the hearings on the will. Mr. Bryan was not present when the decision was announced, but his attorneys said he would appeal from Judge Cleaveland's decision.

In announcing his decision the court said: 'I find that the question of whether the will was properly executed was not raised. I find that it was properly executed and I find that the testator had sufficient testamentary capacity. I find that there was no undue influence by Mr. Bryan over Mr. Bennett. It was claimed that the sealed letter should be incorporated in the will. I find that the sealed letter was not incorporated in the will."

The court further said that he expressed no opinion as to whether the sealed letter which gives $50,000 to Bryan and his family can be incorporated in the will. He said: "It may be urged that it can be used, but as to that the court has no opinion to express."

It would appear from the decision of the court that Bryan is not prevented from attempting in the superior court, if not in the probate court, to enforce the provisions in his favor of the letter found in the sealed envelope, which letter is still in the custody of the probate court here.

Mr. Bryan reached this city last evening from Lincoln, Neb., and at once went to the offices of his attorneys, where he read the decision in the Bennett will contest. After Bryan had conferred with his lawyers he made a public statement. He says:

"The decision of Judge Cleaveland in the Bennett will case is in my favor on all the moral questions raised by the heirs, and against me on the technical law points only. The judge finds that no undue influence was exercised on Mr. Bennett and that no injustice was done to the relatives. He holds, however, that the letter to Mrs. Bennett cannot be probated with the will, but he expressly disclaims any intention to decide whether or not the 12th section can hereafter be held operative as establishing a trust; he says that the construction of the will is not in question at the time of the probate. The court in effect declares that the bequest would have been good if it had been made direct, as Mr. Bennett suggested, but under the decisions the letter can not be probated in the absence of proof showing that it was actually in existence at the moment when the will was executed. If the bequest fails, it will not be the fault of Mr. Bennett, but my fault, and this point will be determined by the higher court, although my attorneys have not yet decided in what form the question will be raised.

"I am much better pleased with the decision than I would have been if the court had decided for me on the legal point and against me on the moral questions involved. His decision on the question of undue influence is all that could be desired. It is a complete answer to all the insinuations of the unfriendly papers."

Mr. Bryan says that he will remain in New Haven or within call of his attorneys until the appeal of the superior court is perfected, and that he will not for some time go to Europe.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Colder Weather Needed to Bring Business Up to Normal Conditions

New York, Nov. 7.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Unseasonably mild weather made it possible for farmers to secure much late grain and cotton that seemed doomed by early frost, but, on the other hand, trade is dull in heavy wearing apparel, fuel and many lines that should now be vigorous. While in the long run this business may be made up, and the nation will be benefited by the increased crops, the immediate effect is unfavorable.

Manufacturing activity has increased at cotton mills and several minor industries but in iron and steel there are more idle furnaces and mills.

The railways continue prosperous, earnings for October surpassing last year's by 6.2 percent.

Less pronounced conservatism is shown by purchasers of cotton goods and there is evidently more desire to secure deliveries without looking for concessions in prices. This is natural in view of the recent rise of raw material, which had tended downward from the termination of the speculative movement. Not only are buyers seeking goods for immediate delivery, but there is more disposition to place contracts for future shipment.

Woolen goods are even more adversely affected by high temperature, salesmen on the road meeting with little success and supplementary orders come in slowly.

Many New England shoe factories have concluded fall business and are taking inventories, but others are rushing work for importunate jobbers. In about two weeks spring cutting will be general and in the meantime shipments will probably decrease. The year's total forwardings from Boston are so far ahead of any previous record that there is no prospect of falling behind, and similar conditions are reported at other footwear centres.

Rohrbach Perhaps Murdered

North Attleboro, Mass., Nov. 7.—Despite the first supposition that Carl Rohrbach committed uicide, the police are coming to believe that he was robbed and murdered and the house set on fire. Augustus Kittredge, one of the old man's closest friends, who is now confined in the Taunton jail on suspicion of having committed foul play, will have a trial Monday. What became of a large sum of money which Rohrbach is known to have possessed is the question which the police are especially anxious to clear.

Reign of Terror In Ohio Town

Steubenville, O., Nov. 7.—Growing out of the sensational testimony given by witnesses in a recent murder trial numerous feuds have sprung up in Warren township. George Livingstone attacked John Simpkins and was shot at. The Stringer property was burned along with that of others, entailing a loss of $30,000 and last night another attempt was made to burn property. Every man in the township goes armed and many do not go out at night, fearing assassination.

Liquor Dealers' Profits Cut

Barre, Vt., Nov. 7.—Two wholesale liquor dealers who have been selling bottled goods have been notified by the state attorney that in the future they must sell only to license holders in not less than gallon quantities. The two dealers say that this order will cut their profits in half. Second-class or bottle licenses are $300 and wholesale licenses $1000.

Street Car Strike Likely

Chicago, Nov. 7.—The joint board of affiliated locals, representing all of the employes of the street car company, will meet tonight to take final action on whether or not a strike shall be called. Unless some concessions are made by the officials of the street car company it now seems impossible to avoid a general strike.

Hanna Shouters Still In Evidence

Warrant In Postal Fraud Cases

Washington, Nov. 7.—Justice Pritchard of the supreme court of the District of Columbia has issued four "alias" bench warrants for the arrest of State Senator Creen of New York, who is under indictment for alleged complicity in the postal frauds.

Ardmore, I. T., Nov. 7.—Examination of the books of the Bank of the Chickasaw nation at Tishomiagao, which failed recently, shows liabilities of $100,000. All efforts to locate Kirby Purdon, the missing president of the bank, have failed.

Railroad Wages Raised

Moncton, N. B., Nov. 7.—The Inter-Colonial railway conductors and trainmen have been granted the increase in pay for which they have been contending. The conductors get 50 cents a day increase and trainmen an increase of 40 cents.

We Offer $1,000
For a Disease Germ That Liquozone Can't Kill.

On every bottle of Liquozone we publish an offer of $1,000 for a germ that it cannot kill. We do that to convince you that liquid oxygen does kill germs.

Any drug that kills germs is a poison to you and it cannot be taken internally. Liquozone alone can kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. It is the only way known—the only way one can conceive of—to destroy the cause of any germ disease.

Kills With Oxygen.

Liquozone is simply liquid oxygen—no drugs, no alcohol in it. It is the discovery of Pauli, the great German chemist, who spent 20 years on it. His object was to get such an excess of oxygen in staple form into the blood that no germ could live in any membrane or tissue.

Oxygen is life to an animal—the very source of vitality. It is the essential part of air. Its effects are exhilarating, purifying. It is Nature's greatest tonic. But germs are vegetables, and this excess of oxygen—the very life of an animal—is deadly to vegetable matter. Liquozone charges the blood with such an excess of oxygen that no germ can live where that blood goes. We spend 14 days in making each bottle.

for the American rights to Liquozone—the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery. Before making the purchase we tested the product for years through physicians in the most difficult germ diseases. We proved that Liquozone does what nothing else in the world can accomplish, and that the results are unvarying.

A discovery that could command such a price is something you should know, if you need it. We are doing our part by supplying the first bottle free. Will you do your part by requesting it?

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

Asthma, Abscess—Anemia, Bronchitis, Blood Poison, Bright's Disease, Bowel Troubles, Coughs—Colds, Consumption, Colic—Croup, Constipation, Catarrh—Cancer, Dysentery—Diarrhea, Dandruff—Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Hay Fever—Influenza, Kidney Diseases, La Grippe, Leucorrhea, Liver Troubles, Malaria—Neuralgia, Many Heart Troubles, Piles—Pneumonia, Pleurisy—Quinsy, Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Scrofula—Syphilis, Stomach Troubles, Throat Troubles, Eczema—Erysipelas, Fevers—Gall Stones, Goitre—Gout, Gonorrhea—Gleet, Tuberculosis, Tumors—Ulcers, Varicocele, Women's Diseases

All diseases that begin with fever—all inflammation—all catarrh—all contagious diseases—all the results of impure or poisoned blood.

In nervous debility Liquozone acts as a vitalizer, accomplishing what no drugs can do.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

—At an auction sale in New York the other day, a man bought an old safe for $12.50, and on examining his purchase discovered a secret compartment which contained diamonds and other valuables estimated to be worth $10,000. None of the heirs to the estate to which the safe belonged had any knowledge of the existence of the valuables, but as the law gives the purchaser only the article purchased, and not its contents, the finder was no better off for his discovery.

President to Give Gudger Personal Instructions

DIPLOMAT NOT SURPRISED

That Independence Has Been Declared—Sentiment of the People Extremely Cordial and Friendly Toward the United States

Washington, Nov. 7.—The United States government has recognized the de facto government of Panama. Under personal instructions which he will receive from the president, Consul General Gudger will leave tomorrow for Colon to assume command of the American consulate there. These instructions will be of the most minute character, though, of course, much will be left to the discretion of Mr. Gudger, in whom the administration has the fullest confidence.

Rear Admiral Coghlan has received orders to convey the consul general to the isthmus on the converted yacht Mayflower, which will sail from the navy yard here Sunday for Colon at full speed.

On the arrival of the Mayflower at Colon Mr. Gudger will make himself known at once to the de facto government and the usual formalities in such cases will be observed. He will do business directly with the republic of Panama, which, in its present provisional form, consists of an executive board, but which before his arrival may easily take the form of a permanent government.

Consul General Gudger talked interestedly of the isthmian situation, saying:

"I am not in the least surprised to learn that the isthmus has declared its independence. Five months ago a revolution was a foregone conclusion. The isthmian people have conducted themselves in patience and with dignified deliberation; have awaited the adjournment of the Colombian congress and the destruction of their last hope for the ratification of the Hay-Herran treaty before taking this apparently radical step. Their reason for this action is the alleged refusal of the Bogota government to direct its policy with some regard to the isthmian people's good.

"Striking proof of the stability of the government is seen in the personnel of the executive board which now constitutes the provisional government. They are all three men of the strongest character, leaders in the isthmian commercial world and men who command the undivided respect of the natives as well as the foreign residents of the isthmus.

"An interesting coincidence is the fact that Frederico Boyd, one of the three consuls and the author of the manifesto, is the Spanish and Nicaraguan consul accredited to the government of Colombia. Of course it is not to be inferred from this that these governments knew of Mr. Boyd's connection with the revolution."

"What of the sentiment of the people on the isthmus towards the United States?" Gudger was asked. He replied:

"It is extremely cordial and friendly. They want independence, annexation, or anything that will insure the construction of the Panama canal and the consequent prosperity of the isthmus. They have the greatest confidence in the people and the government of the United States. American capital is already there to a large extent and the people are desirous of cultivating closer trade relations with the United States.

"It had been intended that my departure should not be known until after I had left, but it seems that that plan has been disarranged. My leave of absence does not expire for a week, but when I saw the cablegrams from the isthmus indicating the seriousness of the situation, I at once telegraphed the secretary of state saying I should leave my home in Asheville at once for my post and would stop in Washington for a conference. I am carrying the best wishes of the officials of the administration to Vice Consul General Ehrman, who has conducted affairs in my absence to the entire satisfaction of the Washington government."

When asked "what about Colombia?" Mr. Gudger promptly replied:

"It would be improper for me to say. You must know, however, that it is the traditional policy of the Washington government to recognize the de facto government. I am informed here that agents of the revolution are not worried about any protest the Colombian government may make.

"As I am an American official you must excuse me from discussing the situation or from commenting in any way on the policy of the Washington government."

Mr. Gudger's relations with the Bogota authorities always have been exceedingly cordial and he would say nothing that would reflect on the Colombian government. His attitude as American consul must be neutral as regards Colombia's internal affairs.

Mr. Gudger went to the Colombian legation and had a conference with Dr. Herran, the Colombian charge, who is his personal friend.

American Bravery In Evidence

Colon, Nov. 7.—The avoidance of bloodshed following the proclamation of the independence of the isthmus, the maintenance of perfect order and the withdrawal of the Colombian troops from the city are looked upon as in great part due to the courage and ability displayed by Commander Hubbard of the United States gunboat Nashville, to the bravery of her officers and men and to the tact of Colonel Shaler, superintendent of the Panama railroad. Colonel Black of the United States engineer corps and Porfirio Melendez, the new civil and military governor of Colon, also rendered signal service during the critical situation which found its peaceful settlement in the embarkation of Colonel Torres and his troops on the Orinoco.

Shortly before the flag of the republic of Panama was formally hoisted over the prefecture here the new civil and military governor, Porfiro Melandez, delivered a patriotic oration. The consular corps at Colon was present, but not in any official capacity. The flag of the new republic was raised amidst much cheering and general rejoicing and simultaneously fireworks were exploded all over the town. The police, bearing the flag of the republic of Panama, then marched through the streets to their headquarters over which the emblem was also raised.

France Favors United States

Paris, Nov. 7.—The feeling in government circles here continues to be strongly favorable to allowing the Panama revolution to take its course. It is definitely stated that no steps have been tinctly sympathetic to the United tion. The official sentiment is distinstly sympathetic to the United States.

M. Jusserand, the French ambassador at Washington, promptly communicated to Foreign Minister Delcasse the details of a conversation he had with United States Secretary of State Hay, in which the latter gave assurance that if the United States concluded a treaty with the republic of Panama for the construction of the canal the French Panama Canal company would receive the $40,000,000 agreed upon for the purchase of the French rights. M. Delcasse's reply to the ambassador has not been announced, but there is reason to believe that it was most cordial and contained the assurance that France will not do anything to hinder the recognition of the new republic.

Nixon Again on the Stand

New York, Nov. 7.—Lewis Nixon was again the sole occupant of the stand at the hearing yesterday afternoon on the application to make permanent the receivership of the United States Shipbuilding company. Guthrie and Untermyer each made the flattest of denials of statements made by the other and Guthrie spoke in addition of the "impertinence" of Untermyer. Schwab was not reached as a witness, Untermyer spending the afternoon in examining Nixon about the alleged false statements and misrepresentations to the public during the preliminaries to organization.

Fake Employment Agency

St. Louis, Nov. 7.—Postoffice inspectors arrested Samuel H. Kaplan and O. P. True on a charge of operating a fraudulent employment bureau by mail. Their plan was to advertise in newspapers at points some distance away for men to take positions at the world's fair and upon securing a reply would require the applicant to make a deposit in good faith. Both admitted they had not been authorized to furnish situations at the world's fair and that it was their intention to "make a stake and skip." In default of bond they were sent to jail.

Unusual Sight For Students

Columbus, O., Nov. 7.—While students of the State Agricultural college were witnessing the harvesting of a field of corn for ensilage purposes by a machine operated by an old traction engine the boiler blew up and pieces of iron tore through the crowd of students. The engineer was killed and his assistant fatally injured. Several students were slightly injured.

Non-Unionists to Work Under Guard

Denver, Nov. 7.—Orders have been issued by Governor Peabody to companies A and K, First regiment, to proceed to Telluride, where they will be employed as guards at the mines, which the owners will try to reopen with non-union forces. There has been a strike in progress at Telluride for several months, but no violence has been reported.

Mrs Gilhooly Loses Suit

New York, Nov. 7.—The charge made by Mrs. Margaret Gilhooly, widow of the late Police Sergeant Gilhooly, against former Police Inspector Thompson, that he had demanded and received from her husband $2500 for his promotion from roundsman to sergeant in the police department, was dismissed by Justice Mayer for lack of evidence.

Quarrelled Over a Woman

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 7.—Genaro Stanerno, aged 22, is under arrest, charged with stabbing Michael Podesco, four years younger than himself, during a quarrel over a woman at the home of Podesco in Swampscott. Podesco received an ugly knife wound in the back, but will recover.

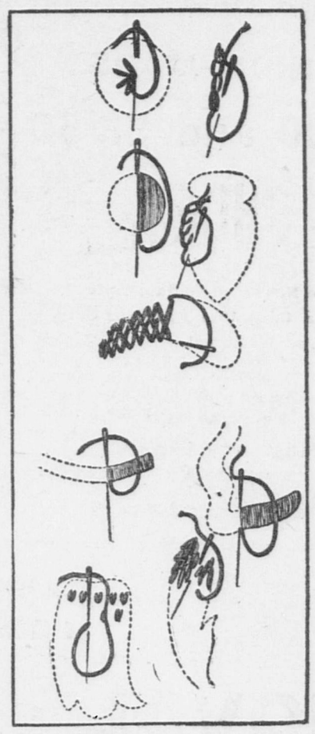
PRETTY XMAS THINGS

Lace Collars As Gifts

THE design given here for a collar is a very good one and may be easily worked by any neat embroiderer. Great care and neatness are absolutely necessary. A snip of the scissors where not required is enough to spoil a piece of work, and that often irremediably, for mending cut net is a task to alarm the best of workers. If, however, it has to be done, try to imitate the net with fine cotton.



BEGINNING THE WORK.

Tack your transfer pattern on to the muslin, which must be of a good quality, but not too opaque.

Tack the muslin firmly on to the net.

The next thing to do is to outline the whole of your design with crochet cotton. This must be sewed down with fine but strong sewing cotton. When all this is done, cut away the muslin, leaving the applied pattern on the net.

In the first sketch you see the work begun in the different stitches to be used over the applique.

The centers of the flowers may be left as they are in plain muslin or else

FOR LITERARY FOLK.

Writing Pads as Christmas Gifts. How They Are Made.

There is nothing new about writing pads; still when made up in a new fashion they form useful and attractive Christmas presents. The materials for their manufacture may often be found in the scrap bag, but if nothing available is at hand a yard of denim or art fabric is just the thing.

As a beginning, cut a piece of heavy cardboard a foot and a half long and nine inches wide. The board should then be padded with a thin layer of cotton batting and the material stretched taut over the top. The under edge is not padded, but is sewed to the top covering with tape or merely strongly whipped with thread. When this is done cut another piece of cardboard four inches shorter than the foundation cover and pad as described. Then lace to the under piece of board with narrow ribbon along one edge.

WRITING PAD.

In the four inch space at the top of the foundation glue on a small, round leather inkstand. At the left hand corner place a box of pens and stamps fashioned of the cardboard and covered with material.

If a patterned fabric is used on the outside the lining will be more effective when made of plain stuff. An inch wide ribbon tacked in the center of the cover holds paper, envelopes and two pens. All is complete when the holder is tied together with ribbons.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE

The Castle Square theatre attraction for the coming week will be a revival of the famous emotional drama "Camille," a play always welcome to a vast public when properly presented. Miss Lillian Lawrence's impersonation of the title part, in the earlier performances of the play at the Castle Square, will be recalled with great pleasure and her reappearance in this well known character will afford great satisfaction to amusement patrons. The changes in the company since Camille was last played at the Castle Square will bring many new people into the cast, which is as follows: Armand Duval, Howard Hansel; Mons. Duval, John F. Webber; Gastan Rieux, Thomas MacLarnie; Count De Varville, John Sainpolis; Gustave, Mortimer Weldon; Messenger, Louis Thiel; Arthur, Paul Maclarland; Camille, Lillian Lawrence; Madame Prudence, Gertrude Berkeley; Nichette, Mary Sanders; Nanine, Alice Riker; Olympe, Isabelle Fletcher. Camille is announced for only a single week and on Monday, Nov. 16th, a somewhat notable departure from the usual class of productions at this theatre will be made, preparations for which are upon a scale calculated to create a sensation, and the spectacular scenic, costume and musical effects will bring into activity a small army of stage employes. The usual distribution of boxes of chocolate bonbons will be made at the Monday matinees.

GLOBE THEATRE.

Charles Richman, in Victor Napes' great American play "Captain Barrington," has been crowding the Globe theatre at every performance for the past three weeks. It is now in the fourth week of the extended engagement. The success of the star, Mr. Richman, is not only gratifying, but is unprecedented, while the play captivated Boston instantly upon its presentation. Without the hurrah, and boon with which many other plays are brought to this city, with scarcely an advance notice, Mr. Richman came, made a palpable hit, received the endorsements of all the critics, and became at once very popular. Few plays produced in Boston in years have not met with the approval accorded "Captain Barrington." All classes are interested in Mr. Victor Napes' production, from the school boy to the university president, from the street urchin to the statesman. The little girl who admired the showy uniform of the soldier; the sentimental lass, the boy with the martial spirit, the ardent lover, the soldier's widow, the soldier's mother, the literary man, the artist, all find something of deep interest to them in this new American play. "Captain Barrington" will hold the stage of the Globe theatre until further notice. Performances will be given every evening at 8, and Wednesday and Saturday matinees at 2.15.

PARK THEATRE.

There is a peculiar fascination about Annie Russell as an actress, and one can go to the theatre repeatedly and enjoy the impersonations which she gives. At the Park Theatre last Monday evening she opened the fourth week of her engagement in "Mice and Men," and there was a continuation of the cordiality and enthusiasm which have been recorded during the past three weeks. This comedy of one of the most picturesque periods of English life suits her perfectly. As the girl from the foundling asylum, she finds the part of Peggy decidedly congenial, and makes the transformation of personality from the rough child to the loveable young woman notably charming and artistic Miss Russell is consistent throughout her impersonation, and the character will rank with the most effective that she has ever shown in Boston. Miss Russell will give the last Boston performances of "Mice and Men" on Saturday November 14th. Tuesday November 17th, she will present "The By-Path" a new play, written for her by C. Hadden Chambers, author of Captain Swift, The Tyranny of Tears, The Idler, The Fatal Card, and other plays. On Monday night November 16th the theatre will be closed for final rehearsal.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

The annual engagement of Mr. Thomas E. Shea at the Boston Grand Opera House is always looked forward to as a dramatic treat by theatre-goers. It has been felt that good dramatic presentations at popular prices was impossible but Mr. Shea has dispelled that idea, and he will be seen at this theatre next week in a varied repertoire including all the most favorably known of his former productions and an important addition, Bulwer Lytton's "Cardinal Richelieu." In the character of the Cardinal, Mr. Shea has great scope to show his versatility which he ably takes advantage of and scores heavily. Mr. Shea has been favorably known for his excellent work in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr Hyde" and the "The Bells," and this season has made a special production of "Richelieu" in which the character of the Cardinal is the strongest impersonation he attempts. The repertoire as arranged for this engagement is as follows: Monday and Saturday evenings, "The Bells;" Tuesday and Friday evenings, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde;" Wednesday evening, "Cardinal Richelieu;" Thursday evening, "The Hunchback's Daughter" or "The Fool's Revenge;" and Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday matinees, "The Pledge of Honor."

—The good people of Rutland, Mass., are up in arms because the state has purchased a large tract of land on which to establish a prison reservation, fearing that it will injure the town. The prison reservation is not intended to be a convict camp, as no inmate of the state prison is to be employed there. The plan is simply to employ prisoners who are now in jails and houses of correction whom the state cannot keep at work under the anti-contract laws. Not over 100 men can be kept there at a time, and they will be strictly guarded. The tract purchased was once quite populous, but of late years has been wholly abandoned by inhabitants. — Athol Chronicle.

—It has been stated by an eminent authority that the cyanide process "has done more than all recent processes combined for cheapening the production or various metals, increasing the gold supply of the world, and advancing the standard of our progress and civilization." The first recorded attempts to apply cyanide to ore treatment were by an inventor named Simpson, of Newark, N. J., who patented a process in 1885.—Scientific American.

STATE MONUMENT.

Distinguished Party Leaves for Vicksburg Tomorrow.

The Vicksburg Daily Herald of Nov. 6 says: The dedication of the Massachusetts state monument on the Vicksburg National Military Park, which is a fixture for Saturday, November 14, should be as it doubtless will, a great event. While it is to be a Massachusetts state affair, to be generally managed by the governor of Massachusetts and the commission from that state, that does not mean that the good people of the Bay State desire it to be exclusively so, so far as attendance goes; in fact the greater the local interest manifested in the affair the more gratifying will it be to Gov. Bates and the people of that state who accompany him.

Mr. H. H. Kitson of Quincy, Mass., the accomplished and experienced gentleman who is on the ground making arrangements to erect the monument, has received telegrams from Gov. Bates intimating that he has extended invitations to Gov. Longino, as representing the state and Mayor Trowbridge, as representing the city, to participate in the ceremony. He has every reason to believe that an invitation will be extended also to Gov.-elect Vardaman and to others prominent in state and municipal affairs.

The party will leave Boston Tuesday next, Nov. 10, to reach here over the Queen & Crescent route the morning of the 14th.

The itinerary of the distinguished party is printed on a neat and comprehensive folder card, from which the following points are obtained:

Nov. 10, leave Boston, at 1 P. M., over the Boston & Maine Railway, reaching North Adams, Mass., at 5:08 P. M., connecting at Rotterdam Junction with the West Shore R. R., and at Buffalo with the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern for Cleveland. Leave Cleveland Wednesday over the Big Four, arriving at Cincinnati 1:30 P. M., and after spending several hours there leave over the Queen & Crescent for Chattanooga at 8:05 P. M., arriving at Chattanooga at 6.50 A. M. Thursday the party will stop over to visit Chickamauga Park, Missionary Ridge, and Lookout Mountain. Leaving Chattanooga 6:15 P. M. the train will go on to New Orleans, reaching there Friday morning where they will put in the day sightseeing, and driving, leaving there at 7:30 P. M. for Vicksburg, to arrive here at 6:50 A. M. Saturday.

Arriving at the station carriages will be taken to the Hotel Carroll where the party will rest up, get breakfast and prepare for the dedication in the afternoon.

It has been suggested that it would be well to have the Warren Light Artillery fire a salute on the arrival of Gov. Bates and party, and also in honor of the governor of Mississippi as well as to have both local military companies at the monument site during the dedication ceremonies, and this will very likely be done. No doubt, too, Mayor Trowbridge and committees from the commercial bodies will be present on arrival of the Boston party to make their greeting all the more cordial and emphatic.

The national commission will have nothing to do with the arrangements at all, though of course the commissioners will be present to receive the monument from Massachusetts on behalf of the United States. Capt. Rigby, chairman, will briefly and formally accept the monument and then will introduce Gen. Stephen D. Lee, who will probably deliver a brief address. Col. Everest, of the commission, it is feared cannot be present, though Gen. John S. Kountz, of Ohio, secretary of the commission, will be on hand.

There will between fifty and sixty in the Bay State party, including many ladies, headed by Mrs. Bates, wife of the Governor, and including Mrs. Theo. Alice Ruggles Kitson of Quincy, Mass. designer and sculptor of the piece of artistic and historic handiwork.

The people of Vicksburg will no doubt turn out by the hundreds for the interesting ceremonial and will have ample facilities for getting to the site by following up Union avenue from the east gate of the national cemetery, or else out by Jackson road to "Lovers' Lane," as the cut off past Bryant Willis' place is called.

By the time of the next state monument dedication, at that place which may be Rhode Island or Illinois, all the park roads and bridges will be in order for the travel that will follow, and the trip will be shorter.

Removal.

Dr. Sherman, the dentist, is no longer located in the Durgin and Merrill Block, having taken an office in the new Hancock Building over W. G. Shaw's furniture store.

The City Council Committees on Streets and Finance meet tonight.

CHANGE OF TIME.

Important Changes in Street Car Time Service.

Several important changes in the running time of the street cars will go into effect Wednesday. On the West Quincy, Neponset line, cars will run through to Neponset, as at present until 5.30 P. M. after which hour they will run only between Quincy and West Quincy.

On the Squantum line the Atlantic depot will be the terminal instead of Neponset as at present.

The only other change will be the dropping of the car for Neponset which now leaves City Square at 11.55 and the 12.30 car from Neponset for Quincy. The last car for Neponset will hereafter leave at 11.35 and last car for Quincy will leave Neponset at 12 o'clock, midnight. These changes were made necessary because of the lack of patronage.

IS IT A FIRE BUG?

Attempt to Burn a South Quincy Building.

An unsuccessful attempt was made early Sunday morning to destroy by fire a new building on Brooks avenue owned by Angelo Malnati. It was about 2 o'clock Sunday morning when Officer Boutin discovered a fire in the building.

He made an investigation and found that a lot of waste paper and rubbish had been saturated with kerosene oil and then set fire too. The fire was burning briskly but the officer was able to extinguish it without giving an alarm. The damage by fire was slight.

Basket Ball.

Two games of basket ball will be played at the Coliseum on Thursday evening. The first will be between the West Quincy Juniors and the Copeland Club five and as intense rivalry exists between these two teams a fast game for amateurs is looked for. The main attraction will be the game between the Quincys and the Arlington A. A. team. The Quincys are painting their ability in rather bright colors since the addition of Kimbal, Gibson and Collins of of the old Hingham team and Arlington will endeavor to carry away the game if possible.

A session of the Probate Court will be held in Quincy Wednesday.

WILL NOT RUN.

Ex-Senator Sprague Not a Candidate for Mayor.

Favors Election of Geo. H. Wilson.

That Present Administration May Be Turned Down.

There have been many rumors during the past few days about certain gentlemen who were going to run for Mayor at the coming municipal election on nomination papers. One of the most prominent of these was ex-Senator Eugene H. Sprague.

Mr. Sprague however will probably not take out nomination papers. In conversation with a representative of the Ledger this morning, Mr. Sprague said that he should probably not run for mayor on nomination papers.

He believed however that the present administration should be turned down and that this could be better accomplished by voting for Wilson.

Good Afternoon.

Taxpayers may well ask,—what are the extraordinary circumstances which require that the City Treasurer should have authority to borrow an additional $90,000 in anticipation of the taxes of 1903? What is the law which regulates the percentage which a city may borrow in anticipation of taxes? Is the tax warrant larger than usual? Is the collection of taxes slow? Are the back taxes collected as they should be? Should the city borrow to pay maturing notes? Are our city finances in a healthy condition? Would this proposition to borrow have been necessary if the appropriation had passed for the enlargement of the High schoolhouse? Was not the Copeland street paving order, which borrowed $6,000, a part of a scheme to get ready money? Is not the loan order proposed for the purchase of water pipe for 1904 another?

Some may say, without investigation, that the tax warrant of 1903 is considerably larger. But is it? The amount of the tax warrant this year was $398,538.02. This was over $5,000 less than last year. (It might be asked here if the tax levy of 1903 was large enough to meet demands made upon it, or was it purposely kept low to secure an unwarranted reduction of ten cents in the tax rate?)

The amount of tax warrant this year is not $6,000 more than it was in 1901, and only about $4,000 more than in 1899, after the street sprinkling assessment is deducted.

The following summary shows the amounts of the tax warrants for six years:

AMOUNT OF WARRANT.

Year 1898,	$365,269.35
Year 1899,	*397,843.58
Year 1900,	386,297.85
Year 1901,	392,865.91
Year 1902,	404,230.50
Year 1903,	398,528.02

*Including street sprinkling.

The amount of the tax warrant for 1903 being $398,538.02, should the City Council authorize temporary loans of $390,000 in anticipation of taxes? Why, the Tax Collector had on Sept. 30, collected $11,536.28 on account of the taxes of 1903. Since that date the Tax Collector may have collected, in all, $100,000 of the taxes of 1903, leaving less than $300,000 uncollected. Early in the year the City Council authorized loans to the amount of $300,000 in anticipation of the taxes of 1903. Now that the amount uncollected is less than $300,000, can the City Council legally authorize at this time loans in anticipation of taxes to the amount of $390,000?

Before Jan. 1, the Tax Collector should collect over $200,000 of the taxes of 1903. It has been done every year recently, as will be seen from figures taken from annual reports of Tax Collectors:

TAXES COLLECTED.

Dec. 31, 1898, on acct.	1898,	$223,765.70
Dec. 31, 1899, " "	1899,	*239,755.21
Dec. 31, 1900, " "	1900,	216,680.88
Dec. 31, 1901, " "	1901,	229,015.40
Dec. 31, 1902, " "	1902,	225,819.65
Sept. 30, 1903, " "	1903,	11,536 28

Again, we ask, what are the extraordinary demands upon the city in the three months of October, November and December, that make it necessary to borrow $90,000 in addition to receipts of over $200,000 in taxes of 1903, and other sums from various sources? The total expenditures of the city for the month of September were $60,698.76, and the City Treasurer reported cash on hand Sept. 30 to the amount of $32,535.21.

The taxpayer who attempts to make a study of the situation will be surprised to learn that in the City Books of 1901 and 1902 there is no summarized statement of the appropriations, expenditures and balances for the year. In every year up to 1901 such a statement occurred in the annual City Books and seems very necessary.

From the Dec. 31, 1902, statement of the City Auditor, for the year, of which fifty copies may have been issued, the appropriations of 1902, including $55,000 for the new Washington schoolhouse, amounted to $753,968.14, of which $653,520.83 were expended, leaving a balance of $100,170.39, of which $55,000 was for new schoolhouse.

During the year 1903, according to the Sept, 30th report of the City Auditor, $83,557.24 have been expended on the account of 1902, and among the sixteen balances reported are $22,852.03 for said Washington schoolhouse; a total of over $6,000 in excess of the balances Dec. 31 last for 1902.

The levy of 1903 of $398,538.02 includes not only current city expenses for the year, but also maturing city debt, maturing water debt, maturing park debt, interest on debt, and all State, Metropolitan and county taxes, as will be seen:

LEVY OF 1903.

For municipal current expenses,	$265,208.61
City debt,	70,540.35
Water debt,	34,500.00
Park debt,	1,000.00
Interest on debt,	25,416.00
State tax,	16,925.00
County tax,	15,333-60
South Metropolitan sewer tax,	14,307.10
Metropolitan park tax,	8,247.69
Metropolitan water tax,	30,237.42
State highway,	2.01
	$481,818.33
Less estimated receipts,	71,109.09
	$410,709.24
Less 8,121 polls at $2 00,	16,242.00
	$394,467.24
Add overlayings,	4,070,78
Total levy,	$398,538.02

Outside of the above, there have been large special loan orders for various purposes, which have not only provided money for those purposes but have temporarily provided money for current expenses. These include the sewer construction loan of $70,000.00, the water construction loan of $30,000, and other loans.

There is much here to be explained before the City Council authorizes an additional loan of $90,000 in anticipation of taxes, which might bring forth an injunction against the city. The trouble probably comes from the large amount of uncollected taxes previous to 1903, but the city cannot borrow in anticipation of those taxes. They should be collected.

Some Football Notes.

Although there are two more games left on Quincy High's schedule, the supporters of the team are even now almost unanimous in their opinion that this is one of the most successful years of football, that Quincy has experienced for some time. Thus far Quincy has played eight games, winning six and losing two. Quincy has scored 155 points to their apponents 17.

Quite a number of the High school foot ball players went to Dedham Saturday afternoon to witness the game between Dedham High and Wellesley High.

On Friday, Quincy High plays its second league game of the season with Waltham High at Waltham. A week from Friday the record closes with another league game with Wellesley High at Wellesley. The Quincy boys are not confident of victory in either game, but they are determined to give their apponents a hard game to win.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

The location is the best of any hall in the city. The street cars pass the door with a turn out right in front of the Hall.

The floor is of selected maple laid with the greatest care, and is kept in perfect condition being covered with canvas when not used for dancing.

The ventilation—a most important consideration—is such as to keep the air pure with even a crowded hall and without causing any drafts.

The Hall is lighted by electricity, brilliantly and pleasantly, and with a switchboard arranged so that all desired effects can be obtained in the Hall proper or on the stage. Gas is used as an auxiliary light.

The heating is direct—indirect, ample, and giving the most healthful results.

The Stage has been designed with care, and is furnished with a particularly generous supply of attractive and appropriate scenery.

In case of fire the re pails of w ter and chemical fire extinguishers throughout the Hall. There is an asbestos fire curtain by which the Stage can be instantly cut off from the Hall proper. Therelare nine (9) doors opening from the Hall and five (5) separate exits.

As a whole, Quincy Music Hall has been carefully planned to meet the requirements of those who wish a large and really first class Hall.

The Management will be glad to book dates now for the season of 1903-1904.

FORMAL PROTEST MADE

Colombia Says We Have Misinterpreted Treaty

MINISTER FROM PANAMA

To Have Conference With Secretary Hay, the Government Duly Recognizing Him as Representative of New Republic—New Canal Treaty

Washington, Nov. 9.—It is learned in official circles that the United States of Colombia has lodged a protest with the state department against the action of the United States in connection with the events which have occurred on the Isthmus of Panama.

The terms of the protest can not be ascertained, but it is known that strong objection is made to the attitude of the United States in general and against interpretations made by this government of the treaty of 1846 between the United States of America and the United States of Colombia.

The state department has the protest under serious consideration, but the nature of its reply, if any, or the time when it will be made, is not known. Other than admitting that such a document has been filed in the state department the officials there will say nothing about the matter.

Word has reached the navy department of the arrival of the United States cruiser Boston at Panama, Commander Diehl, in reporting her arrival, announcing also the receipt of instructions from the navy department which directs the keeping open of the transit of the isthmus. He also says that at this time the traffic is undisturbed.

The president's yacht, the Mayflower, left the navy yard here yesterday for Colon. Aboard her is H. A. Gudger, United States consul general at Panama, who goes to Colon to assume full charge of the American consular affairs. The Mayflower is expected to reach her destination in about eight days. On his arrival at Panama Mr. Gudger will do business with the new government at Panama. He has full instructions from the secretary of state governing his dealings with the new government.

Admiral Walker, president of the isthmian canal commission, was also a passenger on the Mayflower. His departure was considerably of a surprise, no announcement to this effect having been made heretofore, and the first news of his going to Panama being given out by Secretary Moody when he came from the White House at midnight. Admiral Walker, it is stated, goes to Panama for the purpose of observing conditions on the ground and reporting to the president on the situation and on any changes that have occurred since the isthmian canal commission made is last report.

Philippe Bunau-Varilla, whose appointment as diplomatic agent of the Panama republic was announced and who reached here Saturday night from New York, saw Assistant Secretary Loomis of the state department Sunday. He will be received by Secretary Hay at the state department and duly recognized as the minister plenipotentiary and envoy extraordinary of the new republic of Panama to the United States. After the presentation a long conference will take place, at which plans for the opening of immediate negotiations for a canal treaty between the two governments will be discussed. The presentation to the president of Varilla has not been definitely arranged yet.

The new minister's first day in Washington was a busy one. e had a long conference with Secretary Hay at the latter's residence. At this time he presented his credentials and the formal reception at the state department was arranged for. Hay and Varilla already have gone over in considerble detail the necessary steps toward the conclusion of a new treaty which, while following to some extent the Hay-Herran treaty, in many ways will be simpler.

As regards the financial conditions the Washington government does not desire any change, but the provisions of the new treaty regarding sovereignty over the canal strip and the extent of the United States control will be less complicated and more positive in statement than is the Hay-Herran Colombian convention.

Olive Branch Extended

Panama, Nov. 9.—A dispatch received here from General Reyes contains the information that he has been appointed by the government of Colombia as peace commissioner, with the duty of making arrangements with the government of the republic of Panama to the end that the national honor may be saved. The circulation of the news of the appointment of Reyes resulted in enthusiastic celebration, not only because the general has many friends here, but for the reason that his mission is looked upon as assuring the town and the heavy downfall of rain independence of the isthmian territory.

The steamships Manavi and Huito have been detained at Buenaventura by the Colombian government.

The United States cruiser Boston was to have sailed last night for the purpose of protecting British interests, but it is thought that the news of the appointment of General Reyes may change her plans.

Great Enthusiasm at Panama

Panama, Nov. 9.—The news of the recognition of the independence of the republic of Panama, cabled from Washington, spread rapidly throughout the which prevailed could not dampen the enthusiasm which dominated the isthmians over the announcement. The day was declared a holiday and even the foreigners in Panama joined in the jubilation. All the public and private buildings were adorned with the national colors and immense crowds, headed by bands playing the national anthems of the republic and the United States, paraded through the city. When the United States legation was reached the enthusiasm and excitement were beyond description, the people acting like maniacs and filling the air with wild cheers for the republic of Panama, the United States, the junta, President Roosevelt and Diplomatic Agent Bunau-Varilla. Never before had such scenes been enacted in the history of the isthmus. All kinds of popular entertainments are being prepared on an extensive scale.

Troops May Go to Panama

New York, Nov. 9—"Yes, there is a possibility that troops may have to be sent to the isthmus," said Secretary of War Root, speaking of the Panama situation on his arrival from Europe. "There is always a possibility; that is what the army is for, but I hardly think it will be necessary in this case." Beyond this he declined to be quoted, pleading lack of information about the situation.

Nothing From Bocas del Toro

Colon, Nov. 9.—No news has been received from Bocas del Toro. The United States cruiser Atlanta sailed for there Saturday night. The steam launch which was sent to Bocas del Toro Thursday night to capture that place in the interest of the new republic has not returned.

Wild rumors are in circulation here that the American and other foreign residents of Bogota are being massacred. The rumors are not confirmed and are looked upon as altogether improbable.

Colon gave itself up entirely Saturday night to popular demonstrations. Bands of music paraded the streets until early Sunday morning, playing national and American airs.

A Hurried Recognition

London, Nov. 9.—Some surprise is expressed in official quarters here at the quick action taken by the Washington government in announcing its attitude regarding the new republic of Panama, which, though not accepted as a formal recognition, is universally taken as tantamount thereto. Particular interest is attached to Secretary of State Hay's expression that Panama has "accomplished" its independence, and there is a frank expression of the difficulty which faces any European government in recognizing a revolutionary body until it has proved itself able to hold its own.

New Situation Pleases Italy

Rome, Nov. 9.—The formation of the new republic of Panama and its recognition by the United States is looked upon with satisfaction all over Italy. Old disputes between Italy and Colombia have never been settled, as the latter always succeeded in eluding its obligations to the Italian government.

Doctor Killed by Automobile

Norwich, Conn., Nov. 9.—Dr. S. S. Lathrop, aged 39, was riding his bicycle down Hickory street as C. H. Osgood was trying to turn his automobile out to avoid passengers from a street car when they, not seeing each other, came together and Lathrop was thrown to the ground and killed. His head was frightfully crushed. No one is blamed for the accident.

Dowieites In London

London, Nov. 9.—Members of the Catholic church in Zion, followers of Dr. Dowie, had meetings in Westminster yesterday. The meetings were poorly attended.

TWO KINDS OF CHILDREN

Children that grow too fast and those that seem hardly to grow at all, both need Scott's Emulsion.

It gives that rich vital nourishment which is the secret of all healthy growth. It rounds out the long limbs, and helps children to grow without using up all their strength in growing.

Mothers ought to know more about the wonderful help which Scott's Emulsion would give their children.

There is no secret about Scott's Emulsion. Nothing is covered up by obscure references to "active principles" or "alkaloids."

Scott's Emulsion is simply an emulsion of the best Norwegian cod liver oil combined with the hypophosphites and glycerin.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

SMART AT 86.

Alfred Furnald, a Former Resident, Calling on Old Friends.

Several in Quincy have this week received a very pleasant call from a remarkably well preserved old friend. Years ago Alfred Furnald lived in a house which stood on the site now occupied by the residence of Hon. William A. Hodges, later removed to Elm street. He removed to a farm in Nottingham, N. H., where Mr. and Mrs. Furnald not only celebrated their golden wedding but their sixtieth anniversary. Mrs. Furnald has since died.

Mr. Furnald was 86 years old on May 20 last, and retains his flesh and health to a remarkable degree. He can easily see at a distance, and has no trouble in reading at night. His hearing is good; in fact all his faculties.

He came to Quincy with a list of friends and has already called upon Henry Chubbuck, John Moore, Adams Whitney, Charles H. Spear, Mrs. Fred Hardwick, Edwin W. Marsh, Mrs. J. N. Blake, Patrick Garrity, John W. Nash, Mrs. Edwin Willett, Mrs. John Gray and others.

Mr. Furnald is the guest of N. B. Furnald and Thomas E. Furnald.

Defendants Win.

The case of Addiline Young, vs. Timberlake & Small of Atlantic, for $5,000, has been on trial at Dedham for the past two days.

At the conclusion of the evidence and after the argument the jury directed the court to return a verdict for the defendant.

J. J. Feeley appeared for the plaintiff and J. W. and J. J. McAnarney for the defendants.

The accident happened in Atlantic last January. The girl was run over and her hip broken. Timberlake & Small claim that she was careless in running across the street and ran into the team.

Insured for $2,000,000

L. Rodman Wanamaker, son of John Wanamaker, the eminent merchant of New York and Philadelphia, has taken out a policy in for $1,000,000, paying an annual premium of over $30,000. This makes him the most heavily insured man in the world, with the single exception of King Edward VII.

Mr Wanamaker's total insurance is now $4,000,000.

Ask yourself WHY Mr. Wanamaker placed one-half this great amount with The Prudential.

Your business judgment will at once reply: "Because after full investigation and comparison, Mr. Wanamaker found that the company which could give him the best insurance for a given amount of money was The Prudential."

Nndoubtedly you will agree that Mr. Wanamaker does not pay over $30,000 per year except for most excellent reasons.

These reasons apply to YOU precisely as well as they do to HIM.

The Committee Oranized for Campaign and Plans Outlined.

A meeting of the No-License League was held Monday evening at the offices of Dr. Sherman in the Hancock building, and plans formulated for an aggressive campaign. The clergy were represented by Rev. E. N. Hardy and Rev. W. W. Barr, and each had valuable suggestions to make.

It was decided to have such a demonstration in Quincy Music hall on the Sunday evening preceding the city election as was held there last year. Meetings will be held also in the different wards at various times.

The League's paper will be published as usual and a copy sent to every registered voter. The following are the officers for the ensuing year: President, C. T. Sherman; Vice-president, Delcevare King; Treasurer, John O. Hall, Jr.; Secretary, John D. Mackay.

Vicksburg Battlefield.

The Vicksburg (Miss.) American says editorially: "The occasion of the Massachusetts monument Nov. 14 will be an auspicious one, being the first monument in a park soon to be converted into one of the most beautiful preserves in the world. Not one out of ten in Vicksburg has the remotest appreciation of what the federal government is doing to beautify the old battlefield; even those who have studied the plans of the engineers and who have recollection of the noted landscape work of the north and in European countries find it difficult to realize that here we are soon to enjoy drives through preserves that will cost hundreds of thousands of dollars to establish, and the beauty of which will make this city the stopping point for a day of all tourists from the north."

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

The location is the best of any hall in the city. The street cars pass the door with a turn out right in front of the Hall.

The floor is of selected maple laid with the greatest care, and is kept in perfect condition, being covered with canvas when not used for dancing.

The ventilation—a most important consideration—is such as to keep the air pure with even a crowded hall and without causing any drafts.

The Hall is lighted by electricity, brilliantly and pleasantly, and with a switchboard arranged so that all desired effects can be obtained in the Hall proper or on the stage. Gas is used as an auxiliary light.

The heating is direct—indirect, ample, and giving the most healthful results.

The Stage has been designed with care, and is furnished with a particularly generous supply of attractive and appropriate scenery.

In case of fire the re pails of water and chemical fire extinguishers throughout the Hall. There is an asbestos fire curtain by which the Stage can be instantly cut off from the Hall proper. There are nine (9) doors opening from the Hall and five (5) separate exits.

As a whole, Quincy Music Hall has been carefully planned to meet the requirements of those who wish a large and really first class Hall.

ESTABLISHED IN 1889.
THE ONLY DAILY in Norfolk County Massachusetts.
Published Every Evening, Sundays and Holidays Excepted, At No. 1424 HANCOCK ST., City of Quincy, Mass., by GEORGE W. PRESCOTT & SON.
Successors to Green & Prescott.

Good Afternoon

It is reported that Charles S. Mellen, the new president of the N. Y., & H. R. R. proposes to operate electric lines wherever practicable, particularly in surburban service. The main line of the Plymouth division between Boston and Braintree should be among the first.

Another reason why the City Council should not authorize an additional loan of $90,000 in anticipation of taxes of 1903, is shown in the figures for the year 1902. Jan. 1, 1903, the amount uncollected on the tax of 1902 was $177,124.63. The amount of unpaid temporary loans (out of the $300,000 authorized, as this year) was $175,000.00. The uncollected taxes with abatements would not in themselves meet the loans.

If the $90,000.00 additional should be authorized in anticipation of taxes of 1903, the condition Jan. 1, 1904, would be something like this. Uncollected taxes of $175,000.00 for the year 1903, and outstanding loans in anticipation of taxes of 1903 to the amount of $250,000.00 to $275,000.00. How would that look?

Drift of Opinion.

☞Undoubtedly the greatest peril to American trade unionism at the present time lies in the inferior quality of labor leadership. The worst enemies of the labor cause are the noisy demagogues and self-seeking grafters who hold positions of power in union circles. Unless trade unionists realize the necessity of placing the control of their organizations in the hands of cool headed and businesslike men they cannot expect to maintain their membership at its present high level. As it is, the union membership represents only a very small minority of the whole body of productive workers. The future growth of the unions depends largely on the conduct of the leaders.—The Social Settler in the Boston Transcript.

FOR APPLIED SCIENCE

Estate Valued at Several Millions Bequeathed to Harvard University

Boston, Nov. 10.—Victor and Robert McKay, the two sons of Gordon McKay, inventor and proprietor of the McKay sewing machine, are practically cut off by their father's will from all share in his estate, while Harvard university will eventually receive the entire estate, valued at several millions of dollars, the interest of the fund to be used to promote applied science. The will was filed late yesterday afternoon by the executors.

The only private bequests are made in the form of annuities, which, at the time they become effective, will amount to nearly $50,000 a year. The largest annuity, $11,500, is bequeathed to Mrs. Marion Von Bruning, McKay's former wife, while the two sons of the testator by that marriage, Robert and Victor, are each given $100 a year until they become of age. The will also provides, however, for the payment of annuities of $2500 to each of his two sons after the death of Mrs. Von Bruning, provided she so directs by her will. Other annuities, which range from $1200 to $5000, are distributed among former servants, friends and relatives.

Crime Was Intended

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 10.—An inkling of what has been developed by the investigation into the recent poisoning of several inmates of the Tewksbury state hospital is given by a member of the committee, who says that the fact has been established that the belladonna by which 11 men were poisoned was not procured from the medicine chest from which the medical wants of the men in the ward were supplied. He says that it must have been procured outside the institution. He intimated that it was clear that the poisoning was premeditated.

Should Give More Time to School

New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 10.—The committee of inquiry into the charges against Managing Director Brooks of the Textile school reported last night to the trustees, exonerating Brooks. The trustees accepted the report and adopted a motion that the executive consider the advisability of hiring a man to devote his whole time to the school. Brooks was charged with using the property and employes of the schools in his private business.

Football Players Knocked Out

Stamford, Conn., Nov. 10.—During a game of football between Manor school of this city and a team picked from the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity of Yale, Frank Howland, fullback of the Yale team, received a compound fracture of the right leg, and Johnson of the Manor school team had his shoulder bone broken. The game resulted in a tie.

Deer Hunter Perished

Ellsworth, Me., Nov. 10.—A searching party found the body of Ansel P. Goodell in the woods five miles from his home in Plantation Eight, lying on the back at the foot of a tree, where he is supposed to have fallen from exhaustion while trying to make his wa home through a heavy snowfall Saturday. Goodell had been deer hunting.

Democrats Gain a Seat

Boston, Nov. 10.—The Democrats have gained a member of the legislature by the recount of the vote for representatives in ward 23. There was considerable interest in the recount owing to the tie vote for second place between Walter E. Henderson (Rep.) and Joseph J. Leonard (Dem.), each being credited with 1744 votes.

GAIN OF 442,100

In Membership of Federation of Labor During the Past Year

Boston, Nov. 10.—The 23d annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, which will continue probably for at least 14 days, got into working order before an adjournment was taken late yesterday afternoon. President Gompers delivered his annual address to the delegates and Secretary Morrison and Treasurer Lennon presented their annual statements.

About 450 delegates were present when the session was called to order They were welcomed to Boston by President Driscoll of the Central Labor Union of this city. When Mr. Gompers was presented with a block and gavel he took occasion to refer to the honor accorded the convention in having its sessions in Faneuil hall.

President Gompers' address took up most of the afternoon. It showed that the gain in membership of the affiliated international unions and of the American Federation of Labor during the last year had been 442,100. He reviewed at length what the federation had accomplished during the year, and he made numerous recommendations. He pointed out that the very grave danger which confronted their movement was the internecine strife due to the conflicting claims of trade jurisdiction. Mr. Gompers condemned such anti-trust legislation as was secretly against labor, and urged eternal vigilance with respect to legislation.

The treasurer's report showed the income of the year was $247,800, the expenditures $196,015, and the balance on hand $84,000.

Top Notch

Butter Scotch

A new kind of butter scotch, made in a new way; a better butter scotch than you ever tasted. Better because it is nutritious as well as delicious; better because it's pure, wholesome. Try the following recipe and test its real goodness.

One cup of Karo Corn Syrup, one cup of granulated sugar, one-half cup of fresh butter. Boil until a small quantity dropped in cold water becomes hard and snappy. Do not stir while boiling. Add butter just before candy is done.

Karo

is decidedly preferable to any other syrups, which come to the consumer with all the dirt and dust the syrup measure has accumulated since its last use. Karo Corn Syrup is protected by airtight, friction-top tins, which preserve its purity, insure its cleanliness, guarantee its goodness. 10c, 25c and 50c, at grocers.

You also will find that he has skipped in the night,
That your fine gold-bowed glasses are nothing but brass,

THE TREATY WITH CUBA

President's Message Urges Speedy Action by Congress

BOUND BY HONOR TO DO SO

Island Republic Should Come Within Our System of International Policy —Treaty Secures to Us as Great Economic Advantages as to Cuba

Washington, Nov. 10.—The following message of the president was submitted to the extraordinary session of congress today:

To the senate and house of representatives:

I have convened the congress that it may consider the legislation necessary to put into operation the commercial treaty with Cuba, which was ratified by the senate at its last session, and subsequently by the Cuban government. I deem such legislation demanded not only by our interests, but by our honor. We cannot with propriety abandon the course upon which we have so wisely embarked.

When the acceptance of the Platt amendment was required from Cuba by the action of the congress of the United States, this government thereby definitely committed itself to the policy of treating Cuba as occupying a unique position as regards this country.

It was provided that when the island became a free and independent republic she should stand in such close relations with us as in certain respects to come within our system of international policy, and it necessarily followed that she must also to a certain degree become included within the lines of our economic policy. Situated as Cuba is it would not be possible for this country to permit the strategic abuse of the island by any foreign military power. It is for this reason that certain limitations have been imposed upon her financial policy, and that naval stations have been conceded by her to the United States. The negotiations as to the details of these naval stations are on the eve of completion. They are so situated as to prevent any idea that there is the intention ever to use them against Cuba, or otherwise than for the protection of Cuba from the assaults of foreign foes and for the better safeguarding of American interests in the waters south of us.

These interests have been largely increased by the consequences of the war with Spain, and will be still further increased by the building of the isthmian canal. They are both military and economic. The granting to us by Cuba of the naval stations above alluded to is of the utmost importance from a military standpoint and is proof of the good faith with which Cuba is treating us. Cuba has made great progress since her independence was established. She has advanced steadily in every way. She is loyally observing her obligations to us; and she is entitled to like treatment by us.

The treaty submitted to you for approval secures to the United States economic advantages as great as those given to Cuba. Not an American interest is sacrificed. By the treaty a large Cuban market is secured to our producers. It is a market which lies at our doors, which is already large, which is capable of great expansion, and which is especially important to the development of our export trade. It would be indeed shortsighted for us to refuse to take advantage of such an opportunity, and to force Cuba into making arrangements with other countries to our disadvantage.

This reciprocity treaty stands by itself. It is demanded on considerations of broad national policy as well as by our economic interest. It will do harm to no industry. It will benefit many industries. It is in the interest of our people as a whole, both because of its importance from the broad standpoint of international policy, and because economically it intimately concerns us to develop and secure the rich Cuban market for our farmers, artisans, merchants and manufacturers. Finally, it is desirable as a guaranty of the good faith of our nation towards her young sister republic to the south, whose welfare must ever be closely bound with ours. We gave her liberty. We are knit to her by the memories of the blood and the courage of our soldiers who fought for her in war; by the memories of the wisdom and integrity of our administrators who served her in peace and who started her so well on the difficult path of self-government. We must help her onward and upward; and in helping her we shall help ourselves.

The foregoing considerations caused the negotiation of the treaty with Cuba and its ratification by the senate. They now with equal force support the legislation by the congress which by the terms of the treaty is necessary to render it operative. A failure to enact such legislation would come perilously near a repudiation of the pledged faith of the nation.

I transmit herewith the treaty, as amended by the senate and ratified by the Cuban government.

White House, November 10, 1903.
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Placed Obstructions on Track

Barrington, R. I., Nov. 10.—Three Italian boys, each about 16 years old, were arrested here, charged with putting obstructions on the railroad track. The blocks were of sufficient size to give the cars severe jolts, but not large enough to derail the train. The boys were seen by the conductor and trainhands, but they fled as soon as they were recognized. They were later captured in a barn.

Discovery of Twelve Skeletons

Nahant, Mass., Nov. 10.—In excavating for a cellar on a hill at Little Nahant, workmen unearthed a dozen skeletons. The bones were found in three or four different lots, all about two feet below the surface of the ground. Their presence on the hill cannot be explained by the old inhabitants of the town.

Alleged Forged Check Workers

Boston, Nov. 10.—Charles D. Sterling and Harry Greeley are under arrest, charged respectively with larceny and forgery. It is claimed that Greeley forged checks and orders on local merchants, and Sterling uttered them.

Well Appointed Office.

Although Cyrus Patch & Son, the well known coal dealers, have maintained an office in City Square for a number of years, it has not been just what the firm desired. Of late their business has increased to such an extent that their office with F. F. Crane on Chestnut street had become entirely inadequate to meet the demands of their business and patrons.

Some weeks ago the firm secured new quarters on the first floor of the Daily Ledger building, which has been fitted in an attractive manner, and on Saturday the firm was installed there.

They now have one of the finest offices in this city, and it also has the advantage of being centrally located. On the large front window of the office, in gold letters, of a size that can be easily read from a distance, is the firm's name and the words "Coal and Wood."

A nearer approach to the window shows a row of small bins, in which are displayed samples of the different sizes and kinds of coal carried.

Entering the office one is confronted by a high desk of handsomely finished black walnut with trimmings of brass.

Back of this, in a well lighted room, is the office paraphenalia. This is in charge of two young ladies who will keep the books of the firm. All office work will now be transacted here instead of at the wharf as heretofore.

It might also be added, that besides being the coal office of Messrs. Patch, it is also the office of the Meadow Brook Ice Co. The office is open every day, and is also open evenings as well. It is connected by telephone and all orders received for coal, wood or ice will be as promptly attended to as though given at the company's wharf. Messrs. Patch are well aware of the fact that Quincy is a rapidly growing city, that progression is the order of the day, and their efforts to give their many patrons an up-to-date office in City Square in which to transact their business must be appreciated.

Portland Has $100,000 Fire

Portland, Me., Nov. 10.—One of the largest wharf fires which Portland has seen in years broke out at 10.30 last night in the storehouses of J. H. Hamlen & Son on Brown's wharf. The storehouses were filled with shook and finished hogsheads and barrels awaiting shipment. The buildings were covered with corrugated iron which for a long time confined the fire to the interior, but when it did break through the walls and roofs it burned fiercely for hours. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

Wells Held In $2000

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 10.—United States postal authorities will take action on the bogus lottery ticket swindle discovered in Lynn. William F. Wells, who did the printing, was arraigned in police court and pleaded not guilty to a charge of aiding and promoting a lottery. He was held in $2000 for hearing.

Dayton, O., Nov. 10.—Fred J. Sanger was arrested here because of a telegraph request from Lynn, Mass., which connects him with an alleged swindle in lottery tickets in that city.

ROMOC

Take time for your lunch—try and enjoy what you eat. This is the advice that the Romoc man gives to his hurried friends. No wonder you have dyspepsia. You might as well expect a watch to run smoothly after greasing it with butter, instead of lubricating it with some fine oil. You cannot throw everything into your stomach and expect that organ to work well and do its duty; but never mind all that, learn first to treat your stomach with half-way respect. Learn next how, if you have broken it down, to make it well.

The way to do that is to take Romoc. It is Nature's own remedy. There is nothing like Romoc for Indigestion. It not only strengthens the stomach but acts favorably upon the bowels, and, in fact, on all the vital organs of the body. You will find that by the use of Romoc in a very short time you will have a hearty appetite and you will enjoy everything you eat.

Just try my Romoc and see how much more good it will do for you than remedies containing injurious drugs and a large percentage of alcohol, which at the best can only serve to give temporary relief.

Ask for ROMOC LAXATIVE TABLETS—SURE CURE FOR CONSTIPATION.
We have investigated Romoc. We know that all that is said by the Romoc man pertaining to this wonderful remedy is true, and we will refund to anyone the price of the remedy not satisfied with the results obtained. Remember, Romoc is guaranteed and sold by

SLAYER OF ARMENIANS

Formerly Employed In Shoe Factory at Middleboro, Mass

A RADICAL REVOLUTIONIST

Who Would Hesitate at Nothing Which He Conceived to Be Duty to His Country—Embittered by Atrocities Upon His Family by Turks

Middleboro, Mass., Nov. 10.—The dispatch from London giving "Dickran" as the name of the Armenian who killed two members of the Hentschakist society and then committed suicide has served to confirm a belief already held by many in the Armenian colony that the murderer and suicide was none other than Dickram Derakian, formerly of this place.

Derakian, who had been in London for some time, communicated regularly with his friends here until two weeks ago, since when no word has been received from here. He was known as an outspoken revolutionist, a man of nervous temperament, but audaciously bold. He is described as about 30 years of age, rather slightly built, and when here he wore a sandy moustache.

An incident in his early life, the details of which he never confided to his intimates here, but which he intimated had to do with atrocities committed upon his family by Turkish soldiers, embittered him against anything Turkish and his hatred made him a most radical revolutionist. His Armenian friends here assert that he would hesitate at nothing where what he conceived to be a duty to his native country was concerned, and they also readily associate him with the theory of self-destruction. He boarded with a family on Jackson street, and evenings addressed groups of Armenians, counseling the most radical moves in behalf of their country.

Derakian left this country in April with the intention of going to Armenia. He was refused entry to that country and at once went to London, where he has since remained, frequently writing to his friends here.

Derakian came to this place six years ago from Harpoot, Turkey. Here he was employed as a shoe laster in the factory of Leonard & Darios. He proved an intelligent, competent and faithful employe. But his heart was in his native land and he let no opportunity pass to discuss the wrongs of Armenia or to advise the members of the colony, who came to regard him as a leader among them. Short of stature, he was nevertheless a commanding figure, and when addressing his fellow countrymen, who credited him with something akin to inspiration, he exerted a wonderful influence.

In January last he was taken sick, showing symptoms of tuberculosis, and went to an institution at Rutland for treatment. A month later he left the sanitarium and in April sailed for Turkey. Unable to enter the country, he went to London and from there wrote friends here that he was without funds and destitute. Money was immediately sent him and he was urged to return to this country. Later he wrote that he had secured employment. Frequently letters have since been received from him, the last reaching here two weeks ago.

SURGING MOB

Of Thousands in Vicinity of New York Church.

The Police are Almost Powerless.

Bride One of the Richest American Heiresses.

New York, Nov. 11.—The marriage of Miss May Goelet, only daughter of Mrs. Ogden Goelet, and one of the richest of American heiresses, to Henry J. Innes-Ker, eighth Duke of Roxburghe, was solemnized at St. Thomas' church, in this city, Bishop Doane, assisted by Rev. E. M. Stires of St. Thomas' church, performing the ceremony. A company of 250 guests witnessed the ceremony, but masses of palms, shrubs and flowers so embanked the church that the great nave seemed far from empty. In the chancel, where the ceremony took place, palms, Japanese crysanthemums and English primroses were combined in an artistic color scheme.

From the vestibule of the church the bridal party proceeded down the aisle to the chancel steps, the bride leaning on the arm of her brother, Robert Goelet. She wore a white satin dress, covered with point Valenciennes lace, and trimmed with wreaths of orange blossoms. Her veil was of tulle, and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of lilies of the valley. The maid of honor, Miss Beatrice Mills, and the other bridesmaids wore gowns of pink mousseline de soie, of the Louis Sieze period, combined with ecru lace, toques of pink velvet trimmed with lace and sable, and carried in place of bouquets muffs of pink velvet and sable.

The ushers did not precede the bridal party, as customary, but were seated before the bride entered.

At the chancel steps the bride was met by the duke and his best man, Reginald Ward, son of the late Earl of Dudley, and the betrothal service of the Protestant Episcopal church was read by Dr. Stires. The party then advanced to the altar rail, where the Episcopal marriage ceremony was said by Bishop Doane. Afterwards the duke and duchess went to the home of Mrs. Ogden Goelet, where an informal reception, to which only a part of the wedding guests were bidden, was held.

The duke and duchess left the Goelet residence in a carriage to which at the last moment a long white streamer was attached by the ushers, and drove to the Grand Central station, where they entered a private car attached to the 5 o'clock express for Newport.

Fifth avenue in the vicinity of the church was the scene before and during the ceremony of excitement and disorder unparalleled at any of the previous great weddings in New York. From the church to the Goelet residence, a distance of five blocks, the avenue was a surging mob of fully 10,000 persons, mostly women, whom a force of 200 policemen was powerless to hold in check.

Before the service began several hundred women gained entrance to the church and seated themselves in the galleries, from which they were forcibly dislodged by a squad of police a few minutes before the arrival of the bride.

When the carriages containing the bride-to-be and her brother neared the church it was urrounded by women, who stopped the horses and, in their efforts to see the bride, clung to the carriage, some of them getting on the steps and thrusting their heads into the open windows. Mr. Goelet called to the police, but it was some moments before the half dozen policemen who rushed to the rescue were able to drive the curious women back and enable the carriage to proceed.

When the carriage of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, which was just ahead of the bride, reached the canopy leading from the curb to the church, the crowd of women banked up 25 feet deep on either side rushed frantically forward, carrying the solid lines of policemen with them, and for a moment choked the entrance. They were forced back only to again rush forward when the bride's carriage drew up.

By this time policemen from other points had been collected there, but in spite of them a group of half a dozen women stooped down and lifted the canvas of the canopy and crawled part way under. They clung to their positions in spite of the efforts of the police to pull them away and several of them managed to keep their heads under the canvas until the bride had passed. A patrolman caught one very well dressed woman by one of her ankles and dragged her along the walk, she still clinging to the canvas, until she was forced to loose her hold. She was lifted up smiling and satisfied. She had seen the bride.

On the Fifty-Third street side of the church 15 well dressed women crawled down into a coal hole leading underneath the chancel. They could not see anything, but they could hear what was going on above. Policemen had to get in and drive them out.

Four hours after the ceremonies Fifth avenue was still crowded with curious women, many of whom were laden with spoils from the church decorations, for after the invited guests had left the mob crowded into the church and proceeded at once to tear the chrysanthemums and lilies from the pew entrances. In a few minutes they began to break the leaves from the palms and before they could be stopped the church was despoiled of many of the floral decorations.

To the Editor of the Daily Ledger:

I understand that while I was a candidate for the nomination for Mayor it was reported that I was using money for campaign purposes that was furnished by certain parties, but I wish

Tenth Anniversary.

On Monday evening, Nov. 9, Mr. and Mrs. Melville C. Holmes observed the tenth anniversary of their marriage by receiving and entertaining many of their relatives and friends. A very pleasing feature of the occasion was the vocal and instrumental program furnished by Mrs. Alice Caine Selleck, pianist and accompanist, and Mrs. Eugene C. Page and Mrs. William Chicks, soloist. Supper was served to about forty guests.

Unitarians at Wollaston Listen to a Jesuit Father.

FR. CASSON

Tells of Essentials of the Catholic Faith.

Unusual Situation for the Speaker.

Probably, the First Meeting of Its Kind Ever Held.

The November meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian club was held Tuesday evening. The principal guest of the evening was Rev. T. I. Gasson, S. J., professor of ethics at Boston College, who addressed the meeting on "The Essentials of the Catholic Faith." Other guests were Rev. Ellery C. Butler of the First church, and George R. Regan, David J. Tilley and H. L. Hovey of the Young Men's Catholic Association of Boston.

The usual dinner proceeded the meeting. President W. M. Hatch, in introducing the speaker, said that it had never seemed to him that people have suffered so much from the want of religion as from religion itself. From the earliest times of civilization down to recent years, men have in the names of almost every religious belief, hated, reviled, tortured, even murdered each other, and we are appalled at these crimes which were perpetrated in the name of religion. Thank God, in these latter days, men are saying, come let us reason together. Tonight, we have with us, a Roman Catholic priest, a Jesuit Father. Here at our invitation to tell us the real beliefs of the Roman Catholic Church. To me this marks a vast step in liberal thought. I take pleasure in introducing Fr. Gasson.

Fr. Gasson, in opening, said he was somewhat embarrassed at addressing a meeting so unusual as this. It was unusual for one of his faith. This was the first time a Jesuit ever addressed a meeting like this. Perhaps it is the first time you have ever seen a real live Jesuit. To many our life is unintelligible, because we stand, like the soldier, always on guard, and may be called at any moment to go to any part of the world. We know where we arise in the morning, but never know where we will sleep that night.

I came simply to tell you of the essentials of the Catholic belief.

"The ties which bind nearly two hundred and sixty-five millions of human beings into a compact organization, living an active vigorous life, must ever command the consideration of intelligent observers. The bonds of kinship, of nationality, of similar interests are readily understood and accounted for. It is far otherwise with the ties of religion. These pass beyond the lines of blood-relationship and transcend the limits of national aspiration.

"What, then, are the links which so effectively unite the Catholic body that neither persecution from without nor treachery from within has ever been able to break them. We may, for the sake of brevity reduce them to four:

The existence of a Supreme Being, as made known by the light of reason.

The unfolding of religious truth as made by this Supreme Being.

This revelation has been made through Christ, and through those messengers who either prepared the way for Christ or received their commission from him.

Finally, this revelation finds its direct and adequate exposition in the teachings of the church Catholics. These are the foundation stones upon which the edifice of Catholicity rests.

Moreover, the church claims to be not merely the depository of revealed truth, but the authoritative moral teacher and guide of humanity. She is not an ambiguous document, not a mere relic of bygone wisdom, but a perpetual living power, an unfailing guide, and an absolutely trustworthy adviser in those matters which belong to the range of her activity.

She holds that the divine spirit has not suspended his action, that true religious life is not a meshwork of accident and of human motives, but the harmonious development, under the influence of the Holy Spirit, of man's higher faculties along the lines of the loftiest spiritual perfection.

"For this man needs a teacher who will never fail, and this is what the church avers that she is. Her children may wander from moral righteousness, but this is in spite of her teachings not because of them.

The unfailing guidance in matters of faith and of morals which she asserts for herself is not a weight keeping down human endeavor, but an expert leader who directs travellers to the heights which she knows accurately; it is like the life-line which allows the swimmer to venture boldly into depths which would prove too much for his unaided powers.

The living voice must speak for the present and for the future, and as the pupils learn, it must unfold fuller and deeper meanings."

In closing, the speaker explained the doctrine of indulgence and infallibility, which he said were much misunderstood. As to the Pope, the church holds that with the last apostle, the christian revelation was like a seed or a flowering bud. Many of our Popes have been disgraceful men. What we hold is this: that as teachers of mankind in these matters they are preserved by a kind of holy spirit from teaching error. I hope you will take this logical view of their religion as you run across Catholics.

At the close of the address President Hatch thanked the speaker for his talk which had been a most interesting and instructive one.

IN THE PATHS OF PEACE

By Joel McLeod

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

Mrs. Hastings dropped into the big easy chair, with a sigh. The fire in the library burned cheerfully. Besides its crackling the only sound in the quiet room was that of the professor's pen as it made its methodical way over the paper. It was very restful, and she was so tired. She decided that this giving of faculty dinners was a nuisance.

Presently she glanced at her husband. Long experience had taught him that it was wiser to allow his wife to begin a conversation on the day of a faculty dinner party. So at this critical moment he deliberately capped his fountain pen, put it in his pocket and came over to the fire, stretching his tall figure to its greatest length. As he threw himself on the divan she began:

"Well!"

"How is it going, dear? Everything ready?"

"Yes, John; I think so. I have just put the last touches to the table. The flowers came. They're lovely. You were dear, John, to take so much trouble ordering them."

"Nothing gone wrong, then?"

"No-o, John."

"What made you sigh when you came in?"

"Did I?" hypocritically. "Oh, nothing. Only I was just thinking."

"Thinking what?"

"Good heavens, John! This isn't a 'quiz.' I simply wanted your advice."

"My advice! Do I hear aright? I know I am a tremendously wise man"—

"Professor Hastings! Will you be serious, please? You see, it's a question of love."

At this he sat upright.

"Love! Have you turned matchmaker, Helen Augusta? Come over here and tell me the whole story." And he gently pulled her down beside him on the divan.

"John, dear, don't you remember how very attentive Professor Allen was to Elizabeth Parker last spring? He took her everywhere. And," impressively, "this autumn no one has seen them together once. They quarreled over some trifle, and they're both too proud to make it up. They won't even speak to each other."

"OH, MR. ALLEN, TUM IN, TUM IN!" SHE CRIED.

"How do you know all this?" interrupted he.

"Why, the night you were at the New England Alumni association banquet he called and rather—well, yes—rather confided in me."

"And you didn't tell me! Oh, woman, thy name is—never mind what! Then why in the world did you ask them both to this dinner if they won't speak to each other?"

Mrs. Hastings looked pityingly at her husband.

"You dear old stupid! Tonight is the time I hope they'll make up."

"Oh!" whistled John. "And where do I come in? I can't say, though I am Allen's senior on the faculty: 'Speak to Miss Parker, you pigheaded monster! Prove to her by words and deeds that you love her, or I will procure your dismissal.'"

"John, will you be sensible? I just want to hear your opinion of my plan."

"I thought it wasn't advice," murmured the professor of history meekly.

"You know Jean is very fond of Elizabeth Parker. When I was up in the nursery just now the child seemed feverish. She has a cold. She asked me if 'Lizbuff' was coming and begged me to ask her to 'wock Jean to s'eep.' Elizabeth has a perfect fund of child's songs that the baby loves. I thought I'd telephone her to come a few minutes early. She looks simply perfect with Jean in her arms, and by the firelight it will be a picture. Then when Professor Allen comes I'll tell him Jean wants him to kiss her good night—he's devoted to the child—and to go into the nursery to see her. And then—I hope for the best."

"My dear, what consummate tact! What strategy! The way you marshal your forces is simply genius. But," hastily, seeing his joking was going too far: "I hope it will succeed. Allen deserves a nice wife, and she would make one."

Three hours later the carriage bearing Miss Elizabeth Parker rolled noiselessly along College street. She felt distinctly nervous. Professor Allen would very certainly be there. And at the last faculty dinner, just before commencement, she had given him the rose from her hair, and he had said—

As she stepped into the Hastings' hall Mrs. Hastings called from the top of the stairs:

"Come up, dear. How perfectly sweet of you to come! I was afraid you wouldn't get the message in time. Jean will be delighted. Do go right in. I have to see that John's tie is straight." And she disappeared through a half open door.

Elizabeth on opening the nursery door was joyfully welcomed by the tiny Jean, who sprang into her arms with a cry of delight and hugged her close. Then she curled up contentedly in Elizabeth's lap, murmuring, with a sigh of satisfaction, "Sing 'Pick-a-ninny.'"

The songs went on uninterruptedly for half an hour. Then the carriages began to arrive. Elizabeth could hear the ponderous annual joke of the professor of mathematics and the obedient laugh of his assistant as they passed into the dressing room. She heard the rustle of skirts as the women fluttered down the stairs.

"They must all be here," she thought, "but I won't go down till I have to."

She glanced at Jean, whose eyes were heavy with sleep, and sang again the favorite song. And this was the scene upon which Professor Allen gazed a minute later as he stood at the nursery door. In her shimmering satin gown, her crimson cape falling back, revealing her beautiful neck and arms, her sweet face slightly turned from him as she looked down at the drowsy child cradled in her arms, she seemed to the unhappy professor almost divine.

As he stood listening to the lullaby Jean, suddenly raising her head, saw him.

"Oh, Mr. Allen, tum in, tum in!" she cried.

There was no escape. He came in.

Elizabeth's heart beat so loudly she felt sure he must hear it, but she did not speak.

"Jean, I came in to say good night."

"Is I your sweetheart tonight?"

"Yes, dear."

"Does you lub me?"

"Yes, Jean."

"Does you lub Lizbuff too?"

He gave one appealing look, but the dear face was turned away. He resolved to risk all in one desperate stroke.

"God knows I do, Jean."

"Vell, tiss us bofe dood night, and I'll go as'eep."

He kissed her. But the baby insisted.

"Now Lizbuff."

"May I, dear?" very tenderly, bending over them both.

"Tiss her, Allen," urged Jean.

"Elizabeth!" pleadingly.

Ever so little she turned her face to him.

Jean sank back satisfied.

Downstairs all wonder at the delay of dinner was changed into delight when Professor Allen and Elizabeth came into the drawing room together.

And dinner was served.

Test of Sobriety.

An English carman who was brought before a magistrate for being drunk while in charge of a horse and cart complained of the indignities to which he had been subjected by the police. He had walked a chalk line marked down the middle of a long passage; had said clearly and distinctly "truly rural" and "chrysanthemums;" had picked his hat up from the floor with his right foot, raised it from his foot and put it on his head while standing on his left foot; had been asked to stick a pin in a small dot made by a pencil on a wall and had told them that if a brick weighed eight poounds and a half a brick and a half would weigh sixteen pounds. And yet the divisional surgeon said he was intoxicated. The police explained that the accused had not walked the chalk line properly, that his enunciation of "truly rural" and "chrysanthemums" was very throaty and vague, that he had three times fallen on the floor in his efforts to pick up his hat with his foot, a test he volunteered, and in sticking the pin in the wall he had selected a spot that was not visible to any one but himself. The brick problem had merely been put before him by way of a joke, and his solution was wrong.

Squelching the Landlady.

The landlady was disturbed over one of her boarders. The young woman was pretty and consequently had many male admirers. The landlady was prim and pedantic and believed that a pretty girl must necessarily be wicked. Anyway, she thought it sinful for a man caller to stay later than 9:30 o'clock. The pretty girl had different ideas, and when one of her callers finally became "her steady" she paid little attention to time or the landlady. The good woman, however, decided to break up the late hours; so one evening she rapped gently on the parlor door. There was a slight scurry and then "Come in," said a cordial voice.

"Excuse me, Miss Travers," said the landlady, "but when the gentleman goes will you please turn out the gas?"

Miss Travers gazed speechless at her landlady and then blushed scarlet. As soon as she could get her breath she said icily:

"No, I will not. But to save your gas bills and further anxiety I will turn it out before he goes." And she promptly turned out both burners, leaving the landlady to fumble her way out of the room as best she could.—New York Press.

IN OCTOBER DAYS.

A Portrayal of Forest and Field by John Burroughs.

Now comes the sunset of the verdant year,
When chemic fires, still and slow,
Burn in the leaves till trees and groves appear
Dipped in the sunset's glow.

Through many stained windows of the wood
The day sends down its beams
Till all the acorn punctured solitude
Of sunshine softly dreams.

I take my way where sentry cedars stand
Along the bushy lane,
And whitethroats stir and call on every hand
Or lift their wavering strain;

Where hazel bush holds up its crinkled gold
And scents the loitering breeze,
A nuptial wreath amid its leafage old
That laughs at frost's decrees.

A purple bloom is creeping o'er the ash,
Dull wine against the day,
While dusky cedars wear a crimson sash
Of woodbine's kindled spray.

I see the sturdy oak tree's smold'ring fire
Sullen against the emerald rye,
And yonder sugar maple's wild desire
To match the sunset sky.

On hedge and tree the bittersweet has hung
Its fruit that looks a flower,
While alder spray with coral berries strung
Is part of autumn's dower.

The plaintive calls of bluebirds fill the air,
Wandering by irresolute;
The ruby kinglet flitting here and there,
Fitful now his elfin flute.

Now downy shyly drills his winter cell,
His white chips strew the ground,
While squirrels bark from hill or acorned dell,
A true autumnal sound.

I hear the feathered thunder of the grouse
Soft rolling through the wood
Or pause to note where hurrying mole or mouse
Just stirs the solitude.

Listen—the furtive flock-call of the quail
Comes up from weedy fields;
Beyond, the mellow thud of lonely flail
Its homely music yields.

Behold the orchards piled with painted spheres
New plucked from bending trees,
And bronzed huskers tossing golden ears
In genial sun and breeze.

Once more the tranquil days brood o'er the hills
And soothe earth's tolling breast;
A benediction all the landscape fills
That breathes of peace and rest.
—John Burroughs in New York Times.

BISSELL'S SENSE OF HUMOR

Stories Told of the Former Postmaster General.

The announcement of the death of former Postmaster General Wilson S. Bissell was received with sorrow by the older attaches of the post office department, says a Washington special to the St. Louis Republic. Expressions of regret were heard on every side. Mr. Bissell, though brusque in manner ofttimes and blunt in expression, had the faculty of making friends.

Many stories are told of him, some of them of a humorous nature. Travus Ross, who has served under more than a dozen postmasters general, said:

"Senator Coke of Texas was a man of ponderous weight. He had long, shaggy eyebrows that were as prolific in growth as an ordinary mustache. He was good natured and always found time to pilot his constituents about the departments. Coke was forever and eternally chewing a big quid of tobacco of the kind that is grown in Texas.

"There was a post office war on in earnest in some town in his state, and a half dozen or more of his constituents, together with the applicant who had been indorsed by the senator, came east to have the fight settled. Coke came over to the department and introduced his friends to Mr. Bissell.

"'Now, Bissell,' said Coke, and his jaws were working with regularity on a mouthful of plug, 'I want you to appoint this man (calling him by name) postmaster at ——.

"'You know,' he continued, 'that Texas is now composed of 2,000,000 good, loyal citizens'—

"'Yes,' Bissell broke in, 'and 1,000,000 of them are up here after office.'"

Ross told another story of a member of congress who came to the department one day and rushed into Bissell's office.

"I have no business to transact," said the representative; "just dropped in to shake hands."

Bissell looked up from his desk and quietly asked, "Have you a photograph of yourself that you might leave?"

"Mr. Bissell was one of the best men I ever served under," said Ross. "He was considerate of every one who worked about his office."

MONUMENT TO GENE FIELD

Plan of St. Joseph Children to Commemorate the Poet's Life.

The school children of St. Joseph, Mo., will erect a monument commemorative of the life and works of Eugene Field, the child's poet, who came into fame while a resident of that city, says the St. Louis Republic. A movement has been started to raise the necessary funds, and while it is too early to predict the success or failure of the financial part of the proposition those in charge aver that they have received such encouragement as to warrant the statement that the monument is assured.

It is proposed to erect it at the head of Lovers' lane, a bit of country road immortalized by Field in a poem by that name. At the junction of Lovers' lane, Ashland avenue and Rochester road there is a triangle thirty-five feet each way on which the marble shaft will be reared.

CONFERENCE ON PANAMA

Hanna and Cabinet Officers Meet the President

HIS COURSE IS APPROVED

Situation, as Far as American Interests on Isthmus Are Concerned, Considered to Be In Excellent Shape —No Additional Naval Force

Washington, Nov. 11.—An important conference concerning the Panama situation was held at the White House. The decision reached, if any, was not disclosed. It is understood, however, that the discussion was informal, and not intended in any manner to be decisive.

Senator Hanna arrived at the executive offices, accompanied by W. J. Curtis, a member of the law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell of New York, attorneys in this country for the New Panama Canal company. Mr. Curtis remained only a few minutes.

As Senator Hanna left the White House he said that he and the president had not discussed the question of the chairmanship of the Republican national committee. "In fact," said he, "that matter was not mentioned today. It's a dead issue, anyhow.

"We talked of a variety of topics," continued the senator, "among them the Panama situation. That is not a political question—not even a technical one. The people of this country want an isthmian canal built and they want it built by the Panama route. They have accepted the Panama route and they propose to stand by the president in the matter of constructing the canal by that route."

At the cabinet meeting all the members were present and the Panama situation was practically the sole topic of discussion. Cordial approval of the course of the president and Secretary Hay was given by the members. The situation, so far as American interests on the isthmus are concerned, is regarded to be in excellent shape.

The status of Philippe Bunau-Varilla, the representative in this country of the republic of Panama, was considered, but no statement concerning the matter was made at the conclusion of the meeting. If no change in the present situation should occur, it is not regarded as likely that any additional naval force will be ordered to the isthmus. Certainly no land forces will be ordered to Panama unless the situation should take a serious turn.

Bocas del Toro Captured

Colon, Nov. 11.—The steam launch sent to Bocas del Toro Thursday last to capture that place in the name of the new republic of Panama has returned here and the officers report that the place was captured and the flag hoisted without a shot being fired. The people of the town were jubilant at the course affairs had taken.

The provisional government at Panama has received a telegram from President Marroquin of Colombia giving assurances that the Panama canal bill would most certainly pass congress next August and that General Reyes was on his way to the isthmus to make proposals looking to peace. The provisional government has sent a letter to Reyes advising that it is useless for him to come to Panama, as his mission is a hopeless one.

Shows Anti-American Feeling

Paris, Nov. 11.—Carlos Calderon writes a long letter to the Paris edition of the New York Herald defending the conduct of the Colombian government, which he denies was opposed to the construction of the Panama canal. He says, however, that the desire of Colombia was to see the canal built by the French company. He declares that the Hay-Herran treaty was prejudicial to Colombia's fiscal interests and a wound to the national dignity. Calderon expresses surprise at the favorable attitude of the French press. He says, further, that not one person of distinction took part of the revolution of the isthmus of Panama, which he charges was due chiefly to the intervention of the cosmopolitan element, composed principally of Americans inhabiting the cities of Colon and Panama.

Verdict Against Uncle Russell Sage

New York, Nov. 11.—A jury returned a verdict for the full amount claimed against Russell Sage in a suit by the Roberts company, brokers, to recover $2500 which, it was asserted, the company lost by reason of the failure of Sage to deliver to it 400 shares of railroad stock in January, 1900.

Could Not Withstand Charges

Naples, Nov. 11.—Before committing suicide Finance Minister Rosano wrote to Premier Giolitti tendering his resignation. In another letter to the premier he proclaimed his innocence of the charges brought against him, which charges, he said, he had no longer the courage to resist.

Winter Weather In Earnest

Montreal, Nov. 11.—Gaspe county has been visited by a violent snowstorm, accompanied by very high winds. It is feared that vessels and lives have been lost in the gulf. The roads are blocked with snow.

Dowieites Leave London

London, Nov. 11.—Followers of John A. Dowie, members of the organization known as the Catholic Church in Christ, finding no support for their mission here, have gone to Paris.

MINERS RESUME WORK

Montana Legislature to Convene to Enact a "Fair Trial" Bill

Butte, Mont., Nov. 11.—In accordance with a statement made by President Scallon of the Anaconda Mining company and the representatives of the Amalgamated Copper company in Montana to the Butte Miners' union that if Governor Toole would summon the legislature in special session with a view to the enactment of a "fair trial" bill, which provides for the removal of any case from any judge where bias and prejudice is shown, the Amalgamated would at once resume operations in Montana, the order was given for all mines to open upon the receipt of the news from Helena that the governor had ordered an extra session to convene Dec. 1.

The governor's action followed the presentation of petitions to him from practically every organization of labor and business men in the state of Montana, asking that an extra session be called that legislation remedial to the present state of affairs be enacted.

The resumption of the Amalgamated properties means the return to work of approximately 20,000 men and the averting of an industrial crisis in Montana, as the Amalgamated Copper company operates in at least six different counties. In Butte alone it restores a payroll of about $25,000 a day. Seven thousand men resumed work in Butte this morning.

Welsh Quarrymen Yield

London, Nov. 11.—The Bethesda, North Wales, quarry strike has been settled by the surrender of the union men to Lord Penrhyn. The strike was the longest in the history of English labor troubles, having lasted three years. The principal at stake in the Bethesda struggle was of such a character as to make the strike of utmost importance to unions and to employers, not alone in England but in every English-speaking community. Concealed under a variety of contentions, the real question at issue was whether Lord Penrhyn should run his business or allow the union to do it for him—at a loss.

Peace Again Takes Flight

Tokio, Nov. 11.—There is a strong inclination in well informed circles to doubt the pacific forecasts issued in Europe. It is believed here that peace will only be made possible by Russia's complete acceptance of Japan's claims regarding Manchuria. The Japanese government finds it increasingly difficult to restrain popular sentiment.

London, Nov. 11.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Tien Tsin says Russian soldiers in Korea have been withdrawn.

No Reinstatement of Middies

Washington, Nov. 11.—Representative Lacey of Iowa called at the navy department in behalf of one of the midshipmen recently dismissed from the naval academy for hazing. Mr. Lacey was informed that there was no chance for the reinstatement of any of the dismissed men, except by special act of congress, as neither the president nor the secretary of the navy has the power to reinstate them.

Journeying Back to Europe

New York, Nov. 11.—Figures obtained of the number of laborers who are returning to Europe show that while from all ports of the United States 13,000 steerage passengers were carried from Oct. 1 to Nov. 10 a year ago, more than 27,000 have left the shores of America this year during the corresponding period. Inability to obtain employment is given as the reason for the emigration.

London, Nov. 11.—Commander Peary, U. S. N., lectured before the Royal Geographical society last night in the presence of many distinguished persons. Peary said he wished to win the pole for America because it was the last great geographical prize the world had to offer, and it was peculiarly an object of American pride and patriotism.

CHEERS FOR MITCHELL

Leader of Mine Workers a Favorite With the Federation of Labor

Boston, Nov. 11.—President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America presided for a time yesterday afternoon at the convention of the American Federation of Labor, and he received a greeting from the delegates which was sincere, spontaneous and enthusiastic. Cheer after cheer resounded through Faneuil hall, both from delegate and spectator. It was Mitchell's first appearance as a speaker at the convention.

The day was largely devoted to receiving reports from committees and disposing of the cases of protested delegates. The report of the executive council, a review of what the board had considered during the year, occupied the greater part of the forenoon session. The report decried the jurisdiction disputes between affiliated unions. It contained all the correspondence with President Roosevelt in the Miller case at Washington, but refrained from all comment upon the matter.

The feature of the afternoon session, aside from Mr. Mitchell's appearance as presiding officer, was the general discussion of the report of the committee on credentials, which recommended that Delegates Guild and Steel of the International Journeymen of Bakers and Confectioners, and Delegate Jones of the Central Labor union of Burlington, Vt., be not seated, because irregularly selected to act as delegates. This report was finally accepted in toto.

Fight Over Cuban Treaty Renewed

Washington, Nov. 11.—The president last night had a conference with a number of the leaders in both houses of congress. It developed that the old controversy between the house and senate over the right of the former to initiate all revenue legislation was the principal topic of conversation. The members of the house claimed that the present Cuban treaty provides that during the life of the convention the duty on sugar shall not be reduced either by treaty or convention. To concede the position of the senate they assert they would be a surrender of their constitutional powers. It was said that unless the contention of the house is admitted there will be the same difficulty presented as at the last session, with the probability that the measure will be defeated. No conclusion was reached by the conference.

Shortage In Bank Accounts

Newark, O., Nov. 11.—Harry J. Hoover, former cashier of the People's National bank of this city, was arrested last evening on a warrant charging him with having made a false entry in the books of the bank. He was permitted to waive examination and gave bond of $10,000 for appearance, pending action by the United States grand jury. Hoover is alleged to have been short in his accounts with the People's National bank about $36,000, which he covered with funds taken from the Licking County bank, of which he subsequently became cashier.

Further Trouble Anticipated

Des Moines, Nov. 11.—Detective McLaughlin of the Rock Island road has ordered the release of James Murphy, the suspect captured near Earlham and supposed to have been implicated in the dynamiting plot to hold up the road for $1000. The stranger who was shot near the same place is recovering, but still refuses to talk and increasing suspicion is directed toward him. The road has issued danger orders to its trainmen, indicating that trouble is still anticipated.

Short Session of House

Washington, Nov. 11.—The house was in session less than half an hour yesterday, an early adjournment being taken out of respect to the memory of two deceased members. The president's message was read and referred to the committee on ways and means, the membership of which is yet to be announced. The message also was ordered printed.

Will Be Lynched If Caught Alive

Milford, Del., Nov. 11.—Jacob Lofland, colored, living six miles east of here, shot and killed his housekeeper. Lofland then escaped and is believed to have committed suicide. A posse is making a search and there are fears of lynching if he is found alive. The shooting was a result of a quarrel.

A Plea From Filipinos

Washington, Nov. 11.—The bureau of insular affairs has received two cablegrams from the Filipino chamber of commerce of Manila praying in behalf of the Agricultural association of Panay and 14,000 tobacco workmen for the abolition of the Dingley tariff on Philippine products.

Good Afternoon

It is encouraging to note that Unitarians are anxious to learn of the essentials of other creeds, and that a Jesuit Father, in particular, was willing to enlighten them on the Catholic creed. Fr. Gasson thinks the meeting at Wollaston was the first of the kind ever held, but in these days we are making history every day. A brief abstract of the address is given today, and we commend it to our readers. It is another indication that creeds are more liberal and that religious people are getting together.

The stand which the Daily Ledger has taken against borrowing $90,000 more in anticipation of the taxes of 1903 is not an attack on officials or the present administration. The same stand would have been taken whichever party was in power and whoever was City Treasurer or Mayor. If in any way city finances have been shown up in a false light we should be pleased to know it, and invite city officials or others to present the facts.

Possibly an order at the beginning of the year authorizing loans of $390,000 in anticipation of taxes of 1903 might have been legal, if there is no limit on per cent. But now that the city has collected over $100,000 of the taxes of 1903, and there are less than $300,000 uncollected, we see no right in law or justice to issue temporary loans in excess of $300,000.

The situation is this:

Tax levy of 1903,		$398,528.02
Collected,	(over)	100,000.00
Uncollected,		$298.528.02
Loans outstanding in anticipation of taxes of 1903,		$300,000.00

Not enough uncollected to pay the outstanding temporary loans, yet authority is wanted to issue $90,000 more in loans.

Drift of Opinion.

☞What a difference there is between a slang word like "fierce" and a slang word like "four-flusher." "Four-flusher" is a tense, compact metaphor. "Fierce" is just cant. "Fierce" ought to be canned. "Four-flusher" deserves to be enshrined.—Chicago Tribune.

☞The flag of the Republic of Panama is a handsome combination of stars and squares. It floats in triumph over the chief city of the country, the Colombian forces having quietly withdrawn. It deserves to take its place among the standards of the nations of world and to "stay put."—Lynn Item.

☞The suggestion of Monday instead of Thursday for Thanksgiving day is not unworthy of consideration. As Thanksgiving is the day of family gatherings the force of the argument particularly appeals at once to every man in the city who looks forward to journeying to the old homestead. In many respects Labor Day has proved the most popular holiday of the year, due in a measure to the delightful weather of early September, but mainly to the certainty of a Monday holiday following the Sunday rest for the workingman. The combination of the consecutive days of Sunday for thanksgiving in the churches and Monday for the family reunions at the Thanksgiving season we believe would similarly please the great masses.—New Bedford Standard.

PLEASING CONCERT.

Given at Wollaston for Benefit of King's Daughters.

The concert given at the Wollaston Congregational church Tuesday evening for the benefit of the King's Daughters attracted an audience that filled the church. It was as one had easily predicted, a social and financial success. The program was varied and well arranged and made up of selections from Bohm, Wienawski, Sivori, Schubert and Schumann. The soloists were Mrs. Fannie Hatch Thayer, soprano; Mrs. Jeannette Noyes Rice, contralto, assisted by Mrs. Edith Christie Miller, violinist and Mrs. Edith Noyes Porter, pianist.

All the numbers on the program were rendered with artistic skill and called for the repeated applause of the audience.

Mrs. Fannie Hatch Thayer and Mrs. Miller were both new to Wollaston audiences, and they gave valuable assistance towards the enjoyment of the evening, as was evidenced by the applause they received.

The group of three songs by Mrs. Porter were sung by Mrs. Rice in a charming manner. In the duets, "Tuscan Folk Songs" both Mrs. Rice and Mrs. Thayer gave great pleasure.

Mrs. Porter is a beautiful pianist and her playing throughout the evening was marked by a certain dash and vigor that was most pleasing. Her rendering of "In the Forest" brought the programe to a brilliant close.

The Saliva.

The poisons of some of the common and also some of the most loathsome diseases are frequently contained in the mouth. In such case anything that is moistened by the saliva of the infected person may, if it touches the lips of another, convey disease. The more direct the contact the greater the danger. It is believed that much can be done to prevent contagion by teaching habits of cleanliness. But if such instruction is to be effectual it must be continuous. The teacher in the public school should notice and correct violations of these rules as habitually as violations of the more formal school rules are corrected.

Enough Said.

Two Boston ladies strolling along a road just outside of the borough came upon the first milestone. On it was written, "1 m. from Boston." Having never ventured so far from their native place before, they mistook the stone for a sepulchral monument. "How touching!" they exclaimed. "How simple! How human! 'I'm from Boston.' What more needed to be said? So the dead speak!"—Rochester Post-Express.

The Ambitious Climber.

The Tourist—Oh, guide, do you mean to say we can get no higher? Don't say that I can ascend no further.

"Does your daughter play Mozart?" inquired the young man with gold glasses.

"I think she does," answered Mrs. Cumrox affably. "But I think she prefers whist."—Washington Star.

THE NATION'S LAW.

Brooks Adams Says It Is Force. About China and South America.

Among nations there is but one way, says Brooks Adams of this city in the Atlantic, in which the possession of the prizes of nature can be determined, and that is by force. Arbitration can only serve where strength is equally balanced, and the matter in dispute is not worth the price of the conflict. So far as we now know, the district in which iron can be produced cheapest and in unlimited volume is North China. Russia is, at present, massing several hundred thousand men in eastern Asia preparatory to an attempt to crush Japan and absorb this region. Each citizen can judge for himself what attitude benefits the United States in this emergency.

South America is the only certain vent for out surplus in the future, as Asia is the only certain base from whence we can draw raw material. Should Russia absorb North China, and by means of German capital and talent establish an industrial center there, and should Germany occupy South America and develop it, with Chinese steel, the overland economic system would girdle the world, and the U. S. would suffocate. Both base and vent would be closed.

RUN BY MOUSE POWER.

A Thrifty Scotchman's Scheme For Operating His Thread Mills.

Thrift is generally acknowledged to be one of the leading characteristics of the native of Fifeshire, and it never was more forcibly exemplified than in the person of David Hutton, a native of Dunfermline, who actually proved that even mice, those acknowledged pests of mankind, could be made not only to earn their own living, but also to yield a respectable income to their owners.

About the year 1820 this gentleman actually erected a small mill at Dunfermline for the manufacture of thread—a mill worked entirely by mice. It was while visiting Perth prison in 1812 that Mr. Hutton first conceived this remarkable idea of utilizing mouse power. In an old pamphlet of the time, "The Curiosity Coffee Room," he gave an account of the way in which the idea dawned on him. "In the summer of the year 1812," he wrote, "I had occasion to be in Perth, and when inspecting the toys and trinkets that were manufactured by the French prisoners in the depot there my attention was involuntarily attracted by a little toy house, with a wheel in the gable of it that was running rapidly round, impelled by the insignificant gravity of a common house mouse. For 1 shilling I purchased house, mouse and wheel. Inclosing it in a handkerchief, on my journey homeward I was compelled to contemplate its favorite amusement. But how to apply half ounce power, which is the weight of a mouse, to a useful purpose was the difficulty. At length the manufacturing of sewing thread seemed the most practicable."

Mr. Hutton had one mouse that ran the amazing distance of eighteen miles a day, but he proved that an ordinary mouse could run ten and a half miles on an average. A halfpenny's worth of oatmeal was sufficient for its support for thirty-five days, during which it ran 736 half miles. He had actually two mice constantly employed in the making of sewing thread for more than a year. The mouse thread mill was so constructed that the common house mouse was enabled to make atonement to society for past offenses by twisting, twining and reeling from 100 to 120 threads a day, Sundays not excepted. To perform this task the little pedestrian had to run ten and a half miles, and this journey it performed with ease every day. A halfpenny's worth of oatmeal served one of these thread mill culprits for the long period of five weeks. In that time it made 3,350 threads of twenty-five inches, and as a penny was paid to women for every hank made in the ordinary way the mouse at that rate earned ninepence every six weeks, just one farthing a day, or 7s. 6d. a year.

Taking sixpence off for board and allowing 1 shilling for machinery, there was a clear yearly profit from each mouse of 6 shillings. Mr. Hutton firmly intended to apply for the loan of the empty cathedral in Dunfermline, which would have held, he calculated, 10,000 mouse mills, sufficient room being left for keepers and some hundreds of spectators. Death, however, overtook the inventor before this marvelous project could be carried out.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

A Surprised Duke.

Just after the late Duke of Richmond and Gordon received the latter half of his title—he was created Duke of Gordon in January, 1876—he was sent to this country as president of the British commission to our centennial exposition. While in this country he heard of a certain picture owned by a country woman in which he thought he might be interested, and so wrote to her, using the official stationery of the commission and signing himself, as a peer does, simply by the names of his title, "Richmond and Gordon."

Much to his surprise and a good deal to his disgust—for he had precise ideas as to his dignity as a duke—the letter which he received in answer to his was addressed, "Messrs. Richmond & Gordon," and began, "Gentlemen!"

At the Sociable.

Mr. Sliptongue—I have not met your wife. Is she here this evening?

Mr. Hansome—Yes, but just at this moment she is engaged over there at the piano.

Mr. Sliptongue (with affected enthusiasm)—Ah, I see! She is that goddess-like beauty who is playing an accompaniment for the mountain of flesh who is singing.

Mr. Hansome (stiffly)—My wife does not play; she sings.—London Telegraph.

Why.

"Lillian is not sure that she loves Walter. Sometimes she thinks she does, and at other times she's convinced she doesn't."

"And yet she is going to marry him?"

"Oh, yes, that's all settled."

"But if she is not sure she loves him why doesn't she break the engagement?"

"Because she is twenty-seven."—Kansas City Journal.

Fixing the Blame.

"The trouble ain't with the farm," said the old man. "If the farm didn't have to do anything but support itself, it could be made to pay, but it don't seem to be able to carry the burden of us livin' on it, so I reckon we're to blame."—Chicago Post.

Losing an Opportunity.

"The curtain goes up at 8:15, so we'll be just in time."

"But if we have a box it really seems a shame to be so punctual."—Brooklyn Life.

Some people want you to give them everything for nothing, including your life, your liberty (your labor) and your pursuit of happiness.—Schoolmaster.

Insured for $2,000,000
L. Rodman Wanamaker, son of John Wanamaker, the eminent merchant of New York and Philadelphia, has taken out a policy in
The Prudential Insurance Co.
for $1,000,000, paying an annual premium of over $30,000. This makes him the most heavily insured man in the world, with the single exception of King Edward VII.
Mr Wanamaker's total insurance is now $2,000,000
Ask yourself WHY Mr. Wanamaker placed one-half this great amount with The Prudential.
Your business judgment will at once reply: "Because after full investigation and comparison, Mr. Wanamaker found that the company which could give him the best insurance for a given amount of money was The Prudential."
Undoubtedly you will agree that Mr. Wanamaker does not pay over $30,000 per year except for most excellent reasons.
These reasons apply to YOU precisely as well as they do to HIM.

REVOLUTION AT AN END

President of Dominican Republic Flees For Safety

UNDER GERMAN PROTECTION

General Jiminez Is Again Proclaimed as Head of the Nation—American Minister Cables That Situation at San Domingo Is Serious

Paris, Nov. 11.—A dispatch received here from Cape Haytien says that after three days' fighting President Wos y Gil took refuge in the German consulate at San Domingo. The revolution is considered at an end.

Cape Haytien, Nov. 11.—A dispatch from Monte Cristi says it is reported there that San Domingo has capitulated to the revolutionists and that General Jiminez has been proclaimed president of the republic.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The state department last night received a cablegram from Minister Powell at San Domingo, dated at 4 p. m., Nov. 10, reporting the situation at San Domingo to be extremely serious. The dispatch, it was stated, was the first which the department had received on the day it was filed since the disturbances began.

Late last night Assistant Secretary Loomis of the state department called at the executive offices of the White House and spent some time in the telegraph room. He refused to admit that he was cabling fresh instructions to Minister Powell, although he said that late in the afternoon he notified the minister that the cruiser Baltimore was now on her way to that city and probably would reach there some time during the night.

The dispatch reporting the capitulation of the city of San Domingo to the revolutionists was shown to Mr. Loomis and he expressed the opinion that such action might have taken place subsequent to Minister Powell's cablegram that the situation was serious.

The state department received another belated dispatch from United States Minister Powell at San Domingo city, dated the 6th instant, in which the minister says:

"Macoris has just been bombarded by a San Domingan naval vessel and partially destroyed. The ship then returned to San Domingo city. The American interests in Macoris are very considerable."

Macoris is a fruit shipping port doing a large business with the United States and the bombardment is supposed to have been without the required 24 hours' notice. If it appears that American interests have suffered by arbitrary action at the hands of the Dominican government the state department will demand full redress and the cruiser Baltimore undoubtedly will prevent further happenings of this kind. The German warships which started from St. Thomas also are available by this time to aid in the maintenance of order.

POSTOFFICE ROBBED

After Burglars Had Looked Up Whole Police Force of Merrimac

Merrimac, Mass., Nov. 11.—Atwood Nixon, the only officer of the local police force, was knocked down, robbed, handcuffed and locked in a cell in the town jail by four unknown men who later blew off the door of the postoffice safe with a charge of dynamite and departed without leaving any clues behind them. In their hurried departure the burglars left behind them a horse and carriage which they had obtained from somebody out of town.

The government lost nothing through the burglary, as the postoffice money and stamps are kept at night in a safe deposit vault in a bank and nothing of value was left in the office safe. The postmistress, Mrs. Smart, sustained a loss of $500 to the safe and office fixtures.

The police of the surrounding towns and cities were promptly notified of the burglary and efforts were made to secure a tangible clue to the identity of the burglars and their direction of escape. Nothing was developed locally further than the discovery that the horse and carriage used by the men was stolen from a barn at Haverhill.

Investigating Pauper's Death

Westfield, Vt., Nov. 11.—State Attorney Farman, after personally investigating the circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Almeda Hoyt, a town charge, ordered that Mrs. Ostrout be placed under $1000 bonds for her appearance in court. Mrs. Ostrout was paid by the town for the care of Mrs. Hoyt, whose body, terribly bruised, was discovered on the floor of the Ostrout home by a chance caller a week ago. Since burial the body has been exhumed and a portion of the vitals taken by the authorities for examination.

Hiring Boys For "Emergency Work"

Boston, Nov. 11.—Men and boys are now almost exclusively employed as messengers by the Western Union Telegraph company. Superintendent Ames states, however, that the women and girls have given perfect satisfaction and that they are more honest and reliable than the boys. He says that the boys thus far taken back have been hired simply for emergency work.

Move of Vermont Liquor Sellers

Similar organization will be perfected in all of the counties of the state, after which a state branch of the national organization will be formed. The meetings are secret.

Peculiar Railroad Accident

Providence, Nov. 11.—A box car heavily loaded with lumber refused to take the switch properly in a freight yard here and crashed into the switch house, cutting the latter in two, only the upper story and the roof being left. Two men who were in the building were quite badly bruised and one will probably lose his left hand.

Rohrbach's Death Accidental

Attleboro, Mass., Nov. 11.—In the medical examiner's report on the death of Carl F. Rohrbach the cause of death is given as accidental burning. Judge Bryan said he disagreed with the district attorney as to the necessity of an inquest, as he was satisfied the man's death was purely accidental.

Two members of the chamber came to blows and Senor Salmeron, the Republican leader, afterwards challenged Premier Villaverde to a duel.

Fifteen-Year Sentence For Boy

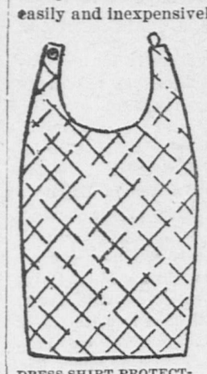
PRESENTS FOR MEN.

Dress Shirt Protector—Knitted Waistcoat—Other Suggestions.

A dress shirt protector is a most useful present for a man and is quite easily and inexpensively made at home.



DRESS SHIRT PROTECTOR.

You will require some quilted white satin for a lining (the ready quilted material is best) and some thick corded black silk. Cut to a length of thirteen and a half inches, width ten and a half inches, the shape shown in the sketch, and make the collar band the size of the wearer's neck. The materials are placed together and the edges neatly oversewed, the black silk being worn, of course, on the outside. The collar band should be lined with white glace silk, as the satin will be a little thick, and a pearl button and a loop added. It is so difficult to make anything that a man will really use, but beyond a doubt the majority of the masculine sex will appreciate the dress shirt protector.

Tobacco pouches are never amiss as presents for men, and embroidered slippers are useful, but a smoking cap is not popular nowadays, unless, indeed, grandfather is to be the recipient.

Still, anything that loving fingers have labored over cannot fail to give satisfaction, and the following directions for making a knitted waistcoat and tie may prove useful: To knit the waistcoat double Berlin wool and two steel needles to match are necessary. Cast on seventy stitches. Knit one purl, one plain, but be sure you plain your plain stitch and purl your purl stitch in next row, and so on all the way up. Every two inches cast off four stitches about five stitches from the front, and next row cast on the four stitches again to form buttonhole. When two finger lengths are knitted, cast off twenty stitches. Knit ten more rows and on the side where you cast off stitches let out one stitch every second row and at the other side take in one stitch every second row, till neck and armhole are long enough, and cast off on shoulder. Knit other side the same, omitting the buttonholes. This is an ordinary sized vest. It ought to be sent to a tailor to be made up.

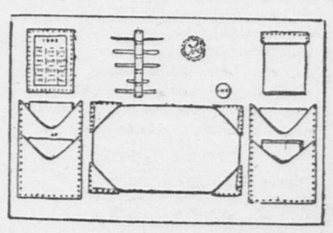
For the tie a very simple and yet very effective style is to knit it in one purl and one plain alternately. In each succeeding row purl the one you purled previously and plain the one you plained. Cast on forty stitches, and knit the length required.

WRITING BOARD.

A Gift That Is Easily Made and Very Useful.

A writing board is always an acceptable present and is quite easy and inexpensive to make. Procure a piece of light board measuring about 22 by 14 inches and cover it with a thin art serge in any color you prefer, taking care to stretch the material to insure a perfectly smooth, tight surface. Next, at a harness maker's, get some thin tan colored leather if smartness be desired, but if economy must be studied substitute art serge for leather.

In the center is the blotting pad, each corner of which is slipped in triangular pieces of leather tacked neatly down with small copper or brass headed nails. Directly above the pad is a band of leather divided into compartments to hold paper knife, penholder, pencil, penknife and sealing wax. Next it is a cloth penwiper and under this a scribbling tablet, also slipped under a piece of leather. On the right of the blotting pad a small leather inkstand must be firmly glued, and on each side of the pad are shaped leather pockets to hold note paper, envelopes, letter cards, telegraph forms and the like. In the left hand corner a small framelike arrangement is cut from the leather and a calendar slipped in.



WRITING BOARD.

Care must be taken to do the nailing evenly wherever it occurs, and you will have quite a smart effect, whereas any irregularity will quite spoil the whole. A pretty finish is to paint the owner's initials on the leather compartments, and for this use oil paints.

One can imagine no more useful gift for an invalid or indeed for any one. The cost is quite trifling and the making quite an easy task.

Nice Gifts For Girls.

A Christmas present of a bookshelf filled with books for a nine-year-old girl is a capital idea. Among the old favorites should be "Timothy's Quest" and "Polly Oliver's Problem," by Kate Douglas Wiggin; "Sara Crewe," by Frances Hodgson Burnett; "Hans Andersen's Fairy Tales," "Alice In Wonderland," "Little Women," by Louisa May Alcott; "Water Babies," by Charles Kingsley; "The Tales of a Grandfather," by Sir Walter Scott; "The Jungle Books," by Rudyard Kipling; "Tanglewood Tales," by Nathaniel Hawthorne, and "Leslie Goldthwaite," by Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney.

THE TIME HAS PASSED

For Interference by Foreign Nations In Canal Matter

HAY-HERRAN TREATY DEAD

Washington Officials Will Do All In Their Power to Hasten Adjustment of Difficulties Brought by Panama Affair—Declaration of Independence

Washington, Nov. 10.—Reports are current to the effect that an effort is being made whereby negotiations for a Panama canal treaty may yet be resumed with Colombia, notwithstanding the defection of the department of Panama and the establishment of an important government there. These have as their basis the restoration by the United States of the status quo on the isthmus as affairs existed 10 days ago, following which Colombia will immediately take up the question of a canal treaty with a view to a speedy ratification of such a convention.

It is said that unofficial representations of this tenor have come from an outside nation which is vitally interested in the question, and that an official of the state department has been approached on the subject. That something along this line has been done, it is said, is admitted by a state department official, but that the intimation has been conveyed in reply that the time for interposition of friendly offices of this character has passed, and that the United States cannot consider such an offer. It is stated positively by a cabinet officer that no official overtures of the character referred to has been made.

As has been stated heretofore repeatedly, the Hay-Herran convention is dead, irretrievably so, and any negotiations for a canal treaty must be on the basis of a new convention. It was made very plain by the official above referred to that the United States does not intend to and will not annex Panama nor dominate it by force, but that it is open to and anxious for negotiation of a treaty providing for an isthmian waterway.

The reported appointment by Colombia of General Reyes as a peace commissioner to the republic of Panama is viewed with some interest by the officials here, as it is in accord with the suggestion to the Colombian government contained in the dispatch to Minister Beaupre commending the peaceful and equitable settlement of all questions at issue between Colombia and Panama. The United States, it is stated, will lend its good offices to bring about a meeting of General Reyes and the Panama officials and will do everything in its power to hasten a satisfactory adjustment of the questions brought forward as a result of the recent developments on the isthmus.

Embarking of Colombian troops from Buena Ventura or any other Colombian port for the isthmus will not be permitted by the Washington government and American warships will be ordered to any port upon receipt of an intimation that Colombian troops will attempt to sail for the isthmus. The Washington government holds that this policy is in the interest of the general good.

The state department has been informed by an agent of the Panama Canal company that the provisional government of Panama has designated a commission of three members, one of whom is Federico Boyd, a member of the junta, who will leave Panama at once for Washington, to begin immediately the negotiation of a new canal treaty. The commission, it is stated, is clothed with full powers to conclude that instrument.

Phillippe Bunau-Varilla, the envoy of the new republic of Panama, sent a letter to Senator Morgan of Alabama begging his support of the Panama canal project. In reference to the communication Mr. Morgan said: "The letter was signed by Mr. Varilla, who professed to be the minister plenipotentiary of the Republic of Panama. The writer made me a flattering proposal to get in line by supporting the new republic, but when I take advice it will come from American citizens and not from a Frenchman, who is interested in the Panama canal."

Philippe Bunau-Varilla was called to New York last night on important business and his presentation at the state department in consequence has been postponed temporarily. The minister lunched yesterday with Secretary Hay and had a long conference with him afterward regarding the opening of canal negotiations and other matters relating to the relations of the two governments. The minister left Washington with the satisfaction of having been assured that he is to be duly recognized as the minister plenipotentiary of the new government with full powers. When he returns from New York arrangements regarding his meeting with the President probably will be made.

Our Good Offices Recognized

Colon, Nov. 10.—An address was officially presented last night by the consuls of France, Great Britain and Germany to United States Consul Malmros, expressing sincere sentiments of gratitude for the protection that the consuls and their countrymen receievd on Nov. 4, when the lives and property of all foreign residents in Colon were in the greatest peril and were only safeguarded through the energetic action, coolness and devotion of the United States citizens, both civil and military. Great satisfaction is expressed at this official recognition by the consuls, as it is considered richly merited.

Gudger's Appointment Pleases

Panama, Nov. 10.—Steamship Quito arrived here late yesterday afternoon. The passengers state that everything is quiet at Buena Ventura, but that the Colombians are furious against the people of the isthmus. The business world here has resumed its normal condition. The appointment of Consul-General Gudger to carry on business with the de facto government has made an excellent impression. Steamship Taboga has left this afternoon for other ports.

What De Lesseps Thinks

Paris, Nov. 10.—In an interview Charles De Lesseps expresses satisfaction with events on the isthmus of Panama and says the purchase of the canal rights by the United States will save French interests at least to a small extent. In accordance with the provisions of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty the Panama canal can be operated in the interests of all nations. Nevertheless, says De Lesseps, the securing of control of the canal will be a splendid stroke of business for the United States government, which eventually will derive profit and glory from a work conceived by a French brain. De Lesseps is convinced that the commercial importance of the future canal will at least equal that of the Suez canal.

The Maine's Hurry Order

Newport News, Nov. 10.—Under rush orders to proceed to Colon, the battleship Maine steamed out of the harbor yesterday afternoon. While lying off the coast of Massachusetts waiting to go to sea for target practice, the Maine received orders to proceed immediately to Colon and the work of making ready for the trip was pushed as rapidly as possible.

Police Working on Leow Case

Baltimore, Nov. 10.—Coroner Wiltshire rendered a verdict last night that Martin Loew, a student in the University of Maryland, came to his death by gases or drugs administered to him by persons unknown. President Smith of the fraternity into which Loew had been initiated was released on his own recognizance. The police are investigating the cause of the death of Loew.

Miners' Strike Is On

Denver, Nov. 10.—More than 10,000 coal miners in Colorado have gone on strike for an eight-hour day, increased wages and other concessions. The strike was ordered by the national executive officers of the United Mine Workers of America after the coal companies refused to confer with union representatives concerning the demands of the men.

Assets Exceed Liabilities

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Sutter Bros., leaf tobacco merchants, with establishments in Havana, New York, St. Louis and Chicago, have gone into voluntary bankruptcy. On the assertion that the action was taken to protect creditors, a receiver was appointed. The liabilities are placed at $1,500,000 with assets exceeding that figure by $1,000,000.

Congressmen Draw Seats

Washington, Nov. 10.—The house of representatives of the Fifty-eighth congress has completed its organization. The drawing of seats occupied a greater portion of the day's session. A pretty compliment was paid the leaders and veterans on both sides in this connection, they being permitted to select their seats without drawing lots.

Suicide of Finance Minister

Naples, Nov. 10.—Minister of Finance Rosano has committed suicide by shooting. He was found dead in his room, a revolver at his side. Signor Rosano was given the position of minister of finance in the new Italian cabinet, the formation of which was only announcel last Wednesday.

FIFTY CENTS A MONTH

A small bottle of Scott's Emulsion costing fifty cents will last a baby a month—a few drops in its bottle each time it is fed. That's a small outlay for so large a return of health and comfort.

Babies that are given Scott's Emulsion quickly respond to its helpful action. It seems to contain just the elements of nourishment a baby needs most.

Ordinary food frequently lacks this nourishment; Scott's Emulsion always supplies it.

Imitations always cost less than the original, hence the substitutes for Scott's Emulsion can be sold for a few cents less. But you're not saving anything when you buy them. Cod liver oil has a market value and you get the pure oil in Scott's Emulsion. That's the difference.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

CONGRESSMEN GATHER

But Little Actual Work to Be Done This Week

THE SITUATION IN PANAMA

Considered Likly to Come Up For Discussion In Both Branches—Presidents Message to Be Read Tomorrow—Cannon Elected Speaker

Washington, Nov. 9.—The first week of the extra session will be devoted to the usual preliminaries of a new session of congress. The program for the week is to have four brief sessions and an adjournment on Thursday until the following Monday. Today there was the usual rollcall of senators and the proclamation calling the congress in extraordinary session was read. These followed the appointment of a committee to notify the president that a quorum of the senate has met and is ready to receive any communication he has to make.

On Tuesday the president's message will be received and read. Adjournment will follow its reading, as a caucus of Republican senators is to be held in the afternoon. Wednesday will be devoted largely to the introduction of bills and Thursday will be a short legislative session unless discussion of the Panama situation is precipitated by the introduction of resolutions asking for information. It is the intention of Senator Morgan to introduce resolutions on the subject and these may be discussed under the rules on the day following their presentation. The Republican members of the senate will interpose no objection to a discussion of the Panama and canal questions, but it is not likely that any action will be taken until after the committees are reorganized.

The house of representatives was called to order at noon by Clerk McDowell. Admission was by card, as the opening of congress always is of sufficient interest to attract a much larger crowd to the Capitol than the galleries will accommodate.

After the proclamation of the president convening congress in extraordinary session was read, prayer was offered by the chaplain and the roll was called by states.

Mr. Cannon, who had been selected as the unanimous choice of his party for speaker, was formally elected. After the oath of office was administered to him by the father of the house, a title bestowed upon the member who has seen the longest continuous service, the speaker administered the oath to the members generally. The old officers of the house, having been the nominees of the Republican caucus, were re-elected and sworn in.

Speaker Cannon appointed a committee to join a committee of the senate to notify the president that a quorum of the two houses had assembled and that congress was ready to receive any communication he may desire to make. After adopting resolutions agreed upon in the caucus making the rules of the 57th congress the rules of the 58th congress and fixing an hour for the convening of the daily sessions, the drawing of seats took place.

After the preliminary work had been disposed of the house adjourned out of respect to the memory of members who have died. On Tuesday the house will listen to the reading of the president's message. For the remainder of the week little can be accomplished, but it is understood to be the desire of the house leaders that consideration of the question of reciprocal trade with Cuba be pushed as rapidly as possible.

It is said to be probable that the committees of the house may be named at this session, but it is said that not much headway can be made in the matter of complete organization of the house within two or three weeks and that little will be attempted in the way of general legislation until a complete organization has been completed.

The Democratic members of the house selected John S. Williams of Mississippi as the unanimous choice of the minority for speaker. This action makes him minority leader for the coming congress. Congressman McClellan, mayor elect of New York, received an ovation as he entered the caucus and was congratulated by his colleagues on his victory.

Arrest of Bank Officers

Cripple Creek, Col., Nov. 9.—President Hanly, Vice President Hobbs and Assistant Cashier Jones of the Bimetallic bank, which was closed last Thursday, are under arrest on complaint that they accepted $400 from the Harder-Mosier Mercantile company for deposit in the Bi-metallic bank when they knew the institution to be in an insolvent condition.

Commissioner Sargent Stricken

Washington, Nov. 9.—Frank P. Sargent, the commissioner of immigration, suffered an attack of paralysis of the left side and for a time his condition gave his family considerably concern. He is better, however, and because of his splendid physique Sargent's physician hopes for a speedy recovery.

False Story of Alliance

Berlin, Nov. 9.—The rumor circulated in Vienna that the Czar of Russia and the Emperor of Germany had signed a convention for a defensive alliance in the far east should Great Britain support Japan is declared in official circles here to be without foundation.

Opticians and Opticians.

'Tis the Pedler Optician. I heard him complain:
"Im tired of tramping, I must rest once again."
So he settles him down for a month or two's rest,
And will charitably (?) give your eyes a "free test."

When later you find that your "specs" are not right,
You also will find that he has skipped in the night,
That your fine gold-bowed glasses are nothing but brass,
That you have the "experience," while he has the cash.

If you are troubled with headaches or defective sight, shun all pedlers and strange opticians. Consult WILLIAMS, who has fitted glasses to thousands upon thousands right here in Quincy during the past sixteen years.

He has all the latest instruments that scientists can devise and every facility for dark room examinations.

He will tell you frankly about your case and will not burden you with glasses if they are not necessary.

You cannot miss it if you go to

Member of the New England Association of Opticians,

CITY BREVITIES.

Steel ceilings have been introduced in the addition to Faxon hall, below the gallery, and elsewhere.

Several changes among the salaried officials of the Fore River Ship & Engine Co. are reported since the advent of President Bowles.

Miss Gertrude Barnicoat entertained a few friends at her beautiful home on Independence avenue, last evening. Music and games were enjoyed after which a dainty collation was served by their charming hostess.

The inspecting officer of South Shore commandery, K. T., this season, will be Em. Sir Lafayette G. Blair, the grand lecturer. He also has in his district, Bay State of Brockton, Godfrey de Bouillow of Fall River and Bethany of Lawrence.

Don't forget the Brotherhood concert at Bethany chapel this evening, Miss Nickerson, the harp soloist, is highly spoken of as a skilled performer on her chosen instrument. She is also a most pleasing reader. Miss Chamberlin, the whistler, is too well known to need any introduction to Quincy audiences. The concert will begin at eight o'clock.

WEDDING PRESENTS.

Some Hints About How and What and When to Send.

It is a golden rule to send your wedding gift in good time, the first to arrive being much more appreciated than that which is one of the many pouring in from all quarters during the last week.

By adhering to this rule you are also saved the annoyance of hearing that the saltcellars are charming, the third set already received.

A month before the wedding day is not too early to send the present, which should be accompanied by a visiting card, to be placed on the gift when displayed among the others.

The package should be addressed to the bride if you are intimate with both the happy couple, and to the bride's house, addressed to the bridegroom, if it is he with whom you are best acquainted.

Most people wish to give something novel, useful and pretty. The future circumstances of the happy couple should influence the choice.

If they are going abroad, do not give anything unsuitable to the requirements of the climate or so cumbersome that packing and conveying it to its destination will amount to half the value of the present.

If the recipients will not be particularly well off, it is only kind to select some useful present. In these days, when artistic taste is shown in all the necessaries of life, this should not be difficult.

If the happy couple are likely to receive many presents, it is safe to give something which will not be amiss if received in duplicate, such as silver sweetmeat baskets for the dinner table or a set of afternoon teaspoons or a bronze or china ornament.

A CARD.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50 cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

Frank Brierly, the English bantam fighter, who boxed several times in this country some years ago, writes that he will make another visit here shortly.

ANIMAL TALES.

John Lipe of Rich Hill, Mo., bought a cow for $30 ten years ago and put her on his farm. He now has a good herd of cattle, all descended from this animal, and the other day he sold the old cow herself for the same amount of money that he gave for her.

RECIPROCITY

With the Fair Isle to Go into Effect Soon.

Attempt at Opposition Has Failed.

Other Washington Matters of Lively Interest.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Speaker Cannon has been assured by one of the most prominent leaders of the opposition to Cuban reciprocity in the last congress that there will be little or no opposition among the Republicans to the bill carrying into effect the Cuban reciprocity treaty. He told the speaker that the attempt to form an opposition had failed, and that the Republicans will not join the Democrats in voting the Morris differential amendment on the bill. The speaker was assured that the sentiment among Republicans was to stand by the speaker; that it would be impolitic to have a division of the party at the beginning of the session.

Prospects of a reasonably prompt compliance with the president's wishes are exceedingly good. The only light will come in the house and there opinions are reaching a settled basis. It is generally agreed that the house will not "approve" a treaty affecting revenues so vitally as this one does, for the sake of the precedent, but that the committee will draft a bill specifying the reductions in duty on Cuban products, carried in the treaty, to become operative whenever Cuba complies with certain terms also specified in the treaty, the president being merely authorized to proclaim the existence of the required conditions. Most of the Democrats feel this constitutional issue keenly, as well as many Republicans. Whichever committee, whether ways and means or rules, prepares the bill, it will doubtless adopt this form to facilitate reciprocity's course.

The Democratic attitude is less clear than that of the Republicans. Representative Underwood of Alabama, a member of the committee on rules in the last house, said last night:

"I was in favor of Cuban reciprocity last year, regardless of differential amendment, and should have so voted had I not been bound by the action of a party caucus. There will be no caucus this year, I fancy, and with each member voting his own preferences reciprocity will get strong Democratic support, especially since the other side apparently plans to obviate the constitutional objection to the method of its accomplishment in the house. I look for no delay, and only a few Democratic opponents."

Representative Swanson of Virginia, a member of the ways and means committee, takes an opposite view. He says the Democrats will insist on an amendment removing the differential on refined sugar, just as in the last congress. If there is any Democratic defection from this program a party caucus will be called and the Underwood element whipped into line. Twenty Democrats can demand a caucus and Swanson would circulate the petition, if necessary. He predicts a renewal of old fight and along the same lines.

Prevailing opinion in the house favors Underwood's view of the outlook. Much may depend on how the Republican defection turns out. If it proves too small to accomplish anything there would be no motive for Democratic stragety, but even with a motive it might fail. The president's Cuban reciprocity fight seems nearly won.

To Examine Auditing Offices

Washington, Nov. 12.—As a result of the report of Messrs. Bonaparte and Conrad to the president on the postal scandals, Secretary Shaw has appointed Assistant Secretary Keep and Chief Clerk Hills of the treasury and ex-Assistant Secretary Ailes a commission to investigate the condition of the auditing offices of the treasury and recommend such changes or modifications in the system as may seem best to them.

Wood's Promotion Held Up

Washington, Nov. 12.—Senator Teller gave notice in executive session of the senate that before action is taken on the nomination of Brigadier General Leonard Wood to be major general he desired to make certain inquiries relating to the nominee's military record. It has been stated that the promotion of Wood will be opposed and if protest is now to be made opportunity will be given for an investigation by the committee.

General Kick Against Smoot

Washington, Nov. 12.—Several hundred petitions protesting against Reed Smoot retaining his seat as junior senator from Utah were filed in the senate yesterday. Nearly every state registered objections through petitions filed by their senators. Churches, religious organizations of all kinds, universities, colleges and other educational institutions are among the organizations which have filed protests.

Powell Won't Recognize Rebels

San Domingo, Nov. 12.—The revolutionists have addressed a letter to United States Minister Powell informing him that engagements entered into with the United States by the government presided over by General Wos y Gil will not be recognized by them. The letter requests that Minister Powell recognize the revolutionists, but the minister has refused to hold communication with them.

PRETTY WEDDING.

Both Bride and Groom Were Formerly of Prince Edwards Island.

A very pretty wedding took place Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Ross, 23 Gordon street, when Mr. Roderick McPherson and Miss Catherine Russell were united in marriage. Rev. William B. Barr performed the ceremony.

Miss Elizabeth Comer, cousin of the bride was bridesmaid and Mr. John McPherson, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride was prettily dressed in a gown of white point de sprite lace trimmed with satin ribbon and wore white carnations and ferns.

A number of friends and relatives of the bridal couple witnessed the ceremony and an informal reception followed. A wedding supper was served. They received a number of handsome presents.

Mr. and Mrs. McPherson are both natives of Prince Edwards Island and their host of friends extend congratulations and best wishes. They have their house furnished and will go to housekeeping at once on Nightingale avenue and will be at home to their friends after Nov. 15.

The $90,000 Tax Loan Order

Is Recommitted by City Council.

HIGH SCHOOL

Enlargement Voted Down Twelve to Nine.

After a Prolonged Debate.

Several Other Matters at Session of City Council.

The adjourned meeting of the City Council Wednesday evening was one of the longest sessions the present body has held. The debate upon the majority and minority reports of the joint Committee on Finance and Public Buildings on enlarging the High school, prolonged the meeting until 11 o'clock.

Councilman Meyer was the only member absent.

ELECTION REPORT.

The Committee on Elections reported the result of the recent election. Accepted.

TAX LOAN ORDER.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass, on order authorizing the City Treasurer to borrow $90,000 in anticipation of taxes. Order took its second reading and a motion was made to suspend the rules.

Councilman Bass—We have already borrowed $300,000 in anticipation of taxes and collected $100,000. The levy was a little over $400,000. When we consider that in the committee there was a bare quorum present and it was lightly considered, some explanation was needed.

Councilman Nickerson asked the Mayor to explain.

Mayor Bryant said that he had gone into the matter with the City Solicitor and he decided that we could borrow even more than that. In 1893 the tax levy was $302,000 and a loan order for $325,000 was passed, which was in excess of the whole levy. In 1896, $425,000 was borrowed on a levy of $317,612. The $300,000 has usually been enough for the reason that the Council has borrowed money for other purposes and it has been used to pay bills until the original amount was needed. He did not know that it would be necessary to borrow $90,000. We have a note for $75,000 coming due in December and about $60,000 for State and county tax. We have a note of $50,000 coming due this month for which we have the money.

If necessary to borrow money it is well to have the authority to do so. It was not asked for at the first of the year as it was not thought it would be needed. There was no question about the legality of the order.

Councilman Bass—Is the money to be used to renew notes now outstanding?

Mayor Bryant—No, to pay notes on which we borrowed last year.

Councilman Bass—Is it not a fact that a note of $75,000 is coming due and we have got to pay maturing tax notes.

Mayor Bryant—We do that every year. We borrow one year and pay the next. We pay the notes out of the taxes. We borrow money to carry us along until taxes come in.

Councilman Bass—Under what authority was the note of $75,000 borrowed?

Mayor Bryant—Under authority of order of Council earlier in the year. If we had not used the money to pay other bills we would have had the money. We have got money enough from the taxes to pay the note. We are not going to use the money for that. But there are state and county taxes of $60,000 coming due Dec. 5 and we have not enough to pay them.

Councilman Bass—How many notes put out on the $300,000 have been paid?

Treasurer Gray—One of $25,000.

Councilman Bass—How much of the general levy has been collected?

Treasurer Gray—$98,000 to Nov. 1. Since then I have received $65,000 or about $165,000 to date.

Councilman Bass could not see how out of the $312,000 uncollected taxes of 1903 we could pay the $275,000 of notes outstanding and the $90,000 proposed.

President Alden asked how much of the 1902 tax was uncollected.

Collector Cleaves could not say; but would give an answer in a few minutes.

President Alden—Last year's notes in anticipation of taxes are all paid, and we have $50,000 uncollected taxes. Where does the money come from to pay all the notes if the Collector did not collect all the levy.

Mayor Bryant—The tax levy was $400,000 and we only borrowed $300,000.

Councilman Bass moved to recommit.

Councilman Nickerson opposed.

Mayor Bryant hoped it would go to the committee as the administration was willing to give all the information necessary. Voted to recommit.

The Finance Committee reported an order authorizing the City Auditor to approve a bill of $81.30 of the New England Telephone Co. against the Fire Department. To Ordinance Committee.

A CUT OF TEN PERCENT

In Fall River Operatives' Wages Causes Worry

REDUCTION MAY EXTEND

To Other New England Manufacturing Centres, With Exception of Northern States—A Return to the Conditions of Two Years Ago

Boston, Nov. 12.—Reports from the centres of the cotton mill industry throughout New England indicate that the announcement at Fall River that a 10 percent reduction in wages had been decided upon by the cotton manufacturers there, to go into effect Nov. 23, has caused general uneasiness, due to the belief that an equal reduction at other places is inevitable.

It is conceded that this will be the case in Rhode Island and eastern Connecticut. Other cities in eastern Massachusetts, it is thought, may follow the example set by Fall River, though there cases are somewhat dissimilar. In Taunton the Corr Manufacturing company has already announced a 10 percent reduction, and while the mill men at New Bedford, Lowell and Lawrence are reticent regarding their plans they admit that the condition of the cotton market is all against the manufacturers, which is equivalent to saying that a wage reduction is something to be seriously considered.

The situation in Maine and New Hampshire will hardly be affected. Maine did not share in the wage advance of two years ago and so has a negative advantage now. The mill agents at Manchester, N. H., say that retrenchment has not been thought of so far.

Representatives of unions in Fall River and other cities do not appear to anticipate any concerted action on the part of the unions in opposition to the new schedule. The union men have kept themselves well informed as to the state of the cotton market and the announcement at Fall River occasioned little surprise. While not admitting, perhaps, the necessity for so sweeping a reduction, it is doubtful if any considerable number would favor a fight with the mill agents at this time.

While the outlook at Fall River from the operatives' standpoint is a rather gloomy one, it should be remembered that the new schedule is really a return to the conditions existing two years ago, when an advance was made by the manufacturers. It was this advance in Fall River that led to the great strike in Lowell last spring. The Lowell operatives demanded the Fall River schedule, which was refused. Now the Fall River operatives will be put practically the same as other operatives in eastern Massachusetts.

The present scale went into effect March 17, 1902. The price for weaving regular goods today is 21.78 cents per cut and a 10 percent reduction would make the new price 19.6 cents. The old price, previous to the date given, was 19.8, and this latter figure, it is announced, will prevail after Nov. 23.

Suit Against Hobson's Sister

New York, Nov. 12.—The summonses that Captain Hobson secured for the appearance of three people to try and explain the disappearance of jewelry, money and one of his medals, have been dismissed. Miss Margaret Hobson, his sister, had reported their loss. Owing to her indefinite statements the court advised that she drop the case. When Miss Hobson left the court room she was served with papers by atrorneys for her colored maid, Lizzie Britt, in a $10,000 suit. The papers charged false arrest and imprisonment and malicious persecution.

Stars and Stripes Insulted

Montreal, Nov. 12.—The introduction of the Stars and Stripes at the close of a play at the Academy of Music caused a terrible uproar. Catcalls and groans filled the house, and lasted until long after the statue of Britannia was shown. After that the whole audience arose and sang "God Save the King."

MAKES THE WORK EASIER.

A Device Which Does Away With the Clothes Wringer Crank.

The comfort and convenience derived from the use of a clothes wringer are somewhat interfered with by certain features which have restricted its application and use in a measure. For instance, because of the space required for the operation of the crank handle it is not always convenient to put the machine at the point on the tubs where it is most desired. This trouble particularly applies to the use of the wringer on stationary tubs, which, because of their size, often interfere with the complete revolution of the handle.

A reciprocating handle for the wringer has been brought out, the design and invention of a woman, which has the advantage of making the wringer very flexible in its application. The new feature consists of a mechanical movement which is separated from the wringer frame and rails, the connection being made by means of a link chain. The driving mechanism, instead of being a revolving handle, is a reciprocating wheel which imparts a continuous motion to the rolls by a very ingenious spring contrivance. The arrangement of the intermeshing teeth now existing in the wringer is preserved, and the power transmitting chain passes over one of these gears and under the other. As the handle is pressed down the chain is in action with the gear of one roll, and as the handle is brought up the spring referred to throws the chain on the teeth of the other roll, and so on continuously. It will be readily seen that by this arrangement a regular and continuous motion is given to the wringer rolls.

Bad Tempered Women.

It is said that a bad tempered woman can cause more actual unpleasantness for the rest of humanity than all the other disagreeable features one finds in life, and the unlucky possessor of an uncontrolled temper can easily drive to ruin or to other women the men whose misfortune it is to move in her orbit. The average man prizes permanent peace and content above the happiness of possessing a beautiful, attractive creature for a wife, and he knows that a bad tempered woman and peace go not together. He admires a spirited woman, but he knows that a correspondingly strong will goes along with strong character, and he expects her to exercise it. The woman who can control herself under the most trying circumstances is the woman who holds the strongest power over men. No matter how beautiful and clever and fascinating the bad tempered woman may be or how lengthy her bank account, her power is infinitesimal compared with that of her amiable sister.

Mustard Bath For Children.

When your young hopeful comes in from his playtime sneezing and coughing and showing various indications of having caught cold, leave the usual drugs and try a mustard bath for warding off future trouble. Tie two tablespoonfuls of ground mustard in a small piece of cheese cloth and put it in a tubful of water as hot as one can comfortably bear. Rub thoroughly afterward and get the patient to bed as soon as possible to guard against more cold.

This plan of taking a mustard bath when the usual indications of a severe cold present themselves is equally good for adults, but it is especially recommended for the little tots who so often expose themselves thoughtlessly during playtime and who should not be allowed to become accustomed to drugs in any form unless prescribed by a physician for severe cases.

Is Your Face Clean?

This is a question which the average woman would meet with a haughty look. Yet nine times out of ten it would prove more than pertinent. The girl who uses gallons of water daily for washing purposes and who scrubs and scrubs most diligently with soap will be surprised how much cleaner her skin could really get. A bit of cold cream will show her whether her face is clean or not. Rubbed softly into the face with the tips of the fingers, the cold cream will take up every atom of dust or soot from the skin, and with a soft cloth gently wipe the face over and over. Then have a look at the cloth. You will be amazed to see how grimy it is, realizing that your face had not had the proper sort of bath, despite soap and water used so freely.

Mrs. Emily Fish.

Mrs. Emily A. Fish is keeper of the lighthouse at Point Pinos, Cal., four miles from Monterey. On the death of her husband, an army surgeon, she applied for the place and secured it through a competitive examination. The lighthouse is delightfully situated on a point jutting from the mainland, and Mrs. Fish is able to engage in additional pursuits. She raises numerous varieties of sweet peas and makes a business of breeding colts and fancy French poodles for market.

CONSTANTINOPLE.

It Has Perhaps the Finest Site For a City In the World.

Constantinople looks much better from the water than it does when viewed ashore. The tourist who touches at the port, remains on board and sees the city only from the sea retains an entirely different impression from that of him who goes ashore. Seen from the water, Constantinople is very beautiful. Seen from the shore, it is the apotheosis of everything that is filthy and foul. I do not say that it is unworthy of a visit, but I do say that he who stays on board will take away a much more picturesque impression.

The site of Constantinople is ideal. There is probably no finer site for a city in the world. It is situate on the Bosporus, between the Mediterranean and the Black seas. It lies between Europe and Asia, for Scutari is part of Constantinople, and Scutari is on the Asiatic shore. It is cut off by natural boundaries into municipal divisions, for the Golden Horn divides Stamboul, the Mohammedan, from Galata, the Christian, city. So the Bosporus divides Scutari, the Asiatic, from Constantinople, the European, city; yet all of these places make one great city under the general name of Constantinople. And this great city is guarded also by nature. It has the sea of Marmora close at hand, with fortifications at either end of this great water highway, rendering the city unassailable by sea. It has a peninsular conformation which also renders it, properly fortified, impregnable by land as well as by sea. It is as if San Francisco were to have batteries of heavy artillery all around her water front, from India basin to the presidio, from the presidio to Lake Merced and then across the neck of the peninsula from Lake Merced to India basin. With all these factors in its favor no wonder that Constantinople has always been looked upon as an ideal site for a city. That so many races should have battled over Byzantium for so many hundreds of years is not surprising.—Argonaut.

Will Make You Sleep.

An alcohol rub at bedtime will go far toward breaking up insomnia. Let the rubber begin with the forehead and temples of the sleepless one, paying particular attention to the spine and back of the neck. Rub the alcohol gently but firmly into the body, working gradually down to the feet, and probably the patient will fall asleep before the rubbing is completed. One night or even one week of rubbing would not be likely to bring back permanent habits of sound, healthy slumber, but each night there is a gain toward the normal equilibrium of the nerves, and a month of alcohol rubs should put one in a position to do without external helps of any kind.—Boston Budget.

Shook It Down.

There is a strong man in a certain village in Hungary. Not long ago he was building a stable for a farmer. Just as he was about to put the culminating brick in its place he happened to fall out with his employer and by way of working off his superfluous energy went up to one of the pillars and shook it. The entire building came down with a run. This is the most notable case of "it come apart in my 'ands," as servants say, since Samson.—London Globe.

Photograph Paste.

Dissolve half an ounce of hard gelatin in three ounces two drams of cold water until quite soft; then beat until melted. Now add one ounce six drams of glycerin. This will set hard and must be melted on the hob or in hot water for use. The advantage of this preparation is that there is no stickiness as with gum, nor does it leave a stain. It is excellent for mounting both photographs and scraps.

HUNTING QUEER PREY

[Copyright, 1903, by C. B. Lewis.]

We had gone out to the Solidar reefs, fifty miles to the south of Ceylon, to capture if possible a living specimen of the octopus or devilfish for the Bombay museum. After arriving and anchoring the bark a safe distance from the reefs we pulled in with the yawl to look for signs of the prey we were after. We had every reason to believe that he was "at home" in a shallow cave at the base of a big rock, but we had orders not to go too close.

Next morning two boats approached the rocks from opposite sides, and Professor Grimshaw, who had charge of the expedition, landed to make a close inspection. Our approach was made as silently as possible, and the professor removed his boots before landing. There was no danger of the octopus running away if he was there, but we had some plans to lay in advance. After some spying about he was located in the cavern spoken of, and the professor was dismayed at the size of the creature. He had counted five great tentacles, and the bulk of the octopus was that of a big barrel. It was decided that its feeding time would be about high water, and at low water it might come out to lie on the rocks or swim in the channel. It was for low water we waited, and before the tide had run out we landed on the rock again and stretched two large fish nets across it and weighted them at the corners with stones to prevent their being carried away.

In the channel we stretched other nets, and at dead low water we hauled off to see if anything would occur. Something did. The octopus decided to take a little ramble, and he came down the channel toward our flotilla. When he reached the net and found his progress checked he was furious in an instant and did just what we hoped he would do. He seized it and began pulling and hauling, and in a minute or two he was all tangled up. For the next quarter of an hour we were treated to a rare exhibition. No whale could have made the fuss that monster did. In his struggles he threw water twenty feet high and for fifty feet around him, and now and then he raised an arm high in the air and swept it around him like a flail and with such a swish as a limb would make in the hands of a giant. The net was of the strongest material, and when he ceased to struggle we realized that he was pretty well tangled up. We could do nothing more toward his capture just then, however, as the tide had turned, and he retreated to his lair, taking the nets with him and making slow progress.

At 8 o'clock next morning we landed on the rocks and found the nets all right. The professor had brought along a big squirt gun and a large jar of chloroform, and when all was ready we made a circuit to the west and got as near as we dared to the cavern and then began rolling stones into it. We had not been at work over five minutes when the octopus was routed out. We first saw one long tentacle shoot out of the water and clutch the rock above, and then the creature slowly and laboriously drew itself out.

The net had been bitten and broken in many places, but still tangled about him so as to greatly hamper his movements. Of the five arms only one was entirely free. The monster must have thought the attack was being made on him from above, for he had no sooner caught sight of the spread nets than he went for them in a furious way. He was, of course, still further tangled up, and the exhibition of the previous day was nothing to this.

Nothing living could have broken clear of that tangle, but we had a good idea of the creature's strength by the way he snapped ropes and cords here and there. With one free tentacle he picked up and hurled into the sea a loose rock which two strong men could not have moved.

It was a quarter of an hour before the octopus was so entirely tangled in the nets that he could struggle no more, and we waited at least ten minutes before approaching him. Then the professor advanced with his squirt gun charged from the jar of chloroform, and its contents were shot full in the monster's face. In two minutes he lay as if dead, and we then got ropes and straps and made him secure. Now and then there was a shiver the full length of the tentacles, and we had to stand back while the professor repeated the dose, but at no time did the octopus regain full consciousness. When all was ready we put planks under the body and slid it down into the water, and after a hard two hours' work we got the mass aboard the bark and into a box prepared in advance.

Few people have ever seen a full grown devilfish, as not above two or three have ever been on exhibition, and those came ashore dead and shrunken. The weight of this fellow was 510 pounds, and the stretch of each tentacle was over eighteen feet. The size of the tentacles at their base was as large as the body of a boy ten years old, and each was armed with over 200 disks or sucking cups. Had he got three of his long arms around the body of a whale and used the other two to cling to some submerged rock his whaleship would have stood no show whatever.

The odor exhaled made us all more or less sick and dizzy, and we were glad enough when we had landed our captive at Bombay. He is there today, but only as a preserved specimen. The best of care was given him when transferred to the museum, but in the course of five or six weeks he was dead. So far as I know, however, he was the only one of his kind ever taken alive.

WITHOUT FORMALITY

Coaling Station at Guantanamo Turned Over to Over United States

Washington, Nov. 12.—The United States has come into actual possession of the coaling station at Guantanamo. Although the flag raising has not taken place, it is learned at the navy department that the transfer was effected in a quiet manner several days ago. Under the arrangement Cuba will pay the owners of the property. It was explained that the moving factor in the transaction was the knowledge that Cuba was without a navy, and as the United States has undertaken the protection of the island against a foreign foe and desires the station as a naval base to protect its own interests, the transfer was made in order that this government might complete its plans mapped out some time ago.

In furtherance of these plans, a board of inspection left last evening for Norfolk, where they will board the cruiser Buffalo, now lying there for a visit to Guantanamo and Bahia Honda, the other coaling station granted to the United States under agreement with Cuba.

China Shows War Spirit

Tien Tsin, Nov. 12.—Russia's demand for the recall of the Taotai Yuan, who is a Manchu, from the Corean border, has been granted under pressure by the Chinese government. There is credited information that the Chinese are moving a considerable number of troops into Manchuria.

London, Nov. 12.—The Shanghai correspondent of The Standard says that Yuan Shi Kai, governor of the Chi Li province, and General Ma have intimated to the government their readiness to immediately take the field in Manchuria with 45,000 men.

Professor Ashley on Canada's Future

London, Nov. 12.—The London Chamber of Commerce last night debated Joseph Chamberlain's fiscal program. Professor Ashley, dean of the faculty of commerce of the University of Birmingham, declared that unless Chamberlain's policy is adopted Canada is certain to either become independent or to be annexed to the United States. American emigration to the Northwest territory, he declared, was accelerating this tendency and the drift of Australia towards separation from the mother country was equally clear.

Controversy Brings on Strike

Chicago, Nov. 12.—A general strike of the 3000 employes of the Chicago city railway was decided upon last night at a mass meeting of the men. They quit work at 4 o'clock this morning. The demands of the union were for a wage increase of 25 percent, recognition of the union and several other minor concessions. The company requested a postponement of hostilities until Saturday, when a final answer would be given, but the men refused to delay action any longer.

Assemblyman Hangs Himself

Glens Falls, N. Y., Nov. 12.—W. H. Hughes, member of the assembly from Washington county, committed suicide by hanging at his home in Granville. On Monday he was examined in bankruptcy proceedings. His disastrous failure involved almost every financial institution in Washington county. He was 39 years old and was quartermaster general on Governor Black's military staff. He served two terms in the assembly and was re-elected last week.

O'Brien's Mysterious Hint

London, Nov. 12.—Replying to the Cork branch of the United Irish league, which requested him to withdraw his resignation as member of parliament, William O'Brien refused to do so. He says he wishes to leave his enemies free scope to carry on their opposition to his policy and adds that he could not explain his reasons without publishing "horrifying details."

Classed With Old World Murders

Chicago, Nov. 12.—The friends of Roopan Dyelan, a young Armenian who was found dead in bed, are of the opinion that he was murdered and class his death with the assassinations of Armenians which have been taking place of late in different parts of the old world. Dyelan was suffocated by the gas which escaped from an open jet in his room.

Generous Gifts to Methodists

Omaha, Nov. 12.—At the opening session of the general missionary committee of the Methodist Episcopal church here the report of the treasurer showed the missionary gifts of the denomination for the year ending Oct. 31 to have surpassed those of any former year in the history of the church. The receipts for the year amount to $1,654,223.

Explosion Wrecked Hotel

Ridgetown, Ont., Nov. 12.—An explosion of a small gas plant in the Logan house here last evening killed G. W. Atkinson, travelling representative of the London Advertiser, and B. Weir, a boarder. The hotel was completely wrecked. The explosion was heard several miles away.

Fifty-Three Convicts Sick

Elmira, N. Y., Nov. 12.—There are eight new cases of diphtheria at the New York state reformatory, making 53 in all. Two inmates lie at the point of death and their recovery is not thought possible. In all 1100 out of 1500 inmates have been inoculated with antitoxine serum.

HOLDER FOR BILLS.

An Attractive Christmas Present That a Child Can Make.

For mothers who have a fashion of forgetting where they put their receipted bills a bill holder is a useful Christmas present.

The holder shown in the sketch is of heavy white linen, embroidered in a conventional design. Should this needlework be too ambitious for the small worker to accomplish, the embroidery could easily be dispensed with and a figured material substituted.

To make the holder, cut a piece of cardboard ten inches long and nine wide at its greatest width into the shape seen in the sketch. Cover the cardboard with leaf green linen and embroider a bunch of nasturtiums in natural shades with mercerized cotton in outline stitch. When embroidered sew a green and white cotton cord around the entire shaped piece of board.

Next take two business size envelopes fastened together loosely at the top and paste them under the cord at the straight end of the holder. Glue the holder to a square of cardboard finished on the edge with an irregular line done in liquid gold.

Suspend by a green ribbon tied in a pretty bow at the top.

A SAFETY BAG.

Useful Gift That Any Clever Woman Can Make.

This useful little article will save many a hunt for three things most often mislaid—namely, spectacles, keys and pencil.

Procure a piece of cardboard seven inches deep and four inches wide, cover the back with black sateen and the front with slightly wadded silk or brocade. Next cut a piece of any colored silk you wish, slightly broader than the cardboard back, and line it with the wadded silk.

Now work the two divisions shown in the sketch in featherstitch and when finished lightly tack the front down the center on to the wadded side of the cardboard. Turn the sides back to the divisions and stitch them on the wrong side, then join the edges.

The small flap is cut separately and made to match the front. The whole is edged with narrow silk cord, which forms a loop at the top, by means of which the bag can be suspended to the waist, and the flap fastens with a tiny button and silk loop.

Of course one may elaborate the case with embroidery or spangling as much as one likes.

A Traveling Comfort.

A traveling comfort is the very thing to give the globe trotting friend, and here are directions which will be found easy to follow in its construction: Take a length of dark colored cloth or silk, say, three-quarters of a yard long, line with chamois and bind the edges with silk ribbon. Then take a broad piece of silk elastic and lay it on the chamois down the center, at the same time placing your brush, comb, nailbrush, nail scissors, button hook, a reel of black and white cotton, a packet of needles and a thimble in the center of the case, so as to judge of the size to sew the elastic which is to hold them in place.

You might also make a little chamois pocket in which to slip a brooch, bracelets and a little pincushion. When fitted, roll the case up and fasten it with small straps secured by bands of silk the same color as the covering. This will make a little dressing case quite equal in usefulness, if not in appearance, to those possessed by your wealthier sisters.

Good Afternoon

If the chairman of the School Committee felt that he would be embarrassed as are presentative of a majority of the School Board before the City Council, he should have requested one of the majority to represent the School Board before the Council as provided in the city charter.

The sentiments of some of the Southern editors toward the President of the United States is shown by an editorial from the Vicksburg American:

"Roosevelt has recently entertained a number of dark gentlemen at a reception given in honor of marines from the training ship Mayflower. Roosevelt was honored by the colored men who gave their presence to the occasion."

Drift of Opinion.

☞A man or woman in public or in private life, who ever works only for the sake of the reward that comes for the work will in the long run do poor work always. I do not care where the work is, the man or woman who does work worth doing is the man or woman who lives, breathes, and sleeps that work; with whom it is ever present in his or her soul; whose ambition is to do it well and feel rewarded by the thought of having done it well. That man, that woman, puts the whole country under an obligation.—Exchange.

☞Lotteries at their best are uncertain quantities, and those who buy chances in them are generally disappointed. Occasionally a ticket holder is given a prize, as otherwise the supply of gudgeons would die out. A bogus lottery offers no chance whatever to the purchaser, but who can tell the bogus from the real? If there is such a thing as a "square" lottery, how can one be assured of it? The fact is, a bogus ticket will sell as readily as a so-called "square" ticket, and knowing this there is always to be found somebody to take advantage of this fact and fleece the buyers. The discovery of a plant for the making of lottery tickets is an advantage to the gullible that they ought to appreciate, but we very much doubt if they will. There is always a large contingent waiting to be tempted, and so the graft goes on.—Lynn Item.

☞Did any primary teacher ever read the "President's Proclamation for Thanksgiving" to the children some morning in November for an opening exercise? "But the children wouldn't understand it," you say. No matter if they don't grasp all the words. They grasp the feeling, the meaning of it, and that is all there is to it for any of us. How well I remember, when a child, the thrill with which I listened to the solemn, "God bless the Commonwealth of Massachusetts," read in church from the Governor's Proclamation for Thanksgiving, on a Sunday morning in November. Let us make little "occasion" for the children. It doesn't take much to give them "a lovely time." Nine-tenths of it lies in the manner and enjoyment of the teacher. The thrifty ones who keep one eye on the clock and the other on the program, in the marning talks, had better not undertake it. Feeling can't be scheduled.—Primary Education.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Sugure was arraigned for entering a dwelling with intent to commit rape and with assault and battery on Bina Kimball. Upon the former complaint he was held in $500 for the grand jury, and upon the latter he was sentenced to one year in the house of correction.

CITY FINANCES.

Brooks Adams Addresses the People's Union.

Thinks Burdens are Increasing.

Favors Some Kind of Consolidation by Towns.

An address by Brooks Adams, Esq., was the attraction Wednesday evening at the meeting of the People's Union of Ward Two, which was held in a room of the new Washington school house.

T. B. Pollard, the president, presided. The report of the last meeting was read by Miss Raycroft, the secretary. Mr. Pollard made a report for the executive committee, with suggestions.

By request Miss Johnson addressed the meeting. As to lines of work she suggested observance of the Fourth of July in a quiet way, home gardens, a flower show, etc.

President Pollard advocated village improvement.

Brooks Adams, Esq., was introduced to speak on "Finances of the City. He queried at the outset what it was possible to do, but thought something could be accomplished by association work.

Our municipal governments in general are wholly unsatisfactory. There is a great inequality in the taxation of neighboring towns; for example Quincy and Milton. The poorer towns like Quincy tax property out. Poor towns get poorer, and rich towns richer.

The speaker suggested some kind of district unity in police work, care of streets, public schools, etc., for the benefit of the poorer towns. Metropolitan control would be a great benefit for Quincy financially.

Quincy has lost thousands of dollars because it has not made the street railway pay what it should for the use of streets. But single towns are not strong enough to battle with large corporations.

The public is simply without protection. Quincy spends three times what it should for highways, because it has no definite plans, and is without power.

Quincy is rapidly accumulating a burden, which within 25 years will be more than it can handle.

Questions were asked by Joseph Thomas, T. B. Pollard, Miss Johnson, Miss Raycroft and others, and all were answered by Mr. Adams.

M. C. Holmes suggested that Senator Brackett and Representatives Fallon and Freeman be invited to appear before the club some evening.

A vote of thanks was extended to Brooks Adams, the speaker of the evening.

THREE ORDERS.

Hold Services at the Funeral of Mrs. Frances M. Souther.

The funeral of Mrs. Frances M. Souther was held Wednesday afternoon from the Universalist church. The services conducted by Rev. Merrill C. Ward were very largely attended. Paul Revere Woman's Relief Corps, the Ladies' Aid, and Enterprise Lodge, N. E. O. P., of which deceased was a member, were present in a body.

The casket was placed in front of the altar and was almost hidden beneath a wealth of beautiful flowers sent by the orders, family and friends.

During the services a quartette composed of Mrs. Alice Taylor, Miss May Hastings, Mr. E. E. Holden and Mr. F. E. Kendall sang, "The Home Land," "Jesus Lover of My Soul," and "My Heavenly Home." During the services of the Ladies' Aid the quartette sang "Nearer My God to Thee."

After the services by Rev. Mr. Ward, which were of a very impressive nature, each of the three orders performed its burial service. The remains were taken to Mt. Wollaston and buried by the side of her husband who was killed in war so many years ago.

Campbell—Whebble.

There was a quiet wedding on Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Priscilla R. Whebble, when her daughter, Miss Adelaide, and Mr. George J. Campbell were married. Rev. Edward Norton officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell left that day for a short tour, and will be "at home" at No. 22 Field street, on Wednesdays in January.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

The Grand Army fair will open next Monday for a week. Everyone should secure a season ticket to help the veterans.

Mr. Charles F. Underfield will give at the Quincy Mansion school, Livermore hall, tomorrow evening readings from David Copperfield.

The six end men for the annual minstrel show of the Wollaston Yacht club are fast getting into shape, and indications are good for a better show than last year.

Another delightful concert was given in the Brotherhood course Wednesday evening by two very popular entertainers: Miss Chamberlin the whistler, and Miss Florence Nickerson, reader and harp soloist. The attendance was large.

MANY FLOWERS.

At Funeral This Morning of Miss Nellie McGuerty.

Miss Nellie McGuerty, one of the most popular young ladies of Atlantic, passed away at her home 47 Old Colony street, Monday evening, after an illness of almost three months. Although her death had been expected it came as a shock to her many friends.

The funeral was held from the Sacred Heart Church this A. M. at 9 o'clock. The Ladies' Auxiliary of which she was a member marched in a body to the church. Solemn high mass was celebrated by the Rev. Fr. Cuffe. At the conclusion of the Mass, Miss Mary R. Sullivan, a friend of the deceased, sang "Cross and Crown."

The flowers were many and beautiful which showed the high esteem in which she was held. They included one pillow inscribed "sister"; harp, Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 19; standing cross, Tubuler Rivet & Stud friends; pillow, homeopathic hospital; bouquet, yellow chrysanthemums, Mrs. Derringer; bouquet, Mary and Katherine Creamer; bouquet, white chrysanthemums, Miss Elizabeth Curley and Miss Margaret Dolan; bouquet, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Wilde; wreath, Mrs. M. W. Gerry and family; bouquet, Mrs. Todd; bouquet, Mrs. Anderson; wreath, Mr. Powell and many others.

The pall bearers were Messrs. John Granahan, Frank Granahan, Gerald Sullivan, Edward Ago, William Barrett and Frank McDonald.

Miss McGuerty leaves a father and mother, two sisters and two brothers to mourn her absence, beside a host of friends. The interment was at West Quincy.

Useful Wood Lore.

If you are lost in the woods sit down the moment you realize it and think it over. If you start off at random you will be sure to walk in a circle. None but the most experienced woodsmen can keep a straight course, and even they go in a circle when they get really lost.

If you know the direction of camp tie some strip of white rag to a tree and then start off. You can find the compass points by remembering that moss always grows on the north side of trees. Keep tying strips of rag to trees as you go on. Then you can find your way back to the starting point if you should fail to strike the path that leads to safety.

The Mexican Boundary Line.

The international boundary line between the United States and the republic of Mexico is marked by pyramids of stones placed at irregular distances along the line all the way from the Rio Grande to the Pacific ocean. Wherever it was found practicable to do so these pyramids were built on prominent peaks at road crossings, fords, etc. The line was not surveyed, as is the usual custom, the location of the monuments being based on astronomical calculations and observations.

Considerate.

"Have you ever done anything to make the world happier?" asked the solemn looking person with the unbarbered hair.

"Sure," answered the jolly man with the double chin. "I was once invited to sing in public and declined."—Indianapolis Sentinel.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

The location is the best of any hall in the city. The street cars pass the door with a turn out right in front of the Hall.

The floor is of selected maple laid with the greatest care, and is kept in perfect condition being covered with canvas when not used for dancing.

The ventilation—a most important consideration—is such as to keep the air pure with even a crowded hall and without causing any drafts.

The Hall is lighted by electricity, brilliantly and pleasantly, and with a switchboard arranged so that all desired effects can be obtained in the Hall proper or on the stage. Gas is used as an auxiliary light.

The heating is direct—indirect, ample, and giving the most healthful results.

The Stage has been designed with care, and is furnished with a particularly generous supply of attractive and appropriate scenery.

In case of fire the re pails of water and chemical fire extinguishers throughout the Hall. There is an asbestos fire curtain by which the Stage can be instantly cut off from the Hall proper. There are nine (9) doors opening from the Hall and five (5) separate exits.

As a whole, Quincy Music Hall has been carefully planned to meet the requirements of those who wish a large and really first class Hall.

CITY COUNCIL.

The engrossed order prohibiting the throwing of stones and the use of slings was passed.

The engrossed order refunding the Swedish Lutheran society $52.26, one-half cost of sidewalk, was passed.

Councilman Nichols read a letter received by the Mayor from the Railroad Commissioners, granting the West End street railway permission to cross railroad tracks at Neponset at grade.

MOTIONS, ORDERS, ETC.

Councilman Adams offered an order for an arc light on the corner of Hancock and Dimmock streets. Referred to the Mayor.

HIGH SCHOOL ENLARGEMENT.

The report of the joint committee on Finance and Public Buildings relative to order for enlarging the High school was taken from the table.

The majority report favored an appropriation of $45,000 for addition to High school by the Gould plans. The minority report was that the order ought not to pass.

Upon request, Chairman Porter of the School Committee appeared before the Council. He said that he had stated in the letter all there was to say. He was in a delicate position and he should represent the Committee as it stood by its vote.

Councilman Nichols—Have you examined the Gould plans?

Mr. Porter—Yes.

Councilman Nichols—Is the statement that the five rooms in the north wing will seat 250 pupils correct?

Mr. Porter—I do not care to answer, as I was on the opposite side. I stand as a representative of the committee and a majority disagreed with me. I think that number too small, the Wright plans would seat more. The committee had not considered the Wright plans. He declined to say that he prefered the Wright plans. A motion was made to approve the Wright plans. An amendment was made to substitute the Gould plans, and this was adopted.

In reply to questions by Councilman Whiton, Mr. Porter said in October two plans were considered, a Gould and a Wright. Two meetings were held and on Oct. 31, the action was taken. The Wright plans were not considered.

Councilman Nickerson—Is the School Board thoroughly posted on the Gould plans?

Mr. Porter—I presume so.

Councilman Nickerson—If the Council sent five plans do you consider it the duty of your board to approve all plans?

Mr. Porter—The School Committee have absolute right to approve or disapprove plans. Our custom has usually been to approve one plan. I am here representing the Committee. They have approved the plans. I am trying to be just without consideration of my own views. There is a difference of opinion among the School Board almost as close as in the Council committee, although it does not show on the records. I have to represent the majority whether I think it right or wrong. The vote was 5 to 2. I have no right to express personal opinion. If the members were present and had taken sides I might also state my opinion.

In reply to question by Councilman Reardon, Mr. Porter said the plans were considered four or five meetings earlier in the year and two meetings recently. The majority believed it met the requirements of the High school. I represent the committee and can not tell what was in the minds of the Committee.

Councilman Reardon—Did they give any reason for not considering the other plan.

Mr. Porter—For reasons which I am not at liberty to state they did not consider the other plan.

Councilman Nichols—Have you a decided view?

Mr. Porter—Yes very decided view.

Councilman Nichols—Did you say the committee never considered the Wright plans?

Mr. Porter—No; I said they were not considered at the last meeting.

Councilman Hardwick asked what figures were considered by the committee.

Mr. Porter—The same figures you have before you.

Councilman Bass said he would like to have it appear who voted for the the Gould and who for the Wright plans.

Mr. Porter—It is a matter of record. I will send Council a copy of the records.

Councilman Nickerson—Is there a member present who voted for the Gould plan.

Mr. Porter—Yes.

Councilman Nickerson—Is he outside or inside the rail?

Mr. Porter—Outside.

The member outside the rail was Dr. Hunting.

A number of other questions were asked Mr. Porter, but no additional information was brought out.

Councilman Whiton moved the previous question. Motion lost.

Councilman Reardon moved that James F. Burke of the School Committee be invited to appear before the Council. Voted.

Mr. Burke said a minority has certain rights. At the last meeting of the City Council I heard a member state that the member who voted in the minority was the new member and it was his first meeting and he had not previously examined the plans. He should have stated facts. I studied those plans, and the position I took was for the best interest of the city. I did not know any member of the City Council was committed to any plan but had been informed by Councilman Whiton that sixteen members would vote for the Gould plans. (Councilman Whiton—That's false) I compared the two plans I found the area in the Wright more than in the Gould, and that the Wright would seat more pupils. On the Wright plan the work can be done without interrupting the schools. The Gould plan can not be done in the ten weeks' vacation.

The motion of the minority was then put and declared not a vote. Vote doubted.

The motion was again put and the minority report was adopted by a vote of 12 to 9 as follows:

YES—Nickerson, Reardon, Johnson, Thompson, Smith, Bass, Adams, Walsh, Piper, Diack, Loud, Hughes—12.

NO—Cleverly, Hardwick, Whiton, Nichols, Polk, McFarland, Langelier, Hadlock, Gassett—9.

WOMAN'S WORLD

MISS EVA SMITHWICK.

A Clever Young Woman In the Government's Secret Service.

Miss Eva Smithwick of New Albany, Ind., is a bright and courageous young woman who draws a good salary from Uncle Sam. Miss Smithwick is the youngest and considered by many the most clever of the women secret service operatives in the employment of the government.

For several years Miss Smithwick has been attached to the postal department as a secret service agent, and almost all her work has been confined to investigating postal frauds. She helped untangle the snarl in which the Cuban postal affairs became involved during the administration of the island by

MISS EVA SMITHWICK.

United States officials, and her efforts were the means of fixing the guilt on the chief culprits.

Miss Smithwick is only twenty-three years old and entered the employ of the government before she attained her majority. She is very reticent in regard to her work and the experiences which she has had. She is a clever conversationalist and prepossessing in appearance.

Miss Smithwick has courage, and her friends tell how one man after discovering too late that he had been betraying himself to a detective thrust a revolver in her face and demanded a promise that she would not repeat what he had told her. Though she knew the man was desperate, the girl refused to make the promise either under the threat of death or the tearful entreaties to which he afterward resorted.

On other occasions she has had narrow escapes from violence, but Miss Smithwick says she is not afraid, for her conscience is clear, and no innocent man has ever suffered from her efforts.

Comfort With Economy.

It is a pity that so many women "shy" at the word economy—those, at least, who are well provided with this world's goods—and that merely because they choose to think it synonymous with stinting, though this is not the real meaning of the word. In the same way plenty is often looked upon as waste, yet there is a vast difference between the two, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

There is an almost incredible amount of waste that goes on even in the best regulated households, where the mistress and servants have not set their minds on fighting against it; waste, not always willful, certainly, or likely to cause the favored ones any serious discrepancy in the year's total, though it is never desirable, and becomes a positive danger for such as have to reckon their weekly expenses pretty closely.

For every housewife, of high or low degree, there is a duty which should stand pre-eminent—viz, that of checking waste in order to provide her establishment with the maximum of comfort with economy, that economy which implies order, regularity, cleanliness and daintiness, according to her means, and without allowing or countenancing carelessless and indifference, which often go a long way to make everybody discontented, while they materially increase the difficulties of home bookkeeping.

A Household Truck.

A household convenience worth many times its cost in saving carpets and floors and avoiding rasped door castings and bruised fingers is a little truck for moving heavy stoves, bureaus, etc. Probably the cheapest form is one with four heavy swivel casters for wheels; all the rest can be built at home. The size and strength of the platform will depend upon the use to which it is to be put. A convenient size is 2 by 2½ feet. The platform should be at least one and one-half inch thick, sound spruce or hemlock being preferable to oak or other hard and slippery wood. About three inches from each end spike or bolt crosspieces of 3 by 3 joist. In these set the casters, dividing the space evenly. Get heavy and easily working casters and oil the bearings before using, so that turns may be made readily. Some prefer a truck built like a miniature low down wagon, drawn by a handle attached to the front axle, which turns on a "circle." By looking over the pile of old iron or castoff farm machinery a set of wheels and axles may be found that with a little tinkering will make a suitable running gear for one of these little wagons.

Entertaining Guests.

Hints are often given to those who wish to be agreeable guests, but it is even more important to know how to be a charming hostess. You are responsible in some degree for the happiness of your visitors from the time they enter your house until they leave it. In the first place have the guest's room in readiness before she comes. Put a few interesting books on the table and some writing materials, including note paper, stamps, pen and ink. Have a few fresh flowers on the bureau, an armchair by the pleasantest window, and do not forget a pretty reading lamp. Try to make the room show your guest that she was expected and that her coming was looked forward to with pleasure. It is not in the finest houses or in the gayest places that guests always enjoy themselves the most. You must have something better than costly furnished rooms or all the sights of a great city to make your home attractive and pleasant. It is a very low grade of hospitality which trusts in good dinners and fine houses alone. It must be a more subtle charm than either of these which will make your house a home to your friends.

Women Must Make Up.

Men are fickle, and children are selfish, and the woman who wants to keep her hold on them must make up—make up well and make up all the time. She may not be fashionable, but she can be stylish. She can dress her hair so as to make the most of her face, wear a color that will harmonize with her complexion, have new dresses even though they have to be made of fifteen cent challie and keep herself as exquisite as a pink. Many neat women are nightmares. They choose unbecoming colors and ugly styles, wear wrappers and sacks that give them clownish figures, drag their hair back drumhead fashion and go about slipshod. Coquetry is not only woman's prerogative, but her duty. She owes it to society to wear pretty things.

May a Woman Tell Her Love?

It is true it is unconventional for a woman to tell a man that she loves him unless the man has persuaded her to make such confession, but is there any good reason why a woman should not take the initiative? Is she any less a woman for doing so? A shy and timid man may not know how to tell a woman that he loves her. Should the woman who is of firmer faith and stronger mind stand halting and waiting for a confession that may never come? Why should she suffer in silence? By so doing may not she lose the man who loves her and also the happiness of a lifetime as well?

Restful Simplicity.

A new house which has just been erected in a western city is an example of modern simplicity in the way of decoration. Beauty of colors in carpets and wall paper has been sought and beauty of line in furniture, but there is very little of what we call bric-a-brac, and in some of the rooms there are no pictures, but plaster casts above the mantels and in the larger wall spaces. It is a relief to go into uncluttered rooms and have a chance to think or read without the distraction of pictures and chinaware.

Washstand Mats.

Very pretty and inexpensive washstand mats can be made from colored cloth with a deep crochet border. This can be either white or a color harmonizing with the room decorations. Pretty ones are also made from squares of colored bath toweling and canvas with a deep scalloped bordering. All these mats are easily washed and, if the washstand be a wooden one, prevent the almost unavoidable marks made by the basin.

Changes of Clothing.

One should use scientific methods in the changes of clothing, both in regard to time of the year and to changes of temperature. The clothing should be lessened and increased according to the reading of the thermometer and according to the conditions of the weather, whether it be hot or dry, cold or wet, let the month be July or January. —Delineator.

Cooking Eggs.

Eggs for children and invalids should never be really boiled, but cooked in this way: Wait until the water is boiling very fast, put in the eggs and at once move the saucepan back to a cool part of the stove. In five minutes they will be just nicely set and much more easily digested than if boiled.

A Curtain Suggestion.

In a north room, where all the light is needed, or in any room where the outlook is not to be concealed try hanging the muslin curtains straight. Do not buy the regulation ruffled muslin curtains, but for each window buy five yards of white curtain muslin, either dotted, figured or striped.

Silk Stockings.

Silk stockings, to be made to look their best, should be washed in bran water without soap. Allow two heaped tablespoonfuls of bran to a quart of water, boil for five minutes, strain, and when so cool that you can comfortably bear your hand in it it is right for the stockings.

The nails should be the color of a rose leaf and as clear as a seashell. Mother of pearl, if it were a little rosier, would about describe the texture of the ideal nail.

When mixing beeswax and turpentine for floor polish add a little spirits of ammonia, and the wax will dissolve without heating.

Olive oil must be kept in the driest and darkest place in the storeroom, as light injures it very much.

There is nothing that so much enhances the charm of a beautiful face as culture of the mind.

CONFERENCE WITH HAY

Panama's Envoy Will Conduct Canal Negotiations

INDEPENDENCE OF ISTHMUS

Changes Status of Colombia So We Cannot Recognize Her as Having Any Control Over Canal Rights—Populace of Bogota Excited

Washington, Nov. 12.—An important conference was held yesterday afternoon between Secretary Hay and Mr. Bunau-Varilla, the envoy from Panama, at the residence of the secretary, for the purpose of considering the opening of negotiations with the republic of Panama for the early conclusion of a canal treaty. The commission which is coming from Panama, the envoy pointed out, is merely for the purpose of facilitating the negotiations. Bunau-Varilla, it is said, has full power to conduct the negotiations, but in case a question arises on which the opinion of the government is desired, he will refer it to the commission for decision, and thus avoid the necessity of cabling to Panama.

When Bunau-Varilla returned from his conference with Secretary Hay he said that he would be received by the president at the White House on Friday as minister plenipotentiary and envoy extraordinary of the republic of Panama to the United States. This hour, he said, will mark the passing of the de facto government to a de jure stage. Bunau-Varilla first will call at the state department on Secretary Hay, who will accompany him to the White House and make the presentation. These details were arranged at the conference.

Bunau-Varilla announced that he would cable his government advising that it decline to allow General Reyes to land unless he bore full credentials as Colombia's minister plenipotentiary and envoy extraordinary to the republic of Panama.

The state department has decided to request the authorities at Panama to receive General Reyes, who is going to the isthmus on a peace mission from Bogota. It is estimated that he cannot reach his destination within two weeks.

It is stated here on authority that it is too late for Colombia to make any effort to resurrect the canal treaty with the United States, and beyond preventing a hostile clash between Colombia and the new republic of Panama, the proposed visit of General Reyes to Panama will be without result. The same authority points out that the United States government, having recognized Panama as an independent state, cannot now proceed to negotiate with Colombia on any terms for canal rights in a state over which Colombia exercises no political control, so any future canal negotiations will be between the United States government and the government of Panama.

The state department has received a cablegram from United States Minister Beaupre, at Bogota, dated Nov. 9, in which the minister states that large crowds were parading the streets on the 8th instant, crying "Down with Marroquin!" There was a mass meeting denouncing the president and calling for a change of government. Hundreds gathered at the palace, and the orator, a prominent national general, called for the resignation of the president. The gathering was dispersed by the troops, several people being wounded, but there were no fatalities. The city was under martial law and well guarded by soldiers. The legation of the United States was under the protection of the government, but there were no indications of hostile demonstrations.

The state department has been informed that the two British steamships which were detained at the port of Buena Ventura by the Colombian government with the intention of using them to transport troops to the isthmus have been released and have left that port.

The British government knew nothing of the detention of these British vessels until notified by the state department through the embassy here. It was the intention of the navy department to have the Colombian authorities informed that no troops could be landed on the isthmus from these vessels, but their release and departure from Buena Ventura without troops made this course unnecessary.

The state department has received a cablegram from Ambassador Porter at Paris, saying that the sympathies of the French people are with the Panama republic.

Blizzard In the Far West

Salt Lake City, Nov. 12.—The whole Pacific coast, from British Columbia to Southern California, and the states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Wyoming, Utah and western Colorado were swept by a storm that has resulted in almost total prostration of telegraphic service over that territory and in the mountains has all but tied up the railroads in a regular mid-winter blockade. The storm is still raging with unabated fury.

Five Passengers Were Killed

Erie, Pa., Nov. 12.—Five people were instantly killed and several badly injured, two fatally, in an accident near McKean last night, caused by the brakes on a car of gravel becoming loose and allowing it to run out from a side track to the main track, where it met and almost crashed through a passenger car which was filled with people.

CHARGE OF BIGAMY

Against Man Who Appeared to Be Anxious For a Second Wife

Boston, Nov. 12.—On a warrant charging bigamy, Asa H. Josselyn is under arrest. Josselyn was, until last Monday, third assistant keeper of the lighthouse on Thatcher's island. The complainant in the case is his wife, Mrs. Linda W. Josselyn.

A week ago last Monday Josselyn's wife disappeared from her home on Thatcher's island. Two days after the woman's disappearance Josselyn caused a notice of her death to be inserted in a paper published in Rockport, the town nearest the island.

A few days later Josselyn took Mrs. Cora Trommer of North Scituate out to the island as his housekeeper, but as the other residents of the island objected to her presence among them Josselyn brought her to Boston on Monday. On the same day he married Mrs. Trommer, the ceremony being performed at the Baptist tabernacle in this city. The marriage license was issued in Rockport.

On Tuesday, the day after Josselyn's marriage to Mrs. Trommer, the wife who disappeared so mysteriously the week before turned up alive and well. She had been aided by friends in her escape from Thatcher's island and had been living in seclusion at the home of one of her sisters in Wakefield.

Josselyn was arrested at the home of his mother. Soon after being arrested Josselyn was released on bail, his mother furnishing sureties in the sum of $2000.

Wanted Their Own Flag Taken Down

Trenton, Nov. 12.—The residence of Dr. Scarlata, Italian consul in this city, was attacked by a number of Italians and stoned and the doctor himself was threatened with bodily harm. The occasion of the assault was the displaying in front of the doctor's residence of an Italian flag in commemoration of some Italian national event. A policeman advised the consul to take down the flag for the sake of peace, but the consul refused. The policeman himself then took down the flag and the crowd dispersed. Subsequently Dr. Scarlata again put up the flag, but there was no further trouble.

Frenchmen Offer Us a Gift

Washington, Nov. 12.—Secretary Hay has received, through Ambassador Porter, a letter asking him to accept, on behalf of the government, a marble bust of Washington to replace the one presented, which burned in the fire which destroyed the library of congress Dec. 24, 1851. The bust now offered is modelled upon an original plaster cast by David de Angers, the French sculptor. The would-be donors are citizens of France who are bound to this country by ties of friendship or historical connections which they would thus strengthen.

Hurt Army Officers' Feelings

Berlin, Nov. 12.—The military court at Metz sentenced Lieutenant Bilsen, author of the book entitled "A Little Garrison," to six months in prison and to dismissal from the army. Bilsen's book, which consists of 270 pages, relates incidents of the abuse of soldiers, tells of alleged actions discreditable to officers and brings local families in Forbach whose identities are only slightly veiled. Several officers of the regiment to which Bilsen belonged are to challenge him to duels.

Show Cattle Will Remain at Home

Toronto, Nov. 12.—Fifty representative livestock men from all associations in the dominion met here last night to discuss the restrictions put on the exportation of show animals to the St. Louis exposition. It was unanimously decided that no Canadian cattle, horses, sheep, swine or poultry would be exhibited.

Dutch Victories Indicated

Cape Town, Nov. 12.—Elections for members of the legislative council passed off quietly. The elections were the first trial of strength since the war in South Africa between the progressives, or British, and the Bondites, or Dutch. The indications are that the Bondites will be victorious.

Mourning For Dead Students

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 12.—Memorial services were held at Purdue university in honor of the 14 students who lost their lives in the wreck of a special train at Indianapolis. The courts adjourned and business throughout the city was generally suspended. The exercises occupied the entire day.

An Unnecessary Seizure

St. John, Nov. 12.—Acting Collector of Customs Matthews, being asked relative to the seizure of Masonic regalia said to have been brought here without payment of duty, said the seizure had been revoked and should never have been made. Further than this he would say nothing.

ANTRIM UP IN ARMS

Citizens Demand That Their Names Be Removed From Liquor Blacklist

Antrim, N. H., Nov. 12.—A large number of the residents of Antrim have united in a movement to have their names removed from the liquor blacklist which was posted last week in a hotel at Hillsboro Bridge by former Governor Goodell of this town.

The ex-governor's action created much opposition, and as a result 147 of the 410 persons whose names were used have presented a formal demand to Mr. Godell that they be removed from the blacklist.

Mr. Goodell says: "I have received the paper demanding the withdrawal of the names, but have determined upon no definite action as yet. I can see no reason for a change in the position originally taken by me in the matter, and shall make none until further consideration has been given. I am much surprised and disappointed that the people here feel that they have been misused by me. I can't see yet how it was possible to come to any such conclusion."

Merchant Caught Robbing Store

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 12.—James S. Reardon, a hitherto reputable business man, was arrested in the very act of burglary. Reardon was arraigned before Judge Almy, charged with breaking and entering, pleaded guilty and was held for the December grand jury in $300. Reardon has for six years conducted an apparently prosperous dry goods business at 693 Massachusetts avenue. He was caught in a drug store, next door to his place of business, with 565 cigars, three bottles of brandy, three boxes of candy and about $6 in small change in his possession. The drug store had been entered through a window.

For International Labor Alliance

Boston, Nov. 12.—Mayor Collins last night entertained the delegates to the convention of the American Federation of Labor at a banquet in Faneuil hall. The plan for an international labor confederation was yesterday greeted with great enthusiasm by the entire convention. This international alliance was proposed by James O'Grady, fraternal delegate to the Federation from Great Britain, who urged that the laboring element in England and America work together in harmony.

Salem Gets Fair Warning

Salem, Mass., Nov. 12.—Mayor Petersen has received notification from the attorney general's office to the effect that the governor, as commander-in-chief of the militia, has reported that the city of Salem has failed to furnish a suitable armory for company H of the Eighth infantry in violation of the law. The communication adds that unless some arrangement is speedily made for suitable quarters action will be taken under the statute providing therefor.

Union Men Not Wanted In Shops

Southbridge, Mass., Nov. 12.—The condition in the labor trouble in this town, where five concerns locked out their employes who will not renounce the union, remains practically unchanged. Many Quincy people, two or three miles from the shipyard were disturbed by the forge at the shipyard last night about 11 o'clock.

The steamer Massachusetts formerly of the Fall River line was burned Wednesday on the Weymouth shores of Fore river. It illuminated the sky so that it was seen for miles, and many thought there was a conflagration at Weymouth.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Dorchester Mutual Fire Insurance Company held on Tuesday, Clarence Burgin of Quincy, was elected a member of the Board of Directors, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Elias A. Perkins.

NOTED FINANCIER'S NERVE

Accidents In Which William L. Elkins Displayed Great Fortitude.

The late William L. Elkins of Philadelphia, millionaire traction magnate and financier, was a great judge and admirer of horseflesh and a superb rider, says the Philadelphia Press. Three times horses had nearly been the death of him. When his country residence was at Cold Spring, Pa., some years ago he was accustomed to drive out there from Philadelphia after office hours. On one occasion his horse ran away, threw him out of his carriage, and he was left stunned and bleeding on the roadside.

Mr. Elkins was always noted for the possession of great nerve and resolution. Upon this occasion when he recovered from the shock he determined to walk straight home, two miles distant, although there were a number of farmhouses near the road intervening. Not only this, but, although in great pain, he picked up a number of articles which had dropped from the carriage and carried them with him.

Upon his arrival it was found that his shoulder had been dislocated, four ribs had been broken and that he had sustained other injuries. When the surgeon was about to administer anæsthetics he declined to have the drug used and submitted without a groan to the painful series of operations.

His third accident was the result of a horse's fright. He was elected in 1879 by city councils of Philadelphia as a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

Soon after his election by councils he paid a visit, in company with President Scott and other directors, to Grand Rapids. The party was being driven in carriages to the station. With Mr. Elkins were Mr. Thaw and Mr. Parker Shortridge, a director of the company. The horses became frightened and began to run. Mr. Thaw jumped out and escaped uninjured. Mr. Elkins was thrown violently into the road as the horses made a wild dash around a bend. He fell with one of his legs doubled under him, with the weight of his heavy body upon it. The result was a compound fracture of the hip bone.

In connection with this curious accident Mr. Elkins displayed two marked traits of his character—great resolution and fortitude and his love of home. He asked to be sent to his wife at Philadelphia at once. The surgeon who had set the broken limb in a plaster cast said that the journey would probably kill him, but he insisted, and Colonel Scott had a special car prepared for him. When his son, George W. Elkins, met him at the old Pennsylvania railroad station at Thirty-second and Market streets he was in a low condition. At that time Market street was paved with cobble. The journey to the house over these rough stones proved to be the most trying of the entire trip from Grand Rapids, but once at home he said that he felt repaid for all that he had undertaken.

INFORMATION FOR MOSELY.

Country Schoolboy's View of What Americans Can Do to John Bull.

The members of the Mosely educational commission visited a typical "deestrick school" at Palos, Ill., the other day, and through their desire to have the pupils questioned gained some decidedly unwelcome information, says the Chicago News. The following dialogue tells the story:

The boy in the third seat back, what's your name? Richard O'Connell.

You have studied history? What did we have in 1776? The Revolution.

Against whom was it? The British redcoats.

What did we do to them? We licked 'em.

Did we ever have any more trouble with them? Yes, in 1812. We licked them again.

If we ever had any more trouble with them would we lick them? You bet.

At this point one of the commissioners lost patience and remarked to his disgusted colleagues:

"How perfectly ridiculous to teach a child a thing like that!"

New Fashion In Dog Collars.

Every year the fashion in dog collars changes. No longer do we see the bristling objects that resembled ruffs. The newest collar is modest and is adapted to Boston terriers and other medium sized dogs, says the New York Press. The foundation is a fine seal leather, and the collar is studded with dog's heads in gun metal. The new collars are not nearly so "sporty" looking as the brass studded bands of former years. Tiny dogs wear jeweled collars.

Odd Wedding Presents.

Harry Broadwater, one of the popular letter carriers of Woodbury, N. J., and Miss Mattie Wallace were married a few evenings ago. While the bride was the recipient of many very handsome presents, the groom was not overlooked. Among his gifts were a pair of sweet singing canaries, a kitten and a little white pig nicely decorated with pink ribbons. He shipped the latter to a near by farm and hopes to get plenty of pork.

The Turning Leaves.

The turning leaves! Sweet nature's witchery
Is now upon the woods, and every tree
Seems glad, decked out in crimson and in gold.
Each sylvan wilderness doth now unfold
Its wealth of color—autumn's pageantry.

Go forth beneath the sunlit skies, all ye
Who love November's glow; go forth and see
How nature colors as the year grows old
The turning leaves.

Alas, these glories cannot come to me!
Oppressed with work, from business never free,
Here in huge ledgers, dank with dust and mold,
I keep accounts which page by page unfold;
In sooth I get no pleasure when I see
The turning leaves.

--Francis H. Lee in New York Times.

ODD LADIES' FAIR.

The New Lodge Has a Large Gathering at Malnati Hall.

The Independent Order of Odd Ladies, a comparatively new fraternal order of ladies, were in the bustle and excitement at Malnati hall, Wednesday evening at the opening of a fair.

Last February a number of thinking up-to-date ladies in this section decided that a new insurance society was necessary, and acting upon their resolutions instituted the Loyal Pride of Granite lodge No. 30, I. O. O. F., M. U.

To found a new lodge and put it upon a solid financial basis needs money, and a fair with all the inducements to make people part with loose change was hit upon. That the intrepid ladies had plannned and worked well was abundantly evident.

The hall was beautifully decorated, and around the floor were tables covered with many sorts of fancy and useful articles, such as are needed in nice homes. At one large table, fruit, candy and refreshments could be had from Miss McCue and Miss McLaughlan, who counted it an honor to serve all who might buy.

Other tables were presided over by Mrs. G. Collins, Mrs. M. Thomas and Mrs. A. Spargo, P. N. G.

Wilbert Williams, P. P. J. M., of Chelsea, with other officers of the I. O. O. F., in a formal manner, opened the fair, and spoke of the benefits to be derived from the society.

Forza's orchestra was in attendance and rendered some fine pieces in good style. A graphophone was also the source of much interest and amusement.

Mrs. C. Boutin, N. G., was present and gave general directions to the proceedings.

HOME TEAMS WIN.

The Old Colony Bowling league opened its series Wednesday evening. Two games were played, one at Quincy and one at East Weymouth. The game in Quincy was between the Quincys and Weymouths and was won by the former. The game at East Weymouth between the East Weymouths and Quincy Points, resulted in a victory for the East Weymouths.

Insured for $2,000,000

L. Rodman Wanamaker, son of John Wanamaker, the eminent merchant of New York and Philadelphia, has taken out a policy in for $1,000,000, paying an annual premium of over $30,000. This makes him the most heavily insured man in the world, with the single exception of King Edward VII.

The Prudential Insurance Co.

Mr Wanamaker's total insurance is now $4,000,000.

Ask yourself WHY Mr. Wanamaker placed one-half this great amount with The Prudential.

Your business judgment will at once reply: "Because after full investigation and comparison, Mr. Wanamaker found that the company which could give him the best insurance for a given amount of money was The Prudential."

Undoubtedly you will agree that Mr. Wanamaker does not pay over $30,000 per year except for most excellent reasons.

These reasons apply to YOU precisely as well as they do to HIM.

WILD TIMES.

Cars Wrecked by Rioters on Street.

Probably No One Was Killed.

But Many Were Seriously Injured in the Assaults.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Constant scenes of disorder over a district approximately 50 square miles in extent resulted from the inauguration of a strike by the employes of one of the two principal surface street railways in Chicago. All along the lines wherever cars were started strike sympathizers made desperate onslaughts on the crews, beginning at dawn of day and continuing as long as cars remained on the tracks. The tie-up was made complete.

A number of cars were wrecked and that no person was killed is no fault of the rioters. One man had his back broken and the first shot of the strike was fired on Wentworth avenue, where a mob of several hundred persons tried to hold up a train.

Many persons, chiefly non-union street car men, were injured by flying stones or splintered glass. Two women were among those hurt.

Excepting a few dozen passengers who had to flee fom the cars, the 300,000 daily patrons of the company were forced to all sorts of other methods to get down town and back.

With faces and hands bleeding from the attacks of the strikers, motormen, gripmen and conductors who tried to run trains returned to the barns and refused to go out again unless the trains bore platoons of police or patrol wagons were alongside.

The police confined their efforts to seeing that the passage of cars from the barns was unobstructed and that crowds and blockades in the streets were quickly cleared. This was done under orders from Mayor Harrison, whose announced purpose was to preserve an impartial attitude, taking sides neither for nor against the strikers or the street car company, which, though known as the Chicago City railway, is a private corporation, the lines of which extend through the south side of the city, radiating from the business centre. Herman F. Schuettler was appointed assistant chief of police and he will have charge of the police during the strike. Schuettler has a remarkable record for personal daring and astuteness.

Possibilities of federal intervention under certain contingencies are being discussed. Postmaster Coyne says that if the mail cars are seriously delayed he will report the matter to Washington and act on instructions from the postal department.

Before nightfall President Hamilton and General Counsel Bliss of the railway company, after endeavoring to operate cars in defiance of the strike of its trainmen, announced after a conference with Mayor Harrison that the attempt would be abandoned for the day. The railway officials declare that 30 percent of their employes are loyal and that if accorded sufficient protection by the police department they will be able to man and operate their cars.

Bus lines, hacks and express wagons with improvised seats did a thriving business in transporting people to and from their places of business and the elevated and steam roads carried double their usual number of passengers.

The company's stationary firemen, who have also presented demands upon the company for increased wages, and to whom the trainmen looked for assistance, declined to go out, expressing their belief, after a conference with General Manager McCulloch of the railway company, that he had not refused arbitration. The committee representing the firemen offered its services to the company as mediator. Whether or not the offer will be accepted has not been decided.

Pastor Installed at Water Street Church.

REV. SPROULE.

Has Sympathy and Support of the Presbyterians.

Sermon by Dr. Todd His Predecessor.

Rev. J. J. Dunlap and Rev. A. D. MacKinnon Take Part.

There was a splendid gathering of men, women and children Thursday evening in the First Presbyterian church to witness the installation of the new pastor, the Rev. N. J. Sproule. It is evident that he begins his work in Quincy with the full sympathy and support of his people.

After some spirited singing by the choir and congregation, the Rev. James Todd preached a sermon on the necessary equipment of a Christian worker. The charge to the pastor was given by the Rev. J. J. Dunlap of Roxbury, who had been a fellow student of Mr. Sproule at Princeton Seminary. He gave such advice to the new pastor as his own experiences suggested, and laid much stress on the value of tact.

Mr. Dunlap was followed by the Rev. Alexander D. MacKinnon of Boston, a graduate of Queen's University, where Mr. Sproule received his academic training. Mr. MacKinnon's address was in the nature of a charge to the congregation. He pointed out to them how they might discourage and hinder their pastor, and also how they could cooperate with him in his work so as to get the best results.

The benediction was pronounced by Mr. Sproule, after which he held an informal reception. The Rev. F. N. Hardy, the pastor of Bethany Congregational church, was among those present.

The Rev. Mr. Sproule was born in Ontario July 31, 1868, a son of Nathaniel and the late Elizabeth J. Sproule. At the Orangeville Collegiate Institute he prepared for college, and in 1886 entered Queen's College from which he was graduated in 1890. He was graduated from Princeton Seminary in 1893. During his last two years at the seminary Mr. Sproule took a post-graduate course in Princeton University in connection with his studies at the seminary, and he received the degree of M. A. from that institution.

Before graduating from the seminary Mr. Sproule received a call to the First Presbyterian Church at Englishtown, N. J. He at once accepted the call and supplied the pulpit until he completed his studies, and then he was installed as pastor. His ministry over this church continued until the fall of 1900, when he resigned. While there the membership of the church was increased twofold, a large debt was liquidated and a new chapel was erected and dedicated free of debt.

Next he held a pastorate at Dunellen, N. J., until called to Quincy. During his pastorate a large debt was paid off.

Mr. Sproule was married April 4, 1894, to Miss Josephine Wright. They have three children. Mrs. Sproule is a graduate of Queen's college.

LAVISH SPENDER OF MONEY

Woman Traveling on Special Car Exhibits Remarkable Generosity.

Citizens of Muncie, Ind., and employees of the Big Four railroad were perplexed over the actions of a woman who passed through Muncie the other night in a special car attached to the Big Four train, says an Indianapolis dispatch. She said she was en route from New York, where she lived, to California to spend the winter. She gave her name as Miss Williams to some persons whom she met in the dining car, but said nothing of herself further than this.

Miss Williams is the most lavish spender of money that the employees of the road ever came in contact with, and she insisted on paying for many of the dishes which she ordered for others at the table. She soon had the reputation of being a millionaire, and she sustained it by tipping the trainmen, from conductor to porter, with sums ranging from $5 to $25.

At Muncie she noticed a large number of persons standing on the platform when the supper gong rang, and she gave the porter a roll of notes and told him to have all the people fed bountifully at her expense.

Freezing Children to Death.

A singular case of baby farming is reported from Hungary. A married couple, having no children of their own, undertook to take care of those of others. These mostly died, apparently from natural causes. Eventually the wife ran away with a neighbor, and the husband in revenge informed the police that they used to place the children in an ice cave, where exposure to the cold killed them. The wife has been tracked by the police, and she and her husband have been imprisoned.

AGREEMENT ON CUBA

Introduction of Bill Making Treaty Effective

NO CHANGE IN FREE LIST

Other Articles From Cuba Get Twenty Percent Reduction, Based Upon Present or Any New Tariff—Given to Ways and Means Committee

Washington, Nov. 13.—Yesterday afternoon's proceedings in the house were characterized by a spirit of frivolity, indicating the restiveness of the members during a session for which the program is so completely marked out by the organization's leaders. It is proposed to give the most of next week to debate, which will begin on Monday. This will not only permit everybody to "blow off steam," but will give a certain substance to the present extraordinary session, dignifying the place of the house in legislation. The fight, if there is one, will come over the adoption of a rule cutting off amendments, such as that for the removal of the differential duty on refined sugar. This is where the fight came before, and the leaders lost through a combination of Democrats and beet sugar Republicans. This time the Democrats will vote against the rule as a matter of opposition policy whatever their attitude toward the differential amendment, which will be determined doubtless at a caucus Saturday evening. Very few Republicans will join them this time, and what the administration leaders now most fear is absenteeism. Republican whips are busy keeping their lines in readiness for the contest. If they should lose on the rule it is by no means certain that the differential amendment will be adopted. The outlook continues exceedingly favorable.

Mr. Payne introduced a bill making effective the Cuban reciprocity treaty. The measure was referred to the ways and means committee. The following are the main provisions of the measure:

That whenever the President of the United States shall receive satisfactory evidence that the republic of Cuba has made provision to give full effect to the articles of the convention between the United States and the republic of Cuba, signed Dec. 11, 1902, he is hereby authorized to issue his proclamation declaring that he has received such evidence and thereupon on the 10th day after exchange of ratifications of such convention between the United States and the republic of Cuba, and so long as the said convention shall remain in force, all articles of merchandise being the product of the soil or industry of the republic of Cuba, which are now imported into the United States free of duty, shall continue to be so admitted free of duty, and all other articles of merchandise being the product of the soil or industry of the republic of Cuba imported into the United States shall be admitted at a reduction of 20 percentum of the rates of duty thereon, as provided by the tariff act of the United States approved July 24, 1897, or as may be provided by any tariff law of the United States subsequently enacted.

The rates of duty herein granted by the United States to the republic of Cuba are and shall continue during the term of said convention preferential in respect to all like imports from other countries: Provided, that while said convention is in force no sugar imported from the republic of Cuba shall be admitted into the United States at a reduction of duty greater than 20 percentum of the rates of duty thereon as provided by the tariff act of the United States approved July 24, 1897, and no sugar, the product of any other foreign country, shall be admitted by treaty or convention into the United States, while this convention is in force, at a lower rate of duty than that provided by the tariff act of the United States approved July 24, 1897, and provided further that nothing herein contained shall be held or construed as an admission on the part of the house of representatives that customs duties can be changed otherwise than by an act of congress, originating in said house.

A second section provides that efforts to prevent fraud in declarations that the goods are the product of Cuba shall impose no additional charge on the articles imported; that the consular fees shall not be higher than those charged on similar merchandise from other nations; that articles from Cuba shall receive treatment equal to that which similar articles from the United States shall receive when imported into Cuba, and that charges on Cuban goods held in bond in the United States shall be imposed without discrimination whencesoever imported.

Mr. Payne's bill, without objection, was read by title and referred to the committee on ways and means. Mr. Payne having moved to adjourn, Mr. Williams of Mississippi inquired if he was ready to announce the program of the majority. Mr. Payne said a meeting of the ways and means committee would be called today and he hoped to report the bill to the house today. Mr. Williams, making further inquiry as to the time that is to be allowed for debate, Mr. Payne stated that a conference would be held with the minority leaders today to discuss that question.

Combine to Oppose Combine

Vienna, Nov. 13.—The Neuse Tageblatt says that all the European petroleum concerns are negotiating with the object of forming a combination to oppose the Standard Oil company.

CARVING THE TURKEY.

How to Dissect the Succulent Holiday Fowl.

If there is one person at the annual Christmas feast who is not really and truly happy it is he to whom is intrusted the important task of carving the turkey. For the benefit of those who are called upon to prepare the turkey for the plates of the feasters a few words of advice are always acceptable.

And first and all important is the admonition to secure a tender bird and a sharp knife, for upon these two considerations depend the peace of mind and the success of the carver. Incidentally it is an excellent thing to have the guests engaged in active conversation, because no matter how skillful the carver he will surely be handicapped if the moment required for his task is marked by silence on the part of those about the board.

Once the conditions made favorable the carver grasps the fork in his left hand and places it in the breast of the turkey. Then the knife, held in the right hand, is laid parallel with and close to the neck just above where the left wing is joined to the body. The knife is brought down with a sweep, and the joint is disconnected. The carver continues the stroke downward and separates the leg and then the second joint from the carcass. This operation is repeated on the members of the right side of the fowl.

The next task and one which seems comparatively simple is the slicing of the breast meat. The slices should be made parallel to the breast bone so as to follow the grain of the meat. The meat appears far more palatable when so cut. After slicing off the breast meat the wishbone is removed by slipping the knife under the point of the bone and sweeping it downward toward the neck.

The stroke which for ordinary sized families is generally the last is that which is taken upward from the "pope's nose" so as to catch the "oyster bone." This stroke reveals the stuffing, which can be sliced off easily. And with the service of this the carver lays aside knife and fork, happy because of the successful accomplishment of a difficult task.

How to Prevent Christmas Tree Fires.

People cannot be too careful in guarding against fire when trimming a Christmas tree, says a writer in Good Housekeeping. There have been scores of Christmas tree fatalities in homes and in Sunday schools which very little care might have prevented. The writer once set a tree in a blaze, consuming nearly half of it, tinsel ornaments going with the green branches. A tiny candle had been wired too high, and it took only a few minutes of its brisk heat to char a branch above it and start a flame. A thick portiere was torn from its pole and thrown over the blaze. If it had not been at hand, the light window curtains in another minute would have caught fire. Since that Christmas our tree has always been placed in the center of the room, and we have eschewed cotton wool, tissue paper angels and celluloid ornaments. First of all, we wire each candle securely in place at the farthest end of a branch which has nothing above it, either fir tree or trimming. Then as the tree is denuded we watch carefully the fast disappearing candles. Sometimes one of them, nearly burned down, will topple over or be merely a spark of flame, but near to something inflammable, and be a menace.

How to Make Scotch Short Bread.

Many people either buy or make Scotch short bread during the holidays. It is exceedingly difficult to make properly. The Scotch housewife remembers the proportions as follows: "A quarter, a half, a pound," by which she means one-quarter of a pound of granulated sugar, one-half pound of butter and one pound of sifted flour, but as a matter of fact a little more sugar is required, at least five ounces. These ingredients must be thoroughly mixed and kneaded on a board like bread, then rolled out about an inch thick, the edges crinkled or ornamented in the same manner as pie crust and baked in a slow oven. Sometimes seed candies, white and red, or strips of citron are used for making an ornamental pattern on the cake.

How to Make Cocoanut Cream Candy.

Put two teaspoonfuls of butter in an agate pan. When melted, add half a cup of milk and one and one-half cupfuls of sugar; stir until sugar is dissolved. Bring to the boil and boil about twelve minutes. Remove from the fire. Add one-half cup of shredded cocoanut and half a teaspoonful of vanilla; then beat until creamy and mixture begins to sugar slightly around edge of pan. Pour into a buttered pan, cool slightly and mark in squares. Broken nut meats may be used instead of cocoanut.

How to Prepare Sweet Potato Sweets.

A truly delicious way to serve sweet potatoes is to prepare them in the following manner: Slice cold boiled sweet potatoes in half. Sprinkle with salt, a little pepper and a perfect deluge of sugar. Fry in a pan of hot grease, liberally spreading sugar on the upward side. Turn and brown, cooking slowly. When taken out the sugar should have cooked to candy, which will string from one potato to another when lifted.

How to Make Frozen Fruit Cup.

A frozen fruit cup comes as a pleasant and delicate bit of coolness after the Christmas plum pudding or mince pie. Serve in thin glasses. Fill each about three-fourths up with lemon, orange or raspberry ice and pour over the ice one tablespoonful of kirsch, maraschino, etc. Then arrange very thin slices of banana and malaga grapes, cut in half, seeded and skinned, on the tops.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

A FLOATING LIGHT.

How to Make a Night Lamp Out of a Horse Chestnut.

Boys and girls make many uses of the handsome, big eyed, brown horse chestnut, which falls from its shell at frost time, but it has never occurred to them, perhaps, that it may be turned into a really good night light. Or, if that seems too serious a purpose for them to have in mind in following the directions here given, let them call it a floating lamp and show it to their friends as a curiosity.

Here is the way to make it: Select a nut that is not perfectly round, for you want it to float steadily, and a perfectly round nut cannot be depended on to do that. Having found one of somewhat uneven shape, make holes all over it with the point of a needle and then lay it in lamp oil and let it remain there soaking for ten or twelve hours.

When you take it out of the oil put it in a tumbler nearly full of water and note what part of it remains above the water. Make a mark with a pin on the highest point and, taking it out of the water, bore a hole at that point about one-eighth of an inch in diameter and well down into the nut, but be careful that you do not go entirely through. Twist some cotton thread to make a wick and insert it in the hole, and then you are ready to light your little lamp.

Having placed the nut back in the water, touch a lighted match to the wick, and you will get a flame that will burn for eight or ten hours. It may be used as a night light because it makes a comparatively weak illumination, as a night light is intended to do, and yet it will give light enough to answer all practical purposes.

in any childish games? She was a royal baby, being the Princess Isabella, daughter of Philip IV. of Spain. Are you not glad that the little girls of today are not dressed up in that funny, stiff old style?

A Soap Bubble Party.

Did you ever give a soap bubble party for your little friends? It is very amusing, and this is how you set about it:

Have five rings, made of cardboard and wound round with tissue paper of bright colors, in a doorway, suspended in a row by strings.

Each ring should measure about seven to nine inches across, but they need not all be the same size.

Have ready some bowls of strong soapsuds in which a teaspoonful of glycerin has been dissolved and as many clay pipes as will be needed for yourself and your guests.

The players take turns in blowing their bubbles through the rings, and the one who succeeds in getting the most through without breaking them is declared the winner and gains a prize.

How to Spell Hat.

Richardson is in the primary department this year, having graduated himself from the kindergarten—which he thought "all nonsense"—and convulses us with his learning. The very first day he announced that he had learned to spell hat. When asked to do so he said, "i-c-a." "Oh, no!" I exclaimed. "H-a-t," but he shook his head gravely. "They don't spell it that way now. Perhaps they did when you were a little girl. Why, didn't teacher draw a picture of a hat and tell the class to say, 'I see a hat?'"

A Game of Skill.

Did you ever try throwing cards in a hat? It is great fun. Take an old high hat, place it on the floor, then let the players in turn stand at a distance from it—say ten or twelve feet. Use an ordinary pack of cards and toss them one by one in the hat as far as possible. A prize to him who gets in the greatest number adds to the interest.

After a little practice it is remarkable how skillful one may become.

Good and Bad Children.

Children, you are very little,
And your bones are very brittle;
If you would grow great and stately
You must try to walk sedately.

You must still be bright and quiet
And content with simple diet
And remain through all bewild'ring
Innocent and honest children.

Happy hearts and happy faces,
Happy play in grassy places—
That was how in ancient ages
Children grew to kings and sages.

But the unkind and unruly
They must never hope for glory;
They will never win fame, surely;
Theirs is quite a different story.

Cruel children, crying babies,
All grow up as geese and gabies,
Hated as their age increases
By their nephews and their nieces.

—Robert Louis Stevenson.

GODMOTHER OF PANAMA

United States' Power and Generosity Recognized

REPUBLIC SETTLING DOWN

Nearly All Civil Employes Who Have Taken Oath of Allegiance Are Continued In Office—To Have Army Ample to Resist Any Attack

Colon, Nov. 13.—What most impresses all observers of the present situation on the isthmus of Panama is the complete success of the secession movement and the orderly continuance of affairs since the change of government. All governmental functions have so far been carried on with complete success and the unanimous feeling throughout the district of Panama in favor of the new government is far beyond what its promoters anticipated when making their preparations for the memorable event of Nov. 3.

The successful execution of all the details of the secession plans shows that the work was that of minds masterful in such matters and rarely known in South American revolutions. The municipal and provincial laws and regulations which existed under the government of Colombia have been continued without any practical change. With three or four exceptions all the civil employes of Colon and its neighborhood have taken the oath of allegiance to the new republic and been continued in office, those who refused to take the oath being sent to Savanilla. But for the new uniforms of the volunteer soldiers of the young republic seen on the streets of Colon and the one Panamaian flag flying over the town hall there seems nothing in the daily life of this place to indicate a change of sovereignty.

Porfirio Melendez, the new civil and military governor of Colon, in an interview, expressed his full realization of what Panama owed to the United States, calling that country "the new republic's powerful and generous godmother." General Melendez said:

"Panama will be able to raise between 5000 and 6000 troops, partly armed, in case the necessity arises to resist a Colombian attack, but I do not believe that any such necessity will ever arise."

Regarding the mission of General Reyes, Governor Melendez said: "A telegram has been received by the government of Panama that General Reyes is coming to the isthmus in the hope of saving Colombia's honor and is ready on behalf of the Colombian government to promise Panama all concessions and considerations. The Panama government, however, has answered that unless General Reyes comes ready to recognize the new republic and accredited to it as the Colombian envoy he will not be received."

Governor Melendez further said that he would arrest General Reyes on his arrival here unless he immediately accepted Panama's stipulations. The general is due to arrive at Barranquilla at the end of this week, but Melendez thinks he will not proceed to the isthmus. The governor said it would be impossible for Colombia to send troops overland to the isthmus because of the physical conditions of the country.

It is apparent that United States warships will not permit any movement by sea or armed forces. Governor Melendez tried to send 25 armed men to Porto Bello, but they were stopped by the United States gunboat Nashville and compelled to return. A schooner loaded with Panamaian troops was sent yesterday to Bocasdel Toro, but they went unarmed.

The United States naval authorities on the Colon side of the isthmus have not yet received any official communication saying that the United States has recognized the provisional Panamaian government. Consequently, they cannot treat in any way officially with the Panamaian representatives. The American warships have not yet saluted the flag of the new republic.

Glass Reports All Quiet

Washington, Nov. 13.—Late yesterday afternoon the navy department received a cablegram from Rear Admiral Glass, commanding the naval forces on the isthmus, saying that everything is quiet at Panama, with no sign of any dissatisfaction.

Colombia Shelved Canal Matter

Bogota, Nov. 13.—The sessions of congress have been formally terminated by the executive. The senate did not take up the bill looking to a new treaty for an isthmian canal. Complete calm prevails here.

Morgan Denies Rumors

New York, Nov. 13.—The report that an application has been made for the listing of the Stock Exchange of more United States steel bonds to the value of $15,000,000 is denied at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., as is the report that a big block of the bonds has been sold to a life insurance company.

Sutter Failure Creates Another

Chicago, Nov. 13.—The recent failure of Sutter Bros. is responsible for another tobacco concern, that of Randall & Landfield, seeking relief in the federal court of bankruptcy. The liabilities are given as about $40,000, with assets of an equal amount.

Corea Urged to Open Port

London, Nov. 13.—The Daily Mail's Tokio correspondent says the United States minister at Seoul, Corea, has presented a note urging that Corea speedily open the port of Yongampho.

HEROISM OF SAILORS

Saved the Torpedo Boat Destroyer Lawrence From Destruction

Norfolk, Nov. 13.—A lighted candle left by a workman on a wooden box in the forward compartment of the torpedo boat destroyer Lawrence caused a fire which burned much of the Lawrence's woodwork before it was extinguished by Lieutenant Curtin and some seamen just before the flames reached the magazine in which a quantity of explosive was stored. In their battle against the flames Lieutenant Curtin and five seamen were overcome by the smoke that they lost consciousness after the fight was won and were hurried on board the cruiser Olympia for treatment. Their condition is not serious.

The fire occurred in a stuffy compartment directly adjoining the magazine. The place was filled with a dense smoke that baffled the efforts of the crew and caused them to fall helpless to the steel floor. Time and again Curtin dived into the chamber and emerged with the unconscious form of a seaman in his grasp. After a hurried resuscitation the seaman and his officer would return to the fight, only to again succumb to the smoke. Finally the flames were extinguished and then Curtin was missed. A sailor plunged into the compartment and a second later came out with the limp form of the officer in his arms. Five seamen, in a similar condition, were stretched out on the deck. All were hurried on board the Olympia in dry dock and the surgeons soon brought them to consciousness. The damage to the Lawrence was trifling.

Postmasters Receive Warning

Washington, Nov. 13.—Postmaster General Payne says that there are perhaps a half dozen cases in the country where postmasters have been called on to refund the salaries they permitted to be paid in their office to clerks who made no pretense of performing their duties and who spent practically no time at their desks. He announces that the department will not excuse any unlawful act of a postmaster on orders from any department officer below the postmaster general, and that the excuse then will be only a moral one and not a legal one.

To Work on Race Problem

Washington, Nov. 13.—The National Sociological society to consider the race problem closed its sessions by the adoption of a series of resolutions on the subject. One of the most important results of the meetings was the creation of a mixed special commission of six members, three from each race, to carry the plans and conclusions into effect, to lay the matter before congress, to gather material and to act as a permanent body in the solution of the race problem.

Six Railroad Men Killed

Louisville, Nov. 13.—Two heavy freight trains, one of them a double-header, collided in a dense fog near New Hope. Three engineers and three firemen were killed, a brakeman fatally injured and another brakeman badly hurt. The trains met on the top of an embankment 30 feet high. The three engines were completely demolished and nearly every car of both trains landed at the foot of the hill.

Prodding the Sultan

Constantinople, Nov. 13. It transpires that the latest Austro-Russian note to the porte contained a specific declaration that a further refusal to accept the reform scheme will expose the Ottoman empire to great danger and that the proposals of the two powers must be accepted entirely and without delay.

Schooner Captain Murdered

New York, Nov. 13.—Captain Townsend of the schooner Charles G. Buckley was shot and killed in the cabin of his vessel, which is lying at a pier in Brooklyn. His assailant was F. H. Burness, a former cook of the schooner, with whom Townsend had a dispute over wages. Burness was captured.

Both Sides Appeal From Sentence

Berlin, Nov. 13.—Both the attorney for Lieutenant Bilsen and the attorney for the state have appealed against the verdict of the military court at Metz, which sentenced the lieutenant to six months' imprisonment and to dismissal from the army for the publication of his book, "A Little Garrison."

Irishmen Asked to Keep Quiet

Dublin, Nov. 13.—John Redmond has called a meeting of the Irish parliamentary party and the national directors of the United Irish league to discuss the retirement of William O'Brien. In the meantime Redmond has appealed to his colleagues to do or say nothing to embitter the situation.

Confederates at Union Dedication

Chattanooga, Nov. 13.—The handsome monument erected in Missionary Ridge to the memory of Ohio's troops who participated in the battle on the famous heights, was dedicated in the presence of 500 veterans, members of the Loyal Legion and General Stewart and other Confederates.

Tobacco Crop Comes High

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 13.—Over 300 tobacco growers held a secret meeting here for the purpose of arranging details of a loan of $10,000,000 offered by the New York Security Warehouse company for the purpose of controlling the crop.

THE TRAINED NURSE'S STORY

[Original.]

How is it that I studied to be a trained nurse and never took but one case? I will tell you. A few days after receiving my diploma I was at the hospital from which I had been graduated. While there a sudden call came for a nurse. None of the regular nurses could be spared, but the inquirer was informed that a recent graduate who had yet to take her first case was ready to respond. The parties were obliged to be satisfied with this, and I was engaged.

I found my patient surrounded by every luxury. A venerable lady received me and told me that her son was to be nursed through a case of fever. Upon going into the sick room I saw a man apparently about forty whose case had just been diagnosed as one of typhoid. As I was in uniform, I had only to begin my watch.

My patient never complained, no matter how he suffered, and at the slightest approach of relief would make light of his condition, which, I knew well, was very serious. I made several mistakes, one of which was apparent to the sufferer and resulted seriously to him. Nevertheless he prevented the doctor from knowing that I was the cause, sending me away when he next called and explaining his condition in his own way.

But this is not the story. One night when he was passing the crisis I stepped into the hall. It was between 1 and 2 o'clock. I was surprised to find that the light always kept there was not burning. While I was wondering at this a bright light shone full in my face, and a masked man behind it came toward me. I thought only of my patient, who, the doctor had assured me, was hovering between life and death and could bear no shock. Two frights cannot occupy the mind at the same moment. At any rate, I stepped forward to meet him, putting my finger to my lips.

"There's a man near to death in that room," I whispered, pointing. "Go downstairs, and I'll help you all I can."

The man motioned for me to go downstairs before him, then followed me to the library below. When we reached it I found the gas burning and, turning to the man, saw him clutching a revolver, which was pointed directly at me.

"Turn over the plate," he said, "and I'll git out, but I warn you if you play any game you're a dead woman."

Now, the plate had always been taken at night to the room occupied by my patient. I would have discontinued the practice, but he would not permit, and it was there now. I told the burglar that, being a stranger in the house, I could only help him find it and began a pretended search, when he stopped me, telling me that the silver was always taken upstairs, and either I should go and get it or he would seek for it in the sick room.

What could I do? I promised to go and get it for him while he watched me from the landing. What a position! I was obliged to steal the plate, and if the patient saw me he might believe himself in the hands of a thief. Nevertheless I went into the room, leaving the door open, as directed, to bring the plate. My patient seemed to be in a doze. I opened the closet door in which it was kept, keeping my eyes fixed on the sleeper, if he was not rather in coma than asleep. The plate was kept in a large morocco covered box, and I took it out and was midway between the closet and the door when he opened his eyes and looked straight at me. That was the moment of supreme terror of my life.

"What are you doing?" he asked feebly.

"I need a few articles in this box," I said. "I will take them out downstairs and bring it back."

There must have been a guilty look on my face rather than a frightened one, for he looked at me with as severe expression as his condition would admit, then, with a groan, turned his face away. There was nothing for me to do but to carry the box to the burglar. He transferred its contents to a bag he carried, then, opening a closet, told me to go into it. In vain I begged to be permitted to go back to my patient, assuring the man that without my care he might die before morning. All in vain. The brute declared that he would not trust me lest I give an alarm and thrust me in the closet.

What I endured there till I heard the butler setting the table for breakfast no one but myself knows, and I could never transfer the experience to another. When I was let out the servant started back as if he had seen a ghost. There was a mirror in the buffet, and as I came before it I stood wondering whose was the reflection in it with features not unlike mine and hair white as snow.

I had presence of mind to telephone for a nurse, then told the butler to go to the patient's room and see if he were alive. He did so and came back to say that his master wanted me to come to him. I waited till the nurse came and sent her in to him to say that I had been worn out with watching and was resting.

When I saw my patient again he was convalescent. He had been prepared for everything, but when he saw my white hair he groaned.

"You have saved my life," he said, "and it belongs to you. You must stay here as long as you live."

This was all the wooing I got till he was well, when he made up for the matter of fact manner of his proposal and has been making up for it ever since.

Good Afternoon

Two hundred sailors from the Navy were recently served refreshments in the state dining room at the White House. There were five negroes among them. Had Gormon been President, he would have requested these negro seamen to eat in the kitchen.

Brooks Adams appears to be more of an alarmist than some who have previously criticised city finances, when he says Quincy is rapidly accumulating a burden which within 25 years will be more than it can handle. Also, that our municipal government is wholly unsatisfactory. There is some ground for the position of Mr. Adams, and great need of careful financiering, but we hardly think that Quincy will be "swamped" within 25 years. We do not agree with Mr. Adams, either, that Metropolitan police, Metropolitan streets and Metropolitan schools would cost Quincy less than independent city departments as at present. In the first place Quincy would have no control over expenditures or assessments. In the second place, we have had some experience in the size of assessments levied for water, sewers, parks, etc., and have viewed with some alarm the unexpected advances.

MARKED ADVANCE

Quincy Valuation Four Times Thirty Years Ago.

Seven Brick Schoolhouses Erected.

Large Industries Are Now Installed Here.

The Mayors of the Metropolitan district contributed to the Jubilee Number of the Boston Globe on Thursday, and it was interesting to read the notes on progress in the different municipalities in 30 years.

Mayor Bryant told of changes in Quincy in these words:

"The middle-aged man of the Quincy of today can well remember how as a child he heard his elders telling that in their youthful days there were none of the conveniences and advantages which the coming generation were already enjoying. They had then things which as boys they had never dreamed of. The railroad trains had pushed the stage coach to the rear. Instead of all the scholars in town going to one schoolhouse, four were provided in different localities, with a high school in addition. On very dark nights gas and kerosene lights were visible here and there. Sidewalks were beginning to appear along the streets, and the telegraph, though still a mystery, was coming into general use.

"The middle-aged man can now take his turn in telling the younger generation what surprising improvements modern perseverance and energy have accomplished.

"He can point out in Quincy that the most marked advance has been made in our schools. Since 1873 we have added seven large brick schoolhouses, one institute and a public library, and in our facilities for educating pupils and in the results accomplished we claim to be at least as far in advance as any of our neighbors.

"As is fitting in the birthplace of John Adams, John Quincy Adams and John Hancock, we have established permanent memorials in our historical places.

"Two large employers of industry, the Tubular Rivet and Stud Company and the Fore River Ship and Engine Company have established themselves in the city which has succeeded the old town.

"In addition to the large part of Quincy included in the Blue Hill reservation, we have parks and playgrounds in various parts of the city containing more than 100 acres.

"Our valuation is nearly four times as much as it was 30 years ago, the number of assessed polls is more than four times as many and we have 3400 more dwelling houses. Many large and beautiful business blocks have been erected, and more are in progress. Easy communication between our city and other places is assured both by steam and electric roads.

"Our growth seems to be even and steady, and our citizens are to be congratulated.

"It remains for those who have reached the age when they take part in the management of public affairs to impress upon those who are to take their places the lesson to be learned from the progress which their fathers have made. Let it be understood that the comforts and privileges they are to enjoy in the future are to be secured by honesty and business methods in municipal affairs, and that these cannot be attained except by constant watchfulness on the part of every citizen. The prospect in Quincy is as bright as could be desired."

Mommsen's Absent Mindedness.

The late celebrated German historian, Theodor Mommsen, was the most absent minded of men, says the New York Press. Once while going from Berlin to Charlottenberg, a half hour's journey, the trolley car in which he rode went off the track. The rest of the passengers took another car and went ahead, and the stranded vehicle was abandoned till help could be found. Mommsen remained, reading his book. An hour or two later the sound of jacks, levers, derricks, etc., aroused him. Rising from his seat, he went to the door and with the most complete unconcern imaginable remarked, "I suppose we have come to a standstill!"

Comfort For Teachers.

McKeesport (Pa.) schoolteachers the other evening presented a petition to the school board to the effect that they wished that the use of oil on the school floors be stopped, as it ruined their skirts, and their salaries were not large enough to provide for new skirts, says the Philadelphia Record. The controllers of the school advised the teachers to wear shorter skirts.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

The location is the best of any hall in the city. The street cars pass the door with a turn out right in front of the Hall.

The floor is of selected maple laid with the greatest care, and is kept in perfect condition, being covered with canvas when not used for dancing.

The ventilation—a most important consideration—is such as to keep the air pure with even a crowded hall and without causing any drafts.

The Hall is lighted by electricity, brilliantly and pleasantly, and with a switchboard arranged so that all desired effects can be obtained in the Hall proper or on the stage. Gas is used as an auxiliary light.

The heating is direct—indirect, ample, and giving the most healthful results.

The Stage has been designed with care, and is furnished with a particularly generous supply of attractive and appropriate scenery.

In case of fire the re pails of water and chemical fire extinguishers throughout the Hall. There is an asbestos fire curtain by which the Stage can be instantly cut off from the Hall proper. There are nine (9) doors opening from the Hall and five (5) separate exits.

As a whole. Quincy Music Hall has been carefully planned to meet the requirements of those who wish a large and really first class Hall.

The Management will be glad to book dates now for the season of 1903-1904.

'Tis the Pedler Optician. I heard him complain:
"Im tired of tramping, I must rest once again."
So he settles him down for a month or two's rest,
And will charitably (?) give your eyes a "free test."

You also will find that he has skipped in the night,
That your fine gold-bowed glasses are nothing but brass,
That you have the "experience," while he has the cash.

If you are troubled with headaches or defective sight, shun all pedlers and strange opticians. Consult WILLIAMS, who has fitted glasses to thousands upon thousands right here in Quincy during the past sixteen years.

He has all the latest instruments that scientists can devise and every facility for dark room examinations.

He will tell you frankly about your case and will not burden you with glasses if they are not necessary.

Trouble In Michigan.

[A war against corsets and fudge is being waged by the faculty of the university at Ann Arbor.—News Item.]

Tell me truly what's the rub,
Michigan, my Michigan?
What unfeeling, meddling dub,
Michigan, my Michigan,
Is attempting to butt in
With a lot of pretexts thin?
Do not listen to his chin,
Michigan, my Michigan.

What self constituted judge,
Michigan, my Michigan,
Has declared this war on fudge,
Michigan, my Michigan?
Think of all the poor coeds
Going hungry to their beds!
I can see their bowed down heads,
Michigan, my Michigan!

And the corsets—sakes alive!
Michigan, my Michigan!
Why should anybody strive,
Michigan, my Michigan,
To abolish that which grants
Grace to lovely debutantes?
Might as well abolish shoes,
Michigan, my Michigan!

You have won a lasting name,
Michigan, my Michigan,
In the strenuous football game,
Michigan, my Michigan;
Your escutcheon you will smudge
If you carry out this grudge;
Vive la corset and la fudge!
Michigan, my Michigan.

BACK TAXES.

Why Not Collect Some of the Thousands.

Are the Books Properly Audited?

The City Very Lax About This Important Matter.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The tax-payers of Quincy are well aware that the present administration has been an extravagant one; that money has been expended right and left just as though the supply was unlimited, while the fact is that the city is close upon its debt limit and the city treasurer has hard work to get cash enough to meet the ever-growing current demands. Property is assessed all out of proportion to what it will bring in open market. The tax-payer asks what becomes of all this money and why these excessive valuations? Why not collect some of the thousands of dollars of back taxes that are due, instead of carrying them from year to year as an asset, thus adding to the tax rate?

How often are the books of the officials who handle all of this money examined by an expert? So far as I can learn the city is very lax about this most important matter. The books of the tax collector should be examined in this manner every year and the result made public. If I am correctly informed this has not been done for many years. Bond companies consider tax collectors as the most hazardous of risks, simply because of laxity in enforcing the law relative to collecting back taxes.

According to the last city book there was due the city in uncollected taxes on January 1, for the years 1895, 1896, 1897, 1898 and 1899 $21,169.05. The treasurer's statement of October 1 current tells us that thus far this year nothing has been collected of the taxes of 1895, 1896 and 1897, and but $244.82 of the tax of 1898 and 1899, leaving a balance of $20,924.78 of these five years still uncollected. Who owes these taxes? Tax-payers have a right to know the names of these delinquents.

Besides this I find by the same city book that there was uncollected on January 1, $260,103.47 of the years 1900, 1901 and 1902, and by the same treasurer's statement of October 1 that of this amount but $144,569.21 had been collected this year, so that there was due the city for taxes of the years 1885 to 1902 inclusive $136,459.04, all of which is carried as an asset of the city.

Read what a bond company says about auditing accounts of tax collectors, and see if it is not high time that the tax payers should be alive to the situation. It would seem that Quincy is following in the footsteps of the town referred to below.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 30, 1903.

Henry H. Faxon, Esq., Quincy, Mass.

Dear Sir:—Referring to the circular which you kindly handed me this morning in the matter of taxation in Quincy.

I agree with you that those people who pay taxes promptly are entitled to know the names of the delinquents who deprive a city or town of its financial resources. I consider the proper way to give this information to the public is to have an annual publication, or semi-annual publication of unpaid taxes. This will bring to light any discrepancy in the accounts of the tax collector and notify the community at large with regard to those who are behind hand.

A further word with regard to the question of tax collectors in this section of Massachusetts. They are considered by people in our class of business to be the most hazardous bonds written for municipalities; that is, a bond for the faithful performance of his duties by a tax collector is considered an exceptionally hazardous risk, and it has been so proven through a series of years.

I will state to you a question in point which has come to my knowledge. An old fashioned gentleman who had been tax collector for twenty-three years of one of our large towns in Massachusetts came to me to secure a bond for $25,000 for the faithful performance of his duties. I inquired when his accounts had been audited and he told me five years previous. I informed him we would not be willing to accept him unless a prompt audit was at once made of his accounts, and while he showed some personal means of about $50,000, I insisted on this requisite.

Subsequently he found it more convenient to go to some other surety company who also insisted on the same procedure which I asked for to start with, which led to an audit being made. It was found that he was $119,000 short during his twenty three years service as collector of taxes of the town. His shortages seemed to have been laxity in enforcing the law and not a question of taking funds in his custody.

My understanding is that a great deal of the trouble with the collector referred to arose from his not strictly living up to the letter of the law. I consider it a great mistake not to give property a fair market valuation (under adverse circumstances) and to assess it on that basis.

Further comment on the above letter is unnecessary.

WORKING OFF A GROUCH.

The Operations of a Curious Phase of Human Nature.

John was grouchy and cross and found fault with his dinner. His wife surveyed him calmly.

"I know there is some reason for your—your—what shall I call it? Well, for your unhappy frame of mind," she said. "Probably things have gone wrong at the office, but why should you come home to work off your anger on me? I'm not to blame in the slightest. It's a curious trait of human nature that when one has been whipped he at once wants to turn around and whip somebody else."

"I suppose that trait was left out of your nature," remarked John sarcastically.

"No, indeed," replied his wife. "When things go wrong in the kitchen I am rather inclined to scold the children. If you reprimand me for extravagance, my impulse is to fuss with the first person I meet. If I have been out calling and return home late to dinner, I feel very much inclined to rate you for coming home so early. I've watched this same trait in the children. When I scold Alice, she always finds occasion to shake Maud on the sly. If you spank Jim, he generally goes out and makes faces at the little girl across the way. If the children come home from school saying 'teacher was awful cross today,' I jump to the conclusion that the principal had been criticising the teacher. If you tell me I'm not economical, I know you have just suffered from a slump in the stock market, and I suppose after you and I have had a little heated discussion you go down to the office and make things unpleasant for the clerks."

"To be frank with you, Mary," said John, "I do not often find you guilty of working off a grouch on me. Tell me what you do instead."

Mary smiled demurely. "I wait until you go out of the house; then I run for my room, lock the door, throw myself on the couch, burrow my head in the pillow and have a good cry."—New York Press.

TO DREAMLAND AND BACK

By W. W. HINES

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

Tunes and perfumes have the power to waken memories long dormant. Perhaps it was the half heard strain of "Il Bacio" sung softly by a girl in one of the rooms which opened off the piazza. Perhaps it was a breeze from the south which swept over the sunny waters of the bay and seemed to bring with it the scent of magnolias. At any rate the man who sat huddled in the great armchair felt himself drifting, drifting backward, and he was glad to drift.

All through the illness, when fever had made him rave, and afterward when weak in body and brain alike he had seemed floating in space, he had seen the face. Sometimes when his eyes were half shut he could see it in a half materialized sort of way, but when his eyes were fast closed he saw it best of all. During the illness the face seemed always to smile at him, but now as memory quickened he could see that the smile was fading. So he wanted to drift.

THE MAN IN THE BIG ARMCHAIR HEEDED NOT THEIR WORDS.

As the face was becoming fainter and fainter each day he hated the life which had been coming back to him so slowly. Why could he not have entered when he stood so near the door of death? In time the face would be on the other side of that door, too, and the smile would never again fade from the lips.

So he settled back to a sullen hatred of life, and the old doctor who had taken a great fancy to his ungrateful patient said that he must be roused to an interest in life or lethargy would finish the work so strenuously commenced by the fever.

Friends selected advisedly by the doctor and the devoted sister who had stood between him and death for seven long, weary weeks were called in to talk with discretion about the success of his novel. The critics had hailed it as the novel of the decade. They had labeled its author as a man not of talent, but of genius.

The man in the big armchair, fingering the tassels of his robe, looked out across the waters and drifted with their words falling on unhearing ears. Sometimes he frowned, for their voices seemed to drive the face from his hungry vision.

Then the sister who had the gift of intuition went alone to see the doctor, and when she had finished her story she was weeping softly. The old doctor wiped away the mist which had gathered in his own eyes, while he answered with a gruffness which his gesture denied:

"As you will. The case is now past me."

And so that night the sister sent a long telegram to a little town in Louisiana. Then she went back to her place at the man's side, and the doctor came and went because he was paid to do so, and the people who heard of the case tried to get a glimpse of the now famous young writer and, shaking their heads, remarked, "What a pity, and just at the beginning of a brilliant career!"

As for the man, he never spoke of the increasing weakness. All he asked was to be wheeled each day to the piazza. Here he could look out over the bay and away to the south where the horizon met the sea. Sometimes he merely sat and gazed apathetically at the expanse of sea. More often he closed his eyes and waited for the face.

It seemed to him that the face had come into his life so gradually that it had always been a part of his very existence. It had not always been a beautiful face, yet it had dominated him. It was an exacting face. It had grown hard and flushed one day when he was but thirteen. He had wanted to lie flat on his back and watch an army of white clouds marshaling in the blue sky. The owner of the face did not care for the movements of such distant and unreal objects as feathery clouds, and she did want a fort built. But it was worth while, after all, for when the fort was finished and her doll had been duly rescued by Indian fighters at the eminent risk of the fort the expression of the face had been utterly lovable and tender, so lovable that he had quite forgotten the clouds and the blue sky, for even at thirteen one may find heaven in gray eyes.

But as the years rolled on there were always forts to build, and sometimes the clouds asserted their power more strongly than the gray eyes, and then the face remained hard and angry for hours. Later the girl did not demand forts for herself, but something tangible for him, something besides a pursuit of clouds. But he loved the clouds, the breath of the dank woods, the murmur of the sea. He would sit for hours in the heart of a busy city and watch people—sit and do nothing. He said he did not care that his father and his grandfather before him had been great soldiers; that another grandfather had founded a powerful mercantile firm. He wanted—what, he could not say, but there was time, and time would tell.

So the face had passed out of his life, leaving a greater void than he had ever dreamed it could leave. And then he had learned that work was good, especially to fill voids.

* * * * * * *

It had been raining in the night, and now the veil was lifting from the sea, which sparkled in greeting to the tardy sunbeams. The man watched the haze as it first quivered, then melted before the rays of light. The man sighed. He felt that the veil was lifting for him. He was seeing things too clearly, and, seeing thus, he knew that the light of reason would banish the face along with the mist of weakness. He closed his eyes. Perhaps it would come back to him once more, and surely it would smile now.

Suddenly he pressed his hands together, and something like a sob rose in his heart. The face had never been so distinct. There were the clear olive complexion, the great deep gray eyes and the wonderful glory of her hair, black as night and soft as floss, startling in its versimilitude to life. He could see the curls which framed the face, blown now by the south wind, and he could almost detect the odor of the violets, which had always hung about her.

Afraid to stir and afraid to close his eyes, even for a moment, lest the vision lose something of its apparent reality, he fairly held his breath.

"Don't, Leslie; don't look like that! It is I—Marion! Don't you know me, Leslie?"

Even then it all seemed like a dream. Not until he felt the cool pressure of her cheek against his and her arms about him did he understand it was all real. And at last he reached for her hands and held them fast.

"Marion, I've been building forts—hundreds of them."

She knew what he meant, because she murmured: "You were always building, dearest. It is I who did not understand."

Proving His Love.

They were "sitting out" the dance when Miss Luvliwun glided silently by, waltzing most gracefully.

"Oh, Algy," said the girl, "don't you think Miss Luvliwun quite the nicest girl in the room?"

"Why, yes, May, darling, if you think so."

"And her eyes—aren't they just delightful?"

"Perfectly, pet!" Algy agreed.

"And hasn't she the prettiest mouth and the sweetest face imaginable?"

"Simply charming!" quoth Algy.

"And don't you think she's awfully clever too? Knows French, and—bo-ho—oh-o-o!"

Poor Algy's face went ghastly white.

"Why, darling," he exclaimed, "whatever's the matter? Are you ill? Shall I"—

"Oh-o," sobbed May, "I—thought you—loved me—you loved me best, Algy!"

"So I do, darling!"

"W-w-well, how can you ta-talk so about that ugly, vulgar Luvliwun girl?"

Women Who Hate Men.

From time to time strange instances crop up of women who not merely remain unmarried of their own free will, but carry their antipathy to the opposite sex to most peculiar lengths.

Thus one of these is utterly resolved to have nothing whatever to do with men on any pretext. All her food is bought of women, and consequently meat never appears on her table, since there is no female butcher in her neighborhood.

Not long since a handsome legacy was refused simply because it came from a man, while instances are known of women who make it their boast that they have neither spoken to nor allowed one of the opposite sex to cross their thresholds for a quarter of a century and upward.

But probably the bitterest man hater of modern days was an Austrian lady who at the time of her death was engaged in perfecting an elaborate plan for the ultimate extinction of the male sex.

But Pussy Had Nine Lives.

The great stage scene of the piece was a shipwreck, and after the vessel had gone down only the comic man and the heroine were to be seen tossing on a frail raft on the boundless ocean.

The comedy merchant had expected that his woebegone appearance would raise a laugh, but even he was astonished at the roar which went up when they saw him.

At last he was able to get a hearing.

"I wish," he said to the heroine, "that we could get out and walk home, but it's so jolly wet."

The audience was too exhausted to laugh any more, and the voice of the man in the gallery sounded painfully clear:

"If I was you," he said, "I should do it. There's a cat been hopping about on the waves for the last five minutes, and she don't seem to 'ave suffered much!"—London Answers.

GOLD TIPS FOR NEWSIES

Generous Englishman's Plan to Help St. Louis Paper Boys.

SLIPS MONEY INTO THEIR HANDS

Sometimes the Coin, Not Given by Mistake, Is a Sovereign Worth $4.80 and Sometimes a Half Sovereign—Recipients of the Money Are Told to Keep It as a Pocket Piece.

A generous Englishman is making glad the days of the newsboys of St. Louis. Not all of them have shared his generosity—indeed, only a small per cent of them—but those who have know that it is not of the short measure variety, and those who haven't are eagerly awaiting this strange man's entree into their lives, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

He is giving away gold, and not by mistake either. With each coin he gives to the boys he stoops over and in a soft, round voice wishes the boy success, tells him to live a good life and "keep this for a pocket piece."

Sometimes "this" is a sovereign, and sometimes it is a half sovereign, both beautiful coins, the former of the value of $4.80 in United States money and the latter $2.40.

Placing the coin in the boy's hand or slipping it into his pocket, the big stranger takes his paper and disappears.

One of the boys at noon the other day described his unknown benefactor as a man perhaps forty-five years old, 6 feet 2 inches tall, having a pointed gray beard and wearing a long black overcoat and light colored checked suit.

The newsies are on the qui vive over the unheralded appearance in their midst of this mysterious person. Many are the stories they tell of his gifts to them and to others and of incidents connected with the gifts.

Several little street merchants, not familiar with gold and the money of other lands, have refused the shining pieces of coin bearing the late queen's picture in payment for a paper, whereupon the big man, smiling rather than trying to argue with them, has emptied his pockets of the small change they contained.

Other little fellows have accepted the pretty coins, but have bartered them as quickly as possible for three or four pennies from some other boy who either knew better than they or was willing to take a chance.

Gold is plentiful in newsboys' circles. Some of the boys are doing as the big stranger asked them to do—keeping their gold as pocket pieces to bring them good luck. It is estimated that this stranger has already given about twenty gold coins to the boys. His field of operations seems limited to the center of the downtown business district.

A REBUKE FOR DOWIE.

Zionist Leader's Father Says His Son's Mind Must Be Unsound.

John Murray Dowie, father of John Alexander Dowie, according to a dispatch from Essex, Ia., says that the Zionist founder is of unsound mind.

"I have decided to make answer to him," said the old man. "He is my son, born in wedlock. I was married in April, and the boy was born in the following May. His mother was a good wife to me."

Here the old man's voice grew tender, and his eyes filled with tears.

"I took the boy in my arms and had him christened in Edinburgh. I acknowledged him as my son, and this, by the law of Scotland, legitimizes a child. I owned him before the world as my boy and the woman as my wife.

"Any one who knows the Dowies can see that John Alexander is one of them. I have been mistaken for my son many times. His mother was a widow when I married her. After her death I gave the certificate of her first marriage and the one recording my own marriage to my son. He has them now unless he has destroyed them, and if they are destroyed the records may be found in Edinburgh. There is no truth in the army officer's story. I am certain he is of unsound mind to give out such a myth.

"He has got into the habit of scolding. He scolds the whole world. He scolds me. He is a great egotist. Oh, if I had only been in New York to counsel him to be quiet! He antagonized the people there. Pour soul! Poor soul! But his failure to do much in New York does not mean that he has come to the end. John Alexander Dowie is too well intrenched behind his defenses to be pulled down that way. The newspapers are maddening him.

"He was raised with his younger brother Andrew, now in Australia. When he took up this faith healing business in Australia, I warned him to desist. While he was in college I sent him £8 every month. Doesn't that look as though he were my son? He did not treat me coldly when I came to Chicago. He met me as a son would meet his father. He introduced me as his father before Zion. It was only when I refused to accept his doctrines that he turned against me. He is now only a Calvinist, with a lot of faith healing egotism and newfangled ideas grafted on."

Fame In Squewee County, Mo.

Miss Ellabelle Mae Doolittle, the Paw Paw Corner animal poet, has let out a little secret that bids fair to make her famous in Squewee county, Mo., says the Kansas City Journal. She says that she is personally acquainted with the composer of "Hiawatha," once saw the man who wrote "Goo Goo Eyes" and knows a second cousin of one of the writers of "In the Good Old Summer Time."

for $1,000,000, paying an annual premium of over $30,000. This makes him the most heavily insured man in the world, with the single exception of King Edward VII.

Mr Wanamaker's total insurance is now $2,000,000.

Ask yourself WHY Mr. Wanamaker placed one-half this great amount with The Prudential.

Your business judgment will at once reply: "Because after full investigation and comparison, Mr. Wanamaker found that the company which could give him the best insurance for a given amount of money was The Prudential."

Nndoubtedly you will agree that Mr. Wanamaker does not pay over $30,000 per year except for most excellent reasons.

These reasons apply to YOU precisely as well as they do to HIM.

AMATEUR COIN MAKERS

Growth of Iowa Community's Minting Business.

THE MONEY IS MADE OF ALUMINIUM

Novel Scheme Adopted by Williams (Ia.) Citizens to Expand Circulation—The Coins Have No Intrinsic Value, but Can Be Passed For Merchandise and Drinks.

Tired of hearing of an "expanded currency" and seeing it only in bargain counter lots, the merchants and farmers of Williams, Ia., and its vicinity have gone into the minting business on their own account and are turning out barrels of coins—dollars, half dollars, quarters and dimes—which pass current for anything from a shave to a thrashing machine. The coins are made of aluminium, and an individual's wealth is gauged by his shape, the lumpiest person being the richest because the bulging pockets contain handfuls of fiat money.

The coins have practically no intrinsic value, but are redeemable at stores for merchandise and at saloons for drinks, their value being guaranteed by the association of merchants authorizing their issue.

The first coins minted were given out by merchants as rebates on purchases on the same basis that the varicolored trading stamps are issued by merchants in the east and were redeemable for their face value in merchandise. So many merchants went into the scheme and the coins became so plentiful that they began to pass current as freely as authorized coin, and instead of hoarding the aluminium disks for a purchase at the store from which they were issued the people began to make small purchases with them, pay debts and use them in poker games. When the men folks found that they could purchase liquid refreshment with the light weight coins they ceased to turn them over to the goodwife for her to save up enough to get a grand piano or a sealskin sack and kept them in their pockets as they would loose change.

With the enormous expansion in the issue of these coins, coupled with the growth of their general use, pockets are now being made longer, and the women find the valise-like handbags now affected a real blessing when they start out on a shopping tour. The size of the contribution boxes in the churches has been increased, and the only place in town that won't accept the aluminium fractional currency is the post office. Uncle Sam demands money of his own kind.

At Webster, Ia., the fiat money scheme has also been successfully introduced and promises to spread over the state like a plague of locusts. Once or twice at Webster the coins have been at a premium. At present it looks as though the aluminium coins would soon be the popular medium of exchange for the entire west.

A TERRIBLE INSECT.

Reasons For Handling the Boll Weevil with Care.

A man living near Morrilton, Ark., has returned to that town from Texas and brought back a dozen cotton boll weevils.

This man is playing with fire, says the Arkansas Gazette. He might as well have brought back a gelatin tube full of yellow fever germs from Laredo.

The plague of rabbits in Australia started from a handful of these animals that were imported from another land.

Everybody knows that certain grasses and weeds that have been brought into a country have spread from an insignificant beginning until they have permanently established themselves over a vast territory.

Our dispatch from Morrilton says these boll weevils are in a bottle which is kept tightly corked, but some of the insects have been alive for a month. The dispatch says further that a "cotton square put into the bottle will be readily devoured."

But suppose a female weevil lays her eggs in a cotton square and it is then thrown out. The eggs might develop into larvæ and these into weevils, which next spring would proceed to increase and multiply.

The safest way to show what the boll weevil looks like is to use the method adopted by the Gazette, simply show a picture of the terrible creature.

Governor Mickey's Strenuosity.

Governor Mickey of Nebraska stood on a stack of wheat at the farm of the State Insane asylum at Lincoln the other morning and tabled bundles for a thrashing machine so fast that the feeders were kept busy, says an Omaha dispatch to the Chicago Record-Herald. The governor was shown over the field by Superintendent Greene. Without waiting for formalities he climbed a stack and shed his coat. Then he seized a fork from one of the men and told him to go and chase himself. Even bets were offered that the governor could not keep the table full, but he did.

Around the World In Fifty-four Days.

In the November World's Work James Willis Sayre tells how he went around the world in 54 days, 9 hours and 42 minutes, lowering the next previous record by 6 days and 3 hours. He covered 19,500 miles, and the trip cost $819. He used no special trains and made all his own calculations for boats and trains. Mr. Sayre left Seattle for Yokohama June 26. He then crossed Siberia and Russia, visiting Moscow. Thence the route continued by way of Berlin. He reached New York Aug. 15 and was back in Seattle Aug. 19.

UNUSUAL LOTTERY CASE

In Which the Defendant Is Convicted and Fined $50

Boston, Nov. 13.—James M. O'Connell, manager of a grocery store, convicted on the technical charge of conducting a lottery, was fined $50 by Judge White in the superior criminal court. It appears that O'Connell placed in the window of his store a cabinet containing four $5 gold pieces. To every customer who purchased a certain amount of goods a key was given. The person who secured the key that would open the cabinet was entitled to the gold. Some person informed O'Connell that he was conducting a lottery and that he was liable to be prosecuted. At the time he consulted a lawyer, who informed him that he was acting within the law.

He was arrested shortly after and appealed from the fine imposed in the lower court. After his trial last month Judge Sherman ordered a verdict of guilty, so that his counsel might file exceptions and have the case taken to the supreme court.

The case was to have come before the supreme court Monday next. O'Connell's attorney discovered that technically, his client was guilty, so he waived his exceptions and ordered his client into court for sentence.

Opposition to Oregon Bill

Washington, Nov. 13.—Senator Mitchell's bill appropriating $2,125,000 for the Oregon fair of 1905 will encounter strong opposition, especially in the house. It was understood when the appropriation was made for Buffalo, recouping the fair management for losses due to the McKinley tragedy there, that the end of appropriations for fairs should be called. This is Speaker Cannon's idea. The senate with its large representation of small states is likely to be more liberal. This may furnish material for a controversy between the two houses.

House Wrecked by Dynamite

Philadelphia, Nov. 13.—An explosion of dynamite wrecked the house at 735 Wood street and seriously burned James Patton, aged 31. Ten other inmates of the dwelling, which was used as a lodging house, became panic stricken and ran into the street in their night clothes. The police believe the house was the headquarters of a gang of safe crackers and have arrested several men who were in the room in which the explosion occurred.

Jamaicans May Raise Cotton

Kingston, Ja., Nov. 13.—Sir Daniel Morris, imperial agricultural minister to the West Indies, reporting on his recent tour of the American cotton states, says that many of the districts of the island of Jamaica are suitable for the cultivation of cotton and he strongly urges the importance of establishing the industry on an extensive scale. It is believed that many planters will follow Morris' advice.

Porto Ricans Are Satisfied

Washington, Nov. 13.—In his annual report on the condition of affairs in the island of Porto Rico, Governor Hunt says that the situation is one of hope and that there is progress and improvement with a strong current in favor of Americanism.

Autos Succeed Sedan Chairs

London, Nov. 13.—The Standard's Tien Tsin correspondent says that Governor Yuan Shi Kai has imported nine automobiles for the use of the dowager empress. These automobiles will run between Pekin and the summer palace.

Engine Too Heavy For Bridge

Newark, N. J., Nov. 13.—A drill engine broke through a temporary bridge across Ogden street last night and injured three trainmen and a little girl. The engine dropped pilot first and the cowcatcher was buried between trolley tracks.

Sailors Tell Strange Stories

Ferrol, Spain, Nov. 13.—Two British steamers arrived here in a damaged condition and told of being attacked by 25 Spanish vessels, the crews of which threw stones and fired at them and then took to flight.

MOTHER AND CHILD

Scott's Emulsion is cod liver oil made almost as palatable as milk. It is easy and soothing to the weak stomach; it checks the tendencies of children toward thinness.

Scott's Emulsion gives strength to weak mothers because it creates healthy flesh and new blood.

Nursing mothers will find a special value in Scott's Emulsion because it insures a flow of rich, nourishing milk for the baby. More and better than a medicine; Scott's Emulsion is a food.

Scott's Emulsion is not a mere extract, containing imaginary "active principles" which do not exist, but is full of actual nourishment which sustains vital force and builds up the body tissues more rapidly than any other known remedy.

SHOT NEIGHBOR DEAD

Maine Man Whose Anger Gained Control Over His Judgment

Rome, Me., Nov. 13.—Angered because the hogs of Hosea Stephens, his neighbor, had been allowed to wander on his property, John Blomily shot and instantly killed Stephens while the latter was laughing at him. Blomily immediately gave himself up to the authorities and was taken to the jail at Waterville. He admitted the shooting and said that he was so mad that he did not know what he was doing.

The affair occurred in the doorway of Stephens' barn and was witnessed by Isaac, Willard and Sanborn Mosher. According to the three Mosher boys, Stephens was out in Blomily's field trying to drive his hogs home when Blomily came by. After stopping a minute and looking sharply at the three Mosher boys, Blomily kept on up the street. Stephens succeeded in getting the hogs back on his own property and had just come back to his barn when Blomily reappeared armed with a shotgun. He stopped in the road directly opposite the entrance to Stephens' barn and said: "I had as soon shoot anyone as anything."

Stephens replied with a laugh, "Look, boys, he is going to shoot me." Stephens continued to laugh and this seemed to anger Blomily still more for he raised the gun, took deliberate aim at his neighbor and fired. Stephens staggered back a few steps and then fell to the ground dead.

Wants to Convert Townsmen

Scituate, Mass., Nov. 12.—In the belief that he has been called to convert residents of this place who are not in the habit of attending church, Alfred H. Mott has hung a large number of copies of printed quotations from the scriptures, prayers, the Ten Commandments and the 23rd Psalm on the outer walls of his farmhouse and among the branches of trees in the vicinity, besides scattering a quantity of manuscripts about the lawn. The town people were greatly surprised when the discovery was made and crowds were attracted to the place.

Two Lockouts Raised

Southbridge, Mass., Nov. 13.—After a conference between representatives of the company and the labor unions the Dupaul-Young Optical company agreed to take back the men who were "locked out" without making them sign cards stating whether or not they were affiliated with any labor organization. T. J. Harrington, another manufacturer, also agreed to take his men back on the same basis. The situation in the other shops remains unchanged.

Went Home to See Mother

Boston, Nov. 13.—Inspector Patterson captured on Brattle street Edward Connaughton, 30 years old, who escaped from Deer Island last May. It had been generally believed that Connaughton was drowned. He escaped from the hospital ward and swam Shirley gut, finally getting to land by means of a yacht's tender. Connaughton said that he had come back to Boston to see his mother, who is ill.

Indebtedness of Half a Million

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 13.—The financial interests of Samuel E. Winslow of this city, doing business under the firm name of Winslow & Co., bankers and brokers, and the Samuel Winslow Skate Manufacturing company, have been placed in receiver's hands on the petition of the Citizens' National bank of Worcester. The total indebtedness of the Winslow interests is upwards of $500,000.

Feeble Minded Women Free

Belmont, Mass., Nov. 13.—Esther Wooley, aged 20, and Ethel Larkin, aged 24, have escaped from the Massachusetts Home for the Feeble Minded in Waverly. It is believed that they will be recaptured soon, as they were hatless and wore the gingham uniform of the institution at the time of their escape.

Bellboy Clears Himself

Boston, Nov. 13.—At the conclusion of a continued hearing in court Charles Ryder, 14 years old, who had been arraigned on the charge of stealing jewelry to the value of $3600 from Arthur E. Mann at Hotel Bellevue, was discharged. Ryder was a bellboy at the hotel at the time the valuables were stolen.

Rhode Island Mill Situation

Providence, Nov. 13.—The key to the Rhode Island cotton mill situation may be said to be in the hands of the New Bedford operators, for should the action of the latter be unanimous and a reduction in wages follow, it is a foregone conclusion that the local mill owners will act in a similar manner.

Shooting In Shoe Shop

Whitman, Mass., Nov. 13.—After some words had passed between Dennis M. Flynn and Floran T. Estes, edgemakers at a shoe factory here, while the men were at their adjoining benches, Flynn shot Estes. Estes is in a critical condition, but probably will recover. Flynn was placed under arrest.

Trying to Save Misik's Life

Hartford, Nov. 13.—Counsel for Paul Misik, condmned to death for the killing of Charles O'Brien in this city, has served formal notice on the board of pardons of an intention to appear before the board and plead to have the sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

Smashed Up by a Car

CITY BREVITIES.

Granite Conclave, I. O. H. will give its first assembly this evening.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Keast at Milford, N. H., a few days ago.

The executive committee of the People's Union of Quincy will meet next Tuesday evening.

Next week the new Quincy Point bowling alleys will be opened and Wednesday evening the Quincys and Quincy Points will bowl a league game.

A son was born on Tuesday to Dr. A. A. and Mrs. Mabel (Hodges) Hunt at Hartford, Conn., and ex-Mayor and Mrs. William A. Hodges of this city are happy grandparents.

The building of the tidegate at Blacks creek near Merrymount Park is about completed. As soon as it is ready the meadow in the rear of the street railway barn will be flooded, so as to make a skating park the coming winter.

It was reported to the police Thursday that the gunning stand on Gull Island had been broken into. Investigation by the police showed that nothing had been taken, but things had been thrown about probably by someone bent on deviltry.

GOWN GOSSIP.

Small toques are entirely covered with late season leaves and fruits.

The hats of the season demand plenty of soft fluffiness in the manner of wearing the hair.

Many of the new waists are extremely ornate in design. They have enormous sleeves, with ruffles upon ruffles of lace or chiffon. Naturally these waists are reserved for dressy occasions.

By a singular contradiction of ideas two very popular trimmings for winter hats will be fur and flowers. Roses and other blossoms are developed in the richest of velvets and satins and are well suited to wear with winter materials.

White lace insertions five inches wide are greatly in demand for lace waists. They are not exactly cheap, but are, on the whole, more economical in the making up than the all over laces, besides being rather more effective.—New York Post.

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL.

Funds for the building and endowment of a German school in Yokohama are being raised in Berlin.

President David Starr Jordan of Leland Stanford university has presented to the institution as a gift his magnificent collection of books on the subject of ichthyology.

Five members of the Byers family of Pittsburg, who have been graduated from Yale, will donate to the university the steel truss work necessary to support the immense glass roof over the proposed addition to the gymnasium.

The department of physical education at Amherst college has been strengthened recently by the endowment of a fellowship of $500 income. It is the gift of the daughter of the late Charles Pratt of Brooklyn, whose sons had previously given the gymnasium, athletic field and hospital.

PARKS' PARTING ADVICE

Fallen Labor Leader Warns Unions Against Graft.

ACCEPTS FATE WITHOUT PROTEST

"Remember Me," Says the Former Walking Delegate of the Housesmiths' Union of New York City In Counseling His Fellows Against Temptation—Sends a Love Token to His Wife.

Samuel J. Parks, the former walking delegate of the Housesmiths and Bridgemen's union of New York city, who has twice been convicted of extorting money from employers in the building trades, before being taken to Sing Sing prison the other day to serve his sentence of two years and six months made the following statement:

"Every laboring man in this country should remember me for years to come. I should be a warning to them. I'm the victim of a custom that is older than I am, and that is the habit of having money transactions with employers. That's put me here.

"I tell you, and I want the boys to know it, that the salvation of the unions lies in stopping that practice at once. They must give up fines, waiting time, back pay for strikes and everything like that. That's the loophole through which this 'grafting,' as they call it, creeps in. If they don't, in the years to come many another good fellow'll be where I am going tomorrow.

"Don't for a minute think I mean that the labor leaders are 'grafters' at heart. If they are they are made so. And that brings me to say that right here in New York city is the crookedest set of men in the world, the employers in the building trades. You'll never see any of them awaiting sentence; they are too slick. They never leave any tracks. But take how they work. Why, I know and could name for you 100 employers of New York city—by that I mean the big companies as well—who have made a practice of using labor unions against competitors.

"Maybe that isn't a crime! Maybe there is no sentence coming to a man, for instance, who will go to a young fellow who has been put in authority by his union. This young fellow has never made more than a couple of dollars a day in his life before. He's on the level and wants to help the cause.

"The employer holds out a roll of bills bigger than anything the young fellow has ever seen before.

"'See here,' he says, 'I want you to be friendly to me. I don't want any trouble. You can look out for me a little.' 'Bing!' the thing's off.

"It isn't long before that easy money gets easier, and then comes the proposition to 'pull' the men on a rival's job so that men enough from the friend can be had. It isnt far from that to having a rival employer blacklisted, troubled, struck, and after that where's a foolish young fellow to stop? His head's gone. I know plenty of employers who have made fortunes by working that way. Some of them know I know it too. They'll never be up here. Well, I don't kick. I'm forgetting all the past now.

"The newspapers have been pretty busy with me for the last six months. I guess the world has a pretty bad opinion of me. That's another thing I don't kick about, especially if it's because I'm an advocate of force in labor unions. I believe in that. That makes me out a bad man, but I tell you that it's the only way organized labor has ever gained anything in New York city. Figure it out for yourself. Did arbitration raise wages? Not once, but strikes did. Does arbitration keep nonunion men off buildings? Not much. I remember how that is done.

"Many's the time I have gone to the boys and called for volunteers and with them gone down town to a building where the boys had been struck and nonunion men had taken their places. It was only a case of waiting around the corner until the whistle blew. In most cases that was enough. The nonunion men didn't come back the next day.

"I was a young fellow in Chicago sixteen years ago and tried bridge building. Of course I joined the union, and, being pretty husky, it wasn't long before the big men noticed me, and I became a member of what you people have been calling the 'entertainment committee.' There was lots of work for me to do.

"I spent most of my time outside the city. I was on the bridge in Louisville when it fell, taking sixty of the boys with it. I got out somehow, and then in 1896 I came on here. The union was in a bad way then, and when I was elected a walking delegate soon afterward I didn't do anything for six months but work to get them together. The last time I was at a meeting nearly 4,000 men were on the rolls.

"Now I'm out of the labor movement forever. I hope to come out of prison all right. I'm going to do all I can to get back my health. I'm telling you this only because I hope some of the boys will see it and read it and think about it. Keep away from money transactions in every way, shape and form. Let them do that, and it's all right."

Just before reaching the prison Parks asked the deputy sheriff if he could have just a minute. This was granted, and then Parks drew from his manacled hand a plain gold ring, kissed it and placed it in an envelope.

"On your life, Johnnie, give that to her," said he to a friend who accompanied him. "Tell her tonight it's the last thing I did in the open air."

The ring is inscribed "From Dora to Sam." It was a little present Mrs. Parks gave her husband on their wedding day.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

Beginning Monday evening and continuing for two weeks the stage of the Hollis street theatre is to be occupied by the foremost of American comedians, Mr. N. C. Goodwin, who under the direction of Klaw and Erlanger is to present a superb revival of that most interesting of the Shakespearean comedians, "A Midsummer Night's Dream." It is eight years since this delightful work of the immortal bard has been presented in Boston, the last production being that made by the late Augustin Daly. But neither in Boston nor in any other city in the world has this fairy dream been given anything like the superb production which these fearless and enterprising gentlemen have given it in this instance. The cast besides Mr. Goodwin, who plays Bottom, the Weaver, is a notable one containing many names that are famous in the history of the stage. The effects are said to be little short of marvelous. Electricity plays a large part, for whenever the fairies displace the mortals on the stage the flowers, the fungii, the trees, and even the solid stones built into the columns of Theseus' Palace become luminous. For the first time in the history of the American stage, the beautiful Mendelssohn music is given in its entirety, the overture, "The Danee of Clowns," the Fuga, Allegro Con Fucco, the Intermezzo, the "Nocturn," and the Scherzo, played by an enlarged orchestra under direction of Signor A. DeNovellis, and besides there are fourteen vocal numbers including The Wedding March, The Spring Song, and the Spinning Song. Matinees will be given first week of the engagement, on Wednesday and on Saturday, and the second week on Thanksgiving Day and on Saturday. Seats are now selling for the entire engagemeut.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE

The management of the Castle Square theatre will present a most novel entertainment next week, making the first production here of "The Other Side of the World" which has been in course of preparation—under the direction of its author, Mr. Walter Clarke Bellows—for many weeks. The story told is of the experiences of six children of an English Governor of a province of India, who, by force of circumstances, are left alone in an interior town and are the cause of many interesting events. The entertainment is arranged in a prologue and three acts, the opening being in the court-yard of a bungalow town of Northwest India and the action being completed in the jungle and the palace of the Maharajah The oriental life of the East is shown in the most realistic fashion, with the introduction of its religious and social custom, the observances of its fete days, its amusements and the many characteristics that go to make it a land of fascination and luxury. The production will be made upon a scale of spectacular magnificence calculated to show the great resources of all the stage departments of the Castle Square Theatre to the best advantage, and with introductory and incidental music, acrobatic and juggling feats of the natives, and a series of stage pictures by the host of auxiliaries, will make the scenes all of great beauty Many special engagements have been made for the production. The usual distribution of boxes of chocolate bonbons will be made at the Monday matinee.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

There will be an entire change of program at Keith's for the week of Nov. 16, when the bill is to be an "all variety" one, with at least one famous foreign act as the feature of a miscellaneous assortment of notable entertainers, none of whom have appeared recently. The four Welloons are ring performers and said to be the most artistic and skilful acrobats in that line of work that have appeared this season. In New York they created quite a furor by their wonderful feats. The marvelous Merrilla, bicycle experts; Bean and Hamilton, barrel jumpers and Ozay and Delno, novelty jugglers, are others in the "sight act" department whose contributions will prove interesting.

An entire change of motion pictures will be shown in the biograph, which never seems to grow old.

The Magazines.

The American Boy for November comes to us with thirty-six pages chock full of matter of interest to boys that will keep them busy for many long evenings. This number contains some particularly attractive matter. The first chapter of a story by the editor entitled, "Three Yankee Boys in Ireland," being a combined story of travel and history, thoroughly illustrated, makes its appearance. Appropriate to the month are two excellent football stories—"Harding; Substitute," and "Jack's Two Victories," with an item on "How to Train for Football."

ADVERTISE IN THE QUINCY PATRIOT

SALLY HARRIS.

Once Employed by President J. Q. Adams.

Made Six Pies Yesterday.

Has Six Great Grandchildren and Eight Grandchildren.

It is seldom that one so well advanced in years is as smart as is Mrs. Sally Harris, who today is celebrating her 90th birthday anniversary at the residence of her son, James M. Harris, at 13 East Howard street.

Mrs. Harris enjoys being out in the open air and thinks nothing of a mile walk. On the day the new Washington school was dedicated she walked to the school and home again, a distance of nearly two miles, and no later than last August made a trip, unaccompanied, to Brockton, by the street cars.

Her skill as a cook has never forsaken her, and no later than yesterday she busied herself with her weekly cooking and six handsome pies were the result.

Mrs. Harris was born at Quincy Neck, Nov. 14, 1813, although it was then a part of Braintree, and was a daughter of Nathaniel and Sally Hayden. There were thirteen children in the family, of which Mrs. Harris was the second oldest. Of this large family but four are now living, Alonzo and Bartlett Hayden, Mrs. T. J. H. Thayer and Mrs. Harris.

Mrs. Harris spent her early life in the district where she was born. Among her neighbors was the Crane family and Thomas Crane, the donor of Quincy's Public Library, and Sally Harris were playmates, and made company for each other as they trudged along to school which was then in a building adjoining the Hancock cemetery in Quincy Square.

Master Seaver was the teacher, and it waa he who gave her the first instructions of her education. Of her classmates at that school all have passed on to another land.

When seventeen years of age she worked in the family of President John Quincy Adams. President Adams spent his winters in Washington and the summers in Quincy, and three months of the summer of 1820 she passed in the old Vassel house on Adams street in his family. No carpets or rugs adorned the floor. Nothing but pine boards which had to be kept as neat as wax.

She then took up nursing, which she followed until she was led to the altar by James Madison Harris. This was in 1833, and Rev. William Morse of the Universalist church was the clergyman who tied the knot. After their marriage they lived in Holbrook for four years and then came back to Quincy.

The fruits of this wedlock were two sons and two daughters. One son and one daughter have passed away. Those living are the son, James M., with whom she resides, and Mrs. Lizzie M., widow of George Bailey.

Upon the death of her husband in 1852 she again for some time followed the occupation of a nurse.

Since the death of her husband she has made her home with her son, and it is there that today her children, eight grandchildren and six great grandchildren will gather to celebrate her birthday, and four generations will be represented.

A number of the older people of the

It is to be hoped the animals will settle down into a happy family although their tastes are quite different.

Mrs. F. E. Boothby, wife of Col. F. E. Boothby, mayor of Portland, Me., gave a brilliant reception to Mrs. Helen Allen Hunt, the well known contralto, at Kotzschmar hall, on the evening of October twenty-ninth. After the reception, Mrs. Hunt rendered several selections in her usual artistic manner. This is the first time that Mrs. Hunt has been heard in Portland. She possesses a contralto voice of beautiful quality, and has a most pleasing way of using her excellent method. The culture of literary, artistic and wealthy Portland was well represented at Mrs. Boothby's reception, and Mrs. Hunt made many friends capable of appreciating her at her very best. Mrs. Hunt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Allen of Braintree. After the reception Mayor and Mrs. Boothby entertained their guests at the Cumberland Club.

Quincy Residents Over Forty Years.

Mr. Paine a Veteran of the Civil War and a Musician.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan S. Paine of Baxter street have issued invitations for their golden wedding anniversary to be held at their home next Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Paine are one of the best known couples in Quincy, having resided here for many years.

Mr. Paine was born in that part of Randolph, now known as Holbrook, June 5, 1832, and Mrs. Paine, who before her marriage was a daughter of John Hancock and Mrs. Lois Thayer of Braintree, was born in that town Sept. 14, 1832.

After obtaining his early education, Mr. Paine learned the shoemaker's trade and has worked on leather ever since that time. While yet a young man he met and wooed Esther Thayer, one of belles of Braintree, to whom he was married, Nov. 17, 1853, by Rev. Dr. Richard Storrs.

Eight years later they moved to Quincy and have since resided here. Three children blest this union, two of whom are now living. Charles E. Paine, who resides in South Boston, and Ida F., who married Albert H. Humphrey of Dorchester, since deceased. Mrs. Humphrey is now a teacher in the Washington school.

When war between the north and south was declared, Mr. Paine was one of the early volunteers in defense of his country. He enlisted July 22, 1862, in Co. K. of the 33d Mass. Regt., known as a company of sharpshooters. His regiment was sent to Alexandria, Va., and later to New York, where he was detailed to the 19 Regt. V. R. C. band, and sent to Washington. He remained in the capitol city during the greater part of the remainder of his three and one half years' service, the last fifteen months however being stationed at the rebel camp at Elmira, N. Y.

Returning to Quincy he again took up his trade of shoemaker, which he has since followed although of late years he has confined his energies to repairing.

Mr. Paine was quite an accomplished musician in his early days, his instrument being the cornet. He played that instrument in the Quincy band, which was once a flourishing organization in Quincy, and also played in an orchestra for dancing.

His health he considers as generally good, although his lower limbs bother him at times. Mrs. Paine had quite a severe illness some months ago, but is now quite smart again.

—Gen. U. S. Grant's old farm, four miles from St. Louis, has recently been sold, a street railway is to be built running to it, and a part of it is to be made into a pleasure resort, which is expected to be especially attractive because of its association with Grant's life before the war.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

The location is the best of any hall in the city. The street cars pass the door with a turn out right in front of the Hall.

The floor is of selected maple laid with the greatest care, and is kept in perfect condition being covered with canvas when not used for dancing.

The ventilation—a most important consideration—is such as to keep the air pure with even a crowded hall and without causing any drafts.

The Hall is lighted by electricity, brilliantly and pleasantly, and with a switchboard arranged so that all desired effects can be obtained in the Hall proper or on the stage. Gas is used as an auxiliary light.

The heating is direct—indirect, ample, and giving the most healthful results.

The Stage has been designed with care, and is furnished with a particularly generous supply of attractive and appropriate scenery.

In case of fire the re pails of water and chemical fire extinguishers throughout the Hall. There is an asbestos fire curtain by which the Stage can be instantly cut off from the Hall proper. There are nine (9) doors opening from the Hall and five (5) separate exits.

As a whole. Quincy Music Hall has been carefully planned to meet the requirements of those who wish a large and really first class Hall.

The Management will be glad to book dates now for the season of 1903–1904.

Opticians and Opticians.

'Tis the Pedler Optician. I heard him complain:
"Im tired of tramping, I must rest once again."
So he settles him down for a month or two's rest,
And will charitably (?) give your eyes a "free test."

When later you find that your "specs" are not right,
You also will find that he has skipped in the night,
That your fine gold-bowed glasses are nothing but brass,
That you have the "experience," while he has the cash.

If you are troubled with headaches or defective sight, shun all pedlers and strange opticians. Consult WILLIAMS, who has fitted glasses to thousands upon thousands right here in Quincy during the past sixteen years.

He has all the latest instruments that scientists can devise and every facility for dark room examinations.

He will tell you frankly about your case and will not burden you with glasses if they are not necessary.

You cannot miss it if you go to

IN THE WAKE OF A SIDE COMB

By SYLVIA LEE

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

When the girl one loves as one has never loved before throws her arms about one's neck and says, "And I think it would be so lovely to have diamond side combs instead of a solitaire, if you don't mind, dear," and blushes—

Well, one buys the side combs without a question, and later perhaps one reflects. But then it's too late.

It thus befell with Harkness, and Leda wore the two starry bands so deftly posed amid the knotted tangles of her sunny curls that they suggested a diadem and in nowise led any man to the conclusion which time honored custom has drawn from the solitaire. In fact, before the betrothal was a week old Harkness himself began to wonder.

And when, at a dance at the Lakeside club, young Wrycroft, the very famous half back, invited Leda to go out for a moonlight row around the pier with him and Leda accepted and went Harkness not only wondered, but grit his teeth as well. No man who has spent ten years dancing attendance on other men's fiancees and other men's wives is going to enjoy life while his own personal fiancee and future wife is off with a fellow whose name has headed newspaper columns and whose chest can hardly find space for all his medals. The couple were gone an hour and seven minutes by a watch which had come down through three generations of the Harkness family, and when they did reappear the owner of the watch stood at the head of the wide stair and claimed the young lady for the next waltz. Wrycroft, happily oblivious to his crime, strolled off, and Harkness led the girl around the wide promenade to a place which was quiet and retired enough for private conversation. He was boiling within, but nothing could have been more sweetly calm than the way in which he put his arm about her and asked with careless placidity:

"Did you row far, dear?"

"I didn't row at all," said Leda. "He rowed."

Harkness kissed her with exceeding gentleness. "Did you land anywhere, darling—on the Point, for instance?"

"N-u-u-o," said Leda.

Harkness passed his finger over her pretty hair in silence for a few minutes, and then he suddenly gave a sharp exclamation:

"Good God, Leda, you've lost one of your combs!"

Leda put both hands to her head and almost shrieked as she realized the truth.

"Perhaps you forgot to put one in?" said her lover.

"No; I had them both, I'm sure." She began to cry. Harkness scratched matches, and they both looked all over the floor, but not a diamond glittered in the general gloom of the hour.

Very much later in the evening while Harkness was twostepping with Mrs. Lancaster a sudden turn showed him Leda speaking earnestly to Wrycroft. Wrycroft looked terribly used up, and Harkness smiled grimly.

"Oh, what a smile!" said Mrs. Lancaster. "It's both impressive and frightening. You make me afraid of you, and yet I admire the smile."

Harkness wondered if he wasn't a fool to be contemplating the addition of another wife to the assemblage.

"You look like a cross between Mephistopheles and Machiavelli," went on Mrs. Lancaster, who was slender and never lost her breath. "Which do you favor?"

"I can't spell either," replied Harkness shortly. He felt inclined to join the next expedition to the north pole.

The dance endured exceedingly late. It was quite 3 when the last woman retired, and a half dozen men were still lounging on the piazzas when the first gray streaks of dawn appeared above the Point. Harkness sprang up when he perceived them and yawned vigorously.

"I'm going to bed," he declared, "and I shall not tarry long upon the order of my sleeping, either."

Young Wrycroft stood up, too, and passed his hand over his forehead.

"I don't feel very fit," he said slowly. "I believe I'll go for a little row and maybe take a dip from the Point."

He went down the steps as Harkness entered the house. Later curiosity led the latter to wander to the window and look to see if Wrycroft was really carrying out his purpose.

A rowboat lay on the sandy stretch opposite, and the rosy light of the rising sun illumined a figure which paced restlessly up and down the rustic paths skirting the shore.

"I shouldn't call that exactly swimming?" said Harkness to himself a little grimly. He pulled down the shade with a violent jerk and got into bed.

* * * * * * *

It was quite noon when he awoke. The day was glorious, and the bosom of the lake was dotted with sailing parties. He gave the bell two punches for hot water and twisted the dressing case toward the window as a preliminary to shaving. The mirror reflected the Point, and as Harkness started to tip it he saw a girl disembarking alone.

He unhung his field glasses.

Yes, it was Leda!

He threw the glasses on the bed and went on with his toilet.

Every one was at luncheon when he went down, and as he stopped by Leda's chair to remind her that she was to drive out with him at 3 he could not help seeing how wretched she looked. Her hair bore no sign of side comb.

When they went out later there seemed to be a species of shadow mixed with the preliminary silence.

The man spoke first (and he waited a good while).

"You haven't found it, have you?"

"Oh, dear, no."

"Don't you think perhaps it fell out in the boat?"

"Way, there was nothing in the boat to loosen it."

Harkness felt the corners of his mouth suddenly give way even while his temper rose. He looked off to the right for a long minute and then asked severely:

"Was there anything at the Point to loosen it?"

Leda's mouth flew open in undisguised fright.

"Who told you we were to the Point?"

"I knew it all the time."

She began to cry.

"I never will again, tru'y."

"How could you behave so?" said the lover, launching himself suddenly into the full tide of his righteous wrath. "You put me beyond all patience; going off like that with Wrycroft, when you know perfectly well that you belong to some one else, and then actually letting him"—

Leda seized his arm.

"Only once," she protested earnestly, "only once."

"Once is once too often," said Harkness, a great and exceeding bitterness welling up in his tone. "Once is a great, great many times too often, considering the situation. Now, Leda, listen to me," he continued sternly. "Either promise me that you will never, never again do anything in the slightest degree questionable or we'll call it all off, and you can give me back the comb that you still have."

"Oh, I'll promise!" said Leda, with a submissive choke. "I'll never, never do so again. Truly, truly. Upon my word and honor."

Harkness looked to the right and left and behind. Then he leaned down and kissed her.

Leda smiled happily, almost forgetting the side comb.

"She's a dear little girl," said her lover, and, taking all the driving apparatus into his right hand, he thrust the left into his breast pocket and drew forth the missing comb.

Leda screamed.

"Oh, where did you find it?"

"I didn't find it anywhere," he said coolly, as he adjusted the reins again. "I took it out of your hair myself last night."

A Dog's Fidelity.

In the upper part of the famous Sequatchie valley, in east Tennessee, a man and his wife settled when the country was new and wild. One of the first crops that they raised was a considerable field of cotton. When it was ready to be picked, they went out together, prepared to make a holiday out of this pleasant labor. Their one baby was left in a cradle at the edge of the field, and the faithful old dog was instructed to watch the tiny sleeper.

After a considerable time they looked toward the cradle to see if all was well there. They were startled by the discovery that the little couch had been turned completely over. The dog was making queer dives underneath and yelping as if in anger. As they hastened to the place they were horrified to find the animal's jaws covered with blood and instantly came to the conclusion that he had been rending the child with his teeth.

The angry father hit the animal a deathblow with a cudgel and then hastily turned the cradle right side up. There was the baby all unharmed, and there in the bedding was an enormous rattlesnake, killed by the faithful dog after a fierce fight, in which both combatants had received many wounds.—Springfield Republican.

Guns That Saved Lives.

Guns have plenty of uses apart from killing. For instance, the signal gun of a ship is intended solely for announcing her arrival on a coast. Again, in desert countries, where water is often difficult to collect out of a mere dampness of sand, a gun barrel sunk into the ground will collect moisture in the bore, and many a life has been saved by a timely suck at the muzzle.

Minute guns are fired for public mourning, and national rejoicings take the form of a royal salute.

A slaver captured with a cargo of slaves in the tropics was put in charge of a prize crew. On her voyage the water ran short, and the slaves, slavers and prize crew were dying of thirst. This set one of the marines, a sergeant, thinking, and he hit upon a brilliant idea.

After regaining reluctant consent from the captain he took all the available gun barrels, plugged up the breech ends of a few of them, filled their bores with sea water and set them end up among the coals of the galley fire. As the steam rose he ran it through other gun barrels until it got cool. The cooling steam collected in the shape of excellent fresh water, of which he procured a steady though small supply.—London Telegraph.

Strictly Regular.

The darky's fondness for chicken is only equaled by his dexterity in getting possession of the birds. Weak considerations of mine and thine do not trouble him in the least. In any event his logic is equal to the strain of a good excuse. Witness the following conversation:

"I see you have chicken for dinner."

"Yessuh," says Mr. Erastus Pinkley.

"I hope you bought the chicken."

"Well, no, but the transaction were strictly regular. Dat chicken has been restin' on my fence wifout payin' nuffin', an' I reckoned it were 'bout time to fohclose!"—Kansas City Independent.

CHICAGO CARS RUNNING

Twenty-Five on One Line Each Makes a Single Trip

CROWDS SHOW DISAPPROVAL

Situation Complicated For Railway Company by Strike of Power House Firemen—Arbitration Appears to Hitch on Recognition of Union

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Twenty-five cars, run on the Wentworth avenue line without damage to the cars or injury to the non-union employes operating them, was what the Chicago City Railway company was able to accomplish with the assistance of the police department. The cars were run at three different times, five leading the Seventy-Seventh street barns at 8:40 a. m., 10 leaving at 10:40 and 10 at 3:10. The first two runs the round trip was made in about three hours, and the third in about one and a half hours.

While there was no active interference with the handling of the cars such as attended the attempts to run them on Thursday, the crowds that lined the streets jeered the hooted the police and the non-union men almost without intermission. But two stones were hurled at the cars during the day, one being thrown by a woman, who made her escape in the crowd before the police could reach her, and the other being hurled from the new postoffice building now being built. Neither stone did damage worth mentioning. At nightfall the officials of the street car company were inclined to view the day's work as satisfactory.

The situation was complicated for the company last night by a sudden strike of the firemen employed in all power houses used by the company. The Firemen's union made an agreement last Wednesday with the company, which was to last for a year. There was a clause in the contract which gave the firemen the discretion to go on a sympathetic strike if the company declined to arbitrate with the employes on strike now. The officials of the Firemen's union declared that they had ordered the strike because the company had declined their offer to mediate between the company and the employes now on strike and the contract was therefore repudiated. The real danger in this last strike lies in the attitude of the teamsters. They may decline to deliver coal to the company if the non-union firemen are employed, and the company has but three days' supply on hand.

During the afternoon an effort was made to bring about a peaceable adjustment of the strike. The members of the state board of arbitration called on Mr. McCulloch and on the latter's suggestion went into conference with E. R. Bliss, counsel for the company, with the hope of arranging a settlement, or at least a conference, between the strikers and the officials of the road. Nothing definite was accomplished at the conference, but another meeting has been arranged for, when a second attempt will be made to have the controversy submitted to arbitration. One of the arbitration board says that the indications are that the management of the company will agree to arbitrate all the demands of the men except recognition of the union.

Bristol, Eng., Nov. 14.—Premier Balfour was the principal speaker at a dinner here last night. He devoted himself principally to the fiscal question, but did not advance any new arguments. Let him alone when he wants to be let alone. Boredom is death to love.

You will differ on many things, but don't dispute them; agree to disagree.

Be unselfish, even if he isn't. It's the only way you can be blameless yourself.

Opposites attract. Keep your own spice of individuality, but don't let it stoop to aggressiveness.

Never try for effect. The average effect is either to distress him beyond measure or to make him mad.

Give him plenty of rope. He may love you ever so much, but he doesn't like to feel the pull of apron strings.

Don't imagine that love makes up all of his life. It is only one side of it. But make it the best and brightest side.

If he forgets his appointment and apologizes, don't pout. Treat it as a joke, and he will love you ten times more.

Don't cling to him too tightly. "Even an angel may be tiresome when one can never get out of the shadow of its wings," says a wise person.

Run and Get Health.

To take a mile run daily, as a man in training would do it, is the best way in the world for a girl to get color into her cheeks and sparkle into her eyes.

"If girls would turn their attention to running, they would find it the most exhilarating pastime in the world, as well as one of the most healthful," says an authority on athletics. "Besides adding roses to the cheeks and inches to the lungs, running is the stout woman's best resource.

"Let her take a brisk run daily, beginning with a few yards and getting up to a mile or thereabout, and she will not need to resort to a diet—that most melancholy and depressing method of reducing avoirdupois."

If a run cannot be taken daily out of doors, the running track found at every well equipped gymnasium should be utilized. A run out of doors, however, is the ideal practice, for fresh air is one of the important factors of the sport. It is fresh air that gives a girl bewitching color in her cheeks and purifies every drop of blood in her body.

To Obtain a Slim Waist.

It's nice to be plump, but to be plump in the wrong place is misery. French women, though they get quite redundant, have their redundance located properly owing to the training of their figures from girlhood. The best thing for a woman to do when she has allowed her "form to get out of form" is to regain it by taking gymnastic training of some kind, fencing or clubs or dumbbells. In the modern gymnasium there is such an apparatus for the waist—two great ropes from the ceiling terminate in a pair of padded metal rings, into which you slip your arms, and, poising your toes within the central disk on the floor, you swing yourself round and round in a circle, making your toes the pivot. It is splendid for indigestion, this apparatus, and for one's condition generally as well as one's figure. The action comes greatly from the waist, which should be the strongest part of the body and which by no means implies the thickest. The waist should be firm and in reason slight.

Table Mats.

The common custom of using rush mats under hot dishes as a protection to the polished wood does not appeal to a housewife as giving an air of daintiness to a prettily set dining table, and we suggest a pretty idea for table mats. Cut a round or oblong piece of linen the size desired and embroider with sprays of flowers or a conventional design, then cut two pieces half as large for the underside. Place the two straight edges together, which should be on the selvage at the middle across the center. When placed in this manner they are the size of the upper piece, and both should be basted together and a scallop worked around the edge through the top and underside. Now you have a mat with an opening in the center, into which you can slip a piece of asbestus cut the shape of the linen, only a trifle smaller. When the mat needs laundering slip out the asbestus and launder same as doilies.

A Medical Defense of Corsets.

The use of the corset is to transmit the pressure of the skirt bands to the hips and the ribs and so to protect from their pressure the organs in the region of the waist. The conclusion is that so long as skirt bands are fastened round the waist corsets should be worn. They should be stiffer than usually made if they are effectively to protect the soft middle portion of the body from the pressure of the waistband. The front should be quite straight, and the waist measurement should be at least as large as the wearer's waist, measured over a single soft garment. The abuse of the article consists in employing it as a means of compressing that which it was meant to protect from compressing—namely, the soft middle portion of the body.—Medical Press and Circular.

Cooking Sausages.

Boiling sausages for five minutes renders them more digestible and delicate than the usual method of frying. At the end of five minutes dip the sausages gently, being careful not to break them; drain, pierce the skins in several places with a fork in order to keep the sausages in shape, roll in flour and place in the frying pan or to bake in the oven in a covered pan until thoroughly done.

MANTEL ADORNMENT.

Original and Artistic Scheme Easily Carried Into Effect.

Mantelpiece adornment is always more or less a difficult matter, and since one is apt to get a little tired nowadays of the ordinary overmantel the following suggestions for a change may be of use, as they are distinctly original and artistic:

The sketch shows the wall draped with art canvas, which can be either tacked on the wall direct or else hung from a rod. Personally I prefer the rod, as it allows the drapery being shaken easily. The color of the wall drapery must be repeated in the material covering the mantelpiece, as two colors would have a patchy effect. Choose as a background something that will show up with your little bits of pottery and pictures and yet will not clash with the room. I should suggest a warm rose pink, not too pink, however, with a stencil design in green. All the frames should be stained green; also the bracket, which gives a quaint touch.

The pottery rail will not be found an expensive item. I think it can be bought by the foot ready made and afterward nailed to a piece of wood the required width of the shelf and fixed to the wall with the usual small iron supports. The rail must be stained green and the drapery fixed under, care, however, being taken not to let the rod or nails show.

This decoration would also look charming in blue, the woodwork stained brown, or equally pretty in lemon yellow, with dull black frames and rail.—Home Notes.

About Home Tones.

"You can tell the atmosphere of a home, the general character of the family as a whole, as inevitably from the manners and personality of the maid who opens the door for you as from the furnishings of the domicile itself," said an observant householder the other day. "Both unconsciously reflect the dominant tone in the domestic menage. I would rather do without a maid and compass my own work with the help of an errand runner than have a loud voiced, ill mannered person about my apartment. I would as soon hang an advertising chromo in my hall or drape my windows with red bunting." This may be an extreme view, but the fact remains that too little attention is paid to this important detail of the home. A guest is often seriously inconvenienced by a thoughtless discourteous maid, and nothing adds more to the comfort of an entire household than a gentlewoman, whatever her color or class, as servitor.

For the Teeth.

About once a week put a few drops of tincture of myrrh in the water with which you brush your teeth. It helps to sweeten the breath. A good dentifrice is made of fine chalk, three drams; Spanish soap, one dram; Florentine orris root, one dram; carbonate of soda, one-half dram. Shave the soap very fine. It is a good plan to keep a small piece of white castile soap on the toilet table and rub the toothbrush over it when brushing the teeth. Used once a day it cleanses teeth and gums. A good tooth wash for occasional use is made by dissolving two ounces of powdered borax in three pints of boiling water. As the solution cools mix with it one tablespoonful of spirits of camphor and one teaspoonful of tincture of myrrh. Keep in a well stopped bottle and for use mix about two tablespoonfuls with a gill of lukewarm water. Use this once a week instead of the tincture of myrrh.

Oil For the Hands.

A certain woman whose hands had been neglected until they were yellow and blue and gray—all colors except flesh color—went to a manicure to have her hands treated. The manicure, who was a very wise woman, took a bowl of pure oil of sweet almonds and immersed the hands of her patient in the oil. Keeping them there for some minutes, she took them out and gently massaged them until there was not a particle of oil on the surface. It is astonishing how much oil can be absorbed by the hands and amazing to see it disappear almost as fast as it is applied. If this is done patiently and intelligently and for fifteen minutes at a time the hands will begin to plump out and the skin to be pretty again. The hands should not be washed afterward, for the oil will surely sink in if well massaged.

Floor Wax.

To make wax for a floor shave a pound of beeswax very thin, mix it in a gallon of turpentine and let the whole stand overnight. The wax will thus become thoroughly incorporated with the turpentine. Apply it when it is a smooth, even mixture to the floor and polish the floor afterward with a heavy rough cloth or a waxing brush which comes for the purpose. Success in the work depends upon the thorough polishing done after the preparation of wax is applied.

STUDY OF JAPAN.

Mr. Kimura, a Japanese, Speaks.

At Meeting of the Unity Club.

Paper by Mrs. Parlin, and Solos by Miss Hastings.

An interested audience was at the Unity club last evening to listen to the excellent program that was presented. In the absence of President Curtis, the first vice president, Rev. Frank Pratt occupied the chair.

Miss Mary Hastings, whose voice always gives so much pleasure to an audience, opened the program with two of Chadwick's selections, a "nocturne" and "Gay Little Dandelion." Mrs. Chandler W. Smith presided at the piano.

Mrs. Wellington Record, the director of the evening, introduced Mrs. Frank E. Parlin, who read an exceedingly interesting essay on "The Revolution of 1868." She gave a brief sketch of Japanese social conditions up to the time of Perry's expedition, and the repeated efforts and final success that he had in opening up of intercourse between that country and the United States. She mentioned the overthrow of the Shogringate, the destruction of fuedalism, and the emancipation of the people from social thraldom into daylight.

The usual intermission then followed.

Miss Hastings again contributed two vocal solos, "My Heart's in the Highlands," and "Come Sweet Morning," from the old French, which received generous applause from the audience. Mr. Hatch then introduced Mr. Kimura, a Japanese from Harvard, who gave an interesting and logical essay upon "The open door; the introduction of Western civilization." He touched upon every phase of Japanese life, social, civil and political and religious. His object was to show how far Japan had digressed from the old customs and allied herself to the New World. He particularly dwelt upon how much the United States had done for Japan, and he capped the climax by saying that religion was the foundation of civilization.

The meeting adjourned at an early hour.

Bold Peddlers.

John Sullivan, Peter Palthe and Geo. Smith, all of Boston, were arrested in City Square early last evening by Officer Murray, and turned over to officers from Hingham by whom they were wanted.

There were four men in the party that drove into Hingham and began to peddle potatoes. It is said that they called at the house of Mrs. I. N. Winslow on North street, and while she was in the act of paying for a purchase one of the men grabbed her purse. A neighbor, who was notified, overtook the men at Hingham square, and he with a street car conductor were severely handled before the men got away. Word was telephoned to the Quincy police and Officer Murray captured three of them, the fourth man having left the team at Quincy Point.

The men were held in $700 each at the court in Abington this morning, for trial next week.

An English Author Wrote:
"No shade, no shine, no fruit, no flowers, no leaves.—November!" Many Americans would add no freedom from catarrh, which is so aggravated during this month that it becomes constantly troublesome. There is abundant proof that catarrh is a constitutional disease. It is related to scrofula and consumption, being one of the wasting diseases. Hood's Sarsaparilla has shown that what is capable of eradicating scrofula, completely cures catarrh and taken in time prevents consumption. We cannot see how any sufferer can put off taking this medicine, in view of the widely published record of its radical and permanent cures. It is undoubedly America's Greatest Medicine for America's Greatest Disease—Catarrh.

COMEDY AND DANCE.

Closing Night of the Fair of the Odd Ladies.

The fair of the "Independent Order of Odd Ladies,' in Malnati's hall, South Quincy, since Wednesday was brought to a successful close last night. The ladies did a big business during the three nights' sale and no doubt netted a handsome profit.

As a climax to the fair the ladies held a grand entertainment and dance with a crowded audience.

A two-act comedy, entitled "A Perplexing Situation," was neatly and cleverly performed under the direction of Miss May Rose. The cast of characters included Mr. John Tite, who acted as "Mr. Middleton" an up-to-date business man who believed in the potency of a dollar. Mr. Edward Jones played the part of the son "Tom Middleton," and very readily backed his father's transactions.

Mrs. Middleton (Mrs. M. Worsdell) and her supposed daughter Jess Middleton (Miss Alice Deacon) Sue Middleton. "Margaret McCue" and "Lucy Fair," a happy talkative lot took a bet with "Mr. Middleton that for six hours they would speak not a word in nor out of the house. Of course the situations which ensued were both comical and embarassing, but neither the parting of Jess with her lover, Mr. Wilson, (John Joyce) nor a visit of Uncle Ep (John Smith) who had not been in these parts for thirty years, and for convenience carried his own lunch, when traveling; nor a visit of the health officer (Alphonse Leclair) who called to investigate a reported case of smallpox in the house, could break the spell of silence until the hour when the seventy-five dollars was won. Mr. Middleton owned up he was bested and paid over the money.

Miss Celina Beliveau as "Maude," Miss Mabel Favers, as "Mrs. Nosie," and Margaret Corcoran as "Mary," were also of the cast, and played their parts acceptibly. The development of the farce showed much love making which terminated in happy engagments, all duly assented to by the fatherly Mr. Middleton.

A dance followed the entertainment and many nimble feet went round the finely polished floor until the early hours of the morning, to the music of Marnock's orchestra.

The committee of arrangements were Caroline Bowton, Mary McCue, Mary F. Carrol, Mary G. Collins, Margaret McCue, Violet A. Pirie, Alice M. Deacon, Emeline Richards, Mat el Favers, Elizabeth Spargo, Jane McLaughlin, and Mary Worsdell.

Aids: Alice Deacon, Mary McCue, Mabel Favers, Margaret McCue.

Floor Director, Arthur Collins.

Assistant floor director, Caroline Bowton.

Past Noble Grand Elizabeth Spargo, Noble Grand Caroline Bowton, Vice Grand Violet Pirie, P. Secretary Alice M. Deacon, E. Secretary Mary L. McCue, Treasurer Mary L. Thomas, and Chaplain Mary F. Carrol were the officers in charge.

—Senator Gorham declared in a speech, "No greater crime has ever been perpetuated against the women of the South than the emancipation of the negro by constitutional amendment."

What It Costs
... AND ...
What It Pays
are two values of newspaper advertising that the merchant has to consider. But the most important thing is
WHAT IT PAYS.
The merchant can get space in papers of small circulation and little influence for a little less money than the same size space would cost in the DAILY LEDGER and the QUINCY PATRIOT.
DOES IT PAY
to throw away the certainty of the profitable returns which are sure to LEDGER and PATRIOT advertisers, because it costs less to advertise in a cheaper paper?

WHY HE RESIGNED.

Ex-Senator Spragne Writes An Open Letter, Criticising Mayor.

W. M. Chase, Esq., Secretary Ward Five Republican Committee, Wollaston, Mass.:

Dear Sir —

I hereby tender my resignation as a member of the Ward Five Republican Commitiee, and ask that the same be accepted. That my reason for so doing may not be misunderstood, I wish to say, that I have always maintained that a member of a political committee should support the party nominees or resign, and as I am unable to support the nomination of Charles M. Bryant for Mayor, I am forced to resign my membership in the Ward Committee.

My ideals are not so high that I expect perfection in our public servants, but in his mismanagement of our municipal affairs;

In the treatment of those whose servant he is;

In the high-handed way he attempts to be the "whole thing," apparently forgetting or wilfully disregarding the fact that under our Charter the Executive is prohibited from interfering with the Legislative branch of the city government;

In the indecent, and oftentimes vulgar language he is wont to use in public places about those who honestly differ from him;

In the way he causes or allows the Commissioner of Public Works to use the city's paid employees for political purposes;

Because he has allowed his City Solicitor, who is sworn to serve the interests of the city, to appear as a paid lobbyist for a public service corporation, upon whose rights in our streets he must pass judgment;

Because I believe that a "house-cleaning" at City Hall is a thing greatly needed;

Because I believe our children should have decent school accommodations without unnecessary delay and political log-rolling;

Because I believe that he has caused the Republican caucuses of this city to be packed with Democrats to an extent that has been a disgrace to the party, and has resulted in its utter demoralization. Finally, because he falls so far short of what, in my estimation, the executive of a city should be, which has furnished two Presidents, and in which American Independence began, I cannot support him and consequently tender my resignation.

Yours respectfully,

EUGENE H. SPRAGUE.

Atlantic School House Lot.

Editor Daily Ledger:

Will you please let me say one word more in regard to Ward Six school house lot. It is not good business for the council to consider any other lot than the old one. By buying the land on Hancock street, (which would be dear as a gift to a private person to take, and buy and fill up.) Also buy enough on the south side to use all gravel from the old lot. By doing so we will have from two to three acres of good land, or near that; high, dry and sightly, at a cost of about half of what they will have to pay for half an acre of the one under consideration. It is good business for the council to improve what we already own, rather than to neglect their own and buy and improve some one else property. Will the council please take a little pity on the tax ridden public. If there is an objection as some stated to two school houses on one lot, it is an easy matter to build a fence between them and that will make two lots.

Heaviest Tax Payers.

—Never, perhaps, has a modern business expedition had in it more of the elements of romance than one which left London recently for Egypt under the auspices of a well-known firm of mining engineers. These 20th century pleasure seekers are acting on information obtained from papyri in the British museum written 4,000 years B. C. They are going to search for gold and precious stones in the western oasis of the Libyan desert, a practically unexplored region of over 40,000 square miles which was called by ancient writers the valley of the kings, and which is said to contain much evidence of workings for gold and precious stones.—New York Sun.

SALLY HARRIS.

Washington street Congregational church have also planned to call, and taking it all in all the day will be a memorable one.

To a representative of the Ledger, who called yesterday to offer congratulations, Mrs. Harris said that she did not feel her age. Her health was good and her memory just as good as ever, the only thing she regretted was that her hearing troubled her somewhat.

During the observance today the following original poem written by a neighbor was read:

TO MRS. SALLY HARRIS,
NINETY YEARS OLD.

Full many a year has passed away
Since a tiny babe in its cradle lay
And opened its eyes to the morning light
Looking around in wonder on the earth so bright.
Its advent had long anticipated been
With thoughts of her worthy of a queen.
We all come into the world with a cry
And sorrow and trouble follow us until we die
But we must take life as it comes
With its burden of sorrow and pain
Knowing howe'er dark the clouds the sun will shine again,
Can we realize almost a century has passed away
Since this tiny creature in its cradle lay?
Scores of years with its care and strife
All made up the struggle of life
And so, time passes on in its flight,
With her some days have been dark and many bright.
She was carried on the waves of restless tide
And at last became a happy bride,
She married and to her little children were born,
Some died and then the poor heart was torn
Was torn and rent by sorrows sway,
But she bowed in submission, just saying "it is God's way,"
His ways are mysterious and past finding out
But His ways are best, then why should we doubt.
His way! to Him we must ever bow
Knowing the grief is only for now,
That sooner or later the light we shall see
Meet our loved ones on the shores of eternity,
We envy thee, oh patient soul
Trudging along towards the final goal
With willing spirit ever ready to give
Thy remaining strength to others so long as you live.
Sometimes the words you will surely hear
In accents sweet, in tones most dear
Hear at last when thy journey is done
"Well done thou good and faithful one."

A BRIDAL TRUNK.

At Quincy Depot, Profusely Decorated, an object of Curiosity.

At the Quincy depot this morning between nine and ten o'clock there was a bran new trunk and also an equally new travelling case checked for New York, which attracted lots of attention. No information was volunteered as to the ownership, but they evidently belonged to a wedding couple, as they were rich with labels printed in good-sized type which read as follows:

"Games of love often result in a tie."

"It is a misfortuue for a women never to be loved."

"Where's the man?"

"The only true and firm friendship is that between man and woman."

"Woman's power is over the affections."

"Going to New York to get married."

"Don't worry about the next generation! They may be smarter than we."

May its journey to New York be Swift.

President Roosevelt says that he is convinced that Perry Heath, once first assistant postmaster general, "must have been cognizant of the rascalities in that department," and he demands that Mr. Heath should "be prosecuted with all the vigor and resources at command of the government."

—The most singular ship in the world is the Polyphemus of the British navy. It is simply a long steel tube, deeply buried in the water, the deck rising only four feet above the sea. It carries no masts or sails and is used as a ram and torpedo boat.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Labor Agitation and Unseasonable Weather Proving a Drawback

New York, Nov. 14.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Readjustment of wages and abnormally warm weather are not calculated to stimulate distribution of merchandise, especially wearing apparel and fuel. Several other staple lines are quiet, as is usual at this season, yet the splendid profits of agricultural communities cannot fail to put large sums of money in circulation and provide a market for commodities. Prices of all staples have fallen somewhat.

Settlements of labor disputes in meat packing and several minor industries are offset by new struggles in the building trades, street car lines and coal mines, while the cut in wages of iron workers and spinners may result in strikes. The time has come when the wisdom of labor leaders will be tested severely, for continuance of prosperity is in no small degree dependent upon encouragement of industrial activity rather than friction. A helpful event was the resumption of work at Montana copper mines, coke ovens and western stock yards.

Financial conditions are still far from easy, funds being withdrawn from this center freely, but the low position of foreign exchange promises large imports of gold, despite the opposition of European banks.

In footwear the only feature is the urgency of jobbers to get quick delivery of fall contracts, resulting in heavy shipments from New England shops.

Thief Shot Two Officers

Washington, Nov. 14.—Charles Smith, an 18-year-old negro, last night went into a lunchroom on G street and at the point of a pistol compelled the clerk to give him the money in the cash drawer, $28 in all. He then left, but the clerk, with Officer Osborne, gave chase. The negro turned on his pursuers and shot the officer in the thigh. Policeman Edwards then took up the pursuit, whereupon the negro again turned and fired, the bullet striking the policeman in the breast, but inflicting only a small bruise. The negro was arrested.

King and Marconi Are Chummy

Rome, Nov. 14.—Signor Marconi has arrived at Pisa to superintend the arrangements for the erection there of the powerful wireless telegraph station which is to communicate with the Argentine republic. The station is to be erected on the royal estate at San Rossire. After receiving Marconi in private audience the king took the inventor to the site chosen for the station, after which he further honored him by taking him into Pisa, where the king and Marconi were recognized and given a great reception by the people.

To Hasten De Costa's Ordination

Rome, Nov. 14.—Dr. F. F. De Costa, formerly a distinguished Episcopal minister of New York, who came to Rome last January to study with a view to entering the Roman Catholic priesthood, has been obliged to go to Fiesole because of the bad condition of his health. It has been decided to hasten his ordination. He will be made a sub-deacon Nov. 15, a deacon Nov. 22 and a priest Nov. 29.

Boy Blamed For Death

Providence, Nov. 14.—The responsibility for the death of J. N. Hopkins, who was knocked down by a wagon here and who subsequently died of his injuries, is laid by Coroner Lincoln on Nicholas Baldwin, the driver of the team, who is 13 years old. In his report the coroner heavily scored the habit of allowing boys of such age to drive wagons in crowded districts.

Told Tale of Kidnapping

Buffalo, Nov. 14.—Just before dying last night from injuries caused by falling under a moving freight train a 10-year-old negro boy told a disconnected story of having been kidnapped from his home in Cleveland by a white man. The police are investigating his story. The boy acted as if he had been under the influence of a drug.

Situation Not Desperate

Rome, Nov. 14.—The Tribuna publishes an interview which its St. Petersburg correspondent had with Japanese Minister Kurino there. The minister said that the situation between Russia and Japan, although serious, is not desperate, as both countries desire a peaceful solution of pending questions.

Colorado Miners' Strike Off

Louisville, Col., Nov. 14.—As the result of a concession of an eight-hour day by the operators, all of the striking miners in the northern coal fields will return to work Monday morning. This was practically decided at a conference here between the operators and a committee representing all of the unions in the district.

Czar Strengthened His Lines

St. Petersburg, Nov. 14.—There is much satisfaction here at the result of the czar's visit abroad. It is believed that a complete understanding was reached with Germany and France regarding the near and far east, rendering Russia's rear secure in the event of hostilities with Japan.

Lawyer McCurdy Acquitted

Tucson, Ariz., Nov. 14.—Walter McCurdy, the American attorney who has been in a Mexican prison nearly a year awaiting trial on the charge of forging telegrams in connection with the transfer of the stock of Yaqui Copper company, has been acquitted.

Rebate Makes Insurance Void

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 14.—Insurance Commissioner Barry says that under a decision of the Michigan supreme court life insurance policies are made void if the insured accepts a rebate on his premium.

Liquozone Cost $100,000

Yet We Will Buy a 50c. Bottle and Give it to You.

This company, composed of business, professional and medical men of ability, paid $100,000 for the right to make Liquozone. That is the highest price ever paid for the rights in one country on any scientific discovery. It was paid by us, after years of experiment with it, because Liquozone alone can kill inside germs without killing the tissues, too. Nothing else can destroy the cause of any germ disease.

Liquid Oxygen.

Liquozone is simply liquid oxygen—no drugs, no alcohol in it. It is the discovery of Pauli, the great German chemist, who spent 20 years on it. His object was to get such an excess of oxygen in staple form into the blood that no germ could live in any membrane or tissue.

Liquozone does that. We spend 14 days in making each bottle of it, but the result is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill.

Kills All Germs.

Any drug that kills germs is a poison to you and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine never destroys inside germs. Liquozone kills them with oxygen—a tonic to you—the very source of vitality. It kills them because germs are vegetables, and an excess of oxygen—the very life of an animal—is deadly to vegetable matter.

Liquozone is employed in the largest hospitals, and prescribed by the best physicians, the world over. It is essential in any germ disease, for the cause must be destroyed, and nothing else can do it. Liquozone then acts as a tonic to bring back a condition of perfect health; for oxygen is Nature's greatest tonic. Its effects are exhilarating, purifying, vitalizing. It does something that all the skill in the world cannot do without it.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

UNEXPECTED APPEARANCE

Of a Man Mourned as Dead and Who Had Been Supposedly Buried

Medford, Mass., Nov. 14.—On July 1 last John Clark left his boarding place in this city after announcing that he was going to Boston on an errand. From that time all trace of him was lost. Hospitals, morgues and public institutions were searched, but without revealing any trace of his whereabouts.

About the middle of September a body in an advanced stage of decomposition was found in a field in Lexington. The clothing worn by the dead man resembled the garments Clark had on when last seen and fragments of letters in his pockets led the friends of the missing man to identify the body as that of Clark. The remains were interred in a Lexington cemetery.

At supper time last night Clark appeared at his boarding house, greatly to the surprise of the inmates, who had thought of him as dead. He explained that he had decided to pay a visit to his family, who live just outside New York city, on the day he left Medford. On his arrival in New York he was stricken with a disease which quickly developed into an acute attack of rheumatic fever. He lay unconscious in a hospital for many weeks, quite unaware of the anxiety he was causing his friends and ignorant of the fact that a body had been identified as his and buried in his name.

Kidnapped Youngster Returned

Boston, Nov. 14—By the return of Howard Menadier, 11 years old, to his home in Dorchester last night a mysterious case ended. According to the story told by the boy he went out for a bicycle ride early in the morning of Oct. 28 and became lost in the vicinity of Franklin Field. He asked a stranger man the way to his home and the man volunteered to guide him. Instead of taking the boy home, the stranger took him to Worcester and sent him to a school near that city. Yesterday the stranger sent the boy home. It is believed that the stranger became alarmed at the publicity given the case and returned the boy before an investigation could be made.

Fire Followed Explosion

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 14.—The explosion of a naphtha tank, followed by fire, almost completely destroyed the dyehouse of Mrs. Amy A. Monarch, and Walter Monarch, son of the owner, was slightly burned, while Mrs. Mary Merritt was badly burned about the face, neck and hands. During the fire the roof of the building fell in, burying two firemen beneath the ruins, but they were only slightly injured. The loss is about $8000.

Good Season For Menhaden

Providence, Nov. 14.—The menhaden fishing season, which has just closed, has been a most successful one. The two boats of the Wilcox Fertilizer company have caught 30,000,000 fish since June and as the fish have been fat, the yield in oil and tax will be very large. Other companies have also been very successful. Southern companies, however, have caught but few fish, and these have not been productive of much oil.

Loaded With Resolutions

Boston, Nov. 14.—A deluge of resolutions came before the secretary of the American Federation of Labor Friday, and in order that the various committees might consider them the convention was adjourned until today one hour after the delegates had assembled. The business of the convention was in grave danger of being seriously blocked on account of the flood of resolutions, which now number 25

Dull Times For Boatbuilders

Bristol, R. I., Nov. 14.—Owing to the lack of orders the Herreshoff Manufacturing company has decided to reduce the working house of its employes from 54 to 40 hours a week. Prevailing conditions in the boatbuilding industry are said to be the dullest in years. Since the Reliance was built the Herreshoff working force has been reduced from 300 to one-half that number.

Fell Into Boiling Dye

Woonsocket, R. I., Nov. 14.—As the result of falling into a vat of boiling dye in the dyehouse of the Sayles Prendergast mill Joseph Morrell, 5 years old, lies at the point of death. Young Morrell was sitting on the edge of the vat, when he lost his balance and fell back. James Sheriden saw him fall and quickly grasped him by the ankles and pulled him out of the tub.

Inquest In Stephens Case

Rome, Me., Nov. 14.—A coroner's inquest on the death of Hosea Stephens who was shot and instantly killed by John Biomily, his neighbor, was held in the late home of the deceased under the direction of Coroner Snell and resulted in a finding that Biomily was responsible for the shooting. Biomily is in jail in Augusta.

$30,000 Worth of Hay Burned

Boston, Nov. 14.—About $30,000 worth of hay was destroyed early this morning by fire in the Boston and Maine Railroad company's hay sheds at Charlestown. The blaze was caused either by spontaneous combustion or by a spark from a passing locomotive.

Sports Paid Costs of Court

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 14.—Seventeen men were arraigned before Judge McDonough, charged with promoting a public boxing exhibition. They all pleaded guilty and the case was placed on file on payment of costs.

Woolen Mills Closed by Strike

Northboro, Mass., Nov. 14.—The Northboro woolen mills shut down after the weavers went out because they were not to get the same price on 30 and 33 pick work as on 35 pick.

PRESIDENT STOOD PAT

On Panama Canal Matter In Original Draft of Message

TREATY NOT NECESSARY

Proposition Was Made to Colombia In a Spirit of Fairness and Generosity—United States Should Go Ahead and Construct Canal

Washington, Nov. 14.—For several weeks President Roosevelt has had in preparation his annual message to the congress to be presented at the opening of the regular session on the first Monday of December. That part of the message in which the president discussed the negotiations between the United States and the government of Colombia for an isthmian canal treaty was completed about two weeks ago. Events have occurred since that time that have made it necessary for the president completely to rewrite that part of the message touching the canal negotiations.

In the opening sentence of his discussion of the negotiations with Colombia the president said: "I regret to report that, contrary to all expectations, the government of the republic of Colombia refused to ratify the treaty for building a canal across the isthmus of Panama."

Then, after stating that the treaty had been negotiated at the earnest request of the government of Colombia and subsequently was disapproved by the Colombian senate, the president said that the powers exercised by the United States under the treaty of 1846 were so large in the protection of transit across the isthmus that it sometimes had been questioned whether it was necessary now to obtain a treaty for the purpose of building a canal.

Continuing, he wrote: "High authorities on international law hold that the canal can be dug as an incident to exercising the power to prevent the obstruction of traffic across the isthmus. Nevertheless, in accordance with our settled policy of behaving with scrupulous fairness and generosity towards our weaker sister republics of the south, we have endeavored to provide for the building of the canal by treaty. In this treaty we went as far as it is possible for us to go in the direction of making concessions to the United States of Colombia. No further concessions can or should be made by this government."

The president stated that the circumstances of the canal case were peculiar. The canal, said he, must be dug. It was demanded by the interests of this nation and by those of the whole civilized world. The United States had solemnly pledged its word that it should be free to the commerce of the world, "reserving to ourselves merely the right to see that it shall never be used to our military disadvantage.

"A private company who in the past undertook to build the canal has failed. The events of the last few years warrant us in now saying not only that the canal shall not be constructed by any foreign government, but that it is not to be constructed by any private company. It must, therefore, be dug by the government of the United States."

Referring further along the territory bisected by the canal, the president wrote: "On the one hand the United States desires to safeguard with scrupulous care and interest and the honor of such country or countries. On the other hand, in my judgment, it is time to declare that the beginning of the canal cannot be much longer delayed. This nation does not desire to be unreasonable or impatient, but it cannot and will not permit any body of men permanently to obstruct one of the great world highways of traffic, and refusal to permit the building of the canal amounts to such obstruction. Of course to insist upon unreasonable terms is equivalent to a refusal.

"It seems evident that in a matter such as this we should finally decide which is the best route and if the advantages of this route over any other possible route are sufficiently marked we should then give notice that we can no longer submit to trifling or insincere dealing on the part of those whom the accident of position has placed in temporary control of the ground through which the route must pass; that if they will come to agreement with us in straightforward fashion we shall in return act not only with justice, but with generosity, and that if they fail to come to such agreement with us, we must forthwith take the matter into our own hands."

Meteor Illuminated City

St. John, Nov. 14.—A remarkably brilliant meteor flashed across the sky at 8:15 last evening, disappearing in the westward. The city was lighted for a second as at midday. The meteor left a trail of white, which was visible for some minutes.

Train Wreck at Buffalo

Buffalo, Nov. 14.—A passenger train was derailed a quarter of a mile east of the city line early this morning. Four passengers were injured, two of whom may die. The engineer is missing and it is feared that he is under the wreckage.

Was a Sailors' Yarn

Ferrol, Spain, Nov. 14.—The alleged attack by 25 Spanish vessels on two British steamers which arrived here in a damaged condition turns out to have no real foundation. It was an unimportant affray between fishermen.

"TO SUBDUE ISTHMIANS"

Report That Colombia Has Large Army on Way to Panama

Guayaquil, Nov. 14.—President Plaza of Equador cabled to President Marroquin of Colombia, sympathizing with him in the recent events on the isthmus of Panama. President Marroquin has replied, thanking Plaza and adding that Generals Reyes, Caballeros, Ospina and Holguin are marching on Panama with a large army to subdue the isthmians.

Lima, Nov. 14.—The Colombian minister to Peru has published cablegrams received from his government, dated at Bogota Nov. 10, 11 and 12 respectively. The cablegrams say that the Colombian government has taken measures to suppress "the isthmian traitors" and add that all parties and all classes have offered to the government their lives and properties in defense of the national territory.

Washington, Nov. 14.—Rumors are current here that the government intends to send United States troops to the isthmus of Panama, but positive, official denials are made that such is the intention of the administration, which some time ago asserted its purpose to prevent fighting that would endanger the free transit of the isthmus.

Chamberlain on Political Corruption

London, Nov. 14.—In a letter to Miss Milner, sister of the lord high commissioner to South Africa, Joseph Chamberlain, contends that the argument that political corruption results from a protective policy is absurd. Mr. Chamberlain says: "Germany is free from corruption, while in the United States, where there is a good deal of corruption, it is caused by the presence of the Irish political organizations. So far as the government of the United States is concerned the general purity of the administration has been increased of late years under the protective system."

Failed to Catch Turkey Smuggler

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 14.—An exciting attempt was made by United States customs officers at Alburg to arrest a man who was engaged in the wholesale smuggling of turkeys across the Canadian border line into this state, during which several shots were fired by the officers, who failed, however, to prevent their man from escaping into the Canadian territory. The officers succeeded in seizing the contents of a wagon, consisting of birds aggregating 1000 pounds in weight.

Columbus, O., Nov. 14.—Manufacturers of window glass representing 3336 pots out of a possible 3900 met here and completed plans for organizing the Manufacturers' Window Glass company, which will control the output of practically all of the window glass factories in the United States. The company will be capitalized at $1,500,000. A committee was appointed to secure a New Jersey charter and to adopt by-laws and form a selling agreement.

Why Russia Occupied Mukden

Odessa, Nov. 14.—The Sviet declares that Russia has reoccupied Mukden because the United States intended to utilize that place as a base of military operations and so compel China to fulfill the terms of the convention between China and the United States. The Sviet says the reoccupation of Mukden by Russia was a reply to the United States naval demonstration in the far east. The Novikrai makes a similar explanation.

Jury to Investigate Jury

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 14.—The Cole county grand jury has begun an investigation into published rumors that the jury in the bribery case of Senator Farris, which failed to agree on a verdict on the circuit court, had been "fixed" so that a verdict would not be agreed upon. Foreman Ross and Jurors Ward and Prenger were called before the grand jury and subpoenas have been issued for other jurors to appear.

Violated Child Labor Law

Trenton, Nov. 14.—The first convictions under the new child labor law were had here when the American Cigar company was fined $100 for employing two girls under 14 in its Trenton factory. The company claimed to have exercised all reasonable caution in excluding from their employ children under 14.

THE MURDER OF GREEN

Attributed to Insane Delusion on Part of His Slayer

LATTER CONSIDERED CRAZY

Victim Was Known as "Father of Greater New York" and Took Large Part In Overthrow of Tweed Ring—Had Long and Honorable Career

New York, Nov. 14.—Andrew H. Green, the "father of Greater New York," and one of the city's oldest and most valued citizens, was shot and instantly killed on the steps of his home by Cornelius M. Williams, a negro, who is believed to be insane.

The shooting was evidently the outcome of an insane delusion on the part of the negro that Green had slandered him, for, when he was asked why he had committed the murder, he replied: "I did it to save my character."

There were three witnesses of the tragedy, Miss Anna Bray, a domestic in Green's family, Emil Michelsen, an errand boy, and Patrick Dyer, a cabman. According to these witnesses the negro must have been waiting for Green to come home from his office. He generally reached home about 1:30 in the afternoon. At that hour he alighted from a Fourth avenue car, in the tunnel, at Fortieth street, and ascending the steps to the street, walked slowly towards his residence, almost directly across the street. Dyer says he saw the negro standing in the vestibule of the house and that he saw Green start to ascend the two steps leading to the hall door. At that moment Williams advanced toward him. There was a brief interchange of words, which Dyer did not hear, and then the negro fired five shots in rapid succession. Mr. Green sank to the stone pavement, blood streaming from his head, while his murderer, returning the revolver to his pocket, leaned against the railing of the stoop, as if awaiting arrest.

William H. Burns, carriage starter for the Murray Hill hotel, was one of the first to reach the negro, whom he seized as he was about to walk away and turned him over to Patrolman Houghtaling and Detective Kelly. A physician was on the spot almost immediately and pronounced Green to be dead.

As soon as the policemen grabbed the negro they searched him and found the revolver, which was still warm. They hurried him to the station house, where he was subjected to a searching examination, the result of which left little doubt of the negro's insanity. Besides the revolver the police found in Williams' pockets a razor, a purse containing $10 and a dispossess notice, dated Aug. 6, showing that he had been put out of apartments in Fifty-Seventh street.

Williams appeared to be perfectly self-possessed and acted as though he felt he had performed a meritorious deed. He is a well built man, of average height and of pleasant features. He said he was single, 43 years old and lived at 356 West Twenty-Sixth street, at which place, however, he is not known.

The prisoner answered, without hesitation or any show of irritation, all questions put to him and spoke like a man firm in the conviction that he had been deeply wronged by the man he had murdered. He told a rambling story about a colored woman, Mrs. Bessie Davis, who, until about four months ago, kept a lodging house for negroes and who, he said, had circulated statements derogatory to his character and against whom he had been trying to bring suit for $20,000 for slander which cost him nearly all his friends.

Inspector McCluskey, who also questioned the man, said he was satisfied that the man was insane. Williams said that he supported himself by taking care of furnaces.

Mr. Green, who was a bachelor, lived with his nephew, Timothy R. Green, and his three neices. Timothy R. Green says that his uncle had never before seen the man who shot him, that he had never heard of Bessie Davis and that he had never had any colored servants in his house.

No trace of the woman Davis could be found at the house mentioned by Williams, nor was the man known in a house in which he said he had lived.

Mr. Green's entrance into public life dates from his election to the office of school trustee of the 14th ward in 1854.

The strongest associations with his career in the minds of his contemporaries are with New York Central park, with his work in the financial department of the city after the wreck wrought by the Tweed ring, in which he took a leading part in overthrowing, and of late with the great scheme of the consolidated cities that commonly are spoken of as "Greater New York." Mr. Green was born at Green Hill, Worcester, Mass., on the homestead which his family had occupied for four generations. His ancestors took part in the war for independence.

CITY BREVITIES.

The house of Horace B. Spear, on Adams street, looks fine in its new coat of paint. It is colonial yellow.

The monthly vesper service in the Wollaston Baptist church will be held at 7.30 next Sunday instead of 4 as hitherto.

A meeting of the Hospital Aid Association will be held Thursday, Nov. 19, at 2.30 P. M. in the chapel of First Church, City Square. The change of date is owing to Thanksgiving day which occurs on the 26th. A large attendance is desired.

Wheelbarrow Ride.

Nearly 500 people gathered at Braintree, Thursday evening, to witness the paying of an election bet. Many of them felt that they would be dissappointed for so many election bets have not deen settled.

George Hobart not only loaned his new wheelbarrow but decorated it beautifully for the ocasion.

Isaac Jones the popular River street crossing tender, was at the Gallivan headquarters early with his "Martland's band" and at the appointed time the editor of the Observer appeared for his ride.

Representive H. R. Drinkwater, with a corps of assistants, was in waiting. Officer Jeremiah Gallivan fired his pistol for the start and the procession moved from Elm street through Railroad street to River street, thence to starting point.

"Ike" kept fresh from the start but grew hungry as he passed the "Blue Store."

Upon invitation of Rep. Drinkwater-Messrs Jones and Prescott went to the "Blue Store" and there found a table daintily set, laden with roast duck and all the fixings.

The table was set in the large show window and while the betters were enjoying supper a mischievous boy cut the curtain exposing the dining room and diners to the hungry multitude.

The exterior of the building was illuminated with red lights and N. R. Procter's left-over cannon crackers added materially to the entertainment.

The supporters of Mr. Drinkwater, for Representative of this district, desire to thank him for a supper unexcelled in Braintree and thank him for his interest.

DOMESTIC SERVICE

Miss Johnson Believes the Men Should Be Interested.

To the Editor of the Ledger:

As one of those especially interested in the discussion arranged for the annual meeting of the Quincy Home Science Association on "the Domestic Service Problem, and what we can do to solve it," will you allow me through your columns to express my regret that so few were present to take part in it?

However one's own household work may be accomplished—whether by the aid of one, two, or ten servants, or if the mistress of the house does her own work hiring occasional assistance the problem is still one of pressing and universal importance. Present conditions bring distress and annoyance from which family life everywhere suffers—difficulties in securing skilled labor in the household for long or short periods affect people both of large and small means and in these days when all subjects are discussed from Browning to babies inclusive a discussion of the principles of right, justice and expediency underlying the domestic service problem from the standpoint of employer and the employed, it would seem should receive ready and general attention from intelligent women.

Considering the subject theoretically, it is difficult to understand why domestic service, more than any other employment, should constitute a problem. Here is a department of labor which means an unfailing, ever enlarging field for woman's work. It does not involve competition of women with men and the consequent lowering of wages of both as in so many other wage earning employments.

It is financially profitable—board and wages counted, the average household worker making from $350 to $550 a year, or as much as the average school teacher, stenographer or dressmaker or the better paid workers in shops or factories. Finally, owing to the conditions under which house work is performed necessitating slight expense for dress, none for laundry, or for getting to and from work, the house worker desiring to do so is able to save more in proportion to her wages than workers in almost any other employment.

Obvious objections to household work—long and indefinite hours, employers too often unreasonable and inconsiderate inadequate board and room accommodation and lack of respect for house work as a profession—all these can be done away with when intelligent wage earners generally come to appreciate the advantages of domestic service and in any number enter into it by their intelligence and efficiency commanding respect for their profession and respect and fair treatment for themselves individually.

Yet there is undoubtedly a deep seated and wide spread prejudice against household service, any other available employment being preferred by the average woman. May it not come to pass eventually that men with their keen business instinct and appreciation of industrial needs and conditions shall feel impelled to bring their common sense to bear upon the domestic service problem and endeavor to change the point of view of their women kind.

The Gospel of Hard Work, with head and hand, has long been preached to American men and to their honor, be it said, they have heard it gladly—it remains for them to appreciate the fact that for women to work with head and hand is equally valuable and that for such work domestic service is on the whole for the average woman worker the most available, healthful and the best paid. Might it not be worth while for labor commissions, trades unions and other men's organizations, to turn their attention especially to this question, most vital and of universal application?

Meanwhile the more serious discussions of the domestic service problem among both employers and wage earners the bitter and the more serious the attitude of the public toward this problem of increasing dimensions, the better. The too frequent jocular allusions in newspapers and magazine articles to "the Revolt against Biddy" "Servant Galism," etc. are unsuitable in alluding to an occupation most honorable in that it ministers to the welfare of the home, the primary source of human happiness and progress and discourteous to the many worthy and intelligent women workers engaged in it.

BRAINTREE.

Miss M. Salvage, recently employed as stenographer for Williams, Kneeland & Co., left for her home in New York, Thursday.

The King's Daughters met with Mrs. O. B. Oakman of Franklin street Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. J. Russell Hathaway of Franklin street entertained, Thursday, Captain and Mrs. Lewis, and Mrs. Burgamann wife of Captain Burgamann of Portland, Maine.

Mr. Potter, manager of the electric light department has moved from Holbrook avenue to Mr. Foss' house, French avenue.

The Loyal Knights and Ladies will entertain the Imperial officers at their meeting Wednesday evening, Nov. 18. A full attendance of the members is requested.

The ladies of the First church met in the chapel Wednesday morning to tack comforters and discuss plans for a fair to be held at an early date.

The Willing Workers of the First church will observe their second anniversary in the vestry next Monday evening by giving a social.

Master Francis Pratt, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia is improving.

The Jonas Perkins School Association voted to purchase a clock for the school hall at their last meeting.

The members of the Antietam Camp 32 and L. A. S. No. 16 have been invited to attended the anniversary of Gen. Sylvanus Thayer W. R. C. No. 94, which is to be observed by serving a turkey supper in Odd Fellows' hall, this evening at 6.30.

Monday evening, between five and six o'clock, Mr. J. M. Foster, while on his milk route, came to grief. A furiously driven automobile ran into his wagon cutting off two wheels, spilling the milk and wrecking things generally. The chauffeur, indifferent to Mr. Foster's distress, disappeared rapidly with his infernal machine.

Mrs. Learnard and Charles Hunt with their families attended the golden wedding of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Harris of Holbrook. Although the storm kept many away still there were a large number. Twelve children, six of whom are living, and seventeen grandchildren helped to entertain the guests. Among the useful and valuble gifts we noticed a birthday cake marked 1853—1903, The friends departed at a late hour wishing the worthy couple many returns of the day.

The third annual fair of the Pond Cemetery association was held in the Town hall on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings of the present week. The fair proper was preceded by an elaborate supper served in the lower hall from which not one of the many who partook arose from the table hungry. At this table there were no small mouthfuls doled out for good money—as too often happens in country fairs. On the contrary everyone had enough to more than satisfy the most ravenous appetite. The committee, who are to be highly commended, were Mrs. C. H. Hobart, Mrs. H. W. Borden, Mrs. W. A. Torrey, Mrs. A. F. Hollis and Mrs. A. R. French.

Keohan—Butler.

Mr. John J. Keohan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Keohan of Weymouth, and Miss Lillian G. Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Franklin Butler of South Boston, were married Wednesday afternoon at the rectory of the Gate of Heaven church by Rev. John T. O'Brien. Miss Mae O'Meara of South Boston was bridesmaid, and the best man was Charles B. Butler. The bride was attired in a dress of champagne voile over silk to match, trimmed with old real lace and carried lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was dressed in a gown of pongee, trimmed with white lace and carried roses.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents. The young couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Keohan, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sullivan, Mrs. Joseph B. Hardy and Mrs. Thomas E. Lennon of Lowell. They received many valuable presents. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Keohan started on their wedding tour to New York and Philadelphia.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.

"Nothing neater, daintier, sweeter than Winsom Winnie on the stage today" is the claim made by the producers of this week's attraction at the Columbia Theater. Boston, and Miss Paula Edwardes and her merry company of 100 singers and commedians are fully living up to the claim. Tuneful, melodious, full to the brim with funny quips and pretty girls, it abounds in those peculiar properties which make an up-to-date production successful. The big house which witnessed its initial performance in Boston Monday night went into gales of laughter in sympathy with the magnetic little commedienne, for Miss Edwards is above all things magnetic and irresistible in her own personality. Matinees are given Wednesdays and Saturdays at the Columbia.

BUT ONE LINE

Of Street Cars Running in Chicago.

Obstructions Placed on Tracks.

Poor Prospect of General Resumption of Operation.

Chicago, Nov. 16.--A victory, temporary, at least, has been scored by the Chicago City Railway company against its striking employes, for a regular service was maintained Sunday on its Wentworth avenue line, which extends a distance of eight miles. The first car, manned by a newly hired non-union crew, left the car barns, guarded by a dozen policemen, at 8 o'clock and was followed four minutes later by another train.

Twenty-five cars in all were put into the service, but the schedule was frequently interfered with by delays caused by obstructions being placed on the tracks and the inexperience of the men in charge of the cars. Clashes between the police and the crowds that lined the streets were frequent and when darkness set in it was not considered safe to send more cars from the barn. The last car returned to the barns at 4:30 o'clock and after it had been safely housed the day's work came to an end.

More arrests were made during the day than at any time since the strike was declared. The most trouble was experienced between Twenty-Second and Thirty-Ninth streets. In the blocks bounded by these thoroughfares large crowds congregated and as the first car passed the police and non-union employes were hooted. This was soon followed by more violent demonstrations. Huge barricades were piled upon the tracks. Stones were thrown at the cars and a hand-to-hand conflict between the police and the crowd followed in several instances. Several patrol wagons were soon filled with prisoners.

One of the men arrested, who gave his name as McQuaid, is said to have placed a cartridge of large calibre upon the track near Harrison and Clark streets. Thousands of spectators in the street at the time believed it was dynamite, became panic stricken and dashed for places of safety. Assistant Chief of Police Schueltar removed the cartridge and arrested McQuaid.

It being Sunday, the absence of traffic teams on the streets lessened the trouble for the police in the matter of blockades, but another source of serious annoyance was the great crowds of idlers, sightseers and sympathizers who were attracted to the streets through which the cars had to pass.

During the latter part of the afternoon the interference with the progress of the cars had greatly diminished and many of the cars were half filled with passengers as they sped along unmolested.

According to the officials of the company enough non-union men have been secured to extend the service in all directions if police aid is forthcoming, but this, it is claimed, is impossible, as the city has been taxed to the limit to protect the Wentworth avenue line alone. If it is found impossible to open up any of the other lines all the efforts of the company will be confined to the Wentworth avenue line and the regular schedule will be inaugurated if possible.

As far as known no further attempt was made yesterday to bring about a settlement and the indications are for a protracted struggle.

King Christian's Celebration

Copenhagen, Nov. 16.—Fetes were held throughout Denmark Sunday in honor of the 40th anniversary of King Christian's accession to the throne, the people everywhere rendering homage to their aged and beloved sovereign. King Christian is in excellent health. Thousands of telegrams and addresses of congratulation, as well as gifts and flowers, have been received. Many of the messages of congratulation came from the United States.

Voted to Remain Idle

Louisville, Col., Nov. 16.—The official count of the votes cast by the miners of the northern coal district defeats the proposition for a settlement of the strike. It has leaked out that there was a majority of six votes in favor of rejecting the proposition. The men were afraid to accept a conditional eight-hour day on account of the effect it would have on the south.

Four Alarms in Four Hours Early Sunday Morning.

INCENDIARIES

Keep the Quincy Fire Department Busy.

The First Alarm Was False.

Loses of $800 and $300 at Two of the Fires.

The fire department was kept on the jump early Sunday morning, four alarms being sounded between 1.30 and 5.30. The first alarm was at 1.35, when Box 143 on Station street was rung in. This proved to be a false alarm.

Before the recall for this alarm could be sounded an alarm was pulled from Box 441 on Quincy street. This acted as a second alarm and brought the apparatus from Wollaston and Quincy Point.

This time there was a fire and it made a bright illumination. It proved to be in a blacksmith shop, at present occupied, on Quarry street, near the old Frederick & Field quarry. The fire was the work of an incendiary and the building was destroyed entailing a loss of $300.

It is a question whether Box 143 was pulled to divert the attention of the firemen and take them in the opposite direction from the Quarry street fire or whether the box was pulled by someone who saw the reflection of the fire and thought it nearer at hand. At any rate there is some mystery about the sounding of these two alarms.

It was not long after the department had returned to their quarters before an alarm was rung in from Box 62. This was sounded at 5.30 and was immediately followed by another alarm from the same box.

The fire was in a building at 74 Hancock street, Atlantic, opposite the old hotel. The building was owned by Eliab Ramsdell. The street floor was occupied by Mrs. Jennie H. Gardner as a variety store, and the upper part was used as a tenement by John McKenna.

The fire started in a vacant room on the second floor among a lot of rubbish and had made considerable headway before it was discovered. When the department arrived a brisk fire was in progress, and before it could be extinguished it had burned up through the roof.

The rear part of the building was badly damaged and the loss is estimated at $800.

Close Contest.

The Wollaston football team journeyed out of the state on Saturday and played the Maplewood A. C. team at Portsmouth, N. H. It was an interesting and closely contested game, the winning points not being made until the close of the second half. The score was 16 to 11 in favor of the the home team.

For the Wollastons Jones and Fowler both made touchdowns from which Fowler kicked one goal. The home team scored three touchdowns, but kicked only one goal.

SMITH---BAKER.

Germantown is the Scene of a Pretty Wedding.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Baker, Palmer street, Germantown, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Sunday afternoon, the bride being their daughter, Miss Annie May Baker, and the groom, Mr. Alexander Marr Smith of West Quincy.

Just before sunset, at four o'clock, surrounded by the immediate family and friends, Rev. Edwin N. Hardy of Bethany church united the happy young people in the holy bonds of matrimony. The bride was attended by a maid of honor, Miss Viola Dexheimer of Weyand four bridesmaids, Miss Vesta Pawsey of Rock Island, Miss Mabel Newcomb of Wollaston, Miss Sadie Pawsey of Rock Island and Miss Mabel Wentworth of Quincy. Miss Ethel Humphrey, at the organ, played the wedding march.

Mr. Max McIntosh of Quincy was best man and the ushers were Messrs. Ernest Baker of Brockton, Guy and Chester Baker of Quincy and Everett Baker of Bridgewater.

The bride's gown was a green foulard with white lace and pink liberty silk trimmings. She carried a lace handkerchief which was carried by her great, great aunt one hundred years ago, and wore a gold chain the gift of the groom. The maid of honor wore a blue silk muslin, Miss Vesta Pawsey a pink silk muslin, and the other three bridesmaids were in white.

A reception followed the ceremony from five until seven, Mr. and Mss. Smith being assisted in receiving by the bride's mother and the maid of honor.

After a wedding trip of two weeks to New York and Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside on Palmer street, Germantown, where they will receive friends after December first.

Among the guests were Chief of Police Hayden of Quincy, George Mulhall and family of Boston, W. P. Ball of Dorchester, besides many Quincy friends.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

The location is the best of any hall in the city. The street cars pass the door with a turn out right in front of the Hall.

The floor is of selected maple laid with the greatest care, and is kept in perfect condition, being covered with canvas when not used for dancing.

The ventilation—a most important consideration—is such as to keep the air pure with even a crowded hall and without causing any drafts.

The Hall is lighted by electricity, brilliantly and pleasantly, and with a switchboard arranged so that all desired effects can be obtained in the Hall proper or on the stage. Gas is used as an auxiliary light.

The heating is direct—indirect, ample, and giving the most healthful results.

The Stage has been designed with care, and is furnished with a particularly generous supply of attractive and appropriate scenery.

In case of fire the re pails of water and chemical fire extinguishers throughout the Hall. There is an asbestos fire curtain by which the Stage can be instantly cut off from the Hall proper. There are nine (9) doors opening from the Hall and five (5) separate exits.

As a whole, Quincy Music Hall has been carefully planned to meet the requirements of those who wish a large and really first class Hall.

THE ETERNAL FEMININE

By Helene Wood

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

"Elizabeth, the eternal feminine will assert itself."

Elizabeth put on her long blue painting apron without replying and began to stretch a canvas. She was adorable so, her gray eyes defiantly averted and a flush of anger on her cheeks.

"There you go again. If I don't know my own mind at twenty-six when will I?"

"At twenty-seven or eight perhaps. I hope sooner. Your ideas are all wrong. Believe me, the day will come when you will long for a home of your own and some one nearer than a girl friend or masculine admirer."

He had the last word, for the arrival of the model, a thin, shabby looking girl, put an end to the discussion.

"Tomorrow at 5, then?"

Elizabeth gave a brisk little nod. She was already sketching in the outlines of her study, and Phil was forgotten before he had closed the door.

The young man was quite accustomed to such treatment. Admitted as he was to her most intimate friendship on an understanding of strict camaraderie, he broke over the traces every year, was invariably refused and bore his defeat with easy aflount. Some day she was bound to change her mind, and he might be the lucky man.

Elizabeth's own opinion was very different. She had no time for thought until her work was laid aside for the day. Then she sank into a nest of cushions to think luxuriously.

No, Phil was wrong. She would never care to leave her studio—above all, to marry. Had not the art school girls who married ceased developing intellectually? Shut up in their own four walls, they became entirely absorbed in dear Tom or Dick and the children.

Children! Elizabeth shuddered. A child in a book or picture was very delightful, but the reality, a dirty little creature always crying or being ill! She would never leave her work, her studies, her pleasures, for a deadly stupid family life. Never!

* * * * * * *

A cry of warning. The trolley car stopped with a lurch. In an instant the conductor and motorman were down in the street, followed by most of the passengers. Elizabeth, impatient at the delay, resolved to walk the block or two remaining. Her model would be waiting for her at the studio.

When she left the car she found herself the only woman in a large group collected about a sickening black mass which had splashed car wheels and cobblestones with blood. The conductor, a good natured looking young Irishman, stood with tears rolling down his face. He was holding a golden haired baby, a toddler of a year or two. The motorman, white and frightened, was telling how the baby had suddenly run in front of the car and the mother had thrown the little one out of the way, only to be crushed herself.

The child began to cry, and the conductor turned to Elizabeth imploringly. "You take the baby, mum. The ambulance is comin'. The cops will be after findin' its relatives."

Before she could reply he had put the baby in her unresisting arms.

Some moments later, hardly knowing how it had all happened, she found herself walking into her studio building carrying a little child. In her purse was a bit of paper inscribed "19 Plumley alley." It was the poor woman's address, to which she had promised to take him. A man she knew, who was passing along the corridor, smiled and remarked, "Rather a small model, Miss Blair." Elizabeth flushed as if she had committed a crime and was relieved to close the studio door behind her.

Then she put down her burden and looked at her watch. Ten o'clock! The model had come and gone. No hope now. She herself would have to take the child home. A short conference at the phone told her the whereabouts of Plumley alley, eight squares south and just off the —th street car line.

When she left the phone she found the little one standing close by. Elizabeth studied him with half shut eyes.

"Not bad," she thought—"a Donatello, if the forehead were a little higher and the curls not so fine and tight. How I should like to paint him! Come here, little one. What's your name?"

"Alan Campbell naughty."

"Are you naughty?"

"'Es. I want my muvver."

His mother! Elizabeth felt a quick pang of horror. "Come here, and I will show you something pretty."

She held out her watch. The silver and gold ornaments on its long chain jingled attractively. Alan Campbell slowly drew near the shining object. He seized it just as a little stray dog would have done a bit of cake—seized it and walked away. Then Elizabeth brought out pictures. It was surprising how quickly they were friends, sitting on the floor side by side looking at "pussies" and "doggies."

It was after 11 when Alan Campbell's face began to look doleful.

"I want a cup of millik," he announced.

There were a pitcher of cream, some biscuits and a glass of jelly in her stock of tea table provisions. With this luncheon spread out before him, Alan Campbell was soon installed on the edge of the model stand.

When he had drunk all the cream except that which soaked into her pretty rug, when his face was gory with currant jelly, and biscuits had lost their attraction, Elizabeth took one sticky little hand in hers and led him firmly to the washstand. After he was clean and dry she sank into a chair, exhausted.

"I want up on 'ap," cried a little voice appealingly.

She drew him up. For awhile he was amused by her velvet blouse; then his eyes began to close. Alan Campbell's head was on Elizabeth's shoulder. His right hand clasped hers tightly. He was fast asleep.

Elizabeth had the true artistic nature which when it feels does so with abandon. The soft little body in her arms, the warm, sweet breath on her face, touched the very depths of her heart. Never in her life had she felt so strangely happy—happy and yet troubled. She was embarrassed before her own emotions and bent her head, clasping him more tightly. The world thought of her as a woman. She had a womanly poise and a strong character, but her heart, a girl's heart, could not understand this awakening of mysterious instincts, the motherhood beneath her culture and ambition and stronger than both. The flying moments, her beloved work, everything was forgotten as she held the sleeping child.

A half hour passed, an hour. Alan Campbell suddenly opened a pair of questioning blue eyes. Startled by the strange face, he cried: "Where's my muvver? I want my muvver!" His little body shook with sobs.

Rudely aroused from her dream, Elizabeth felt a quick pang of jealousy. Yes, she was jealous of the woman whose hold on the child even death was powerless to break. Silently she put on her wraps, gathered Alan Campbell, sobs and all, into her arms and hurried down to the —th street cars.

Plumley alley proved to be a neat flagged court and No. 19 a tiny white house with green shutters. A little old man, whose eyes were swollen with weeping, came to answer her ring. Alan Campbell called "Huddo Grampy." The poor old fellow tried in vain to control his grief. The girl shook the trembling old hand and turned away, unable to express her sympathy. Alan Campbell smiled after her like a sunbeam.

Elizabeth closed her studio door with a shiver. Never had it looked more beautiful, more orderly or more cold and still.

"I want my muvver," a little voice kept sounding in her ear. Ah, these mothers she had been pitying, how she envied them now! It was ridiculous to feel so, and yet, and yet she knew her arms would always be empty and her whole body hungry for the presence, the caresses of a little child, something of her own, her very own, to love.

There was hardly time to arrange her hair and light the spirit lamp before Phil knocked. Hoping that he would not notice her red eyelids, she concentrated her attention on the tea things. She thought she was succeeding until Phil said, "What's up, Elizabeth?"

"Oh," she replied, "I saw a frightful accident this morning. I can't seem to forget it." Tears rolled down her cheeks.

Phil longed to take the sensitive girl into his arms, but he only said cheeringly:

"There are many cruel things in this world. We can't help them. Try to forget all this. Put on your hat and come out to dinner with me. I'll tell you what—we'll go and see Wilson in 'The Matador;' make you laugh; do you good."

She only sobbed.

Phil knelt beside her chair and took her hand.

"Please don't cry. It hurts me to see it."

It was very un-Elizabeth-like, but somehow she let her head droop on his shoulder and closed her eyes, as Alan Campbell had done. It was so good to feel some one near, some one who was strong and who loved her. Phil could not understand, but was grateful for the miracle which had made the girl he loved seek his arms like a child. He spoke low and tenderly.

"Dear, won't you let me be your consoler always?"

He bent his head to her tear stained cheek and her little word of reply was not so loud as the glad beating of his heart.

"Only," said Elizabeth, when she had recovered something of her usual spirit, "don't flatter yourself it was your conquest. It was nothing at all but the eternal feminine."

The Independent Cat.

"There is nothing I admire in a cat so much as her absolute independence," said a man as he watched a big Angora sweep haughtily around the room. "You are bound to treat a cat kindly. If you abuse her or ill treat her she cares nothing more for you. Now, a dog will lick the hand that beats him, but a cat will have only the utmost contempt for you. This tendency of a dog to love its master even after it has been kicked may appeal to some, but I like the cat's high, proud spirit better. This independent spirit of the cat crops out in many ways. You may slap her for stealing milk, but the next time she gets a chance she will steal milk. She will appropriate the best chair in the room and endure with a supercilious air your polite hints or stern commands to her to get down. But she will never budge until the spirit moves her or you remove her by force. If she is crazy to get in the window and you open it for her, she takes her time, stops to sniff a bit and does not allow you to think for one instant that she was at all concerned over the opening of that window. They are beautiful animals, and they know it, and if you don't like them they don't care a hang."—New York Times.

HOMES FOR EX-SLAVES.

Georgia Plan to Care For Old Negro Servants of Antebellum Days.

Moses Bentley, colored, has secured an option on 201 acres of land three miles east of Constitution, Ga., and one and one-half miles from East lake, where it is his intention to establish log cabin homes for old negro slaves, says the Atlanta Constitution. It is the intention of Moses Bentley to establish a colonization of these old negroes and furnish a sufficient amount of work in the way of truck farming to make the colony self supporting so far as possible. This movement has been carefully considered and indorsed by a number of prominent citizens. It is the present intention to provide homes for the old negro slaves of Georgia first, and then later for as many throughout the south as is possible.

This matter of providing some suitable home for old slaves has received much attention during the last few years and especially lately. Many of those in a position to know are of the opinion that it is only in the establishment of some such colony as the one proposed, where, in separate log cabins, the old slaves will be provided with hoes of their own, that the scheme can be made practical. The matter of establishing a great home where the old slaves could live together has been found to be impracticable owing to the peculiar characteristics of these people, but it is believed that in the establishment of a lot of log cabins the greatest difficulties in this way will be obviated and the problem more practically solved than in any other way.

Many of the chapters of the Daughters of the Confederacy have also taken the matter of providing some suitable shelter for the old time negroes under consideration.

SMART RURAL POSTMASTER

Unique Method to Increase the Receipts of His Office.

A. A. Moser of Ruble, near Uniontown, Pa., during the recent political campaign used a unique method to increase the receipts of his office. He was assistant secretary of the Prohibition county committee and postmaster at Ruble, a remote town with fifty inhabitants and two miles from a railroad. Mr. Moser subscribed $100 to the campaign fund. The Prohibitionists started on a strenuous campaign. Thousands of letters and circulars were sent broadcast and the letters dated Uniontown, but all bore the postmark of Ruble.

So great was the increase in the Ruble office receipts that the postal authorities wrote to ask the cause, but Mr. Moser was proceeding legally and explained clearly his case. He received the commission on the extra business and was materially benefited, and when the votes were counted on the state ticket the Prohibitionists had in Mr. Moser's election district forty-seven, or one more than Republicans and Democrats combined.

THAYER'S WINTER WOOD.

Massachusetts Congressman Wanted Leave of Absence to Gather It.

Mr. J. R. Thayer of Massachusetts, rising to a question of privilege in the house the other day, asked if a member would be considered derelict in his duty if he should go home to get in his winter's wood, with the understanding that he would return when the six or seven men who, he said, constitute congress should announce that something was to be done, says a Washington dispatch.

The speaker suggested that the question hardly amounted to a faint assault upon the dignity of a parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. Payne observed that he was about to request unanimous consent that the gentleman from Massachusetts be excused for the remainder of the session.

Lou Dillon of the Stock Market.

"What's a good thing to sell in the market?" one senator asked another.

"Sell a little of that Lou Dillon."

"Lou Dillon? I am not familiar with that stock. What is it?"

"United States Steel common. It has the lowest record, you know."

Inasmuch as the capitol is now on a temperance basis, the two senators, says the Washington correspondent of the New York World, were obliged to go to a committee room to celebrate the jest.

The Girl In Fur.

She's here again, the queen of all the lovely girls who reign
From San Francisco's Golden Gate to Kennebunkport, Maine!
She's here in all her glory,
The theme of song and story—
She who our loving gaze compels, whose charms set hearts astir—
That bright, incomparable miss, the dashing girl in fur

The moleskin is her latest fad, and yet she cleaves to ermine.
Ah, which of these becomes her best what critic shall determine?
Yet Persian lamb and civet
Our fond attention rivet,
Though leopard skins and monkey coats are seen on lovely backs
To cover which dear old papa must pay an awful tax.

Ah, when, her billowy boa on, she hugs her dainty muff
And nestles both her hands inside, the very sight's enough
To set a fellow guessing,
His weakness fond confessing,
And make him long to fly with her (oh, foolish, foolish man!)
To Madagascar, Honolulu, Egypt or Japan!

The summer girl is witching, with her gauzy waists and hose,
And many a lay our poets warm have sung concerning those—
About their power to lure us
And sundry joys insure us,
Yet, though we may next year again go daffy over her,
Today we worship, sans reproach, the dashing girl in fur.

Insured for $2,000,000

L. Rodman Wanamaker, son of John Wanamaker, the eminent merchant of New York and Philadelphia, has taken out a policy in for $1,000,000, paying an annual premium of over $ 0,000. This makes him the most heavily insured man in the world, with the single exception of King Edward VII.

The Prudential Insurance Co.

Mr Wanamaker's total insurance is now $2,000,000.

Ask yourself WHY Mr. Wanamaker placed one-half this great amount with The Prudential.

Your business judgment will at once reply: "Because after full investigation and comparison, Mr. Wanamaker found that the company which could give him the best insurance for a given amount of money was The Prudential."

Undoubtedly you will agree that Mr. Wanamaker does not pay over $30,000 per year except for most excellent reasons.

These reasons apply to YOU precisely as well as they do to HIM.

ADVERTISE IN THE QUINCY PATRIOT

VOTE ON CUBAN TREATY

Thursday Afternoon Agreed Upon by the House

DEMOCRATS FALL IN LINE

But Few Express Opposition to the Measure—Senate Will Confine Itself to Cuban Matter—Morgan Primed For Argument on Isthmian Affairs

Washington, Nov. 16.—The bill making effective the Cuban reciprocity convention reported by the way and means committee was disposed of in the house on Thursday. It probably will be sent to the senate Friday.

Chairman Payne of the ways and means committee, in accordance with the notice he gave when he reported the bill on Friday, asked the house as soon as it convened today to begin its consideration. A rule was reported by the committee on rules providing for a vote a 4 p. m. Thursday without intervening motion. On the adoption of the rule the house went into committee of the whole and discussion of the bill begun.

The program of the minority is well defined by the resolution adopted at the Democratic caucus Saturday night, which, after discussing the measure for three hours, agreed to a resolution by a vote of 35 to 15 pledging themselves to support the bill, after effort has been made to secure an amendment abolishing the differential on refined sugar and eliminating the five-year clause in the treaty.

The opposition to this action came from the members from Louisiana, Texas and California. The three Democratic members from the latter state said they could not vote for the measure under any circumstances, but it is understood, although not officially stated, that the action of the caucus will be considered binding.

It is the intention of the senate leaders to confine as closely as possible the legislation of the present extra session to the bill to carry into effect the Cuban treaty and with that end in view the daily sessions of the senate during the present week will be brief and another adjournment will be taken on Thursday or Friday until the following Monday. The work of introducing bills and of presenting petitions will go forward, but with the exception of the Cuban bill neither bills nor petitions will be taken up in committe nor discussed in the senate during the week.

It is quite well understood that Senator Morgan is prepared for a prolonged discussion of the situation on the isthmus of Panama, but while he seems not to have taken anyone into his confidence the general supposition is that he will defer his speeches until the new canal treaty shall be sent to the senate. There is an understanding on the part of the senators that even though the negotiations for the new convention be forthwith completed, it will not be transmitted to the senate until the beginning of the regular session of congress in December.

The committee on military affairs will meet during the week to consider the nomination of General Wood and as soon as practicable after the committee reports on it the question of confirmation will be brought before the senate in executive session in consideration of other nominations.

Speculators Got Rare Stamps

Washington, Nov. 16.—The postoffice department may complete this week the investigation of published allegations that rare postage stamps have illegally found their way from the department to stamp speculators. It has been the practice of the office to distribute among prominent persons "specimen" stamps distinctly so marked so to prevent their use as postage and it is known that a large number of these stamps have found their way into the hands of the dealers.

Moros Inviting Fight

Manila, Nov. 16.—Since the departure of General Wood for Jolo the Moros in the neighborhood of Lake Lanao have become very ugly and menacing. The guard over a boat near Maribou was taken. Three men were killed and one was seriously wounded. The Moros were beaten off. General Wood left for Jolo Nov. 9 and took a number of troops from Lanao with him.

Wholesale Theft of Freight

Indianapolis, Nov. 16.—A conspiracy for the systematic robbery of railway cars, said to involve more than 40 employes of the Big Four company, is announced. The robberies are said to have extended over a period of seven years. The suspects are freight conductors and other employes of the freight department.

Masterson's Alleged Assailant

Marlboro, Mass., Nov. 16.—Alphonse Marchand, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon and robbery on the person of James Masterson, is held in $700 bonds to await the action of the grand jury. In default of bail Marchand was remanded to jail.

Twenty Killed In Wreck

New Orleans, Nov. 16.—A rear end collision near Kentwood resulted in the killing of 20 negroes. Ten other negroes and three white men were injured, some of them fatally.

Watched His Own Taking Off

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 16.—Robert H. Dobson, 30 years old, a bookkeeper, shot himself through the temple while sitting before a mirror. He was ill and despondent.

COTTON MILL CUTDOWNS

Southern Massachusetts Operatives to Receive Ten Percent Less Wages

Boston, Nov. 16.—The general reduction of 10 percent in the wages of 25,000 textile operatives in Fall River, announced on Wednesday, has been met by the other cotton manufacturers of southern New England. Wages in this section next month will thus be on a footing with those paid prior to April, 1902. A cutdown in Lowell and Lawrence, Mass., Maine and New Hampshire is not expected at this time, as mills in the northern section did not made an advance last year.

The reduction in Fall River goes into effect Nov. 23, that in Rhode Island and in Massachusetts mill villages on Nov. 23 and 30, and in New Bedford a new schedule becomes operative on Dec. 7. It is expected the change will lower the wages of 75,000 operatives.

Shot Aunt and Grandmother

Portland, Me., Nov. 16.—While preparing to shoot a hawk in the door yard of the farm of William Leighton at Highland lake, the shotgun in the hands of Carroll Bailey, aged 17, was prematurely discharged and Lydia Leighton, the boy's aunt, was instantly killed and his grandmother, Mrs. Leighton, has two shot in her head and cannot live. The boy did not know the gun was loaded and while examining the gunlock the muzzle was pointed towards the two women who stood in the doorway.

Viewed Historical Spots

Boston, Nov. 16.—After a week of deliberate business the delegates to the convention of the American Federation of Labor, now in session in this city, gave up Sunday to pleasure. They went on a trolley ride over the route traveled by Paul Revere on the night in April, 1775, when he warned the patriots that the British soldiers were coming. Special cars were provided and a guide and announcer accompanied each car.

Long Walk In Record Time

Boston, Nov. 16.—All previous records for pedestrians between Worcester and Boston were broken by Claude P. Hay and John W. L. Bryce of Worcester, who walked from Worcester to Boston, 44 miles, in eight hours and 56 minutes. Both men were in good condition when they arrived in Boston and except from a little fatigue experienced no ill effects from the trip.

Milk War Is Ended

Boston, Nov. 16.—After a conference lasting five days the directors of the New England Milk Producers' union and the Contractors' association have agreed upon the interpretation of the contract entered into Oct. 1, which is to govern the Boston supply until April 1. The price remains at 37½ cents a can, and the farmers can ship more milk than under last winter's agreement.

Burglar's Big Haul

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 16.—A burglar went through the residence of G. M. Whitin, carrying away $1200 worth of silverware, two sealskin coats and two guns valued at $800. Entrance was made by prying open a parlor window, and with a candle the robber lighted his way around the entire lower floor. His tracks were traced by a line of grease drippings from the candle.

Break In Maine Postoffice

Berwick, Me., Nov. 16.—The postoffice here was broken into Sunday morning, the safe blown open and postage stamps valued at $800 and $30 in cash stolen. A family living above the postoffice heard the explosion, but were so frightened that they did not make any investigation until many hours after the burglars had succeeded in making their escape.

Complaints Against Grocers

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 16.—Twenty-six local grocers have been summoned to appear before the district court in answer to charges of selling renovated butter without using the original packages, or in packages which, it is alleged, were improperly marked. Two complaints have been lodged against each defendant.

Gov. Bates has issued his Thanksgiving proclamation for Nov. 26.

EMERGENCY RATION

A man has lived forty days without other food than his own fat.

Fat is man's emergency ration. The fat is stored in convenient hollows all over the body against the day of necessity.

Consumption makes heavy demand on the storage of fat. Nature uses fat to fight the disease. The crying need of the consumptive is fat.

Scott's Emulsion contains the best fat to be had, next to human fat itself. Scott's Emulsion is a natural substitute for human fat. It prevents waste. It furnishes the consumptive with nature's own weapon for fighting the disease.

ROXBURGHE-GOELET WEDDING SCENES

Extraordinary Acts of Women Sightseers.

BEAT POLICE WITH THEIR FISTS.

Well Dressed Rioters Had to Be Carried, Kicking and Screaming, From Front of the Church—Some Crawled Down a Coal Hole at Side of Church, Hoping to See the Bride. Bridal Carriage Mobbed.

Amazement and disgust were expressed on every side at the extraordinary spectacle presented by the rioting women at the Roxburghe-Goelet wedding in New York. Never before in the history of the city, it was agreed, had the city's sense of decency been so outraged or the spirit of democracy so humbled, says the New York American.

Gossip over the wedding was overshadowed by the condemnation heaped upon the hysterical acts of the mob. Even society neglected the aftermath of a New York girl's accession to a duchy to discuss the riotous demonstration of 7,000 women about the carriage of the bride.

Well dressed women caught burrowing into the church via a coal hole.

Women are the loudest in the expression of shame caused them by the fact that their kind descended to such extremes, and students of sociology find in the incident evidences of a decay of American institutions that foretells evil for the future.

For their failure to curb the mob the police have been subjected to outspoken criticism. Inspector McLaughlin was asked for an explanation of his failure to preserve order about St. Thomas' church. His report, which goes into the matter at great length, sets out the fact that the police were baffled because they had to deal with women, who cannot be handled with the same severity as crowds of men.

His plans were made three days in advance of the event, the inspector says, but they were completely upset by the unparalleled number and ferocity of the women who gathered, evidently determined to enter the church at whatever cost to their dignity and refinement. Twice he sent for re-enforcements, he says, but never at any time had he sufficient men to cope successfully with the infuriated women who boldly faced him and refused to stand aside.

Women were found hiding in rear pews.

Bystanders support the inspector in his statements. There were innumerable instances where women fiercely beat the policemen with their clinched fists and had to be carried, kicking and screaming, from the front of the church. The task of the police was made immeasurably worse by the fact that many of the most persistent women were refined and intelligent in appearance, well dressed and apparently of the highest respectability.

Cut off from entrance at the church doors, fifteen women, all well dressed, crawled down the coal hole at the side of the edifice in the hope of finding an underground way to get a view of the bride at the altar. Other women were found hiding in rear pews and were forced to leave. Still other women rushed to the side of the bride's carriage and thrust their arms through the door to feel the texture of the bridal gown.

To feel texture of bridal gown women thrust their arms through carriage door.

There is good reason for saying that the duke and duchess were relieved of great anxiety when they finally escaped from New York. For five minutes during the time that the bride was absolutely at the mercy of the mob, with her carriage in the midst of 500 screaming and fighting women, all anxious to see her, there was imminent danger of the carriage being overturned.

The face of the duchess was pale and her eyes showed real terror as she crouched in a corner of the carriage waiting for the police to open a passageway for the carriage. And again after the ceremony, when she and the duke were returning to the residence of Mrs. Goelet, there was a period when the carriage was absolutely swallowed up in the mob.

Great Wolf Hunt.

The annual wolf hunt in the Kankakee (Ill.) marshes will take place the day before Thanksgiving and will be the greatest event of its kind ever held in the Kankakee district, says the Chicago News. All the hunters and dogs in Kankakee county, with many from other counties, will participate in the day's sport. The wolves are unusually plentiful this year, and the ground dry.

Good Afternoon

The High school enlargement question will probably come before the City Council this evening in a new form. It should not be said that the present City Council is not able to handle this improvement, and there is urgent need that there shall be no further delay.

The City Council will have before it again this evening the order granting authority to borrow $90,000 additional in anticipation of the tax of 1903. The outstanding loans in anticipation of the tax are already over $25,000 in excess of the uncollected tax of 1903. The fact that a large sum has been collected rather complicates the situation, and there is a question if authority can be given by the City Council. A summary of the situation is given in another column on this page.

The assessed valuations of the cities and towns of the Metropolitan Park district, as compiled for the Globe's jubilee number, afford an interesting study. The valuation of each city is given for the years 1873, 1883, 1893 and 1903, showing the increase for thirty years. Two, however, show a loss, Nahant and Needham, the latter by division. Of 39, there are 21 which have more than doubled in valuation, viz: Quincy, Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Newton, Waltham, Brookline, Cohasset, Dover, Hull, Milton, Revere, Saugus, Swampscott, Wakefield, Wellesley, Weston, Westwood, Winchester and Winthrop.

The eighteen which have not doubled are: Boston, Cambridge, Chelsea, Lynn, Somerville, Woburn, Arlington, Belmont, Braintree, Canton, Dedham, Hingham, Hyde Park, Nahant, Needham, Stoneham, Watertown and Weymouth.

The following which had a greater assessed valuation than Quincy in 1873 have now a smaller valuation:

	1873.	1903.
Quincy,	$6.664,760	$23,074,315
Hyde Park,	7,599,815	12,057,225
Woburn,	8.710,744	10.953.384
Waltham,	9 829 722	21,680,248
Medford,	7 839,794	20.846,000
Watertown,	7 634,590	11.994,535

From fourteenth in the list in 1873, Quincy has moved up to No. 9 this year. This city has not only doubled in assessed valuation, but the figures above show Quincy to have over three times the valuation of 1873.

The only towns in the district to make a larger percentage of increase were Winthrop, Hull, Revere, Everett, Melrose and Weston.

The only cities to make a larger actual increase ($16,409,555) in the thirty years were: Boston, Cambridge, Lynn, Somerville, Brookline, Newton, Malden and Everett.

While this increase in wealth is very gratifying, there is a feeling among many taxpayers that the total valuation of the city is placed much higher than it should be, thereby causing high taxation. An unduly high valuation not only increases the burden of taxation itself, but it increases the State tax, the county tax, and also the Metropolitan assessments for parks, water and sewers, levied upon the city.

It might be noted that the Metropolitan Park district as a whole has not doubled in valuation in the thirty years, but is very near twice what it was in 1873.

John Nelson, age 27, of Rydern street, has been reported as missing from his home since Tuesday last.

Outstanding loans in anticipation of taxes of 1903,	$275,000.00
Authority wanted to borrow in anticipation of taxes an additional	$90,000.00

BUSINESS IN ORDER.

At the Regular Meeting of the City Council This Evening.

The loan order for $90,000 will probably absorb the attention of the City Council at its meeting tonight, when it will be reported again by the Finance Committee.

The Committee on Water Supply will report on the communication relative to the purchase of water pipe.

The order for $180 for clerk hire for the Assessors; and the order granting permission for the Electric Light and Telephone Co. to attach wires to poles of other companies, will come up for a second reading.

The Ordinance Committee will report on several orders before them, and a public hearing will be given the Telephone Co. on the petition for a location for one pole on Clarke street.

PAPERS ARE OUT.

Only Three Days in Which to Obtain Signatures.

Eugene H. Sprague took out nomination papers for each ward of the city this morning.

Mr. Sprague did not say who they were for, but it is thought they were to secure a Republican endorsement for George H. Wilson for Mayor.

The time for filing nomination papers with the City Clerk will expire at 5 P. M. on Wednesday, Nov. 18.

The signatures of at least fifty voters, acceptable to the Board of Registrars, will be necessary to place a candidate in nomination by papers.

Quincy at Vicksburg.

Gov. Bates and party received a very hearty welcome in Mississippi, and the dedication at Vicksburg on Saturday, of the monument to the three Massachusetts regiments was a noteworthy occasion.

Quincy took a prominent part as Mrs. Theo Alice Ruggles Kitson of this city was the sculptor, and the 12-ton granite boulder for a base came from this city. It is the second largest boulder in that part of the country.

All arrangements for the dedication were made by Mr. Kitson, who has been in Vicksburg a week or more.

Resolutions.

At the regular meeting of the L. A., No. 19 A. O. H., of Atlantic, held Monday evening, Nov. 9, 1903, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS — It has pleased Almighty God in the dispensation of His Divine Providence, to remove from our midst our esteemed and beloved sister, Nellie McGuerty, with whom we have been so long associated, during which time her manner and actions have been such as to endear her to us, and we mourn her loss; therefore be it

A SYMPOSIUM ON GRAVY

Senator Pettus' Warning Discussed by Experts.

VALUE OF MEAT JUICES EULOGIZED

Leading Dietitians Say Gravies and Sauces Are All Right and Disagree With the Alabama Statesman That They Shorten Life—One Shows How Battles Have Been Won on Gravy.

Senator Edmund W. Pettus of Alabama says we Americans are going to smash because we eat gravy with our meat. M. Martin, Oscar, Louis, Sherry and other culinary authorities of New York reply to him with the laugh of patronizing dissent, says the New York World. They say he knows not whereof he speaks. Listen to Senator Pettus:

"In this day gravy is called sauce, I know. It's a French word that means gravy, and if it had not been given a French name by the English speaking races I dare say not so much of it would be eaten. It is shortening the life of the race, just like so many other French abominations are, and the sooner we banish it from our diet the better will be the health of the generation of young men and women coming on to take our places."

"Senator Pettus has got his terms mixed," said Dr. John H. Girdner of New York. "Gravy corresponds to the French word 'potage' and signifies the juice, fat, etc., of the meat, which are brought out while it is cooking. Sauce is derived from the Latin 'salsa,' which means salt pickles and now signifies a mixture made of substances entirely foreign to the meat itself and to be served with it as an appetizer. Gravy is a part of the meat in a liquid form and can be no more harmful than the meat it came from."

"The contention of Senator Pettus is incredible," said Oscar Tcherky, the only Oscar, maitre d'hotel at the Waldorf-Astoria. "Does the honorable gentleman want us to go back to the days of the cave dwellers and simply burn our meat or eat it raw? Good meat is made better by a proper sauce. The gravy you cannot help eating because it is the juice of the meat. A sauce may be good or bad. A fine bearnaise or hollandaise or any other good sauce adds zest to the appetite and power to the digestion. Shortening the life of our race? That is beyond belief. You will find no better race of men anywhere than the New Yorkers, and they eat good sauces and gravies wherever they find them."

"I will ask Senator Pettus one question," exclaimed Mr. Ballard, chef at Martin's. "Does he know of any soldier in all the history of mankind who marches farther or faster or fights better than the soldier of France? And what, above everything else, does he eat? Soup? Yes. And what is soup? Potage—the juice of the meat, with vegetables and savory herbs added; in other words, gravy. For generations the French warrior has been nourished on good sauces.

"The honorable senator permits himself to call sauces 'French abominations.' What better proof could you find that he has never tasted a veritable French sauce? Is he fond of fillet of sole? It is a good dish—nourishing, savory, satisfying. But let him try fillet of sole a la Normandie. There is a dish for which, in perfection, a gourmet would give one year of his life. Let the honorable gentleman come here and try my fillet of sole and the sauce I shall give him. I am willing to cook for him free for the rest of my life. But if he is mistaken, let him say so.

"No, no. Sauce is to dishes what clothing is to man. Civilized humanity cannot do without the one or the other."

Louis Sherry read the declaration of Senator Pettus.

"You can kill a man with bad sauce," he declared, "for, on the other hand, you can make a defeated candidate feel that life is worth living by giving him a proper sauce. New Yorkers are fond of good sauces and good gravies. They have fine appetites and strong digestions. They think faster and see straighter than those primitive persons who eat neither sauces nor gravies, and they outlive them too."

"The art of cooking," said M. Pascal Grand, chef at Sherry's, "marks one of the chief differences between man and the brute. The animal devours his kill raw, with no sauce but hunger. Man has imagination, a soul. Therefore he cooks. So long as we eat meat we must eat the gravy that is the juice of the meat. But a good sauce—ah! there is that which tempts the appetite, aids the digestion, re-enforces the strength of men. Shortens life! Oh, what awful sauces poor Senator Pettus must have encountered in Alabama!"

Bad Condition of Siberian Railroad.

A Russian traveler who recently arrived in London from the far east by way of Canada states that an erroneous idea seems to be entertained in England as to the progress of the Siberian railroad. Over 1,400 miles of line have yet to be constructed, and there are several breaks presenting such enormous engineering difficulties that it will take years to ink them up. Moreover, he adds, it is evident to an expert that, owing to the severity of the climate and the amateur way in which the work has been done, much of the line in central Siberia will have to be entirely relaid.

A Railroad Distinction.

Senator Depew recently related this conversation between two colored porters who worked for rival railways running south:

"Yo' road don' carry as many passengers as mine."

"Huh, my road kills mo' passengers every month than yo' road hauls."

THE PENSION LIST.

Latest Figures Which Show Rate at Which New Business Is Coming In.

The Spanish war is responsible for a considerable number of new pensions, says the New York World. Spanish war veterans have already drawn $5,500,000 in pensions, and their applications are pouring into the pension office in increasing volume and will do so for many a year to come. From the commissioner of pensions' latest report (for 1903) the following figures, which show the rate at which "new business" is coming in, are taken:

Applications disposed of this year	252,106
Applications for increased pensions this year	144,083
Applications for increased pensions granted this year	58,120
Applications for original pensions	52,325
Applications for original pensions granted	40,136
Applications awaiting adjudication	304,809

The army, navy and pension expenditures of the United States added together already amount to $318,000,000 per year, stated in round figures. Secretary Moody's recent naval estimate calls for $35,000,000 per year more for the navy, and the Grand Army's twelve dollar a month service pension would doubtless call for $35,000,000 more. If congress yields to both demands our total expenditure for army, navy and pensions will very soon be close to $400,000,000 a year. That amount will far exceed the present peace footing expenditure for military and naval purposes of any other nation, excepting only Great Britain, whose estimates still include provision for a standing army of 450,000 men, where prior to the Boer war only 160,000 were provided for. On the peace footing (1898) the British expenditure for both army and navy was about $255,000,000. It is proposed to spend nearly as much on the United States army and navy and as much more besides for pensions as would give us a second navy larger than Great Britain's.

EXALTATION OF "BIG TIM."

Description of Congressman T. D. Sullivan's Entry Into the House.

Alderman Timothy P. Sullivan returned to New York recently from Washington, where he saw "Big Tim" Sullivan sworn in as a member of the house of representatives, says the New York Post.

"It was great," said the alderman. "The New York city members of the house are the finest looking lot of men in congress. They are the flowers of the capitol, and Timothy D. Sullivan is the orchid of the bunch. He and McClellan got great sendoffs."

One of Sullivan's Sixth district lieutenants, who also witnessed the opening of the extra session of congress, said:

"'Big Tim' was 'the' congressman on Monday (Nov. 9). The rest 'also ran.' Everybody who went to the capitol wanted to know first thing which was 'Dry Dollar' Sullivan. They didn't care for old Cannon or pay any attention to him. Even McClellan wasn't in it with Tim. It was a great day for the 'big fellow,' and he felt it. Say, Tim's dead stuck on Washington already. Don't you be surprised if he takes a house and comes out big in society. He is fitted for it. He didn't care much about society in Albany; he didn't think it was the real thing, but he looks on the Washington article as eighteen carat, and he is going in for it.

"Just wait till you see Tim tackle the ambassadors, counts and markeses! He can outbow any of them, and when it comes to interesting conversation Tim will be in it with anybody. As to Roosevelt, he and Tim have been close friends for years, and Teddy will tip Tim off on any little points that he isn't familiar with yet."

Change In a Spring.

A spring in the Santa Ana canyon, near Los Angeles, which has for 100 years furnished drinkable water to such as have sought it, has begun giving out water little short of the boiling point and water so impregnated with mineral drugs as to be unusable, says the Los Angeles Times. Some weeks ago it was noticed that the waters of the spring were growing gradually warmer, and a few days ago it was discovered that the temperature had reached a point where it was impossible for one to hold his hand in the water. Now the spring, which is constantly growing hotter and hotter, is giving off nauseating odors, and a bluish sediment is being deposited about the brim of the spring. Some believe that recent earthquakes which disturbed that section of the country are in some way responsible for the change.

No More Dormitories.

The word dormitories as applied to the places where young women at college live has been abolished by order of the women deans of the various western universities who were recently in session in Chicago. Hereafter they will be called "halls of residence," which is a fine, mouth filling phrase.

Battle Hymn of Panama.

From no mountain height of freedom
Was our glorious flag unfurled,
And we sought no grand stand plaudits,
Firing shots heard round the world.
Times have changed since gory heroes
Of their fights for country bragged;
Mid no war shouts rose our standard,
But our courage never flagged.

For we sat in secret conclave
When we built us up a state,
Sons of freedom, cool and cautious,
Subtle, keen and up to date;
Laid our wires with skill artistic,
Planning 'gainst untimely slips,
With much faith in business methods
And an uncle who has ships.

No long list of dead and wounded
Glorifies our virgin scroll,
Though against the constitution
We set out for freedom's goal,
But we've shown how modern heroes,
Free from wild unseemly hate,
Can, without undue excitement,
Build republics while you wait.

THE CHRISTMAS PUDDING.

How to Make It and What to Do With the Remnants.

There is a decided tendency among our best cooks today to substitute beef's marrow for suet in plum pudding. The beef marrow makes a rather more delicate and fine flavored pudding, which loses nothing of its richness. The best marrow bone is that obtained from the hind leg, or shank, of beef, the meat of which makes an excellent consomme, says the New York Tribune. Let the butcher split the bone for you, so that the marrow can be taken out entire. Scrape off any bloody streaks. Weigh out six ounces, chop it fine and set it aside in a kneading bowl. Add half a pound of dried currants, well washed and picked over; half a pound of sultana raisins, half a pound of the best malaga raisins and half a pound of candied orange, lemon and citron peel in equal parts.

Mix thoroughly and add three-quarters of a pound of bread crumbs which have been dried, sifted and moistened with half a cup of cold milk. To this also add a quarter of a pound of sugar, an even teaspoonful of salt, six eggs and finally half a gill each of madeira, brandy and Santa Cruz rum. You may substitute sherry for madeira if you wish. Mix all these ingredients thoroughly, using the hands to knead them together. If the pudding is boiled in a tight tin mold leave about half an inch space for it to swell, but if it is boiled in the orthodox way, which is by far the best way—in a bowl with a cloth tied over it—pack it in as tightly as you can. The cloth will give sufficiently for its swelling. In either case the mold or bowl should be thickly buttered and slightly dredged with flour to make a smooth, shining surface in which to stick the proverbial sprig of holly.

The mixture for the Christmas pudding should be as stiff as it can be stirred. As there is some difference in the size of eggs it is best to mix the dry ingredients first, then the moistened bread crumbs, then the liqueurs, and last of all the eggs. For the spices add a small half nutmeg, a scant half teaspoonful of powdered cinnamon and the same quantity each of powdered cloves and allspice. These should be put in just before you knead up the pudding.

If any of this pudding is left over make some Christmas "puits d'amour" or "wells of love." Cut the cold pudding in slices an inch thick and cut these into rounds about two inches across. Cut half these again into rings, using an inch cutter, and lay the rings on the rounds. Ice them thickly, being careful not to fill up the hollow, or "well," in the center. In these "wells" put a teaspoonful of brandied butter or hard pudding sauce flavored with brandy. Stick the tiniest spray of holly, a leaf and a berry in the center of each cake. These are very picturesque as well as delicious little confections. They are a favorite for children's holiday parties, so frequent in Christmas week. There are so small a proportion of the pudding and so large a quantity of the icing that they can hardly be considered in the light of heavy and indigestible dainties.

How to Make Christmas Tree Fairies.

Dancing Christmas fairies always enhance the children's delight in the Christmas tree, and once made can be used year after year. Buy a dozen or more five and ten cent dolls, and to add to the variety have among the number some Japanese and colored dolls. Dress these to represent fairies in bright hues of spangled gauze, tarlatan or tissue paper and liberally sprinkle their hair and garments with diamond dust powder. Each doll should be provided with a dainty pair of fairy wings made from spangled tissue paper and fastened to the body by means of concealed wires. These wires should be coiled to obtain motion in the wings, and nothing better can be used than the fine spiral coils that come out of wornout wire stitched brooms.

How to Build the Log Fire.

To make an attractive log fire which does not have to be coaxed with applications of kindling wood now and then shake out a double sheet newspaper and leave the edges loose so that it will light easily. It will take longer to ignite if crushed and spoils the effect of the kindling wood, which is thrown loosely on the paper against the andirons. The backlog should be of the largest size the fireplace will hold. It should be put close back to the wall. If it is a split log, the inside should be turned toward the front. Three logs are enough to start a fire with. Give it a good start and then let it alone. Nothing is worse than a smoky, constantly poked wood fire.

How to Make Lemon Mincemeat.

This is an English pastry filling that is greatly in favor during the holidays. Its making calls for six large lemons—juice and the grated yellow rind. To this are added two pounds each of chopped apples, seeded raisins, currants and sugar, a pound and a half of beef suet chopped fine and a quarter pound of candied lemon, orange and citron.

How to Make a Christmas Bell.

To make a Christmas bell use two ox muzzles for a foundation, fastening the top of one a little way up into the center of the other to give the proper length to the bell. Fill this solidly with moss and then trim with holly berries and a bit of mistletoe. A calla lily makes a pretty clapper. Suspend the bell by scarlet ribbons.

How to Whiten Clothes.

A tablespoonful of turpentine boiled with white clothes will greatly aid the whitening process.

CONSIDERED A "BLUFF"

Colombia Cannot Send an Army to the Isthmus

ITS SECURITY IS ASSURED

Growing Feeling Against President Marroquin May Result In Revolutionary Outbreak at Capital Because of Canal Treaty's Failure

Panama, Nov. 16.—President Marroquin's statement as conveyed in a cablegram to General Plaza, president of Ecuador, that Generals Reyes, Caballeros, Ospina and Holguin are now marching on the isthmus to "suppress the isthmian traitors" is scoffed at by the entire population of the isthmus. Protected by the impenetrability of the land and many leagues of coast line separating the isthmus from Colombia, and confident that the United States intends to prevent the landing of Colombian soldiers from the sea, the isthmians feel that their security is absolute.

The loss of the isthmian teritory is, of course, a tragedy for Colombia. The government at Bogota is probably ignorant of the attitude taken by the government of the United States in the last two weeks. In a frenzy to appease an angry and disappointed populace, and to satisfy the public demand for some appearance of activity and an attempt to save the honor and the territorial integrity of Colombia, the government is no doubt promising and threatening to send forces to the coast and to take other aggressive steps. The realization by the Colombian government of the impossibility of sending troops to the isthmus would not necessarily deter it from taking these steps, which are intended merely to satisfy the people.

Well informed people on the isthmus believe that the Colombian government is going through all these forms of organizing expeditions not merely for the foregoing reasons, but owing to the necessity of forestalling or of weakening the treatened revolutionary outbreak in Bogota.

The growing feeling against President Marroquin is believed to be due to the fact that he did not show sufficient determination to effect the ratification of the canal treaty, which would have saved the isthmus to Colombia, and because he appointed General Obaldia governor of the department of Panama after Obaldia had declared that he would remain a Colombian if the treaty were ratified, but that otherwise he would only be a Panamanian.

Miners and others familiar with the coast on both sides of the isthmus declare that any attempt to march an expeditionary army from any part of Colombia to the isthmus would be futile. Both coasts consist of impassable jungles and swamps and rivers, without towns or roads or any means for the provisioning of an army.

The revenues of the new republic, if technically administered, promise to meet all expenses. These revenues consist of a 10 percent ad valorem duty on imports, slaughter house taxes, liquor licenses and similar sources of income, as well as yearly sums derived from those holding a monopoly of the tobacco business, from the gambling privileges at Panama and Colon and from the lottery.

General Obaldia appeared on the streets of Panama yesterday for the first time since Nov. 3, when the independence of the isthmus was proclaimed. He was greeted cordially by friends and acquaintances.

It is generally asserted that the isthmians will eventually insist upon the separation of church and state. This was one of the measures demanded by the Liberal party in the last revolution, and the population of the isthmus is largely Liberal.

United States Consul General Gudger arrived here last evening and was met by a great number of persons, including the members of the provisional government, army officers and other prominent persons. General Obaldia was also among those present. As Consul General Gudger alighted from the train a military band played "The Star Spangled Banner." Mr. Gudger was welcomed by a committee representing the junta and the municipality of Panama. Senor Arias delivered a speech in which he expressed the gratitude of the republic of Panama for the recognition accorded it by President Roosevelt, and also the pleasure of the Panamanians at Mr. Gudger's return.

The United States cruiser Boston has returned from her cruise to the south, which was without incident.

Colombian Revolution Possible

Washington, Nov. 16.—A revolution in Colombia is not impossible according to an opinion expressed in a dispatch received at the state department from United States Minister Beaupre at Bogota. It was dated Nov. 13 and at that time Mr. Beaupre described the feeling in the capital city as panicky.

The minister has delivered to the Colombian government, according to instructions, the information that the United States has entered into relations with the government at Panama and commending to both governments of Colombia and Panama "the peaceful and equitable settlement of all questions at issue between them." The Colombian government, according to Minister Beaupre, was disposed to ask for an explanation of the instructions, but the minister informed it that he regarded them as self-explanatory.

POWELL'S PERSISTENCE

Has Forced Dominicans to Agree to Arbitration In Contract Case

San Domingo, Nov. 16.—United States Minister Powell has finally carried his point that the Dominican government should agree to the provisions of the protocol regarding the San Domingo Improvement company. The government has informed the minister that it will accede to his request, carry out the provisions of the protocol and appoint arbitrators. This is considered a great victory for the American interests.

Washington, Nov. 16.—The case of the San Domingo Improvement company against the Dominican government has been one of long standing. The improvement company had contracts for making various improvements and for certain harbors, privileges and dues, which contracts the Dominican government afterwards took away. The former sought the assistance of this government and asked it to secure its just rights.

American Interests Protected

Washington, Nov. 16.—Confirmatory information of the attack on San Domingo City last Thursday by the revolutionists reached the state department in a dispatch from Minister Powell. He reported that the revolutionists were attacking the city on three sides. There were no other details in Minister Powell's cablegram. The cruiser Baltimore, which was ordered to San Domingo waters, is now there, so that American interests will be given full protection.

Diplomat's Sad Fate

New York, Nov. 16.—In the bathroom of his home in Ninth avenue was found the body of Chevalier Luigi Petich, former ambassador of Italy to Mexico. He had been dead three days. He was 65 years old and was a scientist, inventor and scholar, but withal a recluse. Among his effects were found a small amount of money, a jewelled sword and chapeau, and a handsomely engrossed set of resolutions eulogistic of the chevalier, signed by 100 delegates of a diplomatic convention held in Antwerp in 1885. He was in straitened circumstances.

Convictions In Fraud Cases

St. Louis, Nov. 16.—Thomas E. Barrett, former marshal of the St. Louis court of appeals; John P. Dolan, chairman of the Democratic city committee, and Frank Garrett, policeman, defendants in the triple naturalization frauds case, were found guilty of aiding and abetting certain Italians charged with having in their possession false papers of citizenship. The maximum penalty is 10 years each in the penitentiary and fines of $2000 each. The jury was out 33 hours.

Bakery Destroyed by Fire

Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 16.—A fire that at one time threatened to wipe out a whole block of buildings destroyed a 3½-story building and a large stable owned by the Pawtucket Baking company. Of the 10 horses in the stable nine were saved from the flames, but four had to be shot. Three carloads of flour in the bakery were destroyed. The loss is $30,000.

Cuba Now Has Rapid Transit

Havana, Nov. 16.—A new era in rapid transit in Cuba was inaugurated here last night in the departure of the first Cuban Railroad company's daily through train from Havana to Santiago. The train is scheduled to reach Santiago in 25 hours. Heretofore the journey has taken three days, including stopovers at night.

Williams Held For Grand Jury

New York, Nov. 16.—A coroner's jury held an inquest on the body of Andrew H. Green, the "father of Greater New York," who was killed by Cornelius M. Williams. The jury found that Green died of a wound inflicted by Williams. Williams was held for the grand jury and committed to prison in default of bail.

Church Leaders In Conflict

Manila, Nov. 16.—Aglipaya, the nominal head of the schismatics, has protested against the action of Mgr. Rooker, bishop of Jaro, in taking possession of the Catholic church at La Pazia, Iloilo. Mgr. Rooker has threatened to take drastic measures to curb the schismatics.

CRUSADE ON MASHERS

Scheme For Protecting Girl Workers In Denver.

FAIR SEX TO PATROL STREETS.

A Systematic Plan of Gathering Evidence to Secure Conviction In Court of Those Who Make "Goo-goo Eyes"—Young Women Workers to Be Organized on Mutual Protection Idea.

Miss Louise Lee Hardin, president of the Denver Women's Business club, has started to put into execution a plan for the extinction of the masher, says the Kansas City Times. The object of this is to protect the girls who work in shops and offices.

The plan is a farreaching one. It consists, first, of a patrol of the streets by a score of young women, who will keep a vigilant outlook for the street "masher" and when found report his offense to the nearest police officer. In addition, Miss Hardin proposes to organize the young women in the offices and shops on a mutual protection plan. In this way when a girl has a complaint against her employer she can rely on the assistance of many of her fellow employees to prove her charges.

The details are being carefully worked out, and before Christmas shoppers swarm the streets the women expect to drive the "mashers" from their familiar haunts.

Miss Hardin is confident of her scheme, and woe betide him who attempts to flirt with some entrancing maiden he may observe upon the street. The prettiest of the working girls have been picked out by Miss Hardin to recruit the "antimashers" police. She is working along Parisian methods, and before complaint is filed there will be ample evidence to sustain every charge preferred against the culprit.

"No one woman will have to confront her employer in court, to be browbeaten and intimidated by lawyers and retire wilting under the abuse heaped upon her," says Miss Hardin. "She will have several witnesses of her own sex to substantiate her charges."

Miss Hardin says she was actuated in starting the new crusade by her experience in seeking work in Denver.

"I know we will succeed," she said. "Every day we are getting stronger. Interest has been awakened, and the working girls of this city will have protection. It is surprising when one sums up how many homes are solely dependent on one little woman."

In elaborating the detective plan Miss Hardin advanced the ideas that certain kinds or grades of work demanded more protection than others. To strangers coming to Denver, to girls alone in the city, to the ones stranded on account of illness or other trouble, the Business Women's club pledges help, but not in the name of charity. It is the intention of Miss Hardin to ask the 900 members of the Woman's club to fraternize so that an immense army of influential women may lend their aid to the cause.

SCHWAB-MORGAN SONG.

Verse Thrown on to Stage Makes a Hit In "Babes In Toyland."

Members of the Delta Upsilon society practically filled the Majestic theater in New York the other night, where "Babes In Toyland" is being given, says the New York World. During the "arithmetic song," sung by Miss Mabel Barrison, a young man in one of the boxes tossed a bit of paper on the stage. It proved to be a verse for the song, and Miss Barrison sang it for an encore. It ran as follows:

If Schwab and Morgan want to form
A billion dollar trust
And take some plants worth thirty cents
And some about to bust;
If the public then the stock does take
And pays a good amount,
How many points does that stock break
To lose your bank account?
Put down six and carry two, etc.

The verse made the hit of the evening.

Fancy Pack of Cards.

The Prince of Wales, who does not really care for cards, has followed the example set by the kaiser and has ordered a fancy pack for the benefit of his children, says a London cablegram to the Cincinnati Enquirer. In the kaiser's pack the pope is the king of spades, his own august person is represented by the king of hearts and the four knaves are four presidents of the chief councils. The Prince of Wales has made Queen Alexandra queen of hearts, his father king of hearts, the kaiser king of clubs, Queen Marguerite of Italy queen of diamonds and the four knaves are members of the late cabinet. The cards are beautifully designed and printed, and the aces contain portraits of favorite court officials.

Made Him Forget His Troubles.

The neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Scott of Columbus, O., whose house was burglarized recently and on which occasion Jack's pants were relieved of $21, organized themselves into a donation party and paid them a visit the other evening, says the Maysville (O.) Journal. They came laden with cabbages, turnips, beets, salt, some potatoes and much other valuable (?) provender and for a few hours at least caused Jack to forget his loss.

A New Life of Charles Dickens.

Mrs. Perugini is writing a life of her father, Charles Dickens, with the assistance of her brother, Mr. Henry Fielding Dickens, says London Truth. The Dickens family was by no means satisfied with Forster's monumental work, by which its author was said to have gained £12,000.

GIFTS MADE at HOME

Some Linen Remembrances

THE house mistress is always delighted to have her store of linens added to, and Christmas is a good time to remember a fad of this kind. A graceful, well worked centerpiece is a present most women will be glad to have given them.

For the household fond of chafing dish suppers nothing could be more original or appropriate than the centerpiece, napkins and doilies described. The centerpiece is a large, round affair, having a circumference of seventy-two inches, and is fashioned of rather heavy though exquisitely fine ecru linen. Around this edge is heavy Russian lace matching the linen in color and five inches deep. Great care must be taken in getting the lace on the round piece of linen without any fullness and still not drawing it in. This can be done by putting the linen smoothly on a table and pinning the lace carefully around the edge. Of course the edge nearest the linen will be naturally fuller than the outer edge, and this fullness must be evenly worked in, and when pressed the effect is that of lace made expressly for the centerpiece. Having successfully put on the lace, draw in a design of gracefully arranged sprays of pine needles and their cones. Especially accentuate the stems, making them thick and substantial looking. Peeping out from among these pine cone branches are the heads of pert little rabbits. Six of these rabbits around the centerpiece will be sufficient. These heads should be as funny as they can be made and dressed in costumes—one as a dude, another as an end man at a minstrel show, another just an everyday natural rabbit, and so on. Suggestions for making these little animals can be found in an Uncle Remus book.

A DOILY.

The silks used are three shades of soft green filo, almost a gray green. These are for the stems and rabbits. For the cones two shades of brown are best. A little of the brown may be successfully put in the rabbits' clothes. The doilies are carried out in the same manner. The lace is not quite as wide as that on the centerpiece, and the design for the embroidery is reduced to suit the size of the doilies. The napkins to be used with this set are of the same ecru linen and lace. They are finished with an inch wide hem, and narrow lace is put around the entire napkin. In one corner is a branch of the pine and, if one cares to have it, an initial. This initial rather weakens the effect and is commonplace.

The poinsettia blossom is an appropriate design for a holiday centerpiece. On green linen this flower shows up beautifully and is not difficult to embroider, as the heavy fourteenth century floss, if used, works up very fast.

In toning the leaves and poinsettia blossoms it is better to apply a dark shade on one side and a lighter one on the other, with possibly a touch of the weakest color at the extreme elge.

Any heavy lace can be dyed to match the linen and will serve to finish the centerpiece.

One of the prettiest and daintiest centers for a table imaginable is a piece covered with butterflies in natural size and coloring, which hover in a realistic manner over the linen.

These butterflies in different sizes are drawn on a strip of linen, then embroidered in the bright and beautiful coloring of the insect. The body and feelers are arranged on the centerpiece in the order desired. The finished wings are cut out and then sewed against the bodies, which are worked over and over as solid and raised as possible. The whole effect is that of a flight of the dainty beauties alighting on the table.

Colored motifs inset on white linen and applied with fancy stitches mingled with lace is a novel way in which an artist is making her most exclusive centerpieces.

Battenberg braid worked in designs is not new, but when well done makes a square sufficiently attractive to present to the most fastidious woman as a Christmas present.

The Ever Popular Calendar.

Madonna calendars are pretty Christmas gifts. They bear reproductions of the favorite Madonnas of old and modern masters, from the well known conceptions of Raphael and Murillo to the modern interpretations of Bouguereau, Sichel and Bodenhausen.

DEATH GERMS IN PULLMANS

Modern Luxury In Palace Cars Declared a Menace to Public Health.

"The modern palace car, with its many decorations and draperies, is a menace to the public health. Railroad coaches should be made as plain as possible in order that they may be cleaned thoroughly after each trip." Dr. James A. Elkton made the above statement at the thirteenth annual meeting of the New York State Association of Railway Surgeons the other night in New York.

"Every medical man," he continued, "knows that the origin of a large proportion of communicable diseases is traceable to the direct or indirect contact of the sick with the healthy. The transmission is most likely to occur by protracted contact with the person or surroundings which the infected have contaminated. For many reasons the ordinary railroad coach, because of its varied use and occupancy, might furnish a fruitful opportunity for the dissemination of disease. On account of the carelessness of the public, the railroad companies are to a lamentable degree afforded encouragement for laxity in the matter of hygienic regulations.

"Yet railroad companies beautify their vehicles and vie with each other in the matter of design and ornamentation in utter disregard for the important matter of hygienic conditions.

"Crowded immigrant ships bring contagion to our shores, and the railroads, unless some wise sanitary regulations be made, may become a potent vehicle in scattering it broadcast through the land."

The doctor also argued for a more healthful distribution of air through railway coaches.

After the conclusion of Dr. Elkton's address a paper written by Dr. G. P. Conn of Concord, N. H., dealing with the same subject, was read, and then the meeting discussed the matter and agreed that it was time that something should be done to make the traveling public less liable to infection.

THE POWER OF MONEY.

Chinese Move Graves From Railway's Path When Paid.

H. E. Huntington and E. H. Harriman are interested with Edwin Hawley, T. F. Oakes, Frederick F. Eldridge and other New Yorkers in a syndicate to get railway concessions from China to build several important lines, says a San Francisco dispatch to the Chicago Inter Ocean. One agent of the syndicate, A. W. Bash, has gone to China to secure the concessions. Another representative of the combine, R. M. Hopper of Philadelphia, who was in San Francisco on his way to join Bash, says the outside world generally believes that the reverence of the Chinese for the graves of their ancestors constitutes a great obstacle to the building of railroads in China.

"This is a mistake," he says. "If necessary, they will put the bodies in new graves, but they charge a pretty sum for violence to their feelings. They have an eye to the main chance."

RELIC FROM IONA ISLAND.

Famous Sacred Stone Destined For Washington Cathedral.

An old and weather worn stone of somewhat checkered appearance is soon to become a precious relic and a priceless possession of the new cathedral at Washington, says the New York American. Lady Susan Grant, who is the daughter of Sir Alexander and Lady Grant of Edinburgh, recently arrived in the United States and has in her keeping this relic, taken from the floor of the ruins of the old cathedral on the island of Iona, in which in the year 563 Saint Colomba stood and preached the gospel to the ancient Britons.

Miss Grant has an authentication from the custodian of the cathedral and from the bishop of Argyll and the Isles, who sends it in her care to the Right Rev. Henry Y. Satterlee, Episcopal bishop of Washington.

Senator Hoar's Incisiveness.

Senator Hoar is often incisive. The other day he bustled into the room at the capitol of one of his old time colleagues, says the Washington Post. The locked door flew open at the senator's approach. The young man on guard stood back at attention as the senator rounded the screen at the entrance and stood before the clerk of the committee.

"Is the senator in?" inquired Mr. Hoar.

"He has gone out for a moment to get a bite of lunch," said the clerk very courteously.

"Well," ejaculated the senator, disappointed, but thoroughly good humored, "there's nothing immoral in that," and bustled out as rapidly as he had come in, leaving several people laughing heartily at the quirk.

Oppressed Co-eds.

Now it is the co-eds of Stanford university that have a grievance. The order has gone forth that hereafter they shall not go walking with their young men after dusk. Only one exception is made, that in the case where there is a bona fide engagement existing between the young people.

The National Horse Show.

Rows of spectators, tier on tier.
Come to gaze with applause or sneer,
Eager eye and watchful ear,
For the latest fashion is sure to appear
At the horse show.

Costumes rich and very dear
(Many a bill in their wake, I fear),
Brought together from far and near
To swell the wonderful pageant here
At the horse show.

Society, smiling, reserved, severe,
Humble plutocrat, haughty peer;
Well, this is a menagerie queer—
Lion, donkey, peacock, deer,
At the horse show.
—New York Herald.

INQUIRY ORDERED

Into Alleged Irregularities In Customs Department at Boston

Boston, Nov. 16.—The Post says that an investigation of what are considered serious frauds in Boston customs department is the program decided upon by Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, who has received reports from the treasury agents whom he detailed to investigate affairs in Boston. The reports are said to make such startling charges that an official investigation has been deemed necessary.

Just what the scope of the investigation would be could not be learned, but the usual procedure in such cases is the appointment of a commission to visit the city and take the testimony. It is understood that the charges are made against certain of the examiners.

It is expected that orders from Washington which will have a decided effect in the personnel of the appraiser's force will be sent to Boston shortly. No charges reflecting on Chief Appraiser Brown and his assistants, Blaney and Sprague, have been made.

Examiners Trafton and Shedd of the appraiser's department have been suspended. Chief Treasury Agent Smith and Special Agents Hentz, Bunn, O'Neil, Stone and Bean have been sent away to different parts of the country. Thirteen cases of laces and handkerchiefs have been seized by United States agents. A new force of treasury agents will take charge of the New England district.

Dowie's Great Expectations

Chicago, Nov. 16.—"I have just received an offer of 4,000,000 acres of land on which to build another Zion city, but the site must be kept secret for the present," said John A. Dowie, speaking to his followers in Shiloh tabernacle, Zion City. "What is more," Dowie continued, "I have an offer of 10,000 acres of land within 35 miles of New York city for the same purpose. I am going abroad Jan. 3 after men and money," he said. "When I get back in June all Zion will start its work for building up Jerusalem."

Thugs Bound by Compact

St. Louis, Nov. 16.—Three men captured near Venice as suspected highwaymen finally admitted that they had been holding up pedestrians and saloonkeepers generally throughout St. Louis for a week past and that they were bound together by a compact in which each swore to forfeit his life to one of the other two in case he betrayed any robbery committed. They made signed statements, admitting they were confidence men, footpads and burglars, and had operated throughout the country.

Self-Accused Criminal

New York, Nov. 16.—A well dressed man walked into a police station here and, without saying a word, handed the sergeant a written statement accusing himself of forgery and passing several worthless checks. The man said he was guilty of all the offenses charged in the statement and wanted to be locked up. He gave his name as J. S. Gardner and was remanded for an investigation.

Shoe Factories Shut Down

Quebec, Nov. 16.—Twenty boot and shoe factories in this city have closed down, due to trouble with the machinists, who have refused to abide by an agreement creating a conciliation board. The manufacturers will no longer recognize the Shoe Machinists' union, but will insist upon individual contracts. Five thousand operatives are affected by the shutdown.

Gomez' Heart With Veterans

Havana, Nov. 16.—General Maximo Gomez has accepted the government's check for the grant of $50,000 recently unanimously voted to him by congress and approved by President Palma in recognition of his services as head of the revolutionary army. General Gomez says, however, that he will not draw any of the money until all the veterans shall have been paid.

Slayers Were Slain

Douglas, Wyo., Nov. 16.—The nine Sioux Indians arrested for participation in the fight in which Sheriff Miller and Deputy Falkenburg were killed have been discharged. The testimony showed that Eagle Feather and Black Kettle, both of whom were killed, fired the shots which killed the officers.

Mysterious Acid Throwing

Buffalo, Nov. 16.—Anna Lennon, 16 years old, was sent to a store not far from her home and on the way back some one dashed a quantity of carbolic acid in her face. She was frightfully burned and may lose her eyesight. She is unable to give any information that might lead to an arrest.

Army Officer Killed In Duel

Guyamas, Mex., Nov. 16.—J. Carara, an officer of the Twentieth Mexican battalion, is dead as a result of a duel between himself and Alberto Kungia, a local merchant. The cause of the duel, which was fought with swords, is not definitely known.

Kaiser Allowed to Whisper

Berlin, Nov. 16.—A bulletin regarding the condition of Emperor William says the wound is nearly healed and that the emperor has been permitted to whisper freely since Saturday.

CITY BREVITIES.

George L. Gill Rebekah lodge will work the degree and entertain the deputy at its regular meeting on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Sally Harris who celebrated her 90th birthday on Saturday, had a number of callers during the afternoon, and received many birthday remembrances, including money.

On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Frank A. Page will open her home on Winthrop avenue for the second of Miss Thompson's talks. The subject, "In Oxford's Walks and Gardens" is illustrated by many fine photographs and is of particular literary interest.

Miss S. H. Hussey wishes her kind friends to know that she has closed her home for the winter. Not being able, as intended, to journey to the home of relatives, she is stopping with friends at No. 22 Mill street, where she is resting, and gaining health. She is too weak at present, however, to see friends.

The Junior Choir of twenty-five voices, of the United Presbyterian church made a good impression Sunday night. They rendered "All ends of earth shall praise the Lord" with excellent time and compass of voice. Also "Walking in his ways" was impressive and beautiful. It is hoped they may be able to give a similar service soon. Prof. Parsons deserves much credit for the training of the choir.

THE BANKRUPT GIRL.

London's Latest Victim of the Prevalent Extravagant Era.

A new victim of hard times has been found, says a London cable dispatch to the New York Herald. It is a variant of the girl question, and, in addition to the bachelor girl, the matinee girl and the thousand and one other classifications there is now the bankrupt girl. Her sad straits are not directly due to financial stringency, nor is bridge specially to blame. She is an outcome of the increased cost of living. The allowance which was sufficient for the needs of the unmarried girl a few years ago is now declared to be entirely inadequate.

One young woman voices the plaint of herself and her sisterhood.

"Five years ago," she writes, "I had an allowance from my father of £75 ($375) per annum, and it sufficed. Today, after my allowance has been raised to £100 ($500), since Jan. 1 I find I am behind in my accounts, although I've not been one whit more extravagant than when my allowance was smaller."

This letter was put before a woman who has four daughters, each of whom has an allowance of £100 ($500) a year.

"It is quite true," she said, "that the expenditure of unmarried girls has risen. It has gone up in proportion with the demands made upon the purses of married women. As their dress has become more expensive, so, too, has that of unmarried girls. My daughters insist upon being turned out as well as married women, and their allowances do not suffice. They are in a constant state of bankruptcy in spite of their £100 ($500) a year, paid quarterly.

"I attribute this to club subscriptions, theaters, tips—what woman ever gave a tip twenty years ago?—country house visits, gewgaws, luncheon parties at west end restaurants and wedding presents."

SHIP MAST UNDER ROOF.

Annapolis Students Have Full Spread of Sails For Indoor Practice.

The unique spectacle of a full sized mast, with all the sails, yards, blocks and ropes exactly as on a full rigged ship, within four walls and under a roof is now to be seen at the new boathouse at the Naval academy in Annapolis.

It is stated by those at the Naval academy who have studied the subject that it is the only one of the kind in the world. There is a large mast used for purposes of instruction in Germany, but it is out of doors, and there is a small mast in a building at Newport, but it is not nearly the size of the one at Annapolis.

The mast which has been erected in the boathouse is seventy-two feet in height and is exactly like in every way the mizzenmast of the United States steamship Chesapeake, which was especially constructed for the practice work of the midshipmen.

A HEART TO HEART TALK.

BY QUIERPONT GORGON.

Dear Little Boys and Girls—There isn't anything I would rather do than talk to you except lending money to the government at a ten million profit or reorganizing a railroad.

Because, you see, I love little children and want them all to grow up like me and have enough money to make an Episcopal bishop or a new senator or possibly even a new president.

Remember, children, if you can't be president yourself you can be the next best thing, which is Me.

Now, I wonder if any little boy or girl can tell me what a syndicate is. Some one has said that a syndicate is a body of men entirely surrounded by money; but, my dearies, that isn't the answer. In reality a syndicate is a body of money entirely surrounded by men.

Some day, little ones, you may be a syndicate all by yourselves. When you are cable me at my expense, and I will exchange your stock for bonds.

Both of us will make money.

The only party that will lose is the Public.

Can any bright little boy tell me what the Public is? No? Well, the Public is merely a lot of people who buy worthless stock just to oblige the syndicate that wants to sell.

The Public is very tender hearted and wants all the good syndicates to make all the money they can, so it helps them out in this way.

Sometimes the Public is sorry for what it has done and sheds bitter tears.

But I am not sorry, are you? Why should we be when we can make so much money to give away to the churches that really need it?

And now, little boys and girls, I want you all to remember that if you would be like me you must begin early and work hard. And not only work yourself hard, but everybody else. That is the secret of success.

And here's a little steel plant for each one of you. Put it in the ground, and some day it may grow up and bear lovely dividends—to cut.—Tom Masson in Life.

—Government begins this week a distribution of 1,000 tons of garden and flower seeds. No doubt many of them will never be used, but as each Congressman will have the disposal of 12,000 packages, many of them will fall into hands where they will be productive of good.—Weymouth Transcript.

—"Canada should annex the United States," is the way Mr. Carnegie diplomatically put it to the Canucks and it tickled them immensely.—Mansfield News.

MUST WED TO TEACH.

Schoolma'ams to Be Barred If Chicago Doctor's Ideas Win.

"Teachers should be married and made to stay married. Boys and girls between the ages of twelve and twenty years should be segregated. The girls should be taught by women—wives and mothers; the boys by men—husbands and fathers."

When these reforms are accomplished the public school will be in a fair way to attain the highest pinnacle of perfection, the greatest educational and moral usefulness in the community, according to Dr. Bayard Holmes, who pointed out the evils in the public school system and prescribed remedies for them at a recent meeting of the educational department of the Chicago Woman's club.

Dr. Holmes took a view of the mother's usefulness as a schoolteacher opposite to that held by a number of the school trustees, who have been so often on the verge of closing the doors of the schoolhouses to married women, says the Chicago Tribune.

After making a simile between teaching and kissing, in that neither means anything unless there is a real relation existing between the parties to it, Dr. Holmes pleaded for the motherly schoolteacher. He declared that the days of usefulness of the spinster schoolma'am are over and that she should be employed only to teach girls intended to become schoolma'ams.

"Boys and girls between the ages of twelve and twenty should be taught separately," declared the speaker. "It is more important to segregate the children of the public schools than the men and women of the universities. The school boys and girls are leading different lives, and their thoughts are different. I do not see much need in segregating students who have reached the age of twenty. The boys should be taught by men if they are to grow up men. The girls should be taught by women—married women, mothers—if they are going to be wives and mothers. If a girl is going to be a schoolma'am let her be taught by a schoolma'am."

What It Costs
... AND ...
What It Pays

are two values of newspaper advertising that the merchant has to consider. But the most important thing is

WHAT IT PAYS.

The merchant can get space in papers of small circulation and little influence for a little less money than the same size space would cost in the DAILY LEDGER and the QUINCY PATRIOT.

DOES IT PAY

to throw away the certainty of the profitable returns which are sure to LEDGER and PATRIOT advertisers, because it costs less to advertise in a cheaper paper?

NAVAL MAGAZINE.

Squantum Head Supposed to be the Site Selected.

Secretary Moody transmitted to the House, with his approval, on Monday a report of a naval board appointed to select a site for a naval magazine. An appropriation of $500,000 is urged for the construction of the magazine "on or near the New England coast, north of Cape Cod." The site selected is seven miles from the Boston navy yard and four miles from Nantasket roads.

The Boston Advertiser says the land favored is supposed to be the area known as Squantum, at the mouth of the Neponset river.

Probably it is not the flats near the river as the Advertiser thinks but Squantum head.

The new supply depot will be located on a government reservation entirely by itself and carefully isolated from any large centres of population. The tract of land used will be shut off from the surrounding country, although of course having adequate railroad connections and wharfage facilities necessary to transporting ammunition.

No house other than those of the employes will be allowed on the premises and visitors will be rigidly excluded.

The immense plant will consist of a collection of very large and carefully constructed buildings for the storage of the death-dealing material employed in naval warfare.

The arrangement of these buildings will be made the subject of careful study by naval architects, with a view of so placing them that an explosion in one will not extend to the others.

There will be one or more buildings for the storage of powder of various kinds; others for projectiles of all sizes and kinds, and still others for the care of torpedoes.

The construction of this plant will require considerable time and the expenditure of a very large sum of money. But the navy departaent feels justified in making the outlay, feeling that it is something demanded and demanded at once.

While the plans for this ammunition station are not yet fully decided upon, it can be said that to it will be brought ammunition stores or all kinds from all the stations and yards in the country. In the navy yards there will be left only such small supplies as are actually needed for immediate use.

The opening of this reservation will mean the discontinuance of the Chelsea powder houses. Also all ammunition from the Boston yard will be at once removed. All that from the Brooklyn and Philadelphia yards may also be promptly removed in order to get rid of the present menace to those great centres.

Washington, Nov. 17.—A protest of the Colombian government to the senate against the recognition by the United States of the Independence of Panama has been received by Senator Frye, as president pro tem of the senate. The document was not laid before the senate because of the diplomatic requirement that it should be transmitted through the secretary of state. It will be sent to the secretary with the request that it be speedily returned, when Senator Frye will lay it before the senate.

THE AUXILIARY.

Good Work for Y. M. C. A. Being Done by the Women.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Young Men's Christian Association met at the building on Washington street Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. In spite of the storm twenty-five ladies were present. Mrs. E. S. Tenney led the devotional exercises.

A vote was taken to continue the membership contest, which has been in operation for some two months, for a month longer. A total of 161 new members, was reported as having been secured, and money paid in. The two contesting sides being very even at time of the count. It is hoped the number may reach 500 by the time of the closing, as there are a large number who have expressed their willingness to join.

After some other routine business, Mr. Gay, the new general secretary, gave a fifteen-minute talk on the work at large, giving words of encouragement to the women who have been faithful during the long period of depression. Among other things he said he had unlimited faith in the movement because of its magnitude as a perfectly organized brotherhood and because it does the things required of it, namely, supplies the physical, social, intellectual and spiritual needs of all classes and conditions of young men.

In line of new business the auxiliary have determined to put on "Egyptia," in Music hall, Dec. 29—31. Elaborate plans are being made to assure the success of this wonderful musical production.

It was announced that the building fund of the association had reached $12,390, and that the building would be commenced without question in the early spring.

Drift of Opinion.

☞In regard to football, the truth might as well be told. The brutality of the game is one of its chief attractions. If players were never killed or injured there would not be half the fascination about it.—Kansas City Journal.

☞The difficulty in most cities is that the better class of people pay no attention to public matters and never assert themselves. They allow the professional politicians to run the city and then complain because government is bad. In a popular government like ours the people must be vigilant and diligent, if they expect to keep their household in order. Bad government is usually due to criminal neglect on the part of the people.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

THE G. A. R. FAIR.

Opened Last Night at Hancock Hall.

The annual fair of Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., opened Monday night at Hancock hall with a large attendance, considering the inclement weather, and its success is assured from the start.

The opening exercises were brief. Commander John W. Hersey made a few remarks and then introduced Col. Charles H. Porter. Col. Porter addressed the gathering briefly and then declared the fair formally open.

The City band was present and gave a concert outside the hall early in the evening and later inside of the hall.

The tables for the sale of articles of various kinds were arranged on both sides of the hall and looked very attractive, flag bunting being used largely in their decoration.

The Ladies' Aid society had charge of most of the tables as will be seen below:

Candy,—Mrs. Frank Stoddard, Mrs. Joe Shackley and Miss Viola Dexheimer.

Refreshments,—Miss Mildred Willett, Mrs. Samuel D. De Forest and Mrs. W. M. Bird.

Handkerchiefs and aprons, — Mrs. Minnie Godfrey and Miss Etta French.

Fancy,—Mrs. Arthur C. Merritt, Mrs. George C. Ela and Mrs. Mary E. Holbrook.

Small Wheel,—Mrs. Andrew W. Gardner and Mrs. James W. Pierce.

ONE VICTIM WILL DIE

Man and Woman Shot by Intoxicated Man In Boston Lodging House

Boston, Nov. 17.—John W. White is under arrest for shooting James Gavel and Annie Lewis last night. The affair happened at a lodging house at 25 Upton street. Both victims are at the hospital and the physicians say that Gavel's wounds will prove fatal.

Not much is known about the shooting, as the only witnesses were the principals concerned in it. Mrs. Dunn, the proprietor of the lodging house, says that at about 11:15 she heard three shots fired in rapid succession in the room where the Lewis woman lived. Rushing to the scene she burst open the door and saw Gavel lying on the floor, while the woman was leaning against the wall. Gavel had a bullet wound in the abdomen and another one in the thigh. Miss Lewis was shot in the calf of the leg. When taken to the hospital White, who was under the influence of liquor, was identified by Gavel as the man who did the shooting.

Mrs. Dunn says that about a week ago White and Miss Lewis engaged a room in her house, claiming to be married. Not much is known about White. He is about 22 years old. Gavel is about 52 years old. He is married and lives only a short distance away from where the tragedy occurred.

Cuban Reciprocity Debate

Washington, Nov. 17.—The house has made a fair start on the legislation for which it was convened in special session. Mr. Payne opened the debate in a speech, the keynote of which was that the Cuban reciprocity treaty would not affect injuriously sugar, tobacco or any other interests and was demanded by national honor and good faith. For the minority Representatives Williams, Swanson and Robinson made speeches criticising the Republicans for their tariff policy and the excessive taxation of the public.

Wants Great Park Fenced

Butte, Mont., Nov. 17.—J. S. Harrison, who has had charge of surveying the boundary line of the Yellowstone national park, reports that the work of eight years has just been completed. Granite monuments, placed every half mile, warn the poacher to keep off. He says the wilds are full of elk, deer and bear, with some moose, and that if these animals are to be protected they must be kept from wandering off the reservation by a wire fence entirely surrounding the park.

Charges Against a Judge

Washington, Nov. 17.—Charges have been filed with Speaker Cannon against Andrew Kirkpatrick, United States district judge of New Jersey, whose impeachment is asked on the ground that "he has brought the administration of justice into contempt through his being the active president of a trading corporation." The charges were referred to the judiciary committee.

Railway Will Refuse Demands

Pittsburg, Nov. 17.—Representatives of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes have made a demand upon the Pittsburg Railway company for an adjustment of wages and hours, to take effect on Jan. 1. General Superintendent Murphy informed the committee that the company would positively not consider a contract with the union.

Naval Magazine Near Boston

Washington, Nov. 17.—Secretary Moody has transmitted to the house with his approval a report of a naval board appointed to select a site for a naval magazine. An appropriation of $500,000 is urged for the construction of the magazine seven miles from the Boston navy yard and four miles from Nantasket roads.

Colonel Boykin Kills Himself

Charleston, Nov. 17.—Colonel E. M. Boykin, United States marshal for this state under Cleveland and a leading banker of Camden, killed himself accidentally with a shotgun while on a shooting expedition. He was president of many large corporations.

Pension List Grows

Washington, Nov. 17.—The reports of the pension bureau show that the pensions issued during the first four months of the present fiscal year exceed the same period of last year by 25 percent. The pension issue last year was the largest in 10 years.

Lawyer Killed In Duel

Paris, Nov. 17.—In a duel with swords, arising from a private quarrel, Henri Lautier, a lawyer of Toulouse, was killed by Charles Ebelot of Paris.

COLLINS---FAHEY.

A Newspaper Man Takes Unto Himself a Wife.

Two well known young people were united in marriage this morning by Rev. Ambrose F. Roche, at St. Mary's church, West Quincy. The bride was Miss Margeret Theresa Fahey, daughter of Mrs. Joanna Fahey of 69 West street, and the groom was Mr. Timothy J. Collins, son of Mrs. Mary Collins of 199 South street, and a popular newspaper man, having been connected with the Boston Globe for several years.

William J. Parker, of Quincy, of the Associated Press, was best man, and the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Fahey. The ushers were: James Cregan of Quincy, John T. Falvey of Stoughton, James Doyle of Quincy, and Daniel T. Falvey of Quincy.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white crepe de Paris, trimmed with an embroidered bertha and collar of Irish point lace. Her long tulle veil was caught with lilies of the valley and she also carried a large shower bouquet of the same flowers. The bridesmaid was also charmingly gowned in a white silk beige, trimmed with silk embroidery and fagotting. She carried a bouquet of Catherine de Mermet roses and wore a large black picture hat.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, from ten until twelve o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Collins were assisted in receiving by the bride's mother and sisters, Miss Mary C. Murphy of New York, cousin of the groom, and the best man William J. Parker.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins are spending their honeymoon in Washington, and on their return are to reside at 199 South street, where they will be at home after January first.

RESIGNATION OF SMITH

First Large Fruit of Boston Custom House Inquiry

SUSPENSIONS AND ARRESTS

Looked For In the Near Future as a Result of Discovery That Boston Was Made a Port For Dumping Smuggled Goods

Washington, Nov. 17.—Converse J. Smith, special agent of the treasury department, in charge of the port of Boston, has resigned, stipulating that his resignation should take effect immediately. The resignation was at once accepted by the treasury department and in a few days his successor will be detailed from the service.

This is the first large fruit of the investigation of affairs at the Boston custom house which has been going on quietly for some time. The frauds practised in the customs at Boston have attracted special attention at Washington because it became evident a short time ago Boston was made the port for dumping smuggled goods which could not be got through the custom house at New York or Philadelphia. The principal captures have been curtains and lace goods from St. Gall, Switzerland, which were worked through Europe and got out in such shape as to require no consular invoice.

The consuls at St. Gall and at Antwerp, which was the port of shipment, are in no way concerned in the frauds, all the vicious business being conducted by private parties till the goods reached Boston. There the goods were entered in small lots often as "samples" valued at one-tenth or one-twentieth of the marked value. Fortunately the discovery was made in time to enable the government actually to seize a large amount of "crooked" freight so that when the cases of implicated parties come up in the criminal courts, the exhibits will be on hand to show the jury.

Two examiners were suspended last week, Trafton and Shedd. They have admitted to their superiors that they were at least careless in their work, passing imports as examined which they had not examined at all and of which they knew nothing as to character of goods or values. Other suspensions and arrests are looked for in the near future.

The collector of customs at Boston is in no way involved in the matter beyond the necessary complaint that such things ought not to have gone on in a great business establishment and escaped the knowledge or suspicion of its head.

There has been no special overhauling of other custom houses on the lines of Boston investigation. All the larger ones have been inspected within the last year, and the inspection at Baltimore caused some sensational developments, but nothing of the magnitude of that at Boston.

Resignation Was Unexpected

Boston, Nov. 17.—To the local officials at present in charge of the special treasury office in Boston the resignation of Converse J. Smith was a great surprise. Special Agent Clayton, who had charge of the New York office, is in charge of the Boston office. Frank E. Martin, a special employe from the New York office, also reported here for duty, and Theophilus Grout, brother of the late Congressman Grout of Vermont, and Miss Locke remain at the local office, where they have been employed for several years.

In theory, all custom houses are inspected every year, but in fact the Boston office has not been examined in five years. It has been customary while the inquiry was in progress to order the special agents regularly employed at the port to other places until the examining officers had finished their work. This may explain why Colonel Smith was ordered to Galveston and why his subordinates were ordered to other ports.

A high treasury official who enjoys the confidence of Secretary Shaw says that the removal of Smith to Galveston is in no sense a reflection upon his official or personal conduct, and that, so far as the official knows, there has been no personal differences between the secretary and Smith.

Expensive Change of Armament

Vienna, Nov. 17.—The Austrian military authorities have decided in favor of a special kind of wrought bronze from which the new artillery for the Austro-Hungarian army will be manufactured. Orders will be given for an entire armament of 3000 cannon. The cost will be $7,714,000, the entire work of which will be done within the monarchy.

Trap Set Without Result

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Threats to blow up the Plaza hotel have been made to the manager of the building, in an anonymous letter, which named as an alternative the payment of $500. The letter was turned over to the police and a trap laid for the writer. Instructions as to the delivery of the money were followed, but the writer failed to appear.

Aspires to Governorship

Washington, Nov. 17.—Representative Ball of Texas, after a service in the house of 6½ years, retired today to private life, his resignation having been presented and accepted. It is understood he may become a candidate for governor of Texas.

OPERATIVES DISAPPOINTED

In Hope That Cotton Mills Would Adopt Compromise Retrenchment

Boston, Nov. 17.—There are indications that a reduction in the wages of cotton mill operatives will become general throughout New England. As much was intimated by the executive committee of the Manufacturers' association of Fall River when, at a conference with the Textile council, it was stated that the mill owners of New England were satisfied that the only feasible plan for securing a profit under the present condition of the cotton market was to cut the wages of the operatives. The mills of New Bedford, Amesbury, Attleboro, and Blackstone, Mass., mills throughout Rhode Island and those of eastern Connecticut have followed the example of Fall River.

The mill agents at Lowell reiterate their statement that wages will not be cut there. In Lowell, however, wages were not advanced in the spring of 1902 and they are now operating on the plane upon which the present reduction will place the mills of many other cities.

Operatives in many cities have awaited with interest the conference at Fall River. The hopes of operatives generally were based on the possibility of the Fall River operatives inducing the manufacturers to reconsider their decision and adopt a compromise plan of retrenchment proposed by the Textile council. The positive refusal of the manufacturers' representatives to entertain any suggestion from the council is accepted as settling definitely the situation in other cities.

The possibility of a strike at any of the cotton centres appears as remote as ever. Labor leaders almost without exception believe that a strike would result in a shutdown.

Blacksmiths Return to Work

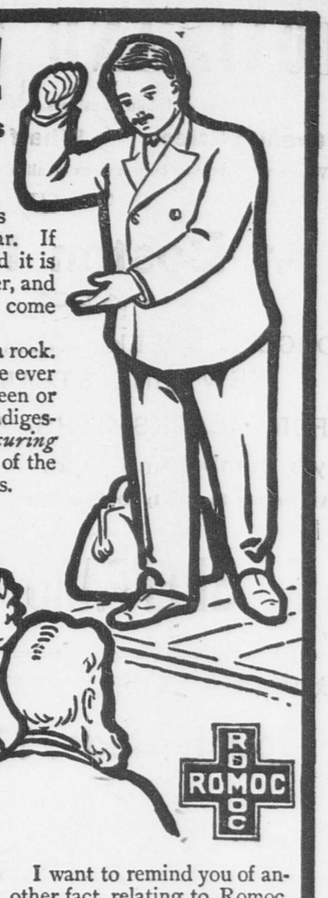
Boston, Nov. 17.—The strike of the blacksmiths employed by the Boston and Albany railroad in the repair shops at West Springfield and Allston has been settled and the men returned to work today. The Blacksmiths' union makes no statement regarding the terms. Vice President Van Ettin of the railroad company says that the railroad has made absolutely no concession to the workmen.

Thieves Got Checks and Cash

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 17.—A daring robbery was committed at the freight office of the Boston and Maine railroad at the junction last evening when some one entered the private office of Cashier Osgood during his temporary absence and substituted an empty envelope for one containing $500 in checks and $43 in cash. There is no trace of the robbers.

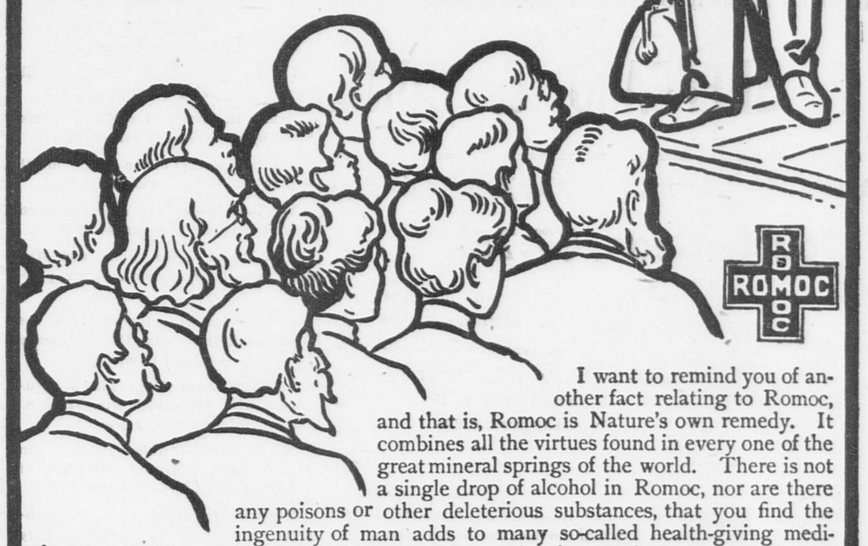
HERE HE IS AGAIN!

Once more the Romoc man expounds the Theories of Health. This is What He Says:



SEE here, good people, I have only a few words to say in making my appearance again this year. If you need my advice, you probably need it badly, and it is simply this: start in with Romoc, the sooner the better, and fortify yourself against the ills that are bound to come during the next few months.

Remember that Romoc is the medicine made from a rock. There is nothing in this whole, wide world that I have ever found in my travels, or that any of you have ever seen or heard of, that will so effectually cure Rheumatism, Indigestion, Nervousness, and all Blood Troubles, and besides curing these ills, that will absolutely make you well of any of the many derangements that are a result of such affections.



I want to remind you of another fact relating to Romoc, and that is, Romoc is Nature's own remedy. It combines all the virtues found in every one of the great mineral springs of the world. There is not a single drop of alcohol in Romoc, nor are there any poisons or other deleterious substances, that you find the ingenuity of man adds to many so-called health-giving medicines to their detriment, and the danger of the people who use them.

Ask for ROMOC LAXATIVE TABLETS—SURE CURE FOR CONSTIPATION.
We have investigated Romoc. We know that all that is said by the Romoc man pertaining to this wonderful remedy is true, and we will refund to anyone the price of the remedy not satisfied with the results obtained. Remember, Romoc is guaranteed and sold by

ON CHARGE OF BRIBERY

Senator Dietrich Indicted by Nebraska Grand Jury

POSTMASTER IS ALSO NAMED

Merchant Testifies That He Acted as Intermediary In Deal Whereby the Senator Was Paid For Exercising Influence In Behalf of Postmaster

Omaha, Nov. 17.—The federal grand jury last evening returned true bills against United States Senator Charles H. Dietrich and Postmaster Jacob Fisher of Hastings, charging them with conspiracy and bribery in connection with the appointment of Fisher to the position of postmaster. When the indictments were brought into the United States district court, Judge Munger presiding, and were placed on file, the court merely accepted the report of the grand jury, making no remarks on its contents beyond making an order to the clerk for filing of the bills.

The indictment against Dietrich charges that he accepted money and property in consideration of his recommending Fisher for appointment as postmaster at Hastings. That against Fisher charges him with making an agreement with Dietrich by which the former was to pay in property and money $1300 for securing to Fisher the appointment.

Senator Dietrich is at present in Washington and there was no attorney or other person in the city last night authorized to make a statement for him.

William Dutton, a hardware merchant of Hastings, testified that he acted as intermediary in all the alleged transactions between the indicted men and after hearing his evidence the grand jury excused the remaining witnesses who had not testified, and at once prepared its report to Judge Munger.

Four other cases, said to be of a similar nature, are being investigated by the grand jury and a report on all or part of them is expected very soon. All are cases in which postoffices and postmasters are concerned.

This indictment is said to be the first ever returned against a United States senator on charges of this nature, and caused intense excitement in government official circles in Omaha and adjoining towns. What action will be taken, if any, to apprehend Senator Dietrich, has not been learned.

The section under which the conspiracy indictment is drawn against both Dietrich and Fisher is section 5440 of the revised status and provides that if two or more persons conspire to defraud the United States in any manner, and one or more of such parties do any act to effect the object of the conspiracy, all the parties to such conspiracy shall be liable to a penalty of not more than $10,000, or to imprisonment for not more than two years, or to both fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

Senator Dietrich was elected by the legislature of 1900-01 to succeed Senator Allen. His term expires March 3, 1905.

Postmaster Fisher was formerly mayor of Hastings and has been prominent in Republican politics of Nebraska for several years.

Postmaster Fisher and his deputy, Edward Francis, both of whom were subpoenaed as witnesses, but were not called upon to testify, were seen at their hotel in Omaha last night and Fisher made this statement:

"This is the first I knew of indictments being returned against Senator Dietrich and myself. I can say, however, that they are the result of political persecution and that I have been treated unfairly in the matter. I have been in Omaha 10 days, expecting to appear before the grand jury as a witness. Not being called to testify, I made application both to the district judge and to Foreman White to be permitted to make a statement to the grand jury. I was unable to secure a hearing however, and was yesterday dismissed with the assurance that I would not be called as a witness. There is really nothing in the charges and my friends will support me in my defense. If witnesses had been permitted to have been cross-examined the result would have been quite different and no indictment would have followed. I do not anticipate any serious consequences as a result of the report of the grand jury. Men have pushed this matter who were turned down for reappointment and have trumped up charges to 'get even.'"

Rosewater's Explanation

Washington, Nov. 17.—Senator Dietrich and Editor Rosewater of the Omaha Bee have arrived in this city and last night all inquirers as to the indictment of the senator was referred to Rosewater, who declared that the indictments were the result of a political quarrel. Mr. Rosewater asserted that Dietrich had a good defense and added that he and the senator had come to Washington at this time to bring about the removal of District Attorney Sommers. He said they already had been to the White House on this mission. Mr. Rosewater declared that District Attorney Sommers had pushed the charges against Dietrich for the reason that they were politically antagonistic.

Methodists' Big Appropriation

Omaha, Nov. 17.—The general missionary committee of the Methodist Episcopal church has closed after appropriating sums for the foreign and home work aggregating over $1,500,000. Boston was chosen as the place for holding the conference next year.

CHICAGO POLICE KEPT BUSY

Prompt Charges on Rioters Enable Cars to Run More Frequently

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Encouraged by the successful operation of a regular service on the Wentworth avenue line the management of the Chicago City railway will make an effort to resume traffic on the Cottage Grove avenue cable line. Five hundred additional policemen will be detailed to guard the property of the company and the cars will be run under the same protection as those on Wentworth avenue. Screens have been provided for the grip cars to shield the gripmen and the trains will be run at a high rate of speed in an effort to prevent crowds from blocking the tracks.

Although considerable interference marked the operation of the Wentworth avenue branch yesterday, a five-minute service was maintained. Riots were frequent all along the line, but the police charged on the crowds with such quickness and force that but one serious blockade was met with. At 4:30 o'clock last night traffic was suspended for the day.

A lively fight took place just outside the barns at Seventy-Ninth and State streets last night. A wagon carrying provisions to the men living in the barn was stopped by strikers, who attempted to prevent the driver from approaching the barn. Many stones were thrown and a number of revolvers displayed, but no shots were fired. Several men sustained bruises and there were a few broken heads, but the fight did not last long enough for the police to make any arrests.

Murder Instead of Elopement

Peoria, Ills., Nov. 17.—Miss May Henneger, who was supposed to have eloped, was found murdered in a pasture near her home at Bishop. Her body was horribly mutilated and half buried. Miss Henneger accompanied Fred Strubble to a supper and social given at the country schoolhouse near the girl's home Saturday evening. When neither she nor Strubble could be found it was supposed that they had eloped and would be heard from in a few days. All efforts of the authorities to locate Strubble have proven unavailing. The condition of the body indicated a desperate struggle.

Figaro Springs a Sensation

Paris, Nov. 17.—In spite of the innocent character of their relations with the Humberts, the publication by The Figaro of the names of the persons referred to in the letters and other documents in the collection constituting the case against the convicted persons has created something of a sensation. They include the names of the Dowager Queen of Spain, former President Casimir-Perier, former President and Madame Faure, President and Madame Loubet, members of the ministry, ambassadors, members of parliament and literateurs.

Porto Rican Scandal Settled

San Juan, P. R., Nov. 17.—The federal court has quashed the indictments for smuggling in the case of Alonzo Cruzen, the collector of customs; Captain Dunlap, U. S. N., commandant of the naval station here, and Robert Giles, a former contractor, on the ground that the fines had been paid and the offenses expiated. The prosecution of the witnesses accused of perjury is improbable, thus preventing a reopening of the matter.

Millionare an Alleged Briber

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 17.—Attorney General Crow, will, it is stated, present an application to Governor Dockery for the requisition on the governor of New York for William Ziegler, the millionaire indicted by the grand jury here on a charge of attempted bribery in connection with alum legislation, and that an officer will at once start for the east to bring Ziegler to this state.

Took Away Biltmore Cash

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 17.—D. C. Champlain, former mayor of Biltmore and cashier of the Biltmore estate, and G. R. Tennent, formerly a timekeeper for the estate, have been indicted by a grand jury for embezzlement of $11,000 office funds from G. W. Vanderbilt. Both men have left the state and their whereabouts are unknown.

Chinese Trade Treaty Here

Washington, Nov. 17.—The long expected trade treaty between the United States and China which was negotiated in Shanghai has just reached Washington and is now under examination by the state department officials. It is certain to go to the senate for ratification during the special session.

Quashes Charges of Dishonesty

Rome, Nov. 17.—The will of Signor Rosano, minister of finance, who recently committed suicide, was opened yesterday and it was found that his entire estate amounted to only $124,000. This fact disproves the accusation of his opponents that he had enriched himself by questionable means.

Slept Nearly Fifteen Years

Berlin, Nov. 17.—Sesine Myer, the girl who had lain since Dec. 27, 1888, in a trance-like sleep, awoke yesterday in the village of Grambke during the clanging of fire bells. Her case had long interested physicians and had been the subject of various experiments.

Guide Barry Acquitted

Milo, Me., Nov. 17.—Coroner Martin's jury at an inquest held at Brownville on the shooting of Arthur Wilkins, a guide, by Charles Barry, another guide, failed to attach any blame to Barry. The two men were guiding a party and while tracking a wounded deer Wilkins separated from the party and was mistaken for the animal.

No Profit For Horse Seller

Boston, Nov. 17.—George Grow sold Robert M. Call a horse in his stable on Sunday which he represented as in good condition. Call was dissatisfied with his bargain, and as a result Grow was arrested on the charge of larceny and for keeping his place of business open on the Lord's day. Grow was fined $50 on each count.

Deer Killing In Vermont

Chester, Vt., Nov. 17.—From reports made by Fish and Game Commissioner Thomas the number of deer killed during the open season approximates 600, compared with 382 last year. In addition there have been 70 does killed. Prosecutions are expected where does have been killed.

Mind Became Confused

Portland, Me., Nov. 17.—Mrs. Mary E. Moore, the aged Westbrook woman who had been missing a number of days, was found in this city. She was affected by temporary mental confusion and had been in the care of strangers.

Fight Probable In India

Karachi, British India, Nov. 17.—The expedition which is being prepared in India to support the British mission to Thibet starts in a few days. It has been ordered to occupy the Chumbi valley, the key to Thibet, and to advance on Gyangtse, an important center. The object of the mission is to discuss with the Thibetan authorities their non-observance of treaties and consequent injury to the trade of India and Thibet. A peaceful settlement of the matter is improbable.

Democrats Split on Canal

Washington, Nov. 17.—Democratic members of the senate caucused from 1:30 until 5 o'clock yesterday, but were unable to get together on a program as to canal legislation. Four distinct propositions were submitted in the form of resolutions and many other suggestions were made informally, but no agreement could be reached and the caucus adjourned to meet again on call of Chairman Gorman. Several senators in leaving the caucus bitterly complained of the lack of harmony which prevailed, and compared the Democratic position with the attitude of the Republicans, who, they said, with twice as many representatives, had not a straggler, while hardly two Democrats were of the same opinion.

POPULAR BOOKS.

Something New at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Those of its patrons who visited our Library Tuesday in quest of a late novel or at least a new acquaintance to them, to while away the dull afternoon or evening, were surprised to find upon the table in the reading alcove one hundred books in their blue box covers. A closer examination showed the boxes to denote them apparently the property of the Bodley Club Library, but practically at present under the control of the Thomas Crane Public library. "Are we allowed to take these books out upon our cards?" "Oh, certainly! that is what they are for."

It is hoped by this means to have some more copies of popular books, that more people may be supplied with a book that is the talk of the day, or "that struts his hour upon the stage and then is heard no more," funds not being sufficient nor the policy a good one to spend money for such as would only serve to cumber the shelves and take the place of other and better books.

Of this first selection, thirty-two are duplicates of those already belonging to the library but about which a daily reply several times repeated to the disappointed is "out"; and sixty-eight are new to the library. The books are allowed to be kept the regular time, one week, and such as are not popular enough to be retained will be returned from month to month and others will be found in their places.

It is hoped the experiment will prove a success and a few more of the many wants will be supplied in this new effort to meet them. Of course among two thousand or more users of the library, of whom a great number want the some book at the same time, patience is the watchword and it is only a little that may be done, but that little is constantly being attempted.

Smoke Talk.

A grand smoke talk was held last evening by Court of Roger Walcott, No. 188 F. of A. at Farnum's hall, West Quincy. An unusually large attendance was present. During the evening an entertainment was given which consisted of songs by Richard Callahan, Joseph Daly, Phillip Pitts, Gus Toper, Cornelius Driscoll, William Brown and Mr. Toll; buck and wing dance by Andy White, buck dance by Arthur Morrissette; recitation by Dennis Ford; step dance by William Pratt; tenor solo by Thomas Sullivan and selections on the phonograph by Fred Evans.

Alex McIntosh was chairman for the evening and the refreshment committee consisted as follows: Jeffrey De Coste, George Tanner, William J. Hebet, Albert Martelle, Fred Reinhalter, Eli Laranau, Sam McCormick and Peter Cerow.

TODAY'S COURT.

James McDade, John J. Fruningham, Jr., and Joseph McCarthy were fined $3 each for drunkenness at Quincy.

William J. Keegan was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued until Nov. 18.

Peter Raducci was fined $3 for drunkenness at Quincy.

The continued case of David Craig, for larceny of $450, was called, and he was held in $1,000 for the grand jury.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan S. Paine Congratulated by Many.

There was a large gathering of relatives and friends at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan S. Paine on Baxter street Tuesday evening on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Paine were assisted in receiving by their children and grandchildren and were showered with congratulations and well wishes for the future. Many of their guests brought remembrances which included gold pieces.

The evening was passed in a social manner and in recalling incidents that transpired in Quincy years ago.

Remarks of a congratulatory nature were made by Rev. E. N. Hardy of the Bethany church and Dr. John A. Gordon. Miss Ethel R. Humphrey, a granddaughter, read an original poem and there were songs by Harry W. Paine, piano solos by Miss Ethel R. Humphrey, mandolin solos by Charles R. Lord, and a duet by Mrs. Charles E. E. Paine and Miss Humphrey.

Ice cream and cake were served, the latter being from a waiter that was once a part of the service of Gov. Hancock.

To Break From Supreme Lodge

Boston, Nov. 18.—As a result of a movement to change the method of assessment from the flat rate, a meeting of the grand lodge of Massachusetts of the Ancient United Order of Workmen ended in the adoption of a resolution to sever all connection with the supreme lodge of the United States. In attendance at the meeting also were many members of the board of directors of the supreme lodge.

Woman Accidentally Killed

Middlefield, Mass., Nov. 18.—Mrs. Lydia A. Freehan, 41, wife of Peter A. Freehan, was instantly killed in her home by the accidental discharge of a shotgun in the hands of Clifford J. Thibeder, home on a furlough from Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., where he is stationed. Thibeder was not placed under arrest, as the shooting was entirely accidental.

Non-Union Men at Work

Meriden, Conn., Nov. 18.—Aside from the arrival of about 25 strike breakers, Greeks and Italians, there are no new developments in the metal workers' strike situation here. It is learned that the International Silver company has established an employment bureau in Bridgeport.

An Error in Nomination Papers Discovered Just in Time.

Eugene F. DeNormandie took out a set of nomination papers, one for each ward, late Tuesday afternoon. It is presumed that they will be used to obtain a Republican endorsement of George H. Wilson for Mayor.

It developed Tuesday that there was an error in the papers that were being circulated in favor of Mr. Wilson, which had it not been discovered, would have invalidated the set. The error was in the name of Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Wilson's full name is George H. Wilson, but the papers circulated read George F. Wilson, which was Mr. Wilson's father's name.

SOCIALIST RESOLUTIONS

Voted Down at Convention of the Federation of Labor

Boston, Nov. 18.—The question of whether the federation would commit itself to the doctrines of socialism came squarely before the delegates to the convention of the American Federation of Labor yesterday afternoon. The question was not answered because shortly before 6 o'clock an adjournment was taken until today, when the debate will be resumed. Nine resolutions favoring public ownership and the organization of a political party to bring about conditions the Socialists seek were all reported on unfavorably by the committee on resolutions. At once the long arranged plan of the Socialist delegates to fight for the adoption of their principles was put into operation by Delegate Hayes of Cleveland. He offered a substitute for the committee's report, but was ruled out of order.

At this point the applause from the spectators led President Gompers to announce that he would order the galleries cleared if the applause were continued. His remark was received with hisses, thereupon he ordered the spectators to leave. There was a great deal of confusion and the ejected people, numbering several hundred, assembled outside Faneuil hall and adopted resolutions condemning President Gompers for his action. Meantime the debate was resumed by the delegates. Just before adjournment the ejected spectators were permitted to re-enter the hall.

Anti-Trust Measures

Washington, Nov. 18.—Representative Richardson of Tennessee has introduced a bill to place all trust-made articles on the free list, and to reduce the rate of duty on all articles manufactured in the United States and sold more cheaply abroad than in this country. Mr. Bede introduced a bill to regulate the profit on articles of necessity manufactured by persons having a monopoly of the same, the regulation to be made by the interstate commerce commission. Mr. Bede also introduced a bill making it the duty of the attorney general to bring proceedings to dissolve monopolies charging exorbitant prices for articles of necessity and a bill making cagarets imported into any state subject to the laws of that state.

United States Must Act First

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—It is officially stated that no overtures have lately been made to Canada for reciprocity with the United States. The feeling here is that while the dominion government will consider any propositions that are made, they will not initiate any negotations.

Served His Country Well

Washington, Nov. 18.—Brigadier General Reuben F. Bernard, a veteran of the Civil war, who participated in 103 battles and skirmishes in that conflict and in subsequent Indian campaigns, died at his residence in this city. His remains will be interred at Arlington.

Consul Halloway Sick

Halifax, Nov. 18.—William R. Halloway, who was appointed to succeed John G. Foster as United States consul general at Halifax, arrived here last night from St. Petersburg. He is very ill and proceeded at once to a hotel and a physician was summoned.

"Honor" Vindicated

Paris, Nov. 18.—A dul was fought here between M. Richer, the explorer, and M. Villette, a newspaper man. The latter was slightly wounded. The duellists were then reconciled. The duel was the outcome of a private quarrel.

Good Afternoon

Chamberlain is likely to deal a death blow to Free Trade in England.

District Attorney Jerome has delared that in spite of Tammany, New York is not to be an open town. He threatens to appeal for private funds for forcing the law.

If you don't tip the porter at your hotel be sure he does not mark your trunk with a circle in chalk. That means you are a "tight fister" and the porters throughout the country will do all they can to delay your baggage.

Evidently the municipal caucuses have been held with undue haste of late, bringing them nearer the State election than is necessary. Quincy held her caucuses two weeks ago, but Brockton, Taunton, Gloucester and other cities which will vote the same day are holding their caucuses this week.

Some Prussian officers experimenting with a war balloon were carried across the frontier into France. When they landed they were advised to change their uniform for civilian dress before taking the train back to Germany. After buying ready-made suits they pursued their journey without molestation. This incident illustrates the feeling which exists between France and Germany after a war of more than thirty years ago.

It is not surprsing that the proposed loan order to borrow $90,000 in anticipation of taxes already collected was found to be illegal. The same fate may await the loan order for $50,000 introduced in the City Council this week, although the City Solicitor has given an off-hand opinion that it is legal. A loan order for specific purposes or improvements would pass muster, but a loan order to meet "current expenses" is quite another thing. This loan is wanted to extend maturing debt, some of which are temporary loans which the law requires shall be paid out of the taxes of the year and within one year of the date of issue.

A climax seems to have been reached in the financial affairs of the city. From year to year the situation has been growing worse, each year overlapping the other. Unpaid taxes of five six and even seven years have been regarded as good assets, but it is well known that they are not. For political effect, tax rates have been placed lower than they should have been. Loans authorized for special purposes have been negotiated immediately, months before they were needed, just to help out current expenses.

The responsibility does not rest solely upon the present administration, but there should be no attempt by the administration to deceive the people. The issue should be met squarely and settled permanently not temporarily.

—In speaking of the high price of food the Boston Record says: "When the trusts make an artificial price on anything just stop using it." This would leave us to subsist, practically, on wind and water.—Mansfield News.

A DESPERATE SITUATION

San Domingo Invested by Rebels and Severe Fighting Is Imminent

San Domingo, Nov. 16.—The political situation here is serious. The insurgents are bombarding the city. Generals Figuero and Sanchez are refugees in the foreign legations.

The city is completely invested by 4000 men under Pichardo and four other generals. A general attack is expected within the next few days. General Wos y Gil refuses to capitulate, and it is believed that the fighting will be severe.

The situation is desperate and fighting in the streets is likely to occur at any moment.

The United States cruiser Baltimore has been compelled to leave to recoal. United States Minister Powell is endeavoring to protect American interests with the limited means at his disposal.

A German naval vessel is ready to land troops at a moment's notice.

The insurgents endeavored to have Minister Powell recognize them, but this the minister refused to do.

The revolutionists fired on the Clyde line steamer New York as she was entering the port of Samana. The vessel was uninjured.

Discussing Cuban Reciprocity

Washington, Nov. 18.—The house yesterday resumed consideration of the Cuban bill. Mr. Stevens (Rep., Minn.) argued that the bill was a "cruel blow" at one of the most promising agricultural industries of this country. Mr. McClellan of New York delivered his valedictory to the house, making an argument in favor of the bill, during the course of which he criticised the administration of General Wood in Cuba and charged the Republicans with responsibility for what is lacking in the fulfillment of the duty of the United States to Cuba. Eight other members spoke on the measure.

Loaded Up With Firewater

Omaha, Nov. 18.—Forty Indians who have been in the city to testify before the federal grand jury in liquor selling cases managed to secure a large amount of whiskey and started a riot in the Klondike hotel, where they were being quartered. They began with a war dance and ended in a bout with the police. Before being pacified a number of show cases and all the furniture in the office of the hotel were shattered and many guests were scared from the hotel. Two chiefs are in jail and the others are being guarded at the hotel.

Reform That May Not Reform

London, Nov. 18.—The Constantinople correspondent of The Express says that the Sultan of Turkey has accepted the Austro-Russian plan of reform in Macedonia. The news given by the correspondent is not confirmed in other quarters. According to The Standard's Constantinople correspondent it would be a mistake to interpret any acceptance of the reform scheme as otherwise than a subterfuge to escape more trouble.

Mercury Close to Zero

Chicago, Nov. 18.—A cold wave is general throughout the west, temperatures in Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri and neighboring states being but little above zero. New York, Nov. 18.—By a decoy letter Joseph H. Kruz, 16 years old, a special delivery messenger at the Hackensack postoffice, was trapped and arraigned before Commissioner Rowe, who held him on a charge of robbing the mails. Kruz confessed that he had been intercepting letters and packages.

Killed Baby For Crying

St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 18.—Theodore Hayes, aged 15, fired a bullet into the brain of his 3-year-old brother because the infant annoyed him by crying. Preparations were made for the funeral before the coroner was notified by neighbors of the death. A bullet was removed from the brain of the infant.

Martyr's Cane at Auction

New York, Nov. 18.—At public auction here a walking cane of the late President Lincoln was sold for $145 to H. H. Wibirt of this city. The cane is a black stick with a bone handle. On the handle are silver trimmings, and the name of "Abraham Lincoln" is spelled out in silver letters.

Will Keep Tabs on Whalers

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—A party of northwest mounted police have occupied Muschell island, in the Arctic ocean, about 80 miles from the mouth of the McKenzie river. The island is a rendezvous for whalers and the police will collect duties and maintain law and order there.

STRUGGLE AT CHICAGO

May Be Settled Through State Board of Arbitration

A CONCILIATORY ATTITUDE

Displayed by Both Sides to Controversy Between Street Railway and Employes—Corporation Will Renew Efforts to Break the Strike

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Peace negotiations looking to an amicable settlement of the struggle between the management of the Chicago City railroad and its striking employes have begun and the indications are that both sides to the controversy will agree to submit their differences to arbitration.

After a conference which lasted several hours between Mayor Harrison, the officials of the company and the special aldermanic peace commissioner, appointed by Mayor Harrison at the direction of the city council, followed by another meeting at which President Mahon of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railroad Employes and his legal advisers took part, Mayor Harrison declared that the outlook for a settlement of the strike by arbitration was decidedly flattering.

"I was agreeably surprised at the conciliatory attitude displayed by both sides to the controversy," said he, "and we made more progress at our first meeting than I had anticipated." He declined to enter into the details of the discussion that took place, but it is said that a further conference with the railway officials was arranged for at which the two sides may be brought to a point where arbitration is possible. This, the mayor believes, has been accomplished.

Despite the promising outlook for a peaceable ending of the troubles in the near future, the management of the road will renew their efforts to break the strike. Announcement is made that an effort will be made to run cars on the electric line running through Indiana avenue. Two branches of the road are already in operation.

The other important developments in the strike are: A bill filed in the superior court asking that a receiver be appointed for the Chicago City Railroad company and challenging the company's right to operate its lines, on the ground that its franchises expired last July and that the 99-year act claim is invalid; five trains, consisting of a grip car and "trailer" each, operated on the Cottage Grove avenue cable line under guard of 1000 policemen; twenty-five cars operated on the Wentworth avenue line under a guard of less than 400 policemen.

It has developed that Governor Yates intends to personally supervise the work by the state board of arbitration, the members of which have been endeavoring to bring about an amicable settlement of the difficulty.

Arbitration failing in the present crisis thrust upon Chicago by the South Side street car men, eight divisions of organized trainmen on all the lines in Chicago, South Chicago and the Calumet region threaten to plunge the community into the greatest street railway strike in the city's history.

Representative officers of these eight divisions met last night with national President Mahon, leader of the strike, and a resolution was adopted to appoint a special committee to urge arbitration of present difficulties through Mayor Harrison and in the event of failure of this effort a special meeting of all divisions will be called immediately to plan united sympathetic action.

It is predicted such action would end in the calling of a general strike against the Union Traction company, all the elevated companies, the South Chicago Electric company, the Calumet Electric company, the Chicago General company, the Suburban Electric company and the Chicago Electric Traction company.

This includes all the lines in Chicago and besides the trainmen, involves the shop and shed men, who are affiliated with the trainmen's organization.

"Sticking Up" For Union Men

Chicago, Nov. 18.—A "sympathetic" strike of boys ranging in age from 13 to 16 years in the Hendricks school is imminent because their teacher, Miss Ida M. Stodder, rides on Wentworth avenue cars, manned by non-union crews. The boys demand a pledge from their teacher that she will not ride on the cars.

McDonald's Slayer Acquitted

St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 18.—Joseph Furlong, the travelling man who shot to death Irving McDonald, a young St. Joseph millionaire, at the Hotel Metropole, was acquitted by a coroner's jury and discharged from custody. Furlong, in company with three friends, visited a cafe late Saturday night and were followed to their hotel by four young men, McDonald among them, and in a fight at the hotel McDonald was shot.

What It Costs to Run New York

New York, Nov. 18.—The board of aldermen last evening approved the budget for 1903, which allows over $106,000,000 for the running expenses of the city government. Last year's budget totalled $97,000,000 in round numbers.

A GENERAL INVESTIGATION

To Be Made of Postoffices In the Immediate Vicinity of Boston

Boston, Nov. 18.—According to a statement made by a Washington official the Boston postoffice is losing more than $100,000 a year by reason of its stamp sales being diverted to towns in this vicinity, and the postoffice department has ordered an immediate investigation of 50 different postoffices in this state.

The list is said to include some of the most prominent offices in Massachusetts, some of which during the past few years have trebled their stamp sales, it is stated, despite the fact that in many instances the population has shown no increase. Among the towns mentioned as having shown an increased demand for stamps are Concord Junction, Stoneham, Lexington and Waverly.

DENIAL FROM DIETRICH

Of Charges Preferred Against Him In Nebraska

WANTS IMMEDIATE TRIAL

Says His Abhorrence of Dishonesty In Public Office Created Hostility Which Has Resulted In False Accusations Against Him

Washington, Nov. 18.—Senator Dietrich, when asked last night what his course would be in view of the action of the federal grand jury at Omaha, made the following statement:

"The charge that I had accepted, directly or indirectly, money or anything of value for my influence in securing the appointment of Jacob Fisher as postmaster at Hastings, Neb., is absolutely false.

"I shall waive the protection afforded a senator by the constitution while congress is in session, and shall go to Nebraska and shall insist on an immediate trial, with perfect confidence that my innocence will be established.

"For 25 years I have been a resident of Nebraska. As private citizen, governor and senator my aim has been to devote my best energies to the promotion of the welfare of the people. Above all things I have abhorred dishonesty in public office and the betrayal of public trust.

"During a residence of a quarter of a century in Adams county I have repeatedly been instrumental in keeping out of office and bringing to justice public officials who were shown to be dishonest and corrupt. The present attempt to attach a stigma to my name is because of my firm adherence to this course.

"Bitter factional fights have existed in my home county for many years and as a result of these differences I have naturally incurred many enmities, not only in politics but in business.

"My refusal when governor to pardon Joseph Bartley, a defaulter to the state for $600,000, incurred the displeasure of powerful interests and I have since been antagonized by them. I incurred the inveterate enmity of former postmaster of Hastings by the appointment of Mr. Fisher, my intimate friend for 20 years and who has for 17 years been a stockholder and director of the bank of which I am president.

"I have also incurred the active hostility of W. S. Summers, the United States district attorney for Nebraska, by my efforts to bring about his removal from office, not because I favored another, but because I believed for many reasons he should have been removed long ago, and the machinery of the federal court has been set in motion and cleverly directed to injure me and continue himself in office.

"In the privacy of a grand jury room it is easy to concoct and promote a scheme which will not stand the test of investigation where both sides have a hearing."

Senator Dietrich, accompanied by Senator Hanna and Editor Rosewater of the Omaha Bee, called on Attorney General Knox and had a conference with him regarding the case of District Attorney Summers and the trial of the charge of conspiracy and bribery against the senator. The senator said he felt that his case would be prejudiced if Summers has charge of the prosecution. As a result of the talk with the attorney general the latter will have a consultation with the president about the case and it is probable that Summers will be relieved from the conduct of the Dietrich case and that Assistant District Attorney Rush of Nebraska or some attorney in the department of justice at Washington will be detailed to manage the prosecution. The question of Summers' retention in office also came up, but it cannot be learned that any promise was made by the attorney general in the matter.

The testimonial dance tendered Miss Kate Connors, Monday evening at the Coliseum, was largely attended and an enjoyable occasion.

The Fore River Ship and Engine Co. is reported to have received rush orders on the battleships Rhode Island and New Jersey now building.

The fact that Barre will make an extensive exhibit at the Worlds Fair at St. Louis should stimulate the Quincy manufacturers to be represented.

Alfred Furnald of Nottingham, N. H., who has had a very enjoyable visit of two or three weeks among old Quincy friends, left for Everett today.

The Grand Army are not having very good weather up to the present time for their fair in Hancock hall, yet the attendance has been good. The entertainment Tuesday evening was by an orchestra.

There is quite a rage in City Square for lettered windows and curtains. Sanborn & Damon, C. Patch & Son, Ledger Office, Music Hall Pharmacy and the stores in the Welch block have some good specimens.

Rev. W. B. Barr of this city was one of the speakers at the session of the National Reform Association in Boston Tuesday evening, when Mormonism was assailed and steps taken to prevent the seating of Reed Smart as senator from Utah.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Study Club was held Tuesday evening at the rectory on Elm street. Considering the weather there was a fairly good attendance. The subject for the evening was "Locksley Hall." Two very interesting papers were read by Miss Maria Morrison and Mr. Myron Turner, which completed the study of this subject.

A Correction.

To the Quincy Daily Ledger:

Permit me to correct a gross misstatement in your issue of yesterday, wherein it was stated that "Touissant Bouchard obtained a verdict of $91.90 against Louis Bouchard in the Norfolk Superior Court on Monday."

In 1902, Louis Bouchard brought suit against Tonissant Bouchard in the district court at Quincy for the balance due him for rent, and recovered judgment against Tonissant Bouchard for $81.59. Touissant Bouchard, being dissatisfied with the judgment of the lower court, brought a writ of review, and after a trial of two days at Dedham in the Superior court, the jury, Monday, not only sustained the judgment of the lower court but increased the amount of the judgment $10.31, rendering a verdict against Touissant Bouchard in favor of Louis Bouchard of $91.90, amount due to Louis Bouchard.

W. W. Jenness,
Attorney for Louis Bouchard.

Battleship Launching.

March 17 next is the date set by President Bowles of the Fore River Ship and Engine Co. for launching the battleship New Jersey now well underway.

Strike Is Off.

The trouble with the heater boys at the Fore River Works who went out on strike Monday has been settled and the boys returned to work this morning.

NEW LOAN ORDER.

How It Is Proposed to Relieve the City Finances.

By request, the Ledger prints in full the new loan order for $50,000 which is now proposed in the City Council in place of the $90,000 loan in anticipation of taxes:

Ordered,—That the City Treasurer be and hereby is authorized and directed for and in behalf of the city, to borrow temporarily for a period not exceeding six months, as the same may be required from time to time during the next two months, an amount not exceeding in the aggregate fifty thousand dollars, and to give the negotiable note or notes of the city therefor, said sum to be used in paying current expenses and for meeting outstanding notes of the city.

A Complaint.

There seems to be very general complaint among patrons of the street cars, especially on the Quincy Point line, that passengers are compelled to stand in the centre of the street this muddy weather to take the cars, also that they are compelled to alight into the middle of the street or into a mud puddle rather than on the sidewalk side. They think the door on the sidewalk side should be used in preference to the other, but see no objection to using both doors.

Lost Child.

The lost child call was sounded on the fire alarm at 6.35 Tuesday night to summon helpers to search for a six year old son of T. M. Frazier of Blake street, Wollaston. The boy was found a few minutes later near the Tubular Rivet works. The lost child call is three rounds of five blows. In pressing in the call pause was given between some of the blows, so that the first round sounded like box 21. It was thus interperated by the Wollaston apparatus who did not wait for a second round but started for the box. They made good time in the run to City Square where the drivers learned their mistake.

Quincy vs. Quincy Point.

Tonight at Granite street alleys the Quincy Point team will roll the Quincys. As there is quite a rivalry between the two teams a warm game is expected. The game was originally scheduled for the Point alleys, but as they are not quite completed the game had to be transferred to the Quincy alleys. The East Weymouths will clash with the Weymouths tonight at the Weymouth Landing alleys. Full score of league games will be reported tomorrow.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

makes pale, thin children fat and chubby. Overcomes wasting tendencies and brings back rosy cheeks and bright eyes.

It's surprising how quickly children respond to Scott's Emulsion. It contains just the element of nourishment their little bodies need. They thrive on it.

Even a few drops in the baby's bottle have a noticeable effect for good. Nothing better than Scott's Emulsion for growing children.

Why do substitutes for Scott's Emulsion cost less? Because they're worth less. With one you wait in vain for the benefits you had looked for. In Scott's Emulsion you get them. It never disappoints. That's worth the few cents difference in cost.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

REJECTION BY PANAMA

Of Peace Terms Offered by Envoys From Colombia

HAS A BROTHERLY FEELING

But Ties Binding Isthmus to Its Mother Country Have Been Broken —Cruiser Marblehead Completes Our Recognition of Republic

Colon, Nov. 18.—The Panamaian commission (composed of Messrs. Erias, Morales and Aroseymena, which left Panama to meet the peace commission from the department of Bolivar) boarded the Mayflower here and held a short conference with the Colombians, who only represent the department of Bolivar and the governor of that department, and who have no credentials from Bogota.

During the conference Nicanor Insignares, a brother of the governor of the state of Bolivar, who was the spokesman of the Colombians, made a strong appeal to the Panamaians not to disrupt Colombia and he supplemented his appeal by the solemn assurance that Colombia would grant all the rights demanded by the isthmians and eventually carry out their grand project of building the canal.

Replying to Insignares, Tomas Arias, representing the junta, said that the Bogota government and the Colombians generally did not appear to grasp the actual conditions prevailing on the isthmus. The resolution, Arias said, was born absolutely of the unanimous desire of the entire people of Panama and was irrevocable. It was the act of a now independent government, already thoroughly organized and formally recognized by the United States government.

Continuing, Arias said: "Colombia will always find in this country the most sincere brotherly feeling. The political ties binding the isthmus to Colombia have been broken, but the fault is not that of the isthmus. The ties of affection, however, never can be broken."

Insignares, in answer, expressed his deep sorrow at finding that the hopes of reconciliation were impossible of realization. He declared that all the people of Colombia would unite in an effort to enforce the rights of the republic on the isthmus of Panama, even at the cost of great sacrifice.

Messrs. Arrozmana and Morales expressed views similar to those enunciated by Arias.

The threat of Insignares that Colombia would enforce its alleged rights in isthmian territory was not given serious consideration by the Panamaian commissioners.

It was unofficially announced by the Colombian commissioners that General Reyes, representing the Bogota government, was coming to the isthmus to confer with the provisional government of Panama.

Dr. Pablo Arozmona, a lawyer of Panama, sailed for New York to act in an advisory capacity with Messrs. Boyd and Amador, the commissioners of the new republic at Washington.

A dozen marines from the U. S. S. Dixie have been ordered to remain ashore to act as signal men for the communication of routine messages between the shore and the United States fleet.

Cruiser Salutes Panama Flag

Panama, Nov. 18.—The United States flagship Marblehead hoisted the flag of the republic of Panama here and saluted it with 21 guns. The Tres Noviembre, a gunboat of Panama, displaying the American flag, answered the salute. The shore batteries also fired a salute of 21 guns, which the Marblehead answered.

Rear Admiral Glass, Consul General Gudger and Commander Phelps, accompanied by Lieutenants Andrews and Trilinwider, officially called on the junta later. They were received by the members of the junta, the cabinet ministers and Generals Huertas, Jeffries, Diaz and Varon and their staffs. Admiral Glass said he was glad to officially call upon the government of the republic of Panama. It had been a great pleasure for him to salute the flag of the new republic, for whose prosperity and greatness he had the best wishes.

Senor Arango, a member of the junta, answered, saying that in the name of the junta and of the people of Panama he expressed sincere pleasure at the presence of the gallant fleet in Panama bay, representing the noble people and government of the United States, "to whom the isthmus is deeply grateful for the hand of fellowship so generously and promptly extended to them by its great president."

Mr. Gudger proposed a toast to a new Panama canal treaty, which was answered by General Varon, who toasted President Roosevelt and the United States army.

The people of Panama are happy over the official recognition of the flag and the event is being celebrated enthusiastically. During the ceremonies large crowds of people surrounded the palace of the government.

The flag of the republic of Panama, which was saluted by the Marblehead, was made on board that vessel.

Wants Recognition of Powers

Washington, Nov. 18.—Accredited to the United States, France and the world at large as minister plenipotentiary and envoy extraordinary of the republic of Panama, Philippe Bunau-Varilla has addressed a note to the envoys of the powers represented at Washington requesting that they notify their respective governments of the formation of the sovereign state of Panama and expressing the hope that his government will receive recognition at their hands.

Still Minister to Colombia

Washington, Nov. 18.—The statement is made in the highest official circles that United States Minister Beaupre at Bogota has not been recalled. As heretofore stated, Beaupre has been granted leave of absence and is at liberty to leave his post whenever he so desires.

It is safe to say that no real estate booms will be held within the new government powder magazine to be built in Greater Boston. But the station may be there 100 years without one accident.—Boston Advertiser.

WANT TO JOIN PANAMA

Most Prosperous Departments of Colombia Are Ready to Secede

Washington, Nov. 19.—The state department has received advices that the departments of Ceceres and Antioquia of Colombia are seeking to separate from that government and are soliciting admission into the Panama republic.

No surprise is expressed here over the report that these departments are making an effort to align themselves with the republic of Panama. The two departments named and also that of Bolivar are the most prosperous in the whole Colombian territory. They contribute the greater portion of the revenues for the federal treasury, that of Antioquia alone paying about one-third of the entire amount.

The Antioquians are known as the Yankees of Colombia, and are progressive and business-like people. For a long time there has been dissatisfaction and discontent among the people of these departments because of the management of affairs by politicians at Bogota, by whom they say their rights have been disregarded and their interests treated indifferently. A disposition toward secession heretofore has manifested itself among them, and an open revolt at this time would not be surprising. The department of Ceceres will benefit more largely than that of any other except Panama from the construction of a canal across the isthmus.

"Dynamiter" Is Caught

Chicago, Nov. 19.—The recently made threat to blow up the Plaza hotel unless $500 was handed to the maker of the threat at a place designated was the work of Charles Wright, aged 19, who has confessed that he wrote the threatening letter at the instance of a man whose name he did not know, but whom he described. Wright's arrest was brought about through a second threat which he made. A decoy package was left for him at a saloon which he designated and when he called detectives who had been in hiding made the arrest.

QUINCYS AT TOP.

Have Not Lost a Game in the Bowling League.

The games in the Old Colony league Wednesday evening gave Quincy the lead, and the Quincy Point team the foot of the list. The former have won all their games, while the latter have lost all.

The Weymouth teams have won and lost games, and the standing to date is:

	Played.	Won.	Lost.	Per Cent.
Quincy	6	6	0	100
E. Weymouth	6	5	1	83
Weymouth	6	1	5	17
Quincy Point	6	0	6	00

At Quincy.

Again Wednesday evening the Quincy team won three straight in the Old Colony Suburban league. The first game was the closest but was won by 17 pins; two spares by Moorhead helped materially to victory.

Fine bowling by young White and Mr. Moorhead made it an easy victory in the second. Each of the Quincy boys scored 80 or more in the third game and Morton led with 96. The team total of the Quincy Points was their highest of the evening, but 26 too small.

In three string totals, four of the Quincy men led Ford the high man of Quincy Point. Moorehead had the best total, but White was only 6 behind. White captured the high single, rolling 106.

The summary:

At Weymouth.

The East Weymouth and Weymouth teams met on the alleys of the latter. The home team set a rapid pace in the first game and the visitors were correspondingly weak. The Weymouth boys led on three-string total by 31 pins, but lost two games out of three. No one on either team bowled a single string of 90. Flanery was high man for East Weymouth and Glover for Weymouth.

HIGHER TAX RATE.

May Be Twenty Dollars Next Year.

If $50,000 Loan Is Passed.

All Must Be Paid in Tax Levy of 1904.

The $50,000 loan order introduced into the City Council this week will, if passed, make high taxes next year. It is different from other loan orders in that its purpose is to raise money to pay "current expenses." It is really a deficit order, although strictly there probably would be no deficit if all the back taxes were collected. Being a loan for current expenses it must all be paid next year.

The property valuation of the city being $23,000,000, an assessment of $1 per $1000 would raise $23,000. Therefore, if the $50,000 loan order is paid next year it will in itself require a tax rate of over $2. This added to a tax rate of $17.30 or more, would make the tax rate of 1904 about $20 per $1000.

The proposed loan must also be within the debt limit of the city, and until it is paid there probably will be no leeway for High school enlargement or other large improvements.

Naturally, one asks, could the finances of the city be much worse than at present.

We raise up to the limit for current expenses, and then it is proposed to borrow $50,000 more.

We keep up near the limit on the city debt.

We borrow for water and sewer construction on long term loans, and use for current expenses.

We paid last year $67,382.00 for interest, and must pay more this year. Yet our total levy for municipal current expenses this year is but $265,308.61.

Spiritualism Exposed.

Rev. John Daniels of Minneapolis, Minn., will give a lecture on Spiritualism in the Swedish Congregational church, this evening.

Fighting Priest Fatally Shot

Denver, Nov. 19.—Rev. Felix Lepore, pastor of Mount Carmel Catholic church, and another Italian, Joe Sorici, were fatally wounded last night in a duel supposed to have arisen over a card game they were playing in the priest's apartments in the church building. Father Lepore was shot twice in the abdomen and once in the face and Sorici was shot once in the abdomen. All those who were near the scene are Italians and are very reticent about the shooting. No statement has been secured from the men.

Counterfeiters' Den Unearthed

New York, Nov. 19.—Following the arrest of Mrs. Josie Biondo for attempting to pass a counterfeit quarter-dollar, secret service agents raided the flat where the woman lived, finding there metal moulds and formulas for the composition of counterfeit coin and also four big sticks of dynamite, a coil of fuse and a supply of fulminating caps. The woman's husband, Salvatore, was arrested. Among the papers found in the room are some which are thought to have something to do with Mafia matters.

Big Cargo of Food Products

Boston, Nov. 19.—An unusually heavy cargo was carried by the steamship Bohemian, which sailed for Liverpool last evening. In the grain holds were 41,087 bushels of corn. Besides this the steamship carried 13,329 barrels of apples, 3030 bales of cotton, 175 tons of flour, 330 tons of provisions, 500 tons of refrigerated meat, 449 head of cattle, 807 sheep, 10 horses and a large assortment of miscellaneous freight.

Bryan and the Presidency

Liverpool, Nov. 19.—William J. Bryan arrived here last night from the United States. He was interviewed by newspaper correspondents and said that he wanted to hear and learn as much as possible of the fiscal discussion now going on. Speaking of the next presidential election, Mr. Bryan said he did not think he would again be a candidate, but that nothing had as yet been decided.

Stray Fishermen Picked Up

Boston, Nov. 19.—Three fishermen from the Gloucester schooner Lucinda I. Lowell, who had left the vessel in a dory in search of aid after she was dismasted in a blow on the Grand Banks, and who became lost in the fog, were brought here by the steamer Canadian. The men were sent to Gloucester to join their vessel, which had been towed to her home port.

Good Afternoon

If the loan order for $50,000 now in the City Council should pass, and the taxpayers of 1904 were called upon to pay it all, wouldn't taxes be high, and wouldn't there be a howl! Wonder when the taxpayers will wake up?

Some of the leading agrarian papers of Germany have started an agitation against that country taking part in the St. Louis Exposition. Their hostility to America is due to the fact that we do not permit them to send their products here free of duty.

The No-License people of the city have nothing to fear on the result of the vote on the license question on December 1 if they get out the vote. There are less than 5000 registered voters in the city and several hundred never vote. At the last election, however, a good majority of all the voters —2604—voted against license. Every ward and precinct of the city cast a majority against license. Quincy has never voted for license and this grand record should never be broken.

Drift of Opinion.

☞The Worcester police force are making another effort to resurrect the scheme for establishing a pension system for the police department of that city. It is to be noted that the time is well chosen—just prior to the municipal election. Political coercion is the proper name for this attempt at grafting.—Haverhill Gazette.

☞Massachusetts had giants of old and she has them today. The perspective history is needed to see them in their true light. Let there be a call for public sacrifice, and her heroes will stand forth. Her merchants are as energetic and thrifty as in the former times; her thinkers in the pulpit, at the bar, in educational fields, exercise the same pre-eminent influence that they did of old. She is American in spirit from end to end. She knows no other ideals. Anarchy has never lifted its head and basked in Massachusetts sunshine. Patriotism has no better exponent than the people of the state. —Lt. Gov. Guild at Merchants club.

☞We erect monuments, not to mark the division, but its disappearance. We erect monuments in the land that was once hostile because it is now friendly. We erect them because old things have passed away. Massachusetts leaves its stone and bronze on Mississippi soil, honored to leave it in the custody of brave men, whom it once met in the clash of arms. Close then the book of the past; we look to the future. No more of yesterday's save the glory. About face together, shoulder to shoulder, Mississippi and Massachusetts, forward, march.—Gov. Bates at Vicksburg.

☞There is altogether too much politics in municipal affairs. There isn't a reason to be found in a year's search why the distinctions of Republican and Democrat should obtain in a city election. Yet we do maintain party organizations and use them, to the evident detriment of our city government. Possibly Lowell will wake up to this some day and drop it; but it is a discouragingly long time coming. The result is that while the voters are fairly independent in their choice, they are still swayed to a certain extent by party feeling, which has no proper place whatever in the matter. We will venture one prediction right here, and that is that so long as we adhere to the present political method of making nominations, we shall have city councils of which no right minded man can feel honestly and thoroughly proud. In other words that we shall go on in the same old rut just as long as we insist on the present foolish view of municipal elections.—Lowell Citizen.

Textile Unions at Fall River Vote Against a Strike

SET EXAMPLE FOR OTHERS

Belief That Wage Reduction In Cotton Mills of New England Will Become Still More General—Decision to Accept Not Without Protest

Boston, Nov. 19.—Developments in the cotton mill situation, which include the announcement of wage reductions at Suncook, N. H., and Putnam, Conn., important in themselves as coming from sections where a new wage schedule had not been generally anticipated, were overshadowed by the result of the meetings of Textile unions of Fall River last night when, by a large majority, the suggestion expressed in a resolution adopted by the Textile council and submitted to the individual unions for their approval, and which was against the calling of a strike, was adopted.

While the action of the union in endorsing the known sentiment of the council was generally expected it can hardly fail to have a widespread effect in influencing subsequent actions taken by operatives in other places where new wage schedules have been announced. It is believed that operatives generally will abandon all thought of a possible strike and follow the course chosen by the Fall River employes as the wiser under the circumstances.

It is also believed that manufacturers in other cotton centres will now feel encouraged to carry out any plans they may have in mind for the betterment of themselves without regard to the possible course that might be adopted by their employes as a result.

Those closest to manufacturers and operatives foresee in last night's developments in Fall River more reason to believe that the wage reduction in the cotton mills of New England will become still more general.

That the men accept the new condition only because they consider that they have no choice in the matter was made plain in the text of the resolution adopted at Fall River, which stated that the time is not opportune for a strike and warned the manufacturers that the operatives will await a favorable opportunity to make a determined effort to secure a restoration of the present wage schedule. This resolution was not accepted without protest on the part of a large number in each union who openly advocated an immediate strike. What the majority believed to be a wiser counsel, however, prevailed, and the vote showed by far the larger number in favor of remaining at work and biding their time to secure an adjustment of alleged grievances.

The meetings were not largely attended, as is shown by the votes recorded, which represent less than a majority of the members. The Spinners' union refused to make public the result of the vote in their union, but it is known that the proportion in favor of the counsel was much the same as that of the other unions. The total vote of the other unions was 753 to 267.

Insects and Reptiles Barred

Washington, Nov. 19.—Acting Postmaster General Wynne has issued an order directing a rigid enforcement of the section of postal laws and regulations which absolutely excludes all insects and reptiles from the mails. Specimens of the Texas boll weevil, an insect very destructive to cotton plants, have recently been found in the mails.

General Reduction In Wages

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 19.—There is considerable excitement over the action of the Dominion Iron and Steel company, who have posted notices of reduction in wages and salaries of its 2000 employes of from 10 to 33 1-3 percent, beginning Dec. 1. The reduction will affect every man in the plant, from officials down to common laborers.

Two Conflicting Orders for Enlargement of High Schoolhouse.

The enlargment of the Quincy High schoolhouse is not a dead issue yet, although one appropriation order has been voted down. The question is, can the City Council get together? And also, will the School Committee get together?

At the City Council this week two new orders were introduced looking toward the enlargement. Not knowing that any other order was to be introduced Councilman Nichols of Wollaston offered the following which opens the competition to all:

Ordered—That the Committee on Public Buildings are hereby requested to secure plans from such responsible architects as may desire to present plans for their consideration for the enlargement of the High school, and that said committee after securing the approval of the School Committee of a satisfactory plan report as soon as may be an order for the necessary appropriation therefor.

The above order was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings.

Shortly after Councilman Thompson offered an order which is limited to the plans of Mr. Wright and reads as follows:

Ordered,—That the sum of $55,000 be and hereby is appropriated to be expended under the directions of the Commissioner of Public Works for the construction of an additional wing on the north side of the present High school building, and for installing the necessary heating, ventilating and sanitary apparatus, according to plans submitted by Albert H. Wright, architect, and the City Treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to borrow or raise the above named sum, and to issue therefor ten notes or bonds dated December 1, 1903, for $5,500 each, one note of bond to become due on December 1, 1904, and one on December 1, of each succeeding year until all are paid, the rate of interest not to exceed four per cent per annum.

This order was referred to the joint committee on Finance and Public Buildings.

Thus far the School Committee have refused to approve the Wright plans, and the City Council has rejected the Gould plans. No appropriation can be made for the enlargement of a schoolhouse until the School Committee approve plans.

Another thing which may prevent an appropriation this year, is the fact that Quincy is near the debt limit. Should the Council pass the loan order for $50,000 now pending there would not be sufficient leeway.

EXPLOSION OF POWDER

One Man Blown to Atoms and Buildings Shaken For Miles Around

Swanton, Vt., Nov. 19.—An explosion in the mixing room of the Robin Hood Powder company's plant killed one man, injured nine others, and destroyed three of the company's buildings. The dead man is George Blair, aged 35. At the time of the explosion he was engaged in charging the mixing cylinder. He was alone in the mixing room, Superintendent Mountain having left the place not more than three minutes before the building was blown up.

Nine men working in adjoining buildings were knocked down by the concussion, but escaped with painful bruises. What remained of the mixing building was burned, the flames communicating to and destroying two nearby buildings. The magazine and the cartridge factory are in separate buildings, some distance from the mixing department, and were not affected.

The shock of the explosion shook buildings, broke windows and rattled dishes and tables in homes for miles around. Only small bits of Blair's body, which was torn to pieces, were recovered. He leaves a widow and five children.

Only the fact that the buildings are frailly constructed and located a considerable distance from each other prevented the destruction of the entire plant. The monetary loss is comparatively small.

Big Blaze at Summer Resort

Nantasket, Mass., Nov. 19.—A fire which broke out in the kitchen of Hotel Standish late last night destroyed that house and the adjoining Hotels Brunswick and Sagamore. Practically all the contents were lost. The total loss is estimated at $25,000. The origin of the flames is not apparent. The buildings were all three-story wooden structures and burned rapidly. W. L. Farrell, who owned and occupied Hotel Standish, formerly controlled the Riverside hotel, where he was burned out two weeks ago.

Found Dead In Bathroom

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 19.—Thomas C. Morrissey, a contractor, was found dead in his home, and it is the opinion of Medical Examiner Breck that he had been dead for four or five days. Death was due to asphyxiation. Morrissey's wife has been away since last Thursday and returned yesterday afternoon. She found the house full of gas and telephoned to Rev. M. J. McKenna, who discovered Morrissey's body in the bathroom, already in partial decomposition.

Serious Boiler Explosion

Tiverton, R. I., Nov. 19.—A horizontal boiler of 20 horse-power used to operate a small engine for a stone crusher, exploded at North Tiverton, injuring three men. George Haywood sustained severe injuries and two Italian laborers were struck by flying pieces of iron. The explosion lifted the boiler and engine 30 feet into the air, carrying away the top of the stone crusher, and landing the whole outfit 250 feet from the scene of the explosion.

An Intentional Disappearance

Granby, Mass., Nov. 19.—Mrs. Lucy B. Prentiss, 22, wife of Milton Prentiss, and daughter of C. H. Bemis, took her young child to her father's home last Saturday evening, saying she was going to the store and would leave it till she returned. Later in the evening the team came home without a driver and no trace of Mrs. Prentiss has been found, although diligent search has been made. She left a note stating she should never return.

H., Nov. 19.—As the result of the demand made upon him by 141 of his fellow-townsmen to withdraw their names from the blacklist posted by him in the Valley hotel in Hillsboro, former Governor Goodell has requested the state license commissioners to pass upon the validity of his action. The commission has replied that at an early date it will state its position in the matter.

Deer Slaughter In Vermont

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 19.—State Game Commissioner Thomas reports that the number of deer killed in Vermont during open season, the last 10 days in October, was 754, compared with 382 brought in last year. He expresses the opinion that if the increase annually in killing continues that the stock will soon be hopelessly depleted.

IS AGAINST SOCIALISM

Federation of Labor Thus Puts Itself on Record

LONG AND HOT DISCUSSION

President Gompers Says Socialism Is Unsound Economically, Wrong Socially and an Impossibility In an Industrial Sense

Boston, Nov. 19.—In historic Faneuil hall, and at the end of a session remarkable because of the fervor of its oratory and the intensity of its forensic strife, the attempt of the Socialist delegates to have the organization pledge itself to Socialism was signally defeated at the convention of the American Federation of Labor. Nine resolutions, presented by followers of Socialism, calling for the adoption of the principles of that political party had been reported upon unfavorably by the committee on resolutions, and delegates representing a voting strength of 11,282 registered themselves in support of the committee's recommendation, while delegates with 2185 numerical votes threw their power against the report of the committee and in favor of the resolution.

The issue was discussed all yesterday as well as part of Tuesday. All the leaders of both sides engaged in debate. Just before the vote taking the convention became tumultuous over the question of the right of certain delegates to speak after the hour of 3, when the discussion was to have been stopped, a parliamentary condition which was not only a sequence of, but which was to some extent incited by Socialist Delegate Carey's heated condemnation of Vice President Duncan's attack upon the Socialists.

The climax of the day of battle was President Gompers himself. In an intense and impressive manner and in bitter and unqualified language, he scourged Socialism, and the attempt to induce the convention to adopt its principles.

Mr. Gompers pointed out that a vote for the resolutions presented would be construed by the world as an endorsement of Socialism. The Socialists did not want trade unionists elected to office. Wherever there have been Socialists, said the speaker, they have always opposed the trade unionists who were running for office outside the Federation of Labor. He became very earnest and even bitter in his statements against Socialism, and was interrupted frequently from the floor. "The trade union movement must remain uninterfered with by the doctrines of Socialism," cried Mr. Gompers.

He said the boot and shoe workers and the cigar makers in some parts of the country had been threatened with boycott by Socialists unless they agreed to follow the lines which the Socialists marked out. He said he had studied Socialism for more than 30 years; he had studied the tactics of the Socialists, and he knew what they had "up their sleeve."

"I am at variance with your philosophy," said the president emphatically. "Economically you are unsound, socially you are wrong, and industrially you are an impossibility;" and he concluded with the words: "I have an abiding faith in the trades union movement because it is the protector of labor today, and if emancipation comes sometime it must be the trades union movement that will achieve it."

Great applause followed the conclusion of Mr. Gompers' speech, and the roll call on the question concurring in the committee's report was begun at 3:55 amid considerable enthusiasm. John Mitchell, for the delegation from the United Mine Workers of America, voted to support the committee's report, throwing 2173 votes out of the possible 14,000 to be cast. The announcement of the final defeat of the resolution was hailed with prolonged applause.

A Boy's Deliberate Suicide

Riverside, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Paul R. Millington, 12 years old, had long been troubled with his eyes and last summer underwent an operation. Rather than undergo a second operation, which he was told was necessary, the boy secured a dynamite cartridge and fuse, which he placed on a rock. After lighting the fuse he held his head over the explosive and awaited his death. The back of the boy's head was blown completely off.

Siegel's Troubles Not Over

AMUSING FARCE.

"Six Kleptomaniacs" Presented at Wollaston Unitarian Vestry.

Six Kleptomaniacs, a farce in two acts, which was presented at the Unitarian vestry Wednesday evening proved a great success and delighted the audience in attendance. The play is well written and full of funny parts and laughable situations.

Mrs. Chas. T. Blaker in Bridgette de Flanagan was particularly successful in presenting the character as sketched by the author and centributed materially to the amusing situation of the play.

Mrs. Boyce made a fine hit as the darkey, "Crocus Washing Jones." All the other characters did their parts exceedingly well.

Those in the cast were: Mrs. C. K. Crane, Mrs. G. W. Bennett, Miss Grace Bishop, Miss Eugenia Hatch, Mrs. Fred Rollins, Mrs. C. T. Baker, Mrs. George K. Boyce, Mrs. H. G. Gurney. Illness prevented Mrs. Gurney from performing her part, which was filled by Mrs. Card, the author of the play. An orchestra furnished music.

NOW LIEUTENANT.

Rapid Promotion for Walter C. Jones who Enlisted in 1898.

Walter C. Jones of this city, who is attached the 11th United States Infantry, located at present in Manila, has been promoted to first lieutenant. Lieut. Jones is a son of Frederick L. Jones, and a brother of Dr. Fred E. Jones.

In Oct. 1900, he was promoted to second lieutenant, and attached to the 11th infantry and sent to Porto Rico. The regiment is now at Manila. Lieut. Jones was born in Quincy 25 years ago, educated in the public schools and at Adams Academy, and was working in Chicago when he enlisted.

Lieut. Jones enlisted in the 1st Cavalry, U. S. A., at Fort Sheridan, Ill., in 1898, one of first troops to land at Santiago, where it was in the thick of the fight until the capitulation of the city. In the fight at San Juan eleven men out of the 44 in his troop were incapacitated within fifteen minutes.

NO PROGRESS MADE

Toward Securing Settlement of Chicago Railway Strike

Chicago, Nov. 19.—The prospects for a speedy settlement of the strike of the employes of the Chicago City railway are not hopeful. This statement was made by Mayor Harrison last night after a day of conferences between the city council peace commission, delegates of the strikers' union and representatives of the Chicago City Railway company.

"Whether the difficulty will finally be adjusted by arbitration I am unable to say," continued the mayor. "Every possible effort was made to have both sides to the controversy adopt this means of settlement, but without satisfactory result. The officials of the company, however, have promised to send me a more complete statement of their position, but I am not sanguine that they will agree to the proposition of arbitration as submitted by the strikers."

The meeting which terminated just before Harrison made his declaration regarding the dubious prospect of settling the strike lasted until 11 o'clock and the entire ground was gone over. None of the parties to the meeting would say what was done, but it is generally understood that the company stood where it stood at the commencement of the strike—willing to arbitrate wages, but unwilling to arbitrate the "closed shop," the right of the union to control the discharge of employes, or the claim of the union to the right of arranging the time and manner of "routing" cars.

THE PARKWAY.

Start to be Made by Park Commissioners.

Proposals Asked for Construction

Of that Part Between Hancock and Squantum Streets.

In today's edition of the Daily Ledger will be found an advertisement of the Metropolitan Park Commissioners asking for proposals for building a portion of the Metropolitan parkway in Quincy, for which land has already been taken. It is the extreme northerly end, beginning on Hancock street near the Boston line, and extending toward Squantum.

It leaves Hancock street just south of Atlantic street, but immediately crosses Atlantic street and goes over the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. by a new bridge at north of the Atlantic street bridge. Thence the route is almost direct to Moswetussett hill, along the line of the upland and marsh, and will open up considerable desirable building land.

Crossing Squantum street the parkway curves to the south and follows along the Quincy Bay shore to Blacks creek, and thence via Furnace brook through West Quincy to the Blue Hills reservation.

Proposals are wanted for only that portion between Hancock and Squantum streets a distance of less than a mile, but it is the most expensive part to build because of the new railroad bridge.

Contractors will have until Monday, Dec. 7, in which to submit proposals, and it is probable that work will not be commenced until early next spring.

Only $300,000 a year for five years is available for parkways in the Metropolitan district, and it is probable that five years will be required for the construction of the parkways in Quincy between Hancock street at Atlantic and Blue Hills reservation.

It is said that Mayor Bryant has of late been urging the Metropolitan Park Commissioners to make a start in this city.

Choral Union.

The inclement weather of Tuesday evening prevented many from attending the Choral Union meeting which was held at the residence of Mr. Cornish; however, about twenty were present and the following officers were elected for the coming season. Mr. Cornish was re-elected president by a unanimous vote. First vice president, Mr. Seeley; second vice president, Mr. Faunce; third vice president, Mrs. Blaisdell; secretary, Mrs. Drury; treasurer, Mr. Corey; executive committee, Mrs. Saxe, Mrs. Fred Merrill, Miss Clara Thayer and Mr. Crowell. The meeting adjourned with the understanding that the executive board would appoint the first rehearsal.

SANTA CLAUS FAXON.

Made Thursday Night a Profitable One at G. A. R. Fair.

There were lively times at the Grand Army fair at Hancock hall Thursday night. The announcement that Santa Claus Faxon would be present, and distribute tickets, which he agreed to redeem in cash for the amount printed on the face, was sufficient to draw a large crowd.

Although Mr. Faxon has been sick for several days he has not lost his grit and he put in an appearance early in the evening. In his pockets were three hundred tickets representing five, ten and twenty-five cents. He was soon surrounded, and he was kept busy placing the little pasteboards in the hundreds of hands that were stretched out toward him.

In consequence of these tickets business was brisk at the tables. If there was any lady who did not receive a gift it was her own fault.

☞ The representatives of the Union Labor Carnival Company, that will be held at the Coliseum one week commencing Nov. 30, are to be seen everywhere, and are always hustling. The people of Quincy and the surrounding towns will certainly have a big time for their 10 cents.

"GREEN SICKNESS"

The unhealthy complexion of green sickness is changed to the rosy blush of good health by Scott's Emulsion.

Green sickness is one of the forms of blood disease found in young women. The change from girlhood to womanhood often upsets the nervous system, weakens digestion and throws the blood-making organs out of gear.

Scott's Emulsion puts new heart into pale girls. It tones up the nervous and digestive system, and feeds the blood. It is a natural tonic.

Remember that 30 per cent. of these cases go on into consumption unless prevented. Scott's Emulsion prevents consumption.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

THE WATER DEBT.

The $10,000 Loan Order for Water Pipe

A Mortgage Upon 1904 Administration.

Its Purpose to Give This Administration Ready Money.

If a saving is to be effected by contracting in 1903 for water pipe to be used in 1904, why is it necessary to appropriate more for water pipe than was expended last year when prices were higher? The City Book of 1902 shows that the sum of $9,554.45 was paid the Warren Foundry and Machine Co. for pipe. Now it is proposed to make a loan of $10,000 for the purchase of pipe for 1904.

If the order is passed, the loan will probably be negotiated immediately, giving the administration of 1903 the sum of $10,000 to meet current expenses, as no payment would be required on the pipe until 1904.

It further shows the desperate straits into which our city has plunged itself financially.

Why not date the notes Feb. 1 or March 1 instead of Dec. 1 this year, and thereby save interest? What the city may save on a low contract it will lose on interest. The purpose of the loan at this time is clearly to keep the city out of a hole financially, but is only postponing the date.

The city should economize on its annual expenditure for water construction. It should not be necessary to appropriate $30,000 or more annually, now that the city is well piped. Since the purchase of the water plant over ten years ago, at a cost of over $700,000, the city has paid maturing water debt to the amount of about $30,000 annually, yet the water debt on January 1 last was $720,000. If we are to reduce the water debt and save interest we must make smaller appropriations for extensions.

If the administration of 1904 desires to economize on water appropriations, it should be given an opportunity and not find itself confronted with a bill of $10,000 for pipe when only $5,000 worth of pipe is required.

Taxpayers might be surprised, if they knew how much of this money, borrowed on a 30-year loan, was actually used for current expenses.

Good Afternoon

Three New York papers, the American, the Journal and Das Morgan Journal are booming William Randolph Hearst for the presidency. Hearst owns them all.

According to the report of the Adjutant General, the regular army now consists of 55,500 men and 3,681 officers. The united strength of the State militias amounts to 116,542 men. The regular troops now stationed in the Philippines number 14,667. Not a very large army for a nation with a population of 75,000,000.

The Democratic caucuses in Boston were not as close as some anticipated, yet many were surprised that Fred S. Gore should poll 11,000 votes. The Democrats cast about 40,000 votes and Patrick A. Collins was renominated for Mayor. He will have as rivals—George N. Swallow nominated by the Republicans, and George W. Galvin nominated by the Socialists.

Drift of Opinion.

☞H. Gaylord Wiltshire, the millionaire Socialist, declares that two hours a day is enough for any man to work. Is he guessing or has he figured out that this will be the requirement in that grand social commonwealth when there are no drones and every man does his share of the world's work.—Haverhill Gazette.

☞The public schools are not perfect, but they are not in any sense an instrument of danger. They are working along right lines, guided by people earnest for their best interest and the highest good of the children. But the school cannot take the place of the home or the church. It must work hand in hand with the other institutions of the people and share their closest interest.—New Bedford Standard.

Some one with a turn of mind statistical has figured that participation in Rugby football this season has resulted in forty deaths, and this in spite of the fact that the game is being played under new rules designed to make it less perilous. Truly this is a frightful showing, in the face of which one can find little consolation in the announcement that a western woman, for 14 years a prey to melancholia, was recently cured by the sight of an exciting battle on the gridiron.—New Bedford Standard.

☞Labor unionists in Philadelphia appear to have started out to make unionism as much of a farce as possible. At a meeting of the Central union last Sunday one topic under discussion is said to have been the question if a man was a "scab" if he had his wife mend a rent in his trousers instead of taking them to a union tailor, and another was the suggestion that the union barber might place a ban on those of their own craft who shave themselves.—Springfield Union.

☞It is to be hoped that the time will come when there will be less, or, better still, no back-breaking, nerve-racking labor for men to do. But the desirability of further rapid or sudden reductions in the hours of work is open to serious question. Instead of increasing the amount of contentment and happiness in the world, it might add to the sum of vice, crime and misery. Civilization, we have regretfully to admit, has not yet nullified the true if hoary and time-worn saw that an idle brain is the devil's workshop.—Kansas City Journal.

Murdered at His Post

Elmira, N. Y., Nov. 20.—W. H. Clendenen, a telegraph operator at Brown, Pa., was found dead in the telegraph tower shortly after 7 o'clock last night. At 6:50 o'clock the operator at Oak Grove, Pa., on the same road, received this message from Clendenen: "Send switch engine quick to me, I am being murdered." The wire opened and not another word came. A switch engine reached Brown in a short time. The body was found lying under the desk. The watch and money of the operator was missing.

Summers Summoned to Washington

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 20.—An important development in connection with the indictment by federal grand jury of Senator Dietrich and Postmaster Fisher of Hastings for conspiracy and bribery is the sudden summons of United States District Attorney Summers to Washington. The summons, it is stated, came from President Roosevelt and Mr. Summers left for Washington last night. No one at the district attorney's office would discuss the probable cause of Mr. Summers' trip.

...S CLUB SWINGING

...ered Chicago Mob Which Attacked Non-Union Men

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Despite the united efforts of Mayor Harrison and the aldermanic mediation committee to bring about a peaceable adjustment of the Chicago city railway strike, there is little change in the situation. Some progress has been made, but nothing definite has been accomplished.

A serious riot occurred last evening which was quelled by the vigorous work of the police. They were compelled to charge the mob and use their clubs freely. The trouble commenced when a wrecking wagon, manned by a non-union crew and guarded by six special policemen, passed Thirty-Seventh street and Wentworth avenue.

A crowd quickly gathered and followed it. When Thirty-Eighth street was reached 200 men were around the wagon, which they were threatening to destroy, and offering violence to the men. Just in the nick of time two cars carrying 18 regular policemen came up. The crowd drew back and allowed the wagon to pass.

Soon after the wagon and cars carrying the officers had left Thirty-Eighth street two cars came up from the opposite direction. The mob let fly a shower of stones, demolishing the car windows and causing four passengers on the first car to flee for their lives. The mob then swarmed upon the cars and had begun to beat the crews when the two cars with the policemen and the crew of the wrecking wagon came hurrying back. The mob was in an ugly temper and refused to move. The police drew their revolvers and clubs and charged at once. The mob used stones and bricks, while the police swung their clubs with vigor. There was a warm fight for about two minutes and then the mob broke and fled in all directions. A number of those engaged in the rioting were arrested.

Over 5000 Tons Shipped.

The returns from the railroad shipping terminals for the month of October show that there was a slight increase in the output of granite over the previous month. The total for the month was 11,451,499 pounds, which in exact figures was an increase of 55,455 pounds. The largest increase was from the West Quincy station, while there was a decrease over the Quarry railroad. The figures for the month are: West Quincy, 6,443,139 pounds; South Quincy, 4,944,090 pounds; Quarry railroad, 863,370 pounds.

HAVE COME TOO LATE

Peace Envoys' Mission to Panama Will Be Futile

POINTS IN NEW TREATY

Strip Across Isthmus Wholly Under Our Administration—Cities of Panama and Colon Compelled to Comply With Our Sanitary Ordinances

Colon, Nov. 20.—Generals Reyes, Ospina and Holguin, appointed as commissioners by the Colombian government to come to the isthmus and negotiate for terms of peace looking to "the saving of the national honor," arrived here last night on the French steamer Canada. The peace commissioners left Savanilla on Wednesday without knowing the result of the conference between the peace commission from the department of Bolivar and the members of the junta, on board the Mayflower. When General Reyes learned of this conference he said that he entirely disapproval of the mission of the Bolivarians.

The commissioners sent a telegram to the junta at Panama asking for a conference there, but the Panama government declined to grant the request. It is expected, however, that a representative delegation from Panama will arrive here and confer with the commissioners on board the Canada.

There was great excitement on the arrival of the Canada. Hundreds of people flocked to the neighborhood of the dock, but were prevented from reaching the vessel by marines who were landed from the United States warships as soon as the Canada was sighted. The marines now guard the wharf.

Captain Merriam of the United States auxiliary cruiser Dixie immediately went aboard the Canada and conveyed to General Reyes the result of the mission of the Bolivarians. His invitation to the commissioners to board the Dixie was declined. The Colombians also declined the invitation of Admiral Coghlan, who had just arrived from Panama, to go aboard the Mayflower.

It is understood that General Reyes and the other Colombian officers will remain on the Canada until this evening or possibly until Saturday evening, when they will leave for Port Limon.

The Colombian generals were not permitted to land at Colon and it is considered absolutely certain that their mission, like that of the commissioners from the department of Bolivar, will prove altogether futile.

WHAT WE GET

Additional Details of New Treaty Drawn Up at Washington

Washington, Nov. 20.—The Panama commissioners, Messrs. Amador and Boyd, have read over the treaty signed by Messrs. Hay and Bunau-Varilla and discussed its terms and provisions in detail. It meets their approval.

From various sources additional information in regard to the terms and provisions of the treaty has been obtained. Under it the United States guarantees and agrees to maintain the independence of Panama. It is understood that this clause was inserted in order to set at rest all questions as to the recognition of Panama as an independent nation by the other governments.

Panama grants to the United States the perpetual use and control of a zone of territory 10 miles wide across the isthmus for the canal, with the right to acquire by purchase or by the exercise of eminent domain any other lands in Panama, wherever situated, which, in the judgment of the United States, may be necessary for the construction of the canal, the provision of its supply of water and the proper sanitation of the cities of Panama and Colon and other territory adjacent to the canal route. Within the zone of territory for the canal and within the limits of the other lands acquired by the United States, the United States will have the same power and authority as if the territory were ceded to the United States and the republic of Panama will cease to exercise any power and authority within that zone.

The United States undertakes to construct modern systems of sewers and waterworks for the cities of Panama and Colon and has the right to collect tolls for the period of 50 years in order to repay the cost of their construction with interest. At the end of 50 years the sewers and waterworks become the property of the cities of Panama and Colon. The republic of Panama undertakes to compel the cities of Panama and Colon to comply with the sanitary ordinances of the United States, and if they fail to do so the United States has the right to enforce its rules and regulations in regard to sanitation.

In addition to these general provisions, which constitute the foundation of the treaty, there are many articles of an administrative character which provide for the exemption of materials and supplies for the construction of the canal from customs duties and for the neutrality of the canal and the entrances to it. Panama is to receive $10,000,000 and an annual payment of $250,000, beginning nine years from the date of the treaty.

Peru's Sympathy For Colombia

Lima, Peru, Nov. 20.—President Candamo, replying last evening to a cable message received from President Marroquin of Colombia, said: "The separation of Panama, which my government deplores, presents apparently irremediable signs in the presence of which Peru can only express rgret at the loss suffered by an American republic with which it has always tried to maintain the most fraternal relations."

Republic Already Large Enough

Panama, Nov. 20.—It can be said authoritatively that the government of the republic of Panama will not consider any proposition from the department of Cauca and Antioquia to join the republic. Panama would gain nothing, but, on the contrary, might become involved in troublesome, if not dangerous war operations, as Colombia could attack Cauca and Antioquia by land.

Conductor's Error Causes Loss of Thirty-One Lives

TRAINS MET IN DEEP CUT

Nineteen Victims So Horribly Mangled as to Be Unrecognizable Even to Friends—But Four Survivors of Crew of Thirty-Five Workmen

Peoria, Ills., Nov. 20.—Thirty-one men were killed and at least 15 injured in a head-on collision between a freight train and a work train on the Big Four railroad between Mackinaw and Tremont. Bodies of 26 of the victims have been taken from the wreck, which is piled 30 feet high on the tracks. Five bodies yet remain buried under the huge pile of broken timber and twisted iron and steel.

On a bank at the side of the track lie the bodies of the victims, cut, bruised and mangled in a horrible manner. So far only 12 have been identified, the remaining 19 being unrecognizable even by friends of men known to have been in the wreck. All the dead and most of the injured were members of the work train. The crews on both engines jumped in time to save their lives.

The collision occurred in a deep cut, at the beginning of a sharp curve, neither train being visible to the crew of the other until they were within 50 feet of each other. The engineers set the brakes, sounded the whistle and leaped from their cabs, the two trains striking with such force that the sound was heard for miles.

A second after the collision the boiler of the work train engine exploded, throwing heavy iron bars and splinters of wood 200 feet.

Conductor Judge, who had charge of the freight train, received orders at Urbana to wait at Mackinaw for the work train, which was due there at 2:40 p. m. Instead of doing this he failed to stop. The engineer of the work train, George Becker, had also received orders to pass the freight at Mackinaw and was on the way to that station. The work train was perhaps five minutes late and was running at full speed.

The workmen had been engaged in laying steel rails at different points along the track, and three of the freight cars were heavily loaded.

The injured were taken to the two cabooses of the relief trains, where temporary hospitals were improvised, and their wounds taken care of.

One caboose was taken to Morton, while the other was taken to Tremont. The dead laid on the bank all night until the arrival of the coroner of Tazewell county this morning.

The dead are residents of neighboring towns and the scenes about the wreck were beyond description. Wives and children of men who were missing thronged around, asking if their husbands or fathers had been killed. Out of 35 men who constituted the crew of the work train, only four are living and two of these are seriously injured. Wreckage is strewn along the track for a distance of nearly 200 feet and it will be 24 hours before it can be cleared.

Criticism Leads to Resignation

Durham, N. C., Nov. 20.—Professor Spencer Bassett of the chair of English of Trinity college has tendered his resignation, following fierce criticism in the press of his article in The Atlantic Quarterly on the negro question, in which he stated that Booker Washington is the greatest man, except General Lee, born in the south in 100 years. College patrons were threatening to withdraw pupils and Methodist churches were demanding Bassett's dismissal.

Preferred Death to Loss of Beauty

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Mrs. Lulu W. Brennan was the wife of a wealthy citizen of Denver and up to four years ago, when she contracted blood poisoning, she reigned among the belles of Denver society. She felt the loss of her beauty deeply and last October came to Chicago and placed herself in the hands of a "beauty doctor." Nothing was accomplished by the treatment and she killed herself with chloroform.

Canadian Police Withdrawn

Ottawa, Nov. 20.—Minister of the Interior Sifton has given orders for the abandonment of the mounted police post at the junction of the Klehoni and Chilkat rivers, which has been found by the decision of the Alaska tribunal to be seven miles within United States territory.

London, Nov. 20.—King Edward has been robbed by a clerk in the office of the paymaster of the household. On this occasion checks amounting to $2500 were illegally drawn and cashed by Frank Lanham, who has confessed and was committed for trial.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 20.—As a result of deep snow and extreme cold weather heavy sheep losses will result. Wild animals driven from the mountains by snow and cold are raising havoc with stock. The temperature is from 20 to 25 degrees below zero.

Made Fortune Renting Chairs

Naples, Nov. 20.—Pasqualino Strino, who has just died here, made a fortune by renting chairs in church at 2 cents each for every service. He left a fortune of $100,000. Some of the banknotes found have long been out of circulation.

Senate Committee Hearing on Promotion of Wood

RATHBONE IS IN EVIDENCE

Said to Hage Charges to Present Against General—Former Postal Official Has Staunch Supporters In Hanna and Teller

Washington, Nov. 20.—The holding of the hearing of the senate committee on military affairs on General Wood's promotion behind closed doors was something of a surprise. The committee apparently found it hard to decide as to the degree of publicity to be given these proceedings. It was understood early in the week that the senate committee on military affairs would admit only representatives of the press associations to report the hearing. As late as Wednesday there was reason to think that the policy would be still more liberal and that the correspondents of newspapers especially interested in the case would be allowed in the room.

An informal announcement to the effect that the inquiry would be public had been made and a large number of newspaper men had gathered in the committee room when the committee was called to order. They were, however, immediately asked to retire. Before closing the doors there were exchanges of opinion concerning the propriety of making the proceedings public. The point was raised by Senator Quarles and several other members of the committee sustained him, all of them taking the position that as the business was executive in character the committee had no right to make it public without first securing an order from the senate.

Senator Scott made a plea for open sessions during the hearing, basing his contention on the ground of the general public interest. The committee decided to proceed in executive session and to present to the senate the question of opening the doors during the hearing.

In addition to the members of the committee and newspaper men, Senators Teller and Hanna and Major Rathbone were present, the three last named being prepared to present objections to General Wood's confirmation. It was stated that no charges had yet been filed against the general, but Senator Proctor, who presided, said that he understood Major Rathbone would present such charges.

In the executive session Senator Hanna's statement dealt especially with his active interest in behalf of Rathbone when he was under prosecution for malfeasance in office as director of posts for Cuba, in 1900, and in subsequent years. He said that Wood's requirement that Rathbone should give a cash bond of $25,000 in American gold when he was first arrested was beyond all reason, in view of the fact that the amount he was charged with misappropriating was only about $4000, and he contended that a man who would be so unjust and so unfair under the circumstances should not be entrusted with high command. He also spoke of his long acquaintance with Rathbone and reiterated his confidence in his integrity.

Senator Teller said that he had known Rathbone for many years and from his knowledge of him both in public and private life he felt the major had been unjustly treated under the directions of Wood. He then took up the question of the promotion of Wood and went into details to show that he had been pressed forward in an "unprecedented manner." He said that from the time of the beginning of the Cuban war, when Wood was a surgeon with the rank of captain, he had been lifted over the heads of almost 100 other officers, of whom half had seen service in the Civil war.

Senator Proctor, acting chairman of the military committee, has requested the secretary of war to send to the committee the military record of Wood for its use in connection with the nomination. The committee will meet today to continue its inquiry as to General Wood.

MILTON.

An old-fashioned dancing party was held Thursday evening at Washington hall. Music was furnished by a violin and piano. The waltz, two-step and other modern dances were strictly forbidden. In their place was the Virginia reel, morning star, money musk, nine pins, and dances of that sort. Many of the belles and beaux of other years were present to participate and the old time dancing with its inimitable graceful steps was a kind of revelation to some of the younger people. It is hardly necessary to add that a grand good time was enjoyed.

Thomas Forbes of East Milton has enlisted for four years as a machinist in the navy. He has been assigned to the Cleveland now at Philadelphia.

—It is reported that 2573 out of 2894 Congregational ministers in England and Wales are total abstainers, while in Ireland and Scotland the proportion is still larger.

THIS MORNING'S FIRE

A Granite Firm Suffers a Loss of Several Hundred Dollars.

An alarm was sounded from Box 39 at 7.40 this morning for a brisk blaze in the office at the John R. Richards granite works on Penn street. The office is situated at the easterly end of the sheds near the railroad tracks. In the office was a stove and it was probably from this stove that the fire started.

It was discovered by workmen about the premises. Some one ran to box 39 at the corner of Liberty and Penn streets to give an alarm. The key broke off in the box and some minutes were lost in opening the box. In the meantime word had been telephoned to the central fire station and the apparatus was soon on its way to the scene.

Owing to the yard being full of granite it was difficult to get at the fire with a line of hose. The fire was confined to the office the interior of which was thoroughly scorched. On the desk and on the shelves were many letters and sketches of monuments. Some of these were destroyed and all were more or less damaged by fire and water, so that it is impossible to tell how much damage was done. None of the finished granite in the yard was damaged.

Thanksgiving Service.

The union Thanksgiving service at Wollaston this year will be held in the Methodist church at 5 P. M. Music by the Adelphi Male Quartet of Boston will be a prominent feature. Rev. H G. Megathlin will read the Thanksgiving proclamation, Rev. F. W. Pratt will read the Scriptures, Rev. C. P. Mills will offer prayer, and there will be the following addresses: "The art of appreciation" by Rev. E. A. Chase; "The Springs of Thanksgiving" by Rev. E. D. Webber; and "Things for which to be Thankful" by Rev. W. J. Heath.

The Social Realm.

Home and Public Gatherings.

Offer unto God thanksgiving, and pay thy vows unto the most high.
Oh, that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!

Lend me a heart replete with thankfulness!

[Copyright, 1902, by Mary Winthrop.]

JASPER PEYTON was a stranger in a strange land. The fact was most unpleasantly brought home to him at every opportunity by the good people of Oreville.

He was a sweet tempered fellow, and it disturbed him mightily when his efforts at sociability were ignored. "How can I help it that there was trouble at the works and that my predecessor was fired?" he exclaimed ruefully to Maria. "I didn't know it when I accepted the position of superintendent."

Maria sniffed. She had her opinion of people who failed in appreciation of her young master. Had she not come all these weary hundred miles for the sake of his sunny smile?

But Maria did not know that most of Jasper's irritation was caused by the house next door. No, not the house. It was a pretty little frame dwelling, embowered in vines and banked in scarlet sage. It was the girl. She had a scornful mouth, an aggravatingly tilted nose and a pair of dark eyes.

He found out that her mouth was scornful when he met her outside the gate on the second day after his arrival. She was so undoubtedly pretty that his neighborly "good morning" had unusual fervor.

HE HAD SCARCELY FINISHED WHEN THE AVALANCHE FELL.

And the girl—there was a contemptuous curl on her lip, and her eyes flashed before she lowered her long lashes. She passed on without a word.

Jasper stared after her in astonishment and then cursed the custom that some small towns have of aping city conventionalities. Later he found out his mistake. The girl's name was Carlton, and her father was the man whose dismissal had made room for Jasper. There was a flush on the young man's cheek as he realized that the girl held him accountable for the change of family fortunes.

By dint of carefully veiled inquiry he found out much more. Mr. Carlton, it seemed, had obtained an inferior position in a town fifty miles farther south. But as he hoped for a better opening in the near future he had delayed moving the family goods and chattels. There was much not often included in the latter terms—rosebushes coaxed to splendid size and bloom through untoward frosts and protracted drought, turtledoves that whirred and cooed and sunned themselves on the flat roof of the lean-to, and the fine flock of turkeys. Marion Carlton refused to part with one of these. Had she not triumphantly reared the entire hatching when the spring winds, pip, rats and other enemies of turkeykind had dashed the hopes of neighboring raisers? If any one was to feast on fat turkeys, lying peacefully on snowy pillows of mashed potatoes with garlands of parsley round their necks, it should be the Carlton family. And as the Carlton family had but two members, Marion's will was generally law.

The frost had turned the scarlet sage to black, and the vines no longer screened the house next door. But every falling leaf seemed only to add to the rampart that the girl's pride had raised. She was evidently a favorite in the town, for in the evening the young folks trooped to her door, and through the partition walls came bursts of laughter and snatches of music. That they all followed Marion's example in leaving him strictly alone was partly Jasper's fault. After the first few rebuffs his free and easy manner changed to one of aloofness.

Maria sighed as she noted the change. "And it's the hard hearts you're all after havin'," she said as she sat in her kitchen and listened to the laughter from the house next door.

Just then Jasper dashed into the room, crying joyfully: "Hurrah, Maria! We're in luck! Here's Aunt Jane writing that she wants to be sure that we have a fine Thanksgiving turkey, and so she is sending us a live one. I can just fancy how good he will taste with some of your prime dressing."

Maria beamed. She was proud of her cooking.

Jasper went to the freight office the next evening and escorted the turkey home in person. When it was tethered to a stake in the back yard, Maria could not but declare that it was the finest turkey she had ever seen, infinitely finer than any belonging to the house next door.

But, alas, there was no chance for comparison. Others besides Marion had evidently watched the growth of her turkeys and took an interest, a proprietary interest, in them. The next morning her turkey house was empty.

Marion cried. Here it was only two days to Thanksgiving dinner and her father's long expected visit, and there was a dearth of turkeys in Oreville. She was at an upper window gazing disconsolately toward the empty poultry house when her glance happened to stray to the yard of her neighbor. She saw the turkey tethered to the post. Instantly she thought she recognized it as her favorite gobbler. It was a case of mistaken identity, but there is much of a sameness in turkeys.

Ah, so he was the thief! But where were the others? Doubtless he had made way with them. Here her tears flowed again. It was a melancholy satisfaction to think how perfectly she had diagnosed the stranger's character at that chance meeting so many weeks before, but it was not a material comfort.

Meanwhile there was equal distress in the house of Peyton. Maria's sister was ill, and she must come at once. She had departed with many tears and lamentations.

Jasper after seeing her off had returned home in a melancholy frame of mind. No Thanksgiving dinner for him now. He must eat at the hotel. And the turkey?

Just then a most brilliant idea came to him. He had heard of Miss Carlton's loss. Why not give her his turkey?

But a very astonished face met him next door. Was his conscience already troubling him? Marion's cheeks were scarlet with anger as the unconscious young man presented the turkey in his most polite manner.

He had scarcely finished when the avalanche fell. His turkey! For how long had it been his turkey? Since last night. It was adding insult to injury to return as a gift what he had previously stolen.

Jasper's bewilderment had changed to anger.

"You accuse me—me?" he exclaimed incredulously. "But it is only on a par with your previous actions. Permit me, madam, to inform you that the turkey arrived by express last night. You can get the express agent to verify my words. I can only hope that you will enjoy my turkey as much as if it had been one of your own." And before the girl could speak he had bowed ironically and was gone.

It was the next evening that there came a timid tap at Jasper's door. It was the girl from the next house. Her long lashes hid the dark eyes and the scornful mouth trembled. Only the nose still tilted aggravatingly. "I have come," she said in a very small voice, "to say that I am sorry. The express agent told me how your aunt had sent it. They have caught the thieves who stole my turkeys."

Jasper was silent. It was undoubtedly cruel of him, but he had suffered much.

The girl went on bravely, though there was a choke in her voice: "And—and—I've come to ask you whether you won't come over and have some of your turkey with us tomorrow. Father will be home, and I know he will be glad to meet you. Won't you come?"

Jasper saw tears shining behind the long lashes. His heart beat strangely as he took her outstretched hand. "I shall be glad to come," he said quietly.

But it took Maria a long time to get used to the new state of affairs.

A Thanksgiving Fable.

A gay young Gobbler, seeing how Melancholy the Turkeys were, propounded A Conundrum.

"Why are Turkeys the Drum Corps of the Fowl Creation? Give it up? Because they all carry Drumsticks. O-u-c-h!" He dodged A blow from the Patriarch of the Flock who Overheard him.

"Spare Me," said the young Fellow, assuming the Defensive. "I can give you A Better one. Why do Turkeys have No Hereafter?"

The Patriarch blustered Around and dragged his Wings, looking very Fierce. He knew he ought to know, but couldn't for the Life of Him remember. So he Glowered at the Culprit and asked Severely:

"Well, Sir, why do Turkeys have No Hereafter?"

"Because they have their Necks Twirled in This."

"Pooh!" said the Patriarch Contemptuously. "That was around on Crutches when Adam wore Kilts. Now, here is Something new that I Caught on the Wing. We are All to be Dry Picked this Year."

"What!" Shrieked A giddy Blond with a pink Crest. "Not on Your life?"

"No, Silly, but as Soon as it is Over. It is the old Way of Turkey Undertaking and The only Way. In Philadelphia, where I Chipped into the World, Dry Picking was the Correct Thing. All the old families held to It. That gives Turkey Feathers the chance of their Lives. Turkey Tails for Fans—I am told the Aborigines quite Dote on Them."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Thanks.

How can I count thy mercies up?
What boisterous seas hast thou made calm?
What sad sighs changed to joyous psalm,
And what rich wine has filled my cup!
My day and night, my work and rest,
Even my sorrows, thou hast blessed.

Thou gavest, and I took my share
Of pain and trouble, grief and tears,
But ever through the stormiest years
My peace was greater than my care.
Unworthy I! And yet I pray,
O Lord, accept my thanks today.

THE DREADED CLANG

of the ambulance bell that is so frequently heard could be frequently obviated, remarked the Romoc man.

You see it is just this way, nine out of ten people who are overcome by fainting spells, vertigo, weakness, palpitation of the heart and many other ills that cause unconsciousness are the victims of Indigestion.

Indigestion is not always indicated by severe pains in the stomach. It is such symptoms as I have described above that indicates its presence and are often the first warning that the stomach does not work right.

If more people would only take that greatest of Nature's remedies, Romoc, there would be less stomach disorders. Like all of Nature's remedies, Romoc acts directly on the seat of the trouble. No harm ever follows its use as is the case when remedies containing injurious drugs and alcohol are resorted to.

Romoc tones up this great life centre of the body, and, what is more, it purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves and creates a healthy, normal appetite.

Won't you please buy a bottle of Romoc, on my assurance that it will do you good and you will become one of the many in this city who advocate the use of this harmless yet potent medicine.

STORY OF REVOLUTION

As Officially Reported by Naval Commander Hubbard

COLOMBIANS INVITED WAR

Men From the Nashville Were Landed and the Cruiser Made Ready For Business—Determined Attitude and Coolness of Yankees Won the Day

Washington, Nov. 21.—The navy department has made public reports of Commander Hubbard, commanding the Nashville, on recent operations of the men under his command at Colon, since the revolution on the isthmus of Panama was started. These reports cover threatened firing on the city of Colon by the Colombian troops under Colonel Torr, which was prevented by Commander Hubbard and the arrival and subsequent departure of the Colombian gunboat Cartegena, with 400 or 500 troops aboard.

Under date of Nov. 5 Commander Hubbard invites attention to the occurrences of Nov. 4, which, he says, "amounted practically to the making of war against the United States by the officer in command of the Colombian troops in Colon."

He then says that on the afternoon of that day the consul at Colon informed him that he had received notice from the officer commanding the Colombian troops, Colonel Torres, through the prefect of Colon, to the effect that if the Colombian officers, Generals Tobal and Amaya, who had been seized in Panama on Nov. 3 by the independents and held prisoners, were not released by 2 o'clock p. m. he (Torres) would open fire on the town of Colon and kill every United States citizen in the place.

Commander Hubbard's advice and action were requested. He advised that all United States citizens should take refuge in the shed of the Panama Railroad company and said he would land immediately a body of men, with such extra arms for arming citizens as the complement of the ship would permit. This was agreed to and at 1:30 o'clock a party of 42 men, under command of Lieutenant Commander Witzel, landed from the Nashville with directions to take the building referred to, put it into the best state of defense possible and protect the lives of the citizens assembled there, but not to fire unless fired upon. The report adds:

"The women and children took refuge on the German steamer Markomannia and the Panama railroad steamer City of Washington, both ready to haul out from the dock if necessary. The Nashville got under way and I patrolled with her along the water front, close in and ready to use either small arms or shrapnel fire. The Colombians surrounded the building of the railroad company almost immediately after we had taken possession and for about one and a half hours their attitude was most threatening, it being seemingly their purpose to provoke an attack. Happily our men were cool and steady and while the tension was very great, no shot was fired.

"At about 3:15 p. m. Colonel Torres came into the building for an interview and expressed himself as most friendly to Americans, claiming that the whole affair was a misapprehension and that he would like to send the alcalde of Colon to Panama to see General Tobal and have him direct the discontinuance of the show of force. A special train was furnished and safe conduct guaranteed. At about 5:30 p. m. Colonel Torres made the proposition of withdrawing his troops to Monkey Hill, if I would withdraw the Nashville's force and leave the town in possession of the police until the return of the alcalde on the morning of the 5th. After an interview with the United States consul and Colonel Shaler as to the probability of good faith in the matter, I decided to accept the proposition and brought my men on board, the disparity in numbers between my force and that of the Colombians nearly 10 to 1, making me desirous of avoiding a conflict so long as the object in view, the protection of American citizens, was not imperilled.

"I am positive that the determined attitude of our men, their coolness and evident intention of standing their ground, had a most salutary and decisive effect on the immediate situation and was the initial step in the ultimate abandonment of Colon by these troops and their return to Cartagena the following day.

"I feel that I cannot sufficiently strongly represent to the department the grossness of this outrage and the insult to our dignity, even apart from the savagery of the threat."

Kaiser Not Over-Rugged

Berlin, Nov. 21.—Emperor William may spend a portion of the winter in a southern climate. The agency which gathers the court news says the kaiser's general health "seems to require his escape during January and February from the unfavorable German winter" and that the projected trip, if taken, has nothing to do with the recent operation.

Chicago Strike Near Settlement

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Only two points prevent a peaceable adjustment of the Chicago City railway strike and the indications are that these obstacles will be finally overcome and that settlement will be reached today. A virtual cessation of hostilities has been declared by both sides while the present peace negotiations are in progress.

Let us Pay

For a 50c. Bottle of Liquozone, to Show You What it is.

If you suffer from a germ trouble, let us buy a bottle of Liquozone and give it to you to try. It is liquid oxygen—the best thing in the world for you. And in germ diseases it does what all medical skill cannot do without it.

We had faith enough in it to pay $100,000 for the simple right to make it. We know its results so well that we will gladly pay for your test. Won't you, if you need it—in simple fairness to yourself—have faith enough to send us this coupon?

Just Oxygen.

Liquozone is simply liquid oxygen—no drugs, no alcohol in it. It is the discovery of Pauli, the great German chemist, who spent 20 years on it. His object was to get such an excess of oxygen in staple form into the blood that no germ could live in any membrane or tissue.

Oxygen is life to an animal—the very source of vitality. We would die in three minutes without it. In this liquid form its effects are exhilarating, purifying, vitalizing. But germs are vegetables, and this excess of oxygen is deadly to vegetable matter.

We Offer $1,000

on every bottle of Liquozone for a germ that it cannot kill. And there is no other way to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any germ-killing drug is a poison to you, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine never destroys inside germs.

We spend 14 days in making each bottle of Liquozone, yet we offer you the first bottle free. And we supply it to physicians and hospitals everywhere at almost cost. In this fair way we are trying to introduce this product to everyone who needs it. If you will be as fair with yourself, we will gladly show you how any germ disease can be cured.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

A Pigeon Pie For Thanksgiving.

Pluck and dress six pigeons, split them in halves down the breast and back. Put some small disks of salt pork in a large saucepan over the fire. When fried crisp remove the pork and put in a large onion, cut in thin slices, and let them fry a nice brown in the fat. Then put in the pigeons and let them brown on both sides; add a little butter. After the birds are well browned pour in enough water to cover them to half their depth, season well with salt and pepper and let them simmer gently till quite tender; then add half a pint of cream, and when it bubbles add two tablespoonfuls of flour well dissolved in half a pint of cream. Stir it briskly to keep from lumping. Next take out the pigeons, lay them nicely in a deep baking dish, pour the gravy over them; make a rich pie crust, roll it out, lay it over the birds, moisten the edge of the dish so the crust adheres, cut a few little gashes in the crust, stand the dish in a moderate oven and let the pie bake three-quarters of an hour. Cover the top with buttered paper to keep it from burning too fast.

Thanksgiving Decorations.

If one has access to country fields in November the glowing red berries and vines and branches of gorgeous hues that may then be had offer most artistic material for Thanksgiving decoration. The downy thistle balls picked at the right time are effective mixed with autumn vines and berries.

It should not be forgotten that autumn leaves may be gathered at the moment of their greatest beauty in late October or early November and beautifully preserved by being dipped lightly in a weak gum arabic water. When dry they should be kept in boxes, carefully and lightly packed, as the treatment makes them very brittle. By this method, however, their colors are preserved, and they may be used repeatedly.—Harper's Bazar.

REYES PREDICTS A WAR

Between United States and Entire Colombian People

HIS COUNTRY IS DESPERATE

Says All South America Is Fearful of Further Territorial Aggrandizement by Us—Could Subdue Isthmians, Who Rejected Peace Terms

Colon, Nov. 21.—After much difficulty a press correspondent succeeded in interviewing General Reyes, the distinguished Colombian soldier, who came to the isthmus on a peace mission representing his government. General Reyes said:

"The day I left Bogota (Nov. 11) United States Minister Beaupre and Secretary of Legation Synder were well, though a little anxious. I assured your minister that he was in no danger and I am today able to give the same assurance.

"Admiral Coghlan has informed me officially that the United States would prevent the landing of Colombian troops on any part of the isthmus. I promised Admiral Coghlan that Colombia would not take such action until I reached Washington, whither I am proceeding via Port Limon and New Orleans. I also told Admiral Coghlan that if my efforts at Washington failed to bring about some arrangement concerning the present situation on the isthmus satisfactory to Colombia the United States would have to fight the entire Colombian people and that it would be a second Boer war.

"I am going to Washington for the purpose of doing my utmost to amicably arrange present matters. Colombia is in desperation. I doubt if the Washington government or President Roosevelt realized the seriousness of establishing this precedent. The large German colony in Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, is declared to be inclining to a revolutionary movement for independence which the success of Panama will stimulate.

The government of Colombia is receiving the sympathy of all South America, which is fearful of further American territorial aggrandizement in this direction.

"I may propose when in Washington a plan contemplating the re-entrance of Panama into the Colombian union and the moving of the Colombian capital to Panama city. I am sure that this idea will receive the support of all Colombians. I do not just know what my course of action will be, but I am going to Washington in the interests of civilization."

Asked whether Colombian troops could reach the isthmus by land, General Reyes answered: "Yes, I can get 100,000 men, build roads and, if it were not for the Americans, could subdue the isthmians in a fortnight. I would rather die for the honor and in the defense of the integrity of my country than sit with hands folded and see her lose the isthmus. I will do all I can at Washington to effect a diplomatic arrangement if such be possible. I know the sentiments of my countrymen."

General Reyes sent a cablegram to Bogota advising his government that it was impossible to reach any agreement with the government of Panama and hence that Colombia's relations with that government were severed, and that he, accompanied by the other commissioners, was proceeding to Washington to fulfill his mission.

Questioned as to the rumor that the departments of Cauca and Antioquia were anxious to join the republic of Panama, General Reyes said: "The report of dissatisfaction in these departments is not only untrue, but I am able to say to you that the entire republic is united in its determination to restore the isthmus to the union."

General Reyes, who was a candidate for the presidency of Colombia, issued a decree on Nov. 10, addressed to the members of the electoral college at Bogota, which said: "Having accepted a military mission, empowered with all presidential faculties in almost all departments of the republic, at a moment when my country is preparing for a presidential election, I deem it my duty to relinquish my candidacy. Hence I renounce it irrevocably, offering my services to my country in any other position."

General Reyes seems disturbed by the rapid march of events in the United States and is fearful that congress may ratify the canal treaty with the new republic. He appears despondent over the general outlook for his mission and over the receipt of the news of unrest in Cauca and Antioquia, although he denies the authenticity of the latter.

Good Afternoon

Next Thursday will be a day of home gatherings; the one day in all the year when everyone drops business and returns to the old home and old people if possible. Quincy will have its quota of home gatherings while many will go out of the city for their reunion. Those who are to observe the day and those who do not entertain, can make the day, a day of real Thanksgiving for the less fortunate.

The financial articles in the Daily Ledger of late have been a revelation to many taxpayers, who have been surprised at the situation of the city. They have told the Ledger so, and say a public service has been done in presenting the facts. There is no disposition on the part of the city administration, or any of the city officials to discuss the situation, or to deny the facts. Some say the city owes the large bills, notes, assessments, etc., and they must be made. No one desires to repudiate them, but let it be done legally, openly and without any attempt to blind the voters and the taxpayers.

Tell them why not a cent has this year been collected on the unpaid taxes of 1895, 1896 and 1897, which are carried as an asset. The following summary shows the uncollected taxes by years on Jan. 1 last, and the amount collected to Nov. 1:

	Uncollected Jan. 1, 1903.	Collected Oct. 31, 1903
Tax of 1895,	$4,327.27	—
Tax of 1896,	3,644.33	—
Tax of 1897,	3,261.53	—
Tax of 1898,	3 829.14	$22.55
Tax of 1899,	6,106.78	222.27
Tax of 1900,	8,171.45	2,674.26
Tax of 1901,	74,807.14	62,783 70
Tax of 1902,	177,124 83	86,793.35
Totals 8 years,	$281,272.52	$152,496.13
Balance uncollected,	$128,776.39

The Oct. 31 statement of the City Treasurer showed but $97,972.99 collected on the levy of $414,780.02 for 1903, although interest began Nov. 1. A few days' grace is allowed however, and the City Treasurer told the City Council Nov. 11 that about $165,000 had been received on account of the tax of 1903. This leaves at least $250,000 of the levy upon which taxpayers find it necessary to pay interest. The fact is that a large percentage of the taxpayers find themselves hard pushed with taxes, sewer assessments, sewer connections, plumbing, sidewalk assessments, etc., and for this reason there is need of economy in city affairs.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ It is all very well to talk about the blessings of large families. What of the ability of the parents to discharge the responsibilities they are exhorted to assume? Children must be properly fed, clothed, sheltered and educated. Can this be done on a clerk's salary or the average weekly wage? Does the life of the large family in the slum tenement or respectable but pent-up flat conduce to morality and nobility of sentiment? Where there is neither room for decent living nor food for adequate nourishment, the self-denial involved is more likely to breed friction, bad temper and mutual dislike than charity and sweetness. And aside from this, is not the welfare of the mother of the family rather overlooked by the enthusiastic champions of numbers? Has the married woman no intellectual and moral and artistic interests of her own? Is she so completely to sacrifice her rights as an individual? Is the Napoleonic view of womanhood to prevail? The advocates of large families are at war with evolution and with the highest ideas of the human race. The ascent of the race is accomplished by the reduction of the size of the family.—Chicago Post.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Painter Has Stroke of Apoplexy While on a Staging.

John Johnson of 2 Gotland street, while at work painting at the residence of John Q. A. Field on Independence avenue this morning, fell from the staging, upon which he was at work, with two other men, a few feet to the ground. He was taken up insensible and removed to his home on Gotland street. Dr. McLennan, the family physician, was summoned, but Mr. Johnson expired a few minutes after his arrival home.

Medical Examiner Jones attributes his death to a stroke of apoplexy; that he probably had the shock while on the staging and this caused him to fall.

Mr. Johnson was about 57 years of age, and leaves a widow, four sons and a daughter, the latter being employed as a compositor at the Ledger Office.

Sudden Death.

Miss Gertrude Regina, the 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Morrissey of 116 Granite street, died yesterday of diphtheria, after an illness of two weeks. Miss Morrissey was in her second year at the High school. She was a bright pupil, with promise of a bright future, and was also a general favorite among her classmates who mourn her untimely demise. Owing to the nature of her disease, her many friends were prevented from attending the funeral service, but they testified to their love for her by beautiful flowers, among which was a large bunch of chrysanthemums from the pupils of the High School.

East Norfolk C. E. Union.

A meeting of the East Norfolk C. E. union was held at Winthrop Congregational church, Holbrook, Monday evening; and notwithstanding the inclement weather, four societies were represented.

A very able and interesting paper on "The Possibilities of the Lookout Committee" was read by Miss A. W. Watkins; the prayer meeting committee's work was well portrayed by the chairman of that body in the C. E. society of Holbrook; and there was an informal discussion of the work of the social and missionary committees. It was much enjoyed by the twelve who were present.

Great Sport in City Square.

Robert Johnson turned his goat loose in City Square yesterday afternoon and for a time he made great fun for the children. It also proved to have been a good thing for the whole square, as his goatship which heretofore had been living upon the good things found in Mr. Johnson's market had an opportunity to change his diet and he had a great time devouring what old papers, tin cans, etc., that he could find kicking about the street. He probably regretted tin cans were not plentiful.

J. L. Miller Convalescing.

J. L. Miller and his son Henry P. arrived home on Friday morning from New York, where Mr. Miller has been dangerously sick with pneumonia for the past three weeks, lying one whole day at 98 points against recovery. But for the very best physicians and nurses from Bellevue hospital and Mr. Miller's abstemious habits from alcohol and narcotics all his life, he owes his recovery. He will be confined to his house on Franklin street some days yet, but is fast improving.

High School Foot Ball.

The league games of foot ball yesterday resulted in victories for Wellesley High and Waltham High, the former defeating Quincy High 15 to 0, and the latter defeating Dedham High 16 to 0. The Walthams head the league with the Dedhams second.

Old Times Thanksgiving.

The Thanksgiving feast of a century ago had a charm to it that today seems to be lacking, says the Seattle Times. Here is a description of one of these celebrations:

"In the great red farmhouse on the hill preparations were begun long before the day. The turkey that stalked before the dooryard had been watched with hungry eyes and fattened with urgent care. Pumpkins had been brought from the cornfield to sun themselves on the wood pile. Ah, it was a sure sign of the day's approach, and they might have defended their right to be there without being laughed at by the ancient chronicler's words, 'Let no man make a jest at pumpkins, for with this fruit the Lord was pleased to feed his people to their good content till corn and cattle were increased!' A goodly supply of all garden vegetables was at hand. Apples and pears, the best in the orchard, had been gathered and hidden away in the dark to mellow. Alas for the feast if there was not molasses enough to be had! There could be none without it. Stores of raisins and citron had been laid in, so there was something for the girls to do while the boys looked after the popcorn, which had been seasoning in their wood shed chamber, or picked up walnuts under the old shagbark tree in the pasture. Then there was a deal of work necessary within the house—the wedding china to be brought out, the brasses all to be polished, especially the ancestral andirons, and the spare chambers to be set in order, with extemporized beds in every available corner—all ready for the homecoming. Grandpa and grandma were the reigning sovereigns, and their family was a royal one. The night before Thanksgiving they are all there, and the daughters-in-law have stowed their little ones away in big feather beds, a dozen, more or less, in each, like sardines, and the youngsters have gone to their pillow fight in the attic chambers.

"Around the huge open fireplace, by the light of its burning logs, those boys of the olden times spin their yarns of childhood days and crack their jokes until the laughter changes to tears and they are ready for the evening prayer and the tender good night. And then the Thanksgiving morning! It is clear and cold, perhaps the first snow upon the ground, for Boreas was wont to contribute something unusual before the days of weather reports. All the family are at church—it was expected and the proper thing, for family religion was on dress parade—and the gray haired parson, regardless of the passing time, rises to the occasion in fervent words of gratitude to God for his abundant mercies. Then comes the dinner, skillfully managed by the maiden aunt—God bless her!—an indispensable condensation of virtue on such occasions, a dinner not so elaborate as bountiful, not so elegant as healthful. How the children's eyes dance, even those of the babe in the big board cradle who has no part or lot in it. The turkey, of course, is there, crisp and brown, as only one can be which has been slowly roasted before the fire and basted from the dripping pan beneath. Vegetables of all sorts load the table; delicacies, too, that have been waiting long for that hour, and numerous mysteries of their old fashioned culinary art. Then there are pies of sundry kinds, the chicken pie among them; but best of all—and can we trust our feelings to mention them?—genuine pumpkin pies baked in square tins, having only four corner pieces to each. As the evening shadows fall there is a grand assembly about the fireplace. How merrily the corn sputters in the popper! How familiar the sound of the nuts cracked on the hearthstone! What apples and competitions in paring them without a break in the golden shaving! The cider flows from the great earthenware pitcher—it never became old in those days."

Mother Killed Babe and Self

New York, Nov. 20.—Mrs. Annie Eagan, aged 24, and her 17-months'-old son were found dead from asphyxiation in apartments in Brooklyn, the end of a gas tube still held in the mother's mouth. The husband and father had not been heard from for over two months and Mrs. Eagan left a note saying she had been unable to support herself and child.

The Betchel Murder Case

Allentown, Pa., Nov. 20.—In the case of the murder of Mabel Bechtel the district attorney will bring additional charges of accessories before the fact against the girl's mother, her sister, her two brothers and her affianced lover, Alois Eckstein. He will also prosecute several of these persons for murder, but declines to specify which he will so prosecute.

The last lesson of the T. S. S. field class in Zoology was at Spot Pond, Middlesex Fells, last Saturday. Upon this pond were hundreds of dusky ducks, some scoters, and very many herring gulls. As hunters and gunners are not allowed in the reservation, these birds gather here as in a sanctuary. Two bald-pates were seen feeding with tame ducks.

An auction sale of cake the last evening of the Pond Cemetery Association fair, brought gratifying results; the sum realized being much greater than the original marked price of the cake. The auctioneer, our genial, diplomatic townsman, Charles S. Hannaford, was accountable for the rise in prices.

Mr. William E. Leonard, retiring foreman of the cutting room at the Williams, Kneeland shoe factory, was presented by the cutters, last Saturday, with an exquisite gold charm set with diamonds. Fifteen years ago when Mr. Leonard entered this factory the cutters turned out ten cases a day. At the present time one hundred cases a day show the increase of the firm's business.

Miss Cora Perry and Mr. Horace Dana were married Weduesday evening at the home of the bride's mother on Union street by Rev. Mr. Whitehouse of East Milton.

Miss Bessie Wilson and Mr. Fred Desaulniers both of South Braintree were married by Fr. McDonnell, Wednesday evening. A large party from this place attended the reception held later in Dorchester at the home of the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Edward Poutre.

Mrs. Azel R. French, Prof. and Mrs. O. B. Oakman and Miss Annie Brooks attended the dedication of the new organ in the Old South church, South Weymouth, Sunday afternoon.

Miss Mariam Ruth, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace L. French was taken to the children's hospital, Huntington avenue, Boston, last Wednesday for a long indefinite treatment of the spine.

Mrs. Martha Mayhew Davis has been substituting at the Union school this week for Miss Elizabeth Pray, who is absent on account of sickness.

The attendance at the weekly rehearsal of the Braintree Choral society in Cochato hall last Monday evening was not very well attended on account of a severe storm. A few new members were admitted and the director, Mr. Crafts, made progress with "Creation" and new music. Next rehearsal Monday evening, Nov. 23, at 7.45.

Thanksgiving service will be held in Christian Science hall, at 10 A. M., Thanksgiving day a cordial invitation is extended to the public.

Miss Anna Wildes Childs died at her home in Brooklyn this week. Her remains will be brought to Braintree for interment. Funeral services will be held in the chapel of the First church today.

On Monday evening the Willing Workers and their guests held their second anniversary at the chapel of the First church. The report of the work of the society was read by Robert Bryant and showed that they had sent out twenty May baskets filled with fruit and flowers to the sick and "shut ins," and that a considerable sum of money had been placed in the bank for future use. About twenty-five young people were present. After playing progressive games, light refreshments were served. The society numbers ten boys, who hold weekly business meetings.

Inventories were filed at probate court this week in the estate of Nora T. Sullivan of Braintree for $2,675.

At the next annual town meeting the citizens will be called upon to furnish better accommodations for the school children. The time has now come for erection of a new brick school building and not spend a fortune to remodel old buildings. Then the question of location will arise, but that should be settled without much debate. A grammar school building centrally located in South Braintree would relieve the congestion for a few years and when needed let us have a brick grammar building at Braintree.

Frederic Fowle of Arlington has been appointed administrator of the Sarah L. Proctor estate on Front street, and Miss Lizzie Gillespie administratrix of the estate of the late Mrs. Isabel Gillespie.

The Jonas Perkins School Association met last evening with Mr. and Mrs. Doane. Mr. Doane read a paper on "Practical education in the public schools." Refreshments were served. It was voted to hold meetings in the future the first and third Wednesday evening of each month. The next meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Miller.

The Union Thanksgiving Service will be held in the South Congregational church on Thursday morning at half past ten o'clock. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. F. R. Griffin of All Souls' church and the other ministers of the town will participate in the exercises.

A special Thanksgiving offering to cover the expense of painting the church will be taken next Sunday morning, Nov. 22d, at the Union Church.

Mrs. Fred M. Crocker and son have been visiting Mrs. Crocker's mother the past two weeks.

Antietam L. A. S. will have inspection Monday evening, Mrs. Stella Richards being the inspecting officer. Antietam Camp 32, Gen. Sylvanus Thayer Post 87, and the L. A. S. from Brockton, Whitman, Quincy and East Weymouth have been invited. Cake, fruit and chocolate will be served.

Tuesday evening Cochato hall was filled with a representative gathering to listen to a lecture by the Rev. Thomas Van Ness, who took for his subject "Spain." Mr. Van Ness, who is a most interesting speaker, held the attention of his audience throughout the evening, as he dealt in forceful language with this historic country, its people and its customs; portraying very vividly the horrors of the inquisition and the modern bull fight. Mr. Van Ness spoke of the gratitude felt by the people toward us when during the late conflict in Cuba, such kindness and charity was manifested toward them by our soldiers.

The Magazine.

Three great questions of the day—the Corruption in the Trust, Labor and Political Worlds—are being handled in a masterly way in McClures Magazine. The first by Miss Tarbell in her fearless "History of the Standard Oil Company"; the second, by Ray Stannard Baker; and the third, by Lincoln Steffens, in his series of flaming pictures of cities.

In Everybodys Magazine for November, Alfred Hodder, who collaborated with Josiah Flynt in his series of studies of "Graft in American Cities," describes in "Reform that Reforms" what has been accomplished for decency in New York by an honest administration. There is also an authoritative summing-up of the career of John Alexander Dowie by a man with the analytic capacity for the task—I. K. Friedman, the distinguished Chicago novelist.

An issue of extraordinary beauty and interest will be the Christmas (December) Metropolitan Magazine. It will be profusely illustrated in color. Stephen Bonsal, the well-known traveler and correspondent, contributes the leading article, which is superbly illustrated in tint. In this article Mr. Bonsal describes with a vivid and sympathetic pen the return to Jerusalem of an aged Hebrew who goes to the Holy Land to die. Incidentally the conditions of today as they exist in the land of the bible are graphicaly told. There will be twelve short stories in the Christmas number of the Metropolitan Magazine—all of them splendidly illustrated—and all from the pen of the cleverest fictionists of this country and England.

The December Delineator (Christmas Number) represents the high-water mark of beauty and utility, and possibly of circulation also, in a woman's magazine, having a first edition of more than a million copies. It contains 240 pages. In addition to exquisite color work, clever fiction and strikingly illustrated articles, the number includes a display of charming Winter fashions covering forty-two pages, letters from the foreign fashion centres and illustrated articles on the fashionable fabrics and trimmings, millinery, etc. Among the notable contributors are: Richard Le Gallienne, with a delicate romance, A Wedding Ring in the Garden, containing lyrics in the author's best vein; W. A. Frazer, with an Indian tale, the Net of Leo; Albert Bigelow Paine, with a delightful sketch founded on the foibles of the collector; Harriet Prescott Spofford, with a love story of unusual interest.

N. E. O. P. Visitation.

Quincy Lodge, N. E. O. P. held a very enthusiastic meeting Friday evening, there being a large attendance of members. A candidate was initiated, the work being performed in a highly satisfactory manner by a degree team from Mayflower lodge of Brockton.

Members of the Grand Lodge were in attendance and visitors were present from East Weymouth lodge, Mayflower lodge, Safety lodge of Weymouth, Enterprise lodge of Boston, Ocean lodge of Beachmont, Bunker Hill lodge of Somerville, Neponset lodge of Norwood and Volunteer lodge of South Boston.

Following the initiation and business meeting of the lodge, remarks were made for the good of the order by Grand Secretary Eben S. Hinckley, District Deputy Bertha E. Gibbs and others. Refreshments were then in order, followed by a general good time. Bowling was a feature of the entertainment and created considerable merriment.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE

The elaborate character and spectacular features of the last Castle Square Theatre production, "The Other Side of the World," has led the management of this play-house to depart from the usual custom and continue this attraction for a second week. The novelty of this entertainment makes it a source of amusement to children of all ages. Its scenic and mechanical effects, the large and artistically grouped tableaux, the pleasing introductory and incidental music, the wealth and beauty of costumes, the pretty story and all other details of the production serving to appeal to the eye and ear with irresistable effect. The usual distribution of souvenir boxes of choice chocolate bonbons will continue at the Monday matinees until further notice.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

The week of Nov. 23 will bring to Keith's a troupe of holiday entertainers, with something for the juveniles in the Butro-Lowando bijou circus, which includes a beautiful pony, a trained dog, a funny clown and a female trapeze performer. Among the prominent entertainers will be Poettinger's Swedish ladies, quartette, an organization of vocalists and dancers just arrived from Europe, and the Fred Gillett trio of acrobats, another recent importation, neither act having been seen in Boston before. Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Barry, in a comedy sketch; Joe Flynn, the noted parody singer; Gus Williams, the favorite German dialect comedian and Eldora and Norine, skilful jugglers. As usual, all the motion pictures in the biograph will be changed, and Cole and Johnson, the greatest colored entertainers in the country will be retained.

PARK THEATRE.

"The younger Mrs. Parling" has made a decided hit and it is to be regretted that Miss Annie Russell's many admirers will have but one week more in which to see her in a part, which is in every way entirely different from any she has shown us. Miss Russell has always been more or less identified with what is termed the "Esmeralda" sort of part, being a paragon of gentleness and resignation. She has long wanted to get away from this style of character and Mr. Frohman finally gave his consent for her to be seen in something which gives her more extended opportunities. In the new piece she is given a part of the strong forceful order, and her work has come as a great surprise to her friends. The play teems with realism and belongs to the new era of drama that have permanently arrived and which are after the style of those undertaken at the Theatre Antoine in Paris, where nothing but the intensely realistic is admitted. On Monday, November 23d, the last week of Miss Russell's Boston engagement begins. "The Younger Mrs. Parling" will be continued and in addition to the regular Saturday matinee, a special matinee will be given on Thanksgiving Day.

GLOBE THEATRE.

This is the sixth and last week of Mr. Charles Richman and his company in Victor Napes's beautiful, patriotic, love drama, at the Globe Theatre. Beginning Monday, Mr. William Collier, starring under the management of Weber and Fields in "A Fool and His Money" will be the attraction. In the roll of Percy Merrill, Mr. Collier is given exceptional opportunities for the display of his abilities as a light comedian. Percy Merrill in a son of a millionare and as such, has never earned a dollar. He has been surrounded by friends who cared for him only because of his large income His father unexpectedly visits his appartments, surprising Percy and a large party in a game of roulette and reproaches his son for his idle ways, telling him that his supposed friends care for him only because of his profligacy. Percy indignant, and yet being brought to a realization of the truth of this, declares that for a year he will support himself, without in any way asking his father's aid. In the end he succeeds in selling to his father the patent of an invention which makes him independently rich, and of course all ends happily. The girl who has trusted and believed in him becoming his wife. The supporting company is of the best; the play is splendidly mounted and is marked by the same lavishness and prodigality so conspicuous in all the Weber-Fieldian productions. Performances every evening at 8, and Wednesday and Saturday afternoons at 2.15

TREMONT THEATRE.

"The Darling of the Gods," the Japanese play by David Belasco and John Luther Long, which has been the triumphant success of the past two New York seasons, has come to the Tremont Theatre, direct from Belasco Theatre with original company, headed by Miss Blanche Bates, staged under Mr. Belasco's personal direction. No play produced in years has aroused to such an extent the enthusiasm of New York theatregoers as "The Darling of the Gods," which is at once romantic, artistic, spectacular and thoroughly in the Japanese atmosphere from start to finish. The stage settings and costumes are reproduced from Japanese models; the furniture, ornaments and other properties were imported from Japan especially for this production, and the "atmosphere" of the piece is practically perfect. As the star of this play Mr. Belasco presents Miss Blanche Bates, whose career on the stage has been one continuous success. After her hit in "Madame Butterfly" it was to be expected that she would increase her popularity as the title character of "The Darling of the Gods," but no one looked forward to the great popularity she has reached in the part. She is supported by a company numbering more than 100 people, the best known players in the cast being George Arliss, Robert T. Haines, Eleanor Moretti and Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Walcott.

Holiday Foot Ball.

The annual foot ball game between the South Quincys and the Copelands of West Quincy will be played on the Ward Four playground on Hall place Thanksgiving morning at 10 o'clock. As there is great rivalry between these teams, and both are practising at every opportunity, a great match may be expected.

WOOD'S DOINGS IN CUBA

Witnesses Summoned to Tell What They Know Thereof

SPECIFIC WRITTEN CHARGES

Filed With Senate Investigating Committee by Rathbone, Who Declares That Wood Received Money For Gambling Concession

Washington, Nov. 21.—Summons issued by the senate military affairs committee were served last night on Ernest L. Conant, of the New York law firm of Page & Conant, citing him to appear before the committee in connection with the investigation of charges against Brigadier General Leonard Wood, made in an effort to prevent his confirmation as major general.

Mr. Conant has been in Washington several days prosecuting Cuban cases before the Spanish claims commission. It is undrstood th subpoena was issued at the request of Major Rathbone, who learned late yesterday of Mr Conant's presence in the city. Mr. Conant will be expected to give testimony as to the character of the Jai Alai, the alleged gambling establishment which General Wood is charged with having given a 10-year concession to operate in Havana.

Mr. Conant went to Cuba as an attache of the evacuation commission, and while there he acted as the legal adviser of General Ludlow, in command of the department of Havana. Later he served General Wood in the same capacity and it is declared he is competent to give some inside history relating to the manner in which the concession to the Jai Alai was obtained.

Another witness summoned last night by the military affairs committee is Herbert J. Brown, a newspaper man who was in Cuba during American occupation, who is said to have made an inquiry into the character of the Jai Alai company.

Major James E. Runcie, now practicing law in Havana, has sent a cablegram to a member of the committee stating that he will sail from Havana today and will be in Washington Tuesday. He will be examined by the committee in reference to his statement that General Wood inspired an article in The North American Review reflecting on the administration of Major General Brooke, his predecessor as governor general.

The senate committee on military affairs, which is investigating the charges against General Wood in opposition to his confirmation as major general, gave nearly the entire time yesterday to Major Rathbone, who reiterated the charges made several times before to the secretary of war, the senate committee on relations with Cuba, and in public statements following his trial in connection with Cuban postal frauds.

Major Rathbone filed specific written charges with the committee. He alleged that General Wood, while military governor of Cuba, had accepted money from the Jai Alai, and asserted that he had made a personal friend and boon companion of an ex-convict. He also charged him with giving instructions of an entirely unconstitutional and un-American character to the courts. With reference to the charge that Wood had exceeded his authority in giving instructions to the courts, Rathbone said that the general had pursued this course in the Cuban postal cases when he (Rathbone) was under prosecution.

This was, he said, in violation of article 387 of the penal code of Cuba and in a manner prejudicial to the rights and interests of those under trial. He also charged Wood with authorizing the use of ex-parte depositions in the postal cases, a proceeding which he asserted is contrary to law and the principles of law, and in this case contrary to instructions given by the secretary of war. Rathbone charged that in accepting gifts from the organization commonly known as Jai Alai, to which Rathbone said Wood had granted a 10-years' exclusive concession, Wood violated the Foraker law, which prohibited the granting of franchises or concessions during the occupation of the island by the American authorities. He also charged that the acceptance of these gifts constitutes a violation of article 397 of the penal code of Cuba.

Other charges were made against Wood as follows: With complicity with another army officer in the preparation and publication of an article reflecting discreditably upon an officer who ranked both of them, in violation of an accepted canon of military service, and constituting an offense commonly known as "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

With directing and causing the auditor of Cuba, by a military order, to violate the law in the treatment of accounts.

With utilizing the services of an ex-convict, with whom he was in intimate personal association, in an effort to displace his superior officer, and by such means to secure to himself the vacancy thus created.

Incidental to these were many minor charges. Rathbone also offered to produce evidence and testimony in support of these allegations. He submitted a number of documents to the committee and gave the names of several witnesses whom he asked the committee to summon. Rathbone was questioned by several members of the committee.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Usual November Demand For Merchandise Is Somewhat Checked

New York, Nov. 21.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Labor organizations are wisely accepting reductions in wages without controversy, which removes one threatening industrial factor. In several branches of business orders are more numerous, but in the steel industry there is little expectation of liberal buying until 1904. Construction work is decreasing, despite optimistic reports of more building permits issued last month than a year ago.

Mild weather still checks distribution of merchandise usually in brisk demand at this season, which is reflected in restricted activity at woolen and worsted mills and clothing factories. Failures are numerous and mercantile collections only fairly prompt, but the monetary pressure is being relieved by moderate imports of gold.

Orders for cotton goods increase gradually and there is less disposition on the part of purchasers to secure concessions in quotations. Woolen goods await the stimulus of lower temperature. Meanwhile the tone is not firm, a large auction sale of overcoatings bringing low prices.

Eastern shoe shops have about completed inventories and are starting on next season's business, except where supplementary fall orders claim attention. Jobbers have large supplies of seasonable goods as a rule, but wholesalers are more inclined to keep near actual requirements.

Miller and Johns Acquitted

Cincinnati, Nov. 21.—D. V. Miller and Joseph M. Johns were last night acquitted of the charge of conspiracy to extort a bribe from John J. Ryan, made by the postoffice department. The verdict of "not guilty" was received by the crowd with demonstrations that could not be suppressed by the court officers. The defendants finally broke away from the crowd of friends to shake hands with the jurors, and wept like children as they did so. Federal officials acknowledge disappointment in the outcome.

Newspaper's Right to Criticise

Milwaukee, Nov. 21.—Judge Halsey of the superior court has decided that a newspaper has the right to criticise the work of an artist so long as it does not personally attack the artist himself. The decision was in a case in which a sculptor sued a newspaper for heavy damages because of an article published in reference to a model prepared in the competition for the making of a monument.

Dietrich Starts For Omaha

Washington, Nov. 21.—Senator Dietrich started for Omaha this morning to surrender to the authorities in that city because of his indictment on a charge of conspiracy in connection with postoffice patronage. Senator Dietrich reiterated the assertion that he would demand an immediate hearing.

FRENCH MARINES LANDED

Revolutionists Bombard San Domingo, but Do No Injury

Washington, Nov. 21.—The state department last night received a cablegram, dated Nov. 18, from Minister Powell at San Domingo City, saying that there was fighting there and that a French war vessel had landed marines to protect foreigners.

The insurgents are bombarding the town and their attack is being vigorously resisted by the forts. No injury has so far been done. Fighting continues in the south, but the results so far as known are favorable to the government.

Minister Powell furnishes the first official explanation of the beginning of the existing rebellion in the island. It is stated that General Morales, governor of Puerto Plata, became disgruntled because he was refused a cabinet position by President Wos y Gil and, putting himself in communication with Jiminez, started the revoluton, turning the government of the town over to the Jiminez interests.

Minister Powell also says that the Dominican officers entered the French legation in San Domingo and forcibly removed two refugees.

Monarchs at a Banquet

London, Nov. 21.—The visit of the Italian sovereigns to England practically terminated last night with a banquet to the monarchs and their suites at Windsor castle. In spite of the fact that 66 persons were present the banquet was a quiet and almost a family affair. There were no speeches. The visit has been marked throughout by the cordiality of the English people toward the Italian sovereigns. Whenever they appeared in public King Victor Emmanuel spoke in English. Queen Helena has been the object of general admiration.

Executed by Rifle Squad

Salt Lake, Nov. 21.—Peter Mortensen, the murderer of James R. Hay, was shot to death in the state penitentiary yard. Maintaining his innocence to the last, he calmly walked to the chair placed against the stone wall of the prison and bade the guards and deputy sheriffs goodbye with no tremor in his voice. Mortensen was killed instantly, four bullets from the rifles of the executing squad piercing the white target pinned over his heart.

Robbers Terrorized Village

The Thanksgiving Pumpkin.

It is the lady pumpkin that is invariably chosen for the honor of the Thanksgiving menu.

For the benefit of those who are unversed in the mysteries it must be said that the lady in the case betrays her sex by a marked delicacy.

The outer skin is absolutely smooth.

No little knots or blisters, such as belong to the male pumpkin, disturb its surface.

The flesh within will be found of unusually fine grain, and the "stringiness" so much disapproved of by the pie maker will be entirely lacking.—St. Louis Republic.

Wild Turkey Hunting

BIG, beautiful, brave and wise, the wild turkey is ideal game for the United States. He is big enough to satisfy some of the material craving of even the big game hunter. He eludes the still hunter as subtly as the shiest deer. He gives the cross country rider, coursing him with hound and horse, a run that often is equal to fox hunting. The wing shot finds him equal to the occasion. He is the finest game bird in the world. Not even the royal auerhahn, sole living representative of the ancient big game world of Europe when the huge aurochs crashed through the forests, can compare with him.

Hunting the wild bird with hound and horse is sport for the very select few, for not only is it necessary to find the birds first, but they must be found in open country where they cannot escape too readily by flying into cover. Therefore, coursing is limited to open country where the turkey, not having been hunted too fervently, is incautious enough to feed in farm lands and open, flat country. The dogs are sent in to cut off the retreat to the woods, and then the mounted men break out of their hiding places and pound down on them.

The wild turkey flies and runs alternately. He lopes like an ostrich, though not so fast, and whenever he thus takes to running the dogs and horses gain on him. When they get unpleasantly close, up booms the big bird and flies like a feathered projectile straight ahead until he has reached a safe distance, when he pitches again and resumes running.

It is clean sport and exciting enough to hurry any man's blood. But the true hunting of the wild turkey, with shotgun or rifle, that tests a man's strength and cunning and woodcraft and patience to the full is still hunting.

It may be enjoyed still in some parts of Pennsylvania, but the best territory for it is in the southern states. Virginia offers it in the country on both sides of the Blue Ridge, although it is not necessary to go so far to reach haunts of the fine game. Culpeper county, where President Roosevelt hunted, is only a short distance from the national capital and well east of the mountains.

HE LOPES LIKE AN OSTRICH.

When a wild turkey is tracked on snow he will lead the shooter a chase of miles. The turkey can hear as keenly as he can see. A cracking twig underfoot will startle him more quickly even than it will a deer. Often the man will not be able to get a shot, although he may follow a flock all day long. Often he will get his shot only after he has actually walked the birds down—tired them out by close, patient, grim pursuit. The man who can do that is an athlete.

West Virginia contains thousands of acres of hunting country that is in many respects as wild as it was before the white men landed in America. Western North Carolina has turkeys, particularly between the Blue Ridge and the Great Smoky mountains, and thence on across into Tennessee the turkey hunter can still find surprisingly large tracts of hunting country where not only turkeys, but deer and bear, hide in the thickets.—Boston Transcript.

Thanksgiving Ceremony.

It's a very formal matter,
Eatin' turkey out our way,
'Cause gran'paw allus rises
With a word or two to say
After gran'maw asks the blessin',
Jest before he starts to carve.
It's a joke. We think it's funny.
If we didn't we might starve.

It's something about Turkey
Gettin' all mixed up with Greece,
An' how the combination
Means disturbance of the peace.
Every year we're all attention;
Not another word is spoke,
An' we nearly die a-laughin'
When our gran'paw tells his joke.

ARRESTS TO BE MADE

Man Wanted In Alleged Custom House Frauds Turns Up

Boston, Nov. 21.—The Post says that the investigation of the alleged frauds at the custom house has taken a strange turn. A man whom the authorities had been looking for for weeks held a lengthy discussion with United States District Attorney Casey, and although his arrest was expected at any moment, the man was allowed to leave the Federal building. What the action will be in the case which is charged against the man of being connected with the smuggling at the custom house is not known.

It is a well known fact that the man was wanted, but some unforeseen change was made in the plans, and no arrests were made. The investigation is still on and arrests will be made.

A sensation occurred when Lawyer Searles withdrew as counsel for Messrs. Gumbert Bros. and Berman of the Glasgow Manufacturing company. He refused to comment on his withdrawal, but the fact caused a lot of talk in federal circles.

Charged With Concealing Assets

Boston, Nov. 21.—Charged with contempt of court in concealing a large sum of money from the trustees of his estate, William W. McNaught, a bankrupt, was sentenced to Suffolk county jail by Judge Lowell. McNaught is a junk dealer. Last April he was petitioned into bankruptcy after his creditors had refused his proposition for a compromise on a basis of 25 cents on the dollar. It is alleged that McNaught has received the sum of $10,859, which he has concealed from the trustees of his estate.

Source of Disease Unknown

Williamstown, Mass., Nov. 21.—The water and milk supply of Williams college, which is also that of the town, is freed of suspicion as a source of typhoid contagion by the report of the experts engaged to determine the origin of the sickness among the students. There are now eight known cases of typhoid among the students being treated at the infirmary, and four other cases that are being closely watched for symptoms. There is still grave concern for the four most serious cases, but the crisis has not appeared.

Gompers Incurred Socialists' Ire

Boston, Nov. 21.—Samuel Gompers will be opposed for the presidency of the American Federation of Labor when that organization elects officers. The Socialist element has decided to nominate Ernest Kreft of the Philadelphia Typographical union as a candidate for the presidency of the federation. The speech of President Gompers in opposition to Socialism has aroused considerable feeling among the Socialist delegates and a determined effort will be made to elect Kreft president.

Shortage In Cashier's Accounts

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 21.—Arthur McNeeley, aged 24, until recently cashier at the freight office of the Rutland Railroad company, is charged with the embezzlement of $1100 from the company. His arrest was made at the instance of a surety company which furnished bond for him. He claims that others are responsible for the apparent shortage.

"Lottery Case" Probably Closed

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 21.—William F. Wells, who printed the tickets for the lottery swindle syndicate of Dayton, O., New York and Lynn, was fined $200 for promoting a lottery by Judge Berry. Wells paid and the case is over unless Chief of Police Burckes makes some attempt to follow up the clews he found when Wells' office was raided.

Trading Stamps Recognized

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 21.—The state law which prohibits the issuance of trading stamps to be redeemed with premiums at places other than where issued has been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. The court held that the statute interferes with the rights of trade.

Long Idle Plant to Resume

Holyoke, Mass., Nov. 21.—The plant of the Glasgow company at South Hadley Falls, which has been idle for 12 years, will be reopened at once. Fancy cotton goods will be manufactured and employment given to about 350 hands.

Death List of Twenty

Bloomington, Ills., Nov. 21.—The number of deaths in the Big Four collision near Menert is now put at 20, including two which occurred after the injured had been removed from the wreck. Fourteen men were injured and are now in hospitals.

Strikers Show Bad Temper

St. Quentin, France, Nov. 21.—A serious riot followed the abortive conference between a big firm of weavers and their employes on strike. Strikers attempted to sack the factory when they found that no agreement had been reached. Troops were obliged to charge the rioters and one sergeant was badly wounded. The windows of the factory were wrecked.

Life Devoted to Others' Welfare

Pittsburg, Nov. 21.—Miss Mary E. Moorehead died at her home in this city, aged 67. Miss Moorehead's life from early womanhood was devoted to charity and work for others. She organized the work that developed into the fruit and flower mission and during the Civil war was active in ministering to the sick and wounded. Her charities were many.

Price of Crude Oil Advanced

Pittsburg, Nov. 21.—The selling price of cude oil has been advanced 5 cents a barrel by the Standard and independent pipe lines. The price quoted today is $1.82 as against $1.77 two days ago. The advance is the largest that has been made for some time.

FEASTING AND FASTING.

Prosperous Americans Draw the Line at Keeping Fast Day.

The changing attitude of the American is shown in his increasing willingness to have Thanksgiving come around every few weeks and his reluctance to have a fast day. Up in New England even, where fast day was as regular as feed day, it became in the last few years an occasion for military reviews and firemen's parades and picnics and doings like that rather than for prayer and mortification of the flesh and the devil. It's a long time since the church bells have rung the people together to sustain one another through a day of short rations. Why, do you know, there are Americans who can eat at Delmonico's every day in the year except Sunday and have turkey at every meal! Compare our condition, then, with that of the Frenchman who breakfasts on water and wine and bread, has a turnip for lunch and bouillabaise or some such mess for dinner, or with the Scotchman existing on oatmeal, whisky, onions and pipes, or with the poor Englishman, who finds nothing on his table but Montana beef, Canada mutton, Massachusetts plum pudding, California oranges, Connecticut tobacco and Michigan celery, or the sad German, who must sit down to Philadelphia sauerkraut, Hoboken frankfurters, Brooklyn beer and bretzels made of Minnesota flour.

And so, comparing our lot with a lot of other people's lots, we take pride to ourselves and satisfaction and eat our annual bird with a light heart and a gravid stomach and are at peace with all the world, for we are feeding a good deal of that world as well as ourselves and therefore ought to have its friendship and its money, if there is any money left outside of the United States.—Brooklyn Eagle.

THE TURK'S SOLILOQUY.

What the Luckless Bird Thinks of the Annual Killing Carnival.

This Thanksgiving business! It makes me wish I had never been hatched. I wonder who started it, anyway? And how in common sense did turkeys get into it? In my mind Thanksgiving means giving thanks for something, and what thanks are there in eating turkey? I suppose the people who started it must have declared that henceforth once a year everybody shall assemble and eat turkey until they can eat no more. That's what they do, for I saw our folks last year. How happy our race would be if we didn't have to be thinking of the time when we should be killed and stripped of our feathers. Ugh! What a ghastly sight a roast turkey is!

This business must be stopped. I declare it must. I have an idea too. I'll tell my children to instruct all turkeys from henceforth to lay away all the corn they can in the summer and as soon as the frost comes to go under the ground and stay until the ground hog comes out. 'Twill be hard living, I know, but any kind of living is better than dying. If I were as spry as I used to be, they'd not catch me today. Don't I remember how I fooled them last year. I just waited until they thought they had me, and then, whiff, I was in a tree! They did chase me from tree to shed, to barn, to the woods, and there I stayed for three days. I've a notion to go to the woods now, although my limbs are stiff, and I know I'll catch cold, but—gobble, gobble, gobble! Here is Marthy.—Gertrude Jefferson in Howard Spectator.

THE WHITE HOUSE TURKEY

It Is Sent Every Thanksgiving From a Rhode Island Turkey Farm.

Two days before Thanksgiving, for the last thirty years, a neat wooden box has been placed on board the train at the Westerly (R. I.) station bearing the printed direction, "To the President, Washington, D. C." In the upper left hand corner is more printed information to the effect that the box is sent by "Horace Vose, Dealer In Horses, Hogs and Poultry."

In November, 1873, when the first box was sent on its way from the Westerly station, Ulysses S. Grant was in the White House, and that box contained the turkey which graced the presidential table at the Thanksgiving feast. A big fellow it was, too, dressing thirty-six pounds, a fact of which the sender was justly proud.

President Grant acknowledged the receipt of the big bird in a courteous note of thanks, and ever since then each succeeding year has seen a similar box containing a turkey as like in quality and size as possible sent on its way to the nation's capital, and a few days later every year a similar note of thanks is received by Mr. Vose, signed either by the president himself or by his private secretary.—Boston Herald.

In Porto Rico Thanksgiving day, or "Dia de Gracias," as it is there termed, is honored by the closing of government offices and appropriately observed. The stores are open on half time only, the plantation works are idle and the people of town and country seize the occasion for an interchange of visits. As an excuse for idleness merely the Porto Rican laborer hails the "Dia de Gracias" with joy and promises himself indulgence in a "danza" or perchance a surreptitious cockfight. The bulk of the population has been convinced that Thanksgiving is a day to be celebrated with almost as much gusto as the "Cuatro de Julio," or glorious Fourth, and even without the mental reservation many were accustomed to make at the commemoration of our republic's natal day, no official affirmation being needed as to its right to "follow the flag."—New York Post.

MILLER'S "UNFITNESS"

Urged by Labor Men as Cause Why He Should Be Removed

Boston, Nov. 20.—The American Federation of Labor disposed summarily of the "open shop" issue, as raised in the case of William A. Miller, now employed in the government printing office at Washington, and the Miller case itself by unanimously declaring in favor of the union shop in government as well as private enterprises, and by petitioning President Roosevelt to re-examine the evidence offered against Miller and, if verified, remove Miller from the service.

Although the resolution adopted presented the federation's view on both "open shop" and the Miller case, the issues are kept entirely distinct. The re-examination of the Miller case is not requested because Miller is a non-unionist, a circumstance formerly urged as a reason for his removal, but because the federation believes Miller "is totally unfit to be in charge of working people."

Resolutions were adopted favoring the construction of the Panama canal by persons citizens of the United States, urging that the Chinese exclusion act be made to apply in the Philippine and Hawaiian islands and favoring women's suffrage and the election of the president and United States senators by direct vote.

Recovered From Wound In Brain

Providence, Nov. 20.—Christopher Bassett, who was accidentally shot in the head on Oct. 14 by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Neil Donahue, during her marriage celebration on the day following the ceremony, has completely recovered from the effects of his wound and was discharged from the hospital today. The bullet imbedded itself in the brain, and was removed. Hospital surgeons say there is no precedent for such treatment and consider Bassett's recovery remarkable.

ub Mayoralty Nominations

Boston, Nov. 20.—At the primary municipal elections held in this city the Democrats nominated as a candidate for mayor at the regular election next month Patrick A. Collins, the present incumbent, the Republicans, George N Swallow, and the Socialists, Dr. George W. Galvin. There were two Democratic candidates in the field, three Republicans and one Socialist, but it was only the Democrats that apparently took any interest.

Was a Cigaret Fiend

New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 20.—Chester T. Mackay, 17 years old, who attempted to shoot his mother, has been taken to the Taunton insane asylum. The boy was brought here from Cambridge, where he was arrested. Mackay could give no reason for having attempted his mother's life, but said he had been contemplating it for some time. He confessed that he smoked as many as 15 boxes of cigarets a day.

Arbitrators' Mission Failed

Southbridge, Mass., Nov. 20.—At the request of the selectmen two members of the state board of arbitration came here and attempted to effect a settlement of the trouble between the labor union and the five concerns which have locked out union men. A conference with the manufacturers was followed by a similar meeting with the members of the union, but nothing definite was accomplished.

Wanted For Alleged Embezzlement

Boston, Nov. 20.—Governor Bates has received requisition papers from the governor of Maine requesting the extradition of William H. Cole of Wakefield, who is wanted in Saco to answer to a charge of embezzlement. By request of Cole's attorneys a hearing will be given by Attorney General Parker on the question of granting the requisition.

White's Victim Is Dead

Boston, Nov. 20.—James N. Gavel, who was shot last Monday night by John W. White, died yesterday at the city hospital. The police have applied for a warrant charging White with murder. He is now under bonds of $10,000 for the shooting. Annie Lewis, who was shot at the same time and place, is reported as being in a comfortable condition.

Chapman Held For Assault

Rutland, Vt., Nov. 20.—Leon Chapman of Ira, aged 24, was arraigned here before Justice Bailey, charged with assault upon Mrs. Alice Richardson. He was held in $2000 bonds for trial. Mrs Richardson is employed as a domestic by Chapman's parents. Mrs. Richardson, it is alleged, was knocked down with a club and criminally assaulted.

United Workmen Rates Accepted

Augusta, Me., Nov. 20.—At a special session of the grand lodge of Maine, Ancient Order of United Workmen, it was voted to accept the new assessment rates as fixed by the supreme lodge. The vote was 103 in favor and 30 opposed. A previous vote on the question was declared void for some reason not made known.

Arrested on His Return

Portland, Me., Nov. 20.—George H. Allen was arrested last night for alleged embezzlement. Allen was in the employ of a local grocery firm three years ago and was at that time indicted on the charge of embezzling several hundred dollars. He disappeared from the city, but returned a few days ago.

"Nuisance" Has Become Profitable

Augusta, Me., Nov. 20.—Big shipments of Christmas trees are being made from points all along the coast to southern and western markets. The total revenue to the people of the state from these trees this year is expected to exceed $175,000. A few years ago the fir tree was looked upon as a nuisance.

CUBAN BILL PASSED

But Few Votes Recorded Against the Reciprocity Measure

Washington, Nov. 20.—The house, by a rising vote of 335 to 21, passed the bill to make effective the Cuban reciprocity treaty. The dissenting votes were about equally divided between Republicans and Democrats, but there was no record vote, the minority having too few votes to order the yeas and nays.

The Democrats, under the leadership of Mr. Williams, sought to the last to secure amendments to the bill in accordance with the action of the Democratic caucus, but were defeated steadily. Mr. Williams made the final effort when he tried to have the bill recommitted to the ways and means committee with instructions to amend, but a point of order, under the special rule providing for a vote on the bill without intervening motion, was sustained.

Mr. Cannon received the applause of the Democratic side when he entertained the appeal from his ruling made by Mr Williams, the speaker saying he preferred to err, if he erred at all, in giving the public the right to express its will. The appeal was tabled by a strict party vote.

The debate begun Monday was continued up to within a few minutes of the hour of 4 o'clock, the time appointed to take a vote on the final passage of the bill. The announcement of the passage of the bill caused only a slight demonstration.

Mr. McClellan, mayor-elect of New York city, occupied the speaker's chair for a while as chairman of the committee of the whole house.

Action Pleases Cuba

Havana, Nov. 20.—Great satisfaction is expressed here at the news that the United States house of representatives had, by a big majority, passed the bill for reciprocity with Cuba. Recent reports of the progress of the bill practically removed the more or less settled apprehension that congress would not carry out what the people of Cuba understand to have been the virtual promise of the McKinley administration Yesterday's vote, it is believed, gives assurance that the action of the senate will also be prompt and conclusive.

for $1,00,000 paying an annual premium of over $ 0,000. This makes him the most heavily insured man in the world, with the single exception of King Edward VII.

Mr Wanamaker's total insurance is now $2,000,000

Ask yourself WHY Mr. Wanamaker placed one-half this great amount with The Prudential.

Your business judgment will at once reply: "because after full investigation and comparison Mr. Wanamaker found that the company which could give him the best insurance for a given amount of money was The Prudential."

Undoubtedly you will agree that Mr. Wanamaker does not pay over $30,000 per year except for most excellent reasons.

These reasons apply to YOU precisely as well as they do to HIM.

CHILD SUFFOCATED

At a Fire at Wollaston This Morning.

Was Left Alone in the House.

Was Probably Playing With Matches in Kitchen.

The alarm from Box 54 at 10.56 this morning was for a fire in the house of John Delaney on Clay street. There was no one at home at the time, and the fire was burning briskly before it was discovered by a neighbor who gave the alarm.

When the department arrived a thick volume of smoke was pouring from the windows. The fire, however, appeared to be in the rear of the house near the kitchen stove, and it had worked its way out through the back of the building.

While at work on the fire some one stated that Mrs. Delaney was in the habit of leaving her child in the house while she went out to work and it was thought possible that she might have done so today.

Although a blinding smoke filled every room of the house Chief Williams went through the building, but could find no trace of the child and it was concluded that no one was in the building at the time.

The flames were quickly extinguished with a chemical hose, but little water being used.

After fire had been extinguished the firemen went to work to clear up the house. While doing this they opened the door of a kitchen closet located under the stairway and there they found the missing child. The little three year old girl was dead, having been suffocated by smoke. The body however had not been touched by fire.

Investigation showed that the fire had probably been started in two places by the little girl, who had evidently been playing with matches obtained from the mantle shelf.

Medical Examiner Jones viewed the remains and turned them over to an undertaker.

Mr. Delaney was at work on the sewer at Quincy Point, and Mrs. Delaney at a house on Farrington street, Wollaston. Both were notified and Mrs. Delany, almost crazed by grief, soon arrived home.

The building, which is owned by W. H. Faxon of Buffalo, N. Y, was damaged to the extent of $200, and there was quite a damage to the contents as some of the furniture was burned and the balance was damaged by smoke. The loss to the contents may amount to $100.

Sudden Death.

Dr. Charles A. Buxton, who has made his residence at Atlantic for about two months, died suddenly on Saturday at his home on Walker street, of heart failure.

Dr. Buxton was born in Salem 49 years ago. He studied dentistry and early began practice in Salem. He had at one time a large practice, but of late years had had much trouble with his head. He invented several devices for the use of dentists. Dr. Buxton served a short time on the Salem school board. A widow and son and daughter survive him. Lately Dr. Buxton had practised dentistry in Boston.

Trial Trip.

The cruiser Des Moines left the Fore River works, where she was built, this noon for Provincetown, where she will have a builders trial beginning tomorrow. She went out fully provisioned and her crew will live aboard during the trial trips.

James Flannigan of Field street is one of the Democratic nominees for Councilmen from Ward One.

BUSINESS TONIGHT.

Before Adjourned Meeting of the City Council.

Another meeting of the City Council will be held tonight, making the fourth this month. Public hearings will be given on the relocation of the easterly end of Sea street; on the petition of the Electric Light Co. for a location of poles on Quincy avenue, and of the Telephone Co. for a location of poles on Kemper, Palmer, Bicknell, Goffe and Washington streets.

The order for $180 for clerk hire for the Assessors will come up for engrossment. It is probable that reports will be made by the Finance committee upon some of the matters before them.

Galen Bowditch's Birthday.

Today is the 66th anniversary for Mr. Galen V. Bowditch, one of the well known citizens of this city. He was born on the corner of Kenilworth and Dudley street, Roxbury; near the birthplace of General Warren, who fell in the battle of Bunker Hill, June 1775. Galen was born Nov. 23, 1837, and attended the Washington school in that city until his parents moved to Quincy.

He was for many years engaged in express business with his father. The stable that housed the horses and teams stood in the yard adjoining the Daily Ledger building. He was a member for many years of the old Hancock Light Guards; also a member of Hancock Glee club; and is at present a member of the Boston Light Infantry. He was in his younger day an active member of the Quincy Fire Department; and is at the present time the oldest member of the messenger service of Newspaper Row, Boston.

Daniel S. Baxter Dead.

Mr. Daniel S. Baxter, a well known resident of Quincy, died at his home on Washington street Sunday morning, after an illness of some weeks duration, aged 68 years. His death was due to an apopletic shock. Mr. Baxter was a carpenter and at one time did quite a business as a builder. He leaves a son and daughter.

FOR NO-LICENSE.

A Rally for School Children on the Program.

There can he no stronger appeal than that of women and children for protection from the curse of liquor sales. Today the city is well placarded with posters upon which a young boy's picture is prominent. The printing above and below reads: "Please protect us by voting No-License."

Last year Quincy gave a majority of 1,258 against license, the vote being: No, 2,604; Yes, 1,346; blanks or silent, 313. There were 695 registered voters who did not visit the polls. Compared with the year 1901 there were 92 more No votes, and 120 more Yes votes.

The committee has arranged for a grand school childrens rally for Saturday afternoon of this week at Quincy Music hall when a No-license talk will suberbly illustrated by stereopticon.

Saturday night there will be a No-License stereopticon address at the Water street church and on Sunday there will be an afternoon meeting of Swedish citizens at the St. Paul's church, and evening meetings at Quincy Music hall, Quincy Point, Norfolk Downs and Atlantic.

Should Get On The List.

Roy Haynes of the Wollaston school, a candidate in the Boston Globe contest wishes to thank all who are helping him with their votes, and hopes they will continue to do so, as he will keep in this contest until the close. Although not on the daily list he has sent in over 1600 votes. Every vote helps, and if those who are not helping some other Quincy boy, will send their votes to him at the Wollaston post office they will be thankfully received.

THE NEW STORE.

Consolidated in Adams Building Presents Attractive Appearance.

The Consolidated Grocery and Provision Co. threw open the doors of its store, in the Adams building, for the first time this morning. It was the first of the month when the F. D. Fellows Co. vacated the store, and W. R. Lofgren the carpenter commenced work on the alterations. It has been a rush job, and the thorough manner in which he has done his work shows that it is not necessary to go out of town for a builder. Quite a transformation scene has taken place in the interior of the store and it presents a very inviting appearance.

The stock of goods carried in the stores of Messrs. Johnson, Brooks and Hayward have been transferred to the new store and arranged in a very attractive manner.

The two show windows in front are what first attracts attention. In one of these there is displayed a variety of Thanksgiving fruits, and in the other fancy groceries.

Entering the store and looking to the right one sees a row of shelves loaded down with canned goods of all kinds and fancy groceries. On the counters are the pastry and preserved fruit cases Adjoining this is a large office plate glass front.

On the left are a row of shelves upon which are bottled goods, which include pickles, olives and preserves of all kinds, teas and coffee. On the counter is a case of confectionery.

Next to this is the dairy department, and on the shelves near by are shown cereals of all kinds.

The back part of the store is devoted to the provision department. On the right are shown strips of bacon, lamb, etc., and on the left are the large refrigerators. The largest of the two is for meats and the smaller for vegetables.

On one end of the refrigerator, facing the front of the store, arranged on an incline, are boxes of vegetables; over them is a large mirror in which they are reflected.

Near the refrigerator are the meat cutting blocks.

Messrs. Johnson, Brooks and Hayward were on hand early this morning and considering the large amount of work necessary on account of moving, there was but little confusion although it will be a few days before things are running smoothly.

Good Afternoon

City Square presents a busy scene on a Saturday night. It is particularly impressive along by the stores in the Dr. Welch block. These stores are thronged with buyers and the sidewalks are lined with people passing to and fro. It would certainly be a revelation to a Quincy citizen who has been away from home for several years. All this only proves that Quincy is not only growing, but growing rapidly.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Never a day passes, hardly an hour in which the cry for help of somebody worthy of help—and all who need it are worthy of it in some way—is not near us, if we would but open our eyes to see, our ears to hear and our hearts to think. Therefore every day and hour brings us a new responsibility. None of us may know how much of the blood of our brothers and sisters may be crying out against us from the ground, how many appeals for help arrogantly or wantonly unheeded by us, have preceded death and ruin which we might have averted or postponed. As we hope to be listened to when we cry aloud or make our mute, pathetic appeals, as we may live to hold in our hearts the longing that somebody will understand what we cannot or dare not tell and will stretch out the hand to help, whether it be for the relief of unspoken necessity or hidden distress, with influence, sympathy or consolation, so should we teach ourselves to look and listen for opportunity to help. It is impossible for us to make better investments of time, patience or money. —Richmond News Leader.

Saturday Night Drunks.

There is a dirty crowd of drunken men about late Saturday nights, and it is anything but pleasant for ladies who happen to be about. This is particularly so after the arrival of the late trains and the late cars from Neponset. The only way to treat such a gang and make them behave themselves is by brute force. If a drunk boards a car he should be put off, or if permitted to ride he should be compelled to keep his mouth shut and behave himself.

SENATE IS UNCERTAIN

As to Speedy Disposal of Cuban Reciprocity Measure

MANY SPEECHES PREPARED

But Some Wish to Hold Off Until After Beginning of Regular Session —Morgan Will Have Something to Say on Canal Matters

Washington, Nov. 23.—The senate begins the week in a state of uncertainty as to whether a final adjournment of the extra session will be secured during the week or the regular daily sessions continued. A majority of the senators are anxious to bring the session to a close and to this end an agreement has practically been entered into for a vote on Dec. 16 on the Cuban reciprocity bill. The acquiescence of the house of representatives in the program, however, has not been secured, and until the two houses reach an agreement no definite announcement can be made. Leading senators are rather confident that an adjournment will be brought about and say it will be impossible to hold a quorum of either body after Thanksgiving.

The present understanding is that a proposition to fix a day for adjournment will be made by the senate by tomorrow, whereupon it will be formally conveyed to the house. This will form a basis for negotiations, as thus far there has been no conference between members of the two houses on the adjournment question.

The understanding in the senate is that the day for taking a vote on the Cuban bill will be fixed without regard to the adjournment of the extra session. The bill will then be reported by Senator Cullom, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, and he will ask that a day be fixed for the vote, whereupon Dec. 16 will be named if the present plan is carried out. When the Republican senators secure this agreement they will be comparatively indifferent as to whether the senate remains in session or not. They think the extra session should come to a close, as many senators desire to visit their homes before the regular session, but if an adjournment is not had there will be a general agreement among senators which will render it necessary for a majority to remain in Washington.

If any number of senators desire to meet for the purpose of making and listening to speeches on the Cuban bill they will be allowed that privilege, with the understanding that no other business shall be taken up. If there are no speeches to be made the senate will take frequent adjournments for three days at a time, as permitted by the constitution, without reference to what the house may do. There are a number of senators who desire to discuss the Cuban bill, but it is probable most of them will postpone their speeches until after the beginning of the regular session on Dec. 7.

After being reported today the Cuban bill will lie on the table for a day unless there is unanimous consent that its consideration shall begin immediately. When it is taken up Senator Cullom will explain its merits, and there probably will be no more addresses by friends of the bill until toward the close of the discussion. In the meantime the Colorado, Louisiana, Texas and Florida senators and probably some others will make speeches intended to show that the enactment of the bill into law will be injurious to the sugar interests of the United States and contrary to the best public policy.

In addition to receiving the report on the Cuban bill the senate probably will make a reassignment of senators to committees today. The committees announcement is likely to be made the occasion for a speech by Senator Morgan which is anticipated with considerable interest. In the committee make up the Alabama senator will be displaced as chairman of the committee on isthmian canals. He has been chairman of that committee since its organization and has been identified with canal legislation ever since he entered the senate. It is understood that he will review to some extent his connection with this important work and that in doing so he will sharply criticise those who fail to agree with him in advocacy of the Nicaragua route.

The house will meet tomorrow. Having disposed of the Cuban bill it has no business before it and unless an agreement is effected by which the called session is to be brought to an early close an adjournment probably will be taken until Friday and then an adjournment until Monday or Tuesday. It is suggested that it is extremely doubtful if there will be a quorum tomorrow and that if the point of no quorum should be raised it would be impossible to act on a concurrent resolution providing for an adjournment, even should one be brought over from the senate.

Some of the house leaders have expressed themselves in opposition to an adjournment before the Cuban bill shall have been disposed of, but what might be the result of a conference between the leaders of the senate and house on this proposition remains to be seen. It is possible that the speaker may be ready to announce the committee assignments by the end of the week. If this is done the house will be fully organized and prepared at the opening of the regular session next month to proceed to business.

CITY LOANS.

A Taxpayer Who Wants the Searchlight Turned On.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

If the figures given in the Ledger for water pipe bought last year about nine thousand dollars, are correct, and the Commissioner's estimate that $2,400 can be saved by purchasing our 1904 stock now, thus reducing the amount to less than $7,000, why borrow $10,000? Also if the $50,000 loan will increase our tax rate two per cent. shall we not need the same amount next year added to our tax levy to cover current expense and thus increase our tax rate for 1904 to nearer $22 than $20 on the thousand?

The pipe loan having been referred to the Committee on Finance it will be of interest to see if they will swallow it hook and line and push it through the Council.

If it is a fact that our city is short fifty or sixty thousand dollars for current expenses has not our City government been juggling figures to make it appear that we have a low tax rate when in fact we are near high water mark, both in valuation and tax rate. Turn on the searchlight, Mr. Ledger, and if there are breakers ahead, as seems evident, let's see them before we strike.

Taxpayer.

Victims of Thin Ice

Winchendon, Mass., Nov. 23.—Walter Lafrinner and Phillip Gouthirer, each 8 years of age, were drowned in White's pond. The pond was frozen over, but the ice was not thick enough to bear the weight of the boys.

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 23.—Ariangelo Colapietro, 8 years old, lost his life while attempting to cross the Beaver brook on the ice. He fell through into the water and the swift current carried him beneath the thin coating of ice.

Kick Against Shorter Hours

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 23.—Because a notice has been posted that conductors and motormen shall be paid only for the actual time employed, there is a possibility of a strike by the employes of the Berwick, Eliot and York street electric railroad unless the company accedes to a request to be submitted by the men. Wages that ranged from $1.50 to $1.75 a day will now average only about $1.20.

Gompers Retains Presidency

Boston, Nov. 23.—Samuel Gompers of Washington was re-elected president of the American Federation of Labor over Ernest Kreft, the Socialist delegate, by a majority greater than that by which a few days ago was defeated the resolutions to pledge the federation to Socialism. Gompers' vote was 12,524 and Kreft's 1134. The previous year's six vice presidents all were re-elected.

Captured Without a Battle

Greenville, Me., Nov. 23.—Constables Bartley and Woods, assisted by citizens, arrested Robert Utterson and Ralph Reynolds, charged with breaking into the general office of A. A. Crafts in this village and securing merchandise to the value of $500. Most of the goods were recovered. Although armed with revolvers and a Winchester rifle the two men offered no resistance.

Lynn Minister Stricken

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 23.—After preaching a sermon of unusual vigor and eloquence, Rev. James M. Pullman, D. D., pastor of the First Universalist church of this city, did suddenly of apoplexy at his home. He was a brother of the late George M. Pullman, the millionaire parlor car builder. He was 67 years old and was a native of Portland, N. Y.

Thief Got $5000 Worth

Brookline, Mass., Nov. 23.—Tracked from New York by thieves to her home in Brookline, Mrs. Edward W. Clark was robbed of diamonds and gems valued at $5000. Without making the slightest noise a thief opened the front door, made his way up stairs to the chamber of Mrs. Clark, ransacked the bureau and dresser and departed with his booty.

Quarrel May End Fatally

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 23.—While intoxicated, John P. Cook, it is alleged, went to his home, and after quarreling with his wife threw her down a flight of stairs. Cook then left the house, but was arrested later on a charge of drunkenness. A physician ordered Mrs. Cook's removal to a hospital, where she is in a critical condition.

A Six-Year-Old Shooter

New Haven, Nov. 23.—While left in charge of his father's candy store Carl Maresco, aged 6, obtained possession of a revolver and shot Tony Cauco, aged 2, in the head, inflicting a wound which it is thought will prove fatal. The details of the shooting are not known, as all of the children who were present tell conflicting stories.

Lockout Likely to Soon End

Southbridge, Mass., Nov. 23.—The lockout by five Southbridge manufacturers of members of labor unions is likely to be settled within a week. It is understood that most of the 400 men idle will return to work. Neither the manufacturers nor labor leaders are prepared to make a statement.

Burglars Even Took a Stove

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 23.—Working with skeleton keys, burglars ransacked a half-dozen trading houses in the centre of the city and stole clothing, jewelry and even ornaments. In one place a cook stove was taken by the burglars, evidently in a spirit of bravado.

TALKING OF PEACE

Dominican Warriors Will Have a Rest For at Least Forty-Eight Hours

San Domingo, Nov. 23.—Peace negotiations between the rebels and the government of President Wos y Gil have been opened. There will be a suspension of hostilities for 48 hours under an amicable arrangement. It is expected that the rebels will demand that President Wos y Gil announce a general election.

Washington, Nov. 23.—A cablegram from Minister Powell reports that the president of San Domingo has offered to retire from office and has agreed that the country should be governed by four members of the cabinet, this arrangement to be effective pending a permanent settlement of affairs. There are no other details in the minister's message.

Was In Many Great Battles

Waltham, Mass., Nov. 23.—James H. Wilkinson, said to be the only survivor in the United States of the charge of the light brigade at Balaklava, died at his home in this city, aged 84, from a paralytic shock. He was the possessor of a Victorian medal, presented to him personally by Queen Victoria at the close of the Crimean war in 1854, for bravery in the battles of Sebastopol, Inkermann, Balaklava and Alma, and particularly for valor in the charge at Balaklava. For nearly 25 years he was employed in the Boston postoffice and for many years was chief porter. He was born in Manchester, Eng., in 1819.

Thirty Men Burned to Death

Johnstown, Pa., Nov. 23.—Two of the Italian laborers who were burned in the lodging shanty fire at Lilly Saturday died here yesterday. This brings the total death list up to 30. Ten other victims of the disaster at the hospital here are in a serious condition. Four of them are probably fatally burned. The fire was caused by an overheated stove in a shanty occupied by the Italians. The bones and pieces of charred flesh, all that remained of 28 men, have been gathered up and placed in 12 caskets.

Mining Town In Mourning

Connellsville, Pa., Nov. 23.—There is mourning in the little mining settlement of Ferguson. The warehouses which were burned contained the supplies for the soldiers for the winter and nothing was saved.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury,

MURDER WAS PLANNED

Opinion of Colorado Mine Officials and Sheriff

EXPLOSION IN DEEP SHAFT

Declared to Have Been the Result of Dynamite Plot Conceived by Miners' Union—Federal Troops May Be Required to Preserve Order

Cripple Creek, Col., Nov. 23.—Sheriff Robertson, after investigating conditions in the sixth level of the Vindicator mine, where Superintendent McCormack and Melvin Beck, a shift boss, were killed Saturday by an explosion, agreed with the statement of company officials that a deliberate attempt had been made to wreck the shaft with dynamite. The executive committee of the Mine Owners and Operators' association has offered a reward of $5000 for evidence leading to the arrest and conviction of the perpetrators. In a published statement the committee says:

"The killing of Superintendent McCormack and Melvin Beck was one of the most diabolical crimes that ever darkened the annals of Colorado and is another step in the trail of blood which has been made by the Western Federation of Miners in this state. The time has passed for selecting fine terms in which to speak of these matters and we do not hesitate to say that this crime was devised and executed by the inner circle of this organization.

"This statement is made only after a careful investigation of the facts, which show conclusively that these men met their death through a scheme so cunningly devised and carefully executed as to tax the ingenuity of the most experienced criminal.

"Of late the district has been filling up with the class of men who openly boast of what they propose to do. Not a single circumstance surrounding this crime is compatible with the theory of accident, or with any other theory than that of premeditated murder."

The district executive committee of the Western Federation of Miners characterize the explosion as a "lamentable accident, regretted by all," and adds: "But prejudiced individuals who rarely know anything of what they talk about have already passed judgment and denounce it as a cold-blooded murder. Experience, however, teaches that the people are not above making capital out of any misfortune."

In consequence of these outrages, Governor Peabody has reinstated Adjutant General Bell in command of the militia in this camp, succeeding Colonel Verdecksburg, who has been in command since Bell's retirement at the close of the court martial trial of General Chase.

Denver, Nov. 23.—General Bates arrived here last evening to investigate the strike conditions in Colorado. Upon his report depends whether or not the war department will comply with Governor Peabody's request to send federal troops to Telluride. He left for Telluride last night. After a visit to General Baldwin, commander of this department, General Bates said that his being here is no reflection on General Baldwin. "I am entirely ignorant of the situation and will look into matters thoroughly," he continued. "By the way Governor Peabody's request was worded caused the war department to reply that troops could not be furnished, but if conditions are such that there is real need of federal troops I have no doubt they will be sent."

Beyond Control of Sheriff

Salt Lake City, Nov. 23.—Sheriff Wilcox of Carbon county has asked Governor Wells to call out the state troops to protect the coal mine districts of his county in which the strikers are in force as a result of the recent order issued by the United Mine Workers. In his telegram to the governor Sheriff Wilcox says that the local police authorities and deputy sheriffs are powerless to cope with the lawlessness and protect life and property and maintain law and order. Brigadier General Cannon, commanding the state National Guard, has left to investigate conditions in the disturbed district.

BOTTLED SUNSHINE

Scott's Emulsion brings sunshine to the entire system of the consumptive.

All life is sunshine. The sun pouring its rays into the plant combines earth, water and air into new plant tissue. Sunshine stored up in the plant is its life.

The animal changes plant tissue into animal tissue, changes the stored up sunshine of plant life into animal life.

Fat contains more stored up sunshine than any other form of animal tissue. This is why Scott's Emulsion of pure cod liver oil is literally bottled sunshine, full of rich nourishment and new life for the consumptive.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

Balloonists Perhaps Drowned

Oporto, Nov. 23.—A chemist named Belchior, with two companions, made a balloon ascension from here yesterday. Their balloon, after reaching a considerable height, was carried to sea, and it is feared that its occupants were drowned.

TROOPS FIGHTING MOROS

More Than Three Hundred Killed, With No American Fatalities

Manila, Nov. 23.—Three hundred Moros are known to have been killed and many others were carried off dead or wounded as a result of five days' fighting in Jolo between the American troops under General Wood and the insurgents. Major Scott of the Fourteenth cavalry and five American privates were wounded.

Chicago Strike Not Yet Settled

Chicago, Nov. 23.—The strike on the Chicago City railway is still unsettled. Peace negotiations are confined to the consideration by the board of directors of the road of a proposition submitted by the strikers, providing for the arbitration of the grievances of the unions on the system that struck in sympathy with the trainmen. A basis of settlement of all the other differences in the controversy, it is said, has been agreed upon and a settlement is expected by tonight.

Sleepers Narrowly Escaped

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 23.—Several persons had to be rescued by firemen during a fire here, but the only person injured was Chief Coffin of the fire department, who was struck by a falling cornice. The fire was in a building occupied on the ground floor by a restaurant keeper. In the upper floors were the apartments of nine persons, all of whom were asleep when the fire broke out, and had close calls from being suffocated. The loss by the fire is $28,000.

Alaskan Steamer Lost

Seattle, Nov. 23.—A special to the Post Intelligence from Juneau says passengers of the steamer Excelsior confirm the loss of the steamer Discovery. The Discovery sailed from Nome the latter part of October and has been sighted once since. Severe storms have prevailed over the route she would have traveled to this port. She carried probably 50 or 60 passengers.

Oil Trust Inflicts Hardship

Vienna, Nov. 23.—Much indignation is expressed here over the steadily increasing price of oil. Since the formation of the Austro-Hungarian petroleum trust prices have been advanced 50 percent with the prospect that they will go still higher as soon as the present stocks become exhausted. The advance inflicts the greatest hardship on the poorer classes.

Young Man Burned to Death

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 23.—Napoleon C. Guertin, 21, was burned to death by a fire caused by an explosion of a gasolene stove in a small clubhouse on the shore of Lake Quinsigamond. The body of Guertin was found in an upstairs room, where there was no fire. Death was caused by burns, the medical examiner says.

CITY COUNCIL.

Authorize Loan of $50,000 After Debate.

Also Advance the Pipe Order.

Loan for Atlantic School Lot Is Favored.

Debates on several orders lengthened Monday night's session of the City Council until 10.20. Councilmen Adams and Meyer were absent.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from J. B. Hubert thanking the council for granting him a license for an entertainment, but informing them that he should not need it.

A VETO.

The Mayor returned without his approval the order for $200 for a retaining wall back of the Wollaston school. His reason was that he did not believe such items should be charged to unexpended balance as they were unknown quantities.

Councilman Nickerson saw no reason for that position. There were balances and the amount was so small it was hardly necessary to pass a loan order.

Councilman Bass saw no immediate hurry and felt the Mayor should have opportunity to explain his position. He moved to lay it on the table. Voted.

PETITIONS.

Several petitions for minor licenses were received and referred.

The New England Telephone Co. petitioned for location of poles on Coddington, Canal and Federal streets and Whalley road. To Committee on Streets.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the Electric Light Co. a location for one pole on Clark street. Rules suspended and order passed.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing Dec. 7, on the petition of the Telephone Co. to attach wires to poles on Highland avenue.

The Committee on Finance reported an order refunding tax of $68.42 to Dennis Coffey. Passed.

The Committee on Finance reported an order refunding $8.51 tax to Arthur O. and Joseph S. Roberts. Passed.

The Committee on Finance reported an order transferring $500 to repairs of Public Buildings. Passed under suspension of the rules, Councilman Hardwick voting No.

The engrossed order for $180 for clerk hire for the Assessors was passed.

The Committee on Finance reported no legislation necessary on the communication from H. B Blackwell relative to a school lot. Accepted.

The joint committee on Public Buildings and Finance reported leave to withdraw on petition for the purchase of the Blackwell lot. Accepted.

PIPE LOAN ORDER.

The Committee on Finance reported a substitute order for $10,000 for the purchase of water pipe, changing the date from Dec. 1, 1903, to Jan. 1, 1904, and adding construction and receipts.

Councilman Reardon asked how much would be saved by purchase of pipe now.

Commissioner Knowlton—From $4 to $5 per ton can be saved if purchased the first of the year. If not purchased until late in the year there are so many other parties purchasing that we can not get prompt delivery. Last year we purchased about 400 tons. In 1902 we expended about $9,500 for pipe and in 1903 between $8,000 and $9,000.

Councilman Reardon did not see how a saving was to be made unless the amount was reduced to $7,000 or $8,000.

Commissioner Knowlton, in reply to questions as to receipts from services, said, we lay the service pipe from the street to the cellar wall and this is paid for out of our appropriation for construction, then the owner of the building is charged the exact cost from the street line; this is paid back to the city and placed to the credit of extension and is used over and over again.

Councilman Hardwick opposed the order as the amount was not definite.

Councilman Nickerson favored the order. Every year we appropriate $30-

BOLD HOLD-UP.

Storekeeper Ordered to Hold up His Hands

And Money Drawer is Robbed.

One of the Fellows is Captured and Placed Under Arrest.

One of the boldest robberies ever committed in Quincy took place Monday night at the store of Patrick Dolan on Hancock street near the Neponset bridge.

It was about 7.45 when two negroes entered his store. One approached the counter and purchased five cents' worth of candy. The second man passed out a $5 bill which he told Mr. Dolan to take the pay for the candy from. He turned to do so and was confronted by one of the fellows, who later proved to be John Lewis, who made a demand for what money he had.

At this the second fellow drew a revolver and pointing it at Mr. Dolan's head, ordered him to hold up his hands. At this Lewis grabbed the money drawer and ran out of the door where he took the money which amounted to $12, and dropping the empty drawer ran.

The second man had also run out by this time, and Mr. Dolan gave chase, in which he was joined by a crowd that had collected. One of the two was captured on Walnut street by Henry Martel, a grocery clerk. As Martell grabbed the fellow he was seen to throw something away which proved to be the $12 he had stolen. The negro was taken back to the store and turned over to Officer Olsen. He gave his name as John Lewis and said he was 23 years of age and lived on Melrose street, Boston. He denied all knowledge of the second fellow.

In court Lewis was positively identified as one of the parties. In his own behalf he said that he was walking from Norfolk Downs and when near the store he met two colored fellows coming out of the store. He thought they had been fighting with a white man and he joined in the chase after them. He said he had a family and two children. He would not think of robbing a store like this when there was not $15 in the place including the boards on the floor.

Lewis was arraigned for robbery and was held in $3000 for the superior court.

TODAY'S COURT.

Charles Daly was arraigned for drunkenness at Weymouth. Case continued until Wednesday.

Savino Pizzi was arraigned for violation of the liquor law at Weymouth. He was fined $50.

John Lewis was arraigned for robbery at Quincy and was held in $3000 for the Superior court.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest D. Gourd held an at home at their residence at 68 Goffe street Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Gourd were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Forsyth, parents of the bride. The ushers were Frank W. Crane, H. Everett Crane, Ernest Fitts and Delcevare King. An orchestra furnished music during the reception.

AN APPEAL.

CITIZENS OF QUINCY:—

We appeal to you for funds to carry on our No-License campaign.

We have sent out several hundred letters, but we have received less than half the money that we spent last year, and that was only a little over one cent for each of our inhabitants.

"AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION IS WORTH A POUND OF CURE"—so though without a bit of work Quincy would go "No-License" for a year or two, we are firmly convinced that it means much less expenditure of money and of work to "prevent" the falling off of our "NO" majority than to "cure it" after it has fallen off.

We do then appeal earnestly to you for immediate financial support.

Good Afternoon

The sad case of a little child suffocated in Monday morning's fire at Wollaston goes to show the need of day nurseries in all the wards of the city. If the child could have been left at a nursery while her mother was away at work what a different story there would have been today—no fire and no grief-stricken parents. The nursery on Elm street, Quincy, in care of Mrs. Talbot is doing good work and will do much more as hard working mothers become used to its working.

The City Council probably did the only thing possible at its meeting this week, in passing two loan orders aggregating $50,000 to raise money to defray current expenses of 1903. It was represented that the city must have the money immediately; that State and County taxes would be due next week and also maturing notes which if not paid would go to protest. Therefore loans of $50,000 at five per cent. interest were authorized all to fall due in 1904.

On Jan. 1 of this year the municipal debt maturing in 1904 amounted to $59,450.00, which has been increased this year. Now comes the addition of $50,000.00, which will make the maturing municipal debt of 1904 at least $120,000.00. To this must be added maturing water debt of $35,500; maturing sewer debt of $15,000; maturing park debt of $2,000; and a big account for interest.

Some good financiering will be necessary to keep down the tax rate of 1904.

Ex-Senator Sprague and others have been criticised in some quarters because they have been active in securing a Republican Independent endorsement for George H. Wilson for Mayor. It would be better for the city of Quincy if more threw off the party yoke in city politics, or better still if no party nominations were made either for Mayor or the Council. Citizens nominations would be by far preferable, and better men would be secured.

The facts are that both the Republican and the Democratic parties of Quincy are demoralized when it comes to a Municipal election. The campaign of Mayor Bryant last year was not conducted by the Republican Ward and City Committee, but largely by City Hall officials and employes. They even approached the Republican Committee, duly elected by the voters to conduct the campaign, and requested that the campaign be turned over to them, and said they would see that the bills were paid. Some of the bills were not paid until ten months after the election, and the excuse of the Republican Committee was that the party was so demoralized that they could not collect any money. Who has demoralized the political parties but Mayor Bryant! To which party does he appeal for support! What claim has his administration for votes of Republicans!

Mayor Bryant was not the regular Republican candidate when first elected Mayor, and he would not have been nominated by the Republicans last year if Democrats had been excluded from the caucuses. Further Mr. Bryant opposed Charles L. Hammond, Russell A. Sears and John O. Hall, the regular Republican candidates of past years for Mayor. Yet a Republican is criticised if he bolts the nomination of Mr. Bryant. If a Republican or a Democrat believes that a change is necessary at City Hall, it is his duty not only to vote for a change, but to be active in securing a change.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Pie does not advertise, and a food that does not advertise cannot expect to maintain its tyranny over the digestive apparatus of a nation of readers. Pie is no longer the champion of the food list. But what seems especially remarkable about it is the lack of individuality about the pie of commerce. The lunchroom keeper recognizes only two kinds of pie—good pie and spoiled pie. Consumers must be equally indiscriminating. In the age when pie was king it was not so. Then there were pies and pies.—Harper's Weekly.

SENATORS ATTACKED

As Being Unfriendly to Legislation In Favor of Working Men

Boston, Nov. 24.—After sessions which continued through 13 days, the 23rd annual convention of the American Federation of Labor was adjourned sine die at 9:30 o'clock last night. In bidding goodbye to his fellow-delegates President Gompers said: "This convention unquestionably has been one of the most memorable and most significant in the history of the whole labor movement."

What was regarded as one of the most memorable incidents by which the convention had been marked developed just before its close. It was furnished by Delegate Furuseth of San Francisco, organizer of the Seamen of the United States, who, in defending the legislative committee of the federation, arraigned the United States senate, which, he declared, contained "the most insidious enemies of labor." He charged that there was a party in the senate that is deliberately taking every right away from the working people. "We want to watch with the greatest care," he said, "Platt of Connecticut, Lodge of Massachusetts, Hanna of Ohio and Morgan of Alabama and a few more I could name."

President Gompers' last words to the delegates were a plea that they go forth determined to uphold the cause of unionism, cemented by bonds of unity, united more firmly than ever before. The convention adjourned with the delegates joining in "Auld Lang Syne."

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

The Nov. 26 noon temperature of Quincy for seven years has ranged between 36 in 1898 to 65 in 1897. Last year it was 43.

The Bible class of Annis Lincoln had a very enjoyable time at his residence on Grand View avenue Saturday evening. Refreshments were served.

The concert at the Bethany chapel this evening will be given by the Apollo quartette. Although this organization is a great favorite with Quincy people, it may not be generally known that the quartette is even better this year than before. The tenor parts are taken by Messrs. Holden and Paine, both well known. Mr. F. E. Kendall will give several readings in his best style. People who heard him last year will welcome this new opportunity for a hearty laugh. The concert begins at eight o'clock.

Karo

The Great Spread — for Daily Bread.

CORN SYRUP

is far superior to any other syrup for making taffy or candy of any kind. Try the following recipe. It is convincing.

Pour a small tin of Karo Corn Syrup into a kettle holding four times the amount of syrup used and boil over a slow fire for half hour, stirring all the time to prevent boiling over and burning. When a little dropped in cold water becomes hard, snappy, add ¼ of teaspoonful of carbonate of soda, stir quickly and thoroughly, then pour on greased platters. When cool enough to handle without burning the hands, pull. A little butter rubbed on the hands will keep it from sticking. The more it is pulled the whiter it becomes. Flavor to suit.

Karo Corn Syrup is good for all home uses from griddle cakes to candy. Sold in airtight, friction-top tins, 10c, 25c, 50c. All grocers.

WRECK OF THE COPPEE

Due to Loss of Bearings While Sailing In Heavy Fog

LAUNCHING OF LIFEBOAT

Attended With Great Difficulty, Nine Men Pulling Away With It—Story That They Fought and Left Companions to Their Fate

San Francisco, Nov. 24.—A raft containing the first mate and three sailors of the wrecked bark Francois Coppee came ashore in Tomales bay late yesterday afternoon and the men, after securing succor at a neighboring ranch, were driven to a railway station and reached this city last night. The survivors are all Frenchmen and the story told disproves the earlier suspicions of a mutiny on board, their statement being borne out by corroborative circumstances.

According to their narrative the Coppee had been sailing in a fog for three days on a dead reckoning and Captain Irneye believed that he was on the San Francisco side of the Farallone islands when, as the disaster proved, he was near the coast line.

The four men have a very vague idea as to the place where the ship struck on the rocks in Tomales bay. They say that the night was very dark and stormy and huge waves were dashing violently against the ship after she struck. It was deemed advisable to launch two small boats first. These were lost in the angry seas, but fortunately they had no occupants. Then the big lifeboat was provisioned and successfully launched and held fast with a rope, but when nine men had been lowered into it the rope broke.

The lifeboat was then in danger of being dashed to pieces and there was no way of getting back to the ship and for self-preservation the nine men were compelled to pull away. They were later picked up by the Scotia. The four men who came to San Francisco then constructed a raft and took the chance of being washed ashore. What became of the captain and eight sailors yet unaccounted for the first mate could not say.

A small boat containing two pairs of oars, a life preserver and a hat drifted ashore in Tomales bay yesterday afternoon. The boat was from the Coppee. This is believed to be one of the small boats that was lost in the launching.

Edward O'Neil, one of the survivors, later furnished a statement of the wreck that puts a different phase on the conduct of the nine men in the lifeboat. He said the men were fighting and clamoring among themselves and refusing to listen to the commands of the captain to stand by the ship and pulled away. Fifteen men were then left on the ship and when daybreak came she was fast going to pieces. It was then found that land was 100 yards away and the captain gave orders to swim shore. Only four reached the land. The captain and 10 others were not seen again. One body was seen as it was being dashed against the rocks.

Poor Lo Must Work

Washington, Nov. 24.—The annual report of Commissioner of Indian Affairs Jones advocates the education of the Indian in the rudiments of the English language and that he be taught that he must work or starve. The commissioner thinks that the Indian should be protected only to the extent that he may gain confidence in himself, leaving nature and civilized conditions to regenerate the race.

Turkish Oppression Continues

London, Nov. 24.—The correspondent of The Times at Sofia reports that while negotiations are dragging at Constantinople there is no remission of the severity practiced on the unfortunate population of Macedonia under the guise of a search for arms. "I am informed," adds the correspondent, "that the maltreatment of the peasantry is even worse than it was during the insurrection."

PRINCESS AND COACHMAN

Have Mysteriously Disappeared From the Castle of a German Prince

Berlin, Nov. 24.—Die Morgan Post prints a rumor from Dresden that Princess Alice, wife of Prince Frederick of Schoenberg-Waldenburg, disappeared two weeks ago and that her coachman disappeared at the same time. The people of Dresden, Die Morgen Post says, believe that the princess and the coachman have eloped. Inquiries at the residence of the princess elicit the answer that her highness is travelling and that her present whereabouts are unknown. The princess is the youngest daughter of Don Carlos of Bourbon, pretender to the Spanish throne.

Goodwin Seeking Release

Boston, Nov. 24.—An application for the pardon of Henry K. Goodwin is being heard at the state house by the executive council. Eighteen years ago Goodwin was sentenced to life imprisonment for killing Albert D. Swan. Goodwin had secured valuable electrical patents and these he placed in Attorney Swan's charge. One day during a heated argument over the manner in which his interests were being handled Goodwin shot and killed Swan. The widow of Swan has remarried since her husband met his tragic end, her second husband being now dead.

New York, Nov. 24.—Nearly 50 members of the Canadian Camp, an organization composed of men and women who have camped, hunted and fished in the forests of the dominion, sat down to a woodland dinner here last night, the dinner being made up wholly of game killed by the members themselves. It was announced that arrangements had been entered into with the Canadian government whereby 1000 square miles of primeval forest land, stocked with game, is to be set aside as a preserve for the exclusive use of the Canadian Camp.

Prison Official Complimented

Boston, Nov. 24.—State officials, clergymen, legislators, superior court judges and men prominent in nearly every walk of life, to the number of about 300, gave a complimentary dinner last night to Joseph F. Scott, who recently resigned the superintendency of the Massachusetts reformatory at Concord to accept a position in the state reformatory at Elmira, N. Y. During the evening Fr. Crowe presented in behalf of the gathering a handsome gold watch and chain to Scott.

Fitchburg, Mass., Nov. 24.—Michael O'Brien, 28, was struck by a trolley car near Baldwinville last night and died here later from his injuries. O'Brien was wedged in under the scraper and the car had to be lifted by jacks before he could be released. This took half an hour.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 24.—Governor Wells last night decided to send the entire National Guard of Utah into the coal mining district of Carbon county, where the miners have been on strike for the last two weeks. Italians and Irish In Battle

New York, Nov. 24.—Police reserves had to be called out to quell a riot between 50 Italian laborers and 70 Irish rock drillers, who were fighting at the bottom of an excavation 35 feet below the level of the street. The crowd which collected to watch the spectacle below blocked the Broadway car service. Two of the Italians were arrested.

ABSURD METHODS

said the Romoc man, expatiating on the means many people take to purify their blood. Don't you realize, he continues, that most so-called blood medicines are loaded with deadly poisons? By their use you simply force one poison out and take another just as bad or worse into your system. This is like the Indian whose blanket was too short to cover his feet, so he cut off six inches from the top and sewed it onto the bottom. You accomplish just as much good by the use of deadly mineral poisons as he did. It is different with Romoc. Romoc is Nature's remedy. There is no poison in it. Not a drop of alcohol is in this solution.

The Denver's Second Trial

What Anti-Saloonists Want

Columbus, O., Nov. 24.—"A corps of 400 able, trained workers and a fund of $1,000,000 a year is the goal toward which the anti-Saloon league of this country is working," says State Superintendent Baker of the Ohio league.

Insured for $2,000,000

L. Rodman Wanamaker, son of John Wanamaker, the eminent merchant of New York and Philadelphia, has taken out a policy in

The Prudential Insurance Co.

for $1,000,000, paying an annual premium of over $30,000. This makes him the most heavily insured man in the world, with the single exception of King Edward VII.

Mr Wanamaker's total insurance is now $4,000,000.

Ask yourself WHY Mr. Wanamaker placed one-half this great amount with The Prudential.

Your business judgment will at once reply: "Because after full investigation and comparison, Mr. Wanamaker found that the company which could give him the best insurance for a given amount of money was The Prudential."

Undoubtedly you will agree that Mr. Wanamaker does not pay over $30,000 per year except for most excellent reasons. If these reasons apply to YOU precisely as well as they do to HIM.

CITY COUNCIL.

000 for extensions and this $10,000 was intended to be a part of this.

Councilmen Whiton and Cleverly favored the order.

The substitute order was adopted by a vote of 11 in favor and 6 against. The order was then ordered to a second reading.

PUBLIC HEARING.

A public hearing was given the New England Telephone Co. on its petition for location of poles on Kemper, Palmer Bicknell, Goffe and Washington streets.

Mr. Lake representing the Telephone Co. said these locations were desired to improve the service of subscribers.

Mr. Atkins opposed the location on Kemper street as it interfered with trees. He would not object if placed on other side of the street.

Councilman Bass asked a number of question about the Goffe street location, and Geo. E. Pfaffmann spoke in favor. The orders were then recommitted.

The Electric Light Co. were given a public hearing on its petition for a location of poles an Quincy avenue. Henry M. Faxon of the company said this was to rebuild one of its existing lines and would do away with eight of the poles now on the street. The present poles were dangerous and were likely to cause trouble at any time and cut out South and West Quincy.

Miss Carrie Parker objected as one of the poles would come directly in front of her front gate. She would not object to having them placed on present location. Hearing closed and order recommitted.

A public hearing was given on relocating the easterly end of Sea street. Lawyer John McKnight spoke for the petitioners. All parties interested favored the relocation and the land necessary would be given.

Hearing closed and order recommitted.

ATLANTIC SCHOOL LOT.

The joint Committee on Finance and Public Buildings reported an amendment to the order for $10,500 for the purchase of the Wason lot at Atlantic for a school lot. The amendment was in regard to borrowing the money.

Upon motion of Councilman Bass the order was laid on the table.

THE LOAN ORDER.

The Committee on Finance reported a substitute loan order providing that $25,000 should be borrowed Dec. 1, to mature March 1, 1904, and $25,000 should be borrowed Dec. 1 to mature June 1, 1904, the rate of interest to be five per cent.

Councilman Nickerson hoped the substitute would pass tonight. He did not wish to rush the order through, but the city needed the money, the loan would be perfectly legal, light could be obtained from the City Treasurer and City Solicitor, but perhaps we have had light enough from the press. The facts are the city has got to pay its debts, and that the city has assets.

Councilman Reardon asked by what authority the loan could be made.

City Solicitor Blackmur explained that it would be a straight loan within the debt limit as for a school house. There would have been no difficulty now had temporary loans of 1903 been for longer times. The city cannot reissue temporary loans, hence a straight loan. We have as an asset $80,000 of tax of 1902 which is unpaid and unencumbered. Loans could be paid out of that. If order is not passed bills must go unpaid. The credit of the city was O. K., and the finances O. K.

Councilman Reardon sought further light as to nature of indebtedness which must be paid.

pages 46 47 48

Mr. Blackmur said there was State tax to the amount of $60,000, County tax of $15,000, notes of $75,000, and department expenses. The trouble was the tax of 1903 was not received fast enough.

Councilman Reardon—Why are we $50,000 more in debt than a year ago?

Mr. Blackmur—We are not.

Councilman Reardon—What part of the tax will be collected Jan. 1?

City Treasurer Gray—About $225,000.

Councilman Reardon opposed loans of three and six months. Would pay before Jan. 1. Otherwise it must go into 1904 levy. Taxes were now excessive, and property would not bring what it was taxed for.

Councilman Nickerson—It would be impossible to pay this year. Would not have money.

Councilman Whiton—We must borrow money or go bankrupt. Notes would go to protect. He did not wish to criticise this administration in particular; all were to blame. When we have an administration with sand enough to place the tax rate where it ought to be, and not estimate the receipts too large, this trouble will not arise.

Councilman Reardon objected to paying five per cent. interest.

Councilman Nickerson—The City Treasurer says it is impossible to borrow for less.

Councilman Thompson thought as taxes paid six per cent nothing would be lost.

Councilman Reardon then favored competitive bids.

Voted, to suspend rules.

The substitute order then came up for passage. Councilmen Piper and Bass sought further light on the maturing indebtedness, and then the order was passed 18 to 2 as follows:

Yeas,—Cleverly, Diack, Gassett, Hadlock, Hardwick, Hughes, Johnson, Langelier, Loud, McFarland, Nichols, Nickerson, Piper, Polk, Smith, Thompson, Walsh and Whiton—18.
Nays,—Bass and Reardon—2.
Absent,—Adams and Meyer.
Not Voting,—President Alden.

OTHER BUSINESS.

Councilman Nichols presented an order for hearing on petition of Electric Light Co. for location on Highland avenue.

Councilman Diack introduced an order for an arc light on Federal avenue at corner of Larry place. Referred to Mayor.

ATLANTIC SCHOOL LOT.

Councilman Bass had the order for Atlantic school lot taken from table. He then moved that the clerk of Council be requested to ascertain if option on Wason lot could be extended to March 1.

Councilmen Gassett, Hadlock, Nickerson, Thompson, Whiton, Polk and Langelier opposed.

Councilman Bass said it was at the Mayor's suggestion that the order was offered.

Councilmen Gassett and Nickerson doubted that.

In reply to question, City Treasurer Gray said there was a leeway of $52,000 inside the debt limit.

Councilman Bass' order was defeated 9 to 10 on a rising vote. The amendments were then adopted and the order took its second reading.

NEW BUSINESS.

An order for $50.50 for refund of tax assessed on George M. Norris was introduced. An order to place receipts of $1,952.71 to credit of Highway appropriation, was read and referred to Finance Committee.

An order requesting the Committee on Elections to meet Tuesday evening, Dec. 1, was adopted.

Adjourned at 10.20 to meet Dec. 7.

The Verdict in Breach of Promise Case.

Damages Were Set at $50,000.

Mock Trial Held at Music Hall, Atlantic.

A mock trial, under the auspices of the M. E. Church, was held in Music Hall, Atlantic, Tuesday evening, the case being a breach of promise suit brought by Miss Carrie Nashun against John Alexander Dowye for damages of $50,000. Judge Pratt of Quincy was at the bench.

E. D. Getman and J. F. Manning of Boston appeared as lawyers for the plaintiff, and F. W. Coit and J. F. McLaughlin of Boston for the defendant.

The witnesses for plaintiff were:

Hans Bismark, taken by Louis Grosscup.

Miss Jacholine Gardner, taken by Miss Edith Greenerd.

Dr. Kill Em Quick, taken by Rev. B. D. Beck.

Miss Mary Baker Eddy, taken by Ardelia Barbour.

Miss Mary Honore Mulverhem, taken by Mrs. Greene.

The witnesses for defendant were:

Richard Croker, taken by James A. Zwicker.

John L. Sullivan, taken by John Ramsdall.

Miss Clara Barton, taken by Mrs. Barbour.

Susan B. Anthony, taken by Miss Mabelle F. Burr.

The clerk of court was Henry Cabot Lodge, taken by John Moir.

The meeting was called to order after Greene's orchestra had played several selections, and the plaintiff, Miss Carrie Nashun, represented by Miss Nellie Mitchell, rose to be examined. Miss Mitchell's answers were clear and easily spoken. Her attitude throughout the trial was natural. There were several local hits during this testimony which were greeted with applause.

The replies of the witnesses were extemporaneous, and the entire trial was on a local basis which rendered it familiar and interesting. Mrs. Greene, as the plaintiff's maid, was especially bright in her remarks, and kept a grain of fun in evidence during the entire evening. Her hit on the absence of policemen in Atlantic provoked hearty laughter, and her side sallies won many a smile from the judge.

John Alexander Dowye, impersonated by Herbert Thomas, as defendant, was fluent and apt in his rejoinders. Several times his answers were drowned by the enthusiasm of the audience.

After all the testimonies were given, short speeches were made by the attorneys and a summery stated by Judge Pratt, who addressed himself to the jury. A verdict was brought in in favor of the plaintiff, damages 13 cents. The trial lasted until nearly eleven o'clock.

Rainbow Party.

The young ladies sodality of St. John's church held a Rainbow party Tuesday evening at Colonial hall. The hall was very prettily decorated with the colors of a rainbow and there were games and an entertainment in which all of the young ladies took part. Refreshments were served during the evening. The affair was confined to the young ladies of the sodality.

Sixty-Ton Crank.

It required twenty-four horses to draw the dray upon which was loaded a 60-ton crank shaft for the new street railway power station at Quincy Point. The shaft came by cars to South Quincy and was transported to Quincy Point this noon. It was a big undertaking. First were two four-horse drays and back of this came sixteen horses, four abreast, attached to the main dray.

The public schools have closed for the week.

Brotherhood Concert.

Another very enjoyable concert was given in the Brotherhood course to a large audience Tuesday evening at Bethany chapel. The Apollo Quartette was the attraction, and every number was so attractive that encores were demanded. The quartet was down for four numbers but gave eight selections. Mr. F. E. Kendall in songs and dialect stories was the life of the entertainment and convulsed the audience frequently. Mr. W. E. Paine, the first tenor and Mr. E. E. Holden, the second tenor, each gave two pleasing selections, and there was regret that Mr. G. A. Bunton, the bass, did not contribute a solo.

The hours at the Quincy post office Thanksgiving day will be from 7 to 10 A. M., and 5 to 7 P. M. There will be one collection and delivery in the morning.

Beautiful Tribute to His Memory.

Numerous and Beautiful Floral Tributes.

Masons and Knights Templar Among Mourners.

The funeral of Albert Hale Sayward, who died Saturday, was held Tuesday afternoon from the Wollaston Congregational church. The services were of a very impressive nature and were largely attended. Wollaston lodge of Masons was present in a body, also delegations from South Shore Commandery Knights Templar and St. Stephens Chapter.

The remains encased in an oak casket were placed in front of the altar, and in the vicinity were a large number of floral offerings. The orders with which Mr. Sayward was affiliated sent set pieces, as did also his fellow employes. There were also flowers from the family and many others, making a mass of flowers that almost hid the casket.

The ushers were John B. Cornish, L. F. Crowell, Alfred W. Thompson and James C. Bates.

Rev. Edward A. Chase, pastor of the church, conducted the services, during which Miss Sarah Belle Huff sang Mendelssohn's solo "O! Rest in the Lord," and the Wollaston male quartette composed of Messrs. E. E. Bullock, Ray Finel, Herbert Y. Follett and H. I. Hahn, sang "In Heavenly Love Abiding," "Father in Thy Mysterious Presence," and "Still, Still with Thee."

Rev. Mr. Chase in his eulogy said in part, "Alfred Hale Sayward had so much to live for. He did not dream where he stood in men's affections and honor. He did not think himself that his life was like a sunbeam.

"On his father's side he inherited in his blood that which went back to an early life in the state of Maine. On his mother's side, that which has given to New England some of its choicest spirits in law and theology. His life was the outcropping of these strains of blood. He has builded better than he knew. He was just unfolding like a rose in its glory.

"He had a strain of judicialism that enabled him to come to conclusions. He thought things quietly, and the judicial mind arrived at a conclusion and he was firm and steadfast to that conclusion. I have searched him but have not been able to dig up one bit that was to his shame. He was outspoken and frank, yet not misunderstood.

"His soul laid near his face and told the story of his uprightness. Suddenly the man is stricken down, and these things under the surface break out. He did not wear his heart upon his sleeve, but it opened to the man who wanted to warm up to it. He had a capacity for friendship because some ostentatious manhood breathed through him.

"How much these flowers say, but there is a current of strange affections, the flowers of memory. In that divine presence I believe he looks back astonished. Who can doubt he shall come to guide and foster that household he had founded? Who can doubt that he has entered that lodge above? Who can doubt he has entered that church of heaven?

"Had I the wealth, there is not a gift more precious than the affection which he gave. His are the flowers of memory. God grant thou knowest."

At the conclusion of Rev. Mr. Chase eulogy, Wollaston lodge of Masons performed its burial service. The remains were taken to Mt. Auburn.

Thanksgiving Service.

The eloquent preacher in First church Sunday drew a touching picture of that memorable first Thanksgiving day in Plymouth, when a little band of fervent men and women, their numbers lessened by death; with seemingly little to return thanks for, rendered gratitude to God that life and hope remained, and that they turned to a future that gives us in New England what we have today. The preacher said three thousand miles of wintry ocean lay between them and the home they had left behind. A narrow shore was before them and behind in the distance were barren hills and hostile inhabitants, but the attitude of those pioneers was one of worship, reverence and piety.

Today these qualities seem set aside, and the church is sometimes [illegible] for this attitude; but the church has to echo the people, for it is in a large measure they who are the church. While we return thanks for the blessings here today he urged a grave sense of the fact that we have left behind the vital essence of the religious life of the early days, which if austere and apparently unlovely, made what is best in character. Without religious life in the home, and religious teaching of the young, cause for thankfulness will be lost in the deterioration of national life.

MARINES IN READINESS

To Sail For Panama From the Boston Navy Yard

EVIDENTLY EXPECT CLASH

With Colombian Troops Said to Be Marching Upon Isthmus—Naval Fleet In Isthmian Waters Will Be Increased to Eleven Warships

Boston, Nov. 25.—The Post says that marines are under arms at the Boston navy yard ready to start for Panama at a moment's notice. The Washington government, it is stated, fears serious complications on the isthmus and it is expected that United States troops may have to do considerable fighting before the trouble between Colombia and the new republic of Panama is settled.

To be prepared for all emergencies the war department has decided to send a strong force to the isthmus, and other war vessels will be sent to reinforce the squadron now in isthmian waters. Colombia is reported as marching a force to reduce Panama to submission, and the United States has decided that no Colombian troops shall be landed on the isthmus. This is expected to bring about a clash.

In accordance with instructions received from Brigadier General Mead at Washington, Colonel Kelton, the commandant of the navy yard, selected a company of picked marines, to be held in readiness to leave at a moment's notice. Similar orders are said to have been received in other naval headquarters along the coast, and when the men move to the front they will be massed in a battalion comprising a company from each yard.

"It is true that a company is awaiting orders," said Colonel Kelton last night. "The men can leave immediately on the arrival of orders. I can't give out any information regarding the destination of the marines."

That Colon will be the objective point of the command if called into service is an open secret among the men of the yard. Veterans of the Philippine, China and Cuban campaigns were given the preference when the members were selected.

Pending developments, the 262 men of the navy yard are being held under restriction. No days off are allowed, and the men are experiencing martial rule in its strictest sense.

More Warships Going to Colon

Washington, Nov. 25.—The United States naval fleet near Colon will be augmented shortly by the gunboats Castine and Bancroft, which have been specially fitted for service in isthmian waters. Their arrival will increase the naval fleet at the isthmus to 11 warships. Seven will guard the north or Caribbean coast and four the Pacific [illegible]

More Talk on Canal

Washington, Nov. 25.—The Panama canal question was again the leading topic under consideration by the senate yesterday and Senator Morgan continued his review of the history of the efforts to secure an isthmian canal. He declared that to the president's ambition to secure the credit of a unique administration must be credited the favoritism manifested by him toward the Panama route. He asserted that President McKinley had favored the Nicaragua line and this statement was challenged by Mr. Hanna, who said he knew of his own personal knowledge that Mr. McKinley had urged the most careful investigation after he had learned that the Panama canal property was available.

Considered Panama Situation

Washington, Nov. 25.—All the members of the cabinet attended Tuesday's meeting, but it is understood that no action of importance was taken. The Panama situation was discussed at length without bringing forth any new developments of concern.

Chicago Plans to Sell Light

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Mayor Harrison declares that the city will enter the electric lighting field at once in competition with the gas and electric companies. The attempt to enter the field by selling electric current made in the municipal plants may result in an appeal to the courts by the big lighting corporations. This is what the city would invite, as it will determine its right to deal in public necessities.

China May Attack Russia

London, Nov. 25.—Private advices from Pekin are to the effect that General Yuan Shi Kai, governor of Chi Li province, has informed the emperor that he is prepared to declare war against the Russians in Manchuria. General Ma is said to be ready to march into Shan Hai Kwan at the head of 18,000 men.

Pleaded Guilty of Peonage

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 25.—Edward J., Frank and William McRee of Valdosk entered a plea of guilty to 13 indictments charging them with peonage. Judge Speer sentenced them to pay a fine of $1000 in two of the cases and suspended sentence in others. The fines will be paid.

Almost a Real Tragedy

Oswego, N. Y., Nov. 25.—Miss Mary Emerson, playing at a local theatre, was wounded last night in a duel scene with Richard Gordon. The curtain was hastily rung down and a doctor dressed the wound in Miss Emerson's face. She is not seriously injured.

A LOSS OF $75,000

Caused by Fires Said to Have Been Set by Man Now Under Arrest

Boston, Nov. 25.—With the arrest of Michael Horrigan last night on a warrant charging arson, Deputy Fire Marshal Dunn thinks that he has the man who has been the cause of at least seven incendiary fires in Charlestown since Sept. 10. Horrigan lived on Lyndeboro street, Charlestown district. For some time the fire marshal's office has had him under suspicion and on Saturday last he was brought before the state police and subjected to a rigid examination. At this hearing several other witnesses testified in connection with various fires that have occurred in Charlestown. It was upon the evidence at that time submitted that a warrant was issued in the Charlestown court and Horrigan's arrest last evening followed. The specific charge in the warrant was setting fire to the building in the rear of 13 Dunstable street upon the afternoon of Nov. 19.

Deputy Fire Marshal Dunn believes that Horrigan is responsible for fires which have caused an aggregate damage of $75,000. He claims that he has evidence to connect Horrigan with the origin of each of the fires.

Labor War Grows More Intense

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 25.—What may prove the biggest fight in the labor history of Lynn seems imminent. The American Federation of Labor's demand made last night that the Knights of Labor local unions agree to boycott non-union label bearing shoes has been point-blank refused. The federation in consequence threatens to boycott all Lynn-made shoes. The Board of Trade and the Merchants association have threatened to fight all labor unions to the finish, in self-defense, if the boycott is declared.

Caught With Stolen Checks

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 25.—Edward McElroy is charged with passing checks which had been stolen from the store of F. O. Wentworth at Somersworth. Wentworth's place was entered a few days ago and several checks bearing his endorsement stolen. McElroy gave the proprietor of the Tremont house a check for $27 and received cash for it. When arrested he was attempting to get a similar check for $176 cashed at a jewelry store. McElroy was held for the Somersworth police.

Feared Being Buried Alive

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 25.—In a granite tomb at the Edson cemetery is a casket containing the body of a man. The top is not screwed down. The lid is even raised, so that if the man should come to life he would have no difficulty in leaving the casket. For a month the casket has been in that position and will remain so for a month more. The peculiar manner of burial is due to request of the deceased, who had a presentiment that he would be buried while in a trance.

Poisoning Probably Accidental

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 25.—The final meeting of the committee appointed by the state board of charities to investigate the poisoning of 11 inmates at the state hospital at Tewksbury with belladonna was held at the institution today. The committee expects to have its report completed later in the week. It is understood, however, that no one will be charged by the committee with having administered the belladonna with criminal intent.

Eleven Arrests In Murder Case

Hartford, Nov. 25.—The body of Mrs. Paraska Shipiller, a Polish boarding house keeper, was found last night in her kitchen by one of the lodgers. The face and head had been terribly cut with a knife. An investigation by the police showed that a number of trunks in the house had been broken open, indicating that the motive was robbery. Eleven men are under arrest, but the police have no good clue.

Mills Short of Pulp

Millinocket, Me., Nov. 25.—Nearly 500 employes of the Great Northern Paper company are idle because of the depletion of the supply of ground wood pulp and the impossibility of obtaining more until the streams rise sufficiently to furnish power for the ground wood pulp mills. All the paper making machines are shut down.

Mines For Far Eastern Squadron

Newport, R. I., Nov. 25.—Rush orders from the navy department have been received at the torpedo station for the completion of the naval defense mines for the battleships Kntucky, Wisconsin and Oregon of the squadron in the far east. Each battleship of the navy is to be equipped with a set of 14 mines and one dummy.

Buzz Saw Took Off Foot

Tiverton, R. I., Nov. 25.—John L. Morris, 35, was running an engine which operates a buzz saw and was standing upon the top of the engine when he lost his balance and fell directly toward the rapidly revolving saw. One foot came in contact with the teeth of the saw and was severed near the ankle.

Deer Feasted on Cabbage

Oakdale, Mass., Nov. 25.—Deputy Sheriff Bacon is to make claim against the state for damages caused by a herd of deer. Bacon had an acre of cabbages, valued at $150, entirely destroyed by the animals. The deer break the cabbage heads open and eat only the tender centers. The place is within 10 miles of Worcester.

NEW FOOTBALL ARMOR.

Corsetlike Device Said to Have Been Used by Minnesota University.

F. H. Yost, coach of the University of Michigan football team, is authority for the statement that in the recent Michigan-Minnesota game players of the latter university team wore a new sort of protective armor, says a Detroit dispatch.

"When the men came on the field," said Yost, "I noticed that Schacht looked a good deal bigger even than he did last Thanksgiving day, so I went up and felt of him. You can imagine how surprised I was when I found he had a sort of football corset on. Covering his stomach, sides and back, there was some sort of a stiff garment that felt like a jacket of barrel staves. It was probably padded inside, and his suit covered it completely from sight. As soon as they got into the game I saw what the use of that jacket was.

"Schacht was the best ground gainer. He would stand back of the line just behind the quarter back and with the other backs behind him. Harris would snap the ball, Schacht would take two steps and a jump, and then the rest would skate him along on his stomach like a big snow plow. I calculated he traveled about fifty yards through that game on his belly, and it all counted against Michigan. I never saw a big man slide along that way before.

"One of the boys who tackled Indian Rogers tells me that Rogers had the same make of corset on."

STARVE THEM OUT!

Why not starve the germs to death? Scott's Emulsion will do it.

The germs of consumption are an invading army numbering millions upon millions; they must all be fed or they will soon die of starvation. A lung a little below "par" in vitality is just to their liking.

Why not put new life into it? Scott's Emulsion feeds the lungs. It fills the blood with nourishing food for all the weak parts. Good food means life. Life means resistive force.

Germs cannot live on healthy tissue. Scott's Emulsion and good fresh air drive out the germs of consumption.

MANY BATTERED HEADS

As a Result of Police Charge on Rioters at Chicago

NUMBER OF SHOTS FIRED

Traffic Hampered by Cutting of Trolley Wires and Other Depredations by the Mob—Conferences Make No Headway Toward Settlement

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Fierce fighting, in which the police used their clubs freely and twice their revolvers, marked the opening of the State street cable line by the Chicago City railway. As far as can be ascertained nobody was seriously injured, although there were many broken heads among the rioters who came in contact with the clubs of the police. If any members of the mob were injured by the bullets of the police and non-union men on the cars they were carried off by their friends.

The hardest fighting of the day took place at Forty-First street and State street, where a mob hiding behind a fence stoned the cars which were guarded by officers. The police went over the fence at once and fired several shots over the heads of the fleeing strikers. Many of the mob who were slow of foot were overtaken by the police and soundly rapped with clubs. Few arrests were made, the officers contenting themselves with scattering the crowd.

Conductor Prenter was in charge of the train which was attacked and when the stones commenced to whizz past his head and smash the windows of his car, he promptly drew a revolver and fired at the crowd until the cartridges in his weapon were exhausted. The cars were attacked at the same point on the return trip and a number of shots were fired, the mob scattering like a flock of chickens.

All day long on State street the company was hampered by the work of the mob, which piled obstructions upon the tracks, drove pegs and spikes into the cable slot and cut trolley wires in many places.

The Archer avenue line was badly damaged early in the day and required several hours' work of the repair men, who were heavily guarded by police. No attempt has been made to run cars on this line since the commencement of the strike.

The opening of the State street line gave the company five lines on which cars were run. The service, however, is not of a character to be generally useful to the public.

While fighting was going on in the streets the usual conferences were in progress and propositions and counter-propositions were passing back and forth between representatives of the company and its former employes.

At the conferences held last night between the officials and board of directors of the road and representatives of the strikers no settlement was reached and it is uncertain when the trouble will be adjusted. Neither side to the controversy would give out any information, but it is said the latest hitch in the negotiations is the refusal of the company to agree to reinstate all the union men who went on strike. When the board of directors adjourned at 11 o'clock counsel for the company said that negotiations were at a standstill but another effort would be made to bring about a peaceful adjustment of the struggle.

The Associated Teaming Interests, an organization which includes practically every owner of traffic teams in the city, met last night to consider the action of the teamsters in striking against the Chicago City Railway company, it being claimed that they had violated their contract in so doing. A committee was appointed to investigate the matter.

It is positively known that the company and the strikers are so far apart on several propositions that there is little prospect of peace in the immediate future, unless somebody changes front. Arbitration of wages has been agreed to, but the company insists it shall be on the basis of wages paid in other cities, claiming that Chicago wages are now the highest in the country. The men desire the arbitration on the basis of Chicago wages, saying that otherwise they may suffer a reduction. In the routing of cars nothing approaching an agreement has been reached.

On the reinstatement of employes who went out on a sympathetic strike both sides are firm and directly opposed, the men demanding, the company refusing it.

A number of minor points have been agreed on, but the differences on the routing of cars and the reinstatement of employes are so wide that there can be no settlement unless one side or the other gives in.

Police Inspector Lavin was forced to go to the hospital last night. During the fight at Fortieth and State streets he was hit on the forehead with a stone. He did not regard the injury as serious, but was compelled to give up.

TALK WITH PRESIDENT

Results In Agreement Between Platt and Odell

WILL WORK IN HARMONY

Governor Is Accorded All For Which He Contended—Had Been Angered by Senator's Innuendoes and Would Not Endure Charges of Disloyalty

Washington, Nov. 25.—Senator Platt and Governor Odell of New York have reached an agreement, politically. Both will work in harmony with each other and with President Roosevelt.

This, in brief, it is announced, is the net result of a conference held at the White House last night. The parties to the conference were the president, Senator Platt, Governor Odell and Colonel Dunn, chairman of the Republican state committee of New York.

For several months it has been known that political differences existed between Governor Odell and Senator Platt. These differences grew out of state appointments originally.

As the result of the conference last night Governor Odell was accorded all for which he has contended. The agreement reached is of such a character that it is not considered now that the necessity for future conferences will exist. It can be said that Senator Platt will continue as the leader of New York state Republican organization, but that Governor Odell will direct in detail the campaign in New York next year.

Both Platt and Odell have announced their desire that President Roosevelt next year should be nominated and elected.

New York, Nov. 25.—The regular monthly report of a break between Governor Odell and Senator Platt has produced, as usual, a declaration by Platt that he and the governor are on the best of terms, and that there is no trouble whatever in the Republican organization in New York state.

It is said that Governor Odell was exasperated by two things; first, Platt's persistent efforts to make it appear that he (Odell) is a traitor to President Roosevelt and is working secretly to prevent Roosevelt's nomination; second, the wretched condition of the Republican organization of New York city, where Platt is absolute director. The governor has declared repeatedly that he is for Roosevelt; yet Platt has, within the last week, inspired several stories to the effect that Odell is backing Senator Hanna. He took advantage of a casual meeting between Odell and Governor-elect Myron T. Herrick of Ohio to give the impression that Odell and Herrick were managing the Hanna boom, and he threw out intimations that he (Platt) was the champion of Roosevelt against Odell in this state.

The governor has been very considerate to "the old man" in the past, but he has told his friends that he will not tolerate this kind of misrepresentation. If it is continued, he will be ready for the open break which has been threatened ever since he became governor. Then he will openly assume the position which he has held in fact for more than two years—that of leader of the Republican party in New York state. He has not sought a war; he has been willing to let Platt pose as leader as long as he lived, but, as he remarked to a friend at the Republican club; "It looks as if there will have to be a finish fight soon; I am ready for it."

Should the fight come there is not much doubt about the result. Odell has shown a dozen times at Albany that he could beat Platt. He carried through the legislature every measure he favored, and whenever his views and Platt's conflicted Platt had to back down. There is a kindly feeling for "the old man" throughout the Republican organization, but it is sentiment; and sentiment does not count for much in a fight on which the control of the organization depends. Odell has the power and the patronage and, if he cares to use them against Platt, the career of the venerable boss would probably end soon.

The other chief cause of trouble between the governor and the senator was the latter's refusal to do anything to improve the condition of the Republican organization in New York city. A good man, M. Linn Bruce, was put at the head of the organization a few months ago, but he could accomplish nothing, because he was surrounded by the same old crowd of district leaders who have played into the hands of Tammany for many years. Before the September primaries, Odell begged Platt to get rid of the worst of these leaders, but Platt had every one of them re-elected because they were all faithful to him. Now the governor has come to the conclusion, his friends say, that the old district leaders must go, even if Platt has to go with them, if New York state is to be kept in the Republican column next year.

In conversation with his friends during his recent stay at the Republican club, the governor talked very plainly about the outlook for the presidential and state tickets in New York. He declared that New York state would probably go Democratic next year unless there was a great change in the Republican organization in this city. To one of his up-state lieutenants he said: "The day of Republican walkovers in this state is past. The last two elections showed that. The up-state Republicans do their duty, but there must be some help from New York city. If things go on as they are, we may be swamped at the next election."

THE VINDICATOR EXPLOSION

Authorities Said to Have Positive Evidence Against Union Miners

Victor, Col., Nov. 24.—Eighteen men are now in the bull pen suspected of complicity in the blowing up of the Vindicator mine, when two men were killed. Governor Peabody has ordered that they be turned over to the civil authorities. This will be done.

Denver, Nov. 24.—Governor Peabody has received a telegram from General Bell stating that the military authorities have positive evidence that several of the Miners' union members now confined at Camp Goldfield are guilty of plotting the explosion at the Vindicator mine. "I fully believe that we have the right men in custody," said the governor.

Cripple Creek, Col., Nov. 24.—Major General Bates, who has been sent here by President Roosevelt to make an investigation into strike conditions in Colorado, has arrived in Cripple Creek and after conferring with Adjutant General Bell of the Colorado National guard made a tour of the district. General Bates will spend but a day or two here and will then proceed to Telluride. Fourteen men who have been arrested by the soldiers since the attempted destruction of the Vindicator mine on Saturday are confined.

Terrible Sight For a Father

Valley Falls, R. I., Nov. 24.—Leaning from the cab window as his train drew into the station here, Fireman Frank Marshall was horrified to see directly in the path of the engine his four little children, who were attempting to cross the track in front of the train. Two boys, aged 7 and 9, cleared the rails, but Bertha, aged 3, and Elinora, aged 5, tripped and fell. Before the bewildered little ones could rise the cow catcher had picked them up and tossed them in the air. One of Bertha's legs was crushed and Eldora was painfully bruised, but escaped dangerous injuries. Bertha's injured limb will probably be amputated.

A Milwaukee Boodle Case

Milwaukee, Nov. 24.—Upon complaint of the citizens' committee of ten, Robert L. Rudolph, a former alderman, was arrested last night on a charge of soliciting and accepting a bribe of $1000 for securing the passage of a side track ordinance for the Milwaukee Malting company. Rudolph was released on $5000 bail. Rudolph was previously arested upon the charge of accepting a bribe of $500 offered by a saloonkeeper in consideration of securing a license. This case is now pending in the municipal court.

Attempt to Wreck Royal Train

London, Nov. 24.—The Cherbourg correspondent of The Daily Mail reports the arrest of one of the soldiers guarding the railway line over which the train bearing the King and Queen of Italy passed. The soldier is charged with placing an obstruction on the track with the intention of wrecking the royal tram. The attempt was discovered before the approach of the train.

Law to Prevent Gambling

Chicago, Nov. 24.—The "ticker" ordinance, by means of which Mayor Harrison hopes to prevent bandbook gambling in Chicago, was passed last night by the city council. The ordinance provides for the licensing of all tickers, and before being granted a license each applicant must file a bond of $1000 not to violate any city ordinance.

Peonage Indictments

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 24.—Charged with having held negroes in a condition of peonage, 26 indictments have been returned by the federal grand jury against seven persons. The persons against whom the indictments have been returned are prominently connected, one of them being a member of the state legislature.

Bank President Stole Funds

Oklahoma, O. T., Nov. 24.—President Neal of the bank of Ravia, I. T., was arrested at Medill and taken to Ravia, charged with taking $5000 of the bank's money. He agreed to return everything he had taken and will probably not be prosecuted. Neal says speculation in cotton led him into the trouble.

MORGAN HAS HIS SAY

President Has Made Party Question of Canal Matter

VIOLATION OF SPOONER LAW

By Signing of Treaty With "Somebody From Panama"—Says We Have Failed to Observe Treaty Obligations In the Course We Have Taken

Washington, Nov. 24.—Panama and Cuba engaged the attention of the senate for a whole day to the exclusion of all other questions. Mr. Hale moved to reconsider the vote by which the Newlands joint resolution for the annexation of Cuba was referred to a committee and several speeches were made on the motion without disposing of it. Messrs. Hale, Lodge and Platt (Conn.) disavowed any desire on the part of the United States to acquire Cuba and expressed regret that the resolution had been introduced. Mr. Newlands defended the measure as presenting a natural solution of the problem of the relationship between the two countries.

The Panama question came up in connection with the announcement of the reorganization of senate committee, Mr. Morgan being relieved from the chairmanship of the committee on interoceanic canals. Before the order went into effect Mr. Morgan took the floor and his speech proved to be a discussion of the canal question, with liberal criticisms of the president for his course.

Mr. Morgan said that he did not regret being removed as chairman of the committee on interoceanic canals. He then discussed the presidents who had favored an isthmian canal and said he followed many Republican presidents on this subject as well as officers of the army and navy. He said, sarcastically, that he had no doubt a canal could be built at Panama "because the president had said so." He charged that the president has made the canal question a party question, and added:

"I think that the president's appeal to party discipline to force his opinions on the country and heap measures of aggression on foreign countries, in addition to his power as commander-in-chief of the army and navy, which he uses with a dreadful latitude of construction, is so strong a proof of heart failure in the present wild moments that I am encouraged to hope that there are still some barriers that we may rely upon to protect the peace and save the commerce of the country. I regret that party discipline is to be used as a domestic police force to protect 'the transit' in Panama and to guard the interests of the new canal company. That we will get a canal if one can be built in Panama, I have no doubt, for the president has said so. Yet this result is not nearly so certain or so safe as if he should obey the Spooner law."

Mr. Morgan said that he had only consented to the enactment of the Spooner bill because of his confidence in the good faith of the president in enforcing the law, and now that the president had not seen fit to keep that faith it remained to be seen whether the senate would support him in that position. The president, he said, had completed his campaign against the Spooner act by having Mr. Hay sign a treaty with "somebody from Panama" who had no authority except that conveyed in a cablegram from a junta at Panama.

He read the correspondence bearing upon the revolution to show, as he said, "that the president had known of the uprising in the isthmus before it began and had stood ready with armed ships to protect those engaged in it."

The pretense in Assistant Secretary Loomis' dispatch that it was our desire to maintain peace, Mr. Morgan declared, was the grimest piece of irony that had ever graced diplomatic annals.

Mr. Morgan expressed the hope that Mr. Hay had been asleep when some of the messages of his subordinates had been flying over the wire. "As for the president," he said, "he never sleeps on his post of duty or desire, although he sometimes closes his eyes to what is going on about him."

He contended that Colombia had had a perfect right to suppress an uprising of the isthmians and declared that the United States had failed utterly to observe its treaty obligations in pursuing the course it had taken. Our course there, he said, had been such that it would bring down the censure of future generations upon us, and he predicted that the immediate result would be disastrous and cause the loss of both men and treasure. The consequence would be such that the president would have no time for dreams of diplomatic triumphs.

Mr. Hay had not been, in his (Morgan's) opinion, a free agent in negotiating either of the canal treaties. Mr. Morgan charged that the president had resolved, when the Hay-Herran treaty was under consideration, to push the canal through, and if authority did not exist had made up his mind to create it.

With the understanding that he should continue his speech today Mr. Morgan yielded the floor.

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

That all employes of the Daily Ledger may enjoy the Thanksgiving feast the office of publication will be closed all day Thursday, no paper being issued. See Friday's Ledger for holiday news.

Good Afternoon

Eight pages are none too many today for the news and Thanksgiving announcement. Ledger advertisers have all the requisites for a joyful Thanksgiving.

Kindly remember the unfortunate on Thanksgiving day. The season has been mild, but coal will soon be needed. See that all have a Thanksgiving feast, and some to spare for the morrow.

What does George H. Wilson know about the management of a city, is a question asked by some. Mr. Wilson has been a member of the City Council and he is a merchant of Quincy, well acquainted with all parts of the city and its needs.

There is such a thing as knowing too much about the manipulation of finances of a city, and Quincy has a good example of it the present year. Every point has been stretched to raise as much money as possible under the tax limit for city departments, yet the tax rate itself has been placed lower than it should have been by overestimating the receipts, so that enough money was not raised. Then taxes are not collected and the city has to resort to questionable methods to raise money for current expenses.

With George H. Wilson as Mayor, an end would come to one-man power. We would have department officials with some independence. Gentlemen, probably, as intelligent and capable as some who are now at City Hall.

Perhaps Mr. Wilson as Mayor would be able to check the increase of the municipal debt, the increase of the water debt, the increase of the sewer debt, and thereby reduce the interest account. Perhaps he could secure a more prompt collection of the taxes, thereby giving the city ready money. Perhaps he would cooperate with the School Committee in securing an enlargement of the High schoolhouse, and a new Coddington schoolhouse. Perhaps the Metropolitan parkway would be constructed just as quick. Perhaps the Hancock street railroad bridge at Atlantic would be constructed sooner. Perhaps the new fire station at Houghs Neck would be put into commission. Perhaps the liquor laws would be enforced better. Perhaps there would be less hangers on in some city departments.

It seems at this time that a change at City Hall is very desirable, that as between Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryant, the best interests of the city and its taxpayers will be conserved by the election of Mr. Wilson. That Republicans as well as Democrats, who believe that a change at City Hall is imperative, should vote on Tuesday of next week for George H. Wilson for Mayor.

Drift of Opinion.

☞Great numbers of bogus lottery tickets have been captured in a raid. But even these counterfeits would probably have been no more completely worthless than the slips actually stamped and issued by the lottery companies themselves. What lottery, in the United States at least, is conducted honestly, and who get the prizes? A century or more ago lotteries were made up in the United States for the founding of schools, of hospitals and various charities. But those former games of chance became games of sheer stealing under the management of the convicted felon "Al" Adams—now in prison—and of rascals of his type.—New York Tribune.

☞The Union Labor Carnival with a glorious array of talent and attractions that cannot fail to please the most fastidious and exacting of patrons will open at the Coliseum the week of Nov. 30. There will be everything to amuse, entertain and instruct. The carnival is in the hands of old and reliable amusement caterers, men who have travelled in every corner of the globe, and know from years of practical experience what the public want for their money. Nowhere can be found such a grand and varied entertainment as the Union Labor Carnival offers its patrons; its simply one continuous round of pleasant surprises; but the biggest surprise of all is the price, 10 cents.

☞Turkeys will come high, but "we have got to have 'em," as the old saying goes, for what would Thanksgiving be without the traditional bird? And then there are "the fixins'," which are quite as essential as the main dish. The grand old feast will be here Thursday, and those whom it is our custom to assist in securing the material for a hearty repast on the last Thursday in November must have it just the same, whether the price is up or down. It simply means opening the hand a little wider in order that everybody shall be happy.—Lynn Item.

Ex-Mayor John O. Hall presided at the meeting of the City Auditors' club of Massachusetts, Tuesday, at Youngs hotel, Boston. Harvey S. Chase, expert municipal accountant for Boston, as guest, explained the movement to secure a uniform system of comparative accounts for municipalities, recently adopted by the Census department.

Mrs. Joseph H. Lord attended this week the golden wedding anniversary of her sister at Meredith, N. H. Mr. and Mrs. F. E. B. Smith were married in Meredith and with the exception of a few years have always lived there. The late ex-Gov. Cheney of New Hampshire was a brother of Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Lord. Another sister lives in Denver, Colorado.

The course in Bible Study—Women of the Bible—as arranged by the Quincy Branch Alliance, is proving especially interesting. The third in the series occurred Monday afternoon when Mrs. George W. Morton spoke on "Sarah and Rebekah." In spite of the disagreeable weather an unusually large number were present and were well repaid by the very interesting paper. Miss Florence R. Emery, who is always heard with pleasure, sang the "Holy City."

LEAGUE GAMES.

Record of the Quincys is Unbroken.

Weymouth Teams Close for Second.

"Dummy" is High Man of Quincy Point Team.

The games in the Old Colony bowling league Tuesday evening strengthened the hold of the Quincys in first place, and put Quincy Point still further down. The Weymouth teams have come close together and are neck and neck for second place.

The standing to date is as follows:

	Played.	Won.	Lost	Per Cent.
Quincy	9	9	0	100
E. Weymouth	9	5	4	53
Weymouth	9	4	5	44
Quincy Point	9	0	9	00

At East Weymouth.

The Quincys met their nearest rivals in the league at East Weymouth Tuesday evening. Although the East Weymouths were on their own alleys, Connors was the only man to bowl a string a bove 80.

On the other hand every man of the Quincys bowled above 80, and three above 90, Morton, Hall and White. The Quincys won all three games, and at no time were in danger. The grand total was 1159 to 1116 for East Weymouth, a lead of 141.

Morton was high man for Quincy, and Connors for East Weymouth.

The summary:

At Quincy Point.

The first league game on the Quincy Point alleys was played Tuesday evening, and the home team did not win a game. Both the Weymouths and the Quincy Points were one man short, and Rule 9 of the league provides that the score of dummy shall be the lowest string of the opponents in each game. Quincy Point gained by this in each game, 36 pins in all, but could not get within 29 points in any game.

Dummy was high man for Quincy Point and Flynn low man.

TODAY'S COURT.

Michael Devine was arraigned for drunkenness at Randolph. Case continued until Dec. 26.

John Sweeney was arraigned for drunkenness at Braintree. Case continued until Dec. 26.

The continued case of Thomas Gaffney for violation of the liquor at Houghs Neck was heard. He was fined $100. Appealed.

DIED.

THAYER—In Braintree, Nov. 24, Miss Sarah H. Thayer of Washington street, aged 70 years and 8 months.

Best for Children.

Bread made from Spring wheat flour necessarily is best, because of the gluten and phosphate it contains. It feeds the brain as well as nourishes the body. Pillsbury's Best is the standard Spring wheat flour.

CULINARY CONCEITS.

A too rapid boiling ruins the flavor of any sauce. It must boil up once, but should never do more than simmer afterward.

Always put an unpeeled onion in the water in which corned beef has been placed to boil. The meat will be much more juicy and tender.

Onion sandwiches are much relished by growing children and are good for them. Slice the onion very thin, salt slices of bread and butter and place the onion between.

Lima and red kidney beans are very good baked with pork as ordinary white beans are prepared. Green or dried beans may be used. The dried ones must, of course, be soaked before baking.

Figs washed carefully are very nice when stewed in half a cupful each of water and port wine and the juice of a lemon. Serve cold. The French stew prunes in claret, and the humble fruit becomes quite an aristocratic dish.

Always bake apples in a slow oven for a long time. Then the skin will be tender and the pulp well flavored. A quick fire will give a burnt surface and tasteless pulp. Sweet apples and sweet potatoes are the better for long, slow baking.

The Girl of Today.

H. B. Marriott-Watson doubts if women have benefited by the revolution in their education and training. The girl of today, he says, is tall, it is true, but she has achieved height at the sacrifice of other and more cardinal properties. The fact is that woman is not suited to the sports and exercises which she has adopted for many years past. The result is that our women have deteriorated physically. Bicycling is not a suitable exercise for woman. Riding and fencing and the rest of the gamut do her no good. The one exercise which is not only natural, but stimulating and healthy—that is, walking—women have abandoned. The modern girl begins early and continues till her marriage, and often afterward, the unnatural athletics which ruin her figure and frequently her health. She shoots up tall, flat chested, colorless and lacking in reasonable proportions. Wried and atrophied by rough wear and unseemly habits, that delicate form shrinks and withers from the form of health and beauty. No longer have our girls the pleasant contours and healthy lines of muliebrity. They tend to become asexual and to conform to a standard which is not theirs, but man's.

Society Life.

"Society life," says Mrs. Jessie Brown Pounds of Ohio, "is the modern babble of Babel. Modern life is getting to be more and more a vulgar display. Expenses are so rapidly exceeding incomes that there is no longer any home life. All the adults of families are forced to go out and work to meet the heavy expenses that modern conditions impose. We would do much better to keep our daughters at home and let them make a home than to send them out to work in order to increase the family income. Let us lead simpler lives and develop more homemakers. The women of the middle classes in this country are dying at present from too much housekeeping, and the women of the upper classes are dying, too, but from a different cause. Too many courses at dinners and too much bric-a-brac to worry over are killing them. American parents are proud if their daughters marry a European nobleman, but heartbroken if one marries a missionary."

Almonds and Peanuts.

Nuts which are "one celled fruits" are not only useful as foods, but are of importance medicinally. For example, there is no better brain and nerve food than walnuts and blanched almonds. They are also useful as muscle makers. Almonds give no heat or waste. Walnuts give heat. Peanuts are a nerve food. As a panacea for insomnia they deserve an honored place among the nuts. They are rich in albumen, of which they contain 50 per cent, with 20 per cent of fat and nitrogenous matters. Doctors recommend them as valuable in the form of soups and purees. In the tropical countries the fresh seeds of the peanut, which taste something like almonds, are eaten. When roasted they are used as a substitute for chocolate.

The Untrammeled Girl.

In former generations we were told that girls kicked over the traces because they were curbed in too tightly. Now not even a ribbon holds them, and they are galloping on at a pace which leaves chaperons and mothers breathlessly behind, and each girl seems to be becoming a law unto herself, only occasionally hampered by some big fence, which will probably be jumped if the temptation is great enough and if there is reasonable possibility of her being able to crawl back unperceived.—Exchange.

Babies and Starch.

Don't give babies any food containing starch until they have cut several teeth. They can't digest it. Arrowroot, bread, biscuits, corn flour—in fact, all farinaceous foods—contain a large proportion of starch, and until the teeth begin to come there is not in a baby's saliva the special ferment which digests starch.

To Clean Black Silk.

Clean black silk by sponging it well on the right side with hot coffee which must have been strained through muslin to free it from grounds. The coffee removes grease and restores the brilliancy of the silk without making it stiff and shiny. Press with a warm iron on the wrong side while still damp.

When the Lion Roared

By JOHN BRISCOE

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

How Cynthia Davis, daughter of Farmer Davis, got her romantic notions was a puzzle to her parents and lots of other folks. Her father's hired men began to fall in love with her at sixteen. At seventeen she broke the heart of a wire fence agent. At eighteen she could have had her pick of half a dozen men ranging from farmers' sons to reaper and mower agents. She was nineteen when Jed Williams, a young carpenter from the village, came out to rebuild a barn and reshingle the house.

Cynthia didn't want the impossible, but she had certain fixed ideas. She would never fall in love and marry a man unless he had saved her life. All of her would be lovers were anxious to toe the mark, but opportunity had never presented itself. She wouldn't break through the ice on the horse pond in winter, and she wouldn't tumble into the well in summer. Her father owned a savage bull, but she didn't go picking daisies in the field where the bovine grazed. If a mad dog came along the highway she was sure to be in the house, and if lightning struck the house she was sure to be at a neighbor's. On one occasion a sewing machine agent who had sought to capture her heart and had knocked $12 off the regular price to make himself solid thought the golden hour was at hand. He drove up one day and found a tramp "sassing" Cynthia, but before he could rush to the rescue and win her gratitude she had taken the fellow by the ear and run him out of the gate.

One after another came and went, and Cynthia's only excuse for turning them down was that each and every one of them was as commonplace as pumpkin pie. Jed Williams had had his warning, but he straightway fell in love just the same and was taken on probation. That was one good thing about the girl. She always gave a man at least four weeks in which to save her life. Jed had a three months' job at carpenter work, but he knew that he had to capture Cynthia's heart within four weeks or not at all. A man who uses the rule and compass and square has a head for circles and angles, and Jed was no sooner in love than he removed the shingle nails from his mouth and sat down to ponder. He knew where the others had failed. They had waited for opportunity. He would make opportunity.

"HE MAY KILL ME, BUT I WILL SAVE YOUR LIFE."

The first move Jed made along the new line was to take Cynthia to the circus. He was particular to point out the lions to her, especially one big fellow, and to recall to memory the fact that this Numidian had killed no less than seven keepers, as stated in the newspapers. The same lion had also escaped from the circus on several occasions and devastated a dozen barnyards. He told his story glibly and carelessly, and aside from a shudder or two Cynthia was not much affected. If the lion escaped during the next three months, as was possible, she would be away off in Ohio or Indiana, and she would be safe.

Then John Burns came out to paint the barn a fiery red. He was a friend of Jed Williams, and he brought out the news with him that the lion had escaped while the circus was leaving the village. He was one of 200 men who had spent the day with some circus people looking for the monster, and the search was being continued. It was startling news for the farmers. They might not meet the beast in their cornfields by daylight, but when darkness came he might pick them up even on the doorstep. Jed didn't boast of what he would do if he met the beast face to face, and Cynthia mentally gave him a credit mark. In some mysterious way the barn painter kept track of the lion and gave others the news. The Numidian was seen here and there. Here he had killed a cow; there a horse. In one case he had attacked a farmer and broken his back, and all efforts to recapture him were futile.

In the midst of these wild alarms Cynthia had to go to a neighbor's of an evening, and Jed was courteous enough to offer her his escort. Some lion, but they did not affect the girl. Even when Jed armed himself with a stout club she thought more of her errand than of being eaten alive. It was a fairly darkish night, but they took no lantern. They had eighty rods to go and had accomplished half the distance when there was a growl and a roar, and the escaped lion stood before them. He had been disappointed in finding a cow for his supper, and now he meant to devour a well built carpenter and a plump cheeked girl. The frightened Cynthia grabbed Jed around the neck and exclaimed:

"Oh, Jed, Jed, but it is the lion, and we'll be killed!"

"Let me get at him!" shouted Jed as he struggled against her clutch. "He may kill me, but I'll save your life at least. Get behind me."

Then the heroism in the carpenter's composition had a calcium light thrown upon it. He flourished his club and shouted. The lion scratched up the dirt and gurgled in his throat. Jed sprang forward and struck at him, and the beast dodged and gurgled some more. Cynthia had sat down in the road in her fright and didn't see much of the battle, but at the end of five minutes the panting Jed helped her up and announced that the ferocious beast had been driven off.

"Oh, Jed, but you are sure he's gone—sure of it?" she asked.

Her answer was a roar from the chagrined lion as he fled across the field.

"He would have killed me but for you."

"He surely would," replied Jed.

"Then you have saved my life."

"I guess I have."

"And—and"—

"And, Cynthia, dear, I want you for my wife. You know I love you. I'm not asking because I saved your life, but because I have learned to love you. Say you'll marry me."

"I'll—I'll be engaged to you," she answered as she clung to his arm while they walked homeward.

Jed was duly praised, and he carried himself like the honest man he was. All went well for two weeks, and then Cynthia suddenly asked him one day:

"Jed, the next morning after we saw the lion the painter had a big lump on top of his head. You must have hit him by mistake."

"What are you talking about?"

"And father found our old buffalo robe in the pasture."

"Well, you are not going to break the engagement, are you?"

"N-no, I guess not, but it was mean of you to make me sit down in the road that way!"

How Sugar Melts.

If we drop a lump of sugar into a cup of tea we find it takes a considerable time to melt if allowed to remain at the bottom of the vessel, but if we hold it up in the spoon near the surface of the liquid it dissolves much more speedily. This is owing to the sugar as it melts rendering the portion of the tea containing it heavier. The sweetened part, therefore, descends, leaving the sugar constantly in contact with unsweetened or only partially sweetened tea—in fact, a continual circulation of fluid is promoted until the whole is dissolved.

When the sugar is placed or permitted to lie at the bottom of the cup it dissolves until the layer of fluid next it is thoroughly sweetened or saturated, when it practically ceases to dissolve any further, the sweetened and heavier stratum above it acting for a considerable time until the law of diffusion comes gradually into play, like an impervious covering, in keeping back the lighter, unsweetened fluid above.

Hence the reason also why stirring, in breaking up the saturated layer and allowing access to the unsweetened portion, is so effectual in bringing about the uniform sweetening of tea. Life is not infrequently sweetened by the same stirring up process.

Shut Out of Society.

Frank R. Stockton, who was, as a rule, extremely averse to social functions of any nature, was induced to attend a "literary" dinner in Washington, given by a certain western senator in honor of a well known Indiana novelist.

Mr. Stockton had taken into dinner the sister-in-law of his host. She was an excellent woman, but anything but "literary."

The conversation touching upon the beauties of Omar Khayyam, a spirited discussion of the Persian poet ensued, during which the bewildered woman from the west caught from time to time the name of "Omar."

Turning to Mr. Stockton, the sister-in-law asked:

"Who is this Mr. Omar they're talking about? Very popular in society, I suppose."

"Why, madam," replied the humorist gravely, "that man did something that forever shuts him out of society."

"Gracious me!" exclaimed the worthy dame. "And what was that?"

"He died some 800 years ago," replied Stockton smilingly.

Grecian Jokes on Physicians.

Among the jests of the ancient Greek humorists are many on the physician. Some of them are characterized by an almost American extravagance. The following are from a popular Greek anthology:

"Diophantus dreamed that he saw Hermogenes, the physician, and he never awoke again, even though he wore an amulet."

"Marcus, the doctor, called yesterday on the marble Jupiter, but though he was Jupiter and though he was marble his funeral takes place today."

Pausanias, the Spartan general, when asked why he spoke evil of a doctor whom he had never consulted, said, "If I had consulted him I shouldn't now."—Archæological Re-

MINISTER FROM PANAMA

Character Sketch of Philippe Bunau-Varilla.

PARISIAN TO THE FINGER TIPS.

Diplomatic Representative of New Republic to the United States Is Credited With the Boulevardier's Easy Manner Without Frivolity. Full of Energy and Enthusiasm, Always In Earnest—His Unceasing Work In Promoting the Canal.

It has been announced that the revolution in Panama was planned in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York by Philippe Bunau-Varilla, a handsome French engineer and stockholder in the Panama Canal company, who has appeared in Washington as the diplomatic representative of the republic of Panama, says James Creelman in the New York World.

It is a fact that M. Bunau-Varilla has been living at the Waldorf-Astoria this summer and has been in communication with the men who are supposed to have overthrown the authority of Colombia in Panama. He has been the protagonist in the effort to force the Panama canal bargain through. As a heavy stockholder and as the engineer who assisted De Lesseps on the isthmus he has fought desperately in public and in private to secure for his company the $40,000,000 promised by the United States.

I have seen and talked many times with this remarkable man. He is a Parisian to the finger tips, well groomed, witty and agreeable. He has the easy manner of the boulevardier, without frivolity. He is of a good figure, compact, graceful and not too tall. His face is plump and oval, dark eyes, small black mustache, strong chin and good natured mouth. He is full of energy and enthusiasm, quick in his movements, radiantly conciliatory in his manner. He is always in earnest.

The man who now speaks for the provisional government of Panama was at one time employed as an assistant to De Lesseps in the isthmian canal work at Panama. It was he who persuaded that hapless genius to abandon the idea of a sea level canal and substitute the lock system until the enterprise should have an income large enough to justify the completion of the work on a sea level basis. Before the great scandal in France compelled the abandonment of the canal as a French project M. Bunau-Varilla was actually in full charge of the construction forces on the isthmus.

His brother is the political editor of Le Matin, and he himself is a writer of some ability. He was a classmate of Captain Dreyfus and graduated as an engineer with honors. His acquaintance with the prisoner of Devil's island gave him an opportunity to render an important service to those who brought about the captain's restoration to freedom. It was a note written by Captain Dreyfus to M. Bunau-Varilla which convinced his brother, the editor, that the alleged documentary evidence of treason upon which the officer was condemned was not written by Captain Dreyfus. Then followed the expose in Le Matin, which raised an outcry in France and resulted in the successful public agitation for a new trial.

There is something daring in the whole man. When he went to Washington to work against the Nicaragua canal route—at that time strongly indorsed by the canal commission—he went boldly to the opponents of the Panama route and tried to talk them over to his side. He even visited Senator Morgan, the champion of the Nicaragua idea, and vainly labored to change the veteran's mind. He made a tour of the western cities and lectured before commercial bodies on the superiority of the Panama route. Then he went back to Paris, convinced his fellow stockholders that they must sell at the price named by the United States and overthrow Maurice Hutin, the president of the company, who was holding out for more money.

He moved rapidly, brilliantly, audaciously. Night and day he stuck to his plans. Every instrumentality of intrigue or persuasion was wielded with tireless energy. He had a great fortune at stake, but he assured all who questioned his motives that he was inspired by his pride as an engineer, his desire to see a great work in which he had taken part finished successfully.

CHILDREN AS BAGGAGE.

A Couple's Odd Scheme to Beat a Railroad.

At Davenport, Ia., the other day a conductor on the Rock Island railroad discovered a six-year-old boy in a satchel and unearthed a ten-year-old girl that had been placed in a sack, says a Des Moines (Ia.) dispatch.

This condition was the result of a desire on the part of a couple to travel without paying fare for their five children. They were below the half fare limit, but the two that were found secreted in such a novel manner were above it. Cries of the youth, whose smothered words, "I wanna git out," attracted the attention of the conductor and resulted in the exposure of the scheme to beat the railroad.

Rock Salt to Stay Fugitive Convicts.

Long barreled shotguns loaded with lead and rock salt will be supplied workhouse guards at Toledo, O., in the future to enable them to intimidate prisoners who desire to escape, says the Chicago Record-Herald. The guards have instructions to use both barrels and not stop until the fugitive has been well salted.

AN APPEAL.

CITIZENS OF QUINCY:—

We appeal to you for funds to carry on our No-License campaign.

We have sent out several hundred letters, but we have received less than half the money that we spent last year, and that was only a little over one cent for each of our inhabitants.

"AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION IS WORTH A POUND OF CURE"—so though without a bit of work Quincy would go "No-License" for a year or two, we are firmly convinced that it means much less expenditure of money and of work to "prevent" the falling off of our "NO" majority than to "cure it" after it has fallen off.

We do then appeal earnestly to you for immediate financial support.

MURDERED SIX MEN

Confession of Member of Gang of Thugs Which Operated In Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 25.—The mystery surrounding the holdup of the cashier's office of the Chicago City railway last August, during which two of the employes of the office were shot and killed, was cleared up by the confession of Gustav Marks, who was arrested for the murder of Detective Quinn, whom Marks shot while trying to escape arrest. Harvey VanDine and Peter Neidemeier are named by Marks as his accomplices in the car barn murders. The three men went to the office of the railroad company for the purpose of robbery. Marks says that when he ordered the men to throw up their hands they obeyed, but Neidemeier burst in the window of the office and commenced shooting. In all $2250 was secured.

Marks confessed last night that in addition to the two murders at the car barns he had been connected with four other murders since that time. All of these crimes were similar in character to the killing in the barn, being robbing and shooting of men on the streets and in saloons.

Plucky Girl Outwitted Robber

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Anna Hastings, 16 years old, employed as a domestic by Mrs. R. A. Barclay, opened the cellar door in response to a knock when a negro seized her by the throat, dragged her to the kitchen and, after tying her, forced a napkin into her mouth, while he proceeded to ransack the house. The girl dragged herself to the range and burned the cords from her wrists, receiving a severe burning in the operation. She then chased the negro from the house with a carving knife.

Values Affections at $500,000

New York, Nov. 25.—Charging that Mrs. Everett M. Culver has alienated the affection that Solon J. Vlasto, her husband, should have for her, Mrs. Elizabeth R. Vlasto has begun a suit and named $500,000 as the amount she is damaged. Mrs. Culver, a daughter of Senator Clark of Montana, is already in the public eye, because of her divorce suit instituted against her husband. Vlasto is proprietor of the Greek newspaper, Atlantis. The Vlastos were married in 1875 in this city.

Murder Is Suspected

Eastport, Me., Nov. 25.—The police believe that Joseph Socalexis, whose body was found three miles outside the city, was murdered. Everett Socabasin and Newell Frances, the Indians under suspicion, pleaded not guilty and waived examination. The state has procured evidence to contradict the statements of the two Indians as to the cause of their companion's death, which occurred during a drunken brawl.

Evidence of Dynamite Plot

Denver, Nov. 25.—A special to the Rocky Mountain News from Cripple Creek says that at the coroner's inquest into the case of the two men killed by the explosion in the Vindicator mine the evidence produced demonstrated conclusively that the explosion was the result of a plot to blow up the mine, but nothing of a definite character developed to indicate the guilty persons.

Quietus on Loan Orders

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 25.—Mayor Howe's veto of a $13,000 loan order for macadam paving was sustained by the aldermen last night. He will veto another order of $13,300 for tar macadam paving and this veto will also probably be sustained. The mayor argues that the city cannot afford these loans at this late day in the municipal year.

Rathbone Asks For Investigation

Washington, Nov. 25.—Major Rathbone, who was convicted in Cuba on charges involving his administration of postal affairs in Cuba during American occupation of the island, has sent a letter to the senate committee on relations with Cuba asking for "a full and exhaustive investigation by a proper tribunal of my own countrymen."

Investors Not In Buying Mood

New York, Nov. 25.—The syndicate which underwrote $50,000,000 bonds for the International Mercantile Marine company has been extended from Jan. 1, 1904, to March 1, 1905. The extension is chiefly due, it is said, to the fact that market conditions for the past year have precluded a favorable distribution of the securities.

Wouldn't Testify Against Comrades

Louisville, Nov. 25.—Chief Tyson of the fire department has dismissed six firemen for refusing to testify at the hearing of the men charged with looting during the progress of the Masonic temple fire. Five men are directly charged with looting.

Many Victims of Bomb Thrower

London, Nov. 25.—At Arduing, Styria, an attempt was made on the life of a railway contractor in revenge for his having discharged 500 workmen. During the trouble a bomb was thrown and six persons were killed and 16 seriously injured.

Port Arthur Open to Trade

St. Petersburg, Nov. 25.—Port Arthur was opened yesterday as a trading port. Ship dues and commercial duties will be levied in accordance with the governor's order.

Almanac, Thursday, Nov. 26.
Sun rises—6:47; sets—4:15.
Moon sets—11:11 p. m.
High water—4:15 a. m.; 4:30 p. m.

The storm that crossed the lake region Monday has advanced eastward over the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the precipitation that attended it in north Atlantic states has been followed by clearing and colder weather. The weather will continue fair in New England.

END OF CHICAGO STRIKE

But Little Gained by Railway Employes as a Result of Contest

Chicago, Nov. 25.—The strike of the employes of the Chicago Street Railway company was settled this morning at a conference between the mayor, the aldermanic peace committee, President Hamilton and E. R. Bliss, counsel for the company, and the executive board of the local union of the strikers.

The basis on which the settlement was reached is a complete victory for the company as far as the original demands of the men are concerned. The agreement reached was ratified at a meeting of the men at 9 o'clock this morning and it is expected that traffic on all the lines of the company will be resumed today.

The only important concession made by the company was an agreement to reinstate all the strikers, including the outside unions who went out in sympathy with the trainmen, with the exception of those who resorted to violence during the trouble. The arbitration of the wage scale is to be according to the wages paid outside of Chicago and not on the basis of the local street railroads. These are the two points that have been the stumbling block to a peaceable adjustment of the strike for the past week. The company has insisted that it pays higher wages than any similar corporation in the country. The men were fearful that arbitration on the scale paid in other cities would decrease their wages and they fought stubbornly for their point.

Trial Amounting to Farce

Vienna, Nov. 25.—Reports of the trial at Kishineff of persons connected with the massacre of Jews say that the court absolutely refused to permit the mention of the names of any persons not actually accused, even when witnesses for the defense represented that the prisoners were the tools of more intelligent and responsible agitators, whose names they offered to give.

San Domingo In Rebels' Hands

Cape Haytien, Nov. 25.—Dispatches received here from Puerto Plata say that the city of San Domingo was surrendered to the revolutionists yesterday and that President Wos y Gil and his ministers took refuge on board a German warship. The dispatches further say that great enthusiasm prevails throughout the country.

Charged With Shooting Son

Toronto, Nov. 25.—The wife of Quartermaster-Sergeant Galloway of the Royal Canadian regiment is under arrest on the charge of shooting her 14-year-old son, with intent to kill. The lad was shot through the mouth, the bullet coming out of the cheek. The shot was fired at close range. He will recover.

Pension Commissioner to Retire

Washington, Nov. 25.—Eugene F. Ware, commissioner of pensions, will retire from that office about a year hence and will return to the practice of law in Kansas. The decision to resign and return to private life is the result of his long felt dissatisfaction with the nature of the duties of his office.

Telluride Guarded by Troops

Telluride, Col., Nov. 25.—About 500 men of the Colorado National Guard reached Telluride last evening. The train, in four sections, was run very slowly, great precautions being taken to prevent any disaster. Mine owners will now attempt to reopen their mines and mills with non-union men.

Peace In Central America

Paris, Nov. 25.—It is announced at the Nicaraguan legation here that a dispatch has been received from the Nicaraguan government to the effect that perfect peace now prevails between Nicaragua and the other Central American republics and that it is not likely to be disturbed.

NEWS IN BRIEF

With a sharp explosion fire broke out in 38 tons of coal stored in the sheds of the Bowdoin Paper company at Topsham, Me. The coal sheds are situated on the banks of the river, and many tons of coal slid into the water. For a time the paper mill was in danger.

The Presbyterian church Sabbath school at Kippen, Ont., was wrecked by a gas explosion. A tea meeting for the children was being held and the gas meter burst. Nine persons were injured.

The National fish hatchery at St. Johnsbury, Vt., has received 2,000,000 trout eggs to be hatched during the winter.

The Countess of Euston died at London of bronchitis. She was formerly Kate Walsh, a variety actress.

Two large barns, with several tons of hay and a large quantity of coal, were destroyed by fire at Oldtown, Mass., causing a loss of $2500. It is thought the fire was started by the kicking over of a lighted lantern by a horse.

HOMEMADE CAKE STAND.

A Pretty and Valuable Present For the Housewife.

Here is something pretty and useful made for a dainty woman's Christmas present. It consists of nothing more than a cake stand contrived from three round wooden box lids, three bamboo rods and a liberal supply of ribbon. The lids are first sandpapered to a uniform smoothness and then stained a pretty green and varnished when dry. The bamboo rods are moderately thick, cut the desired length and given a coating of metallic green paint. The first lid is fastened to the rods about six inches from the top by pieces of wire passed through holes in the cover and rods exactly opposite each other, and the wire, which can be painted over, neatly wound and made quite tight. This process is repeated for each tray as it is put in position. Now take some soft wide satin ribbon and arrange it in the bows shown in the sketch. This gives the finishing touch to the stand, which is most useful to put cakes and bonbons on for afternoon tea or for a workbasket. The ribbon covers the wire in four places and should always be an effective contrast to the trays, which need not always be stained, but can be enameled or covered with silk or gathered crape paper, or a novel idea is to enamel the rims a delft blue and paint a willow pattern design in the rounds, the bamboo rods a deep blue and the ribbons alternate bows of white and blue.

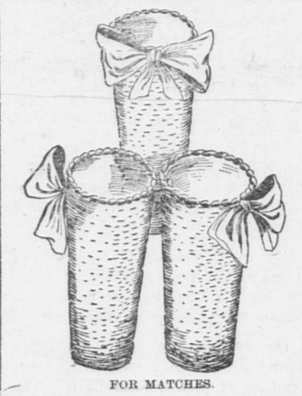
FOR A SMOKING ROOM.

Match Receptacles Made of Straw Wine Cases.

Most of us are familiar with the pretty straw covers round the bottles of foreign liqueurs and wines. These look extremely well divested of the bottles and fastened together in groups of threes, and are useful as Christmas gifts.

The covers can be dyed different colors or each end different looks well.



FOR MATCHES.

When dry varnish them and while the varnish is wet powder them lightly with some metallic powder—gold, bronze or green. A small tumbler to hold flowers can be put in the top one, while empty tins filled with moss and earth and planted with ferns can be fixed in the other two. Ribbon bows are placed on the front, and they are hung up either by ribbon or else by gold picture wire.

A group of three, dyed brown and adorned with orange ribbon, would be useful in a smoking room, the top holding wax tapers, while cups fitted in close to the tops of the underneath cases hold respectively used and unused matches.

Insured for $2,000,000

L. Rodman Wanamaker, son of John Wanamaker, the eminent merchant of New York and Philadelphia, has taken out a policy in

The Prudential Insurance Co.

for $1,000,000, paying an annual premium of over $30,000. This makes him the most heavily insured man in the world, with the single exception of King Edward VII.

Mr Wanamaker's total insurance is now $2,000,000.

Ask yourself WHY Mr. Wanamaker placed one-half this great amount with The Prudential.

Your business judgment will at once reply: "Because after full investigation and comparison, Mr. Wanamaker found that the company which could give him the best insurance for a given amount of money was The Prudential."

Undoubtedly you will agree that Mr. Wanamaker does not pay over $30,000 per year except for most excellent reasons.

These reasons apply to YOU precisely as well as they do to HIM.

The Union Labor Carnival is another illustration of what organized unionism can do. This carnival, to be held under the auspices and for the benefit of organized labor, is one of those rare undertakings in the amusement world that is union from start to finish. The carnival commences Nov. 30, and will continue every afternoon and evening for the following six days, and the numerous monster attractions that are engaged with the sole object of furnishing the people with amusements, should meet with hearty support in Quincy and its surroundings. Just how the directors of this big undertaking can give the people so much for their ten cents, can only be explained by themselves.

FURTHER REVELATIONS

At Hearing on Methods of Shipbuilding Company

FOUR MEN GOT $4,000,000

Of $5,000,000 Additional Stock Issued When Company Was Reorganized—Schwab's Offer to Purchase Stock Declared to Be Bribery

New York, Nov. 25.—Testimony of a sensational nature was introduced at the resumption of the United States shipbuilding hearing. During the course of his redirect examination of Lewis Nixon president of the shipbuilding company, Mr. Untermeyer, counsel for the complainants, brought out from Nixon the statement that of the $5,000,000 additional stock issued when the company was reorganized to take in the Bethlehem company $1,000,000 went to Max Pam, C. M. Schwab's counsel, and $1,000,000 each to Nixon, D. LeRoy Dresser and the Trust Company of the Republic, leaving $1,000,000, the disposition of which he did not know. He did not know whether Schwab obtained it.

It was also brought out that, at the time the Sheldon reorganization plan was under consideration, Schwab offered to purchase $100,000 bonds, with the accompanying bonus of 25,000 shares common and 25,000 shares preferred stock, issued to Nixon, for $90,000, while the market value was far less than this, Untermeyer making the direct charge that this was in the nature of a bribe to induce Nixon to agree to the Sheldon plan of reorganization instead of the plan for an assessment of stock, which he had previously advocated.

The offer was shown in two letters of Schwab to Joseph H. Hoadley, dated May 26, 1903, copies of which were introduced in evidence. Hoadley, it was testified, had conducted the negotiations with Schwab when Nixon was endeavoring to persuade Schwab to accede to the assessment plan and had, after this proposal, urged Nixon to accede to the Sheldon plan. Nixon said that at Hoadley's request he had done so.

At the conclusion of the session Nixon gave out for publication a letter he had recently received from Hoadley, in answer to Nixon's request for copies of the correspondence between Schwab and Hoadley.

Mr. Nixon was asked about his previous acquaintance with Schwab and the connection of the Carnegie and Bethlehem companies with the United States Shipbuilding company, with a view, Untermeyer said, of bringing out Schwab's knowledge of shipbuilding affairs before his connection with the company. Witness said that an agreement was made by which the shipbuilding company was to obtain steel for foreign ships from the Carnegie company at a price enabling it to compete with foreign builders. He was asked about the bids submitted by the United States Shipbuilding company, this year, on two battleships for the American navy, and testified that he was not allowed to submit the bids prepared by himself, but other bids drawn up under Pam's direction and signed by Hanscomb of the Eastern Shipyards company were submitted instead.

Train Wreckers Guilty of Murder

Staunton, Va., Nov. 25.—James Bailey, on trial here on the charge of murder in connection with the wrecking of a train, when Engineer Bailey was killed, was found guilty of murder in the second degree and sentenced to 18 years in the penitentiary. The Boston Post offers one thousand dollars in gold and the watch itself, with diamond chatelaine pin, to anyone who will estimate at what time it stops or, failing correct estimates, then the nearest correct.

All estimates must be made on coupons in the Boston Post, where full conditions will be found. There is no charge whatever for estimating. The contest closes Dec. 21, and it is proposed to make the awards in time for Christmas. All New England is getting excited over the contest.

The school teachers, employes of the street, water and sewer departments and city officers are being paid by the City Treasurer today.

GOOD CHEER

Prevailed at Many Home Gatherings

Day Observed at Our Institutions.

The Unfortunates Generously Remembered.

Thursday was observed throughout Quincy as a day of home gathering. Around the festive boards at the noon hour were reunion of parents, sons and daughters and often grandchildren perhaps for the first time for a year.

The day was a beautiful one, sharp and cold, yet withal a typical New England Thanksgiving day.

That the poor as well as the rich were permitted to enjoy the annual feast, was due to the generosity of Quincy's philanthropic citizens. Why many who gave large amounts were n numerous, several baskets were left at the homes of the poor by orders of those who desire that their generosity should not be known.

Care was also taken that the inmates of the several institutions also had an opportunity for blessing the establishment of a Thanksgiving day.

During the day there were out-of-door sports such as foot ball and skating, and in the evening there were social dances.

There were a large number of marriages of Quincy people on the holiday or the night before.

No accidents were reported in Quincy to mar the day, and taking it all in all, good fellowship reigned supreme.

At Quincy Home.

The unfortunates at the Quincy Home had their annual Thanksgiving feast, Thursday, the bill of fare consisting of turkey, vegetables, pie and fruit. All work was suspended that the inmates might enjoy the New England holiday.

At Sailors' Home.

The inmates at the National Sailors home had their annual Thanksgiving feast on Thursday. Only the necessary work was done during the day. At noon an old-fashioned dinner consisting of turkey and all the fixings was served.

At Sailors' Snug Harbor.

Turkey, vegetables, fruit, etc., furnished the menu that was served to the inmates of Sailors' Snug Harbor for dinner Thanksgiving day. Following dinner the old salts lighted their pipes and enjoyed themselves telling sea yarns in the warm lounging room.

At the Hospital.

The most of the patients at the City Hospital passed Thanksgiving in bed. Those who were well enough to have the Thanksgiving things for dinner were given them. The day was a quiet one but pleasant.

Foresters' Dance A Great Success.

HOLIDAY FOOT BALL.

Games at Merrymount Park and on Ward Four Playground.

Great interest was taken in the foot ball match at Merrymount park on the morning of the holiday, fully 2,000 being present, including several young ladies.

The match was between the Wollastons and the Avons, and was rather one-sided, as the score was 27 to 0 in favor of the home team.

At no time was the Wollaston goal in danger. Whenever the Avons had the ball they were unable to advance, while the Wollastou team when they obtained the ball pushed it steadily toward their opponents goal.

The whole Wollaston team played a good game, but Saunders, Taylor and Magnuson made the sensational plays, making big gains.

The summary:

WOLLASTON A. A.	AVON.

At West Quincy.

In the annual game of football at West Quincy Thanksgiving morning the Copeland club defeated their old rivals, the South Quincy A. C., by a score of 15 to 0. The game was fast throughout, and the best playing was done for Copeland by Badger and Capt. Flaherty, and for South Quincy by Norrie and Pierce.

The line-up was as follows:

TODAY'S COURT.

Judge Avery took into consideration that Thursday was a holiday and several of those arrested for drunkenness at Quincy, Weymouth and Cohasset were released.

John Moran was sent to the State farm at Bridegewater for drunkenness at Milton.

Michael J. Whalen was arraigned for drunkenness at Randolph. Case continued until Nov. 30.

John Reardon was fined $25 for assault on Belle Dixon at Randolph.

McPherson—McPhee.

Mr. Daniel McPherson and Miss Effie McPhee were married Wednesday evening Nov. 25, at the home of the brides brother Mr. Alex McPhee, 64 Rodman street. There were about forty guests present, mostly relatives of the bride and groom from Boston, Newton and Quincy.

Miss Flora McPhee, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Martin McPerson, a brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride was dressed in steel colored silk and wore a veil. Rev. William B. Barr performed the ceremony. An informal reception followed and an excellent wedding supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. McPherson will leave Monday for Prince Edward's Island, their former home, where they will spend the winter. They expect to return in the spring and make Quincy their home. They have the congratulations and best wishes of their many friends.

Fisher Family Reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Fisher and family held a reunion in Odd Fellows hall, South Braintree, Thanksgiving day. At noon an excellent turkey dinner was served by Caterer Tracy of the Brunswick House. Music, games, singing, selections on the graphophone and dancing were enjoyed during the day. The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Fisher of South Braintree, Mrs. Florence Fisher and little daughter of New Hampshire, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Willson and three children of Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fisher and two children of Wollaston, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fisher of Norfolk Downs, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fisher and daughter Hazel, of South Braintree and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fisher of Weymouth.

Runaway.

There was quite a lively runaway in City Square this morning. The runaway was not a horse as usual but a goat. He was harnessed to a gig in which was a boy driver. The turnout was near Johnson's market when the goat took it into his head to run away, and although the boy tried bravely to stop him he could not. The goat ran through the yard near Frank F. Crane's store and did not stop until he landed on the step leading to Mr. Johnson's house on Maple place.

Heptasophs League.

There was some good bowling at the Granite street alleys Wednesday evening when the team of Granite Conclave defeated South Boston conclave in three games, as follows:

ANNUAL BALL.

A Brilliant Party by St. Francis Court.

Ladies in Beautiful Gowns.

Foresters from Neighboring Towns in Attendance.

The twenty-third annual ball of St Francis court of Foresters was held Wednesday evening at St. Mary's hall, West Quincy, and proved to be the social event of the season in that section of the city. The affair was largely attended, thus assuring its financial as well as social success.

The costumes worn by the ladies were in many cases beautiful, the colors serving to brighten the effect.

Thomson's orchestra furnished the music, and they were seated on the platform almost hidden behind the wealth of potted plants and ferns.

Representatives were present from the courts in Milton, Braintree, Weymouth, Randolph and Stoughton. Several of the High Court officers were also present. Their comfort and welfare was well looked out for by a large reception committee of which Joseph M. Sheahan, M. D., was chairman.

From 8 until 9 o'clock the orchestra gave a promenade concert, and it was while the concert was in progress that those who were to participate in the [illegible]

At 9 o'clock the first strains of the opening march were sounded, and the march which was a feature of the evening was started. This was led by Chief Ranger William T. Shea and Miss Catherine Shea, who were followed by nearly one hundred couples. Following the march and circle came the dance proper, and it was continued until 3 o'clock, the only intermission being near midnight when a supper was served in the lower hall.

While the order of twenty numbers contained many of the more modern dances, there was a generous sprinkling of the square dances, so that those who had not been initiated into the mysteries of the waltz, galop and two-step could find enjoyment in the quardrille, portland fancy and contra dances.

Chief Ranger William T. Shea was marshal; Vice Chief Ranger A. B. Murphy, floor director, and J. L. Heaney and John Vogel assistant floor directors. They were assisted by a large corps of aids, of which Thomas J. Dunphy was chief.

The committee of arrangements were: Wm. T. Shea, Chairman, W. P. Hughes Secretary and Treasurer, John Vogel, J. F. Burke, A. J. Morrissett, A. B. Murphy, J. A. White, T. J. Dunphy and J. L. Heaney.

A Terrible Case.

The leading editorial in the Herald today is another good argument in favor of No-License:

"Could a more terrible picture be drawn than a basement room where a woman was lying dead as a result of alchoholism and surrounded by five mourners of her own sex all sufficiently intoxicated to justify their being arrested. One might expect to read of such a case with horror as happening in the slums of Paris, London or New York, but what are the feelings when it must be admitted that such a condition actually existed within our own city of Boston.

Whether or not drinking is on the increase or the decrease appears to be a debatable question, with evidence that must be considered on both sides. But such a case as this to which we have alluded, a case recently reported by the police, shows that there are still ample opportunities within our own municipality for temperance reform that will help to check all the crime, misery and horror that so frequently accompany the overuse of alcohol."

THE FIRST BRIDESMAID

By IZOLA L. FORRESTER

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

It was late when Eleanor arrived.

There was a hum of voices and rustle of soft gowns in the long white and gold double parlors. She caught a glimpse of palms and smilax and tall clusters of lilies standing imperially over all.

She went upstairs hurriedly with tears in her eyes and gladness in her heart over the beauty and fitness of it all—Beatrice in her youth and bridal sweetness and the fragrance and flowers everywhere, with the plenitude of the springtide—and only a few short months ago the hope and promise had been her own.

They had planned it together, Rex and she, those first happy days when their love had been so wonderful in its newborn strangeness. The wedding was to be just after Easter, when all was white lilies and opening buds. It was the only true time of the year for bridals, Rex had said, when the bride herself was young and fair as one of the golden hearted lilies.

And it had ended before even the storms of February had passed. She had almost forgotten the cause, it had been so trivial—a word dropped in jest of an old sweetheart whom he had met by chance at a reception. He had said laughingly that she was prettier than ever, and Eleanor had been tired and petulant and had answered in a few sharp words regretted as soon as spoken.

"I AM NOT ANGRY," SHE SAID ALMOST EAGERLY.

She had just time to catch a glimpse of herself in the mirror of the bridesmaids' dressing room. Beatrice was dark and had chosen her attendants for their fairness. They were dressed in white and green and carried great shower bouquets of lilies of the valley, her favorite flower.

The wedding party formed in the library. Eleanor was first bridesmaid on the right. She held her flowers closely, her heart beating fast as the soft, slow strains of the wedding march sounded. Beatrice's little cousins, Nannie and Bess, were leading the way with broad white satin ribbons to form an aisle through the parlors. To the first bridesmaid, as she followed them dreamily through a maze of blossoms and bright faces, it almost seemed as if it were all for her and Rex, and suddenly, as they reached the bower of lilies and palms in the south bay window, she glanced up and met his gaze as he stood opposite her beside the bridegroom.

"How white you are, Nell," some one whispered as she moved to her place.

"It is the odor of the lilies," she answered, and wondered if any one saw the tears in her eyes.

It was not fair. Beatrice should have told her he would be there. She wondered if he, too, was thinking of what might have been. Against her will she looked at him again.

Beatrice was speaking, her voice low and sweet and tremulous.

"For better, for worse; for richer, for poorer; in sickness and in health, until death do us part."

The glorious, sacred words thrilled her with the fullness of their meaning. This was the vow she would have taken for love of him. Her love had been strong enough then. As she gazed at him she knew it was as strong now.

"Till death do us part." And she had thrown aside her troth as carelessly as the lilies would be cast aside when their color and fragrance were gone.

It was over before she realized it. She kissed Beatrice, standing, tall and slender and proud eyed, in her white satin beside her husband, and went out into the library, away from the rush of people and the laughter and gayety. It was quiet in the cool, deserted room. There would be an interval of a few minutes before the reception, and she hoped she would not be missed. A divan stood in one corner, half concealed by a tall Persian screen, and she sought its shelter instinctively.

He had remembered. She knew that he had by the look in his eyes, but there had been no tenderness or regret there, merely grave, disinterested recognition. She closed her eyes as if to keep back the tears that filled them, and laid her head on the pile of soft cushions back of her. The shower bouquet fell on the rug at her feet. She did not care. It all seemed a mockery of their love and faith and broken troth—the gladness of another's bridal and they two meeting as strangers.

Some one entered the room, hesitated and walked deliberately over to the screened divan. She knew his step before he stood beside her.

"Mrs. Langdon sent me to find you," he said. "She wants you."

How queer it was to hear Beatrice called Mrs. Langdon. She almost had to think a moment to know whom he meant.

"I will come at once," she answered, and stooped for the flowers.

He lifted them for her, and their hands met.

"Nell!" he exclaimed as he saw that she had been crying. "Nell, what is it?"

She tried to be dignified and brave.

"Nothing, nothing at all. Please go away."

"You've been crying."

"Please go away."

"I won't. At least, not until I know what the trouble is."

She was silent.

"Is it because I am here, and you are angry?"

"I am not angry," she said almost eagerly. "Not a bit. Only"—

"Only what?"

"I didn't expect to see you," she faltered, not meeting his gaze. "And when I did see you—why, it was just unexpected; that was all."

"Did you come here to cry over the unexpected?"

She rose indignantly. He did not have the slightest right in the world to question her so. She would not listen to it.

"I wish to go to Mrs. Langdon, please," she said.

"Don't go, Nell. She doesn't want you very much. I asked where you were, and she told me to find you. It was I who wanted you really."

"But I want to go."

He bent toward her with pleading eyes.

"Nell, didn't it make you think of anything else—Nell, the flowers and music and what they were saying? Why, when I heard Langdon saying all that about love and cherish and forsake and all the rest of it I just wanted to gather you up in my arms before everybody and say them too. Didn't it make you remember? Didn't you almost wish it were you and me, sweetheart?"

She bowed her head over the lilies in silence.

"I didn't mean to tell you," he went on. "I only wanted to see you alone and speak to you and hear your voice, don't you understand? It isn't an appeal or regrets, Nell. I wouldn't bother you with that sort of thing. It's only the remembrance of it all and wish it had been you and me, dear."

He stood aside to let her pass, but she did not move, only looked at him with the old love in her eyes.

"I'm glad you came, Rex," she said softly. "I wished it too."

Strict Etiquette.

A youthful officer in the United States navy is inclined to be very exact in the observance of etiquette prescribed by regulations. The New York Tribune relates how this tendency led one such officer to rebuke his own father, who is also an officer.

The son, soon after he had received his first commission, was on duty at the New York navy yard, and the father, who had the command of a vessel that had just been put into commission, was anxious to get his provisions on board that he might get away on his cruise. As the captain was passing through the navy yard to call on the commandant of the station he saw his son, in uniform, walking toward his headquarters in the storehouse and shouted "Henry!" two or three times, but did not receive any response.

Finally the son turned about and said in a dignified tone:

"Are you addressing me, sir?"

"Yes," replied the father. "I sent in a requisition for my stores, and I wish you would hurry it through so that I can have the things delivered as promptly as possible, for I am anxious to get to sea."

"Very well," replied the young officer. "I will look into the matter, but please bear in mind that when I am on duty I am to be addressed as mister or by my naval title. When I am at home or at some unofficial affair I am Henry or anything you please."

That the father recognized the propriety of this fine distinction was shown afterward by his often telling the story at his own expense.

A Hopeless Case.

A Mr. X. wished to have a telephone put in his house, but his aged mother vigorously protested against it.

"Robert," she said, "if you bring one of those dreadful things in here I'll never close my eyes for fear it may break out and sweep us all into eternity and us not a bit the wiser."

Mr. X. tried to persuade her it was a most harmless instrument, but she said: "No, no! Look at the thousands—aye, millions—of poor Hindoos it killed last autumn."

"Why," exclaimed he, "that wasn't a telephone, mother; that was a typhoon."

But the timid old lady lowered her spectacles and, looking at him over the rims thereof, said:

"You need not try to make a fool of me, Robert. I perhaps don't know much, but I do know that the typhoon is the emperor of Japan!"

Mr. X. gave it up as a hopeless case.

HOPE FOR BALDHEADS.

Wear Corsets or Belts and Help Your Hair, Says German Scientist.

"Hoch" the corset!

Down with the dress reformer, who usually "reforms" at an age at which she has no form to reform—for she is the friend of the baldhead microbe. For the corset has found a friend, says the Berlin correspondent of the Milwaukee Sentinel.

It is declared to be a certain cure for baldness by a scientist who will not be denied, but comes forward with baldheaded facts.

He blames baldness on exclusively abdominal or "deep" breathing, which men affect, and in which the corset does not allow women to indulge.

Without going into a scientific dissertation on breathing it may be stated that the lower portion of the stomach plays its part in the process of respiration.

Now, the ordinary man, says this investigator, allows the lower portion of the stomach to play too great a part in the process of breathing, whereas the corset confines the breathing of the fair sex more largely to the upper portion of the chest and woman retains her crown of glory.

In the pursuit of his investigations the chemist selected various animals which breathe properly and fitted them with an apparatus which forced what is called exclusively abdominal breathing. Dogs, cats and even birds fitted with these unique and wrongly constructed corsets actually lose their hair or feathers after a few months of wear.

On the other hand, it is argued that millions of men who do not wear stays have an abundance of hair. It has been set forth on competent authority that at least 50 per cent of the men of the present day are more or less afflicted with baldness and that the percentage is increasing alarmingly.

This fact alone rather upsets the argument that has just been set down, and to it must be added the further fact that thousands of men habitually wear a belt, not necessarily of leather or worn outside the waistcoat, which, although they are unaware of it, acts as a pair of stays with regard to the process of breathing.

From inquiries made in this connection the weight of evidence is in favor of a good head of hair in the possession of men who wear these belts, which are sometimes mere strips of flannel.

NOVEL LIFE RAFT.

Man Carried Ashore From Wreck by Belt of Phonograph Cylinders.

News of an ingenious escape from drowning comes from the Midway cable station, writes the Honolulu correspondent of the New York Herald. S. McMichael, one of the operators, left Honolulu on the schooner Julia E. Whale for Midway station. The schooner encountered bad weather off the island and was driven on the reef a few nights ago. Fears for the safety of all on board were entertained.

With remarkable presence of mind McMichael is reported to have devised a novel life belt. Cylinder records for a phonograph had been placed in his care for the station. When he found the vessel pounding on the reef and likely to go to pieces McMichael thought of the records. He plugged up the ends of the cylinders, making them completely air tight.

Stringing them on ropes, he constructed several life belts. He took to the water and floated ashore with the aid of the belts. The remainder of the crew would have been glad of the opportunity to have had similar life belts, but McMichael had used up all of the records. Members of the crew finally were saved by getting their lifeboat launched before the vessel broke up.

RICH GIFT FOR KIND DEED.

Canadian Receives $50,000 Check From Man He Befriended.

Joseph Aubin, a hotel keeper of McGregor, near Windsor, Ont., recently realized the benefits of casting bread on the waters when he received a draft for $50,000 from his half brother, Jacques Caza of Chile, South America, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

The present is a sequel to a trial which occurred in Montreal a number of years ago when Caza was charged with murder. He had no money to fight his case and was in despair until young Aubin came forward with his savings and engaged counsel and looked up evidence for his half brother.

Caza was acquitted and went to Chile. The next heard of him was in the shape of a $3,000 check that he sent to Aubin to repay the money spent on the trial. He afterward wrote that he would make Aubin rich and evidently means to keep his word.

How Gen. Miles Captured the South.

"General Miles," said a southern member of congress to the Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune, "is growing very popular south of Mason and Dixon's line. The change of sentiment began with a little speech he made some time ago at Charlottesville, Va., at a session of the national good roads convention. 'I am glad to see a marked improvement in the roads in this part of Virginia,' said General Miles. 'More than a generation ago I tried to get over these roads,' he continued, referring to his operations in the vicinity against Confederate troops, 'but I found nearly every highway absolutely impassable.' This humorous and subtle tribute to the valor of southern arms was warmly applauded in Charlottesville, and as the remark has traveled throughout the south it has won for the general pleasant welcomes from Maryland to Texas."

NEW CANAL TREATY

Will Meet No Obstacle When It Reaches Panama

JUNTA AGREES TO RATIFY

Minister at Washington Receives Notification to That Effect--General Reyes Declares That Colombia Will Fight

Panama, Nov. 27.—The junta, composed of Messrs, Arango, Arias and Espinosa, held a meeting yesterday, all the ministers of state and councillors being present, and unanimously decided to ratify the canal treaty so soon as it is received here and authorize Minister Bunau-Varilla to officially communicate the junta's decision to the United States government. The decision of the junta was received with great joy throughout the isthmus, without distinction of parties or classes.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Official confirmation of the determination of the Panama junta to ratify the Bunau-Varilla Panama treaty was received by Minister Varilla at 3:30 yesterday afternoon. The state department being closed, Varilla communicated the news informally to Mr. Loomis, who is acting secretary in the absence of Mr. Hay. The minister's dispatch is as follows:

"In view of the approbation given by the delegates Amador and Boyd (the commissioners who were sent by the government of Panama to confer with Mr. Varilla) to the Hay-Bunau-Varilla treaty, you are authorized to notify officially the government of the United States that as soon as the document is received by the junta of the government of the republic of Panama it will be ratified and signed."

Minister Varilla calls special attention to the fact that the message received by him is signed not only by the members of the junta, but also by the minister of foreign relations, which, he says, gives the communication the character of a formal decree of the government.

The action taken by the Panama junta doubtless is due in part at least to the urgent representations of Minister Varilla that prompt steps be taken with a view to the ratification of the treaty as soon as it shall reach Panama. Last Saturday the minister cabled a long synopsis of the treaty to Panama and since that time had been in communication with the government on the subject.

The minister recounted with a great deal of gratification last night the rapid progress of events since the birth of the new republic of Panama three weeks ago, ending with the declaration of the junta to ratify the Panama canal treaty.

Dr. Herrera, the Colombian charge, has received a dispatch from General Reyes, the Colombian peace commissioner, who left New Orleans last night, saying that he would reach Washington on Saturday. With him is General Ospina.

Will Lose No Time

Colon, Nov. 27.—It is proposed that when the messenger bearing the Panama canal treaty reaches Colon to have a special train ready to transport him quickly across the isthmus to Panama, where the treaty will be immediately signed by the members of the junta.

The train will be kept waiting and when the treaty has been signed its bearer will be promptly brought back to Colon. The steamer Yucatan, due to sail Dec. 1 for New York, will be delayed until the messenger arives, when he will embark on the Yucatan, thus starting for New York on the same date that he arrives.

Ready to Fight Isthmians

New Orleans, Nov. 27.—General Reyes, representing the government of Colombia, who is on his way to Washington to intercede in behalf of his government in connection with the recognition of the republic of Panama, arrived here on the steamer Beverly. General Reyes said he was going to see the president and hoped to induce the United States to keep hands off the isthmus and allow the Colombian government to regain its lost territory. If the United States would not agree to this, then the Colombians would march an army of 100,000 men across the mountains to Panama and, meeting only the 2000 isthmians, would soon regain the isthmus. Then the United States would have to negoeiate with Colombia or build the Nicaragua canal. He said the Colombians had no thought of declaring war against the United States, because they saw it would be a futile effort.

Lanky Bob a Winner

San Francisco, Nov. 27.—Bob Fitzsimmons proved that he has not entirely lost his old-time form when he outboxed and outgeneralled George Gardner for 20 full rounds. Fitz was as awkward and as cunning as of yore and, apparently realizing that he must foster his strength, there was not a moment when he was not carefulness personified.

Another Treasury Resignation

Washington, Nov. 27.—T. W. Hentz, a special agent of the treasury department, who has been investigating certain alleged customs frauds at Boston, has resigned, and his resignation has been accepted. Hentz had been transferred to Detroit and preferred to resign rather than accept his new post.

TWO LETTER WRITERS

Who Have Annoyed President Are Sent to Bellevue

New York, Nov. 27.—Charles Threshon, who is charged with writing letters to President Roosevelt, complaining that an influential person in governmental circles in Washington has an electric battery which is attached to the soles of Threshon's feet and so militates against his chances of seeing the president, has been sent to Bellevue hospital for examination as to his sanity. None of the letters contained threats.

Threshon has twice before been arrested, once on Jan. 6, 1895, when he sent a letter to President Cleveland from Baltimore, containing allusions to the electric current which prevented him from reaching the president, and again in 1901, when he sent a similar letter to President McKinley and was arrested, declared insane and sent to a hospital in Washington.

Another arrest of the same nature was made later when Kalman Fodessy was taken into custody by officers of the secret service and sent to Bellevue for examination. Fodessy is a watchmaker who came to this country from Hungary two years ago. For some time he has been writing letters to President Roosevelt, chiefly about police officials of Buffalo, and when arrested he told a rambling, disconnected story. At the time of his arrest he had a 10-page typewritten letter addressed to the president in his possession.

American Church Dedicated

Berlin, Nov. 27.—Crown Prince Frederick William, in behalf of Emperor William, took part in the dedication of the New American church here. The empress could not be present on account of her husband's indisposition and sent the court chamberlain to represent her. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Van Slyke and Professor Brown of New York. Dr. Dickie preached the sermon.

West Australia Wants Settlers

Sydney, N. S. W., Nov. 27.—With a view to attracting population to West Australia, the authorities have arranged with the Salvation Army to send emigrants, the government undertaking to defray the passages and to pay the army a substantial bonus for every immigrant settling here during the next six months.

Carter Leaves Prison Tomorrow

Leavenworth, Kas., Nov. 27.—Oberlin M. Carter, ex-captain of engineers, U. S. A., who has served 43 months of a five-year sentence in the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth, will pass out of the gate of the prison tomorrow a free man. He intends to go directly to Chicago. Carter positively declines to be interviewed.

Russia's Great Flood

St. Petersburg, Nov. 27.—The flood which has caused so much damage here was the biggest since 1824. The intense cold is causing much distress among the homeless and the dwellers in cellars. In the factory quarter 20,000 persons have been driven into the streets, many of them losing their all.

Elopement Story Denied

Genoa, Nov. 27.—Princess Alice of Schoenburg-Waldenburg, wife of Prince Victor Frederick of Schoenburg-Waldenburg, who is living with her maid of honor at Sorey, a village about nine miles from here, is deeply chagrined at the false reports of her elopement.

Annual Plea For Statehood

Washington, Nov. 27.—The annual report of Governor Otero of New Mexico makes a plea for the admission of the territory to statehood. The assessed valuation of New Mexico shows an increase of about $1,000,000 over that of the preceding year.

Eisenbraun Again Sets Sail

Gibraltar, Nov. 27.—The Columbia II, the sailing boat 19 feet long and of 6 feet beam, in which Captain Eisenbraun left Boston Aug. 14, alone, for Marseilles, and which arrived here Nov. 20, sailed from here last evening for her destination.

THIN PEOPLE

want to get fat and fat people want to get thin—human nature. If you are fat don't take Scott's Emulsion. It will make you gain flesh. If you are thin Scott's Emulsion is just what you need.

It is one of the greatest flesh producers known. Not temporary gains but healthy, solid flesh that will fill out the body where it is needed.

There's nothing better than Scott's Emulsion for weakness and wasting.

Scott's Emulsion is a food-medicine; not a stimulant; not a mere "extract" or so-called "wine" of cod liver oil. It contains the whole oil perfectly emulsified, which is the only way of preserving its valuable properties.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

KILLED HIS GUEST

Sequel to a Thanksgiving Dinner Given by an Italian

Franklin, Mass., Nov. 27.—A quarrel that began with good-natured bantering ended in a tragedy last night when Boneto Penza shot and instantly killed Joseph Mannie, a guest at a Thanksgiving celebration at Penza's house. Penza fled after the shooting. Both men are Italians.

Mannie was one of four guests at a Thanksgiving dinner at Penza's. During the day the men drank some, but it is said not to excess. Finally Mannie and Frank Raphernia became seriously engaged in a dispute and this so annoyed Penza that he ordered the two men to leave the house. At this, Mannie, it is said, flew into a passion and slapped Penza's face. Without a word, the other drew a revolver and fired. The bullet entered Mannie's head above the left ear. He sank into a chair, from which he fell to the floor, expiring as he fell. Penza immediately ran from the house and has not yet been captured.

Police Cannot Find Mendum

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 27.—The police officials who have been attempting to locate William J. Mendum, for whose arrest a warrant was recently issued, believe that Mendum has left the country. They state that the shortage in the estate of Charles A. Mendum, of which the missing man was one of two trustees, is found to amount to $30,000. This amount represents funds and securities which cannot be found by the authorities. The Mendum estate is valued at about $100,000.

Suspension For Club Swinger

Everett, Mass., Nov. 27.—The quick action of Mayor Bruce undoubtedly saved Patrolman Ellis from severe treatment at the hands of an angry crowd in this city. The disturbance originated at a football game where the policeman clubbed an unoffending spectator. Mayor Bruce says that Ellis will be suspended without pay for some time, but will probably not be dismissed from the force, as there were some extenuating circumstances in his favor.

Fight Ended In Death

Rutland, Vt., Nov. 27.—An autopsy was held upon the body of Edward J. Harris, aged 17, a prisoner at the house of correction, who dropped dead during a fight with another prisoner. The findings of the autopsy were not made public. Harris was serving a sentence of not less than 10 nor more than 12 months for larceny. He is said to have been in poor health and a pardon for him had been asked from the governor.

Held For Smuggling Turkeys

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 27.—Lewis M. Mitchell of Alburg was arraigned before Commissioner Johnson here and held in $300 bonds for trial for smuggling. Mitchell is the man who made a spectacular escape from officers on the night of Nov. 12, leaving behind a wagon containing 1000 pounds of turkeys which it is claimed he was attempting to smuggle across the border.

Accidentally Shot Wife

West Newbury, Mass., Nov. 27.—Walter Emory of Newton, N. H., was slipping a shell into a breech-loading rifle preparatory to a hunting trip when the weapon was discharged. The contents of the shell entered his wife's right knee and grave concern is felt as to the outcome of her injuries. Mr. and Mrs. Emory came here to spend Thanksgiving.

Policeman Slashed by Negro

Boston, Nov. 27.—During an attempt to arrest William D. Washington, a negro, in a saloon, Police Officer Williamson was assaulted with a knife by his intended prisoner, sustaining deep cuts in the forehead and left cheek. A desperate struggle ensued, finally ending in the arrest of Washington.

Water Shortage Threatened

Lewiston, Me., Nov. 27.—The extremely low water in the Androscoggin is causing anxiety among the mills here. Rangeley lakes, the only reserve water supply the mills have in time of draught, are very low and will not stand the drain much longer unless there is a heavy rain.

Arrested For Harvard Breaks

Boston, Nov. 27.—On the charge of breaking and entering the Harvard college dormitories Herbert H. Smith and James Murphy were arrested here. Clothing to the value of $200 is said to have been stolen. The two prisoners were delivered to the Cambridge police.

Careless Handling of Rifle

Augusta, Me., Nov. 27.—Alma Groteau, aged 5, was struck in the head and instantly killed by a bullet from a rifle in the hands of Gideon Gosselin. Gosselin was showing Mrs. Groteau, his cousin, how the gun worked, when it was accidentally discharged.

Weavers Decide to Stay Out

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 27.—The 70 striking weavers have been paid in full by Treasurer Hills of the Stevens mill. The strikers have not changed their attitude since they went out rather than submit to the new wage schedule.

The Charge Was False

Berlin, Nov. 27.—Countess Isabella W. Kwilecki, who was acquitted of the charge of presenting a false heir to an estate, has a letter written to her lawyer by Count Hector Kwilecki, who, with his father, was the prime mover in the prosecution, contesting, as next of kin, the legitimacy of the countess' son, admitting that the accusation was unfounded. The health of the countess has not been impaired or her spirit broken by her 10 months' arrest.

Good Afternoon

Former President Cleveland has killed more ducks than President Roosevelt has bears.

The heirs of a man who was lynched in Ohio recovered $5,000 damages from the local authorities.

In order to silence his attacks on the New York police, it has been suggested that Dr. Parkhurst be appointed police commissioner.

Third terms have never been popular in Quincy, either for Mayor or Representative. Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks was the only candidate ever nominated for a third term previous to this year and he was elected by less than 25 plurality. Mayor Fairbanks was one of Quincy's most popular mayors, too.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ What the wage-earning student loses from the college course he makes up in practical application of his talents to the real work of life. He is better prepared, perhaps, to step into his chosen occupation when college days are over than is the fellow student whose way has been made easy and who knows nothing of the difficulties to be encountered. The boy who works for his education learns what an education is for and places it in its proper perspective in his view of life. And in making for it he unconsciously builds up within himself something of more value even than education, and that is character. No boy need despair because his father is not rich enough to buy him an education. If he wants it badly enough he can get it, and by working for it get something better still along with it.—Cleveland Press.

☞ The great mistake that men usually make in choosing their religious beliefs is in assuming that since religion is the peculiar province of faith it is the exclusive province of faith. They fail to see that a faith unchastened and unguided by reason is sure to lead them into absurdities, and even into quagmires of wickedness and immorality from which reason alone can save or rescue them. A man without faith is a man without religion. On the other hand, a man who does not bring his faith to test of reason may have what he calls a religion, but it will be of little service to him or any one else in this world, however useful it may or may not be in another world.—Kansas City Journal.

THE MASQUERADE.

Good Time under Auspices of the Loyal Ladies.

The sixth masquerade and ball by the Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor was given Thanksgiving eve in Music hall.

That the Loyal Ladies' can have a good time was amply evidenced Wednesday night when the hall was crowded from floor to gallery.

The weather man provided a beautiful night, clear and bracing, just the kind that lightens the feet and makes jubilant the heart.

The program was attractively arranged and was very harmoniously carried through.

The promenade concert from 8 to 9 o'clock, to those in mask, gave opportunity for examination of the costumes of various hues and designs, which were calculated to hide the identity of the wearer and make a show to those who contented themselves as lookers on. No doubt some shrewd guesses were made, but on the whole the masqueraders were completely disguised.

The grand march was next in order and when the one hundred and fifty couples got into motion, to the music of Wilson's orchestra, the climax of the show was reached.

Representations of great historic personages with those of swell and fanciful attire, mingled with clowns and "Weary Willies" and characters that would puzzle the tongues of time to name.

Margaret Pierce as "Columbia," escorted by Mr. Wood, as "Uncle Sam," led the march.

"Professor How Wise," too learned and preoccupied with lofty thought and weighty saws to step in line with common mortals, essayed to direct the grand movement of the marchers; of course his proffered advisement unheeded, but his striking make-up, assuming actions and witty remarks easily made him a feature of the evening.

As the Grand March proceeded the spectators evinced their appreciation by repeated cheers.

Unmasking took place at the end of the fourth dance, and many were the surprises when the every-day faces of maskers were exposed to view. But delightful just for one hour, to strut as some great being of the past or play the part of something different from one's own self.

After unmasking, the floor was free to all who wished to join in the ever entrancing dance, and many there were who tired not until the last call at 3 A. M. prompt.

The floor was very ably directed by Margaret Pierce, assisted by Mamie Kennedy. The aids were Cathryn H Black, Elsie McDonald, Agnes Reynolds, Agnes Smith, Anna Kelman and Bessie Robbie.

President Margaret Stronach with Vice President Mary Kennedy acted as reception committee.

The committee of arrangements were Margaret Stronach, president; Mary Kennedy, vice president; Jennie McKay, secretary; Annie Mutch, treasurer; Mary Peters, Grace Raleigh and Susan McRitchie.

The ladies did not forget to have refreshments and those who wished to enjoy the best of hot coffee and various substantial accompaniments of equal merit had all they wanted in the adjoining rooms.

The affair was a success in every detail and reflects credit on the president, Margaret Stronach, and those who were her assistants.

Visitor—"What are you crying about, my little man?"

Little Willie—"All my brothers hez got a holiday, and I hain't got none."

Visitor—"Why, that's too bad! How is that?"

Little Willie (between sobs)—"I—I—don't go—to school yet."—Pittsburg Bulletin.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

The furnishings for the new court room arrived this morning.

Overseer of the Poor Cunningham distributed 104 turkeys Wednesday.

The meeting of Quincy Day Nursery association usually held the first Tuesday of each month will be postponed one week.

There was a pretty invitation dance at Faxon hall on Thanksgiving. The hall was decorated for the occasion, and the music was good.

Mr. John B. Ward of New York city and Miss Nellie Davis have been spending the Thanksgiving holidays with Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Litchfield of Marsh street.

Miss Florence Belle Kappler of Wollaston died on Wednesday at North Brookfield. The funeral will be held from the Sacred Heart church, Atlantic, Saturday morning.

Monday evening was spent in a most enjoyable manner at the home of Miss Ella Ames Horton, when a party of friends with whom Miss Horton camped this summer on Caspian Lake were entertained.

The Copeland club held a sunlight party at St. Mary's hall Thanksgiving afternoon and evening which was largely attended. Joyce's orchestra furnished music. D. L. G. McLeod was floor director, and F. E. Herbert assistant.

If any Quincy Point residents were alarmed on Wednesday night at the strange manner in which the bell on the Washington street Congregational church rang out for prayer meeting, it was due to the fact that the sexton was absent, and two athletic Woodward Institute girls took his place at the bell-rope.

The funeral of John Johnson, who died suddenly last Saturday from apoplexy, was held Wednesday afternoon from his late residence at 2 Gotland street. The services were conducted by Rev. Henry Hanson of the Swedish Methodist church. There were several beautiful floral tributes. The interment was at Mt. Wollaston.

In England—Officer—"Murphy, I have left my mess boots out this morning. I want them soled."

Private Murphy—"Very good, sor."

Officer—"Did you take those boots, Murphy?"

Private Murphy—"Yes, sor; and that's all I could get for them. The corporal who bought them said he would have given two shillings had it been pay day."

—Drawing the color line is by no means confined to the south. Sporadic cases crop out occasionally right here in Massachusetts, the latest being reported from Sheffield, a town of southern Berkshire county, which has a good-sized colony of negroes within its borders. The white residents demand separate schools for whites and blacks, and threaten to make trouble if their demand is not granted. If we throw stones at the south, we must not complain if our own glass houses are shattered—Milford Gazette.

AN APPEAL.

CITIZENS OF QUINCY:—

We appeal to you for funds to carry on our No-License campaign.

We have sent out several hundred letters, but we have received less than half the money that we spent last year, and that was only a little over one cent for each of our inhabitants.

"AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION IS WORTH A POUND OF CURE"—so though without a bit of work Quincy would go "No-License" for a year or two, we are firmly convinced that it means much less expenditure of money and of work to "prevent" the falling off of our "NO" majority than to "cure it" after it has fallen off.

We do then appeal earnestly to you for immediate financial support.

VINDICTIVENESS

Has Characterized Administration of Mayor Bryant.

Facts are Coming to Light.

Change at City Call Now Seems Desirable.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The public is well aware that I am strongly opposed to the re-election of Mayor Bryant. It must be evident to anyone who has followed the events of the past two years that it is high time that he was repudiated by the voters, and the city freed from the policy that has prevailed ever since the reins of municipal government were placed in his hands. Never since Quincy became a city, has there been a mayor who has shown so domineering a spirit as has Mayor Bryant. Not only does he dictate to the department officials, but he has frequently undertaken to manage the City Council in the most open manner.

During my nearly thirty years of active work in enforcing the temperance laws I have been often abused, but never so insulted as I have been by Mayor Bryant.

For twenty years, with one exception, I have served as a constable and have given freely of my time and money to churches and other worthy objects to promote the welfare of our city. But for the information furnished to the police by me, many a rumseller would have gone unpunished. Yet all of this has been for naught when pitted against the vindictiveness that has characterized the administration of Mayor Bryant.

It is of course a fact that I opposed him in his first campaign I felt then—as I know now—that he was by no means the right man for mayor of this city; but the fact of his election in no manner altered my desire to assist, as I had for so many years, in the proper enforcement of the laws.

Hence, soon after his inauguration in 1902, I sent him the following letter:

Quincy, January 8, 1902.

Hon. Charles M. Bryant of Quincy, Mass.

Dear Sir: In the important position which you hold as Mayor of our city you will be confronted with many perplexing problems, chief among which is the enforcement of the laws relating to the sale of intoxicating liquors.

Our citizens have indicated by the largely increased "No" vote that they desire a strict enforcement of the law which has resulted in untold blessings to the people of Quincy during the past twenty years. It requires honest and unremitting work to keep the rumsellers beyond our city limits. This cannot be accomplished if there is lack of competency and integrity on the part of police officials.

In order that you may become familiar with the liquor statute I send you herewith a copy of my latest book on the subject, together with other documents giving valuable information, and of which I ask your careful consideration. I take pleasure in pledging you my assistance and that of my secretary in unravelling any knotty legal problems connected with your office.

Very truly yours,
Henry H. Faxon.

A little later I sent him this request:

Quincy, January 28, 1902.

Hon. Charles M. Bryant,
Mayor of Quincy,
Dear Sir:

If agreeable to you I should be pleased to receive an appointment as constable, to serve without pay.

Respectfully yours,
Henry H. Faxon.

Receiving no reply I sent him a second letter as follows:

Quincy, Feb. 8, 1902.

Hon. Charles M. Bryant, Mayor of Quincy.

Dear Sir: On the 28th ult. I wrote to you as follows:

"If agreeable to you I should be pleased to receive an appointment as constable, to serve without pay."

Not receiving a reply I thought that my letter might have been overlooked. Please let me hear from you at an early day, and oblige,

Yours respectfully,
Henry H. FAXON.

This brought a reply in which I was refused an appointment and in addition was offered a personal insult, the letter reading:

"My principal reasons for doing so are that you are a man too far advanced in years (I believe you are 79 years old) to properly attend to the duties of the position, and although realizing that in years gone by you have been very active in enforcing the liquor laws, yet of late years, owing perhaps to your age or other reasons, I do not find that you have entered any complaints or taken any active part in these matters.

"I also believe that the police department in years gone by has, to a great extent, relied upon you in the prosecution of these cases, and that so long as you remain a constable they are very apt to expect you to take the initiative in the prosecution of these cases."

Even if it were true that I had dont nothing in the way of liquor-law enforcement during recent years it would have been but common courtesy, after my services in the past, to grant my request. If, however, Mayor Bryant had not desired to evade the question, he could readily have learned that I had by no means relinquished my interest in the enforcement of the liquor laws and that I had repeatedly made complaints to the police and furnished them with the evidence necessary to make their raids successful.

During the past two years a number of my houses have been raided by the police, and good care has been taken to herald, far and wide, through the newspapers the fact that liquors had been seized from "one of Faxon's houses" but the disseminators of this interesting information forgot to mention that it was Faxon himself who in most of the cases had given the police the tips that made possible successful raids.

In one case I even boarded a detective for a week in one of my houses to get evidence of the violation of the liquor laws.

Mr. Bryant took no pains to ascertain the facts when he made his charge that I had not "taken any active part, of late, in liquor-law enforcement." All that he cared to know was that I had opposed his election and in common with other citizens whose votes he could not control was to be "downed" in every possible way.

I do not propose to enter here into any lengthy discussion of his administration or his conduct during his term of office. The facts are rapidly coming to light. Those citizens of Quincy who believe in him and what he has done will vote for him at the coming election. On the other hand, those other citizens who think that it is high time there should be a change at City Hall will vote against him.

My belief is that the latter will outnumber the former.

Henry H. Faxon.

AN ORATORIAL DUEL

Enlivens Banquet at Which Bryan Is Guest of Honor

CHOATE IS HIS OPPONENT

Refers to Westerner's "Mixed" Views on Fiscal Question--Bryan Thanks Britishers For Their "Kindly Forbearanee"

London, Nov. 27.—Thanksgiving day was celebrated by the American society in London at a banquet given at the Hotel Cecil last night. There were over 400 covers. William J. Bryan was the guest of honor. The speeches, while flavored by the usual seasonal cheer and references to Anglo-American friendliness, developed particularly into a duel of repartee, good natured, but almost sub-acid between Mr. Bryan and Ambassador Choate.

There were a number of notable guests at the banquet. The Duke of Marlborough proposed a toast to President Roosevelt, and, addressing himself to the interests which England and the United States have in common, referred in terms of the highest praise to President Roosevelt. He also spoke feelingly of the late Sir Michael Herbert.

Ambassador Choate, responding to the toast to his health which was proposed in complimentary terms by Lord Davey, took up the Duke of Marlborough's reference to the mutual sympathies of the American and British peoples and said that there had been reason heretofore to suspect some such sentiment on the part of the duke since he had set an example in one form of the Anglo-American alliance on which the people of both countries were able to look with entire approval.

Turning to Mr. Bryan, Mr. Choate said it was the custom of Americans torn from their native shores to gather annually and return thanks. The American society in London had now among them another of these exiles, for whom personally he, as ambassador, had been doing the best he could. He had taken Mr. Bryan to visit the Bank of England, where he was able to study the fiscal question in its native lair. The company would be edified, said Mr. Choate, had they heard Mr. Bryan cross-examining the governor of the Bank of England. The ambassador said he had aided Mr. Bryan to hear Mr. Asquith, Mr. Chamberlain, Lord Goschen and Lord Rosebery, all within 48 hours, so if his views on the fiscal question were not utterly mixed they would appreciate at least the quality of the mind they had before them.

The speech of the ambassador was followed by an ovation to Mr. Bryan, who, in responding, paid a graceful tribute to the English guests of the society. He said the highest compliment he was able to pay was that on looking over the tables he was unable to distinguish the English from the American women present. He thanked the British nation for the kindly forbearance it had shown in receiving him—the protectionists for letting him land at all, and the gold bugs for not having deported him immediately after his arrival. Mr. Bryan said he had profited exceedingly by his visit to the Bank of England. He wanted to call attention, however, to the fact that the murderous attack by an insane man with a revolver on Kenneth Graham, secretary of the bank, occurred the day before he called.

Touching the theme of Thanksgiving day, Mr. Bryan spoke eloquently on the natural resources and advantages of the United States, for which the people must return thanks to God, and of the ideals of liberty and progress, for which they must thank their English progenitors. He urged the necessity of the present generation bequeathing to posterity some gift commensurate with the blessings they had received from their ancestors and suggested that they bequeath the ideal of international amity, of which The Hague arbitration tribunal was a lasting monument.

"Hail to the nation," concluded Mr. Bryan, "whatever her name, who leads the world towards this higher ideal for the lasting good of all humanity."

Deaths Followed Headaches

New York, Nov. 27.—Mrs. Mary Cusick and Mrs. Julia Ward, who boarded with Mrs. Cusick, died here under circumstances indicating death from some poison. The women had complained of severe headaches and each took a headache powder procured from a nearby drug store, soon thereafter becoming violently ill and dying in three hours. It is thought that the powders may have affected their hearts.

Detective Helped Plotters

Cripple Creek, Col., Nov. 27.—The full facts regarding the attempted wrecking of a train on Nov. 17 have been disclosed. It appears that a detective in the employ of the company was one of the three men who removed the spikes and fishplates from a rail. The other two men, it is alleged, were Charles McKinney and Thomas Foster, who are under arrest. Foster's friends assert that he will be able to establish an alibi.

THE HOME DOCTOR.

A warm sponge bath will relieve nervous strain.

Neuralgia may very often be speedily relieved by applying a cloth saturated with essence of peppermint to the seat of pain.

For eyes that are stuck together in the morning bathe daily in boric water and at night rub the lids with boracic acid ointment.

Put a sprained ankle at once into hot water for ten minutes. Afterward, if the pain is severe, apply a bran bag dipped into hot vinegar.

A man who suffered from catarrh says that he cured himself of the malady by bathing the feet every night in cool water and putting on clean stockings every morning.

In cases of bilious or typhoid fever the juice of cranberries is almost indispensable for clearing the system of the poisonous bacteria. In some forms of dyspepsia there is no more effective and simple remedy than raw cranberries.

Strong black tea is recommended as a dandruff cure. It is said that shampooing the hair once in ten days with this and stimulating the hair by thorough brushing, both before and after, will cure the most obstinate cases of dandruff if used persistently.

The Quest Universal.

There never yet was a woman who set out to be beautiful in some direction and accomplished it without great struggle. So only the few who have the obstinacy to pursue a purpose to the end change from ugly ducklings to comely swans. I admit that ignorance of methods keeps back some of us, but the majority get no further than vain longings and complaints. They do not even do the best thing to succeeding—accept the inevitable with cheerfulness.

There never will be a time when one remedy will cure everybody, one rule govern the universe. If no two human beings are created exactly alike how can we expect to deal with them by a remedy or a rule that ignores characteristics? So the wise person tries one thing after another, always allowing sufficient time to each until the proper thing is secured, and when found it is never discarded for something less sure.

This rule applies to face creams and beautifiers of all kinds. It applies to bathing, to exercise, to diet and to recreation, not to mention dressing, one of the most important factors of life, according to the feminine code.—Boston Traveler.

Early Morning Wakefulness.

I used to suffer from sleeplessness in the early morning. I would wake up at 3 or 4 o'clock and be unable to get to sleep again. My mind would get busy thinking about a dozen and one things that should be attended to or that were on my mind, says Good Housekeeping. For years I did not know what it was to have the pleasure of sleeping soundly until 6 o'clock or later. At last I put a memorandum pad and pencil under my pillow and when I woke up wrote down all that occurred to me, and the result was surprising. This seemed to free the brain of the thoughts that were weighing upon it, the mind's activity ceased, and I turned and slept like a babe. Ever since then this plan has usually worked to perfection. Of course, one has to be careful not to get in the habit of letting the mind run from one thought to another after making the memorandum.

Male "Housemaids."

Male "housemaids" are a contribution to the solving of the servant problem in Great Britain, it seems. Several thousands of foreign young men have been transported to London to engage in general domestic work in British households. So far nothing but commendation is heard on the subject. These manservants, say their employers, do the work that has generally been allotted to women in a cleaner, quicker and more thorough fashion than the sex they have displaced. They waste less time, have no grievances, no "visitors," ask no higher wages and do not bother about "evenings out." Altogether if the future carries out the prophecy of the present it will not be long before the reign of women workers in the "essentially womanly field of housewifery" will be quite eclipsed by the masculine superiority therein shown.

The Sensitive Woman.

The sensitive woman who is ever getting her tender feelings lacerated and always feels that she is either misjudged, ignored or slighted is a disturbing factor most difficult to cope with. She is usually one of the clinging, helpless mortals in appearance and melts into tears so readily that any one attempting to argue her out of the mood feels like a brute and ends in abject apology. She is depressing, provoking and wearing, yet demands and receives far more attention than any other type simply because her display of weakness disarms her foes and makes her friends more valiant. The suppression or conversion of this class would be a great step toward reform, finding favor in many households.

Business Ability.

One of the most successful of the dress manufacturing firms in New York is composed of two young women who while engaged in teaching began in a very modest way to put out some original work in dressmaking. First with the design for collarettes, then for waists and finally for whole suits these women have gradually enlarged their field until they supply some of the largest retail stores in New York and in other cities. Forty machines are run by electricity, and two floors on a prominent thoroughfare are given up to their work.

THE AUSTRIAN FLAG

Burned by Students In a Demonstration at Rome

SITUATION IS SERIOUS

Prohibition by Austria of Institution of Free Italian University at Innsbruck Has Stirred Up All the Students In Italy

Rome, Nov. 27.—The anti-Austrian demonstrations are assuming a grave character and the government has stopped the delivery of all telegrams sent in cipher. All over Rome the cry is "Down with Francis Joseph; let us break the triple alliance." At the university the Austrian flag was burned amid wild scenes of enthusiasm.

At Genoa the demonstrators succeeded in reaching the Austrian consulate, where they shouted the most hostile cries.

Demonstrations against Austria result from the prohibition by the Austrian government of the institution of a free Italian university at Innsbruck. They were continued throughout Rome yesterday, but were at all points broken up by the police, who guarded in large numbers, especially around the Austrian consulate, against which the chief efforts of the demonstrators were directed. The crowds even invaded the public promenade in the gardens of the pincio and compelled the band to play the royal march, which was greeted with great applause.

At the university the students to the number of about 1000 held an indignation meeting and then decided to make a demonstration in the streets of the city. The police were prepared for this, however, and as soon as the students emerged they attacked them, compelling them to re-enter the university. The students showed their indignation by breaking the windows and furniture of the class rooms. Later the Austrian flag was burned amid scenes of enthusiasm. The authorities have decided to close the university until order has been restored.

An anti-Austrian demonstration was held at Turin, where the demonstrators rang the bells of the university, broke the windows and benches and exploded firecrackers, producing a panic. Similar demonstrations were held at Milan, Parma, Padua and Genoa.

The government has determined to suppress these demonstrations at any cost, as it wishes to avoid complaint from the Austrian government.

Veteran Shot by Veteran

San Francisco, Nov. 27.—The police have not yet succeeded in arresting Alexander Garnett, who shot down Major McClung while defending Mrs. Lillie H. Colt from a murderous attack by Garnett. Garnett is a remote cousin of Mrs. Colt. He is a native of Virginia and fought through the Civil war in the Confederate army. Major McClung, who also served in the Confederate army during the war, died last night.

Willing to Become Americans

Copenhagen, Nov. 27.—The government officials deny reports published abroad of a revolutionary movement in the Danish West Indies. It is recognized, however, that the prosperity of the new republic of Panama will conceivably so impress the inhabitants of the Danish West Indies as to strengthen the latest desire in some quarters to come under the American flag.

Construction Company Stalled

San Juan, P. R., Nov. 27.—The San Juan office of the Vandegrift Construction company, interested in a $3,000,000 trolley scheme, has been closed owing to attachments for salaries in behalf of employes and business creditors. The explanation given for the closing is the recent stringency in money in the United States, which prevented the company from floating its bonds.

President at Uncle's Funeral

New York, Nov. 27.—President Roosevelt is in the city today to attend the funeral of his uncle, the late James G. Gracie. Upon reaching New York the president was driven to the home of his brother-in-law, Douglas Robinson. Five hundred policemen acted as an escort to the chief executive, 100 of whom went with the president from the Robinson home to the church.

Peace Reigns at Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 27.—Cars were run last night by the Chicago City railway for the first time after dark since the strike was called two weeks ago. When the strikers reported for duty yesterday all of them, with the exception of 59, were given their positions. These, 59 men, it is claimed by the officials of the road, were guilty of misconduct during the dispute.

No Evidence Against Erwin

San Francisco, Nov. 27.—Former Postoffice Inspector Erwin, who was indicted at Washington for alleged complicity in postal frauds with Beavers and Machen, was discharged from custody by Commissioner Peacock on the ground that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant his extradition to Washington for trial.

Wreck of Gloucester Schooner

Halifax, Nov. 27.—Fishing schooner Anglo-Saxon of Gloucester, Mass., is a total wreck in 10 fathoms of water on the Nova Scotia coast. The schooner struck on a ledge off Hud island at low tide. Captain Porper and crew of 17 are safe.

A LOSS OF $75,000

By Fire Which Consumed Many Blocks at West Rutland, Vt

Rutland, Vt., Nov. 27.—Fire in the business section of West Rutland last night destroyed property valued at $75,000. Several business blocks, a number of residences and adjoining stables were consumed with their contents. The flames were beyond control of the local fire department and help was summoned from this city. As West Rutland is four miles distant from here there was considerable delay in getting the apparatus to the scene of the fire which, by the time the local firemen arrived, had swept both sides of Marble street. It was 12:45 this morning before the flames were under control.

The burned buildings include several of the largest stores of the place and the postoffice.

The fire originated from an unknown cause in a room in the Kidder block at the corner of Marble and Smith streets. The room was being used by the women of the Congregational church for holding a relic sale. The place had been opened during the day, but was closed last evening.

The buildings burned were not large and many of them were of wood, which made more easy the progress of the flames. While several of the firemen and others who were working received minor bruises, none is known to have sustained serious injuries.

Temporary Period of Peace

San Domingo, Nov. 27.—The act of capitulation which was signed by President Wos y Gil and the ministers of the United States, Belgium, Hayti and Spain, calls for the holding of elections within three months and the installation of the new president on Feb. 27. Former Ministers Brache and Febles have left for Cuba. Quiet prevails here. The warships have withdrawn their guards with the exception of the United States marine guard at the British consulate, where Wos y Gil is a refugee.

Jury Out Twenty-One Hours

Lake George, N. Y., Nov. 27.—The jury in the case of William Silverman, charged with the murder of his sister, Mrs. Rachel Kugel, failed to agree upon a verdict after 21 hours' consideration and was discharged by Justice Spencer. On the first two ballots the jurors were unanimous for conviction for murder in the first degree. Not wishing to appear too hasty in reaching that decision the jurors went over the testimony again and one of them became convinced that Silverman was insane and held out for acquittal.

Lynching Is Scheduled

Fairmount, Ind., Nov. 27.—Town Marshal Payne was shot and instantly killed on the street here by Harry Hooper, whom he had under arrest as a suspect for a burglary. News of the tragedy spread swiftly, stores were closed and armed business men pressed all available vehicles into service and started in pursuit of Hooper. Others have prepared for a lynching of Hooper should he be brought back.

Separate Cars For Negroes

Paris, Ky., Nov. 27.—On account of failure to provide "Jim Crow" cars the Paris and Lexington Interurban company stands to be fined $180,000. The maximum fine that can be imposed for each offense is $500. It is understood the grand jury will agree to return only one indictment and the company will be given the maximum fine under it.

No Accident Befell Cedric

New York, Nov. 27.—Steamship Cedric, which, according to an English rumor, had been sunk in mid-ocean, arrived at her pier last night. Her voyage was uneventful and without accident. The officers and the passengers were astounded when informed of the reported collision with the steamer Titian.

Ugly Feeling Among Strikers

Scofield, Utah, Nov. 27.—An attempt was made by striking Italian and Finn coal miners to roll a box car down the railroad tracks leading through a deep canyon through which a party of railroad and mine officials were coming. The attempt was prevented by the military and a number of arrests were made.

A Smuggler of Chinamen

Malone, N. Y., Nov. 27.—George Marsh, who is charged with attempting to smuggle six Chinamen into the United States by sending them to Boston in a car which had been engaged for shipping horses, was held in $1000 bail by Commissioner Wells.

Dunn's Head Coming Off

New York, Nov. 27.—Friends of Governor Odell say that the governor's program for a reorganization includes several shifts, including the removal of Chairman Dunn of the Republican state committee. Dunn's successor will be William Barnes, Jr.

President of Union In Jail

Telluride, Col., Nov. 27.—President Miller of the Telluride Miners' union No. 53, Western Federation of Miners, was arrested and placed in the county jail with seven other union men arrested. The charge against Miller has not been made public.

CITY BREVITIES.

A masquerade was held at Hancock hall Thanksgiving night.

A pleasant family reunion on Thanksgiving day was held at the home of Miss C. S. Hubbard, she entertaining all her brothers and sisters.

Rev. E. N. Hardy will deliver an address illustrated by stereopticon views, Saturday evening, in the Water Street Presbyterian church.

The young people had a fine time Thanksgiveng day skating on Butlers and Eatons pond. The city pond near Merrymount Park is not ready.

The alarm from Box 136 at 5.05 Wednesday was not necessary. A bonfire had been built and someone seeing this rang the alarm. The recall came in at 5.10.

Senator Newlands of Nevada introduced a joint resolution in the Senate inviting Cuba to join the Union as a state, but President Palmer says that Cuba is getting along very well as she is.

At the service to be given at the Wollaston Congregational church under the auspices of the King's Daughters, Thursday evening, Miss Mary Hastings will sing and Mrs. M. M. Sawtell will speak.

The union Thanksgiving service at the Wollaston Methodist Church, Thursday afternoon, called out a very large audience. The addresses by the ministers as well as the selections rendered by the Adelphi Quartet made it an interesting service.

The first rehearsal of the Choral Union under the direction of Mr. Charles Stevens will be held on Thursday evening, Dec. 3, at 7.45 o'clock at the old Knights of Honor hall on Beale street. It will then be decided upon what night will be most convenient to hold the regular meetings for the season.

THE MAYOR ELECT.

But the Man Who Wanted to Vote Cannot Vote.

It will probably be news to many that Pete Fallon is Mayor of Quincy, that is a West Quincy Italian so informed Judge Avery this morning. The descendant of sunny Italy appeared before his honor for examination for naturalization, his witnesses being two well known West Quincy gentlemen. The applicants lack of knowledge on National and State officers and his supposed knowledge of city affairs resulted in his application being refused.

Clerk Churchill started the ball rolling by asking him if he knew what anarchy was. No, promptly answered the Italian.

Judge Avery then took a hand in the examination, and the answers almost took the breath away from the court officials, and caused a look of chagrin to cover the faces of the witnessses.

Do you know who is President of the United States? asked Judge Avery.

No.

Do you know who is Governor of Massachusetts?

No.

Do you know who is Mayor of Quincy?

Yes.

Well who is it?

Pete Fallon.

Application refused said Judge Avery when he could find his voice.

Evergreens.

The leaves of a green plant are chiefly useful as feeding organs, which utilize sunlight in building up plant substance from water, carbonic acid gas and simple salts. Deciduous forms and evergreens have been evolved on different lines as regards foliage.

On the approach of autumn the former withdraw all nutritious substances into their trunks and branches. A layer of cork is then developed across the base of each leaf, which afterward falls off, leaving a neatly covered scar, which excludes air and germs.

These changes do not take place in evergreens, for these possess tough, leathery leaves capable of resisting frost, which are shed gradually all the year round as they become old and effete. Such plants use sunlight year out, year in, while deciduous trees and shrubs do during the warm season only, though they work very vigorously in summer, getting ready the buds which open the next spring and storing up starch and the like to serve as food till the new leaves are unfolded and ready for work.

On the Wrong Tack.

A young man in New York was deeply impressed with the beauties of Freemasonry and after considerable effort, mental and otherwise, had fitted himself for the ceremony of initiation into the order. He had heard of the "goat" and the "gridiron" and many other things connected with the first degree and was prepared to be surprised at nothing. In the course of his first evening at the lodge he stepped on a tack, which stuck into his foot and gave him considerable pain. He said nothing and made no effort to remove it, painful though it was. Two hours later, when it seemed to him that there was nothing more to come in the way of initiation, he asked if he might take the tack out of his foot. His sufferings were not ameliorated when he was told that the tack had nothing to do with the ceremonies.—New York Post.

He Was Not Laconic.

John Morley in his life of Gladstone tells the story of the statesman's examination for admission to Oxford university when he was a youth. The examiner, having utterly failed to floor the candidate on some point of theology, said, "We will now leave that part of the subject." "No, sir," replied the candidate; "if you please, we will not leave it yet," and proceeded to pour forth a fresh stream. The dean in Mr. Gladstone's day was Gaisford, famous among other things for his trenchant brevity. "This laconic gift," observes Mr. Morley slyly, "the dean evidently had not time to transmit to all of his flock."

Oldest Fire Engine.

The original fire engine, the first machine of its kind ever made, is preserved in the old parish church at Dartmouth, England. It is only 4 feet long and 4 feet 6 inches in height. The car rests on four small wheels, and the hose is attached to the top. A clumsy lever placed at the back of the car sets the machine in motion. The stream thus forced through the pipe was very small and doubtless had very little efficiency.

Careless.

"It was careless of me to say that I admired Bacon," remarked the young woman with glasses.

"Did you offend some Shakespearean student?"

"No. It was a Chicago pork packer, He frigidly remarked that he didn't care to talk shop."—Washington Star.

Baby Blubber.

"Fat babies," said the eminent scientist, "are unhealthy. You may think because a baby is fat that it is in the pink of condition, but the fat is simply so much blubber."

"My baby isn't fat," said the dejected father, "but we can't sleep at night because he has too much blubber."

"Brilliant and impulsive people," declares a lecturer on physiognomy, "have black eyes, or if they don't have them they're apt to get them if they're too impulsive."

PERIL IN GRAVY EATING

Senator Pettus Points Out Its Deleterious Effect.

SHORTENS THE LIFE OF MANKIND

That Is the Gastronomical Warning of the Youthful Alabama Statesman at the Age of Eighty-three—The Sooner Gravy Is Banished From Our Diets, He Says, the Better Will Be Coming Generation's Health.

"Young man," said Senator Pettus of Alabama, aged eighty-three, to a Washington correspondent, "the reason people get fat is because they eat too much gravy with their meat. Observe me. The Congressional Directory says I am eighty-three. Maybe I am, but I don't feel that old by forty years. I have never eaten much gravy. I was raised on a plain diet, and I have lived on it all my life. In this day gravy is called sauce, I know. It's a French word that means gravy, and if it had not been given a French name by the English speaking races I dare say not so much of it would be eaten. It is shortening the life of the race, just like so many other French abominations are, and the sooner we banish it from our diet the better will be the health of the generation of young men and women coming on to take our places.

"Now, mark you, I don't object to a little gravy on my meat, but just a little—just enough to aid deglutition. It does not aid digestion at all, you know. On the contrary, it harms it—first, by interfering with the functions of the salivary glands, then by preventing the gastric juices from doing their perfect work, and finally by neutralizing the action of the alimentary juices. So I tell you to quit eating gravy on your meats. If you prefer to call it sauce, all right; but, by whatever name you designate it, by all means stop soaking your meats in it before eating them.

"A little of the natural juices of the meats, even if occasionally thickened with flour to give the gravy consistency, is not harmful; but, since the race is running to sauces, I am loath even to hint at the harmlessness of this."

"But, senator," the young man protested, "maybe it's your habits that have preserved you in perfect health to such a ripe old age. Haven't your habits been always regular? No late hours and all that sort of thing, eh?"

"My habits, young man," replied the fine old Alabama statesman, with a snort of rage and defiance, "have always been like the verb—regular, irregular and defective, begad, sir."

CARNEGIE AND THE VICAR.

Odd Tiff In Which the Millionaire Came Out Ahead.

Andrew Carnegie has been having a pretty tiff with a parson lately and has come out ahead, says the London correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The trouble was over an offer of $50,000 which he made recently to the town of Ilford, in Essexshire, England, for the establishment of a library. The rector of the parish church, who seems to be a sort of local Savonarola, told his congregation that what they wanted was not trashy novels, but bonfires in which to burn them. This and other remarks attacking Mr. Carnegie angered the millionaire so much that he wired immediately withdrawing the offer. His decision caused such a storm in the little Essex town that the vicar's church was practically boycotted, and the vicar's life was made miserable. Parishioners who had hitherto respected him would pass him by without recognition. Members of the town council, who favored the acceptance of the offer, appealed to Mr. Carnegie to reconsider his decision, but he insisted on an apology from the vicar, and this the vicar steadfastly refused to do.

At last it was decided that a delegation be sent to Skibo and appeal to the great man personally. The strained relations of the vicar and his congregation were put vividly before him, and then, after consulting his secretary, he yielded. "After all," said he, "this vicar of Ilford is but one man, with, I suppose, one ordinary man's intelligence, and as it appears now that he has not much following in regard to his opinions about the education of the working classes, you can have the $50,000, and it is to be hoped that the vicar will never condescend to borrow a book out of the library."

Cannon as Speaker and "Uncle Joe."

An old friend walked into the room of the committee on appropriations in the house the other day, says the Washington correspondent of the New York World, and said to "Uncle Joe" Cannon, who was there waiting to be surprised by the news that he had been elected speaker, "I came in to pay my last farewell to Joe Cannon."

"What's the matter?" asked Cannon. "Going away or going to die?"

"Neither, but in a few minutes it will be Speaker Cannon, and I am afraid that will be the end of 'Uncle Joe.'"

"Don't you believe it," Cannon replied warmly. "Of course I'll be the speaker when I am in there, but there'll be plenty of times when I'll be plain Joe Cannon."

Ready For Thanksgiving.

There is a happy editor out in Nebraska, and this is the way in which he announces it, says the Chicago Inter Ocean:

No wife to fear, no money in the bank,
No tea to buy, no yelling kid to spank;
A free lunch counter always ready at my hand—
Say, ain't I dwelling in the promised land

MARINE ART.

Virtues and Defects of the Ships That Sailors Paint.

It is an axiom with sailors that there never was a man who put in three years before the mast who did not think he could paint a ship better than the most skillful landlubber that ever wielded a brush. In the homes of retired sea captains specimens of this kind of marine art are often displayed on the walls to admiring friends and are handed down as family heirlooms. A good place for the man who has no seagoing relatives or friends to see such pictures is in some of the windows of ship supply stores on South street in New York. Sailors buy them occasionally.

Ships that sailors paint are absolutely correct in every detail. From a brig to a full rigged three master there is not a block or tackle missing from stem to stern or from masthead to water line. No marine painter could get in half so much detail if he tried. But the ships painted by sailors look as if they were caught fast in frost tipped waves. There is absolutely no life or any suggestion of motion about them even when represented as going under full sail. When a sailor tries to get in a bit of landscape as a background, as he usually does, he makes matters hopelessly worse. As a general thing it is a lighthouse or a fort looking for all the world like little images that children take out of their toy arks.—New York Press.

Englishwomen of Rank.

"If you come across a very shabby looking Englishwoman on the continent," said a traveled American, "in nine cases out of ten she will turn out to be somebody of rank. When I was in Florence, I was a great frequenter of the Uffizzi galleries, and there I met a number of times an oldish Englishwoman with a young girl, whom I took to be governess and pupil, as the former was evidently educating the latter's taste for art and would analyze the styles of the different artists and make the girl pick out their pictures through her knowledge of technique. It was cleverly done, and as the older woman saw that I was interested in her art lectures she kindly included me in the curriculum. The girl was shy and stiff, like most of her young countrywomen, and I never heard her call her companion by any name, so I still retained my first impression until one day when a smart young person, who was evidently a lady's maid, brought in some wraps and addressed the older woman as 'your grace' and the younger one as 'your ladyship,' the two proving to be the Duchess of —— and Lady Emily, her granddaughter."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Music the Kernel of Welsh Nature.

Music is the very soul and kernel of the Welsh nature. A musical ear is the national birthright. Every Welsh preacher who migrates to an English church finds the greatest difficulty in abstaining from that weird, peculiar intonation of his sermon which is known as the hwyl and which is often strange and objectionable to English ears.

A remarkable and subtle fact which will be interesting to English readers and at the same time significant of the sensitiveness of the Welsh musical ear is that it is positive discord to many among the Welsh congregations if the minister, in 'giving out' the first verse of the hymn, does not so pitch his voice that it shall be in harmony with the key in which the tune has preliminarily been played by the instrumentalist.—Westminister Review.

A Bret Harte Story.

Bret Harte was once asked in London if he did not exaggerate some of his western character creations. He declared that he did not and told this true story, which he had always feared to put into print: A well known desperado came into a saloon, and of course those who knew him had business elsewhere at once. An English tenderfoot remained, and the bad man invited him to drink. The Britisher innocently said he did not care to do so, a dangerous remark to make in those days, whereupon the desperado wearily reached for his gun and said in a tired sort of way, "Can't I ever have a drink without killing a man?"

A King's Warm Bath.

When King Edward II. of England was among his torturers, who hurried him to and fro that no man should know where he was, they set him down upon a bank and the more to disguise his face shaved him and washed him with cold water from a ditch. The king said, "Well, yet will I have warm water for my beard," and so shed abundance of tears.

She Settled It.

"Sir," began the youth, "I have come to ask for your daughter's hand in"—

"No, sir!" snorted her father. "You can't have her! What could possibly have prompted you to ask"—

"Why—er—she did, sir!"

"Oh, that's different! Also, that settles it!"—Philadelphia Press.

Anxious.

Alice—How did you feel while Fred was proposing to you?

Mildred—Two or three times I felt like supplying the words I knew he was groping for, but of course that wouldn't have been the thing to do at all.

A Good Word.

Ferdy—I put in a good word for you, old chap. I told her you had more money than brains.

Algy—And what did she say then?

Ferdy—She asked me if you had any money.—Puck.

It cannot be too often repeated, "To innovate is not to reform."—Burke.

HIGH NOON.

Originally It Was 3 o'Clock In the Afternoon.

The word "noon" is originally derived from the Latin nona hora, the ninth hour of the Romans, the 3 o'clock of today, but no clew is given as to when or why the change took place which made "noon" mean midday, or 12 o'clock.

This will be discovered if we go back to early times, for then great deference was paid to Saturday afternoon as a preparation for the Sabbath, when work was eased all over the land. In 958 King Edgar in his ecclesiastical laws laid it down that "Sabbath shall be observed from Saturday 'noon' till light appears on Monday morning." Johnson, commenting upon this, says "noon" is 3 o'clock, and remained so till the reformation.

How, then, came it to mean 12 o'clock? In this way: Monks, by their rules, were not to dine till they had sung their "nones," or noontide service. When midday, 12 o'clock, began to be the time of eating and drinking the monks, who were also the masters of language in the dark ages, anticipated both their devotions and their meals by singing "nones" immediately after the 12 o'clock service. Thus the "noon" of old was merged into the "noon" of today, and for a time distinction was made between the two by calling 12 o'clock noon and 3 o'clock "high noon," as it appears in "The Shepherd's Almanack."

Animal Barometers.

The tortoise is not an animal one would naturally fix upon as likely to be afraid of rain, but it is singularly so. Twenty-four hours or more before rain falls the Galapagos tortoise makes for some convenient shelter. On a bright clear morning, when not a cloud is to be seen, the denizens of a tortoise farm on the African coast may be seen sometimes heading for the nearest overhanging rocks. When that happens, the proprietor knows that rain will come down during the day, and, as a rule, it comes down in torrents. The sign never fails. This presensation, to coin a word, which exists in many birds and beasts may be explained partly from the increasing weight of the atmosphere when rain is forming, partly by habits of living and partly from the need of moisture which is shared by all. The American catbird gives warning of an approaching thunderstorm by sitting on the low branches of the dogwood tree (whether this union of the feline with the canine is invariable the deponent saith not), uttering curious notes. Other birds, including the familiar robin, it is said, give similar evidence of an impending change in the weather.

Followed Directions.

A clergyman in New Jersey hired a man to act in the capacity of coachman and gardener. One day the clergyman bought a bottle of horse liniment and told the man to apply it to a lame horse according to the directions on the bottle.

About an hour afterward he went to the barn and found Silas industriously dipping a spike into the liniment and then rubbing it against the horse's leg.

"What are you doing that for?" he asked.

The man looked up with a smile of assurance. "Because," said he, "'twas what it said in the directions on the bottle, but it's slow work."

"You must have made a mistake," said the minister.

"I have not," answered the man in an aggrieved tone. "It says here on the bottle, 'Apply with a large nail or tooth brush,' and, as I had no toothbrush, I thought I'd better use this spike."

The Memory of Ants.

A remarkable fact in the physiology of ants is their memory. The number of ants that go to make a nest is enormous, yet they are all personally known to each other and are able to recognize members of their own community after a prolonged absence. Sir John Lubbock kept one of these remarkably intelligent insects from its home for a year. On its return the relatives from whom it had been so cruelly separated recognized their wanderer and welcomed it back, while an ant introduced from another nest was most inhospitably treated, even murdered and thrown out.

Conditional.

A Scotsman was on his deathbed, and his friends persuaded him to forgive a neighbor with whom he had had a standing feud for some years.

The neighbor came to the dying man's bedside.

After they had shaken hands and made peace the Scotsman exclaimed:

"If I get better, Donald, remember all this goes for naught."—Pearson's Weekly.

Considerate.

Mrs. Benham—You look mad.

Benham—I am mad. A man called me a born fool today.

Mrs. Benham—You ought not to get mad about it. I think it was very considerate in him to blame it on your ancestors.—Brooklyn Life.

The Judge's Admission.

"What was your greatest trial, judge?" asked the young lawyer.

"Getting my seven daughters married off," replied the scanty haired jurist.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Remembered.

"What is a stomach pump?" asked the teacher in physiology.

"Takin' a trip acrost the lake," promptly responded Tommy Tucker.—Chicago Tribune.

Good intentions go a long way, but are frequently unable to get back without assistance.—Galveston News.

AN APPEAL.

CITIZENS OF QUINCY:—

We appeal to you for funds to carry on our No-License campaign.

We have sent out several hundred letters, but we have received less than half the money that we spent last year, and that was only a little over one cent for each of our inhabitants.

"AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION IS WORTH A POUND OF CURE"—so though without a bit of work Quincy would go "No-License" for a year or two, we are firmly convinced that it means much less expenditure of money and of work to "prevent" the falling off of our "NO" majority than to "cure it" after it has fallen off.

We do then appeal earnestly to you for immediate financial support.

Once he sang of summer,
Nothing but the summer;
Now he sings of winter,
Of winter bleak und drear:
Just because there's fallen
A snowflake on his foreherd,
He must go and fancy
'Tis winter all the year.

The Boston Home Journal says Governor Bates made a hit at Vicksburg at the recent dedication of the Massachusetts monument but the real hit was by the governor's pretty wife, Mrs. Kitson and Mrs. Kitson's baby. The presence of ladies—and of a small baby—in such a party was a novelty that delighted all the chivalrous and home-loving southerners, and gave the ladies of the cities visited a chance to come out and turn every affair into a social function. There is in this a hint for other men in official positions who may wish to make swings around the circle. Instead of leaving wife and children to mope at home, take them along. The result ought to be a general increase of good feeling. Women nowadays compose a very influential portion of any community, and the public man who bears this in mind does wisely.

TWO RALLIES.

In the Interests of George H. Wilson for Mayor.

Many Charges Are Preferred.

Against the Present City Administration.

Farnum's hall was crowded last evening at a reception given by the Democrats of Ward Four to George H. Wilson, the party candidate for Mayor on Tuesday next. All the speakers severely criticised the administration of Mayor Bryant and seemed to have plenty of material, which was not confined to any particular department.

Councilman Reardon was chairman, and at the outset said the city was in need of a change; more so than at any time since we become a city. When we see so many Republicans dissatisfied there must be something wrong. The Democrats are a unit this year, and enthused with their success in electing Peter T. Fallon as Representative, they will also elect George H. Wilson as Mayor.

Candidate Wilson was then introduced and received with applause. He said the whole city was waiting to hear from Ward Four, and it looked as though it would be good news for the Democrats. It was up to Ward Four to win. Other speakers can entertain you better, and give you facts.

E. J. Parker, Esq., the first speaker said the Daily Ledger had done good work in enlightening the voters as to the poor condition of city finances. The arguments seem unanswerable, as there have been no replies.

Mr. Parker criticised the unequal assessment of property. How the Nancy Bracket estate was sold for less than half of its valuation, while the carriage manufactury of Henry E. Emerson, mortgaged for $8,000 is assessed for only $8,000. But Mayor Bryant had recently been interested in the latter property, if not at present time. Chief Engineer Williams was also interested. The bulk of the city work went to his establishment. The fire department was also criticised, particularly the purchase of horses annually from George R. Williams, a stone cutter, and P. J. Williams & Co. In the years 1900, 1901 and 1902, George R. Williams has been paid $1,600.95 for horses, and P. J. Williams & Co. over $400 more. This was not right where department officials approve the bills.

In George H. Wilson, the Democrats have a candidate who requires no apology. He was known as a boy and man. A local merchant of good character.

Chairman Reardon thought he knew now what became of the appropriation for miscellaneous fire department.

Representative Fallon returned thanks for his recent relection, and then criticised the unwarranted increase in valuation of property. Although our tax rate is lower than some places, Quincy was taxed heavier than any Norfolk county city or town. Taxpayers were bluffed. I recently bought a portion of the Miller estate on Miller street for $1,400, although assessed for $2,200, and paid all it was worth. The erection of a fire station at Houghs Neck (still unoccupied) was termed extravagance. The city was too poor to purchase a piece of apparatus for it. The bills for Willard school alterations, moving of Farnum's block and stable at Police station, all by P. J. Williams, were criticised as excessive. Had Mayor Bryant's plan of remodelling City Hall by sub-contracts prevailed, it would have cost $25,000 instead of $14,000.

The award of contracts by Commissioner Knowlton was attacked, and the latter admitted it was all politics. Candidate Wilson left the hall at this time and was given three rousing cheers.

Ex City Treasurer, James F. Burke predicted the election of George H. Wilson. The public press had told the cold truth and proved the Bryant administration to be incompetent. If the $90,000 loan order in anticipation of taxes was legal, why was it withdrawn, and a straight loan of $50,000 passed.

Candidate Wilson was eulogized, and the Democrats of Ward Four urged to get every voter out. Ward Four had been given the cold shoulder. Work was to be commenced on the other end of the parkway and West Quincy would be last.

Councilman Hughes said facts had not been exaggerated. He urged the election of Mr. Wilson.

Councilman Cleverly showed up financial methods at City Hall, and advocated a change.

Councilman Walsh repudiated the rumor that he was for Bryant. He said the present administration could be accused of a good many things.

Ex-Councilman Dugan thought there was an excellent chance to elect Mr. Wilson. He showed up questionable methods in getting endorsements of Mr. Bryant.

A further appeal by Chairman Reardon closed the rally about 10 P. M.

At South Quincy.

About one hundred were present at the rally in the interest of George H. Wilson for Mayor held last evening at Malnati hall, South Quincy. The temperature of the hall was near to the zero point, and for this reason it was not until near the end of the meeting that the audience warmed up.

Dr. John H. Ash of West Quincy presided and in opening said the purpose of the meeting was to create enthusiasm. He referred to the much talked of loan for $50,000 for current expenses, and to the distributing of coal last winter by Mayor Bryant. In this he said Mayor Bryant did no more than his duty or what you or I would have done, and that he was the last to take up the matter.

Alexander Fryer, candidate for the Council, was the first speaker, and after a brief talk on goverment and taxation said, the man of means is the one who destroys the institutions of the state while the poor man adds to the wealth of the country. With our 23 miles o sea coast we should have more manu factures. All that is necessary is to see that people who have money are not permitted to conduct the affairs of the city, but the man who earns the money. He believed under Mayor Wilson that some of the personal tax not now taxed would be found. He believed city should own the gas plant. The present company is not conducted on any principle. We should have cheaper gas. These will be brought about by good intelligent citizens looking after the affairs of the city. If we elect Mr. Wilson we will have a cleaning out and the city affairs conducted on business principles.

Ex-Councilman Eugene F. DeNormandie said we are confronting a condition and not a theory. He then went back to the time Mr. Hammond was a candidate for mayor, who was opposed by the vindictiveness of a citizen from Ward Five. He outlined the present Mayor's attitude toward the different candidates for Mayor. He showed his animosity for Mayor Hall by overriding his vetoes, resulting in a large debt which in his opinion was largely responsible for the present condition of city finances. He referred to the gas bill before the Legislature last year and said the City Solicitor appeared then as counsel for one of the incorporators. He believed if the Democrats got together with the Republicans who will not support the present executive it would be possible to elect the Democratic candidate.

In reply to a question as to what vote Wollaston would give Mr. Wilson, the speaker said he guessed 200.

Ex-Councilman Edward E. Jameson was present at the urgent solicitation of a friend of his in Ward Five. He considered himself as good a Republican as ever, and he should support the Republican candidates in general except the candidate for Mayor. He believed if Mr. Wilson was elected he would give the city an honest, clean straight-forward administration. He will do his best regardless of his own personal feeling. He had no personal spite against the present executive but he believed Mr. Wilson would make a better Mayor.

Peter T. Fallon thanked the citizens for supporting him at the State election. Mr. Bryant he said was one of the best of fellows, but the difficulty was that he had a poor lot of followers. They had imposed on him so that he could carry out their ideas and further their interests. The Democrats in City Hall are traitors to the Democratic

OUTLAWS CAPTURED

Had Long Eluded Vigilance of Chicago Police

HAVE KILLED EIGHT MEN

Four Thugs, None Over Twenty-One Years Old, Taken Into Custody Only After Giving Detectives and Posse a Battle

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Chained wrist to wrist, their hair matted with dried blood, their clothing covered with dust and dirt, Peter Niedermeier and Harvey VanDine sat last night in the presence of Mayor Harrison and Chief of Police O'Neil, calmly confessing to their share in a three months' career of crime which has included eight murders, the wounding of five other men and a long series of robberies.

The two young bandits, neither of whom is over 21 years of age, together with their companion, Emil Roeski, who is no older, were captured near Liverpool, Ind., after a fight in which they battled against policemen, railroad detectives, railroad laborers and farmers. E. J. Sovea, a brakeman, was killed, Joseph Driscoll, a detective, was fatally wounded and all three of the young bandits were wounded, but not seriously. Matthew Zimmer, a detective, was shot in the head and arm.

The three men were wanted by the police for complicity in the murders at the car barns of the Chicago City Railway company on Aug. 30, when two men were killed, a third badly wounded and $2250 stolen from the company. Gustave Marx, who last Saturday night murdered Officer Quinn, when the policeman endeavored to place him under arrest, confessed after his capture that he, in company with the three men, had committed the crimes at the car barns. The hunt for VanDine, Neidermeier and Roeski has been hot ever since. Although they knew that the entire police force was looking for them, the three men remained in the city until Wednesday morning.

"We were 'laying' for a fellow that was a witness against Marx," said VanDine. On Wednesday they left Chicago, going to a dug-out made by railroad laborers near Miller's station, Ind., and there they were surprised by the police."

Word was brought to the police by T. S. Reichers that three men answering the description of those wanted for the car barn murders were living in the dug-out. Other stories placed the men near Waukegan, Ills., and the police, placing no great reliance in any of the rumors, sent only eight detectives to Indiana.

The men were guided to the dug-out by Reichers. As soon as they were in sight of the place the officers advanced in a circle upon the dug-out. Detective Driscoll picked up a chunk of wood and hurled it at the dug-out. Instantly Driscoll fell in a heap, shot through the abdomen. One of his fellow officers stooped to raise him and the other six opened fire on the dug-out, from which the shots were now coming thick and fast. While the fire was at its hottest VanDine and Roeski rushed out, followed a few minutes later by Neidermeier. The latter ran to the tracks of the Michigan Central railroad and, throwing himself flat on the roadbed, kept up a rapid fire with three revolvers. Roeski ran for the brush, but VanDine retreated slowly, although the air around him was filled with bullets and the snow at his feet was kicked up by them. He is a splendid marksman and, catching sight of Detective Zimmer, who was behind a tree, he fired. Zimmer went down with a bullet in the head. As he fell VanDine fired again and the second bullet tore through Zimmer's arm.

Roeski had by this time disappeared and VanDine and Neidermeier made a run for freedom. The detectives fired constantly, but the bandits escaped. After running about a mile across country they came to the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad. A switch engine, with a train of cars, was close at hand and the men ordered Brakeman Sovea to uncouple the train from the locomotive. He refused and attempted to take Neidermeier's revolver from him. The latter instantly sent a bullet through the brakeman's brain. Springing past Sovea's body, the bandits mounted the locomotive with revolvers in hand and ordered the engineer to move out in a hurry, which he did, going in the direction of Liverpool, Ind. After two miles had been covered the men ordered the engineer to slow down, and leaping to the ground, disappeared in the woods.

After the train had carried VanDine and Neidermeier away Detective Sheehan hurried to the nearest telegraph station and wired to Chicago, asking that men be sent out with rifles. In a short time Assistant Chief of Police Schuettler and 50 officers, armed with rifles, were on the way to Millers. The officials of the Pennsylvania railroad gave Captain Briggs of the detective service of that railroad a special train as soon as the news of the murder of Sovea was known, and with orders to get the three men, dead or alive, he and his men were off toward Liverpool. The entire system of the Pennsylvania road was placed temporarily under orders of Briggs.

The news of the fight at the dug-out had spread with great rapidity through the country and by the time the two panting men rushed up to the locomotive, 100 farmers and railroad laborers were after them. When they left the train both men were nearly exhausted and unable to travel. The country at that place is rough, sandy, and cut up by gravel pits. The pursuers were coming up fast and soon were close on the fugitives' heels. It was easy to track them in the new fallen snow and the hunt was speedily closed. The men were seen as they dodged about in the sand dunes and the farmers opened fire on them. Neidermeier received a charge full in the head and the blood streamed down his face and into his eyes, blinding him so that he could hardly see.

A shot grazed VanDine's head, carrying off some of his hair, and his wounded leg was weakening. The posse was closing in on all sides. There was no escape and it was evident to both men that the time had come either to surrender or to fight to the death. Both men were heavily armed and able to take more lives before they lost their own, but, as VanDine said, the jig was up, no matter how many they killed.

Th men were at once handcuffed, placed upon a train and hurried to Chicago, the city police officers wasting not a minute in rushing them over the line into Illinois.

Following fresh footprints in the snow from the scene of the capture of Neidermeier and VanDine, residents of East Tolleston, Ind., captured Emil Roeski sitting on a bench in the Wabash station at Aetna, Ind., a town four miles northwest of Liverpool, Ind.

The arrest was made at 4:15 o'clock, shortly after Roeski had missed a train to Chicago. He was unarmed. The bandit was identified by Hugo Kemp, a hunter, who engaged the desperado in a fight for life at a sand pit in East Tolleston, when the fugitives pressed a locomotive into service. Roeski was brought to Chicago last night.

None of the prisoners showed any bravado and did no boasting. They showed not the slightest hesitation in confessing their crimes. Their demeanor was more that of boys who had been caught pilfering.

The list of the killed in the last half year by the Chicago bandits is as follows:

Otto Bander, murdered during saloon holdup on July 9. Alolph Johnson, murdered in a saloon robbery on Aug. 2. James B. Johnson, motorman, killed in robbery of Chicago City Railroad company's car barns on Aug. 30. Francis W. Stewart, shot down without warning during car barn robbery. B. C. La Gross, murdered in his saloon on Aug. 2. Policeman John Quinn, killed Nov. 21, while trying to arrest Marx. T. J. Sovea, brakeman, killed yesterday. Joseph Driscoll, detective, now dying in a hospital.

The wounded are T. W. Lathrop, agent Chicago and Northwestern railroad, shot during attack on Claybourn Junction station on July 3. Peter Gorski, shot during an attack by the four men on his saloon on July 20. Henry Biehl, clerk, injured in robbery of car barns on Aug. 30. W. E. Edmund, clerk, shot and seriously injured during same robbery. Matthew Zimmer, detective, wounded in fight yesterday.

These crimes netted the highwaymen $2540.

50c. Bottle Free.

When Medicine Fails, Try Liquozone—We'll Pay for it.

Medicine must fail in a germ trouble, because medicine never kills germs. Any germ-killing drug is a poison to you, and it cannot be taken internally.

Liquozone—liquid oxygen—is the only way that any man knows to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Its results in a germ trouble are absolutely certain, for it always destroys the cause of the trouble. To prove this—if you need it—we will gladly pay for a bottle and give it to you to try.

Only Oxygen.

Liquozone is simply liquid oxygen—no drugs, no alcohol in it. It is the discovery of Pauli, the great German chemist, who spent 20 years on it. His object was to get such an excess of oxygen in staple form into the blood that no germ could live in any membrane or tissue.

Liquozone does that. We spend 14 days in making every bottle, but the result is liquid oxygen—a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a germ that it cannot kill.

Oxygen is a tonic to you—the most essential element of life. Its effects are exhilarating, purifying, vitalizing. Nothing else is so good for you. But germs are vegetables; and this excess of oxygen—the very life of an animal—is deadly to vegetable matter.

We Paid $100,000.

for the rights to Liquozone for the United States. We did this after testing it for two years in 3,000 difficult cases, and proving that the results were inevitable. We state this price to show the value of Pauli's discovery. To-day the best physicians, the world over, use Liquozone alone in any germ disease. If you suffer from a germ trouble, you must use it, too; else rely on Nature alone to get well.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

Asthma, Abscess—Anemia, Bronchitis, Blood Poison, Bright's Disease, Bowel Troubles, Coughs—Colds, Consumption, Colic—Croup, Constipation, Catarrh—Cancer, Dysentery—Diarrhea, Dandruff—Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Hay Fever—Influenza, Kidney Diseases, La Grippe, Leucorrhea, Liver Troubles, Malaria—Neuralgia, Many Heart Troubles, Piles—Pneumonia, Pleurisy—Quinsy, Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Scrofula—Syphilis, Stomach Troubles, Throat Troubles, Eczema—Erysipelas, Fevers—Gall Stones, Goitre—Gout, Gonorrhea—Gleet, Tuberculosis, Tumors—Ulcers, Varicocele, Women's Diseases

All diseases that begin with fevers—all inflammation—all catarrh—all contagious diseases—all the results of impure or poisoned blood.

In nervous debility Liquozone acts as a vitalizer, accomplishing what no drugs can do.

50c. Bottle Free.

If you need Liquozone, and have never tried it, please send us this coupon. We will then mail you an order on your local druggist for a full-size bottle, and we will pay your druggist ourselves for it. This is our free gift, made to convince you; to show you what Liquozone is, and what it can do. In justice to yourself, please accept it to-day, for it places you under no obligation whatever.

Liquozone costs 50c. and $1.

ROMOC

IT MAKES YOU SHUDDER.

"No matter how dainty food may be or how carefully prepared, it looks simply repugnant to you, does it not?" says the Romoc man. "That dull pain in your stomach caused you to simply loathe the sight of food—you cannot eat and yet you want something and don't know what. When you do eat, you suffer tortures afterwards. Do you realize what will happen to you if you continue in this way. Your body will become depleted and any sickness is apt to take hold of you. If you escape such evils, you will do as lots of other dyspeptics have done—die of exhaustion. Or perhaps the irritation of your stomach will become so bad that gastric ulcers will form and hemorrhages from the stomach will ensue. You positively can avoid all these troubles by taking Romoc. It is Nature's own remedy. It contains no injurious drugs nor a particle of alcohol. Romoc builds up your entire system. It will make your stomach strong and will help it to digest the food eaten and what is best of all create a healthy, natural appetite. My word for it, Mr. Man, with indigestion, a single bottle of Romoc will prove to you that there is more in Nature than you have ever dreamed of."

We have investigated Romoc. We know that all that is said by the Romoc man pertaining to this wonderful remedy is true, and we will refund to anyone the price of the remedy not satisfied with the results obtained. Remember, Romoc is guaranteed and sold by

COMMON LAW IS VOID

A Supreme Court Says It Is No Crime to Sell Votes

Boston, Nov. 28.—In the case of Andrew P. Doyle against Frank R. Kirby the full bench of the supreme court sent down a decision that to orally and falsely charge a citizen with having sold his vote at an election does not render the accuser civilly liable for damages in an action of slander, if no special damage results to the accused, because it is not a charge of having committed a crime.

In the case before the court it appeared that the plaintiff in November, 1902, was nominated as candidate for mayor of New Bedford. In his declaration he alleged that the defendant said of him, "That's a great man to nominate who sold his vote. That man Doyle sold his vote. They've got his name over there on the books," meaning thereby that the plaintiff had been guilty of selling his vote as an elector of New Bedford and that such sale was recorded.

The court goes into the law relative to bribery at elections, holds that the declaration does not contain language charging the commission of a crime, and orders judgment for the defendant.

It decides that the elections statutes now in force have repealed the common law on the subject of bribing voters, and that while it is a crime to buy, it is not a crime for a citizen to sell his vote.

Typhoid Came From Cream

Williamstown, Mass., Nov. 28.—The experts engaged by President Hopkins of Williams college report that the recent outbreak of typhoid was caused by infected cream eaten with breakfast food. The cream investigation shows that the cases may all be attributed to cream which was obtained from one can and this can probably became contaminated by impure water which accidentally entered it from a vat in which the can was placed to cool. There is no material change in the eight cases of typhoid at the college infirmary.

Child Gets $5300 Damages

Boston, Nov. 28.—The supreme court overruled the defendant's exceptions in the suit of Esther Mellen of Fall River, 4 years old, against the Old Colony treet Railway company. Suit had been brought in the child's name to recover from personal injuries caused by being run over by one of the defendant company's cars. In the superior court the child recovered a verdict of $5300. The supreme court holds that the case was properly left to the jury on the question of due care.

Danger Off the Coast

Boston, Nov. 28.—As an unpleasant reminder of the memorable storm which five years ago yesterday wrecked the steamer Portland in Massachusetts bay and caused the loss of more than 300 ives, there has appeared off the southern New England coast an energetic disturbance, pursuing the same path as the Portland storm and causing severe gales on exposed points. A storm warning was issued by the weather bureau and signals were hoisted from New York to Eastport.

Died While Reading Newspaper

Biddeford, Me., Nov. 28.—Former State Treasurer Esreff H. Banks died suddenly of heart disease while reading a newspaper at the home of his neice. He was 79 years old. Up to the time of his death he had apparently been in the best of health and yesterday morning was about town as usual. The history of York county and the city of Biddeford is closely associated with the career of Mr. Banks.

Depositors Became Worried

New Milford, Conn., Nov. 28.—A run which started on the New Milford Savings bank reached considerable proportions when people from the surrounding towns, hearing of the reported trouble, came in to withdraw their money. All the claims presented were promptly paid. Assurances are given by leading citizens and by bank officials that the institution is perfectly sound.

Marital Ties Severed

Greenfield, Mass., Nov. 28.—Judge Aiken has granted a decree of divorce to Elma S. Williams of this town from Marcus L. Williams, a member of the school board and formerly master of the grange of West Berlin. The petitioner alleged cruel and abusive treatment; that her husband had choked her and threatened to take her life. No defense was made.

Attempt to Wreck Car

Baldwinville, Mass., Nov. 28.—An electric car on the Templeton street railway struck a large rock that had been placed on the tracks last night about half way between Otter River and Baldwinville. Motorman Benton stopped his car, so that it struck with little force. None of the 15 passengers was hurt.

Perhaps Heading For Italy

Franklin, Mass., Nov. 28.—The police are working on the theory that Doneto Penza, who shot and killed Joseph Mannie, is intending to sail for Italy from New York and have asked the authorities there to watch outgoing steamers.

Three Men Struck by Train

Meriden, Conn., Nov. 28.—Joseph Moreno was fatally injured and John J. Murphy and Daniel Driscoll badly injured by being struck by a train while lifting a hand car from the track. Murphy and Driscoll will recover.

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 28.—A meeting of cotton manufacturers of the south has been called here for Dec. 8 to formulate a plan for the curtailment of cotton production.

A CHANGE OF PLANS

Panama Will Not Rush Ratification of Treaty

JUNTA FEARS CRITICISM

New Republic Will Ask For $2,000,000 Instalment as Soon as New Compact Goes Into Effect --Trouble at Cartagena

Panama, Nov. 28.—The slight opposition to the ratification of the canal treaty between the republic of Panama and the United States which prevailed on the isthmus a day or two ago now appears to have been overcome, if not altogether dissipated. This opposition existed only among a few government officials, who have now been won over and thoroughly convinced by the arguments of their confreres.

The plan outlined in these dispatches by which the treaty was to be signed and dispatched to Washington on the day of its arrival here has been abandoned because it is feared that such rapidity of action might give the impression that the treaty had been hastily and inadequately considered and thus lay the members of the junta open to criticism. It is absolutely certain, however, that the treaty will be ratified without the slightest opposition.

In governmental circles here it is now said that the junta, as soon as the treaty has been ratified, will address a note to Secretary Hay, asking that $2,000,000 be paid in cash to the Panama government and that $8,000,000 shall be transferred in such a manner that it can be invested, the interest being payable to the Panama government.

It can be said authoritatively that the junta is still firmly opposed to undertaking the responsibility for any portion of Colombia's foreign indebtedness.

Consul Not Allowed to Depart

Colon, Nov. 28.—Nothing can be learned here concerning a statement that Luther F. Ellsworth, United States consul at Cartagena, at the time that he was prevented by the authorities at Cartagena from boarding the Royal mail steamer Trent had any purpose of taking passage to Colon. It is believed that the consul simply desired to pay a social visit to the officers of the ship. Such visits are now absolutely forbidden by the regulations governing the port of Cartagena.

The naval authorities here have reported the incident to the government at Washington and the question of sending a warship to Cartagena seems to depend upon such instructions as shall be received from Washington.

Whether or not Consul Ellsworth wanted to leave Cartagena it is a fact that a number of people of that city recently broke into the hotel where the United States consul resides and created disorder. The consul, however, was not molested.

Cauca Won't Join Panama

Washington, Nov. 28.—Regarding the reports of a proposition from the Colombian state of Cauca to join the new republic Minister Varilla declares that such a proposal would not for a moment be entertained by Panama. The latter is a unit by itself and as such will remain so. The department of Cauca is separated from Panama by a dense wilderness which, the minister says, makes the division as great for practical purposes as though it were a body of water.

Life Lost In Hotel Fire

Duluth, Nov. 28.—Thomas Green was cremated, Frank Thomas was probably fatally burned and three other persons are missing as the result of a fire which destroyed the Central hotel at Tower. The suspicion is entertained that the fire was of incendiary origin and that the hotel was fired to cover up a murder.

Court Ajourned For Gold Hunt

Denver, Nov. 28.—A dispatch from Hillsboro, N. M., says a discovery of gold has just been made near there. Many large nuggets have been found. The third judicial court adjourned and everybody, including Judge Parker and other court officers, rushed to the diggings.

Swamped With Law Suits

London, Nov. 28.—As a sequel to years of disastrous business the shareholders have decided to wind up the Lyceum Theatre company. Three hundred law suits, brought by shareholders to be relieved of their subscriptions, were pending against the company.

Revenue Agents Changed About

Albany, Nov. 28.—E. G. Thompson, chief revenue agent for the northern part of New York, with offices here, is to be transferred to Lynchburg Va. M. A. Haynes of Boston, formerly in charge here, will succeed Thompson.

Was No Indian Massacre

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 28.—There is evidently no truth in the report from McLeod that a Piegan Indian had killed seven of the tribe at that place. The Indian department has no knowledge of such a massacre.

Germany Acquires New Land

Cape Town, Nov. 28.—It is announced here that the Germans have formally annexed the territory of the Bondelzwarts tribesmen in German Southwest Africa. The surrender of the Bondelzwarts is expected.

A DANCE IN THE KLONDIKE

Joaquin Miller's Story and the Way He Clinched It.

At one of his lectures just after his return from the Klondike Joaquin Miller told the following story: "One night I was invited to a dance in a miner's cabin, and while Bill Dalton scraped away on his fiddle we just hoed it down. But the miners tramped in and out so much between dances that before midnight the ladies declared the floor was so slippery they couldn't dance another step unless something was done. Then something was done that never was possible in mining days in California. Each miner gallantly opened his buckskin powder pouch and sprinkled gold dust on the floor! And this was repeated throughout the night. And in the morning, ladies and gentlemen, those miners never troubled themselves about sweeping up that gold dust. They just hitched up their dog sleds and rode away."

At this point of Miller's narrative there was a slight agitation in the audience, an ominous sign of incredulity, but Miller was equal to it. With a wave of his hand toward one of the boxes, he said, "And my old friend up there in the box, Captain John Healy, will substantiate what I say."

It was a master stroke of the poet, for the house burst into applause and greatly embarrassed the modest millionaire mining and railroad promoter of Alaska, who unsuspectingly had accepted Miller's invitation to attend the lecture in the afternoon.

FREAK ELECTION BET.

Fat Man Makes Fast Time In Rolling a Peanut Around a Block.

With a crowd yelling with delight and a band playing furiously, Louis Hoffman of New York, who weighs 260 pounds, rolled a peanut around a lower east side block the other night in payment of an election bet, says the New York Herald.

He says he broke all records for this feat in rounding the block in thirteen minutes and five seconds. This, of course, does not include the time which was taken out for "off side play" by the crowd and "lost peanuts."

Great preparations were made for the payment of the bet which Hoffman made with Peter Stark that Mr. Low would be re-elected mayor of New York city. Five hundred persons gathered in front of a saloon at 640 East Thirteenth street at 8 o'clock in the evening. Most of them carried red lanterns, and they endeavored to make as much noise as possible.

It was half past 8 when Peter Stark yelled "Go!" and Hoffman, bending with difficulty, gave the peanut a roll. Four active young men holding bicycle lanterns in their hands tried to follow the peanut in its mad flight.

The band was playing "Marching Through Georgia," and the peanut was jumping along the sidewalk in fine style until at Twelfth street and Avenue C there was a halt.

"The peanut is loosed. It went down the sewer. I seed it!" shouted a small boy.

True enough, the peanut had vanished. All the efforts of the young men with the lanterns to find it were in vain.

Luckily some thoughtful member of the crowd had foreseen such an emergency and produced another peanut. Several times this one was lost, but the young men with the lanterns always found it. With perspiration running down his face, Hoffman was carried into the saloon amid cheers, after having paid his bet.

"No more peanut bets for mine," said Hoffman, who is in the baggage department on Ellis island. "The next thing I push around the block will be a Saratoga trunk. You can get at it better."

EVER SUMMER ON THE SUN

Astronomer Young Says Great Luminary Has Two Seasons.

In a statement made the other day Alexander Young, the Laporte (Ind.) astronomer, who has in the last year made several important discoveries concerning the condition and functions of the sun and has asserted the existence of life on that planet, announced his conclusions concerning the solar seasons.

He has found that the sun is blessed with a clime of perennial summer, divided between seven months of vernal or springlike summer and five of deciduous or autumnal summer, marked by changes in the vast masses of forest foliage observed by him by the instrumentality of the solarscope which he has invented. At this time the red and reddish brown hues prevail, to be replaced in January by the living green of summer.

Winter's Banners.

Summer went away; she took
The roses and the vines
Paused to sigh and sadly look
At drooping eglantines,
Bent and bade the grasses sleep
Where the daisies were,
And the leaves began to leap
To follow after her.

Summer went away, and all
The fields grew dull and brown;
Withered vines hung on the wall
In countryside and town;
Withered, faded petals fell
And quivered in a sigh
When there came a low farewell
And summer said goodby.

Winter shouted up the hills
And galloped through the vale,
Splashed across the silent rills
And sent a lusty hail
Echoing adown the day,
And rosy cheeked he came,
Waving all along the way
His bannerets of flame.

Silver blaze and golden glow,
Ruddy plumes there were,
Nodding with the view hallo
Of this roisterer.
Flaring, flaming, flaunting free,
Shaggy, bold they come;
Summer is forgot; we see
The chrysanthemum.

are two values of newspaper advertising that the merchant has to consider. But the most important thing is

WHAT IT PAYS.

The merchant can get space in papers of small circulation and little influence for a little less money than the same size space would cost in the DAILY LEDGER and the QUINCY PATRIOT.

DOES IT PAY

to throw away the certainty of the profitable returns which are sure to LEDGER and PATRIOT advertisers, because it costs less to advertise in a cheaper paper?

Good Afternoon

Today's letter from City Solictor Blackmur, commenting on some of the recent editorial criticism of City Hall by the Daily Ledger, is not unanswerable. In fact we regard it as very weak, and on Monday will show wherein.

There seems to be no doubt as to where the leading Democrats of Ward Four stand this in the Mayoralty contest. Councilmen Reardon, Hughes and Walsh expressed themselves very emphatically last night against the administration of Mr. Bryant, as did also Representative Fallon, James F. Burke, ex-Councilman Dugan and others. Ward Four will undoubtedly come down with an old-time Democratic majority.

Missionary Barrels.

The response to the call by the Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostoms church, for clothing and Christmas gifts for the missionary barrel, was most generous, so that two barrels have been packed and sent to Rev. Dallas Tucker, Bedford, Virginia. By careful and low estimate the barrels were valued at $100.50, the largest amount ever sent out by the guild at one time. The Guild of Perpetua also has sent out its missionary barrel to Rev. Edward Ashley, South Dakota. The barrel was valued at $80. This represents excellent work, as the guild is composed of less than a dozen girls between the ages of fourteen and eighteen years.

Des Moines Speedy.

Reports from Provincetown where the cruiser Des Moines, built by the Fore River Co., held her builder's trials say that she made better speed than required by the government. The government requirement is that she shall make 16.05 knots. At the trials this week she has easily made 16.06. It is understood that her official trial will be held next week Wednesday.

Laura Gleason Childs, who will appear at the Lord Family concert next Tuesday evening, is one of the finest vocal recitationists touring the United States. Walter Vreeland is a noted guitar soloist from Boston, with the Imperial Quartette. The Lord family have many new selections and Mr. Lord's pupils are well trained. Tickets for sale at Hearn's drug store, Quincy Fair and Candy Kitchen.

Commission to Apportion Cost of New Bridge at Atlantic.

To the Editors of the Quincy Patriot:

In the Ledger of Wednesday you published an editorial on the administration of city affairs, a part of which at least appears to me to have been based on erroneous ideas regarding the city business.

First—I refer to the statement that because taxes are not collected the city has resorted to questionable methods to raise money. The method was perfectly legal and proper. Before the loan was authorized by the Council, Storey, Thorndike, Palmer and Thayer, the leading legal authority on municipal indebtedness, gave the Solicitor an opinion approving the proposed action as one quite proper in the premises.

The collection of back taxes had little to do with the matter. The money borrowed was needed to pay the city's obligations of this year occasioned by an attempt on our part to pay off notes to the amount of $150,000, besides the running expenses of the City for the entire year with money received from taxes not due until November 1st.

The municipal year begins January 1st. We are expected to pay our obligations falling due that year, as well as our running expenses, out of the taxes levied in the following May but which do not begin to come in until late in October. The city has by statute authority to borrow in anticipation of these taxes. The City Council by ordinance also directs the Tax Collector not to compel the payment of nine-tenths of these taxes, namely, the real estate tax for a period of nearly two years.

It is easily seen therefore that if the Council authorized in anticipation of taxes only $300,000 as they did the first of this year, and the City Treasurer makes his notes so that one-half of them fall due and require payment within two months of the date when taxes begin to come in, and pays beside the running expenses of the city for twelve months out of these same taxes, the Council must necessarily either extend its loans or make new ones which will fall due at such times as the taxes will have been received, taking into consideration the length of time given the taxpayers by the ordinance.

If the citizens believe that it is not good financial policy to allow our taxpayers two years to pay their taxes on real estate although the city receives six per cent. interest on unpaid taxes and can borrow money for four per cent. and under, they should require their Councilmen to amend the ordinance relating to the collection of taxes, directing the Tax Collector to compel the payment of these taxes within a shorter period.

It is not the fault of the Tax Collector.

Secondly—I refer to your assertion that the Hancock Street Railroad bridge in Atlantic would be constructed sooner if there were a change in the administration.

As this matter has been in my charge I desire to state that, during this year under Mayor Bryant's administration, a Hearing was had before the County Commissioners and a decree was made ordering the widening of the bridge. The Railroad Commissioners have since been petitioned and have approved the order of the County Commissioners. The Railroad Company have nearly completed the detail drawings and specifications of plans. The necessary assent of the Street Railway people have been obtained to the construction plans of the bridge and today, as a result of several conferences with Counsel for the Railroad Co. the Solicitor expects to agree with him upon the personel of the Commission who will apportion the cost and at the same time designate the party who will have charge of the work.

This matter is now in a position where it can make little difference who the Mayor of the City of Quincy is next year.

The bridge is sure to be built and work commenced within a month.

It is not my purpose to enter into any political controversy with your paper but to answer the assertions contained in this editorial which seems in a measure to reflect upon the work of the City Solicitor.

He is conservative, energetic, and works for the best interests of the taxpayers and of all the citizens of the city without regard to local or partisan considerations.

EDWIN W. MARSH

Octogenarian and Prominent Citizen

Writes Interesting Letter to Mayor Bryant.

Has Voted for Sixty-one Years Without a Miss.

The following letter, though not written for publication, is not published without the assent of the writer.

Quincy, Nov. 18, 1903.

My Dear Mayor:

As you will probably see nomination papers filed on which my name appears as justice of the peace, I wish to say that I am in no manner a party to the movement. I was asked to administer the oath, and did so, as I would in any case. I have said to Mr. Sprague, personally, that I fully agreed with an article in the Quincy Advertiser of yesterday relative to his position. I attended the caucus the first time for at least a dozen years, not because I thought my vote was needed, but because I wished to show a good majoriry against one who has been advertising himself all the fall as THE honest man, not that I have aught against the man but the manner. I have never held our present Mayor up as a perfect man, nor as a perfect Mayor, but I have claimed that his administration has been fully equal to the average of that of his predecessors. He has done some things which have not met with my approval, but I have always been glad to know that he was awake, and when he was on deck he sailed the ship without outside interference. I trust that his election will not be jeopardized by any personal animosities. I cast my vote at the State election for the sixty-first time without a miss, and I trust that I may be able to be counted at the City election.

Very truly yours,

Edwin W. Marsh.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Tomorrow is "No-License Rally Day."

The Whatsoever Circle King's Daughters will hold a rummage sale at Wollaston next week.

The Citizens No-License League is fortunate in getting Father Roche to to speak at Quincy Music Hall tomorrow.

V. E. Miller had the contract to supply all the employees of J. F. Sheppard & Sons with a turkey, as is the usual custom of the firm.

The Cape trains that passed through Quincy this morning were covered with snow, indicating that a storm is in progress down that way.

The stereopticon No-License talk given by Rev. Mr. Hardy at Quincy Music hall tomorrow night will doubtless prove a big attraction. The views are very fine.

The cruiser Des Moines arrived at the Fore River works Thursday afternoon after making a very satisfactory preliminary trial trip and is now being prepared for her official trip.

The regular whist party held in Odd Fellows' Hall, Wollaston, last evening was well attended and the prizes were awarded to: Mrs. Jennie McCarthy, Mrs. A. T. Jones, Mrs. Bellows, Mrs. J. G. Thomas, Mrs. J. F. McLeod, Mrs. Wm. Bennet, and to Messrs. J. P. Thomas, E. M. Dunn, W. F. Jefferson, J. G. Thomas, C. E. London and F. Grignon.

Much sympathy is felt for Mrs. Wallace Thaxter Davis of Putman street in the hour of her bereavement. For several month the illness of her husband was incurable, and it was pitiful to see his helpless condition, especially those who remember him as a devoted husband and father, and a prosperous business man. He was in his 39 year. Mrs. Davis is the daughter of Mrs. William Johnson, and a sister of Messrs. J. W. and Robert T. Johnson.

Goodwin--Tanner.

Thanksgiving day was something more than a day of homecoming and family reunion, in the home of Mrs. Hannah M. Tanner, of 44 Spear street, for the day ended with a wedding. The bride was her daughter Mabel, and the groom Mr. Joseph Thomas Goodwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. Goodwin, of Montclair.

Promptly at eight o'clock to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, Mrs. Charles A. Tanner at the piano, the bridal party entered the parlor Rev. Edwin N. Hardy, and the groom leading, followed by Miss Ruth Elliott, niece of the bride as flower girl, and Joseph Pollard nephew of the groom as page. The maid of honor Miss Jennette Miller Tanner, sister of the bride, preceded the bride, who was escorted by her brother Mr. Charles Allen Tanner.

In a few impressive words Rev. Mr. Hardy united the young people, the bride being given in marriage by her brother.

The floral decorations were ferns and chrysanthemums, and white chrysanthemums were carried by the bride and attendants. Her gown was of white organdie with lace trimmings, and she wore a long tulle veil. The maid of honor was also in white organdie. It would be hard to find a prettier bride and the bridal white was but a setting to further emphasize the dainty fairness of the wearer.

An informal reception followed the ceremony until ten o'clock, attended by only the immediate families. One was missed from the family circle, the elder brother Mr. William P. Tanner, who is in business in Los Angeles, Cal., and unable to be present.

The happy couple left amid a shower of rice and good wishes, for their new home on Huntington road, East Milton, where they will be at home after January first.

A CARD.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50 cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

AN EXPLANATION.

Ex-Senator E. H. Sprague Promptly Replies.

Relative to the City Solicitor.

Was Employed as Counsel But Was Not Paid.

Directly after the reasons for Mr. Sprague's position were published, he was asked to explain. This he did the next day and expected it would be published. He now gives the press the correspondence:

Boston, November 16, 1903.

Mr. Eugene H. Sprague, Wollaston, Mass.

Dear Sir: In a communication addressed by you to W. M. Chase, Esq., and published in the Quincy Ledger on Saturday, you make use of this expression, "because he (referring to the Mayor of Quincy) has allowed his city solicitor (Mr. Blackmur), who is sworn to serve the interests of the city, to appear as a paid lobbyist for a public service corporation upon whose rights in our streets he must pass judgment." Will you be so kind as to explain to me, as I am acting for Mr. Blackmur, the meaning of this expression, and upon what facts you base any such claim?

Yours very truly,
E. C. Bumpus.

Wollaston, Oct. 17, 1903.

Editors Quincy Ledger:

In answer to a letter addressed to you and also one addressed to me, both signed by E. C. Bumpus, and enclosed herewith I am pleased to say: That it seems to me plain what is meant by the expression to which he refers and I confine my letter to the facts. I was a member of the Massachusetts Senate in 1902 and saw and heard Mr. Blackmur in the Lobby, of the State House, working in the interests of a bill to incorporate the Quincy Gas Co. and my observations are borne out by the records and file at the State House.

Indeed it seems that the memory of both Mr. Bumpus and Mr. Blackmur is very poor, but they will be able to refresh the same if they will look on the Docket Legislative Council—1902—Page 321—where they will find the following:—

Paul R. Blackmur, employed by Everett C. Bumdus, 714 Tremont building; date of employment, April 28, 1902; date of registration, May 1, 1902; to continue till final action on a bill to incorporate the Quincy Gas Co.

The above would seem to settle the question of employment and I presumed the services were valuable enough to be paid for, but I find in this I was mistaken, and I am pleased to here apologize for the word "paid," as I find by the returns the following—

Boston, July 28, 1902.

Persuant to the provisions of Chapter 3, Revised Laws, I hereby return a complete and detailed statement of all expenses incurred by me in connection of the employment of Legislative counsel or agents, or with promoting or opposing legislation by me in General Court at its last session, viz:

I authorized Paul R. Blackmur and John W. McAnarney to appear for me in the matter of a petition, to incorporate the Quincy Gas Co. I made no payments to them and expended nothing in the matter.

(Signed) Everett C. Bumpus.

Suffolk S. S. 28 July, 1902.

Subscribed and sworn to before me.

(Signed) Paul R. Blackmur,
Justice of the peace.

I have no desire to do Mr. Blackmur an injustice and I trust that this explanation will be satisfactory to his learned counsel

I am, very truly yours, etc.,
Eugene H. Sprague.

TWO RALLIES

camp and backsliders. He was glad to see that the Republicans present were coming to their senses. The robbers in City Hall are going to be banished this time for good and all.

At this time candidate Wilson entered the hall and was received with applause. Upon being introduced he said this gathering was a larger one than that of a year ago. He thanked them for their vote of last year. They tell me I have no show in Wards Two or Three, but he believed he had. My own ward went back on me last year but it looks better this year.

Albert L. Whitman of Quincy Point was the next speaker and he ripped things up the back in general. Mayo Bryant has a gang in every department who have continued to rob the city, and if he is elected again they will continue to do so. He then paid his respects to the Commissioner of Public Works and Sealer of Weights and Measures.

Timothy J. Carey, Chairman of the Democratic City Committee, was the last speaker. He believed Mr. Wilson would be elected this year, and he urged those present to support the Democratic and Republican candidates for Council from Ward Three who were not friendly to the present executive.

LOCAL LACONIES.

Judging by the church services, several of the ministers are to exchange tomorrow.

Rev. E. C. Butler of First church is to exchange on Sunday morning with Rev. Calvin Stebbins of Framingham.

There will be a meeting of the Fragment Society in the Unitarian chapel, on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 2, at two o'clock.

The Distributing and Flower Tens of Unity Circle of King's Daughters will hold a sale Monday evening at the residence of Mrs. H. E. Crane, Elm street.

Arthur J. Brady and Henry J. Matthews made a record ror flying trips at Thanksgiving. They travelled to New York City, attended two banquets and a theatre within 48 hours.

Free Ont-Door Show.

Strange people will be seen at the Union Labor carnival next week. The Singaleese from the Island of Colomb will give the most interesting exhibition that has ever been seen in Quincy. The company is composed of seven men and women and introduces their native music, songs, dances, pleasures and industries at the Singaleese village. Dave-devil Valding and Dandy the high diving dog will each give their thrilling free performance in front of the Coliseum at 12.30 and 6.30 P. M. daily. Don't fail to see them and go to the carnival; its 10 cents.

Insured for $2,000,000

L. Rodman Wanamaker, son of John Wanamaker, the eminent merchant of New York and Philadelphia, has taken out a policy in

The Prudential Insurance Co.

for $1,000,000, paying an annual premium of over $30,000. This makes him the most heavily insured man in the world, with the single exception of King Edward VII.

Mr. Wanamaker's total insurance is now $4,000,000.

Ask yourself WHY Mr. Wanamaker placed one-half this great amount with The Prudential.

Your business judgment will at once reply: "Because after full investigation and comparison, Mr. Wanamaker found that the company which could give him the best insurance for a given amount of money was The Prudential."

Nndoubtedly you will agree that Mr. Wanamaker does not pay over $30,000 per year except for most excellent reasons.

These reasons apply to YOU precisely as well as they do to HIM.

LOVE OR THE ALPHABET

By RICHARD BARKER SHELTON

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

A very disgruntled Mephistopheles leaned against a post watching the fantastic assembly whirl and turn to the strains of a Strauss waltz. Couples in all stages of incongruous pairing glided past his stand—William Shakespeare with a portly Martha Washington in tow, Catherine de' Medici in the arms of a cowboy with fringed trousers and clanking spurs, a fat and perspiring Christopher Columbus making desperate attempts to regulate his steps to those of a slim Portia, and a jolly Bacchus tripping it with a vestal virgin.

Mephistopheles watched them in bored and indolent silence. The humor of the ill matched partners utterly escaped him. He felt suddenly a loathing of the dancers, the Strauss waltz and the lights. He longed to be alone to smoke and think.

Some one touched his arm. He turned to find at his elbow a Watteau shepherdess flushed and breathing quickly, evidently but just come from a turn in the waltz. He straightened himself and looked down at her gravely.

"Teddy," she said severely, "you should be dancing. You look bored to death. What's the matter?"

"I feel like—I feel my part," he corrected himself. She laughed softly.

"And I was just going out on the veranda for a smoke, but I've forgotten my cigarette case," he went on ruefully.

"How hollow your world must be and what a lot of sawdust in your doll," she mocked. "Can't you get some at the office?"

"They don't carry Sulinas there," he answered.

"Well," she said, "I'm not a box of Sulinas, but I'll do my best. Will you take me outside? It's stuffy here, and I'm tired of dancing."

"Come," he said simply as he offered his arm.

Outside was a clear sky, and a half moon just hung above the horizon. They stood for a moment by the veran-

"PATTY," HE SAID, "THERE'S A LOT TO FORGET, ISN'T THERE?"

da rail drinking in the glory of the night. The soft plash of water came musically to them. Mephistopheles sighed.

"Let's go over to the cliff," he hazarded.

"It will be gorgeous over there," she said as they started across the lawn.

"I suppose he was there tonight," Mephistopheles mused.

"Who?" said the shepherdess innocently.

"Oh, Sir Frederick Giles, baronet, F. R. S., and so forth. I can't remember the rest of the alphabetical distinctions," he added.

"Oh, yes," she said. "He knew I was coming as a shepherdess, so he came as Colin. Nice, wasn't it?"

Her tone was inscrutable. For the life of him he could not determine whether it was mocking or serious.

"He'd have made an ideal Falstaff," growled Mephistopheles.

He fancied he heard a giggle from the shepherdess, but being uncertain on this point he remained discreetly silent until they reached the cliff. He spread his cape for her, and they seated themselves on the brink. The outline of the coast lay black and ragged against the paleness of the sky and water. Tiny, twinkling lights shone all along the shore, and far toward the eastern horizon the lighthouse on Monahoc island kindled its great star, now red, now yellow.

Mephistopheles propped himself comfortably on his elbow and gave vent to another ponderous sigh.

"Is it too early for congratulations, Patty?" he asked.

"They'd be more appropriate a trifle later perhaps," she said. Mephistopheles felt a sense of momentary relief.

"It isn't every girl marries the foremost geologist of the day—one with baronet and half the alphabet after his name," he said.

"No," she answered flippantly, "that would be bigamy."

"Patty," Mephistopheles said seriously, "I hope you'll have a big, wide life over there—the kind you're eminently fitted for." She turned impetuously toward him.

"Oh, you great, big, generous boy," she said warmly, "that's just like you!"

Mephistopheles felt his heart dive for his boots.

"I do," he repeated lamely, as if trying to convince himself, "I really do."

What was that from the shepherdess? Did she choke or did she snicker?

"And you'll be fulfilling all your mother's ambition for you?" he went on. She nodded.

He sat up suddenly and for a time looked silently out across the water.

"Patty," he said at length, "there's a lot to forget, isn't there?"

"I suppose so," she said.

"A lot for you, not for me," he continued. "You'll have to forget those drives and walks and that moonlight sail out around Whaleback—great, wasn't it? You said—well, never mind. No one is responsible on moonlight sails. And, say, remember the canoe in the harbor last year? I believe to this day you tipped it over purposely to test me. Pat, I wish I had been swimming from then till now, and I wish I could swim from now till the crack of doom with your hands on my shoulders. Well, a duffer who can only swim and sail a boat and knock a golf ball about the green can't expect to compete with the alphabet after a name. I'm not complaining, Pat, understand, but I've got one advantage, anyway. I can remember those things. I shan't have to forget them."

"I shan't forget those things, Teddy," she said gently.

He took her hand impulsively.

"The only thing I've got to forget is that I love you," he said deliberately.

"This is a good way to begin," she said dryly, looking down at him. He sprang to his feet.

"Oh, hang every royal society chartered!" he burst out. "I wish I'd found my cigarette case. I should have been smoking quietly on the veranda now instead of making an ass of myself here."

"Do you mean," she said slowly, "hang Sir Frederick Giles, baronet, and the rest of it?"

"Yes," he growled, "hang him to the highest limb."

"Oh, you great, big, generous boy!" she mocked. "Can't you be a little sorry for him?"

"I? Sorry?" he said. "Why?"

"Because," she said, rising and coming a step toward him, "because all my chances to rise in the world are going to the—to Mephistopheles."

Ingalls and His Host.

In 1890 Senator Ingalls announced that he would pay Hays City a visit. Immediately the society leaders of the place began to make preparations for his entertainment. It was arranged that the leader of one of the Republican factions should entertain him for breakfast and that the leader of the other faction should entertain him at dinner. The idea was to avoid the appearance of giving pre-eminence to either faction and to keep local divisions from spoiling the senator's day. But in the anxiety to fix up a compromise everybody forgot to notify the senator of what the arrangements were. Therefore, when, a day or two before the date of his visit, the senator got a polite note from one H. C. Freese inviting him to be his guest he promptly accepted it. He did not know Freese and, of course, did not know that Freese was the publisher of the most radical "Pop" paper to be found in western Kansas. When he arrived at the depot in Hays, he found the hosts of politics and society assembled. After shaking hands with those around him he asked, "And where is Mr. Freese?" At once Mr. Freese presented himself, and thereupon the tall senator linked his arm with that of the diminutive "Pop" editor, and the pair walked off to a buggy which Freese had provided, leaving the crowd too amazed and astonished to utter a word.—Kansas City Journal.

Lost Himself.

An absent minded professor was much annoyed by the trouble he experienced every morning in hunting for his clothes, for he never could remember where he had put them the night before when he undressed. So he devised the plan of writing down on a sheet of paper where each article of clothing was placed as he took it off, and this is what he wrote:

"Coat on third peg, left hand corner of room; waistcoat and trousers on chair by bed; collar on door handle; tie through key of door; vest on floor by window; cuffs on knobs by bedstead; shirt on portmanteau; socks on gas bracket; boots outside door; professor in bed."

Next morning this plan seemed to answer admirably. He collected his garments rapidly, and when he came to the last item on the list he went over to the bed and, to his great disgust, found it empty.

"Ah!" he cried in bewilderment. "Now the professor is lost! This plan is not good. What shall I do now?"

Applying His Immortality.

Joaquin Miller, "the Poet of the Sierras," visited a friend in Boston. This friend, whose literary tastes run largely to Emerson, Browning and Maeterlinck, found the venerable poet in the library one afternoon absorbed in a book.

"What are you reading?" asked the Bostonian.

"A novel by Bret Harte," replied the poet.

The Hubite sniffed. "I cannot see," said he, "how an immortal being can waste his time with such stuff."

"Are you quite sure," asked Miller, "that I am an immortal being?"

"Why, of course you are," was the unwary reply.

"In that case," replied the Californian grimly, "I don't see why I should be so very economical of my time."—Lippincott's.

THE WOOD HEARING

Story of Magazine Article Attacking Brooke

PLANNED AT A DINNER

Runcie Testifies That Newspaper Man Supplied Material Glorifying Wood at the Request of the General Himself

Washington, Nov. 28.—The senate committee on military affairs heard Major James E. Runcie of Havana, probably the most important witness that will be offered by the opponents of General Leonard Wood in their attempt to prevent his confirmation to be major general. Major Runcie was on the stand several times during the day, telling the committee of a dinner at Santiago attended by himself, General Wood and Ray S. Baker, a newspaper man, at which, it is alleged, was planned the magazine article attacking Major General Brooke that has figured conspicuously in the Wood case.

Major Runcie was stopped more than once during the course of his testimony and told to give nothing but facts of which he had personal knowledge. This did not exclude his story of the dinner incident, which resulted in the issue of subpoenas for three other witnesses, among whom is General Brooke.

In his testimony Major Runcie explained that he had acted as the confidential adviser of General Wood for nearly two years and that they lived together at Santiago. It was while they were living in the same house that Baker went to Santiago in search of material for a magazine article. A meeting was arranged between the three men and a dinner followed, testified Major Runcie, at which was discussed the plan to have published an article which would exploit the success of Wood in dealing with affairs at Santiago and draw a comparison with the situation at Havana unfavorable to the administration of Brooke.

Major Runcie declared that Wood asked him to write the article and that he did so. The article was given to Baker and published in February, 1900, over the name of Runcie. He asserted that Wood knew what the article contained, and that they had correspondence about it as the result of the furor created by its publication. He offered to produce copies of letters which he had written to Wood concerning his own defense.

It was not until after Wood succeeded Brooke that the article was published. The effect was a severance of the relations between the witness and Wood. Major Runcie then began the practice of law at Havana and, according to his testimony, has been there ever since. The witness said that when the secretary of war went to Cuba, following the disclosures to the war department, the suggestion was made, either by the secretary or Wood, that he be court martialled for writing the article and that he had, in effect, invited the court martial.

The committee notified Runcie that he would be called again some time next week. He left Washington last night for Cleveland. He is expected to return within three days and hold himself subject to the call of the committee. His connections in Havana make it necessary for him to appear before the committee to testify concerning matters other than the writing of the magazine article. It is said he has knowledge of Wood's order for the arrest of Rathbone, and as the agent at Havana for a Maryland bonding company can give information in regard to Rathbone's charge that Wood used his influence with the courts in Havana for his (Rathbone's) bond being fixed at a figure he declares to have been unreasonable.

The Vindicator Mine Explosion

Cripple Creek, Col., Nov. 28.—A coroner's jury last night reported that it was unable to determine the cause of the explosion in the Vindicator mine on last Friday in which Superintendent McCormack and Shift Boss Beck lost their lives. After the verdict was announced the Elks lodge of Cripple Creek offered a reward of $500 for conviction of the persons responsible for the explosion. McCormack was a member of the Elks lodge of Victor.

Carter's Sentence Ended

Leavenworth, Kas., Nov. 28.—Oberlin H. Carter, formerly captain of engineers, U. S. A., was released from Leavenworth prison this morning. Convicted of conspiracy to defraud the government, he had finished a term of five years' imprisonment, having a credit of 10 months for good behavior. Carter left for Chicago.

Two Deaths From Poison

New York, Nov. 28.—Autopsies on the bodies of Mrs. Mary Cusier and Mrs. Julia Ward, who died in the same house after taking headache powders, showed that death was due to some irritant poison, the nature of which could not be determined. The stomachs will be sent to a chemist for analysis.

Back to Normal Status

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Cars are running on daily schedule on the Chicago City railway lines for the first time since the beginning of the strike. The executive board of the union has decided not to take any action to force the reinstatement of the men who were refused work.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Long Looked For Improvement Is at Last Realized

New York, Nov. 28.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Seasonable temperature and holiday purchases stimulated retail trade, making results more satisfactory during the past week than at any recent date. Improvement was most conspicuous in heavy wearing apparel and kindred lines that have remained dull because of the mild weather. Another encouraging feature was the resumption of work at many mills, although there is still much machinery idle, especially in the textile and iron industries. Thousands of operatives are idle because of the shutdown at a number of paper mills.

Textile manufacturing conditions are without alteration. Demand for cotton goods is on a smaller scale and confined to immediate requirements, while neither makers nor purchasers appear inclined to undertake future commitments until the question of quotations is more definitely settled. There is still much idle machinery in cotton mills, but not owing to labor disputes, as the reduction in wages have been generally accepted.

Colder weather stimulated retail trade in woolen and worsteds, but as yet there is no improvement in piece goods. Sellers anticipate an early revival in reorder business, however, especially in light weights.

Despite some conservatism among shoe buyers there is a brisk demand for spring delivery, and requirements are unquestionably large. Jobbers have placed liberal contracts for specialties and supplementary orders are received from travelling salesmen. New England factories are now busy on next season's shoes, deliveries to begin in February. Quotations are firmly held.

Successful Strike of Cabmen

New York, Nov. 28.—The strike of the Liberty Dawn Association of Cabmen for a decrease in the number of working hours ended last night in a victory for the strikers. A lockout by the Livery Stable Keepers' association of 2200 of its cab drivers was declared, but committees of strikers and employers met and settled all their difficulties amicably. The stable keepers conceded the men 10 hours off duty at the end of each day's work, a wage scale of $2 a day, a night off every two weeks and every other Sunday off.

MacMillan Not Discouraged

London, Nov. 28.—W. N. MacMillan of St. Louis, who recently failed in an attempt to explore the course of the Blue Nile, has completed arrangements for another expedition. His party starts early next week with a big retinue of carriers, etc. The party will embark in launches at Khartoum and proceed to the furthest navigable point, where it will land and continue the explorations in the direction of Lake Rudolf. MacMillan expects to be absent seven months.

Another Accident to the Maine

Washington, Nov. 28.—The battleship Maine has suffered another injury. The inability of the ship to make more than 12 knots on her recent cruise to Colon was due to an accident to her engines. Four of the large engine supports are broken and it will be necessary to repair them before it will be safe for the Maine to increase her speed beyond 12 knots, although the vessel's maximum speed is 18 knots.

Poisonous Sardines

Winnimac, Ind., Nov. 28.—Frank Miller, his wife and his brother Joseph and his father-in-law, John Johns, ate sardines put up in mustard and vinegar. Shortly afterward all became violently ill and died in terrible agony. As yet it is not known what caused the poisoning, but it is said that the can showed evidences of having been opened before it reached the Miller home.

Dietrich Engages Counsel

Omaha, Nov. 28.—Senator Dietrich has arrived in Omaha from his home in Hastings, where he has been for the last few days. He has engaged John C. Cowin to conduct his defense. "My only other attorney," said the senator, "will be R. A. Beatty of Hastings." Further than this the senator would say nothing and he did not appear at the federal court.

Torpedo Destroyers Crippled

Norfolk, Nov. 28.—The steering gear of the torpedo destroyers Barry and Dale of the fleet ordered to the Philippines has become deranged and the boats are at the navy yard for repairs. It is stated a trial spin in heavy weather was the cause of the trouble. The engines of the Decatur of the same flotilla have broken down.

Two Schooners Wrecked

St. Johns, Nov. 28.—The schooner May is a total loss at Penne bay, where she was landing a cargo of coal for the British warships in those waters. Her crew suffered severely before they were rescued. Schooner Savoyard went ashore on the south coast and is a complete wreck. Her crew escaped.

Crank Escapes From Asylum

St. Paul, Nov. 28—Peter Elliott of Minneapolis, who was arrested in Washington while attempting to force his way into the president's presence, has escaped from the insane asylum at St. Peter. A party is out hunting for him.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE

The Castle Square Theatre will have as its attraction next week the amusing light comedy by Clyde Fitch, "Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines." This comedy had its original production only a season ago and proved immensely popular with local audiences at the Boston Museum. The action is in the early seventies, the scenes being in New York and the leading theme the accidents and incidents of the arrival and reception of a great primadona at the Metropolis. The play makes a vastly amusing entertainment in which both probabilities and possibilities are equally ignored and yet the author has contrived to weave a pretty love story in which the comedy situations so cleverly that pleasing contrasts are given in each of the acts. The Castle Square cast of the play will be as follows: Captain Robert Carrollton Jinks, Howell Hansel; Charles Lamartine, Thomas MacLarnie; Augustus Bleeker von Vorkenberg, Lindsay Morrison; Professor Belliarti, John Sainpolis; The Herald Reporter, Edward Wade; The Tribune Reporter, John A. Craven; The Times Reporter, William J. Hasson; Mrs. Greenborough, Gertrude Berkeley; Mrs. Jinks, Cordelia Macdonald; Mrs. Stonington, Isabelle Fletcher; Mary, Alice Riker, Mme. Trentoni, (Aurelia Johnson), Lillian Lawrence.

GLOBE THEATRE.

Manager Weber and Fields will present at the Globe Theatre, next Monday evening for the first time in this country, a new musical comedy, entitled "An English Daisy." It is in two acts and three scenes. Messrs. Seymour, Hicks and Walter Slaughter are the authors.

"An English Daisy" will be presented with all the prodality and lavishness which have characterized all the Weber-Fieldian productions. There are 125 people in the company and over 30 persons in the cast, everyone of whom is a recognized artist. The chorus is the largest and prettiest on the American stage, every member having been selected for beauty and grace and talent.

"An English Daisy" will be presented every evening at 8 and Wednesday and Saturday afternoons at 2.15.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.

Commencing Monday evening next, "A Girl from Dixie," one of the brightest new musical comedies of the season, will be seen at the Columbia for two weeks only. The organization is headed by Irene Bentley, one of the most beautiful women upon the stage, and she will have the benefit of a supporting company of especial strength including such well known performers as Ferdinand Gottschalk, Albert Hart, George Schiller, D. L. Don, Charles French, Charles Bowers, William Bentley, Diamond Donner, Adelaide Sharp, Rose Hart, Essie Lyons, and Olga May. The company is a very large one, and the Columbia should continue to do a very heavy business.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Militiamen will be particularly interested in the special feature of Keith's vaudeville for the week commencing Nov. 20, as the fame of the Hoosier Zouaves has preceded them from Indiana. The company consists of 16 young men, who have been perfectly drilled, go through all their movements with snap, and wind up their act with an exhibition of wall scaling that will quite likely bring the more excitable in an audience to their feet. The surrounding show includes the Maxwell quintet of vocalists, in their delightful specialty, "The Fire Chief;" Paul Stephens, the monopede wonder; Hal Davis and Inez Macauley, in their charming comedy sketch, "The Unexpected;" Raymond and Caverly, German dialect comedians; Everhart, an expert roller of hoops, and Lizzie Wilson, a German comedienne. Cole and Johnson hold over, making an entire change of songs, and the biograph of pictures is promised to be exceptionally attractive.

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER.

Vol. 15. No. 279. QUINCY, MASS., MONDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1903. PRICE TWO CENTS.

Three Buildings Burned at Sunday Morning Fire.

GENERAL ALARM

For a Conflagration at Brewers Corner.

Tenants Escape In Night Clothes.

Loss of $4,000 Largely Covered by Insurance.

The first general alarm of fire in Quincy since the morning of Sunday, March 18, 1900, when the Music hall block was destroyed, was sounded Sunday morning, and immediately followed an alarm from Box 42 at 2.30 A. M.

The fire, which practically destroyed three small buildings on the corner of Water and Granite streets, was discovered by James Allen who lives near by and who rung in the alarm. Mrs. Allen was aroused by the breaking of glass and awoke her husband.

When Chief Williams arrived the buildings were a roaring mass of flames. But a few feet distant on the Granite street side was the Swedish Baptist church while on the Water street side was a drug store.

Sparks from the burning buildings were igniting the roof of these and other buildings and as a conflagration was threatened Chief Williams ordered the general alarm sounded.

Fortunately, the apparatus summoned by the general alarm was not needed and they were sent home as soon as they arrived.

The fire started in a building on Water street owned by E. J. Sandberg and occupied as a shoe store by John Neimi. From there it communicated to another building on Water street owned by Mr. Sandberg and occupied as a barber shop, and to a building on the Granite street side owned by the heirs of A. P. Frouland and occupied by Mrs. Frouland as a shoe store.

The occupants of the barber shop occupied the back part of the building as a tenement. They were aroused by the smoke and heat, and were obliged to make their escape through a window in scanty night attire.

The fire had made such a headway before it was discovered there was no opportunity to save any of the contents of either building and the buildings were practically destroyed.

The nearest hydrant was directly in front of the burning building, so close that it could not be used and it was necessary to use hydrants some distance away.

The firemen had the fire under control soon after their arrival although it was not until 3.30 that the recall was sounded.

Although the losses are quite heavy the buildings and contents were covered by insurance.

The building occupied by John Neimi was valued at $700 and insured for $600. The value of the contents, which were a total loss, was $1000, partly covered by insurance.

The barber shop building was valued at $500 and insured for $300. The contents were valued at $200, upon which there is no insurance, and aside from this the occupants lost $150 in money.

The Frouland building was valued at $700 and was damaged to the extent of $600. This is covered by insurance. The contents were valued at $1200 and the building and contents were insured for $1500.

TODAY'S COURT.

Patrick Phelan was fined $3 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Thomas Phelan was sent to the State farm for drunkenness at Quincy, and Edward Dwyer was sent to the same institution for being a vagrant at Weymouth.

A CARD.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50 cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

WARNING TO VOTERS.

Mayor Bryant Writes a Letter on Personal Abuse and False Statements Circulated Against Him by His Opponents.

To the Citizens of Quincy:

I desire to warn you that there are being circulated by my opponents at the eleventh hour false and malicious stories trying to injure my candidacy for Mayor. I know that such stories will be given no credence by persons who know me. I cannot, however, reach every new citizen and speciffially deny each falsehobd which is covertly and maliciously circulated.

The statement made that I personally or my friends, made money out of the coal which I purchased to relieve the distress of the people in this city last winter, is nothing short of monstrous in its falsity. All the facts and figures, including expenses relating to the purchase of the coal, are in the form of records and are open to the inspection of any person now or later.

The statement that I am directly or indirectly interested in the business of Mr. Emerson is likewise false. I am not, nor have I ever been financially interested in the business of any person or firm having business relations with the city government.

The statement made that the building of the Metropolitan parkway at West Quincy has been sacrificed to the building of the boulevard at Atlantic is equally false. The Metropolitan Park Commissioners have promised to begin work on the West Quincy end of the parkway and I am informed that the detailed plans and specifications are now being prepared by their engineer, and that bids will shortly be asked for to begin this work.

I have endeavored to conduct my campaign in a clean and honest manner, free from mud slinging and personal abuse. I regret to say that those persons among my opponents whose shocked sensibilities compelled them to publicly condemn me as a man unfit for public office, now find it necessary to adopt the language and methods which they so lately attributed to me as my greatest fault.

On this issue of personal abuse I ask the people of Quincy to judge between us on what they have heard and read in this campaign.

Charles M. Bryant.

The Greater Sin.

Editors of the Ledger:

All logical thinkers admit the absurdity of licensing local liquor selling and then paying more than the license money to have the drinkers arrested and punished.

Another fact generally admitted is that as long as this world lasts liquor will be sold and swallowed.

Of course the majority settle these public questions, presumably on the ground of utility—the moral side lies with the individual. There is a very high authority for inflicting a worse punishment on the tempter than on the tempted. The man who licenses and the man who sells "hath the greater sin."

One of the proof's of Christ's divinity was his wonderful knowledge of human nature. He admitted that the world is evil, but invariably condemned the tempter before the tempted. Offences must be, but with each one of us lies the decision.

The man or woman who makes the drinking of intoxicating liquors publicly or privately easy, had better pause and think. T. W. R.

Convincing Arguments at No-License Meetings.

MUSIC HALL

Is Crowded at the Union Rally.

Fr. Roche the Principal Speaker.

Stereopticon Talks by the Rev. E. N. Hardy.

The speakers at the union No-License rally Sunday evening were earnest, emphatic and convincing and the music and stereopticon talk lent variety, and all in all it was a most successful meeting in the interests of temperance in Quincy.

The hall was decorated with large and small flags, and no-license posters were on the wall. In each seat were appeals from boys and girls to vote "No."

The attendance was in excess of the seating capacity of the large hall, and included ladies as well as gentlemen, a large number of young men, and a great many Italians who showed unusual interest.

The City band played a few selections outside the hall and opened the program inside.

Dr. Sherman, the president of the league, spoke briefly, and introduced Edward Southworth as chairman.

Mr. Southworth was pleased to see so much interest, and said it would be folly to invite license to come to Quincy. He urged all to vote and work for No-License.

Rev. E. D. Webber of Wollaston, the first speaker spoke of the extravagance of American people, and the colossal waste caused by the saloons in whatever phase they are viewed. Financially, for every dollar put into the city treasury from license fees, the city has to pay out $21. Under No-License Quincy pays 56 cents per inhabitant for poor expenses; under license we paid $1.50. Licenses cost the churches more.

But the money argument is small side of that of humanity which is used up by the saloons. We hear about individual rights, but the question is the best interest of the community. The saloons are a danger. There is too much indifference on the part of voters generally. The State needs "Patriotism in peace." The spirit exhibited by Abraham Lincoln who long before the war resolved to strike a blow at slavery when opportunity offered.

Rev. A. F. Roche followed. He was sorry this question must come up annually. Once in two or three years enough. He was sorry it had to come up at all as he was a firm believer in State prohibitory law. Such a law had

CANDIDATE WILSON UNEQUIVOCAL.

Replies to Questions Propounded by Republican Independents on Issues of the Day.

The following letter in reply to questions submitted to Candidate Wilson by a comittee of the Republican Independent voters has been handed to the Ledger for publication:

QUINCY, Nov. 28, 1903.

Committee Republican Independent Voters:

GENTLEMEN,—Your letter of Nov. 27, addressed to me as a candidate for Mayor of Quincy propounding certain questions as to my views upon certain matters, and what action upon same, I would take if elected, at hand, to which I am pleased to reply:

To your first question "If elected Mayor of the City of Quincy, will you use your official position or allow any one under you, to interfere with the free right of any city employee to vote as he pleases in the city elections?" My answer is emphatically No.

To your second question—"Outside of your right to approve or veto orders passed by the City Council, and recommend such orders as in your judgment may be to the city's interest, will you personally interfere with the business of the Council?" Would say that outside of my duty as executive I certainly should not presume to interfere with the Legislative department of the city.

To your third and fourth questions—"Do you believe in the collection of all taxes assessed on personal property within two years of such assessment?" and "Do you believe all property should be assessed at a fair market value regardless of what the tax rate would be?" I answer Yes.

To your fifth question—"Will you enforce to the best of your ability the No-License law as expressed by the voters of our city?" would say, that if I am elected and take the oath of office I am thereby bound to enforce all laws and ordinances of the Commonwealth and City, and shall do so.

As to your sixth and last question—"Do you believe our city should be conducted strictly on business principles regardless of party or politics?" I should certainly endeavor to conduct the affairs of the city upon economical and business principles, and should certainly not allow the question of party or politics to hamper, in any way, the proper conduct of city affairs.

Respectfully,
George H. Wilson.

Collection of Taxes.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The City Solicitor's letter in last week's Patriot is all right as far as it goes. No one wishes to push the collection of taxes on real estate until two years old, but the writer of the article very wisely for political reasons, says nothing about uncollected taxes on personal property.

If any of our taxpayers will consult the figures given in last week's Patriot, he will see that there are thousands of dollars uncollected back of 1902, and about one hundred and twenty-five thousand back of 1903, nearly if not all of which, is tax on personal property.

The City Solicitor knows as well as any one that when this property changes hands or is mortgaged it is no longer security for taxes.

The administration, or Tax Collector, or both, are at fault for letting this property slip out of the city's grasp and taking chances that no business man would take for the collection of bills.

Other cities and towns collect such taxes. Why not Quincy? As one of our larger taxpayers I protest against such negligence on the part of the present administration. When this or any other administration will allow such neglect, it is time for a change.

STAND OF COLOMBIA

Says We Have Violated Treaty and International Law

ARMY SENT TO ISTHMUS

Certain of Being Victorious, Says Foreign Minister, If Not Interfered With by United States--Reyes Confers With Herran

Bogota, Nov. 30.—The following notes have been exchanged between United States Minister Beaupre and Carlos Rico, the Colombian foreign minister. In a communication to Rico, Minister Beaupre says: "I have the honor to inform you that on Nov. 13 the President of the United States formally recognized the Panama republic and received its minister."

In reply, Rico wrote: "Your note received. I am acquainted with the fact that President Roosevelt has recognized the republic of Panama and received its minister. So far as Colombia is concerned the recognition of the so-called republic of Panama by the United States had fully taken place at the time your government entered into relations with it. It is not according to rule to establish communications by an international treaty until the existence of a government has been recognized. For this reason the fact of the United States having done so on Nov. 13, and the receiving of an agent of the rebels, are acts that would naturally follow.

"The facts you have communicated to me oblige me to state that the Colombian government considers them and also the premature manner in which the recognition took place to be a violation of the treaty of 1846 and of international law.

"As I informed your excellency Nov. 11, a Colombian army is marching on the isthmus and consequently Colombia is primarily the sovereign state and she will not only carry on the struggle but is certain of being victorious if the United States does not interfere.

"Even should the United States ignore the obligations of the treaty of 1846 it is to be hoped that they will remain neutral, not impeding the efforts of Colombia to bring the Panamaians into submission and abstaining from any recognition of the rebels as belligerents. If the United States assume an attitude decidedly hostile to Colombia and should prevent the latter government's efforts to bring into submission the rebels who proclaimed the republic of Panama, then the independence of the isthmus is inevitable. In that case the independence of the isthmus would be the work of the United States and not of the natives."

In Conference With Herran

Washington, Nov. 30.—General Reyes, the Colombian peace commissioner, and his colleagues are continuing their conferences with Dr. Herran, the Colombian charge of affairs here, regarding the Panama canal treaty and affairs on the isthmus. As a preliminary to any action Reyes is familiarizing himself thoroughly with every feature of the isthmian question about which Herran is able to give him information. There are many antecedent circumstances bearing on the negotiations of the defunct Hay-Herran convention of which it is desirable that Reyes shall have knowledge before he proceeds with his mission. There also are other features of the situation which have developed since the general left Bogota which it is desirable shall be fully discussed with Herran as a preliminary to mapping out a plan of procedure. It is said several days will elapse before any developments take place. General Reyes denies himself to callers. He left word at the hotel office that he had nothing to say for publication at this time.

Strike Considered Likely

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 30.—The management of the Dominion Iron and Steel company have refused to agree to the terms of the ultimatum issued by the Provincial Workmen's association. The men accepted the general cut in wages, but asked for a reduction of only 5 percent in the pay of common laborers, and it was this proposal that the company refused to accept. It is likely that the 1500 members of the association employed at the works will be called out on strike.

Boy Bandit Tells of His Terrible Criminal Record

SHOWS LOVE FOR MOTHER

Promises to Divulge Names of Partners In Many Crimes If Rewards Will Go to Maternal Parent--Four Indicted

Chicago, Nov. 30.—Peter Neidermeyer, one of the members of the quartet of young bandits who for the last six months have terrorized Chicago, in another confession has added several more crimes to the long list already charged against him and his companions, VanDine, Marx and Roeski. With parental love uppermost in his mind, Neidermeyer offered to tell Chief of Police O'Neil of a score of train holdups, burglaries and other crimes that he has committed, if the rewards offered will only be given to his mother.

"I want to know that my mother will be cared for after I am hung," said the 21-year-old boy, who is now the self-confessed murderer of five men. "I am guilty of crimes of which you know nothing and for which innocent men are now suffering. There are rewards offered for my capture and conviction. If you will guarantee that these rewards will go to my mother I will convict myself. I will confess crimes that will startle you."

In order to make his word good Neidermeyer told of a few crimes which he claimed to have committed. He outlined them in such a manner as only one who was concerned in them could do. Neidermeyer refused, however, to divulge the names of his partners in the crimes referred to, pending proof that his mother would get the reward.

A few additional crimes he claims to have participated in are as follows: Robbery of the Illinois Central limited express at Paducah, Ky., after which Barnes, one of the robbers, cut his throat while surrounded in a swamp. The others escaped. Holdup of a stage coach a mile from Butler, Nev., two years ago and robbery of the mails. No one was shot and robbers escaped without recognition. Holdup and robbery of Chicago and Northwestern passenger train near Boone, Ia., six months ago. Holdup and attempted robbery of Baltimore and Ohio train at Edgemoor, Ind., four years ago.

Minor holdups and robberies in and out of Chicago were mentioned by Neidermeyer. But in all cases he was careful to conceal the names of his associates in crime, merely giving an outline sufficient to warrant Chief O'Neil in believing that Neidermeyer was telling the truth.

Special Agent Riley of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad will give Mrs. Neidermeyer the reward of $500 offered for the arrest and conviction of the Claybourn station robbers. Neidermeyer detailed the robbery and exonerated a man named Dolle, who is now under indictment. Operator Dougherty and Ticket Agent Lathrop, the victims of the robbery in the Claybourn station holdup, were present during Neidermeyer's confession, going over with him in detail the robbery and the shooting of Lathrop.

"Before last May I spent three years in holdups and robberies outside Chicago and if the rewards are forthcoming for my mother I will make a clean breast of everything."

The police have been so appalled by Neidermeyer's confessions that they hardly give credence to all his assertions. It is thought that his anxiety over his mother's welfare has prompted him to make himself the author of crimes he did not commit. As a result of the assertions made by Neidermeyer and VanDine it is said that more arrests will be made.

Chief O'Neil asserts that there is a strong probability that Neidermeyer and VanDine will tell of all their accomplices in other crimes in which both men have acknowledged they had help.

Indictments have been voted by the grand jury against Harvey VanDeln, Peter Neidermeyer and Emil Roeski. An indictment was also voted against Gustave Marx, who murdered Officer Quinn and was with the others in the majority of their crimes. Van Dein is charged with complicity in five murders, and Neidermeyer and Marx with four murders each. Roeski will stand trial for one murder.

There is little or no strike talk. While the operatives consider the reduction a hardship they believe that the only alternative is accepting the situation. A strike would result only in the immediate closing of many of the mills. WIDOW'S AWFUL LOSS

Her Three Sons Drowned While on a Trip For Firewood

Blackstone, Mass., Nov. 30.—The three sons of Mrs. Nellie J. Read, John, 17, William, 14, and George, 8 years of age, were drowned in the Blackstone river by breaking through thin ice. The boys were the only children of Mrs. Read, who lives with her uncle, John Nickerson, near the river. At 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon the boys left the house to go to the woods on the other side of the river for firewood. They took with them a handsled. When at 4 o'clock they had not returned the mother became alarmed and sought the assistance of a neighbor, Joseph Ginty, who went in search of the boys. He found a track leading from the house to the middle of the river where there was a hole in the ice through which the boys had evidently been drowned.

Near the ragged edge of the broken ice was found the handsled and a cap and mitten belonging to one of the boys.

The river is only about 30 feet wide at the point where the boys attempted to cross, but the channel in the centre of the stream is very swift. A party was organized to search for the bodies. It is their purpose to continue, if necessary, as far as the dam, a quarter of a mile down the stream. It is thought that the bodies have been carried by the swift current as far as the dam, over which the water is not flowing.

Mrs. Read was nearly crazed when she learned of the death of her children, and is in a serious condition from the shock. Her only near relative is Mrs. Julia J. Bliss of Palmer, her mother.

An Error of $10,000

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 30.—As the result of a mistake of $10,000 in the accounts of the office of the superintendent of streets, the highway department is without funds and all work in the scavenger department and that of roadway repairs is at a standstill. By order of Mayor Grimes all men employed on highway work have been discharged. In making up the list of figures a clerk employed at city hall entered the sum of $10,000 derived from revenue twice. When the mistake was discovered it was found that the actual amount on hand had been entirely expended and that the department is without funds to carry on its work.

Two Electric Car Fatalities

Norwalk, Conn., Nov. 30.—Benjamin Comstock and Nicholas Pace, each aged 45, were killed by an electric car while driving along the tracks. The men were returning from a visit to Westport. In order to avoid a bad place in the road they drove their horse along the railroad tracks. Pace was cut nearly in two, while Comstock was jammed under the wheels of the car. Death resulted almost instantly in each case. The horse also was killed and the wagon smashed to pieces.

Woman Weary of Life

Boston, Nov. 30.—The mystery surrounding the discovery of a woman's wearing apparel on the bank of the Charles river has been partially cleared by Milly Wilkins, who has identified the fur boa, muff and pocket book as the property of her sister, Annie Wilkins, who lived with her. Miss Wilkins was completely prostrated when she saw the articles. She said that her sister, who was 29 years old, had been suffering from consumption and had become despondent.

Suicide by Fire

South Norwalk, Conn., Nov 30.—Antonio Gorgan, aged 39, went into an outhouse at the rear of his home and, after pouring a quantity of kerosene oil over his body, set fire to it. He was burned frightfully and lived but a few minutes after being removed to a hospital. He refused to give any reason for his act. Gorgan had recently been released from a sanitarium as completely cured of insanity.

PRESENTS MADE at HOME

Bags and Portemonnaies, and How to Make Them

RETICULES our great-grandmothers called them, and as such they would probably recognize the pretty little bags which we, their descendants, call portemouchoirs, or portemonnaies. Called by whatever name you will, they are acceptable and pretty as Christmas gifts. Fashion works round in a circle, and we have returned to many things, reticules among others, and these we have in every shape and form, from the delicate, jeweled theater bag to the useful finger purse, just large enough to contain a small supply of change for immediate use. In woman's present pocketless condition necessity has been the raison d'etre for the revival of these little elegancies, which, among their other advantages, present attractive opportunities to the lover of needlework for the exercise of her skill.

Scraps of old brocade may be turned to excellent account for devising them, enriched, if fancy so dictate, with touches of embroidery, jeweling or applique lace sprays and finished with one of the tastefully designed mounts of which such a tempting choice is now to be had in steel, silver or silver gilt set with devices in paste or in softly tinted art nouveau enamel.

One may make portemonnales of beads, one may knit them or crochet them in silk, and many are the sets of instructions for the fascinating old world work which are being brought once more into use. In this article are given suggestions adapted from antique patterns which would lend themselves charmingly to the searcher for a pretty Christmas present. They are taken from handsome old reticules which have done good service in days long gone by.

One is worked on myrtle velvet, the design being outlined in gold beads sewed closely together and filled in with stitches in red brown chenille. A looped fringe of gold beads makes a good finish, and the effect of the whole is extremely pleasing. The other, a little bag of black velvet, is embroidered in fine beads, with a garland of turquoise blue, shaded flowers and green leaves. The originals belong, more properly speaking, perhaps to the class of portemouchoir, but the designs could be adapted to any size required.

In olden days these bags were knitted with beads, threaded upon very fine silk, after the style of the lovely old beadwork. This, however, would be too tedious for present day workers, few of whom could find leisure enough for the counting out of the various colored beads required to form the pattern, the subsequent threading and the care needed in working each stitch to secure the bead firmly just in its right position.

A much more rapidly produced effect, which was by no means disdained even in the palmy days of beadwork, is gained by sewing the beads on brussels net, each bead being made to cover a mesh of the net, and this, though not, of course, as strong as knitting, produces excellent results and with a strong lining is quite sufficiently durable. In the quaint little heartsease pattern the flowers should be carried out in their natural purples, yellows and greens on a groundwork of creamy beads, the lozenge medallions between being in green or turquoise blue.

In the vandyked pattern the little powderings are carried out in rose and green upon a pale green ground, the separating lines being in deep rose red. Beads, net and silk should be of the finest, and, by way of precaution, the silk should be passed twice through each bead.

Good Afternoon

The voters should make tomorrow another "Thanksgiving Day" by giving us a bigger "No" than we have ever had before.

A vote for George H. Wilson tomorrow for Mayor will help to secure a much-needed change at City Hall. The feeling is very strong against the present administration, and its conduct of city affairs, and it is believed that Mr. Wilson would be an improvement.

Quincy is being held up as an example for other cities on the No-License question. In the Waltham papers last week the No-License league had a big advertisement giving figures of Quincy contrasted with license cities in population, support of poor, cost of police, and arrests for drunkenness. Let Quincy continue to be a shining light. Keep up the "No" majority tomorrow, and thereby dispel any hope that the saloons may entertain of capturing Quincy next year or ten years hence.

It is refreshing to note that the widening of Hancock street at the railroad bridge at Atlantic "is now in a position where it can make little difference who the Mayor of the City of Quincy is next year." The City Solicitor might admit as much relative to other proposed improvements, particularly the Metropolitan parkway, through street cars to Boston, etc. But these are minor issues just now, and we will pass them, except to say, that now that work will be commenced on the Squantum end of the parkway, West Quincy will not be reached until 1906 or later.

Relative to city finances and what the City Solicitor terms erroneous ideas, we desire to reply. Before "the loan" was authorized, he says, an opinion was obtained. But there have been many loans; not alone the $50,000 order which was passed, but the $90,000 contemplated in anticipation of taxes, the $6,000 for Willard street paving, and $10,000 for water pipe for 1904. All these orders were questionable, as they were ostensibly to raise money to help out the finances of this year. Otherwise, why was the loan for paving negotiated so promptly when no work was contemplated this year under the order. The $90,000 in anticipation of taxes was found to be illegal, and the $50,000 straight loan was substituted, all to mature in 1904. Probably this was the only thing that could be done under the circumstances, and the less said about it the better, but all the loan orders were questionable even should they be found to be legal.

The City Solicitor says money is not received from taxes of 1903 until Nov. 1, hence it was necessary to borrow the $50,000. But the city had previously borrowed early in the year $300,000 in anticipation of the taxes of 1903 (amounting to about $412,000); had collected $165,000 of the tax of 1903; had collected over $80,000 in water rates, mostly in January and July; had collected over $150,000 of the taxes levied previous to 1903, practically enough to pay the balance of 1902 temporary loans; had raised $30,000 by water loans; had raised $70,000 by sewer loans; and much more, which was put into a common treasury and used for current expenses. Further, the unexpended balances of the year amounted on Oct. 31 to $122,005.21.

It is not the uncollected real estate taxes against which criticism is directed, although some assessments are said to have become outlawed in the past, but the taxes upon personal property. Upon these the city has very little security, and it cannot be claimed that they are a gilt-edge security. But it is said that they pay six per cent. interest. If uncollected they will not pay any interest. Relative to the statement that the city borrows at four per cent., the rate specified in the $50,000 loan order is five per cent.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ The will of a man in New York, which provided for a monument over his grave so expensive as to absorb the estate he left and make his widow penniless, was upheld by the courts. Perhaps, in Utopia, law will run along lines of common sense, and such decision as these prove that Utopia is not yet on the map.—Baltimore American.

☞ Peculiarly ill-advised, it seems to us, is the strike of the structural iron workers in Boston. The strikers of carpenters' union in Boston and vicinity last year brought building operations of all kinds practically to a stand-still and there has as yet been no recovery of lost ground. The moment it seems possible that building may resume, even to a pitifully weak extent, a strike comes to stop it. It would seem as though the labor unions needed a man to guide them with a level head.—Waltham Free Press.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Vote "No" tomorrow.

Several cases of scarlet fever have been reported to the Board of Health.

W. St. Pierre will open a pool room at his store on Franklin street on Thursday.

Fred H. Lord has moved to the new house on Wibird street near his former residence.

There will be no meeting of the City Council on the eve of election. The next regular meeting will be on Monday evening next week.

The Citizens No-License League have done their duty in the campaign; tomorrow, it is "the duty of the hour" for the voters to roll up a big "No."

The Wollaston Unitarian Sunday School held its annual Harvest and Thanksgiving service in the church Sunday at 3 o'clock. There was singing and speaking by the members of the school and an address by the pastor. Mrs. Frank Page contributed a solo.

Rev. N. J. Sproule pastor of the First Presbyterian church entertained the members and friends of his Bible Class on Friday evening, at his home, 210 Whitwell street. A very pleasant time was enjoyed playing games and music. During the evening refreshments were served.

The members of the Y. P. R. U. of Wollaston were invited to a Federation meeting of the union at Christ church, Dorchester, Sunday afternoon at five o'clock. Supper was served at 6.30. In the evening the meeting continued with the transaction of business and addresses.

Beauties of Red Tape.

A typical instance of the war office methods is furnished by a correspondent on one of our stations. An officer having occasion for the use of a screwdriver made application for the supply of that humble but handy implement from the government stores. His application was bandied about in the usual manner from officer to officer and finally reached the upper authority, from whom a reply filtered back by the same devious ways to the effect that screwdrivers were only supplied in tool boxes and not singly. Nothing daunted, the officer at once applied for a box of tools and after the usual circumlocutory tactics was informed that boxes of tools were only supplied to carpenters' shops. By this time the officer, who had quite forgotten what he had wanted the screwdriver for, had thoroughly entered into the spirit of the campaign, and his next application was for a carpenter's shop. He got it.—London Tit-Bits.

MacMahon and Grevy.

In Paris in the revolution of 1830 a law student was soundly kicked by one of the king's officers for tearing down a copy of the ordinances placarded on the wall. The officer was armed, the student was not; so the latter ran away. Nearly a half century later, in 1879, the officer called upon the student to bid him goodby, having just resigned the presidency of the French republic on account of a radical difference with the majority of the national assembly on questions of state policy. He combined with his adieus also a graceful word of congratulation on the student's election to succeed him in the presidential chair. The student was Jules Grevy; the officer was Patrice de MacMahon, who died ripe in years and honors.

☞ Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lull spent Saturday and Sunday with Mrs. Wm. Washburn of Arlington street.

JUDGE BUMPUS

Replies to Letter of Eugene H. Sprague.

Relative to the City Solicitor.

Acted for Private Individuals and for Best Interests of City.

Editor of the Quincy Ledger,

Dear Sir: The charge contained in a letter published by ex-Senator Sprague in your paper some days since, and in part reiterated by Mr. DeNormandie in a speech at South Quincy, that Mr. Blackmur was a paid lobbyist for a public service corporation in a matter before the Legislature in which the city might have had an interest, has been so modified by Mr. Sprague as to eliminate the word "paid."

In view of Mr. Sprague's examination of the records at the State House, he ought also to have acknowleged that Mr. Blackmur did not appear for any public service corporation; nor was he employed by any such. As to the rest, it related to an attempt upon the part of some of the citizens of Quincy to get better and cheaper gas, thereby greatly benefitting the people.

To go into the question in any manner of detail would require more time and space than the matter justifies, but having known the motives, action and conduct of Mr. Blackmur, as well as the other gentlemen involved in this business, I beg leave to say that there was nothing in his conduct that jeopardized or tended to jeopardize any interests of the city; upon the other hand, the legislation if passed would have operated to its benefit.

There is no objection, either legal or ethical, why an attorney who happens to be City Solicitor should not act as counsel for other parties at the Legislature, though such parties might sometime in the future have interests that did not entirely accord with those of the city. As everybody knows, the person holding the office of City Solicitor does not agree to confine his practice to city practice.

Yours very truly,
E. C. Bumpus.

A DOG OF UTILITY.

The Pointer's Evolution From the Bloodhound Type.

The evolution of the pointer from what may be described as the bloodhound type to the modern English foxhound kind has taken, perhaps, close on 150 years. He is essentially, above all others, a dog of utility, and as the pointer has always been looked upon as one of the chief helpmates of the man who loves to take his pleasure behind a well broken brace of dogs, a pair of barrels and straight powder, it stands to reason that that man has called in all his ingenuity and all his knowledge of breeding to provide himself with a sporting dog that is best adapted for the sport that is provided for him. Therefore in some places in America, where the plains are so vast, a very fast and wide ranging pointer is required—one, too, with "bird sense." Where true ranging, a good nose and stanchness on game are to be found embodied in one single dog, there, perhaps, have we found the perfect animal, and a retrieving pointer at that.

As in other breeds of dogs, there are all sizes and sorts of pointers. The short headed, cloddy shouldered and often weak thighed and cow hocked pointer has gone by the board. It stands to reason that, although the cart horse can gallop, he cannot gallop with the thoroughbred, the clean necked, oblique shouldered, deep hammed, live racing machine. Half a day of real going will knock up the heavy headed, loose throated pointer. He has had to give way to the more elegant quantity; but even such as he should not be too small.—Illustrated Sporting News.

CITY HALL RING.

Break It and Find Out Where We Are At.

Mr. Editor:

I, as a voter and one that pays about $700 in taxes, would like a little information on our municipal election. I have this day received a circular signed by the chairman and secretary of the Republican City Committee, and another with Mayor Bryant's picture and what purports to be a list of 400 prominent citizens who endorse his administration.

It would appear that some of them might be as the applicant who appeared in court to get his naturalization papers a few days since, and when asked who was Mayor of Quincy answered "Pete Fallon." Just so with some of that list, they would have to be told who was Mayor.

I notice that great credit was given Mr. Bryant for procuring coal last winter and selling it to the poor. But as a business transaction, which every citizen was interested in, why were we never given any account of this coal transaction? What did it cost, what did we receive for it, what was the deficit, and was the deficit paid from city funds or from Mr. Bryant's private funds? If from his private funds he is entitled to the credit, if from city funds he should have none.

As to the claim that all honor is due him for the boulevards, what nonsense? Where are our legislators from Quincy? What have they been doing?

Third claim is the improved freight facilities. That is quite rich to those that know some of the facts. The Granite Manufacturers' Association has had a committee at work on this question the past two years. Last year they took up the work in February and pushed with vigor. The railroad officials came out several times and went over the whole plan with the committee and promised and carried out the improvements. So where does Mayor Bryant come in on that? Is it not reasonable to suppose that the railroad officials would pay as much attention to an association that shipped millions of pounds of freight every month as to a business man of Boston who happened to be Mayor this year?

As to the "business administration" well perhaps it is, but I have not been taught that way, that it was good business to spend $50,000 of the income of 1904 to pay current expenses of 1903. There has been very poor management somewhere. Let us break the City Hall ring that appears to think it owns the city, and then we can find out where we are at.

I have voted the Republican ticket for 25 years with two exceptions, but this year I will vote for Mr. Wilson for Mayor, a successful Quincy (not Boston) business man, clean of all jobbery and honest to a high degree, one that any citizen can approach as Mayor and be sure of gentlemanly treatment.

It is now up to the taxpayers of our city to find out what is done with the taxes, or to elect Mr. Bryant again and go on blindfolded.

Yours truly,
A lover of Quincy.

Cream of Celery. Boil together two or three good sticks of celery, root and all, with a small onion and seasoning to taste, till tender; then drain and rub it all through a sieve, moistening it with its own liquor; add sufficient light white stock to bring it to a somewhat thin consistency; let it boil up sharply to thicken it, and add just at the last, as you are about to dish it, the yolks of two eggs beaten up in two or three tablespoonfuls of cream.

CHANCE COMIMG.

Predicted by Speakers at Atlantic Rally.

The City Administration Criticised.

Too Much Coercion by the Mayor of City.

A rally in the interest of George H. Wilson for Mayor was held Saturday night at Music hall, Atlantic. The speakers were Edward J. Parker, Alex. Fryer, James F. Burke, Dr. John H Ash and Candidate Wilson.

Mr. Parker spoke of the recent discussion in Atlantic over the location of a school lot. The Mayor should be neutral on the question, but he would not have been if the order for the Faxon road lot had passed and he had signed it. He then spoke of the reckless expenditures of the city government and the rate the debt had been increased. He also referred to the matter of the $50,000 loan, and said as the criticisms had not been replied to, it must clearly appear that they were unanswerable. He then spoke of the purchases, in 1900, 1901 and 1902, by the Chief Engineer, of horses from George R. Williams. He also spoke of the Assessors, saying they did not properly fix the value of property in Quincy. We should vote for a man who would see to it that heads of departments did their duty in a proper manner Such a man was George H. Wilson.

Candidate Wilson said he had never appeared before an audience at Atlantic and he was pleased to be present. This was new business for him and they would have to excuse him from making a speech. Last year Atlantic did well and he hoped this year the ward would give him a rousing vote.

Alex. Fryer said it seemed strange this jacking up of property when there were three or four millions of personal property that should be got at. He saw an awakening in the people of Quincy, for good government and pure politics. It seemed unreasonable that we should have so large a debt when we had none when Quincy became a city. He felt if the people of Quincy realized the burden they would pay up, but with sidewalks and sewer assessments, we can not find money enough to pay very fast.

The Australian ballot law was passed so that the poor man could vote secretly, but he believed in Quincy a great deal coercion had been used by the Chief Executive. Every man should be permitted to work whether he voted for the candidate or not. The first thing to be done by a reform administration was to economize and then move gradually toward public ownership of some of the franchises.

Ex-City Treasurer James F. Burke believed the sentiment had reached this end of the city, that we want a change. The eyes of the people have been opened, and the criticisms cannot be, and have not been refuted by the administration. You are stockholders in this corporation and have a right to insist that offices shall be conducted in an honest manner. The Mayor has neglected his duty when he allows the City Treasurer to call for additional money the eleventh month of the year. He then spoke of the much-talked of loan order. The order for $50,000 was an acknowledgement that they did not have authority to borrow $90,000. It is a game of bluff. Mayor Bryant can bluff some of the time but not all of the time. Other parts of the city are going to roll up a surprise for you, and he believed four years of misrule was enough.

Dr. John H. Ash said when things are as they seem to be, and as they are in Quincy, there is but little use to argue. Next Tuesday we can bring the existing condition to an end. There is no question but that a change is coming If Mr. Bryant is such a wise financier why did he give us a low tax rate and then ask for $50,000 for current expenses. There is going to be a change and it will be a good change.

Self Control.

"There's one thing I will say," remarked Mrs. Cumrox, "and that is that my daughter Arabella has a fine disposition."

"Indeed?"

"Yes, sir. The way she can sit for hours listening to herself play on the piano shows remarkable self control."—Exchange.

Mixed Metaphor.

"Brethren," said an earnest exhorter to a body of religious workers, "brethren, remember that there is nothing which will kindle the fires of religion in the human heart like water from the fountains of life."

MUSIC HALL.

failed because of dishonest officials, but with religion as the basis of society the law could be enforced.

The speaker would have the question read: Shall licenses be granted for the sale of poisonous liquors? And he would have the skull and cross bones on each bottle.

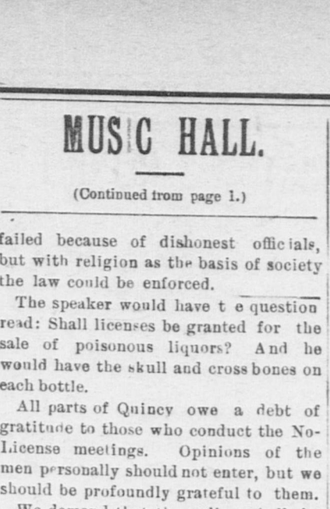
All parts of Quincy owe a debt of gratitude to those who conduct the No-License meetings. Opinions of the men personally should not enter, but we should be profoundly grateful to them.

We demand that the police shall be faithful to the wish of the people, and any administration which countenances liquor selling after a No vote should be overwhelmed. I don't know a single place where liquor is sold in Quincy, but there may be. It is a magnificent testimonial.

Clergymen oppose licenses because the saloons interfere with church work. The church stands for the best and highest in a community—love thy God, and love thy neighbor. Many men are sorrowed by intemperance of sons. No one is exempt from temptations.

Saloons are the greatest enemy of the church, the home, the family, the children, and imperil property and the honor of women. Eternal vigilence is necessary to keep out the saloons.

John O. Hall, Jr., the treasurer, made an appeal for funds, saying $60 more were needed to pay bills of campaign.



Henry H. Faxon offered to give $60, if $60 was collected when the boxes were passed.

The collection netted $55.12, whereupon $5 was given by a friend swelling the amount to $60.12, and Mr. Faxon's gift will make it $120.12.

A stereopticon talk followed by Rev. E. N. Hardy, and convincing pictures appealed to the sight in favor of No-License.

With the singing of America and patriotic music the rally closed at 9.15.

Swedish Rally.

There was a very large attendance at the union No-License meeting at St. Paul's Swedish Methodist church Sunday afternoon. Addresses were made in the Swedish language by Rev. Nils Bjork, Rev. A. Swanstrom, Rev. J. A. Bernhard and Rev. Henry Hanson.

At Atlantic.

The No-License meeting at Music hall, Atlantic, Sunday evening was well attended. The speakers were Rev. J. P. Cuffe, Theophilus King and Rev. B. D. Beck.

At Wollaston.

Owing to sickness, Rev. Charles H. Hannaford was unable to speak at the Unitarian church Sunday morning on temperance but his place was filled by Rev. Mr. Wallace of Somerville, who treated the subject in an able manner and kept the attention of the audience.

At Norfolk Downs.

Many touching scenes from the life of the drunkard was illustrated by the stereopticon at the Park and Downs church Sunday evening to a full house.

Parnell's Superstitions.

Charles Stewart Parnell was one of the strongest men that ever lived, but he had numberless superstitions. Once a colleague of his brought him the draft of a bill to the cell he was then occupying in Kilmainham. It was in thirteen clauses. Parnell was horrified. He insisted that somehow or other a fourteenth clause should be added. Once Parnell saw a colleague with three lights in his bedroom. He was quite uneasy until he saw one of the lights put out. I traveled with him once when he had a scarf that had been presented to him by a lady admirer. There was some green in the scarf. One of his superstitions was that green was an unlucky color. He used to say, half joke, whole earnest, that all the misfortunes of Ireland came from the fact that her color was green. He was very much put out by this scarf. It was in the days when the habeas corpus was suspended in Ireland and we were sleeping on the mail boat at Kingstown and were not to start for Holyhead till next morning. He was quite sure the green scarf would have us arrested before we left in the morning.—M. A. P.

The EX-HERO

[Original.]

"Gentlemen," said the general—he was chatting familiarly with his staff during a cessation of hostilities—"what we call bravery is purely physical. Real bravery consists not in fighting an enemy, but ourselves. Cowardice or bravery is purely a matter of temporary nerves."

"Nevertheless, general," said young Captain Fitz Hugh, "we honor the brave and despise the coward. When my nerves go back on me I trust enough vigor will be left to enable me to remove myself from the world of my disgrace."

A puff of smoke appeared at one of the embrasures of a bastion fort on the crest of a hill, followed by a boom, and a shell came plowing up the ground, burying itself in a tree not a dozen feet from the party. A fuse hissed and sputtered, burning rapidly to the vent. Most of the officers present either fell on their faces or ran as fast as their legs could carry them. Fitz Hugh coolly walked up to the shell, pulled out the fuse and threw it away.

"Well done, captain," said the general. "The battle has reopened."

There was a hard struggle. When the fighting was over, there was as much wonder that the young captain came out alive as at his conspicuous bravery. One of his exploits, the leading of a few men against an angle of breastworks wherein the guns were creating havoc, was so conspicuous and so far reaching in its results that he was decorated with a gold medal.

The war ended and Fitz Hugh was a hero to the world for all time. Occasionally he would overhear some one say: "That's he; the man over there. They say he doesn't know what fear is." At army reunions, when he arose to say a few words, he was so violently cheered that he often gave up the attempt. He was the pet of the petticoats and the admiration of men. The world of adulation in which he lived became the only world he knew, that which he had inhabited before his honors being forgotten. Yet his modesty never suffered. He would only wear his medal at social gatherings with the little band who had helped him earn it and to whom he always insisted it belonged.

Thirty years passed. Fitz Hugh met with reverses that brought on nervous prostration. He was obliged to break away and go on a trip. When he returned he was still weak, melancholy and inclined to study his symptoms minutely, consulting doctors, besides doctoring himself. He recovered, but was not the man he had been a few years before.

One day while he was at the seashore with a party of friends, among whom was a lady who had consented to be a comfort to the old hero for the rest of his days, he was walking with her through the town when a rough fellow passed them, purposely brushing against the lady. Fitz Hugh remonstrated, whereupon the man took him by the collar and shoved him up against a wall, where he held him for some time, then released him with the remark that next time he'd better mind his own business. Fitz Hugh, mortified beyond measure at such treatment, tried to muster up courage to strike the man, but his enemy looked so ugly, so strong, so brutal, so unmerciful, that the ex-hero did not dare touch him.

That night, when all were asleep, Fitz Hugh, clutching something tightly in his hand, emerged from his room and went to an ocean pier. There he stood for awhile, looking out on the black expanse of water, vainly endeavoring to muster strength of will to plunge. He could not. The waves filled him with terror. Then he threw what he held in his hand out into the water and, turning, went to his room.

The next day he did not appear. His fiancee sent for him to go down with her to the beach. He went down looking pale and haggard. She guessed his trouble, but said nothing. They were sitting on the beach, lower than they were accustomed to do, for the tide was out, looking at the bathers, the gulls, the waves glittering in the sunshine, the ships far out at sea. The lady was thrusting her hand into the sand, grasping it and letting it slip through her fingers. Suddenly they closed on something round and flat and heavy.

It was the hero's medal.

He confessed to her that he had thrown it into the water the night before, and she knew why.

"It is better to have been brave," she said, "and lost one's bravery than never to have been brave at all."

When the ex-hero returned to the city he married his fiancee and settled himself in a home, which he resolutely declined to leave, eschewing especially army reunions. One reunion night his comrades came and took him away bodily, his wife before he left pinning his medal to his coat without his knowing it. Arriving at the room where a dinner was in progress, he was placed amid cheers in the seat of the commander-president.

"Comrades," he said when the tumult had ceased, "my general once told me that bravery is purely physical. I have learned he was right. I have been weak enough to think myself what you think me—a hero. I am no hero and never have been one."

These words, attributed to modesty, drew forth a burst of applause. The captain dropped his eyes and for the first time discovered the medal on his breast. Again he glanced at his comrades with a mortified expression that told the story of its having been placed there surreptitiously.

Then there was a tumult that rivaled the din of battle.

AN APPEAL.

CITIZENS OF QUINCY:—

We appeal to you for funds to carry on our No-License campaign.

We have sent out several hundred letters, but we have received less than half the money that we spent last year, and that was only a little over one cent for each of our inhabitants.

"AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION IS WORTH A POUND OF CURE"—so though without a bit of work Quincy would go "No-License" for a year or two, we are firmly convinced that it means much less expenditure of money and of work to "prevent" the falling off of our "NO" majority than to "cure it" after it has fallen off.

We do then appeal earnestly to you for immediate financial support.

BRISTOW'S REPORT

Postal Frauds Were Practiced by High Officials

COMMENT OF PRESIDENT

Cases Against Those Brought Within Grasp of the Law Will Be Pushed With Utmost Vigor --How to Meet Real Evil

Washington, Nov. 30.—Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow has made public his report on the corruption in the postal department and President Roosevelt has not only approved it, but has denounced the bribe takers and others involved.

Mr. Bristow's report shows that cancelling ink purchases were doubled at 9 cents a pound higher than market prices.

The cost of manifold books rose from 45 cents per 1000 sheets to $1.10.

In the supply department the government lost nearly half a million dollars, it is estimated.

Assistant Attorney General Tyner accepted a gold watch from a lottery scheme concern for not issuing a fraud order.

August W. Machen, superintendent of the free delivery system, forged in order to get money to go to Washington.

The cost of cancelling machines rose 300 percent in five years; of these, $143,475 worth are useless.

Barrett, of the attorney general's office, accepted $6000 from a fraudulent turf tipping concern.

The total amount obtained by the perpetrators of the frauds, 44 of whom have been indicted, is said to be between $300,000 and $400,000.

President Roosevelt, in his brief, comments on the report in part as follows:

The investigation made by Mr. Bristow discloses a condition of gross corruption in the office of the first assistant postmaster general and in that of the assistant attorney general for the postoffice department. In the case of the superintendent of free delivery, Machen, the evidence shows that his misconduct began immediately after his appointment in September, 1893. In the case of the general superintendent of salaries and allowances, Beavers, it began soon after he was appointed to that place in 1897. In the case of Assistant Attorney General Tyner it has gone on for a number of years, but it is impossible to say exactly when it began. A melancholy feature of the case is that with one exception all the offenders have been for a number of years in the government service. The following is a list of the 14 postoffice employes in the service at the time this investigation was begun, who are apparently most seriously implicated in the wrongdoing:

(The case of ex-First Assistant Postmaster General Heath, who left the service July 31, 1900, is set forth in the report of Mr. Bristow.)

James N. Tyner, assistant attorney general for postoffice department; he was removed April 22, 1903; he has since been indicted three times. A. W. Machen, general superintendent free delivery system; removed May 27, 1903; has since been indicted 14 times. George W. Beavers, general superintendent of salaries and allowances; resignation accepted to take effect March 31, 1903; has since been indicted eight times. James T. Metcalf, superintendent money order system, removed June 17, 1903; has been indicted once. Daniel V. Miller, assistant attorney, postoffice department; removed May 25, 1903; indicted once; after one mistrial was retried and acquitted. Louis Kempner, superintendent registry system; removed Oct. 21, 1903. Charles Hedges, superintendent city free delivery service; removed July 22, 1903. James W. Erwin, assistant superintendent free delivery service; removed Sept. 16, 1903; indicted once. W. Scott Towers, superintendent station C, Washington; removed Oct. 1, 1903; indicted three times. Otto F. Weis, assistant superintendent registry division, New York postoffice; removed Oct. 21, 1903. T. W. McGregor, clerk, free delivery division, in charge of supplies; removed June 5, 1903; indicted twice. C. E. Upton, clerk, free delivery division; removed June 5, 1903; indicted once. M. W. Louis, superintendent supply division; removed Oct. 21, 1903. Charles B. Terry, clerk, supply division; removed Oct. 21, 1903.

As shown in Mr. Bristow's report, and as partially indicated by the actions in the several cases these cases show widely varying degrees of culpability.

Among outsiders indictments have also been found against 20 others, several of whom have been indicted two, three, or five times each.

The three chief offenders in the government service were Tyner, Machen and Beavers. The friends of Tyner have advanced the theory that in his case the chief offender was really his nephew by marriage. Barrett, who was his assistant in the office for a part of the time, and that Tyner's offenses are due to failing bodily and mental powers. The facts set forth in Mr. Bristow's report do not tend to substantiate the validity of these excuses for Tyner, while they show literally astounding misconduct in Barrett. For Machen and Beavers no excuse of any kind has been alleged. In the case of Metcalf, the superintendent of the money order system, the most vigorous protests were at first made on his behalf by a large number of reputable citizens, and also by others who were at the time deemed reputable, but who it has since been discovered were profiting by Metcalf's misconduct. One of them has been indicted in connection with him.

When these investigations were begun, some nine months ago, many of the chief offenders who have been indicted or dismissed, or both, were considered to have excellent reputations. A number of the most respectable people in the land offered voluntary testimony on behalf of Tyner. So highly were Beavers and Machen thought of by those who had been brought into close connection with them that the congress actually provided at its last session for raising the salaries of both, to take effect at the beginning of the fiscal year on July 1 last. By that date they were both out of office, and the department of justice was taking steps to have them indicted. During Machen's term of service he was twice investigated by the congress, once by a committee of the senate and once by a committee of the house, but cleared on each occasion. Yet, at that very period, as has been shown in the present investigation, he was engaged in the corrupt business for which he has now been removed and indicted. This is no reflection upon the committees who conducted the investigation; for so skillfully had Machen concealed his wrongdoing that it was only revealed after months of laborious and exhaustive work by trained inspectors.

As regards Beavers and Machen the corruption took the form of bribery and blackmail in connection with the purchase of government supplies. In the office of the assistant attorney general for the postoffice department, under Tyner and Barrett, far greater wrong was inflicted upon the public than could be measured by a pecuniary standard, for in this office the corruption of the government officials took the form of favoring get-rich-quick concerns and similar swindling schemes; in other words, the criminals, whom it was the sworn duty of these government officials to prosecute, paid them for permission to fleece the public unmolested.

I heartily approve of the recommendation of Messrs. Conrad and Bonaparte that the statute of limitations be extended in the case of government servants to a period of at least five years; for the persons who in such positions of trust engage in corrupt practices can ordinarily conceal their guilt for a longer time than is covered by the present short statute of limitations. Moreover, our experience shows that outsiders claiming political influence sometimes sell their influence to candidates for office, or in other words, blackmail these candidates. There should be legislation which will permit of summary dealing with such offenders.

However, the prime need is not new legislation but the punishment of those who offend against existing laws. The only way to meet the real evil is to punish the offenders, by removal in any event, and where possible by prosecution under the criminal statutes. In any great business, public or private, wrongdoing is certain at times to occur. The way to guard against it is rigorously to scrutinize the character of those appointed, carefully to supervise their actions after appointment, and finally, to punish with relentless severity those who go wrong. All this is being done.

The immediate reformation of the service by the turning out of the offenders is not in itself enough to meet the demands of justice. The cases against both those within and those without the postoffice department, who by their acts have brought themselves within the grasp of the law, will be pushed with the utmost vigor. Every effort must be made to see that both the delinquent official and the outsider who shares his guilt are punished to the limit of the law. In no case has the indictment been sought save where the officials of the government were convinced of the man's guilt; and in every case the government will exhaust every expedient in its power in the effort to see that justice is meted out to the offenders.

No crime calls for sterner reprobation than the crime of the corruptionist in public life, and of the man who seeks to corrupt him. The bribe giver and the bribe taker are equally guilty. Both alike sin against the primary law of the state's safety. All questions of difference in party policy sink into insignificance when the people of the country are brought face to face with a question like this, which lies at the root of honest and decent government. On this question, and on all others like it, we can afford to have no division among good citizens.

In the last resort good laws and good administration alike must rest upon the broad basis of sound public opinion. A dull public conscience, an easy-going acquiescence in corruption, infallibly means debasement in public life, and such debasement in the end means the ruin of free institutions. Self-government becomes a farce if the representatives of the people corrupt others or are themselves corrupted. Freedom is not a gift which will tarry long in the hands of the dishonest or of those so foolish or so incompetent as to tolerate dishonesty in their public servants. Under our system all power comes from the people, and all punishment rests ultimately with the people. The toleration of the wrong, not the exposure of the wrong, is the real offense.

TABITHA'S FALL FROM THE HEIGHTS

By ELLIOT WALKER

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

"It seems to me, Tabitha, that sometimes you think I don't know anything," observed Peter in a tone of rueful impatience as he stood just inside the kitchen door. His hand held it sufficiently ajar to admit a draft of icy air which circulated freezingly about Miss Groot's well developed shoulders as she kneaded her dough in the bread pan with sounding thumps.

"Observin' man!" responded the lady. "At certain periods, Pete, I have discerned faint glimmerin's of intelligence under that shock of tow coverin' what in most folks is considered a brain cavity, but not often—not often. Boo! What's open?"

She wheeled her plump figure with an emphatic movement and transfixed the thoughtless Peter with a glare of disapproval.

Tabitha was a student, not in the ordinary sense, but of the rare variety which assiduously seeks for an enlargement of knowledge, her special ambition being the acquisition of language. Unhappily, or perhaps otherwise, her opportunities were limited. The Bunfield Gazette was her principal source of material and, coming regularly once a week, supplied an effective course of general information.

In this sheet of wisdom Tabitha delved for words of ambitious length. These nuggets after proper mental assimilation were applied to Peter as a test. If he endured them without wincing and with some degree of comprehension Miss Groot felt secure in broader paths. Peter had served time at the district school in the heyday of early youth and was therefore a fit subject. Being consumed with admiration for Tabitha's qualities, physical as well as mental, he was also a willing one.

Now he stood with a ready finger on the door latch, for Miss Groot could propel dough balls unerringly when aroused, and eyed her with an expression of sheepish pacification.

"Come in or go out!" cried Tabitha in high wrath, forgetting her scholarship. "Here'm I, all het up workin', an' you tryin' to fix consumption on to me. Shet that door one way or t'other."

"It's worth while gettin' you mad to have you talk like a human bein'," grinned the culprit, with a horrible absence of tact. "My head aches yet from the dose you gin me last night. Folks will be laffin' at you first, you know. Fact is, pa an' ma does now behind your back, an', while I believes in eddication, havin' had some myself, you're slingin' too many long words for a hired gal, if you are the purtiest woman in Pa'tridge Corners. L'arn all you want, Tabitha, but don't shoot 'em around free. You'll hear from it, an'"—

This speech of mingled common sense and unintentional insult and compliment was cut off by a lump of dough striking him squarely in the mouth. He darted out, sputtering.

Tabitha raged across the room and shot the bolt, her round countenance flaming. Then she bit hard on her rosy under lip and sat down to recover, a precept of learning being an attempt at philosophic calm under trying circumstances.

"Let's see," she ruminated. "Go slow, now, Tab. Think. Pete's edgin' up to—to matrimonial overtoors—that's right—correct, I mean. You're assistin' his ma in household duties an' just as good as he is—hired gal!—that was mean. The flesh is willin', but the spirit is weakenin'. I swan—that is, I utterly swear—that I won't give such a fool another thought. 'Twill be a mistake. My ideas is more elevated, an' I'll rise with 'em. Oh, ginger, my bread!"

Miss Groot sighed as culinary operations were resumed. "The farm will come to Peter in the ordinary course of events," she reflected sorrowfully. "It's a good one, an' his pa's failin'; but no; an edified mind has higher aspirations than cows an' pigs, an' I'll be at the head of a woman's college if I keep on. I ain't only nineteen an' impressive of bearin', if I do say it. Wonder how I'll look in one of them gowns with a four cornered hat atop of my auburn locks. Imposin' as any of 'em, I guess."

This modest view of the future exalted Tabitha's spirit as she shoved her loaves into the oven.

"Pshaw!" she exclaimed, striking an attitude. "Laugh at me, will they? I'll start the laugh t'other way an' do it today. 'Hitch your wagon to a star,' as Emerson says. He oughter have said 'unite' or 'attach,' but the idea ain't discouragin,' an' I'll pitch right in an' get attention attracted. Then Mis' Shields can look round for other help. Maybe they'll want me in their office right away."

Poor Peter! During the ensuing ten days he was frozen with a succession of refrigerating snubs and acid repulses which cast him into the depths of despondency. Tabitha appeared absorbed in rapt contemplation of affairs beyond the mundane. She was silent, yet expectant, as one waiting for a message of unbounded import. Still he lingered mournfully about the region of Miss Groot's performances, with an eye to lending an assisting hand. It was not desired. Neither was conversation. Peter visibly drooped.

Then came Thursday evening and the Bunfield Gazette. Peter welcomed it and at once repaired to the kitchen and held it out as a peace offering. Perhaps this beloved messenger would produce a beneficent thaw.

The girl's eyes shone, and her cheeks were like peonies. "Look it over," she remarked in a lofty voice. "If you find anything about me read it aloud."

Peter glanced through the pages and started. "Lordy!" he exclaimed. "You have got in the paper!"

"Read it," commanded Miss Groot, sitting up excitedly, "then laugh if you want to."

The young man commenced:

A GENEROUS OFFER.

We are greatly indebted to Miss Tabitha Groot of Partridge Corners [a satisfied smile from that lady] for the extremely kind communication herewith printed at her request. Our readers, we are positive, will appreciate it as a contribution to be valued:

"To the Editor of The Gazette:

"Admired Sir—Eighteen months of perusal of your esteemed publication has endowed me with undoubted qualifications for achievements along educational lines, and I hereby proffer to you the advantages of my services for $10 a week—being now attained to the age of nineteen years, strong, healthy and of commendable appearances—for the furtherance of the interests of your interesting periodical and to enable myself to be elevated to be an inmate of some desirable institution in future where my talents will receive due appreciation.

"Address me in care of Mrs. Timothy Shields, Partridge Corners. I am working for her. Print this, please. With my best respects,

"TABITHA KITTREDGE GROOT."

We deeply deplore our inability to avail ourselves of Miss Groot's courteous proposition and trust our correspondent will pardon us for trifling changes in her letter, made necessary for the enlightenment of our readers. Our sincere advice to this young lady is a decided opinion that she keep right on working for Mrs. Shields of Partridge Corners until time shall bring her a modicum of common sense and some knowledge of English composition, else her "desirable institution" will surely be the poorhouse—

A cry of anguish from Tabitha stopped Peter's labored enunciation. He did not laugh, but sprang from his chair and held the bowed head in his great hands, with his face against her bright hair.

"Never mind, dear," he whispered. "If they don't want you, I do. Look up, Tabitha. Say you will."

The girl, still sobbing, lifted a tear stained face and nodded. Her lover kissed her in rapturous relief. Then Tabitha spoke, and her speech was emphatic. "I'll never look inside that old paper again," she said.

Whistler Was Particular.

I saw that marvelous set of etchings printed. In fact, the bulk of them were printed in my own printing room, a room which I had especially arranged for the master, and it was in this little printing room of mine that Whistler taught me the art of printing from the copper plate. This was my first insight into Whistler as a great master, and one of his characteristics as a great master was that he would have perfection. No matter how small the detail it must be perfect. To begin with, he always insisted upon having old paper upon which to print his etchings and preferably Dutch because of a certain golden tone, unobtainable with new paper, which this particular kind gave to a proof. Many a time Whistler and I have spent weeks in Holland poking about dirty little shops in search of old paper, and sometimes, after having discovered a fine collection of 3,000 or 4,000 sheets, I have seen Whistler literally tremble with excitement and scarcely know how to ask the price for joy. Then again he was very particular as to the choice of oil for mixing with the ink; also with regard to the temperature of the plate, the pressure of the press, the condition of the blankets, and, in fact, everything had to be absolutely right.—Mortimer Menpes in Studio.

The Top Hat.

Tall hats, "pearking up like the spire of a steeple a quarter of a yard above the crowne," as a sixteenth century writer describes them, were known in the time of Elizabeth, and the Puritans affected them until they merged into the old fashioned beaver of our great-grandfathers' days. Top hats of silk appeared first in Florence about 1800, and twenty years later silk hats with felt bodies were introduced into England.

About 1840 the French silk hat was placed on the market and at once adopted in the familiar "chimney pot" shape. There were several varieties of it, such as the Wellington hat, with the yeoman crown; the Anglesea hat, bell shaped at the top, and the D'Orsay hat, with ribbed silk binding and a big bow.

The color also varied. Thus the Earl of Harrington started a craze for green top hats by wearing one in his garden with the idea of not frightening the birds. He also tested his silk hats by standing upon them. The top hat, however, was never so favored by any great personage as to account for its general adoption.—London Answers.

Got His Money's Worth.

A lady palmist was recently prosecuted, and an amusing incident was noted in connection with the case. One of the witnesses called by the police was an individual who did not appear to be overburdened with intelligence. During a smart cross examination defendant's counsel asked him:

"On first going into the room did you pay a shilling fee to the defendant?"

"Yes," was the reply.

"What did she tell you in return for the money?"

"Oh," said the witness, "she towld me lots o' things, some on 'em true, some on half true an' some on 'em lees."

"Now," continued the counsel after the laughter had died away, "this is the point I wish to get at: Was there any attempt at imposition? Did the lady impose upon you at all?"

"Oh, dear, no!" was the response. "I knowed it wor all gammon, so there couldn't be no imposition. Besides, it wor a bad shillin' as I guv her, to start wi'!"—Tit-Bits.

LEFT MINDED PEOPLE.

The Way the Brain's Orders Are Announced and Obeyed.

Both sides of the brain are capable of performing the duties of giving commands to the limbs, but the orders only come from one side, either from the right or left, but if the side upon which the speech center lies gets injured and is rendered incapable of performing its duty then the other side takes up the work, though it requires some time before it can do so properly.

Supposing a man meets with a bad fall or accident of any kind which damages the speech center on the left, he becomes dumb for the time being. Then the right side slowly learns how to give orders, and the man guadually regains power of speech after some years, but in many cases he becomes left handed because now the orders from the brain are transmitted more rapidly to the left than to the right.

You have often experienced, I suppose, the curious feeling that you have done something or met some one at some time or other when in reality you have not done so at all.

Supposing the left side of your brain conceived the idea that you were going to tie your boot lace and that the right side was, say, a thousandth part of a second behindhand in grasping the same idea, the result, when the right side did grasp it, would be that you would imagine that you had already tied your boot lace.—Dr. Withrow in London Answers.

Dreams of Peace Allure to Death.

Dreams of peace have always allured mankind to their undoing. Human destiny has been wrought out through war. The United States is an illustration. Little of the soil which now acknowledges the sovereignty of the Union has not been subdued by arms. The first settlers slew the Indians or were themselves slain; next the Americans and English conquered the French; afterward the Americans turned on the English and, with the aid of France, ejected them. In 1812 we again fought the English to defend the national unity and subsequently took California from Mexico by the sword. To consolidate a homogeneous empire we crushed the social system of the south, and lastly we cast forth Spain. The story is written in blood, and common sense teaches us that as the past has been, so will be the future. Nature has decreed that animals shall compete for life, or, in other words, destroy or be destroyed. We can hope for no exemption from the common lot.—Brook Adams in Atlantic.

London's Whistles.

A boy was charged at a London police court the other day with blowing a whistle in such a way as to cause three policemen to come toward him. The fact that such a thing is possible suggests the questions: How do the police distinguish between a cab whistle and a police whistle? What is there to prevent any one from blowing a whistle in such a way as to call a policeman?

A representative of the Graphic who put these questions to a high official of the city police learned that in the matter of attending to whistles, as with his many other duties, the policeman uses his discretion. Any shrill whistle will attract a policeman, but such a whistle blown at night outside a restaurant or any place where people congregate and cabs are wanted would not bring a policeman to the whistler. The same whistle blown in precisely the same way in the middle of the city at midday would bring a policeman on the scene at once.—London Graphic.

Lakes of Blood.

The name Lake of Blood or its equivalent has been given to places as far apart as England and South America.

"Sanguelac"—i. e., the Lake of Blood—was the name given by the victorious Normans to the battlefield at Hastings, where the Saxons were overthrown and slain with terrible carnage.

For a similar reason Lake Trasimene has borne the name "Sanginetto" because its waters were reddened during the second Punic war by the blood of some 15,000 Romans who fell before the troops of Hannibal.

Yet another Lake of Blood, called also "Yaguar Cocha," is situated in the state of Ecuador. It is one of a series of lakes formed by the extinct craters of volcanoes on the towering heights of the Andes range of mountains.

Feared He Had Been "Done."

A messenger boy was sent by an official of one of the big banks to purchase a pamphlet. When the lad returned and handed over the little package he stood toying with his cap until the banker said:

"Well, my boy, I guess it's all right."

"Gee," said the boy, brightening up immediately, "dat's a load off my mind. When dat bookman took de half dollar an' didn't give me nothin' but dat weeny, dinky bit of readin', gee whiz, I says, he's a-doin' me up fur fair! Why, I don't pay only a nickel fur my books, an' dey're twice as big as dat one."—New York Press.

Recommendation.

"Didn't your old employers recommend you?"

"Oh, yes!"

"Their word should have been enough."

"It was. They announced me as the best man they ever turned out."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

A Provident Man.

Knicker—Did Suburbs leave his family well provided for?

Bocker—Yes, indeed. He had cooks engaged for two months ahead.—Harper's.

CITY BREVITIES.

The big rallies of last evening should be reflected in a big "No" tomorrow.

A Wilson rally will be held at Quincy Point this evening in a store on Washington street near Chubbuck street.

The funeral of Mr. Wallace T. Davis was held on Sunday at the chapel of the Pine Grove cemetery at Lynn, and attended by relatives and friends from Quincy, Woburn and elsewhere.

The Misses Thomas of Granite street entertained Miss Claudia G. Fink of Pennsylvania and Miss Marie Mitchell of New York during the Thanksgiving recess of Wellesley college.

The first snow storm of any account this winter was that of Sunday. It looked at one time as though considerable snow would fall but it cleared off about 5 o'clock. The ground, however, is now covered with snow.

The free exhibition of a slide for life to have been given in front of the Coliseum this noon under the auspices of the management of the Union Labor Carnival was, owing to the non-arrival of baggage, omitted. It will however be given tonight at 6.30. The carnival will be held all the week at the Coliseum and the program will include villages of all nations, games, amusements and dancing.

THE KAISER'S AILMENT

Two Surgical Experts Say He Has Cancer.

CLAIM ALL EVIDENCE POINTS TO IT

One Authority Believes the Emperor Is as Good as In His Grave—Bad Taint Said to Be In the Blood—Case on Record In New York Where a Benignant Papilloma Became Malignant.

Two of the most distinguished cancer experts in New York said to a New York World reporter, each without the knowledge of the other, that it was their positive belief that Emperor William of Germany had been attacked by a cancerous growth in the larynx.

Said one at his home: "The kaiser has a cancer as surely as I am sitting in this chair. All the evidence points that way. His father died of cancer in the larynx. His mother died of cancer. I tell you, the emperor is as good as in his grave, great as is the pity of it. Do not be deceived by the early bulletins. Watch for a recurrence of the growth. Watch for another operation.

"Remember the early bulletins when Grant was attacked. Remember the early bulletins when William's father, the Crown Prince Frederick, developed the so called 'benignant' growth in his throat. Cancer, that's what it is."

Said the other surgical expert:

"There is no doubt that the emperor is afflicted with a malignant tumor. That is clear from the start. He has a very bad taint in his blood. His father, his mother and his aunt died of cancerous tumors. However, the world has about given up the belief in the hereditary transmission of cancer, and there is no reason for alarm simply because his parents had these malignant growths.

"When the Emperor Frederick (then the crown prince) was first attacked with the foreign growth in the larynx it was given out that it was a benignant growth. There is no doubt that from the start the growth was malignant. But Sir Morrell Mackenzie, the eminent English specialist, contended against the eminent German specialists that it was not a cancer, but a harmless excrescence. Sir Morrell Mackenzie made the crown prince the emperor of Germany, and 100 days later the emperor died. It was a cancerous tumor from the beginning, but Frederick's accession to the throne made a difference of nearly $500,000 a year in the income of his wife."

At the Vanderbilt clinic of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Sixtieth street and Amsterdam avenue, there is the record of a case which, in the minds of those who agree with the opinions of the two celebrated experts above quoted, may be prophetic of the outcome of Emperor William's illness.

The case in question came under the observation of Dr. Richard Frothingham, the instructor in throat diseases, who on request related the facts and circumstances.

The patient was a member of the police force. He was about forty-five years old. He first came under observation when he applied at a clinic for a relief from a trouble in his throat. He had been bothered with hoarseness. The throat was examined. The trouble was found to be in the larynx. The mirror revealed a small, warty growth on one of the vocal cords about the size of a very small pea.

An operation was performed with a pair of Mackenzie forceps, and the growth was removed. It was, to all appearances, an ordinary papilloma of the vocal cord. The specimen was subjected to a pathological examination, which confirmed the original diagnosis of a benign papilloma. There was no trace of malignancy.

In less than a year the policeman returned to the clinic. He said he was again bothered by hoarseness. A second examination disclosed another benign papilloma, identical in appearance with the first and on the same spot in the larynx. There was a second operation, and the growth was removed with Mackenzie forceps and given over to the expert pathologist, who again confirmed the diagnosis of benign papilloma. There was no trace of malignancy.

Two years later the policeman applied a third time for relief. This time, however, an examination showed an entirely different condition of the larnyx. Already there was a fully developed cancerous growth in that organ. Both sides of the larnyx were involved, and the patient had reached the incurable stage. The cancerous growth was snared out and pathologically examined. There was no longer any doubt of the true nature of the tumor.

The patient lived for two years after the first removal of the cancer. He underwent a dozen operations. Each time the cancer was snared out of the larynx, but it kept on renewing itself, and the progress of the disease was steady until the policeman succumbed to exhaustion and died of heart failure. He lived for a year with a tracheotomy tube in his throat.

Dr. Frothingham said this case was rare and the only one in his experience.

Love Stories Barred at a College.

Love stories and co-education make a bad combination, according to Professor J. P. Odell, who has charge of the fiction classes at Northwestern university, and he has issued an edict that all highly sentimental romance must give way for sterner stuff, says a Chicago dispatch. A tendency to make "googoo eyes" has developed among the students.

A Sumptuous Edition.

The second edition of "Where American Independence Began" is to be issued about the first of December. It will make a book much larger than the first edition as Mr. Wilson has taken advantage of republication to incorporate new and valuable matter. Perhaps the most important addition is a chapter on the old Hancock Burying-Ground. This not only gives an account of the setting apart of this "God's acre" for its sacred uses, and a description of the more important monuments, but also includes a complete list of the names preserved on all grave stones and tombs. Special pains has been taken to seek out the names of Revolutionary soldiers and these, as far as known, are indicated. The publication of such a list was made possible at this time by the survey of the Burying-Ground recently made under the direction of City Engineer Flood.

Another notable feature of this second edition is an extensive preface which enlarges upon the part played by John Adams and the venerable group of Braintree patriots of which he was the centre, in anticipating and achieving independence. The "Perambulation of Quincy" has been lengthened to include a large number of other ancient landmarks and historical places. This increase in the amount of reading matter is enriched by some ten or more new illustrations, among which are several views of the Hancock Burying-Ground, a fine half tone of the Fore River Ship Building plant, the reproduction of a beautiful photograph of Miss E. C. Adams, the portrait of John Quincy, whose grave has recently been discovered and a picture of the Quincy Mansion school.

The book will be bound in blue and gold and its sumptuous appearance will make it a very attractive book for the holidays. The price will be a slight increase over the first edition, but with its sixty-five or more fine illustrations it is an unusually small outlay for so costly a book.

WHY MOTHERS WORRY

Did you ever hear a mother worry over a plump child? There is no better bank of health for a child to draw from than a good supply of healthy flesh.

Scott's Emulsion not only gives a child weight and plumpness, but it feeds the brain, bones and nerves with strength and active power.

Fewer mothers would worry if they knew more about Scott's Emulsion.

Scott's Emulsion is substituted by cheap emulsions and so-called wines, cordials and extracts of cod-liver oil. They can do you no good and are dear at any price. Why buy them? Scott's Emulsion has been the one reliable preparation of cod-liver oil for nearly thirty years.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

SOCIETY IN IRELAND.

A Person Is Judged There Entirely Upon His Merits.

An English scribe gives a delightful picture of Irish society, in which, she says, there are "no millionaires and no nouveaux riches." Titles there are in plenty, but position counts for nothing unless the persons in question are "good sorts" in themselves. Whereas in England one is tolerated principally for one's wealth, in Scotland for one's birth, in Ireland it would appear one is judged entirely on one's merits.

"The average Irish household differs from the English in being less stiff, more amusing and more hospitable. Possibly the wall paper may be a trifle moldy from damp and the stair carpets not altogether innocent of holes, while your bedroom jug and basin may not match, but these are counterbalanced by priceless old prints, superb bits of old silver and all 'the fun of the fair.' It is more amusing to pay a round of country visits in Ireland than in England. There is no ceremony, but of hearty, sincere welcome there is no end. There is no anxiety about an Irish party amalgamating, for guests are all drawn into the family circle, whereas an English party does not thaw out until the visit is nearly over and often only shows signs of exhilaration when the hour of departure arrives. It is a mistake," concludes the critic, "for the Saxon to start plans for the improving of Ireland. The Irish standard of morality puts English society to the blush."

Mere Money Getting.

Money getting is no new passion. From the beginning nineteen-twentieths of our American population have had no other mastering purpose than to make money. They have been breadwinners, fortune getters, by the lines of least resistance, without dreams of success in the professions or in the arts or in patriotic politics.

But there have also been up to recent years a remnant, a select few, a company of enlightened and gifted people, who have put ideals ahead of money getting.

There was Agassiz, who refused to lecture at $500 a night because he was too busy to make money. Charles Sumner declined to lecture at any price because, he said, as senator all his time belonged to Massachusetts. Spurgeon refused to come to America to deliver fifty lectures at $1,000 a night, saying he could do better; he could stay in London and try to save fifty souls. Emerson steadfastly declined to increase his income beyond $1,200 because he wanted his time to think.—Everybody's Magazine.

Where They Were Appreciated.

The government has with great liberality distributed public documents from Washington to the remotest parts of the country. In his book on "The Overland Stage to California" Mr. Franklin Root tells how the overloaded mails were sometimes relieved.

Before the daily mail went into operation and when a stage went to Salt Lake City only once a week some of the boys on the line used to despise a coach almost wholly loaded up with public documents, but such mail matter came quite handy at times.

Occasionally the drivers, as they themselves said, would get stalled going through a bad slough in rough weather and would be unable to move. In that case they were obliged to take out sack after sack of the "pub. docs.," open the bags and pile the massive books from the government printing office into the slough and by building a solid foundation with them were enabled to pull the coach out of the mire.

The Old Jewish Wedding Ring.

The old time Jewish wedding ring was quite a ponderous affair of filigree gold, enameled in colors. A dome or temple in miniature, which rose from the middle of the hoop, was a favorite device. Sometimes the hoop was about three-quarters of an inch wide and had raised edges.

One ring of this kind is described by an authority as having five elevations on the upper part, the center a hexagonal tower, with penthouse roof sloping down to the hoop, the gables and sides pierced with fourteen holes, or windows, and the roof scored to imitate tiles. On either side of this was a smaller tower without windows. No other ring could find room on a woman's finger besides this.

A New Breed.

"I think he's the most intelligent hunting dog in this country," said the owner of the animal, proudly exhibiting him to his friend.

"When he makes a 'point,' he turns his head and looks at me a moment and asks as plainly as if he spoke it, 'Shall I go ahead and flush that bird?'"

"I see," said the friend. "He's an interrogation pointer."

Unfortunate In His Eulogist.

The orator of the corner store was giving forth his views of a popular congressman whose death had been chronicled in the evening paper.

"I tell you," he said, looking gloomily away from his audience into the depths of the stove, "he's going to be a loss to his country, to his friends, to all that have known him or known of him. He has died, as he has lived, unanimously regretted."

Vice Versa.

"I hear Kate Green has married Jack Toper. I always considered her a girl of grit, but I never thought she'd marry a man to reform him."

"She didn't. She reformed Jack to marry him."—Town and Country.

He Works.

"He never works, does he?"

"Oh, yes; he works any one he can for anything he can!"—Chicago Post.

A RESCUE AT SEA

[Copyright, 1903, by C. B. Lewis.]

The brig Foam, bound from Liverpool to the West Indies and having on board 250 English emigrants, had been for four days a drifting wreck when sighted by the Dolphin of Bremen. It so happened that an American man-of-war to which I belonged as an enlisted man put into that port for some slight repairs, and twelve of us deserted to go aboard of the Dolphin. It does not excuse our action to say that the captain brought this desertion about by the promise of high wages. He wanted a crew and did not care how the men came to him.

We had been twelve days out when we sighted the Foam as she lay wallowing in the trough of the sea, a complete wreck aloft. After a brief look at her through the glass the captain began cursing his ill luck. As a matter of fact, we had neither room, water nor provisions to spare, and the ship was loaded down to the mark with cargo, but when we heard our officers propose to pass the wreck without notice every man of the twelve was ready for mutiny. We demanded that communication be opened with the unfortunate people, and after a good deal of growling the Dolphin ran down to the wreck and sent a boat to her.

The report of the mate when he returned was to the effect that the people were on quarter allowance, with much sickness among the women and children, and that they desired to abandon the wreck and be taken aboard of the ship. We had spare spars aboard, and the captain offered to sell three or four sticks for about three times their value, the payment to be made in gold on delivery. The brig declined this "generous" offer, as the crew was satisfied that the shattered hulk could never be worked into port, even if fully provisioned besides.

Our captain was holding off, not wishing to take the unfortunates and yet afraid of us, when a squall came on, and he attempted to sail away. The whole crew, including the second mate, at once refused duty. The captain and first mate then declared their authority at end and went below, but we were not to be bluffed. The second mate was installed as captain, and two hours later all the people on the wreck had been transferred. It was in good time, too, as a gale came on that lasted for three days and must have sent the brig to the bottom.

We had mutinied and taken possession of the ship, but we felt that circumstances justified it. Neither insult nor harm was offered the two officers. They made many threats as to the punishment we should receive when the ship arrived in port, but we stood firm and kept clear of any further quarrels. Our craft had no accommodation whatever for passengers, and you can imagine the mess we were in when that crowd was taken aboard. The captain not only flatly refused to take charge of the navigation, but would have nothing whatever to do with the unfortunates. He could have sheltered many women and children in the cabin, but not even the sick ones were invited to make use of it. Everybody aboard had to be put on short allowance at once, and a shift was made whereby the women and children were at least sheltered.

After a general consultation it was decided to make for the Bermudas, and on the fourth day after taking the people off the wreck we sighted an American ship and secured from her a fair supply of water and a quantity of flour and biscuits. It was a run of seven days more to the islands, and during the last three days no adult had food enough to keep down the pangs of hunger. None of us believed that we could be punished for taking the ship out of the captain's hands to save human life, and I am sure we would not have been meddled with but for the presence of a British man-of-war in port. As soon as our captain could board the craft and report all of us were arrested and flung into prison to await the action of the law. I never found out just where they intended to send us for trial, but presume it was Bremen.

For some reason or other there was a long delay, and at length matters were complicated by our being claimed as deserters from an American man-of-war. The people whom we had saved were grateful enough, to be sure, but all others looked upon us as a lot of pirates who ought to have been hung as soon as captured. When we had been in jail five months we got word from an American who was pretty thoroughly posted on the case that we should soon be sent away for trial and that we might expect at least five years' imprisonment apiece.

This news decided us to make an attempt to break jail, and one night a week later, using tools which a guard had been bribed to pass in to us, we sawed away the bars of a window and gained our liberty. Proceeding to the harbor, we found an American vessel ready to sail, and before our escape was discovered we were miles at sea. Five of us afterward surrendered to the naval authorities as deserters and took our punishment, but what became of the others I do not know.

To save the lives of almost 300 fellow beings we were driven to mutiny on the high seas, and while it would seem to have been both a noble and heroic action, and one that we should have received credit for, nothing but misfortune and disgrace grew out of it. The contemptible action of our captain even found excusers, though it was plain that had he had his way the wreck would have taken every soul to the bottom with her.
